PARLIAMENT SOON TO VOTE ON BILL GIVING BALLOT TO

Bill Not Likely To Pass at Present Session-Other New Voting Measures.

London, July 17 .- John A. Pease, Minister of Education, long chief Liberal whip and therefore an expert on registration, was put up by the Government to introduce the promised Reform and Registration Bill, the effect of which would, among other things, be to abolish plural voting and increase the number of voters in the United Kingdom by some 2,500,00.

It is on this bill that the Government has promised to give facilities for the ntroduction of an amendment to grant the suffrage to women on the same erms as to men. This amendment, nowever, will not be a government one and members are to be left to vote as they like on it. As the present House of Commons has already declared itself against votes for women, the amendment has little chance of passing. In fact, the bill itself has very little chance of reaching the statute book, with Home Rule and Welsh disestablishment ahead of it and hardly time bough to discuss those two great

The bill has been introduced in keepag with three promises made by the Prime Minister. The first was to his own supporters to do away with plural voting, which it is generally admitted handicaps Liberal candidates in the constituencies, most of the landholders who have these plural votes casting them against the Liberals. This promise can be kept without the passage of the present bill, as another bill wth the same purpose has been introduced by a private member and has already passed its second reading. By adopting this bill as their own, the Government can redeem the first of Premier Asquith's promises.

The second promise was, if there was time, to remove the difficulties which the present law places in the way of registration. This can also be carried out in the private bill. The pext promise was to the suffragists, to give facilities for the introluction of an amendment giving votes o women. This will be carried out; but, as it will be opposed by leaders on both sides of the house, it os not ikely to get further than an introduction, This would finally dispose of the ratter in the present Parliament. Then the reform bill will be lafd aside, unless of course, something unforeseen happens, and the Liberals will get rid of plural voting by private bill, and in the same way secure the passage of any of their franchise proposals that they consider vital.

The bill introduced by Mr. Pease is of property as an element of qualification would cease and every man of 21 years of age, with six months' resience or occupation in a constituency, could have his name placed on the regtser without all the red tape which makes the English sytem the most cumbrous in the world. For example, under the present system, if a man removed from one house to another in the same street, he automatically lost his vote and could not get on the list again until a new one was being prepared, which might mean a year. Under the bill just introduced the lists always remain open, and a voter has six months in which to notify the officials of his change of address. There are many other anomalies that would

These changes meet wih the approval of all, but there are other clauses in the bill, besides the abolition of plural voting, which the Conservatives biterly oppose. The abolition of University representation, which wolud refuce the voting power of their party in the House of Commons by nine, is objected to on the ground that the University constituencies are the only ones where an education qualification is required. This reduction of the membership of the House of Commons, with the 61 taken away by the Home Rule Bill, would make the membership exactly 600. With Home Rule for Scot land and Wales, which Liberals now look forward to, the House would become a still smaller one numerically. As a slight solatium for the loss of plural votes, the peers, who heretofore could not vote, are given this privilege with all other "males of 21 years of age having a residence, or occupation" in the constituency. This does not, however, cary with it the right to sit in the House of Commons. The bill would repeal all the present slaborate paraphernalia of franchise laws, registration courts and revising barristers. It would repeal in entirety no fewer than 28 statutes, and partially repeal 44 other acts of parliament.

Mr Pease quoted some interesting figures showing the effect of the measure in operation as follows: Present Parliamentary elec-

For Robust Summer Health Use Plenty of Olives and Olive Oil

PHONES

Olives and olive oil are essentially summer foods. They will, if you use them liberally play a great part in keeping your blood and skin in first class condition during the hot months The olive oil particularly, used in frying all of your foods that are fried, used liberally in salads and used frequently on face and hands will work some remarkable changes in your apearance

For the purpose Monarch olive oil, 1/2-pt. at 40c and 1 pt. at 75c will be found the best article on the market. It is fresh, has a very delicate flavor, and if you keep it in the dark and in a cool place it will keep in perfect condition until used.

In olives either stuffed or plain, I have an immense variety put up in glasses ranging from 15c to 50c per bottle. I urge you to use them not only for picnic lunches but on your table at least once a day.

In today's dispatches from Washington there is an item which will doubtless be very comforting and reassuring to those Americans in the rebel zone discontinued by September 1. in Mexico. According to this dispatch the United States will remain "neutral" and if any Americans get robbed or killed they must charge it to the fortunes of war." Whatever may be said against Theodore Roosevelt,-and he has much to answer for-he at least would not sit passively and in ence," declared Senator Heyburn as anely by and see American citizens he blocked consideration of a joint mistreated by Mexican red-flaggers, resolution proposing the purchase of The stars and stripes are held in utter contempt by Mexicans apparently and the conditions that prevail should be the shame of every citizen.

The Wilson papers have been clamoring for harmony throughout the cam paign and have urged that through the iomination of the New Jersey Govern or would harmony be best promoted. Now that he is the nominee, these same papers, or many of them, at least appear to resent the apparent willing ness of the former opposition to Wil son to unite in support of his candi dacy and contribute to his election.-

Denison Herald. Mr. Bryan along with a number of the Wilson papers, never did and does not now want harmony. Democracy is mighty and will prevail, and Mr. Bryan is setting the springs of Democracy's patent kicker that will at the proper time land him in the middle of political ostracized oblivion .- Sherman Sentinel.

Poor Bryan! Every four years he has been pronounced a "dead-one," but some how or other he always manages to "come alive" at the proper time. It was the work of Bryan that brought about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson. Of all the great men in the Baltimore convention, Bryan was, apparently, the only one to lead the fight on the bunch of crooks who have for the past sixteen years betrayed the party, and if they had been allowed to take charge of the Baltimore convention, would have done the same thing again. Bry- tel.

If Mr. Lane wishes to brand this as a campaign lie our columns are open to him. It is assuredly one of th most serious charges brought against any candidate now running for office. Austin Statesman.

Above is the windup of an editorial in the Austin Statesman, which copies and gives credit to another paper a story charging Comptroller Lane with grafting a saloon man who wears the name of December. The chances are Mr. Lane will pay no attenton whatever to the charges. In fact, were he to do so, the Statesman would have a new one each day from now until tion 22,000 acres of land. In fact, he has done that which no ther man who has held the position hefore him has been able to do: he has forced the saloon men of San Antonio and Galveston to have more respect for the law against keeping salolons open on Sunday than they ever had before, and in order to bring about this respect for the law he had to threaten to forfeit their licenses. That's the kind of comptroller Texas needs and must have, and the Statesman, Houston Post, Fort Worth Record and other papers that are fighting the re-election of Lane had just as vell cease, for he is going to he re elected by a very handsome majority

Washington, July 17.—President Taft today sent to the Senate the nomination of Luther Konant, of New York to be commissioner of corporations succeeding Herbert Knox Smith, who resigned yesterday to take part in Roosevelt's campaign. In his letter of resignation, Mr. Smith frankly advised President Taft of his intention to join the new party. He said:

"I have the honor to offer hereby my resignation as Commissioner of help gather the crop, small boys get Corporations, in the Department of Jobs gathering fruit, bank deposits in-Commerce and Labor, to take effect crease and a general atmosphere of at the close of business July 18, 1812. "I do so, because I intend to support the progressive movement and the new progressive party. That movement includes the principle that I believe in, and that I have earnestly tried to further, so far as I could, during my term of Federal service. "I feel that the new party represents these principles more directly and with more promise and power of performance than either the Republi- rah boys.

COLLEGE BOYS EMPLOYED IN PICKING PEACH CROP

East Texas Harvest Is Given Social Side and Young Men Enjoy Themselves.

Athens, Texas, July 17 .- The Elbertas are beginning to ripen. This means that the great peach crop of East Texas is just beginning to move. For the past few years Athens has shipped more peaches than any town worked extensively. The world's business in Texas is reported at $25, in Texas. This year more than 500 production potash is confined almost 160,500; surplus and undivided procars will be shipped from here alone. Other places in the count ythat will and the price is very high caused by demand deposits is given at 41 per ship a number of cars are La Rue, the scarcity of the mineral. The peach crop, coming as it does, when there is nothing else to be harvested, is of peculiar benefit to East Texas. Farmers with teams who are not otherwise employed turn in and activity pervades the camp.

In the past few years college menhave figured largely in gathering the crop and this year are more numerous than ever before. These menfind it a pleasant as well as a profitable way to spend their vacations. Occasional dances at the orchard homes break the monotony of work. The picture shows and vaudevilles are the night rendezvous of the rah-
