Hospital/clinic get education support

Friona, Texas (November 18, 2013) - A decision by Preferred Management Corporation to fund Health.edu will ensure continuous availability of health education programs at Parmer County Medical Center and Friona Rural Health Clinic. Provided by Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in Lubbock, the program offers staff at the hospital and clinic in Friona with access to over 500 on-line courses, including more than 200 hours of new programming per year.

"These continuing education programs enhance the knowledge of our staff and the quality of care we provide," said Gayla Quillin, hospital administrator. "The courses also help our physicians, nurses, physical therapists, clinical laboratory professionals, emergency medical services personnel, radiology technicians, pharmacy, medical records personnel, social services, physical therapy, dieticians and other staff to maintain their licensing or certification," she continued.

Health.edu also offers general and safety education programs that help all hospital and clinic staff including administration, the business office, housekeeping, maintenance and other support departments meet the requirements of various regulatory agencies such as the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), the Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OSHA) and the Texas Department of State Health Services (TDSHS).

"In the last 12 months, hospital and clinic staff members have participated in almost 700 hours of education through this program," noted Quillin. "Since it is a web-based service, staff can access the programs from work, home or onthe road any time of day, any day of the week."

The program had been previously funded through a federal grant that has been terminated, reported Mike Easley, chief operating officer of Preferred. The Texas Department of Agriculture has found additional funds and announced plans to issue a new request for proposal that may result in the reinstatement of the program.

"Continuing education is very important to our staff and the communities we serve," said Easley, "so we have stepped in to provide the funding necessary to maintain the program at all of our hospitals."

Recognized locally and nationally as a provider of comprehensive health education materials, Health.edu delivers course material to over 200 hospitals and clinics in Texas, with a national market of more than 500 hospitals and military

Memories from a Retired Teacher November 22, 1963 – President John F. Kennedy's Assassination

I began my teaching/coaching career in September 1963 in Friona, Texas. I was hired one afternoon in mid July 1963, having just graduated from West Texas State University. Passing through Friona one July afternoon, I decided to stop by the Friona ISD offices for a visit, and it that exciting afternoon, I was blessed to meet two of the finest men I've ever known, on a journey filled with outstanding men, Mr. Alton Farr, Superintendent of Friona Schools and Tom Jarboe, the principal of Friona Jr. High School. These two men would become great contributors to the lives of my wife, Sue and I, in the next four years, and for all these years that have come to pass. My wife was hired by Mr. Farr as one of his secretaries, and I was hired by Mr. Farr and Mr. Jarboe to teach Texas History and physical education, with promised coaching position when it became available.

When Mr. Farr told me that I would be making the beginning teaching state salary of $4,016 per year, and with the $200.00 bonus that Friona paid, I would make a total of $4,216.00, I was thrilled beyond all imagination, and surely must have jumped from his front porch to our car! Sue and I had found the end of the rainbow in Friona, Texas!

School began in those years usually the day following Labor Day. I had been twenty-two years old for just ten days when the sun rose on my first day as a teacher. What an exciting time it was in our lives. Mr. Jarboe was a fine principal, a very good man and he was the consummate profesturned out to be a life changing afternoon. On sional, all of which suited me just fine. A neck tie, a professional look, professional behavior at all times, being in charge of one's class and pride as a teacher - hey, I hung on his every word in our first teachers' meeting. He was a role model I would continue to follow in my teaching, coaching and counseling career, including my exciting years later in life with The Texas Longhorns and The University of Texas at Austin, where I eventually retired following a thirty-five year career in education.

Although I have so many good memories from my first year of teaching, the most memorable day for me, and in all probability, of the twenty-eight young seventh graders in my fourth period Texas History class, occurred shortly after noon on November 22. My wife, Sue, came to my classroom door and called me out into the hallway. She told me President Kennedy had been shot in Dallas, and that it was a very bad situation. I was totally taken back by her words and after a quick word to the kids in my class that I would be "right back", I went straight to Mr. Jarboe's office. He was totally shocked, as I was, and he immediately turned on the radio. The news was very bad and I'm sure it was the beginning of one of the most challenging days of his career as a principal. In a few minutes, he called all of the teachers to his office and he told everyone the news. Shortly after, Walter Cronkite made his unbelievable announcement to all of America. We were all stunned, of course, and didn't quite know what to do next.

Mr. Jarboe told us to return to our rooms, tell our students to fold up their books, work, etc. He told us that we were to tell our students the news of the assassination, and of the death of President Kennedy. I don't remember exactly what I was thinking as I walked back to my classroom, but I'm sure I was shaking all over, knowing what I was about to tell a room full of twelve and thirteen year old kids. I'm sure as they looked at me standing before them, they must have seen me shaking and very unsteady. After all, I was only ten years older than they were on that cruel afternoon. As I told them the news, all were shocked. Several of them laid their heads down on their desks, and I remember one female student, someone I've never forgotten, just burst out in tears. It was a very emotional few moments for all of us and we were all put to the test of handling a situation that no one would even dare to think could happen in our nation. Mr. Jarboe then turned on the school radio for all of us to listen to the afternoon's continuing news. As I think back to that day, I remember saying years later to a group of teachers; I started that day twenty-two years old and finished that day five years older.

Though it will soon be fifty years since that terrible day, I've never forgotten the emotions of that afternoon, the positive actions of Mr. Jarboe, nor have I ever forgotten the kids in my classroom in fourth period that day. I can still call most of their names and remember the emotions we all shared and the terrible event that has linked us together throughout our lives. I know many of them share these same memories.

If any of these former students still live in Friona, or keep in touch with friends in Friona, I would be thrilled to hear from them. My wife, Sue and I, have lived in Georgetown, Texas for almost forty years now and we are both retired, travel a lot and enjoy four young grandchildren and their three dogs.

November 22, 1963.

Like this year it was a Friday. Like Lee Harvey Oswald, I was 24-years-old. I lived in my first home in Irving which I bought 1 for $10,800. Oswald spent the night before at a friend's in :Irving.

o I worked the 3:30 - 11:30 p.m. shift in the Braniff Aireways print shop in the basement of the Braniff Building at Harry Hines Blvd. and Mockingbird Ln.

That Friday morning I drove to downtown Dallas to City Hall to pay a traffic ticket. I parked at Main and Harwood and went across the street to the building where Oswald would be shot in the basement two days later. It was a time when I paid no attention to politics. Didn't know a Catholic Democrat from a Baptist Republican.

When I paid the ticket and headed down Main St. back to Stemmons Freeway I noticed a bunch of people gathering along the sidewalks and it was then I remembered that President Kennedy was coming to Dallas. It was about 10:30 a.m. and my first thought was to get out of downtown and avoid the traffic.

At the end of Main St. I turned right then left onto Elm toward the Stemmons underpass, the same route the Kennedy entourage would later take and the spot where he was shot by Oswald. I remember passing Market Hall where a crowd was already gathering to hear President Kennedy speak at a constant. I followed the reports luncheon.

My only thought at the time was to get out of downtown and back to Irving. When word came of shots fired on the Kennedy party I was sitting on the couch in our tiny den folding clothes and watching As the World Turns on our black and white TV. From that moment, like millions of Americans, I was glued to the TV until the funeral on Monday.

When Ruby shot Oswald on Sunday I was watching live, still from our couch. What had happened did not sink in for a few seconds. Did someone actually shoot Lee Harvey Oswald in the basement of the police station and I saw it happen? Holy Cow. I said something like that but I don't think it was Holy Cow.

of Officer Tippett killed in Oak Cliff and Oswald being captured in the Texas Theater. When I first moved to Dallas in 1959 I lived in Oak Cliff and watched many movies in the Texas Theater. Oswald and his family lived in an Oak Cliff rooming house.

It was all mesmerizing and to an extent unreal. Over the days and years I followed the conspiracy theories and read countless accounts in newspapers and magazines. I have enjoyed seeing all of the Kennedy assassination stories being rerun in memory of the 50th anniversary.

The school book depository building at the time had a huge yellow Hertz Rent Car billboard on top of it. In fact most local Dallas folks referred to it as the The reports on TV were Hertz building. You could see the sign from miles. Because of the frequent local and international television coverage of the building it did not take Hertz long to remove the sign.

It was indeed an event that changed the world in many ways and I was almost there.

Letters to the Editor

Friona is a great place to live in; a small town has its advantages and disadvantages. The biggest disadvantage living in a small town is that everybody knows your business, such as your personal life. On the other hand if I were to have car problems or run out of gas, I can guarantee you I wouldn't even walk a block before someone would stop, pick me up, and help. You do not get that in a large city. In a small town we all come together when someone is in need. We'll help each other whether we like each other or not.

Saturday, November 9th, my sister Delia Samarron Jackson went to be with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and my momma, dad, brother Juan and many aunts and uncles. It was at that time many, many people in Friona started calling and offering to help in any way they could. Even before her surgery Friona people came together for Delia, Billy, and Megan by praying, visiting, and giving monetary donations for gas expenses.

After my sister passed away many Frionians brought lots of food, paper goods, plants, and comfort to the family. I know it was a little confusing for a lot of you because we really didn't have a set place to get together. There were times we were together at my sister, Elvira's house, or we would get together at Billy and Delia's house and at my brother Jose's house. Many of the same people went to BSA to be with us. The ones that were not able to make the trip to Amarillo were at home or at church keeping us in prayer.

Everybody just kept offering a hand and reaching out to us. Your generosity is greatly appreciated. What a great community we live in! I didn't understand why these things happen but now I have a better understanding after talking to several people and that has helped me.

I did not realize how many people my sister touched until this happened. She touched a lot of people's lives, a lot of people shed tears for her. Many people loved her, she loved each and every one of them, and she loved each and every one of us!

The morning before surgery she told me she was going to see momma, but I thought it was the tumor talking. Boy was I wrong. I just want to thank everyone that prayed for us, cried with us, brought food, and flowers. I want to thank Templo Bautista Pastor Antonio Rocha, and pastor Sammy Rando for the use of the church for the Wednesday night service. Thanks to the First Baptist Church, Pastor Brett for the use of the church as well. The church held about four hundred people and there was around two hundred overflow, so that's about six hundred people total. Thank you once again First Baptist Church for housing our friends and family.

Thanks to Victory Family Worship, Pastor Robert Kerby where Delia, Jose, and myself are members. Thanks for the meal for the family after the service. Word has it there were a hundred and ten family members; that's a lot of people to feed. May God Bless the hands that prepared the meal. It was delicious!

Last but not least, thank you Blackwell-Mullins Funeral Home. The staff there is unbelievable! I walked in with my family to make arrangements. I was not doing well at all but by the time Dusty Hansard got done talking to me I was a different man. That man deserves a raise! I hope the Mullins know what they have in Dusty Hansard; Ron Smiley very kind man as well.

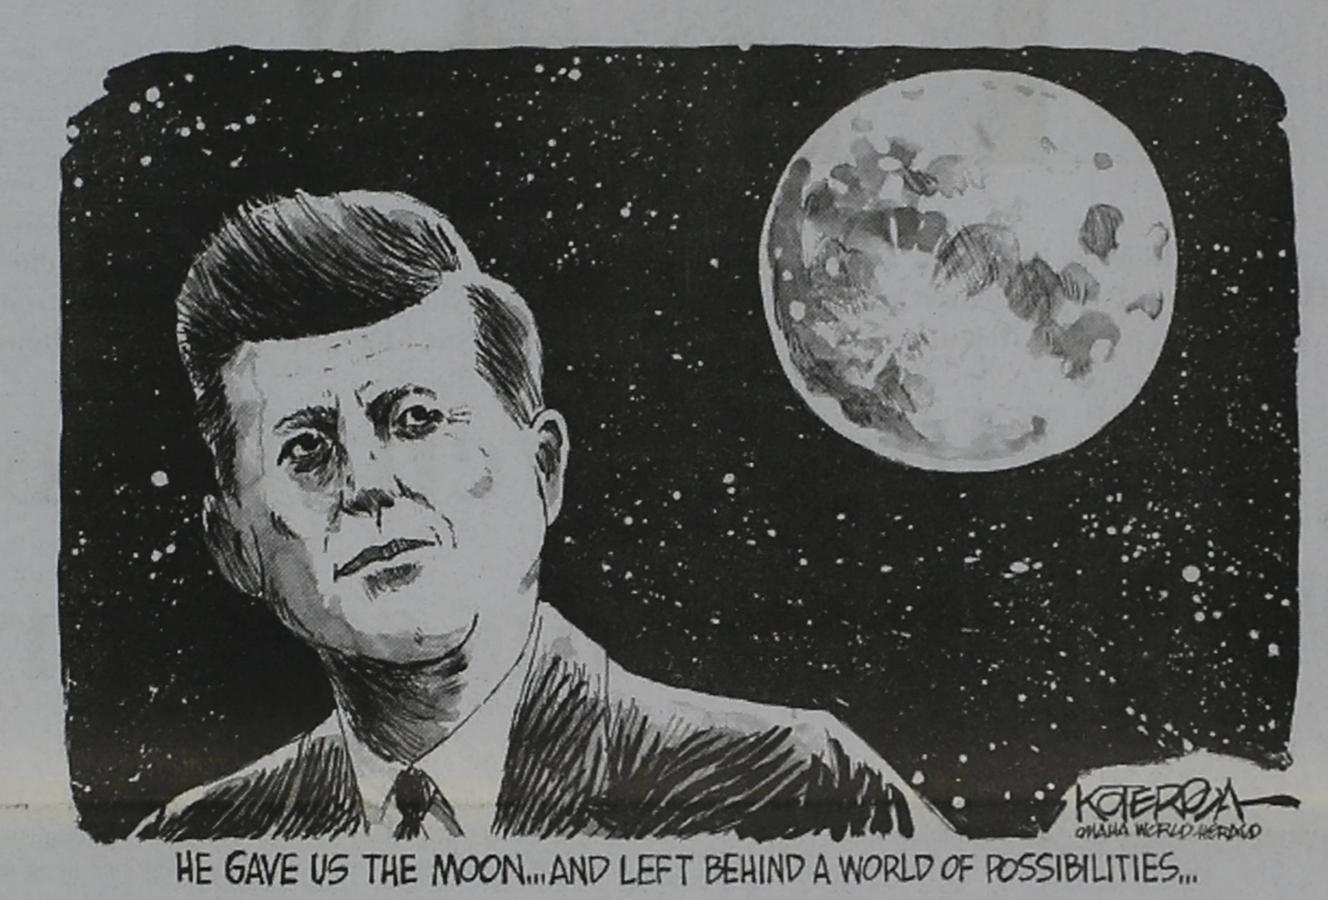

That's what happens in a small community such as FRIONA. We are blessed to live here in Friona! Thank You Friona for everything! May God Bless each and everyone of you. I say Friona because there are too many to thank individually. If I mention everyone that had something to do with this, Ron Carr would run out of ink. Everybody even knows the newspaper man!

> President Barack Obama July 24, 2013 Galesburg, Illinois

working Americans again. That's all I care about."

Gettysburg Address, 150 years ago, November 19, 1863

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can not dedicate -- we can not consecrate -- we can not hallow -- this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us -- that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion -- that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain -- that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom -- and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Chris at the Chamber of Commerce says the trees in the park are marked and ready for decorating. They were hoping to have folks decorate Friday and Saturday but the weather may interfere. Christmas in the Park is Monday December 2. Santa will appear about 5:30 p.m. Larry Rector has built a sleigh for Santa's arrival. Lights will be turned on and there will be Christmas music. Plan to come to the park and enjoy the start of Christmas season.

Don't forget to sign up at local merchants participating in the Chamber's Ho! Ho! Home for the Holidays promotion. You could win $25 or $100 in Friona Bucks.

The annual Project Christmas Card Project has also placed donation canisters around town for donations or you can go by Friona Interbank to donate. This is sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary and donations will be used to purchase equipment for our hospital.

Martha Barker, proprietor of Suds and Scissors, has some not so good news for her hair customers. Martha dropped a butcher knife on her foot Monday and severed some tendons. She managed to call for EMS and she had foot surgery Wednesday. Martha says she will be out of work for 6-8 weeks. We hope you make a full recovery Martha. Friona hairdos need you.

Evening Lions program chair Dave Thompson, left, Orville L. Blake, Bill Wakefield, and Chet Calcote brought a great night of country music for guests and Evening Lions at the Thursday November 14 meeting. Former Parmer County farmer Orville L. Blake and the Amarillo Country Band entertained with famous old country songs and original ones written by O.L. He can be found on the internet by looking for Hank L. Lynn. His CDs are "Back to the Ole Country" and "Ole Country." His backup musicians are Bill Wakefield on acoustic guitar and Chet Calcote on bass. Bill is an Amarillo musician who has played for the blues record label Ichiban and in his spare time is a rancher. Chet, a musician since he was 10-years-old, has played with the Texas Playboys, Charley Phillips, and Leon McAullife.

The Republican Party has accepted the affidavit for placement on the ballot from Jo Beth Gipson, incumbent, for Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1, Parmer County, Texas. The Purifying Work of God

BRETT HOYLE, Pastor, First Baptist Church

2 Kings 4:38-44 tells us of a situation in which the great prophet Elisha paused to serve his fellow prophets, which almost cost them their lives, if it wasn't for the purifying work of God. In this instance God was gracious to purify a poisonous pot of stew that had been cooked up, and to provide abundantly for the prophets thereafter in regards to their nourishment.

The purifying work of God in 2 Kings 4:38-44 is such a powerful reminder of God's purifying work in His children. First, God's purifying work begins with a putrid pot. God's grace is so amazing to purify us from sin because we are so inherently sinful. Secondly, the purifying work of God can cleanse even the vilest of vessels. In other words, there is no heart to dirty for God to wash clean with the blood of Jesus. Finally, those who have experienced the purifying work of God are in a position to enjoy His provisions and promises. To some degree all mankind experiences the common graces of God (life, breath, relationships...), but they do not experience the peace and fullness of life that God's purified, redeemed church does. If you have never experienced the peace of God in your life, follow Him in repentance and faith, and His purifying work will change your life.

The Parmer County Historical Commission and the Mt. Olivet Cemetery Association recently held a dedication ceremony of the Olivet Cemetery Historical Marker. The ceremony took place on November 10, 2013 at the Mt. Olivet Cemetery located south of Farwell. The guest speaker was John Armstrong of Farwell who spoke about some of the more notable individuals who are buried in the cemetery. Cemetery board member Mack Heald read the names and unit affiliations of the numerous Veterans buried there. Gladys Spring, Chair of the Parmer County Historical Commission, officially dedicated the historical marker on behalf of the State of Texas and Parmer County.

We, the family of Delia Jackson, are overjoyed with a heartfelt love for all the generosity the community has shown during our time of loss. We are extremely grateful and blessed by actions shown to us the last couple of weeks, even now an out pouring of love continues.

We would like to recognize the following people for their love and support;

Parmer Medical Center, Parmer County Implement, Interbank, Blackwell-Mullins Funeral home, Templo Bautista - Pastors Antonio Rocha & Sam Rando and members, First Baptist Church - Pastor Brett Hoyle and members, Victory Family Worship Center - Pastor Robert Kerby and members, Iglesia Bautista Hispana - Pastor Rafael Marin

To all of the community of Friona, we thank you for the love you have shown, for prayers, visiting, food, flowers, and monetary donations. Megan would personally like to thank her teachers; Mrs. Gonzales, Mrs. Jack, Mrs. Hickman, Mrs. Suarez, Mrs. Kerby, Mrs. DeBons, Mrs. Huckins and all the students at Friona Elementary school for the cards they made, love, and support. We are blessed to live in this community! It has been a blessing to see the whole community come together during this time.

Thank you once again, Billy, Megan Jackson and Family Manuel, Elvira Arellano and Family Richard, Vickie Samarron and Family Jose, Marie Samarron and Family Maria Jass and Family

I have filed for the County Commissioner Precinct 2 election and would appreciate your support

JEFF PROCTER, Minister, 6th St. Church of Christ

One thousand and ninety five, a number whose significance will be short lived and then pass on. 1095 for me marks the number of days since our move back to Friona. The three year threshold happened quietly last week. For me, it has gone by quickly, but I am sure that some who worship with us might think otherwise. (Just kidding) It has truly been a blessing to be home, to work with the loving group of folks that meet on the corner of 6th St and Prospect. We have enjoyed this community, as well, the games, the plays, the concerts, parades, cheeseburger festivals, Friona Star @ etc... There is a lot to enjoy here.

What gives me pause is the fact that 1095 is a mark of time, and time seems to march on. If I had a dollar for each day, I would have $1095.00. If I had added a friend on Facebook everyday I would have a whole lot of new friends. If I had taken advantage of just one opportunity each day to say a kind word, or help someone in need. You get the idea although it is a mere mark in time, when I reflect on how well have I used my time for His purposes?

This is what gives me pause, because Satan would have me look back and be discouraged, by all I didn't do. I admit it IS discouraging to think and reflect on all that I have wasted. BUT there is hope you see if you are reading this you are alive today, and today the Lord graciously gives us another opportunity. "His mercies are new every morning." (Lamentations 3:22-23) So look out day 1096 or 1097 or whatever time mark you are using and step into today to His glory in His Service. Have a blessed day and use it well.

What You Should Know About Medicare Advantage

- 1. Medicare Advantage Plans are commercial insurance plans. If you join a Medicare Advantage Plan you are no longer enrolled in traditional Medicare.
- 2. Medicare Advantage Plans are not supplemental insurance plans. If you have a Medicare Advantage Plan, you cannot be sold a supplemental plan and must pay 100% of any deductibles and co-payments associated with your plan.
- 3. You can purchase a Medicare drug plan without enrolling in Medicare Advantage.
- 4. If you enroll in a Medicare Advantage Plan, your doctor and other providers may not be in-network for this plan. As a result, you may not be able to use — or may have to pay more to use —
 - Parmer Medical Center and Friona Rural Health Clinic
- 5. If you do not comply with Medicare Advantage Plan rules, such as pre-authorization, your out-of-pocket costs may increase, or your coverage could be denied leaving you responsible for all charges.
- 6. In order to avoid charges for services not covered by your plan, please check your enrollment status and let your provider know if you have enrolled in any Medicare Advantage Plan or Medicare Drug Plan before you request services.
- 7. If you are already in a Medicare Advantage Plan, you can switch back to traditional Medicare from October 15 through December 7 by calling 1-800-Medicare.

Parmer Medical Center and Friona Rural Health Clinic are committed to meeting the needs of community members covered by Medicare. We encourage you to carefully evaluate any Medicare Advantage Plan before you decide to give up traditional Medicare, and to check with the hospital business office at 806.250.2754 to see if the plan includes your local hospital and providers.

Turkey shoot, community breakfast set the stage for pheasant season

By Jim Steiert

Events preliminary to and coordinating with the upcoming opening of pheasant season on December 7 are being prepared by local organizations.

First up will be the annual Easter Lions Club turkey shoot this Sunday, November 24, at the Easter community south of Hereford.

Also coming up soon is the annual pheasant hunters' and community breakfast, set for the early hours of December 7 at the Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church, 501 North Main.

The Easter Lions Club turkey shoot is a long-standing tradition of helping hunters to shoot all of the misses out of their fowling pieces in advance of the opening day of pheasant season, and a primary fund raiser for the organization that benefits scholarship and community service efforts.

With a drought on, pheasants will be unfortunately scarce this season, but the Easter Lions Club will have clay targets flying in abundance at the club trap field just south of the Easter Community Building at the southwest corner of the intersection of FM

1055 and FM 2397 south of Hereford on 1055.

Rounds get underway at 1 p.m. and will continue until sunset.

Shotgunners can try their luck at breaking the most targets in a five-shot round for $7.50. After claiming their first turkey, winning gunners will be handicapped by being moved farther from the traphouse to maximize the number of winners. Imaginative trap operators from the Lions Club also come up with their own ways of leveling the playing field, and miss-conscious shooters can always blame the angle of the sun or gusts of wind for their fowling fowl-ups.

Top target busters will win their choice of waterless ham, turkeys, and thick-cut bacon.

For those suffering trap-trepidation, there's a virtually surefire way of bringing home the bacon, ham, or turkey. The popular patterning target square blastout will be back. Entrants can purchase two target squares for $1. Entrants place their names on squares, and target sheets are hung on a hay bale, then blasted with birdshot from an open cylinder 20-gauge at 30 yards. The square with the most pellet strikes from the shot wins the prize. The can't miss feature of the event is a whole-card buyout, priced at $20-guaranteeing a win without a shot being fired. As always, proceeds from the turkey shoot are used by the Easter Lions Club for community assistance projects and scholarships.

Those with questions or desiring to buy target sheet squares can contact Dee Taylor at 276-5217.

For diehard pheasant hunters and those just hunting for a good deal on breakfast, the Celebration Class of First United Methodist Church will be turning out eyeopening fare from 5:30 to 9 a.m. December 7.

Featured menu items will include coffee and juice for a jumpstart, and eggs, bacon, sausage, biscuits, gravy, and cinnamon rolls to round the meal off.

Admission will be by donation, with proceeds to be used toward renovations of the library at FUMC.

There's no scientific evidence that participating in the breakfast prior to going afield after pheasants will improve hunting success-but it certainly couldn't hurt.

Water level data available online

Annual water level measurement data from the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District (HPWD) observation well network is just a mouse click away-via a new interactive map on the district's web site (www.hpwd.com).

"These water level data are most often requested by customers. Development of this interactive map provides users additional access to reliable groundwater data for the Ogallala Aquifer within the district's 16-county service area," says Manager Jason Coleman.

The map will be updated each year following completion of the district's annual water level measurements. Initially, it will feature the most current water level measurement for each well site. Additional historic data will be added when the map is updated to reflect results of the 2014 water level measurements. Persons can access the map by going to www.hpwd.com/ maps-and-charts and clicking the link, "Observation Well Measurements."

The next web page provides a link to the interactive map as well as instructions on how to navigate the site using the toolbar.

Clicking on the link brings up a map showing the location of water level observation wells within the district. There is an option to view the map with either a road map or aerial photography as the background.

Clicking on an individual water well site, shown on the map as a blue dot, allows access to the most current water level measurement for that site. Values are displayed as the depth-to-water from the elevation of the land surface at that location.

"If you are not comfortable using a computer-don't worry! The results of the water level measurements and average annual change in feet for a oneyear, five-year, and 10-year period will continue to be published in The Cross Section, the water district's monthly newsletter," said Coleman.

He encouraged people to visit the district's web site and use the interactive map feature.

"The district would appreciate any and all feedback. HPWD staff want to make this a beneficial tool that is user-friendly to all," he said.

Created in 1951 by local residents and the Texas Legislature, the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 is charged with conserving, preserving, protecting, and preventing waste of groundwater within its 16-county service area.

Applications for Conservation Programs Being Accepted At Parmer County NRCS Office

USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) District Conservationist Earl Behrends announces applications for funding opportunities with the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program (WHIP) are currently being accepted at the NRCS offices located at Farwell, Texas.

NRCS in Texas has received its initial allocation of EQIP and WHIP funding for 2014 and will begin ranking and obligating contracts after January 17, 2014. All agriculture producers interested in submitting a contract application for 2014 should do so before this ranking deadline.

EQIP - one of the largest programs in the Farm Bill - is a voluntary conservation program that promotes environmental quality and assists producers to meet local, state and federal regulations.

"EQIP is a valuable tool to help Parmer County's agricultural producers implement conservation practices that provide environmental benefits to help sustain agricultural operations," says Behrends.

"WHIP helps landowners restore and improve fish and wildlife habitats, and benefit at-risk species," says Behrends. "This funding will give landowners across the state the opportunity to address wildlife concerns in Texas."

EQIP and WHIP are continuous signup programs that allow landowners or operators to apply for financial and technical assistance for the application of specific conservation practices; but the deadline for the first 2014 funding allocation is January 17, 2014. Contracts are offered periodically depending on budgetary allocations. Applications made after the deadline will be considered in the next funding cycle. Higher priority will be given to those applications that address national, state and local priorities and provide higher cost efficiency.

EQIP offers technical and financial help to install or implement structural, vegetative, and management practices that can benefit the soil, water, air, plants, livestock, and wildlife. WHIP applications must address traditional natural resource issues such as water quantity, water quality, grazing lands, forest health, soil management, emerging natural resource issues, and climate change.

Each county in the state is funded yearly to assist producers financially with these land management practices.

Last year, NRCS in Texas funded over 4,500 EQIP contracts with $91 million to accomplish conservation practices such as irrigation efficiency, minimum tillage, brush management and more on 3.6 million acres across the entire state. Additionally, NRCS funded 200 WHIP contracts with $7.1 million to improve wildlife habitat on over 380,000 acres in Texas.

In addition to helping our environment, Farm Bill conservation program funds support rural communities. In Texas, it is estimated that each dollar of NRCS and private matching expenditures on NRCS conservation programs generates an additional $2.54 in sales of goods and services locally.

For more information, including eligibility requirements, call the USDA Service Center office in Farwell at (806) 481-3311. Service center locations and program information can be found on the Texas NRCS Web site at www.tx.nrcs. usda.gov.
