WALDO GRILLED ON THE STAND

NEW YORK POLICE COMMISSION- UNDERWENT RELENTLESS CROSS EXAMINATION IN TRIAL

MR. GAYNOR'S ATTITUDE

Mayor's Relationship With Police De- partment and His Views On Vice Problems Brought Into Trial

By Associated Press.
New York, Sept. 6.—The relationship between Mayor Gaynor and the New York police department, and the mayor's attitude on the city's so-called vice and excise problems, and the extent to which the department followed his attitude, formed the basis of a relentless cross examination to which Police Commissioner Waldo was subjected today in the trial of C. G. Hays, an inspector suspended on charge of making false statements reflecting on the commissioner.
Thomas Thatcher, Hays' counsel, in the cross examination declared: "I am trying to prove that Mayor Gaynor's policy was one under which the social evil was recognized as an unconquerable problem which had to be endured, but that the evil had to be present a front of outward decency; that in the failure of Inspector Hays to raid disorderly houses, he was merely reflecting this policy, and that any orders issued to him by Police Commissioner Waldo were direct in violation of that policy."
"Does not Mayor Gaynor direct your policy toward vice?" He asked.
"He does not," snapped the commissioner.
"Have you ever observed the mayor's views on the excise question?"
"The mayor's views," Waldo replied, "were given to the police in a general order. That order is still in force."
"Don't you know the mayor's views on vice are that we have to suffer this evil?"
"I don't know anything about the mayor's views except what he told me; he never told me anything like that."
"Has Mayor Gaynor ever instructed you how to deal with disorderly houses?"
"He has never given me any instructions on that subject."
"As a matter of fact, you did not expect Hays to raid disorderly houses within his district, now did you?"
"I expected him to raid every disorderly house as to whose operations he could obtain evidence."
"You knew, didn't you, that disorderly houses had flourished for six months in Inspector Hays' district, and that those houses were operating every day and that they were not being raided?"
"Yes, knew it; I knew that disorderly houses had been flourishing in that district for a year, but I presumed that Inspector Hays was making every effort he could to close them up."
Commissioner Waldo was a refractory witness. On direct examination he denied that he ever gave Hays orders not to raid disorderly houses, but he said on August 15 Hays told him he understood his orders were not to raid disorderly houses without specific instructions from Waldo.

MORE ADVANTAGEOUS FREIGHT RATES WANTED

Young Men's Progressive League Col- lecting Evidence Preparatory To Beginning Campaign

The Young Men's Progressive League intends to take up the cudgel for more advantageous freight rates for Wichita Falls, more particularly the existing rates between this city and Oklahoma points. The following is this connection was given out today:
"It has come to the attention of the Young Men's Progressive League that railroad rates will not permit the local producers of certain goods to ship them into Oklahoma in competition with concerns engaged in the manufacture of similar goods at other places. This condition, in the opinion of the league, should not exist and it seems to be at least worthy of investigation, even though efforts to remedy conditions prove of no avail."
"With a view of compiling statistics concerning the advantages and disadvantages of freight rates to the shipper and receiver of freight at Wichita Falls, the Progressive League invites and urges private communication, (to be held as confidential, if desired) from every local business man who has encountered any rate that militates against Wichita Falls or any rate that gives this city an advantage over other cities in Texas and Oklahoma.

"The League believes that, after receiving such statements from interested parties, it will then be possible, by holding a meeting, to outline a campaign whereby it will be possible to remedy existing evils, one of which the League is familiar with."
"It is especially urged that all interested parties file their statements immediately. In lieu of written communication, the secretary of the League will be glad to receive personal communications by phone, reducing them to writing later."
Respectfully,
"Y. M. P. L."

MANY MURDERS IN CHICAGO SUBURB

Confession of Twenty Year Old Girl Said To Clear Deaths of Several Men in Last Year

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Sept. 6.—Confirmation of rumors that several murders have been committed in the past year in resorts of West Hammond, a suburb came today after the arrest of Frances Ford, 20 years old, as an accessory before the fact in connection with the death of John Messmaker on August 13.
The girl made a statement to the coroner and the assistant county attorney which covered eighty-five typewritten pages and is said to deal with vice conditions in West Hammond and to include charges that at least three murders were committed in resorts of the village in the past year.
Messmaker, it is said, was drugged and a hypodermic of poison was given him shortly before he died. The girl admitted being with him before his death. Her arrest was made on complaint of Miss Virginia Brooks who has been leading an anti-vice crusade in West Hammond.
In her statement to Coroner Hoffman, the girl told of a bottle which she said was always kept behind the bar of a saloon, and which she understood was to be given to men under the influence of liquor who were thought to have considerable money.
It is alleged by Miss Brooks that a score of deaths have occurred in West Hammond resorts that have never been explained. Only three are recorded.

FEDERAL APPOINTMENTS THROUGH NEW ROUTE

Dr. J. L. Gaston Advisor to H. F. Mc- Gregor in Making Recommendations In This Section

The route to federal appointments in this neck of the tall grass such as postmasterships and the like has been changed recently. Formerly the applicant had to have the endorsement of Boss Lyons but now such an endorsement would effectually remove a man from all consideration. The proper route is now through H. F. McGregor of Houston. Mr. McGregor is making recommendations in several cases has consulted Dr. Gaston of this city recently. Since the defection of O. P. Maricle, the regularly chosen county chairman, to the Bull Moozers, the regulars have had no county chairman but H. F. McGregor the leader of the Taft faction in Texas has been advising with Dr. Gaston in political matters.

OPPOSITION TO NARROWING TENTH ST.

Petition to Extend Curb Lines Is Met With Counter Petition to Let Them Remain As Now

The proposition to narrow Tenth street by extending the curb lines on each side is meeting with considerable opposition from residents and property owners along that thoroughfare. Several weeks ago a petition was presented to the city council, asking for an extension of the curb lines, but at last night's session of the council a counter petition, more numerous signed than the other was presented. In view of the lack of unanimity of sentiment among the residents and property owners, it is probable that the council will not order the change.
Little else was done at last night's session beyond the checking of reports and accounts and the approving of bills. The award ordinance, which have been pending for some time, will not be brought up for final action until the entire council is present.

SHOEMAKER SUED FOR WOMAN'S CORNS

Fort Worth Woman Wants Back $10 Paid For Shoes and $90 Balm For Corns They Caused

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 6.—F. G. Bound, who has been a shoemaker in Fort Worth for many years, is the defendant in a damage suit in Justice Peden's court, filed by Mrs. W. D. Russell of East Twentieth street. She asks for $10, she says she paid him for making a pair of shoes and for $90 to soothe the corns and bunions she avers these shoes made on her feet.

Justice Peden heard the testimony Wednesday and will give a decision in the case this afternoon.
The plaintiff is represented by C. R. Kinchen and the shoemaker is represented by John L. Terrell.

For many years she has been bothered with her feet, testified the plaintiff. Last April she said she went to Dr. I. C. Chase, who, she says, told her she was too heavy to wear such light shoes and advised that she get some heavier shoes. This resulted in her visiting the shoemaker, who built a specially designed high-top shoe to fit her foot.

"How heavy are you?" was asked of the plaintiff on cross examination.
"One hundred and thirty-seven," she answered and when reminded by her husband, who occupied a seat nearby, she amended the answer and admitted she balanced the scales at 237 pounds.

When it came to giving technical or expert testimony, John Ray, shoemaker for fifty-seven years, qualified. He said he had been making shoes since he was 10 years old without interruption save during the war and that he made several pairs of shoes then.

The defendant alleges she was influenced into wearing shoes that did not fit her foot properly and instead of easing her pain it increased it.

More Details of Proposed Filibuster

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 6.—That meetings are being held behind closed doors at Douglas, Ariz., for the purpose of organizing a filibuster, to go to the relief of American mining camps in Sonora, is reported in a special from that place. United States Marshal C. A. Overlook has arrived in Douglas from Tucson and has expressed the intention of remaining there for some time being anxious to prevent the United States from becoming embroiled through a possible filibuster. At one meeting it is stated, that reports were given of the condition of Americans in the camp and it was stated that millions of dollars worth of American property in Sonora was in imminent peril of confiscation or destruction.
At a meeting of Americans it was decided to request the American Consular agent to ask for 500 rifles from the American Government for the use of American citizens for protection in case the city is attacked by the rebels. The request was wired to Washington. According to Campas' promise, rebels are at present gathering in the mountains. E. Lane, assistant attorney general, is preparing a bill to be proposed to the Thirty-third legislature. The proposed measure in its present state, is rather drastic, and makes it a misdemeanor for any person to wantonly circulate matter derogatory to the character of any candidate for office. By the word "wantonly," the assistant attorney general means any one making slanderous statements against such a candidate without first having taken the pains to ascertain whether such statements or accusations are true or untrue. The penalty proposed for the violation of the act, should it become a law, is a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500 and by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than 30 nor more than 90 days.

MAN'S WIFE AND WOMAN'S HUS- BAND PUT OUT OF WAY BY POISON AND THE AXE

MAN WANTS EARLY DEATH

Says His Soul Belongs in Hell and the Sooner He is Hanged the Bet- ter He Will Be Satisfied

By Associated Press.
Shreveport, La., Sept. 6.—"When I raised that axe to strike that sleeping man, I said to myself 'this will send your soul to hell, that's where I belong and the sooner I am hanged the better I will be satisfied.'"
This was the statement of A. L. Watson who last night in a written statement confessed to the murder of C. C. Bailey at Metcalf, Louisiana, last Monday night, and who also confessed that as a result of a compact with Mrs. Bailey three months ago, he poisoned his own wife at Flanagan, Texas.

Mrs. Bailey, wife of the murdered man and mistress of Watson, also confessed and admits that she attempted first to poison her husband with strychnine bought by Watson and that she urged him to brain her husband with an axe after her attempt at poisoning had failed.

Watson who is 44 years old has three daughters, one married and living at Jefferson, Tex. Mrs. Bailey has two children aged five and two years now living with her parents near here.
The plot had its inception three months ago at Flanagan where the Bailey and Watson families then resided. According to the confession of both, they agreed that Watson was to kill his wife and Mrs. Bailey was to kill her husband at the earliest possible moment, so they might be free to live together as man and wife.

Watson carried out his part of the program immediately, no suspicion being aroused over the manner of his wife's death at the time. Shortly after the death of Mrs. Watson the Bailey family came to Caddo Parish and Watson came with them, boarding at their home.

FOSSILS FOUND NEAR QUANAH

Remains of Prehistoric Animals Are Found in Plaster Beds Donated To Yale University

(Quanah Tribune-Chief)

During the twenty odd years that the Acme Cement Plaster Co. have been digging up the earth west of Quanah, they have come across a number of bones from huge animals unknown to our present civilization, most of which were in a poor state of preservation, and soon crumbled to decay when exposed to the air.

Manager Whitman of late years has made it a point to preserve the relics of ancient times, where they were found deeply buried in gypsum, and were not in bad condition.

Yesterday morning the Tribune-Chief man went out to Acme to inspect these fossils, as we had heard that they had been donated to the museum of Yale University and would be shipped out that day.

We found even a larger collection than we had looked for; vertebrae and teeth mostly, the enamel of the latter wonderfully well preserved. Some of these teeth measured over eighteen inches in length and the chewing surface was ten inches long.

Mr. Whitman had recently been corresponding with the party of Yale geologists, who have been ransacking the plains this summer for fossils of the prehistoric, three-toed horse, and learned too late that they had broken up camp and engaged state rooms upon the steamer that was to take them from Galveston to New York. He prevailed upon one, Prof. Darby, to remain at least one day at Acme, and inspect the curiosities he had dug up in the gypsum beds.

We found Mr. Darby hard at work in a cement bed, some three miles northwest of Acme. He had just laid bare the shoulder blade of a monstrous mammoth, and was covering it with burlap and plaster of paris, to keep it intact when lifting it out of its resting place. Mr. Darby estimated the age of the bones at over 100,000 years, dating back from the Pleocene period, when this country was a great inland sea, and the carcasses of mammoths and other animals were swept into it by rivers and creeks.

BETTER-MEDICINE THAN CALOMEL

Many people know the danger of calomel, yet they take it because they know of nothing better. Other people are not afraid of calomel because they do not understand what a dangerous drug it is.

Nobody needs to take dangerous calomel (which is made from mercury) if they live near a store where Dodson's Liver Tonic is sold. Miller's Drug Store sells Dodson's Liver Tonic, and guarantees it to be a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant tasting vegetable tonic, that livens up the liver without causing any restriction of habit or diet. It has none of the bad after effects of calomel and is safe for children as well as grown-ups.

Song Bird as "A Nasty Animal."

William Smith of Upper Holloway was summoned to the North London police court a few days ago for "keeping a nasty animal" to the annoyance of his neighbors.

It appears that Smith owns an ill-regulated thrush which starts singing every morning at 3:30 o'clock. Smith weakly pleaded that it was a lovely sonneteer with a nice mellow note.

In order to escape inflexible English justice he had to promise to bottle it up in a back room every morning until a respectable hour of the awakening of the neighborhood.

DR. H. A. WALLER DENTIST

Office: Room 207 Kemp & Kell Building—Phone 856.

I take pleasure in announcing to my former friends and patrons that my office is now open on 2nd floor Kemp and Kell building. My new office is equipped with all the latest sanitary dental appliances known to modern dentistry, including two full sets of instruments and an electric sterilizer. This enables me to use sterilized instruments on each patient. It is a well known fact that many contagious diseases, such as tuberculosis, diphtheria, pyorrhea, (that deared disease which causes the teeth to become loose and fall out commonly known as scurvy) and many blood diseases can be transmitted from the mouth of one patient to that of another by the dentist.

It affords me great satisfaction to see my patients this satisfied. Soliciting a renewal of your liberal patronage of past years, I beg to remain,

Your sincerely,
DR. H. A. WALLER.

A Word About Getting Your Groceries On Time

Perhaps one of the most difficult things about conducting a really modern and high class grocery store is the matter of deliveries. It is too frequently the case that each woman figures that her order can be given preference over all others and while I would like to do this the impossibility is obvious. When I installed an automobile delivery service I did so in order to hasten deliveries and be able to make them more often without being cruel to horses. I find still however, some women are not as thoughtful about placing their orders in time to catch my regular deliveries as they might be. I therefore wish that you would clip this ad out and paste it on a card where you can refer to it in a hurry so that you may know just when to place your orders to get them at a certain time. My delivery schedule is as follows:

1st Car leaves store at 8 a. m.
2nd Car leaves store at 9:20 a. m.
3rd Car leaves store at 11 a. m.
1st Car leaves store at 2:30 p. m.
2nd Car leaves store at 4:15 p. m.
3rd Car leaves store at 6 p. m.

Except Saturdays when I will accept orders for delivery as late as 7:30 p. m. All orders must be in 15 minutes before the hour if any delivery in which it is wanted.

JOHN D. THREATENED BY BLACK HAND

Society Demands Millions From Oil
King As the Price of Safety—
His Estate Armed Garrison

New York, Sept. 6.—The secret of the present agitation and alarm at John D. Rockefeller's estate in Pocotico Hills, where for weeks disorder and crime have been frequent, was learned yesterday.

To preserve order on the Bedford road estate the ordinary force of four private watchmen has been increased to eighteen, all negroes, armed with repeating rifles and revolvers and complemented by five savage Great Dane dogs. Then there are three deputy sheriffs in command of Under-sheriff Nossiter of Westchester county, and six of the most trusted operatives of the W. J. Burns agency in command of Detective A. J. Boyd.

Announcement has been made from the Rockefeller estate that this sudden engagement of an armed force, on duty night and day, had been done solely in the interests of the 500 or more Italian laborers employed on the place.

The truth is that the eighteen armed negroes, the deputy sheriffs and Burns detectives, all also armed, have been called into action because the Black Hand clique that has so long gone immune in its operations at Pocotico Hills has become so emboldened as to threaten the lives and property of Rockefeller himself and of his son and grandchildren, demanding heavy ransom if their communications are ignored or the authorities called in to trail and arrest them.

They have threatened murder and kidnaping against the persons of the oil king and his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and the latter's two youngest children, who are now ill of measles at the Kent House, a sort of nursery on the grounds, not far from their father's residence.

They have further threatened murder against Frederick A. Briggs, the superintendent of the estate, and a big negro foreman named Dunson, who bosses the teamsters and other gangs of Italian laborers on the grounds.

Some of the letters have come by mail. One sent to the oil king was mailed from Palermo, Italy, where Detective Petrosino of the New York City police was murdered while seeking to expose and rout the auxiliaries of Italy of the Black Hand clique in America. It demanded blackmail in the sum of many million dollars and ordered Rockefeller to open correspondence immediately through a named channel.

PROBLEM THAT PUZZLED HIM

Bobby Didn't Understand How He Could Get Candy for Three With
"One Money."

It was a charming summer morning Bobby, aged five; Seth, aged four, and Jennie, aged three, were escorting their father, Doctor Jackson, on his daily visit to the village postoffice. He had promised them candy, and they straggled along in great content.

Opposite the telephone office the procession was suddenly brought to a stop by the operator, who appeared in the door and beckoned the doctor imperatively.

"Hey, doc! You're wanted over at Clifton right away!" he cried. "I tried to get you at the house, and your wife said you were on your way downtown. You've got to hurry!"

The doctor turned about hurriedly, but the three pleading faces made him hesitate. He thrust his hand into his pocket, found no pennies. So he selected a nickel, and placed it in Bobby's hand.

"Now, Bobby, papa must hurry. You take this and get the candy. Get some for Seth and Jennie, too, you know. And be sure to go right back home after you get it."

Bobby, who had not yet learned that there were coins of larger value than the penny, took the nickel without much enthusiasm, and the children proceeded to the candy shop. Here Bobby took his seat upon an upturned box and let his chin fall upon his breast. A telltale sob betrayed his state of mind to the clerk.

"Why, Bob," exclaimed the sympathetic clerk, "I never knew you to cry! What's the matter?"

Bobby showed the nickel that had been shut tight in his warm little fist.

"Papa told me to get candy for all of us," he gulped, "and I can't! Seth and I can't have any. I've only got"—another sob—"one money!"—Youth's Companion.

COLLIER & HENDRICKS

The election Tuesday in Vermont has caused Wall street gamblers, to insist on odds of 4 to 1 on Wilson against the field.

Reese S. Allen, of Electra, a Wichita county man, was the first of 1000 Texans to accept Governor Colquhoun's invitation to join with him in contributing $100 each to the Wilson campaign fund. This leaves only 908 others to come in on that proposition.

One more dollar was contributed to the Woodrow Wilson campaign fund today, which was the first contribution for the week. The Times would like to have a long list of them to publish in Sunday's paper, but unless they come in the name of this one lone but patriotic contributor will have to appear alone.

Our friend and efficient postmaster, Ovis T. Bacon, who is in New York writes under date of September 2, as follows: "W. H. Downing and I are here. We are not dead yet, but having a good time. All we need to make us supremely happy is a copy of The Times. Politics: Bill in the lead, Teddy second; Woodrow Wilson third. Hurrah for Taft." There are signs, however, on the card that indicate Mr. Bacon is merely shouting to keep up courage.

"Raise hogs," advises the Farm and Ranch. It is good advice, but is not accepted, judging from the amount of meat the farmers buy each year. This is due largely to the one-crop idea, and no county that sticks to that way of farming can be prosperous all the time. When the time comes that every farmer will not only raise and kill a sufficient number of hogs to supply his own wants, but some to sell, the struggle hold the meat trust now has on the people will be loosened-up a bit.

After Jackson was elected and inaugurated as president, some of his close friends advised that he retain in the service of the government a number of men who were opposed to him politically. His prompt and emphatic reply was: "I am too old a soldier to trust a garrison in the hands of the enemy," and as soon as he took the oath of office he made it his business to see that those who agreed with him politically should hold the offices. Civil service has its to investigate he will find that at least 90 per cent of those holding the offices are Republicans in politics, and it is right that it should be that way. "To the victors belong the spoils."

POLITICAL ETCHINGS. POLITICAL ETCHINGS.

Frick to the Rescue. In his eagerness to prove that his refusal of the Standard Oil contribution was honest, and that his desire was simply to have the record show the facts, Roosevelt makes an admission of the most serious character, apparently not realizing its significance. The original story was that when he was writing his famous letter to Cortelyou, telling him to return any contribution from the Standard Oil Company, Mr. Knox came into the room and said that it was too late, as the money had probably all been spent. Roosevelt then said, so the story goes, that it might be so, but the letter would look well in the record.

Now Roosevelt, in order to prove that Knox had no such thought in mind, says that Knox was astonished at his action, which he took as sincere. We quote what the third term-er has to say about Mr. Knox in this regard: "He said that he had never heard of a presidential candidate taking such a course but he assured me that he felt certain that Mr. Frick would make good any loss that was occasioned to the campaign fund by my action."

He remembered that these words are Roosevelt's. He was to give up $100,000 given by the Standard Oil Company and get in its place $100,000 given by Frick. Mr. Knox knew what he was talking about, for Frick and Twombly, steel and railroad magnates visited the White House and the result was a gift of $100,000. So, even if the Standard Oil Company's contribution had been returned, Roosevelt would have lost nothing. But it was not returned. Therefore, the Frick-Twombly gift was just so much to the good.

The chronology is interesting. Archbold paid over the money to Bliss early in October, before the middle of the month. Two weeks later Roosevelt wrote a letter to Cortelyou saying that he had "just been informed" of the gift. This was October 26. Two days before that Judge Parker, the Democratic candidate, had charged that the trusts were contributing to the Roosevelt campaign. Something evidently drove the third term-er very hard. For he wrote another letter October 27 and followed this October 29 with a telegram in which he said: "Has my request been complied with? I desire that there be no delay." After having got off these three communications and very shortly before the election, he indignantly denied the Parker charges. The money was given about October 13. Parker made his speech October 24. Roosevelt began to bombard Cortelyou October 26 and kept up the fire through October 29. And he made nothing public except his later denial. On the contrary, he said in one of his letters: "Of course, I do not wish any public statement made about this matter, or take any steps that would seem as if I would cast any reflection upon the Standard Oil people, or their motive in making the contribution."

record public and then did not do so until his hand was absolutely forced. He could have made a great play in 1904. He did not do so. Why? Nor did he communicate with Bliss, who, as treasurer, knew all about the matter, but with Cortelyou, who said on the witness stand that he knew little or nothing about the campaign funds—who never heard of the gifts of Harriman or the insurance companies till months after the election.

There is one other date that it is important to fix. Frick and Twombly visited the White House October 8, a week before the Standard Oil contribution was made, and almost three weeks before Roosevelt's letters. It was October 26, 27 or 28 that Knox said to Roosevelt that Frick would make good the loss. And he did. Twombly was interested in the sulphur trust, and the duty on sulphur was not lowered during the Roosevelt administration. Frick was interested in the steel trust, and it was to Frick and Gary that Roosevelt gave permission to absorb the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company—Indianapolis News.

A Swiss army surgeon has designed a stretcher made of high grade steel bars that can be folded and carried in an ordinary knapsack.

Choose Neighbors With Care. "The subject of neighbors is one on which we are sensitive," writes Agnes Athol in an article on "Some Things That We Learned by Renting a House in the Suburbs," in which she advocates renting a house before you buy one in Suburban Life Magazine. "It is true that the people directly in our rear are charming in the social sense, but unfortunately, they spend but six months' time at home. On one side of us are some poor but honest neighbors, whose children have taught me innumerable little phrases with which they startle us from time to time. 'My God! and I ain't got no—' and 'Come on, kids! do not expect me.' Perhaps I am an un-democratic. But even the most altruistic would have to draw the line at a family of seven diagonally across, who never miss a chance to knock the baby down or make off with unwatched toys. Our resolution to surround our own back yard (where we shall own one) with a hedge offers some remedy; but what shall we do about the neighbor on the other corner, who has a rebellious cesspool?"

CANTANKEROUS TO THE LAST Not Even Praise of His Own Hand-Work Availled to Soften Old "Uncle Jake." "Uncle Jake" was one of the characters of Bunbury. He was as deaf as a post—when he wanted to be—and as contrary as a bundle of sticks. One of his neighbors came into his yard one day and said, "Uncle Jake, I'd like to borrow your wagon this morning; mine is having a spring mended." "You'll have to speak louder," rejoined Uncle Jake. "I don't hear very well, and I don't like to lend my wagon, anyhow!" The old man was an expert maker of axe handles—an occupation in which there is more art than the uninitiated would suppose—and these handles he left at the village store to be sold on commission. One snowy day as Uncle Jake came stamping up the steps of the store, another old fellow who was known as Uncle Horace remarked to the men-lounging about the stove: "I'll treat the crowd if I don't make Uncle Jake agree to the first thing I say to him when he comes in." "Don't be rash, Uncle Horace!" called out the storekeeper. "That never happened yet, and it isn't likely to." But Uncle Horace merely grinned and picked up one of Uncle Jake's axes. The door opened and in came Uncle Jake. "Jake," said Uncle Horace, running his fingers up and down the smooth wood, "this is a mighty good axe handle." "No, it ain't," replied Uncle Jake at once. "I can't make good handles, but that one you've got is the kind people want. They don't know no better!" And Uncle Horace treated the company to sardines, crackers and cheese.—Youth's Companion. Unforeseen complication. Jimpson, in London, had rung up a well known shop in Paris by telephone to communicate an order on behalf of Mrs. Jimpson. After waiting two hours for the connection to be made, he entered the booth and began. Two minutes later he emerged. "Say, mister," said he to the attendant, "can't you put me on a wire that'll translate what I have to say in French? I can't make that darned jackass on the other end of the line understand a word I say.—Harper's Weekly.

Premature Burial. M. Tholnot, professor of forensic medicine to the Paris Academie de Medicine, has been lecturing upon premature burial, an accident the fear of which is, perhaps, not so prevalent as it was in the days of Edgar Poe. He gave an interesting description of the many inventions devised for the avoidance of this, including the insertion of a breathing tube in the mouth of the corpse, which is brought through the lid of the coffin and projected from the grave. But he declared that no precaution was so satisfactory as that of delaying the burial until the signs of putrefaction are apparent. The provisions of the code Napoleon, which ordain that no burial shall take place until twenty-four hours after death and inspection by the medical authority of the district, are, he said, entirely adequate on this point, and if they are carried out to the full, no one need have any fear of being buried alive.

Good-Excuse.

It was on the sleeping-car. "Say, mister," said the man in the upper berth to the occupant of the lower, "quit that music, will you? What do you think this is, a concert-hall? The rest of us want to sleep." "Why, the car is so stuffy," said the warbler, "I was only humming a little air—"

FAIR DAIRY WORK.

Butter and Ice Cream Making Machinery Operates.

NEW BUILDING ERECTED.

Provisions Made For Twenty-Eight Animals to be Entered in the Dairy Test—World Wide Butter Show Attracts Interest.

A thoroughly modern building, fully equipped in every respect has been erected at the Fair Grounds at Dallas for dairy demonstration work at the twenty-seventh annual meeting, October 12 to October 27. The purpose of this demonstration work is to create a greater interest among dairymen, breeders and farmers in the ability of the dairy cow to convert the feed of the farm into valuable human food. A twelve day competitive dairy test will be conducted under the supervision of the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture. Provisions are made for twenty-eight animals and it is the intention of the management to make this show to the Southwest that the National Dairy show of Chicago is to the North and Northwest. In this contest competition is open to the world. The prizes are: Cows three years old and over—first prize $100, second prize $75, third prize $50; Cows under 3 years old—first prize $80, second prize $55, third prize $30; Certificate prizes—three, $20 each. Cows under 1 year old—first prize $30, second prize $20, third prize $10; Certificate prizes (two) $25 each.

Texas is rapidly becoming the greatest Jersey cattle state in the Union and the exhibition at the Fair this year will demonstrate this beyond a question of doubt. The prizes offered in this class this year aggregate $1200. Championship prizes total $350 and diplomas will be awarded to the premier champion breeder and the premier champion exhibitor.

One of the features of the dairy demonstration work will be the world-wide butter show. This new departure was decided upon this year, the Fair management rightly presuming that it will give Texas dairymen and dairymen an opportunity of inspecting the latest machinery, fixtures and developments in their line of work. For the world-wide butter show, prizes are $15 first, $10 second and $5 third. The same prizes are offered for butters entered in the contest for Texas creameries only. For the best five pounds of dairy butter in 1 pound prints or display the prizes are $20 first, $15 second and $10 third. Dairy butters is understood to be butter from a single herd of cows made at the home of the owner.

There will be several students' contests in the dairy demonstration work and these contests are attracting a great deal of attention. Augustus H. Lyon, superintendent of this department, offers a purse of $25 to the student of age 14 and a college making the best showing judging Jersey cattle. One day of the world-wide butter show will be set aside for student butter making contest, in which student will compete for gold and silver medals and diplomas. For students of the A. and M. College making the best showing in judging two classes of dairy cattle and two classes of dairy products, the result to be based on fifty points for animals and fifty points for products, the prizes are: First $25, second $17.50, third $12.50, fourth $10, fifth $5.

Why We Have No Paris.

There can never be in the United States a real Paris of America until we shall get ranks and orders of nobility, and that will only be when our republic shall develop into a grand imperial nation. Under a newly acquired emperor a titled class would follow as a matter of course, and the easiest way to get it would be to sell the titles. Ten million dollars would buy a dukedom, $5,000,000 the title of count, and $1,000,000 that of baron. In the beginning of old world nobility titles were granted by the sovereign for eminent services; but when such a system is started in a great country like ours the simplest way would be to establish an aristocracy of wealth.

Until then our great metropolitan cities will never be more than mere centers of business and capital.—New Orleans Picayune.

FINE ARTS AT FAIR.

Superb Collection of Paintings From America's Greatest Studios.

Fine Arts at the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the State Fair of Texas at Dallas, October 12 to October 27, will be a special feature. A collection of one hundred paintings from the studios of the greatest American artists and valued at more than $150,000 will afford students and the lovers of the artistic a rare opportunity for studying the latest trend in American art. Among the artists to be represented special mention should be made of Irving Wiles, Gardner Simons, Robert Henri and Frederick Ballard Williams, one of the leading American landscape painters. Then there is Louis Mora, figure painter; William J. Whitmore, portrait painter, and Paul Conroy, who makes a specialty of street scenes in New York. Among the painters of national reputation to be represented are Van Perine, Jonas Lie, Ernest Lawson and George Bellows. Bellows is a young American artist whose fame is international. He is the youngest member of the National Academy of Fine Arts and will send to Dallas several of his latest paintings. The canvases of such artists as John C. Johanson, William M. Chase and William Ritchie would alone feature any showing of art. Irving L. Cousser who has achieved fame in his paintings of Indian life, is popular with State Fair patrons, and one or two of his latest paintings will be on exhibition. Childie Hassam, one of the best of American painters and winner of the second prize at the National Art contest at Washington, D. C. last year has already notified the management that he desires to be represented in the collection.

Pigeon Brought Luck.

It is one of the pet beliefs of the fishing fleet folk that when a white bird flies aboard a ship at sea good luck is bound to follow. And if a white bird happens to fly aboard a brand-new craft it insures the vessel with all kinds of joy forever. Out on Ganges, recently, a little pigeon fluttered down on the deck of the good ship Mary, perching on the wheel box. Result, good luck. Although Captain Whalen's boat struck mighty hard weather it came through without a scratch and landed 130,000 pounds of fish, mostly hake and cusk, which is pretty nearly the record catch for a maiden trip. The pigeon looked as if it had had some pretty hard luck itself before it fell in with the Mary, however. One of its wings was badly torn, as if a gull or a hawk had taken a piece out of it. The men aboard took good care of the pigeon, giving it plenty of food, although they made no attempt to confine it to any one part of the vessel. The bird made friends with every one, especially the cook, and refused to eat except out of the men's hands. As the Mary came up the harbor the bird was decked. Abreast of Governor's island he suddenly took wing and flew away. The men said it looked to them as if the bird had recognized his surroundings in the inner harbor and had flown for home.
