The man who wears extravagant styles today... displays either a disregard of prevailing fashions or a lack of taste and good judgment in selection.

And no man of character cares to be misjudged.

Kuppenheimer Clothes have an impressive 'individuality,' without sacrifice of dignity.

They are such clothes as you'll see at the clubs and on the boulevards of metropolitan cities.

Trial of Alleged Dynamite Conspirators Starts October 1

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24.—Charged with complicity in the so-called dynamiting conspiracy, fifty-one men, present or former officials of labor unions, are to appear for trial before Judge Albert B. Anderson and a jury in the Federal court of this district on Oct. 1.

Indicted under a Federal statute forbidding the transportation of explosives on passenger trains, the defendants are alleged to have been concerned in a nationwide plot to destroy the property of contractors employing non-union ironworkers, culminating in the explosion of the Los Angeles Times building, which cost twenty-one lives.

Fifty-four were indicted by the grand jury in its report of Feb. 6 last, but of this number John J. and James B. McNamara are in San Quentin prison, California, and J. J. McCray, a former member of the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, has not been found by the Federal authorities.

Most of the defendants are or have been connected with the Ironworkers' Association, which since 1905, has been engaged in a struggle with the National Erectors' Association, an organization of structural steel and iron contractors employing non-union workmen. Members of this employers' association suffered loss from more than one hundred explosions from 1905 to 1911.

Following the arrest of John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the Ironworkers' Association, at its headquarters in this city, and the arrest of James B. McNamara and Ortle E. McManigal in Detroit, in connection with the Los Angeles Times explosion, presentments were made to the Federal grand jury of this district that officials of the Ironworkers' Association and other labor unions had been concerned in a conspiracy to intimidate employers of unorganized labor by a systematic destruction of their property.

Ortle McManigal's confession, in which he related that he had been employed by the McNamara brothers and Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer of the Ironworkers' Association, to dynamite bridges and buildings in course of construction by non-union contractors, was the basis of the government in the forthcoming trial. A mass of letters and other records, seized in a raid on the offices of the Ironworkers' Association, also will be offered as evidence of a general conspiracy secretly to convey dynamite and nitroglycerin from coast to coast in a campaign against employers of unorganized ironworkers.

Most prominent among the defendants are Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers; Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer and the alleged head of the "dynamiting crew"; John T. Butler of Buffalo, first vice president and Michael J. Young of Boston and Phillip A. Cooley of New Orleans, members of the executive board.

Business agents and secretaries of local ironworkers' unions throughout the country, alleged to have been implicated in the illegal transportation of explosives from state to state make up the greater part of the list of defendants, but officials of other unions also are indicted. They are A. A. Tovimoe, secretary of the Building Trade Council of California; William K. Beeson, former president of the Detroit Federation of Labor; C. E. Dowd, organizer for the International Association of Machinists and S. P. Meadows, business agent for the carpenters and joiners' union of Indianapolis.

People of Texas Invited To Secretaries' Convention

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 24.—The Texas Commercial Secretaries' and Business Men's Association has issued an invitation to the people of Texas to attend the annual convention of the association at Galveston October 4th and 5th.

The invitation is as follows: We take pleasure in extending every one interested in the development of Texas a most cordial invitation, to attend the Fifth Annual Convention of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association to be held in Houston, October, the 4th and 5th, 1912.

In view of the probable opening of the Panama Canal in 1913, this will likely be the last meeting of the association before that great event and can well be called the "Pre-Panama Convention" of the association.

There has been no time in the history of Texas when there have so many economic, commercial and industrial problems for solution and this being true, it is hoped that this may be the best and most largely attended meeting of the kind ever held in the State.

The crowning work of the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association during its five years of existence, was the organization of the Texas Welfare Commission; this commission is composed of fifteen of the ablest, most patriotic and progressive men of the state and men who have given careful study to the problems now confronting the people of Texas.

The feature of this annual meeting will be the presentation and consideration of the report of the Texas Welfare Commission and will, therefore, be of the deepest import. One of the questions already considered by the commission, and the only one upon which definite action has been taken, was the step in connection with the Texas Farmers' Union in securing necessary loans with which to finance distress cotton in the state for this season.

Other grave questions that affect the progress and prosperity of other classes and interests will be reported upon and there will be no document that will go to the people of Texas which will be fraught with more general and special interest than the report of the Texas Welfare Commission. Its importance is so highly regarded by the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association that most of the two days meeting mentioned above will be given to the consideration of this report.

Texas has been a pioneer state in industrial development, the greatest asset in this direction being the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association. The work of this organization is cementing the commercial, agricultural and industrial interest has been invaluable but there is still much to be done and we urge the progressive spirits of Texas to attend the Fifth Annual meeting of the Association to hear and consider the report of the Texas Welfare Commission and in doing so we are radiant with the hope that the years close study given by this patriotic body of men to the economic, commercial and industrial questions of the state and their report upon same, will be a long stretch toward the goal of making the Lone

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION WILL BE ORGANIZED

It Will Have Control of All Athletic Teams and Organizations of the High School

An athletic association, to be in control of all athletic teams and organizations, is being formed at the high school this week, to put the athletic feature of that institution on a more substantial basis. Representatives from the faculty and from each of the classes will constitute the association, which will elect managers of teams and act as a directorate for all athletics at the school.

Similar organizations have been formed at the high school in all the larger cities of the State and the idea was started here by Superintendent Carpenter.

Prof. Carpenter is also interested in the publishing of a high school magazine by the students, such as is gotten out in many schools and he will try to have the students adopt this plan. Still another plan of his is the organization of the various classes and this will probably be undertaken soon.

The high school football team is now practicing regularly and will probably play its first game early next month.

This Sookey Turns On Water Whenever She Wants Drink

A cow that knows how to help itself to a drink is Wichita Falls' latest contribution to the nature-faking department. The bovine in question belongs to O. J. Pickle, manager of the Western Union and when it is thirsty it goes to the hydrant and turns the water on with its mouth. The trouble with this self-watering cow is that while it will turn the water on, it will not turn it off after it gets through drinking and Mr. Pickle has gone home in the evening to find his back yard resembling a cross-section of Lake Wichita. He had to take to shutting off the water at the cut-off and now when Sooky, or whatever her name is, wants a drink she has to wait until Mr. Pickle gets home.

And in view of the fact that Mrs. Pickle is out of town and Mr. Pickle is "batching" it is often a long time between drinks.

REORGANIZATION OF KATY IS COMPLETE

Each Division Now Under General Superintendent, Whose Powers Have Been Enlarged

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 24.—The recent reorganization of the entire Katy system, covering approximately 4,000 miles, traversing five States, furnishes a most interesting story for one interested in the operation of railroads. It sometimes takes months and months for the head of a business to reorganize, in some instances revolutionize the machinery under his direction. Re-arrangement of offices and educational institutions require much time, besides the unsatisfactory conditions that prevail while changes are being made.

Quietly, and with the least inconvenience or temporary delay the new management of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas has effected what may be called a "top to bottom" reorganization in the operating department, in addition to vast improvements and most important changes in other departments, at the same time calling for promotions and transfers of many officials.

For many years the Katy was operated on the departmental plan, that is, all work was carried on under the supervision of heads of departments, who were held accountable for everything coming under their jurisdiction. But it is different now. The road from St. Louis to San Antonio, including branches and subsidiary lines, is operated under the divisional system, which centers full authority in the superintendents of divisions, who report direct to the president and the general manager. The man at the head of each division is in fact a general manager of the stretch of road under his care.

Under the old system the operating department was divided into many different departments, such as track, conduct of transportation, bridge and building, car service and mechanical, each independent of the other. Thus there were several heads of departments over any and every mile of right of way.

Fifteen additional men to occupy official positions and the employment of about 100 additional men in subordinate capacities has resulted from the reorganization of the Katy. At first glance the question would naturally arise: Wherein lies the betterment and the necessity for additional expense? This question, the management of the road says, automatically solves itself when efficiency and time saved are considered. The officials have figured the change down to a fine point and are well satisfied that many operating obstacles arising under the old-time plan will be wiped out before they make their appearance.

Included in the plan of reorganization was the establishment of General Manager, W. A. Webb's office in Dallas, also the removal from St. Louis to Parsons of the office of the general superintendent. Parsons is considered the "storm center" of the road north of Denison, like Denison is called the "storm center" of the Texas lines. The idea was to assemble at the most important points all the authority necessary to carry on the work.

Every general superintendent on the Katy now has a chief engineer, and a maintenance of way engineer, who will relieve the higher officials of the details of track work. Each division superintendent has a division engineer to work out on the same basis.

Hence it will be seen that every change of operation on the Katy has absolutely been upset and radically changed to an entirely new system. The result will be watched with no little interest in railroad circles all over the country. Another feature in connection with the change from the old to the new system is that the reorganization was effected by such gradual degrees that it was not noticeable until everything was ready to announce that the divisional plan of operation was in effect.
