By Associated Press
Berlin, Oct. 23.—Hundreds of Berlin house-wives joined in a riot today because the butchers in the municpal market refused to handle meat, imported in order to reduce the cost of living. The principal trouble occurred in a district which is entirely inhabitated by working people,

Hundreds of women who went to the municipal market hoping to profit by reduced prices found that the butchers had agreed not to deal in meat imported by the city. They then stormed the butcher stalls, seized all the native raised meat, trampled it on the ground and fought with the butchers.

The police were forced to close the market to stop the riot.

The production and circulation of literature, arguments, news and lefters of an educational nature for which more money had to be paid for publication, has absorbed the greater part of the cash collected by the Progressive National committee.

A general political campaign with one-half of the total expenditures devoted to advertising and publicity and fully one-fifth given to the traveling expenses of speakers, candidates and special organization has characterized the activities of the Democratic National committee.

A rough estimate given out at Democratic headquarters today shows. where approximately $550,000 has gone since the presidential fight opened in July. Of the total Democratic expenditure about $330,000 will cover the activities of the publicity end, it is Brid. This includes $50,000 for direct advertising in publications and $50,000 for "boller-plate" and a large sum spent in publishing, mailing and circulating literature.

The Democratic committee has also patronized the moving pictures and has spent about $6,000 in this form of advertising. The progressive committee has received money from several motion picture concerns and phonograph companies for the privilege of reproducing views and remarks of Col. Rooosevelt. The Democratic National committee has spent about $20,000 for campaign buttons and the Republican committee about

Indianian Returned $57,000 Contributed by Perkins and Others to Indiana Campaign

Washington, Qet. 23.-Lazar Whitcomb. a law wartner of Former Senafor Albert J. Beveridge testified before $57,500 given to Beveridge in 1904, as campaigh contributions, which Beveridge returned. Whitcomb testified that $30,000 of this came from G. W. Perkins, $25,000 from Edward Mc-$2500 from Gifford Pinchot.

day after election. Mr. Whitcomb said Beveridge held the money until after election in order to prevent its use in the campaign. He thought the money was sent to Indiana for general campaign purposes.

Senator Pomerene said to the witness:

"My information is this money to be used in event that the fund to be sent to Indiana by the National committee did not reach $100,000. If the fund fell short of that sum, I understand these drafts were to be used in making up that amount. Do you knew whether that is so?"

Mr. Whitcomb answered, "No, I do not believe that is so." Whitcomb explained that Perkins and Beveridge had worked together when Beveridge was a book agent and Perkins an insurance agent. This friendship, he said, was the cause of Perkins' contribution.

A rough estimate given out at Demogratic headquarters today shows where approximately $550,000 has gone since the presidential fight opened in July. Of the total Democratic expenditure about $330,000 will cover the activities of the publicity end, it is said. This includes $50,000 for direct advertising in publications and $50,000 for "bolfer-plate" and a large sum spent in publishing, mailing and circulating literature.

The Democratic committee has also atronized the moving pictures and has spent about $6,000 in this form of advertising. The progressive committee has received money from sevphonograph companies for the privilege of reproducing views and marks of Col. Rooosevelt. The Demo eratic National committee has spent about $20,000 for campaign buttons and the Republican committee about $15,000

This is the fourth of a series of articles on the Texas Penitentiaries and prison farms, the laws governing same, treatment of prisoners, business management of the system, suggested improvements, etc.

By Will H. Mayes

of a penitentiary that can be made to foundry at $88,000, and the power comfortably accommodate several hundred men, although there are now only about one hundred and twenty kept there, these being employed in the 000. When the furnace is in opera machine shops, foundry, tin shop and tion the waste gas from the furnace pox factory, and in cultivating the pen- is used as fuel, making a saving of tentiary farm of some three hundred and fifty acres.

The penitentiary itself, although well kept, has an antiquated, some what dilapidate appearance. Evi dences of recent improvements in tha way of new roofs on practically all of the buildings, a modern, well equip. ped box factory and new machinery can be seen. The box factory has but recently been started and is now employing some twenty-five men, although it has a capacity of sixty men, and these will be put to work there as soon as they can be obtained from the share farms, or from other places None of the other industries are run. ning to full capacity, although the commissioners informed us that the number of men had been increased from sixty-three at the beginning of their administration, and those mostly cripples, invalids and worn out old men, to about double that number.

As a business proposiaion it looks like Rusk must continue to be, as it has been for many years, a money osing place until enough industries ere established and enough men placed to greatly reduce the "overhead" expenses. Almost as many men are needed, and almost as much expense involved, in handling one hundred convicts as in handling four or five times that number in the penitentiary Where the industries are lagging, as they appear to have lagged at Rusk. the men become listless and indiffer ent, slow-moving and careless. The Rusk convicts do not show the snap. vigor and interest manifested at Huntsville. They move slowly at their work and show their lack of interest in their movements as well as on their faces. The employees and guards largely show the same indifference. Our party, on the way to the ore beds, saw two wagons lightly loaded with wood, slowly plodding their way along the deep sand used for a road. Thees two wagons were driven with a sleepy looking guard wearily following behind. Four young convicts were seen riding on top of about. a half ton of peanut hay with a guard in charge of the four. That sort of inactivity will ruin any kind of an in. dustrial enterprise. The fault is hardly with the prison officials or with the employees; it is due to the fact that they are not equipped with bacilities or with men to really accomplish anything worth while.

been done, but the Rusk penitentiary has been allowed to suffer, it has been robbed of its industries, it has been made to look like a Deserted Village, and prison officials, and prisoners alike, have cause to complain of it. There is evidence, though, of a new life there. Competent citizen foremen have been placed in charge of the few industries left there, the foundry, machine shops and box factory are taking on some degree of activity, the convicts are learning comething of their work and better things are to be expected. The citizens of Rusk, who have long discouraged because of the lack of interest shown by the state, are seeing the new order of things something to make them hopeful that the Rusk penitentiary is going to receive all the atten. tion that it deserves. There is no excuse that could possibly be made by the state for allowing the property at Rusk to depreciate through ideness. except to use prisoners, who should have been there, (many of them learning useful rades) on railroad contracts, contract farms and otherplaces where more money could be realized from their labor, and a better financial showing could be made for the state. The old prison policy. which so stealthily grew on the mistake had been made in practically abandoning Rusk, and the best thought of the Governor and the Pristo the financial problems connected with this penitentiary, and the industries connected with it. The peniten. tiary itself can in a short time with state railroad.

The Rusk penitentiary was located Coke in 1875 under an act to locate a iron. The first furnace, the "Alcalde," was erected in 1883. This was replaced by the present blast furnace, the "Sam Lanham," in 1904, which has a capacity of eighty or ninety tons a day. The iron pipe plant was built during Gov. Hogg's administra. tion and has a capacity of sixty tons a day. The furnace and appurtenan-

The States's plant at Rusk consists- ces are invoiced at $130,000; the pipe plant, installed during Gov. Campbell's administration, at about $28 ... from $50.00 to $100.00 a day. The power plant is ampie for the furnace and for all the industries in the per itentiary and many more.

The state owns in the vicinity of 1,200 acres of iron ore lands, and the ore right on 680 acres. The ore fields are reached by a standard guage rail. road, owned by the state, independent of the state road, some two and a half or three miles in length. In practical operation two tons of the iron ore make practically a ton of iron of-high grade and suitable for all kinds of foundry work. The iron ore varies in thickness from one to four feet, the average being about two feet, lies close to the surface, is brittle, and easily mined, and is clean and requires no washing. There is said to be enough owned and controlled by the state to keep the furnace running a hundred years or more.

The cost of getting this ore to the furnace is estimated at 90 cents a ton. Limestone for fluxing has to be shipped from other parts of the state at a cost of about $1.50 a ton, and coke must be shipped either from Alabama, Virginia, Pennsylvania or Ok. lahoma at a freight tate of some $2.10 to $3.10 a ton, the coking coal being a large item of expense in the operation of the furnace.

The state owns, as a part of the Rusk penitentiary plant, a railroad from Rusk to Palestine, which is appraised at $530,000. Not only are the furnace and pipe plants idle, and the power plant practically so, but the railroad is a constant money losing proposition when these industries are not in operation.

While the furnace and buildings have deteriorated through . idleness, and the furnace itself must have a new lining, the brick for which is al. ready there, it is stated that for $10,-000 or $12,000 the property can be put in shape to begin operations. The state has all the equipment, it has the ore, it has the convict labor, and it is stated without contradiction that the ore, the fluxing lime and the coke can be assembled more cheaply at Rusk than in any other iron field in the country, enabling the state to compete with any other iron market. The opening of the furnace would give profitable tonnage to the state railroad and convert it from an unprofitable into a paying proposition. It would save to the state its present investment of about three quarters of a million dollars in furnace, foundry and railroad, that are now rapidly wasting. It would assure the cities and towns and other users of pipe in the state reasonable prices on pipe and release them in this regard from the power of the steel trust.

But it is conceded that a large amount of money will be required to successfully handle the business; for be kept on hand to supply the demand. purchased, the best skilled the super. intendency and citizen foremen must be obtained, large stocks of pipe must be kept on had to supply the demans and the plant must be kept in constant operation even when the demand for pipe runs low. In other words, the state must not be forced to buy or sell on just any kind of a market. Some say that a half million will be required, while others think as much as a million will be needed, to obtain the best results, but all agree that with the money back of it, the iron industry can be made to pay a nice profit. The freight on the coke new the main item of cost, could be cut to one third by extending the railroad some ten miles to the Trinity river, and having the state operate its own coal barges to the Gulf.

It might be thought too great a risk country that but few even suspected to attempt to compete with the steel the enormity of its abuses, was hard. trust in the sale of pipe, knowing that ly less than peenage for the benefit if it could the trust would probably of convict employers, the state be sell below cost of production to run ing a party to the offense, and for the state out of business. But there the extra dollars it could obtain there. are laws, or such laws could be pass. ed, making sales in this state at other When this practice was stopped by or lower, prices than in other states aw the state began to realize that a prima facle evidence of a trust and the steel trust would hardly risk he ing excluded from the state. The state would know the cost of making on Commission are now being given pig iron and pipe could easily prove when such products were being sold below cost to strangle competition.

Former losses from the operation of the furnace and pipe fundry can proper management be put on a good easily be explained. When one unbusiness basis and within another derstands the matter, there is wonder year it will doubtless present the same that they should have been expected kind of activities seen at Huntsville to pay. This is ideal weather for cotton picking in Wichita county. . One boy one day this week picked something over 700 pounds, which goes to prove hat he is either the best cotton picker in the state, or happened to be a resident in a county that produces better cotton and more if it to the acre than any other county in Texas. Come to Wichita.

over as the cheapest, best and most economical fuel, and after it has been fully determined that the supply is not likely to be exhausted for at least a quarter of century, the factories begin to locate as near the gas supply as possible. This is proving to be the case with Wichita Falls. For the first three or four years after the Petrolia gas field was developed, those who have their money invested in No. 2 hard 87 1-2 and 91 1-2; No. 2 manufacturing enterprises, have been red 104 and 107. Corn No. 2 mixed watching the field closely, with the result that the gas pressure during that time has not decreased but very little, and this fact is causing the factories to locate here.

We believe we are not particularly lazy about the house, but we certainly are looking forward to the time when we can heat our home and cock our food without the onerous necessity of the head of the house splitting kind. ling, carrying in wood and coal and horrors! toting out the ashes. In other words, it will be only a few more weeks now until we'l lhave gas at our disposal.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

We gather from the above that Brother Edwards has been doing all those things he enumerates, but if so it only goes to prove that he could have saved himself the trouble by conserving his own natural resources. Any editor that can't suply a sufficient amount of natural gas by himself for his own family is considered a cheap skate.

"The Landslide is Starting the Progressive Way" is the heading of a bulletin sent out by the National Progressive committee. From the claims of Progressive orators and Progressive literature we had been previously informed that the landslide had already become an avalanche. Evidences of the starting of the landslide are set forth in the bulletin as the defection from the Democratic ranks of Don M. Dickinson of Detroit, Mich., former postmaster general under Cleveland, and W. H. Williams of Minneapolis, who managed the Clark campaign in Minnesota. Both these men, it is announced, will support Roosevelt. Those bright young magazine writers who look after the Colonel's publicity campaign had better ginger up a little or a good many of us will come Loyalty to one's own town is always appreciated. In reply to an invitation to visit the State Fair at Dallas, this is the way the editor of the Menard Messenger made reply: "I have the time and plenty of money to enable me to join the gang in your city on Press Day and visit the fair, but I am so deeply in love with Menard fore never serve it.—Pueblo, Oct. 7, that I cannot think of tearing myself way for the purpose." That is the way many of the Texas editors felt about it, which probably accounts for the absence of so many on that day. Generally speaking, an editor of a newspaper has more time than anything else, but if he is the right sort he can generally manage to devote most if it to promoting the interests of his own town and incidentally the interest of his newspaper rather than by taking advantage of every invitation that is sent him. It also enables him to meet his just obligations more promptly and have the ghost regularly every Saturday night at the printshop over whose destines he is supposed to preside. If there were more editors who could practice this self-denial of pleasure the per cent of newspaper failures would be considerably lessened,-Wichita Times.

I do not think that anybody is any longer very much frightened by the word "radical." There are all sorts of radicals. It depends upon the kind I am whether I shall be apologetic or not. * * * If I am correctly informed radical means "rootical." It goes to the root of the matter .-Hartford, Sept. 25.

I would be a radical if it were necessary, but I am a progressive because I believe that is necessary. The radical is the man who is running twice as fast as is necessary to keep up with the conditions of modern life. It is absolutely necessary to run fast to keep up-and perhaps to run twice as fast to get where you were before you began standing still. Progressiveness is keeping pace with facts, making governmental processes keep up with our lives and not too laggardly follow them.—St. Paul, Sept.

Saves Leg Of Boy. "It seemed that my 14 year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a had bruise," wrote D. F. Howard, Aquone, N. C. "All remedies and doctors treatment failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils and piles. 25 cents at all druggists.

We Have No Axes to Grind With Anyone

We are too busy selling Jewelry, Cut Glass and Sityer, REMEMBER WE HAVE BEEN IN WICHITA FALLS FOR 40 YEARS and we want every one to know we are the oldest Jewelry house here. We started from a corner in a drug store and now we have a store we are proud of.

Why have we made success? By honest dealings.
Jewelry is a line that no one knows and you have to rely on what is told you by the one selling you. If he is gifted with plenty of gab and a good crook he will sting you.

but a poor showing in our annual crop returns-some 10,000,000 bushels, per haps. As a grain it figures insignificantly, outside of New York and Penn. sylvania. But is to be noted that the hone bee is aware of its peculiar clover to the buckwheat blossoms Farmers who keep beehives know this and plant patches of the grain.

Wise as the bee is the man who awaits the honey from the hive, the flour from the buckwheat; then follows the griddle cake.

-Its time it at hand. It goes with sausage or Philadelphia scrapple. There are such distinct American products that one reads with keen sympathy in the latest life of the expatriated genius, Whistler, how he was so devoted to buckwheat cakes that "he insisted almost at the price of friendship that others share his en-"husiasm." How could others be expected to do so born outside the buckwheat belt? Wretched, homesick ar.

Other countries are blessed with special foods, from the caviare of Russia to the macaroni of Italy, but they are beyond the pale, pitiably ignorant of what they miss and of what we are about to enjoy. In America there is nothing sectional about the buckwheat cake; it springeth up as a lowly flower and, in common taste for it, is to be likened only the to the unpretentious pumpkin pie.-Rhiladelphia Press.

Is indicated by that hoarse choking cough that sends a thrill of fear and dread through the very heart of the mother who hears it many times at the hour of midnight as unexpectedly as a thunderbolt from a clear sky. To combat this disease in children when unprepared is a dangerous experiment and no home where there are children should be without the greatest remedy yet discovered for the treatment of croup.

DIKES CROUP OINTMENT when spread on the chest and throat quickly relieves all forms of croup. When this remedy is used breathing becomes normal and the child is soon asleep. It is absolutely harmless whenapplied to the skin and may be used on an infant.
