SECRETARY OF TREASURY ESTIMATES COST OF GOVERNMENT AT $823,415,455

BIG SUM FOR PENSIONS

Amount Asked is $185,220,000—Navy and Public Works Also More Costly

By Associated Press. Washington, Dec. 2.—It will cost $823,415,455 to conduct the affairs of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, according to the estimates of the various department heads, submitted today to the Speaker of the House by the Secretary of the Treasury. This amount which does not include provision for the postal service, which is expected to be self-supporting, is an increase of $72,078,248 over the appropriation made for the present year by the last session of Congress.

Of this increase, $28,312,220 appears in estimates of the Secretary of the Navy and $20,597,297 represents the increase asked by the Navy department in the appropriation for building and equipping new vessels. The estimates would provide for three new battleships during the year.

Another $20,000,000 or more of the total increase is shown in the estimate for the payment of pensions. The amount asked is $185,220,000. Last year $165,146,470 was expended for pensions. An increase of about the same amount appears in the estimate for public works for the year.

The estimate forecasts another billion dollar session of Congress for in addition to the $823,415,455, whatever the total estimated, the postmaster general estimates $281,791,908 will be necessary to conduct his department for the year. Just how these estimates will fare at the hands of the democratic majority in the House is the subject of considerable conjecture.

Among the estimates which will develop debate in Congress is the demand for $250,000 for the Economic Deficiency committee appointed by President Taft which is investigating and reforming the system of conducting the government's business in the various departments. It was with considerable difficulty that $75,000 was secured for the expenses of the Commission this year.

It was with considerable difficulty that $75,000 was secured for the expense of the commission this year, and the House Democrats look with little favor on the board. Another troublesome item will be an estimate of $64,500 for the Commerce court. The general furnishing up of the White House for President-elect Will troublesome item will be an estimate which would provide for new roofs for the east and west wings of the executive mansion, and would make available $15,000 for redecorating the East room, the Red room and Blue Room, where presidential receptions are held.

MARRIAGE LICENSES OUTNUMBER DIVORCES

Forty-Nine Permits to Wed Issued Against Thirteen Suits for Separation

The ins defeated the outs by the score of 4 to 13, during November. There were forty-nine marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Walsh during the month, while thirteen suits for divorce were filed with District Clerk Kerr. This, too, in the face of the fact that the cost of marriage licenses was advanced during the month, while the quotation for divorces remained unchanged, so far as known.

There is competition now in the hitching department, which is in the old jail. There are now two justices of the peace instead of one, and Squire Brothers has lost the monopoly he held for so many years. Justice Howard has already tied several knots and in spite of his lack of experience has tied them just as securely as Squire Brothers ever did in his palm-leaf days. If competition between the two gets very keen one of them may hang out a sign like this:

ELECTRA TEAM WILL PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Team of Picked Players Will Meet "Drillers" on Local Diamond

The Wichita Falls and Electra football teams will play in Wichita Falls next Sunday, probably at the baseball park. The Wichita team is composed of a number of local players who started in eleven here in former years. The Electra eleven is a strong one, and has already defeated the locals once this season.

Electra defeated Childress Thanksgiving Day, the score being 14 to 0 in favor of Electra. Instead of in favor of Childress as stated previously Childress attempted the famous "Michigan play" which was always broken up by the Electra players. In the early part of the game Childress advanced to Electra's 20-yard line where she lost the ball, and Electra then carried the ball on four downs up the field to within 30 yards of the Childress goal. The Electra touchdowns were made by F. Barrington and S. Meyer. In a scrub game Sunday Webb of Electra fractured his collar bone.

LAST TERM FOR MANY LAME DUCKS

SESSION OF CONGRESS JUST OPENING BRINGS TOGETHER MANY OF OLD GUARD FOR LAST TIME

POLITICAL DISASTER

Overtook Many in Recent Election—Extent of Progressive Influence Subject of Gossip

By Associated Press. Washington, Dec. 2.—The third session of the 62nd Congress begins at noon today under circumstances of unusual interest. It comes together after a political upheaval of far-reaching extent which will soon transfer all the executive and legislative branches of the federal government to democratic control.

While the present session is merely the expiring stage on a Congress soon to go out of existence and to be superseded in political control and policy after March 4, yet today's sessions in the Senate and House bring together for the first time since the recent overturning those leaders and elements of the various parties who have been most prominent in public affairs. The old faces and figures are again in evidence today although some of them, like ex-Speaker Cannon, will soon pass off the Congressional stage, while others, like Speaker Clark and Chairman Underwood, have had their tenures renewed and strengthened. As a whole, however, the dominant note as both branches of Congress assemble is that new conditions, new policies and new men have been ushered in as a result of the recent election and that about the only function of the present short session, lasting until March 4, is to pass annual supply bills and wind up the remains of the old regime.

In the Senate, Vice President Sherman has been removed by death from the presiding officer's chair, which will be filled temporarily by Senators Bacon of Georgia, and Gallinger of New Hampshire, alternating. The Republican control of the Senate, with about 59 votes as against the present Democratic strength of about 42, will continue until March 4, although this control is conditioned largely by the presence of two elements, regular and progressive, in the Republican total of 59. Senators Heyburn of Idaho and Rayner of Maryland, have died since the last session closed, but in no other aspects the personnel continues unchanged until March 4.

In the House Speaker Clark and the various chairmen of the two preceding sessions, continue to direct affairs, with a total Democratic vote of 280, giving a Democratic majority of about 33.

The personal aspect was very prominent at the session's opening today, the air of democratic victory pervading the Capitol from end to end. Scores of men whose names have been prominently identified with affairs of Congress for many years, and who have shaped politics and legislation, faced their last three months of service as the session opened.

In this notable company were the deans of House and Senate, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, former speaker, and center of many turbulent sessions of the House; and Senator Shelby H. Cullom, for thirty years a senator from Illinois, a personal friend and contemporary of Lincoln, and who was elected to his first term in the national House of Representatives in 1865.

Both Cannon and Cullom came back for the winter's work the victims of political defeat. Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, long a Democratic leader in debate, came with the voluntary announcement of his retirement. Representative Cox of Ohio and Sulzer of New York brought into the legislative halls the titles of governor-elect, respectively, of Ohio and New York.

Senator Crane of Massachusetts, long regarded as the Republican whip of the Senate, who also retired voluntarily; Senators Bourne of Oregon; Outzenheim of Colorado; Wetmore of Rhode Island; Curtis of Kansas; Paynter of Kentucky; Gable of South Dakota; Brown of Nebraska and many others, Democrats and Republican alike, began today their last three months of service, before voluntary or enforced retirement to private life.

Sorrow for the late Vice President Sherman overshadowed the spirit of Democratic triumph in the Senate, and tempered the spirit of greetings amongst returning members. Custom decreed that the upper house should adjourn immediately after meeting today, out of respect for the memory of the vice president; and in contemplation of this, senators were only in their seats.

The outline of the winter's work seemed intricately mixed, as senators and congressmen met in friendly

UNION PACIFIC MERGER ILLEGAL

SUPREME COURT HOLDS COMBINATION IN VIOLATION OF SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

SUIT BEGUN IN 1908

Today's Finding Reverses the Decision of Federal Circuit Court at Salt Lake City

By Associated Press. Washington, Dec. 2.—The supreme court today in an opinion announced by Justice Day, held that the Union Pacific railroad by the acquisition of stock in the Southern Pacific had effected a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Justice Day reading the opinion and indicated the court would enter a decree to dissolve the combination, and also an injunction to prevent the Union Pacific from voting Southern Pacific stock.

Justice Day said: "This court reaches the decision that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific systems, prior to the stock purchase were competitors engaged in interstate commerce, acting independently and that since the acquisition of the stock in question the dominating power of the Union Pacific has suppressed competition between the systems and perfected a combination in restraint of interstate commerce within the prohibition of the act."

The defendants in the suit were the Union Pacific, Oregon Short Line, Oregon Railroad & Navigation Co., Rock Island, Los Angeles & Salt Lake, Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Great Northern railroads, the Farmers Loan and Trust Co. of New York, and the following individuals: E. H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., James Stillman, H. H. Rogers, Henry C. Frick, former Senator Williams, Clark and President Robert S. Lovett of the Union Pacific. Harriman and Rogers died while the litigation was pending.

In February, 1908, the government filed its dissolution suit, in the federal circuit court, which at Salt Lake City, about two years ago, dismissed the entire prosecution. The vote of the lower court was 3 to 1, Judge Hook of Kansas, dissenting. Every contention of the government was denied. The principal finding of the lower court was that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were not competing lines before the merger, and that, therefore, their combination was not in violation of the anti-trust law.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railroads were merely nominal defendants, the government alleging Harriman and his conspirators tried to "gobble up" those roads in 1901 by buying a majority of the Northern Pacific stock to secure control of the "Burlington" feeder of the Northern Pacific. In its "Northern Securities" decision, the Supreme Court held void the Northern Pacific deal.

Grossly increased rates, prevention of construction of new branch lines, and "sensible" deterioration of service were the three principal evils cited by the government as a result of the combine. Throttling of the Panama Canal trade, through the Pacific Coast and Gulf of Mexico shipping lines controlled by the Southern Pacific, was another evil alleged. "Great rigor" in enforcing the law, because of the few western railroads in control of transcontinental traffic, was pleaded for.

The defendants' plea was that the Southern Pacific merger was made to keep the U. P. from being "bottled up" at Ogden, Utah, its western terminus and not to stifle competition. It pleaded self-defense, declaring the Gould and "Northwestern" Railroad interests were also seeking the Huntington stock. They said the S. P. and the U. P. were connecting—not competing lines. Another plea was that in 1902 a Wall Street "Pool" sought to oust the U. P. from the S. P. board, and that the Union Pacific's holdings were increased to 45 per cent to defeat their enemies. It is said the U. P. has sold all of its Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Santa Fe stock.

ELKS REMEMBER ABSENT BROTHERS

BEAUTIFUL AND IMPRESSIVE SERVICE HELD BY WICHITA FALLS LODGE 1195

ADDRESS BY H. W. GASTON

Eulogy to Hon. S. Maxwell Foster Delivered by W. N. Bonner—Appropriate Program

Beautiful and impressive services were held by the Wichita Falls Lodge No. 1195 B. P. O. E. at the Wichita Theatre Sunday afternoon in memorial for their absent brothers. It is the custom of the Elks to hold such services in every town and city in the country on a certain stated date at which the name of every deceased Elk is called. In conformance with this custom the names of Robert Robertson, Jos. U. O'Donohoe and S. Maxwell Foster were called at the services Sunday afternoon. The latter is the only member whose death has been recorded during the past twelve months.

Members of the lodge gathered at their hall and marched to the theater in a body where the services were opened at three o'clock.

The orchestral music was played by Katz orchestra. Following the opening exercises conducted by officers and members of the lodge and the singing of the opening ode the invocation was pronounced by Rev. F. F. Walters.

"Absence" was a solo by William C. Weiss that followed and it was sung with feeling that touched all hearers. Other musical numbers were solos by Miss Mabel Simpson and Mrs. G. H. Carpenter and a quartette by Messrs. Pulton, Ragland, Smith and Weiss. "Sunshine and Rain" was the title of Miss Simpson's solo and her sweet rendition of this solo charmed all. "One Sweetly Sounded Thought" was sung by Mrs. Carpenter whose rendition was most appropriate and feeling. "The Vacant Chair" was sung by the quartette.

On account of the death of a member of his family Hon. L. J. Wortham telegraphed at the last hour that he would be unable to deliver the memorial address. Harry Gaston accepted this duty and his address was one of eloquence and feeling.

Attorney W. N. Bonner delivered the eulogy upon S. Maxwell Foster. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Fred L. McFadden, after the closing exercises by officers of the lodge.

Mr. Gaston in his address said that to his mind there was no greater justification for the existence to the Beneficent and Protective Order of Elks necessary than that an Elk should know when the span of his immortal career had been broken that his brothers will gather each succeed year, on a fixed day and a stated hour, and call aloud his name. "An Elk has daily proofs," he said, "that in life he will never be forsaken, and these services teach him that, in death, he will never be forgotten."

In the course of his address the speaker made reference to the Titanic disaster saying that the memory of this catastrophe had associated itself in his mind with Elksdom and its beauties and teachings.

"Far down upon the floor of the sea," he said, "hundreds of miles under the outlaw bergs, lies the magnificent mausoleum of steel and brass, in whose shattered hold rests as fair a company of good knights and bravelads as ever smiled in the face of death."

"Soldier and sailor and merchant prince, playwright and actor, doctor and lawyer, peasant and nobleman, Norman and Saxon, Latin and Celt, Slav and Jew, strangers in motherhood but wrought into brotherhood—all equal in the glory of their common end."

"There was Stead, whom kings loved, yet who loved the helpless more; there was Millet in whose paint the songs of soul throbbled; he, too, would have made a grand Elk, because he loved the beautiful. There was Harris who returned and gave his seat to a woman; he would have made a good Elk, because he was conscious of the consideration due to womanhood. There was Strauss, he of the open purse; he would have made a good Elk because of his generosity. And there was his wife, than whom no queen was ever greater, for out of true courage all nobility springs."

"And there were a thousand more, none of them less than these, swart peasants of a hundred tribes, children of the stokehole, potwashers and roomstewards. And all of them would have made good Elks. Was there ever so mighty a memory woven from such strange and varied strands of caste?"

The railroads, asking invocation of the "rule of reason" to the merger, declared the U. P. never controlled a majority of Southern Pacific stock, now owns only 46 per cent, and bought the Huntington stock in the open market, denying the right of Congress or the courts to hold the purchase illegal.

DECEMBER TERM CONVENED MONDAY

Grand Jury Being Empaneled This Afternoon—Will Have New Quarters

The December term of the district court convened at 1:30 this afternoon and the grand jury was empaneled. Tomorrow the appearance docket will be called.

Several of those summoned for grand jury service had valid excuses and were relieved from duty by Judge Martin, so that only nine were left in the jury box at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Sheriff Randolph was sent out to secure additional jurors. The nine who will serve are Tom Barwise, T. W. Daniel, W. N. Mimmick, W. H. Gwynn, John Kiel, J. L. Downing, J. B. Sisk, J. L. Lea and J. P. Sunday. Those absent or excused are J. R. Pace, W. Lee Moore, J. O. Whist, Ed Foster, George Culbertson, L. P. Douglas and W. W. Brown.

New quarters have been provided for this grand jury, which will hold its deliberations in the second story of the old jail. The last grand jury put in a mild kick about the quarters allotted it, and a change was made.

The county court also convened for the December term. The appearance docket will be called tomorrow and the probate docket Wednesday. The criminal docket will be taken up the third week.

Late this afternoon Luther Thompson, L. H. Fowler and J. P. Jones were selected to complete the grand jury and Judge Martin began the reading of his charge.

SITE SELECTED BY BALL BROTHERS

Land at Junction of Car Line and Wichita Valley Tracks Chosen—Funds Must Be Raised For Purchase

The selection of the first site of a new station at the junction of the junction of the car line with the Wichita Valley tracks, by Ball Brothers, was announced in a letter received today by R. E. Huff, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The letter submits a definite proposition on the terms already made public, which provide for certain freight rate changes, switching privileges, and the donation of the site in question.

This plan now depends upon the minor concessions mentioned and upon the raising of the $7,500 to $10,000 needed to buy the site. It is likely that the steps necessary will be taken at once, so that the matter may be finally closed up without additional delay. The site will cost from $15,000 to $20,000 and Messrs. Kemp and Kell have agreed to give half the amount needed, the remainder to be purchased by subscription.

The committee is already at work upon the other concessions. Two other sites were offered Ball Brothers, one west of the city and the other across the Wichita river, but the manufacturers decided again in favor of the tract which first seemed desirable to them.

First Monday Brought Big Crowd to Town Today

Today is First Monday Trades Day in Wichita Falls, and an unusually large crowd is in the city to swap horses, make purchases and sell out.

The local wagon yards were filled to overflowing yesterday and are unable to care for many of the visitors to day, so that some who came in have been obliged to hitch their teams on vacant lots and buy their feed.

Today's was the fourth "First Monday" since the idea was again adopted here, and the occasion seems to be increasing in popularity. Traders and others come from many parts of Northwest Texas and from Southwest Oklahoma, many of them remaining here for several days.

District Meeting of Farmers Union Begun Here Today

Representatives of cotton ginning, warehousing and financing interests from seven or eight counties in Northwest Texas are in session in this city this afternoon and will continue here over tomorrow. Many matters of interest in connection with the handling of the crop are being considered, and plans formulated for carrying on the work during the coming year.

SNEED'S FATE TO JURY TONIGHT

ARGUMENTS WILL CLOSE AT FIVE O'CLOCK AND JUDGE SWAYNE WILL READ CHARGE TONIGHT

WIFE IN FORT WOR. H

Woman Who Was Cause of Tragedy With Children at Close of Trial

By Associated Press. Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 2.—The fate of J. Beall Sneed on trial for the second time for the murder of Captain A. G. Boyce Sr. will rest with the jury late tonight. Arguments in the case will be closed at five o'clock this afternoon when it is probable adjournment will be taken until eight o'clock tonight when Judge Swayne will deliver his charge to the jury.

W. P. McLean spoke for the defense this morning and Senator Odell is closing for the state this afternoon. The four of little Georgia Beal Sneed, aged six, were responsible for her mother's coming to Fort Worth to witness the close of the trial of Sneed for the killing of Captain Boyce. She came here with the children Friday morning and in under close surveillance at a local hotel.

The children are with her very late night. Her husband who is staying at a hotel nearby sees her once or twice a day. The children did not appear at the opening of court today. They were with their mother.

Mrs. Sneed is intensely interested in the progress of her husband's trial. She reads the newspapers closely and makes many inquiries. When she arrived here she registered as Mrs. J. H. Brown of Plainview.

When Georgia Beal Sneed began crying in the court room Friday when a bitter denunciation of her father was made by an attorney for the prosecution, she was taken to her mother and comforted, then brought back to the court room.

CHARTER COMMITTEE MEETING IS CALLED

Sub-committee Has Approved Two Drafts Which Will Be Presented Tuesday Night

A meeting of the general charter committee of eleven has been called for tomorrow night, when the report of the subcommittee which has been at work for a number of weeks will be submitted and gone over. It is probable that the reviewing of the subcommittee's work by the general committee will require some time and it may be several weeks before the documents are in shape for submission to the public.

It is likely that another mass meeting will be held to discuss the charters before an election is called.

The committee on the charter consists of R. E. Huff, F. W. Householder, A. H. Brittain, Mayor Bell, J. L. Jackson, W. J. Bullock, Patrick Henry, C. H. Felder, Dr. L. Mackochney and T. C. Thatcher.

Speaker Clark's Gavel Rapped Congress to Order at Noon

By Associated Press. Washington, Dec. 2.—Congress met promptly at noon today, for the short session that will terminate with the incoming of the democratic administration March 4. Crowded galleries looked down on the animated scene below, when Speaker Clark in the House and Senator Bacon, presiding in the Senate rapped the respective bodies to order.

Plads for the first day's session had been laid out by Speaker Clark early in the day. They provided for the call of the roll by States, as soon as the chaplain had offered prayer. Resolutions had been prepared in each house for the appointment of joint committees to notify President Taft that Congress had convened and was ready to receive any message. Speaker Clark was besieged early by returning members and held a number of informal conferences. Chairman Underwood also was a center of attention and with other members of the ways and means committee held a short conference with the Speaker.

Representative Payne and minority members of the ways and means committee also paid visits of compliment to the speaker. Long lines of people

"They told us that the old stock of Sparta and Macedon was no more, that all courage died with the hundred at Thermoplae, with the 'Thin red line' at Balaklava and with the handful at the Alamo. They told us that the world was drunk with the wine that weakens, that the red blood which coursed in the veins of Riemp and Winkelreid and the Old Guard and Lawrence and Hale was so bred, but they were wrong. The breed of heroes will never perish from the Earth. So long as yesterday shall illuminate her tablets with the splendor of martyrdom, so long as history shall remember valorous enterprise, so long as brotherhood, the kind of brotherhood taught by Elkdum, shall quicken the pulse and redden the blood, the hour will never call in vain for the man.

"Brother Elks and friends, let us not weep for the loss of the Titanic. They are of the immortals whom Eternity has kissed; their brows have been adorned with the Accolade of Fame. But while we remember them with admiration, we must remember that they were but the average men and women. Had this splendid audience gathered here this evening been chosen for the test, history would have recorded the same fadeless valor.

"Shining above everything, however, is the lesson of brotherhood which this teaches. Without brotherly love there can be no faith in the Fatherhood of God, and without faith in the Fatherhood of God, we must all approach our dark hour like craves scourged to their doom.

"There are those who tell us that such brotherhood can never, however, reach to all corners of the world, that wars will never cease and that out in the smoke and the thunder there must always be the tramp of horses and the silent, rigid, upturned face. But thank God those who so contend are in the ever diminishing minority, and there is a constantly growing majority who have faith in the belief that wars will leave the world some day to its promised peace, and all men will be united in brotherhood, even as blood brothers are united.

"There is no eloquence that can console a heart stricken by the loss of a loved one, no friendship that can compensate. And I submit, my friends, that the true consolation must be the practice of virtues such as Elkdum teaches. We stand at the beginning of the twelfth hour of nineteen hundred and twelve. Some call it the twelfth month, but as Eternity is measured, it is the twelfth minute—even the twelfth second, for the circle of Eternity is so vast that the span of a mortal existence shows no bending of the line. Let us round out that twelfth hour so that our day will be something to reflect upon with pleasure.

"Christmas will soon be on hand; go to your windows tonight; look out to where the barracks of want hover against the dark sky; think of the children of privation and want who sit in the cold and dream Christmas dreams, such as you dreamed in the long ago, golden dreams spangled with hope, dreams that must lose their way and fall broken-winged to earth. Remember that you, once upon the pinions of fancy, sped into mystic dawns that you see, with fate, in magic argosies set brave sails for cloudland's purple zones. Remember the broken men who will forward to Christmas with no joy in their hearts. Remember the hundreds of thousands of grey-souled women, beaten by the adversity, their faces haggard by toil, who will sit in the cold, face to face with the dreariest tragedy in all womanhood and all motherhood—the explanation of the empty Christmas stocking.

"Fair ladies and brave men, your ships will soon glide at anchor in the roadstead. What will your cargoes be? Where will be your myrrh and where your frankincense? Remember that the best cargoes you may bring will be the glory of charity, the joy of giving, the strength that comes from the burdens of others, and the fruits of brotherly love. Live as Elkdum teaches Elks to live, exemplify the virtues of Charity, Justice, brotherly love and fidelity, and when the end shall come, you will not go to your graves scourged like slaves, but sustained and soothed by an unflinching trust, you can lie down, drawing the drapery of your couch about you, as one to pleasant dreams.

Tribute to the Memory of S. Maxwell
Fate is a beautiful tribute to the memory of S. Maxwell Foster, a member of the lodge who died during the year was paid by W. N. Bonner.

He said in part:
"Brother Exalted Ruler, Ladies, Brother Elks and Gentlemen:
Tears, flowers and the habiliments of the grave bring to us the realization of the sad and awful presence of death.

There is naught of novelty in such a scene.

Since Time was, Death has been its companion; yet we are never prepared to welcome its coming.

"It has been the theme of poets, philosophers, theologians and orators for ages, and their songs and words have so glorified the great beyond that the effluence of its heavenly light has dispelled the rigors, and the music of the angelic choirs has robbed the grave of its eternal silence.

"However well founded our faith and sweetly attuned the voices chanting its consolation, when partings are at hand, farewells uttered, the ties of love severed, and the heart-strings broken, the sweetest harmonies are but miseries and the most cheering sound but the requiem's minor chords.

"Ours today is not to reason, but to accept the plan of redemption that affixes to us the unflinching trust that soothes and sustains every phase of life, and if, in solving the mystery, the condition of loved ones gone is ameliorated, still our cause of mourning ever is the snapping asunder of the links of association that connect life to life, heart to heart, and soul to soul.

"Charity and good-will to the living and a thoughtful consideration for the dead and absent ones are the exemplification of the benevolent principles of this Order, which now pays tribute to our departed brothers.

"It is not with pomp and pageant that becomes a monarch, nor with the splendor and grandeur that befits a hero, but with the sincerest emotions of grief inspired by fraternal love and affection, do we come with simple ceremony, music and tender expressions, to deplore the loss of one whose loyalty and devotion to the fraternity was so manifest as not to permit of doubt by those who knew him even remotely.

"Silence is oftentimes eloquence. Your presence here, is a tribute eloquent in itself, and the blending of the amaranth and ivy, emblematic of love and immortality, united by a spray of forget-me-not, are expressive tokens of all the sentiments that could symbolize the lesson of existence.

"As Ophelia, spreading about her offerings, said: 'There's rosemary, that's for remembrance; there's pansies, that's for thoughts,' so could we say today, there's amaranth, that's for love, strewing the pathway of life with its flowers; music and tender expressions, which teaches that life is ever lord of death, and love never loses its own; and there's the sweet forget-me-not, that perpetuates the memory of those loved ones gone from our midst and crossed to the other shore.

Eulogistic words are in vain. We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; in feeling, not in figures on the dial. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

"What now of our brother? May I gently touch the panay—for thought— and add a word to the silent emblematic tribute?"

"Will not his thoughts and deeds evidence the fact of his having lived the noblest and better life, and utter the most touching eulogy at this its earthly close?"

After briefly sketching the life of Judge Foster, Mr. Bonner appraised his worth as a citizen, an official and as an Elk as follows:

"In his private life he exhibited those virtues which most highly adorn the citizen. In official life he possessed and displayed those high qualities that honor public station.

"As a District Attorney he brought to bear in the discharge of the duties of that office a pure, Christian life, a judgment unwarped by prejudice and unimpulsed by passion; an inherent sense of love of justice, the first, if not the greatest, of the qualities necessary in a man who is to be entrusted with the duties of such an important office; an earnest desire, by patient and laborious research and study, to know what was right and lawful in every case, and with this a firmness of character which ever enabled him to act in accordance with his convictions of duty and right.

"No one had a more exalted view of the dignity of life of the true lawyer than the deceased and his voice was ever heard, in seeking to impress, especially upon the younger members of the profession, his own sense of the high qualities of head and heart requisite in those who seek to become ministers of the pure altars of justice.

"Although he had passed the meridian of life, contact with the world had never blunted, in the slightest degree, any of the innate and noble impulses or sympathies of his nature; his heart was as tender as a child's; his feelings as warm as unselfish friendship and love for his fellow man alone could inspire. Indeed he exhibited a regard for the feelings of others to a degree which but few possess.

"A man who as a lawyer, dignified that great profession by his upright character and illustrated it with the triumphs of his genius; and as a citizen, he never failed in fidelity to those principles of liberty, protected by law. He was flattered not by the obsequies and erings of gain and greed—knowing the uselessness of hoarded gold—of honor bought from those who charge the usury of self-respect—of power that only bends a coward's knee and forces from the lips of fear the lies of praise.

"Such a man could not fail to have the esteem of all who knew him.

"I have spoken of him as I knew him in his every day life; and now that he has been called to plead before the highest court of the universe, where all cases are tried on their true merits, I have no doubt but that the judgment of that court will be: 'The record presents no reversible error—the judgment is therefore, in all things affirmed.'

"So live on, my brother, in the eternal future, with that lodge whose life was love, and who taught a charity so pure and gentle that the right hand knew not the acts of the left; live on with him who dispenses justice tempered with kind mercy; live on forever and ever with him who doeth all things well, and to who, even though in thy going it be a cross, we must in submission say, 'Thy will be done.'

Farewell, my brother; thy good deeds are written on tablets of enduring memory, thy faults die with conferences, with the prospect of tariff revision in the special session that is to assemble under President Wilson, next spring. In the senate Republican leaders were slow to admit the certainty of Democratic control on all tariff problems, even with the great increase in membership that is to come with the new Congress.

The reassembling of the house drew together a host of men, long prominently identified with Republican affairs in that body to whom the elections had brought political disaster. Among them were Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, John Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Ebenezer J. Hill of Connecticut and John A. Needham of California, all members of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, and leader in advocacy and defense of Republican tariffs.

Of the so-called "Old Republican Guard," the force that supported and framed the Payne-Aldrich tariff law in the opening of President Taft's administration, but two members remain on the ways and means committee after March 4, Representative Payne of New York and Fordney of Michigan.

In the ranks of the "last termers," also, were Representative McKinley Wilson, Foss and Prince of Illinois, Representative Norris of Nebraska who is soon to step into the Senate, Representative Olmstead of Pennsylvania and McCall of Massachusetts, Republicans who were not candidates for re-election; and Representative Crumpacker, whose defeat in Indiana gave the Democrats a solid delegation from that state for the next session of Congress.

The extent of Progressive influence in the winter session is the subject of general gossip at both ends of the Capitol. Of the strong insurgent Republican element in the House, which has voted with the Democrats upon tariff measures during the last two years, many will wind up their service with this session. In the Kansas delegation, Victor Murdock was the only so-called insurgent to return to his seat today with a view for two more years. Representatives Roosevelt, Young and Jackson, all comparatively new members, went down before Democratic opponents.

The President's message is usually the most important business on the reassembling of Congress. But as the first day is marked by so much bustle and confusion of returning senators and members, with their exchange of greetings, the delivery of the message to Congress, and its formal reading to both houses, usually goes over to the second day. This will doubtless be the procedure this year, so that the receipt and readings of the message will go over until tomorrow.

Accident at Coal Mines

What at first was thought to be a very serious accident occurred at No. 4 mine, at about 2:30 p. m. Saturday. Mr. Joe Carson, weigher at No. 4 while oiling the cages, preparatory for the afternoon men, was leaning over the edge of the shaft with his head under the cage; when the engineer was signaled from below in the mines to lower the cage.

Mr. Carson was caught between the cage and the edge of the shaft, and was severely bruised and crushed. While his injuries are not thought to be serious, they were very painful. Fortunately no bones were broken, nor no internal injuries received.

J. J. Perkins, who happened to be in the city hurried to the scene of the accident in his car and the injured man was carried hastily to the Arlington hotel, where Dr. Mars of Newcastle and Dr. Hamilton of Olney, administered to his injuries.—Newcastle Register.

Foreign Countries are Now Buying American Made Cars

"Prejudice against the American automobile, one of the greatest obstacles to success in exporting cars, has been almost completely broken down. On a trip around the world started about two years ago, the prejudice at first was very noticeable, but the difference could be noted as the journey progressed, and American business grew," says Tom Jones of the export department of the R-C-H Corporation, who last December completed a two years' automobile trip around the world.

"Since my return I have talked to men from nearly every country on the face of the earth who have come to the R-C-H factory to secure territorial rights in their countries and had the pleasure of hearing them admit that the prejudice had practically vanished. And some of these men have been frank to admit that they had at one time been set against the American product."

"It has been a hard fight but American cars are winning out and obtaining the prominence they deserve. For this prejudice was created by the cars sent abroad in the early days of the industry. The yield not deliver and the result has been a hard fight for recognition on the part of American manufacturers ever since.

"The thing that appeals most strongly to the foreign purchaser of an American car is the price. There is nothing like the foreign market in a four cylinder car that can come anywhere near the price of the R-C-H or other low price cars to which the bulk of American trade is confined, and the main efforts of the European producers seems at the present time to produce a car that will compete with the popular priced Americans."

"But there is a high standard set for the American cars. Our manufacturing systems, huge factories, great production and low prices are considered wonderful and also put ideas so high that the purchaser looks for just as much in an American car that he can buy, duty and freight paid for about $1,100 or $1,200 as he would in a car built in his own country to sell for $5,000 and it is the ability of the American cars to come pretty close to this mark that has opened up our trade so wonderfully.

"There are no steps taken here that are not immediately given publicity abroad. People in other lands are always watching for something new in the American motor field and as soon

Wichita Falls, Texas, Dec. 2, 1912

The Democrats are clamoring to have President Wilson revoke the order of President Taft placing fourth class postmasters under the civil service and give them a finger in the pie. They believe in the principle of to the victor belong the spoils when they are in office and are opposed to it when the Republicans are in office. The Democrats should not squelch. When Grover Cleveland was president he advanced the civil service just as far as he could, and the Republicans accepted his action as worthy of emulation.—Independence (Kas.) Reporter.

The kind of civil service Grover Cleveland, while president, advocated and put into effect was all right. Under his administration civil service meant that examinations as to fitness and qualifications were to be made, and the appointments to go to the ones who made the best records, without regard to their political way of thinking and believing. But now it is different. Ninety per cent of all the postmasters are now Republicans, and they secured the appointments more on account of the fact that they were of that political faith than for any qualification they may or may not have had for making good and efficient public servants. Under those circumstances, President-elect Wilson will be justified in revoking the order of President Taft. He is just about as good a Democrat as Mr. Taft is a Republican, and can be depended upon to take care of the interests of the party which made it impossible for him to be president of the United States. Civil service is all right, but in every instance where one is to receive a civil service appointment, the appointee should be required to take an examination as to his qualifications. When such examinations have been made under the administration of President Taft, and appointments made, it is not likely that the appointees will be disturbed. On the other hand, where it can be shown that appointments were made for political reasons, then a Democrat—one who is qualified to fill the position, should be named to succeed him. That is politics, and if the Democrats expect to remain in power they must learn how to play the game.

THE REASON FOR AN EXTRA SESSION

(Mark Sullivan in Collier's.) The Payne-Aldrich Tariff Bill became a law August 5, 1909. That is, three years, three months and twenty-five days ago. And during every one of these three years there has not been an hour when the people of the United States, if they had had the opportunity, would not have rejected this bill by an overwhelming majority. They had their first chance to express their opinion of it when a Massachusetts Congressman died, and in electing his successor, the district overturned an old-time Republican majority of 14,000 and sent a Democrat Eugene Foss, the present Governor of Massachusetts, to Congress. The people didn't get their second chance to express themselves on the Payne-Aldrich bill until the Congressional primaries in the spring of 1910. Then they showed their feeling by keeping at home a large number of conspicuous standpatters like Tawney of Minnesota and McKinlay of California, and nominating Urogressives in their places. The people had still another chance to express themselves in the fall of 1910. At that election they elected out of power the party that had been in control for sixteen years and made Congress Democratic by an overwhelming majority. The people further expressed themselves, even in the absence of definite elections, by a state of public opinion so obvious that Senators like Aldrich and Hale voluntarily retired. The expression of public opinion is recent to need recalling. But in all of this steady disapproval of all the present tariff, not so much a comma of that law has been changed. So long as the Republicans control one of the three branches of the government, tariff revision was impossible. The exact hour when the condition ceases is 12 o'clock, noon, 4, 1913. After that moment the Democratic party will be completely in power. After that condition has come every hour not devoted to the business of getting the tariff reduced will come near being a breach of a faith with the public. With all the speed that can be practiced, it will be nearly August before a new tariff can finally be made. That is to say, in this Republic opinion to express itself in a statute.

THE PEOPLE'S VICTORY

To the Times: The old Wisconsin used to say, "Where there's a will there's a way." But times have changed, and men and women too. Have learned by experience otherwise. And gain over much by compromise. When there is a conflict between 1 and you.

In every day affairs, little or great, consultation and compromise bring results. This is true in all walks of life, beginning in the home and permeating our business and political relations. As a rule, the individual or county in the aggregate, notwithstanding he may lead the procession. Consequently, a dominating personality can only lead a harmonious force to victory.

This is the striking lesson learned from the recent Presidential election. The Republican party was defeated because the leaders refused to consult the people, the Democrats won by taking the people into their confidence.

William Jennings Bryan understood this when he sent his remarkable telegram to the prospective candidates before the Baltimore convention. He also understood it when he offered his Murphy-Ryan-Belmont resolution and fought the Tammany Tiger to a finish on the floor of the convention. And he convinced the leaders of Democracy when he wrote the platform and the results justified his judgment.

The people were consulted and were satisfied, and returned to their business with a confidence in Wilson that could not be diverted by the dash of satisfied, and returned to their business of the old scarecrow raised by Taft.

We have returned to a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

CONTRIBUTOR THE REDUCED DEMOCRATIC VOTE

The practically complete vote of the country indicates that Governor Wilson's vote is slightly less than Mr. Bryan received in 1896, 1900 and 1908. This means, of course, that Colonel Roosevelt made some inroads upon the Democratic party in many of the States and that possibly our ranks are to be subjected to still further drafts from that quarter, as well as from the Socialist party.

Whether the country is about to experience a general political realignment it is too early to determine, but the evidence is strong that some such process is under way. Despite the effort that is to be made to rehabilitate the Republican party, there is little prospect that its factions can be reunited. Such a thing can not happen so long as Colonel Roosevelt is alive to command, because there seems to be no tangible basis for peace, and if the breach remains a continued melting-away of its forces is almost inevitable.

It is Colonel Roosevelt's purpose to divide the country into two camps, radical and conservative, and he has made wonderful beginning. There is no question about that. What assistance he may obtain during the next four years is problematical, but very likely he is not going to get many recruits from the Wilson vote. Wilson can't possibly prove radical enough to please some of those who supported him, and if circumstances should estrange Mr. Bryan from him within the next year of two the situation is going to change materially by 1916. The people are showing great inde-

DEPENDENCE EVERYWHERE

Save in the Southern States. Party lines are weak in all the Northern and Western States, a situation which affords ideal conditions for the activity of men like Roosevelt and Bryan.

Still, there is no reason to anticipate any permanent loss of democratic strength. If the Roosevelt radical program becomes stronger, the logical result will be Democratic recruits from the conservative Republicans. With the tariff practically settled by the coming administration, there would be nothing in the way of the absorption of the Taft element by the Democratic party. It would be just as logical a proceeding as the absorption of the radical Democrats by the Roosevelt party.

Hence, we do not think the slight decrease in the Democratic vote as compared with 1896, 1900 and 1908 is especially significant. The returns showed that there were 9,500,000 voters on the side of the conservatism and making all allowances for future radical gains we think it safe to count upon 8,000,000 who will not follow the flag of radicalism, no matter who leads the fight.—Houston Post.

DAMAGE SUIT INDUSTRY FLOURISHING

Austin, Texas, Dec. 2.—Three million dollars in personal injury claims were paid out by Texas railroads during the twelve month period ending June 30, 1912, according to the reports of thirty-two of the leading Texas lines. This breaks all records for any single previous year and brings the total up to $28,425,000 for personal injury payments during the past twenty-one years or since the creation of the railroad commission. The amount of claims per mile of line operated has increased from $25.00 in 1891 to $180 in 1912, which is equivalent to 620 per cent. The gross earnings during this period show an increase of only 150 per cent and the total mileage has increased only 75 per cent. Personal injury claims in 1912 represented 2.50 per cent of the gross earnings of that year and the average for the 21 year period is 2.06 per cent. The personal injury payments for 1912 exceed the total claims paid during the first six years existence of the railroad commission by $438,000.

Ohio, New Jersey, Washington, Oregon and other states have paid heed to damage suit industry in a practical manner and a recent investigation of a Wisconsin legislature revealed the fact that only $18.00 out of every $100.00 paid for personal injury in that state, reached the pocket of the injured.

URGES FARMERS TO IMPROVE STOCK

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 2.—Col. Ike T. Pryor, chairman of the committee on raising and marketing of livestock, in a report to the Texas Welfare Commission, urges the stock raisers throughout the state to improve the quality as well as the quantity of their stock. "It costs no more to produce thoroughbreds than it does scrub stock" says his report. "The result we have accomplished along this in the past few years is only an earnest of what can be done in the way of increasing value without increasing the cost of production, thereby giving the farmer net profit and lifting the livestock industry to a much higher and more profitable plane."

CHRISTMAS

is a magic word that brings gladness, good cheer, peace and good will to men. It brings back pictures of the past and is the milestone that marks the way back to childhood's innocent days when it meant new toys and a visit from good old Santa. Who can't remember Christmas morning when our longest stockings were stuffed with trinkets that made our childish hearts glad.

We are all children and the only difference in us is that some of us have come from further up the stream of years than others. A few days more brings another Christmas and the buying of gifts for friends and loved ones will occupy our thoughts. We are showing the best that money will buy in gift goods. Quality was our foremost thought when selecting these goods. We have bought goods of a quality that will represent in intrinsic value the friendship and regard of the giver.

have advanced 80 per cent in the last ten years. There is no better investment, nothing will take the place of a DIAMOND. For sentiment and intrinsic value it never grows old, but is more valuable as years go by.

Our goods are figured as close as possible. That's why we sell the goods. Quality and the right price is to what we owe our large trade. See our goods and you will purchase.

BEAUTY IS ONLY SKIN DEEP

and it is only reasonable then that a good complexion enhances the natural beauty of any woman while blemishes, sallow skin and wrinkles will soon destroy feminine charms.

We have many beauty aids, all of which work in nature's way and the results are a little short of magical. They eradicate wrinkles, sallow skin and insure a clear, fresh, velvety complexion with all of the charms which this applies. Our cold creams are composed of sweet, vegetable oils, daintily prepared without drugs, making them absolutely harmless and enabling any woman to retain her beauty years and years longer than she otherwise could.

ART LOAN COMPANY

There must be some good reason for this unqualified statement; yet there is no great mystery about it. Nearly two and one-half years of fair and square dealing with the public has won for us the reputation. If you buy from us, we guarantee to give you your money's worth. We do not pretend to give any more, that's all nonsense. Our inside track in being able to always give you your full measure of value for your money is due to the fact that we pay cash for everything and buy it at larger quantities, and it's at this end of the business that we make our profits.

FONVILLE'S DIAMONDS
They Are the Acme of Beauty and Value

The giving of a diamond is an act of love and esteem. Diamonds are the emblems of purity and because they are the most admired and loved of all precious jewels. The Fonville stock is bought with the idea of securing the best qualities. It is sold with the idea of giving you the greatest possible value.

During our ten years of steady growth the people of Wichita county and neighboring counties have come to learn of our methods, and they are daily showing their approval with increased patronage.

So well have these facts become known that gift buyers in general know that by purchasing here they pay the recipient a special compliment. The name Fonville on the box adds much in prestige, but nothing in cost.

You are most cordially invited to visit our DIAMOND DEPARTMENT. Prompt service and courteous treatment await you there. Such a visit will in no way obligate you to buy. Special values $25.00, $50.00, $75.00, $100.00 $115.00, $150.00.

What we say it is, it is"

NOT OFTEN

We have received direct from the orchards of Michigan a shipment of these goods, and they are "as fine as silk." Cider Jelly is entirely different than anything else in this line and Southern Michigan and Northern Ohio is the only section we know of where it is produced. There is nothing as good to serve with meats. If you know what it is, we've said enough. If you don't, you have overlooked a bet. You will want some boiled cider for your Holiday cookery. Order the sweet cider while it's fresh.

It's seldom that you have a chance to buy genuine Michigan Sweet Cider, Boiled Cider and Apple Cider Jelly
