tions still continue. Russell brothers have abandoned their well on the Falls county school land in Archer county at a depth of 1430 feet. They found a promising sand at 1000 feet, but a test failed to develop anything. This well was north and west of the original Miller well and was practically the last to be completed in that section. The Corsicana's well on the Harmonson land will make a test of a shallow sand it encountered several months ago, having failed to find anything in the deeper formations.

The well being drilled in Young county by J R Jameson and others is now 2640 feet deep and has found a water and gas sand at that depth. which may cause the company to go leeper. The log of this well shows an unusual amount of blue slate form ation
