An Institution

Our ready-for-service clothes this spring and summer are superior to any we have ever produced. This is impressive because last spring and summer it looked impossible. We did not quite see how we could excel in 1912 what seemed so perfect in 1911. Perfection, however, always lies a little ahead of the best men do and trying to attain it is like the futile effort of pussy to fasten her teeth on her fugitive tail. All she gets is a glimpse and perfection is just as elusive. But he who works with his heart works better than he knows, and we have surely worked with ours. That is why we are consistently foremost in contemporary styles, and why our present spring and summer exhibit of men's suits, hats, shoes, shirts and furnishings is probably without a peer in the reputable clothes.

DIAMONDS

In the selection of Diamonds, size is only one of the many considerations. Purity of color and freedom of flaws are very important elements, as also are shape and style of cutting. The most important feature of buying diamonds is the source yoù procure them from. We buy for two stores and direct from the importers, and this enables us to give our customers the choicest of gems without having to pay the fancy prices. Try us for a diamond.

Others wring their hands over the

"Why, just look at some of them." say the men who are trying to bring the raw material up to its highest de gree of efficiency for "the good of business." Then they cite case after case to show what women have done.

It is so imposing a showing that one wonders if, after all, a sanguine view is not unescapable. There is the women who, entering the employ of a typewriter company as a demonstrator, has risen to be its acting treasurer: there is the woman who, entering an architect's office as a stenographer, has become office manager; there is the woman who, entering the office of one of the down town finan ciers to take letters from a subordinate official, has become the confiden tial secretary of the financier himself, at a salary of $10,000 a year-the case repeats itself hundreds of times in this one city.

And in the rank and file there is improvement and promise of greater improvement. For one thing, the requirements in the matter of general education are going higher. Stenography and typewriting are taught in the high schools of today, so that the technical education may be inter-associated with the general education.

Extra Pay Not Allowed.

Officers and men in the United States revenue cutter service who render service to vessels in distress at sea will not be allowed to accept pay for the same. This ruling was announced by the secretary of the treasury in the case of the officers and men of the cutters Onondaga and Yamacraw, which went to the assistance of the British steamship Wyviabrook, which, was stranded near False Cape, Va., while on a voyage last June from Pensacola, Fla., to

Greenock, Scotland. Did the Work of Ostrich. A curious story comes from Stockenstrom, southern Australia. A hen ostrich, belonging to a local farmer, left her nest. The farmer, having no incubator, stayed in bed with the eggs for a few days unt'l they were hatched.

some may not average to do this more than three times a week. and a few, perhaps, not three times a month, others write those words and place the hyphens in them scores and scores of times each day, especially newspaper men, typewriters, authors, business men, school children and the like.

The acquiring of sufficient power from making these hyphens each day to propel a passenger train around the world is figured on the basis that; it takes half an ounce of energy to make the stroke-either with pen or pencil, and more for a typewriter-that represents the hyphen, and this would total 2,190,000 pounds of energy, or sufficient for the train. It takes an ounce of energy to make the hyphen on a typewriting machine and three ounces of energy to make it on a typesetting ma and the same-statistician has figured that typewriting and typesetting machines alone take up sufficient 'energy each day to propel a battleship from

Many people do not use the hyphen, but it appears that the majority do. Those who are working toward greater efficiency in everything claim that the hyphen in these words is not at all necessary and should be discontinued by everyone, saving a sy-Exchange, (

There is a state law prohibiting the dynamiting of fish in the rivers. Complaints have reached the Times from Thornberry to the effect that citizens of this city are in the habit of driving down in that neighborhood and dyna miting the fish in the Wichita river and while the people of Thornberry do not care to resort to the law to have this stopped, they have determin ed to do that very thing if the par ties referred to do not sop the prac tice. There is but little sport in catching fish that way, to begin with and in the second place a man has got to be tolerably fish hungry before he will condescend to eat a fish that is taken out of the Wichita river.

The work of wresting the control of the National government from Wall Street and the moneyed interests to Washington is one that is not going to prove an easy task for President Wilson. It may be expected a great cry will go up that his policy will cause a great depression and finally lead to a money panic, but if it takes that to accomplish the purpose of the president, then let the panic come. The chances are that it will not last long. and when it is over those who brought it about will be poorer in purse than they were before they started it. Such a result is possible. and the man who is now President of the United States has given every evidence of his great courage and will not hesitate to resort to legitimate powers that can be exercised by the President of the United States that can

When the 1912 season started, the team could be figured as having but one weak spot, first base. True enough, some folks did figure that second base was weak too, but that fellow Phillips from Nocona or St. Jo or Gainesville or some of those little places out there, fooled them. First base was never a strong place all season long until Steakley was Batteries-Peaster and Mathews

What happened in 1912 is ancient history now: 1913's season starts with untried infield and with an entire team that is in but indifferent condition; that is not the fault of Captain Morris nor of Trainer Lewis, both of whom have worked wonders. Bad weather has been the chief drawback, interfering with the work-outs two or three times a week and keeping the squad from getting hardened up.

It is a safe bet that whatever weak places there are in the line up now will be worked out before many days and it is almost an equally safe bet that the pitching staff that won last year, with oneexception will be just as good this year. > As To Contested Games. Eighth, in case of contested games, you are to mail me as soon as the game is over a statement of the playor plays in question.

Ninth, this is to you personallyuse as much "pep" as possible in your own actions. If a play takes place on the bases, try to be there; If you are you will be able to be correct in your decisions. Watch the balls closely so as to be sure both the batter and the pitcher get justice; when there is no runner on the bases, in my judgment, you can do this better behind the batter. Give your decisions so both the players and the audience will understand

It is also necessary for the um pire to conduct himself so that he will have the respect of the people, thereby being a gentleman in his actions, keeping himself supplied with (neat uniform, so as to make good appearance. When not at work do not associate with those who are not deserving of respect, as you cannot command respect if your conduct and associates are not deserving of respect. An umpire and his work should be drawing cards for the game. Do not get "chummy" with any of the ball players. It would be impossible to give satisfaction when said player was concerned, if you did, I am sending a copy of these rules and instructions to all the presidents and managers in the league. Yours truly,

As the Season Advances

We are better prepared than ever to please you-conservative or extreme-whatever you want in the way of correct apparel, with the right charm and beauty, awaits you here.

Every day boxes and cases are arriving from the fashion centers filled with new goods. Dresses, waists, silks and dress goods show themselves, one after another, each lovelier than the next, each fresh and new, each the last echo of Fashion's Spring commands. Never before were styles so attractive as at this season. Each fascinating weave of cloth; such choice of vivid color tones or the softest subdued shades such odd and delightful notes in neckwear and other accessories. We can't describe their charm. You must see them. And so this week special displays of new styles will be prominently featured. We dislike to mention prices in the same breath with so much loveliness. Let us just say you'll find values-as always-most satisfactory?

Spring Suits and Dresses Are of Unusual Beauty

There's a glow and fascination about this display which make it one of more than ordinary interest, for the pleasing exhibits are full of interesting and instructive suggestions to those who are seeking Spring style ideas. Diversified, impressive, inviting displays! Come tomorrow and view them.

Mrs. J. I. McDowell of Big Spring: were elected to serve on the advisory board of the first district, and before adjournment resolutions thanking the tizens of Stephenville, the newspapers and all who have assisted in making the meeting just closed a suc cess were passed. Two social features were given the visiting club women. Mr.s J. Collier George was the first hostess and Thursday night Mrs. Lee Young entertained all the visitors and Stephenville club women with a reception. Wichita Falls delegates in attendance at this convention included Mrs. J. G. Berney, Mrs. Burnside, Mrs. D. J. Carithers. Mrs. McKee, Mrs. W. H. Walker, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. T. B. Smith.

HOSTESS SATURDAY

About 30 of the younger society cople gathered at Judge Carrigan's nome Saturday evening in response to Miss Helen Hines invitation. Games (Continued on Page 3).

Our Parasol section is now aglow with a pro fusion of all that is new in shades and designs of chic and dainty Parasols. Among them are some in Nell Rose with a Dresden border, black and white stripes, and embroidered designs; also embroidered white linen Parasols. But we can't tell about them all--there are too many.

For the Modish Motorist--Water-proof Khaki Motor Coat with Cap to match. This distinct i ovelty has scored a "smashing success" and will appeal to your clientele in a peculiar manner. It is trimmed with leather and the sleeves are fitted with elastics for motoring. Can be used as a shower coat also because the fabric has been waterproofed. Color: tan only, Sizes, 14 to-46.

Quality of materials-the good sturdy muslins, the soft nainsooks and crepe. Quality of trimmings-strong Hamburg embroiderics, stout Cluny and Torchon laces, delicate Vatenciennes lace and sheer Swiss embroideries on Batiste. Quality in style, the shaping of every garment, even at the lowest price, is good. It is the joining of quality with low price that celebrates the McClurkan underwear.

Stylish Footwear That Is Comfortable

Some people have an idea that this is impossible-style and absolute comfort combined in a shoe. But women who wear John Kelly shoes know-they enjoy foot ease and do not sacrifice style. The flexible sole of the John Kelly shoe bends with every motion of your foot-you can wear the most fashionable model from the moment you put them on, without the torture of breaking them in. You will be delighted with the distinctive style in these new pumps and oxfords that we are showing.

The Men's Departments Are Resplendent With Springtime Glories

In caring for the ladies, we have not overlooked the men folk, and these departments are filled with all the newest and best of the spring time dress-the Michael-Stearns Suits, in cut and trim and color, the acme of perfection. The Boyden and Just Wright shoes, in tans and blacks, in every desirable shape. The Stetson and Hawkes Hats, pure silk and lisle hose. Shirts of just the proper patterns to show the gentleman's choosing. Neckwear to match any suit or for any occasion—a selection of all that goes to make up the well dressed man.

Begin While Young to Build for the Future Invest Part of Your Earnings

From among the young men and women of today will come the millionaires of the future. The strongest foundation for a fortune is economy and pruduent investment. The young man or woman who is saving a portion of each months's earnings and planting it in some growing investmment has taken the first and most important step in building for the future. The self-made millionaires of the present age agree that the surest road to wealth is the buying of suburban land near a growing city, where the rise of values is inevitable as the city develops. The greatest fortunes of today were acculumated in this way.

I Have Got 200 Pair of Pants

-More than most men possess; but not many for, a Tailor. These are extraordinary good ones, however, and I want to tell you about them. They were made by the Washington Woolen Mills Co. out of the remnants of their high grade woolens. You can easily imagine how the largest woolen company in the country would have lots of remanants left, pieces of their very best clothes-that's what these are-made into pants by good tailors. Their like sells in-I won't mention any names, but any store in town- at $6 to $9.

I buy my woolens from the same house, and a traveling man put me next to how I could buy these pants at less than half their value and make a good profit out of them. It was a little out of my line, ready-madepants, but I bought them and they're all the company claims for them, worth $6.00 to $9.00. I'm selling them for

Jackets as well as Blouses Worn with Belts and Girdles

New York, April 12 .- Most popular mong coat suits for this spring are those that require very little tailoring. This style is not only favored by the women of remote districts where tailors for-woman's garments are hard to find, but by those of the city, too, where tailors are plentiful but prices for good workmanship almost prohibitive to the woman of nodest income. Now every woman buy do her own tailoring, as the soft coats now in fashion can be constructed quite as well at home as in a fashionable tailor's establishment. The uncanvased coat is thus not only an economy, but is very smart and quite in keeping with other new style features of the season. The draped skirt and the waist with drapery or fashioned on kimono lines, with much fulness about the underarm and at back and front, adhere to this simplicity of construction. That the simplicity of woman's suits and hats involves only the minimum of expense in making is entirely to her interest. The tailor's and milliner's outlook is their own. She welcomes the change and learns to appreciate the adage a dollar saved is a dollar made." But not only are jackets fashioned on negligee lines. Blouses for wear either afternoon or evening conform to the same indifferent fitting. Among these the Balkan is, perhaps, most generally favored. This blouse is equally smart, whether belted about a dropped waistline by gaily colored ribbon or over the hips by a wide band of the material. Such a blouse is shown in the first illustration. The use of the hip band is its unique feature. The dress was developed in white agaric and light blue linen was used for collar, cuffs and pocket The skirt is six gored with narrow panel back and front. This style of ock is very popular for school or outdoor wear. Developed in soft silk or messaline, it is equally pleasing for the smart afternoon toilette. Much originality is displayed in the belting of this loose make of suit whether . it be Balkan or Russian. Sashes wide and narrow, tied . in front, rear or on either side and simply knotted in a careless bow, are much worn. One coat recently seen had a sash of plaid picot edged ribbon; another had a belt of messaline laid in folds and finished by a tailored bow. Where two materials are used-one for the jacket in figured effect, another for the skirt of plain fabricthe result is very pleasing. It was with these modes in mind, surely, that the manufacturer has turned out this year such a wonderful variety of striped and damask fabrics and the lovely combinations seen in the new, charming costumes' warrant all the time and trouble spent in making them:

Similarly attractive are these combinations when fashioning the more strictly tailored models. Boleros, in figured silk, messaline or cotton, combine with skirts of similar main cut of collar or revers tion vests are still fashionable

Classic colors will predominate in spring gowns when warm weather causes jackets to be discarded. Nav blue, gray and black and black and white, are the substantial shades on which to place reliance. The fabrics are novel and present much variety; silk stripes in serge and cheviot are a departure from the plain weaves. Cashmere, mousseline, voile, faille.

soft taffeta and crepe for afternoon and evening costumes will prevail, at least until spring has given place to summer. These fabrics are so soft and lend themselves so aptly to drathat they are much in demand:

A combination of fabrics in the gown is guite as smart as in the suit. The two materials are cleverly suit. wrought together, one frequently of the other about the skirt, the surplice waist front and the sleeves. In panels too, this combination is often seen Very attractive is the gown. pic tured here. It was developed in brown agaric brocade. The front of waist and skirt, together with the collar and cuffs are of tan messaline. It has the hall marks of the latest style The waist is in smart Eton effect and the skirt has the fashionable drapery introduced on either side the panel both back and front. With a dress of this design, whether it is intended for early spring or summer wear nd for afternoon or evening, a wrap on loose lines is essential. At no time has it been possible to make this addition to the wardrobe at so little expense as now. To be sure, the material employed may be as rich and expensive as one can afford but the absence of tailored effect obviates expense. The Balkan or Russian style in matelasse or Pompadour silk may be used but the wrap of the dolman type, with its roomy sleeves and generous folds, is to be recommended, as .it is less apt to crush the dainty gown beneath.

A new version of the cape has appeared and is a cross between the cape of former days and the modern coat. It is fashioned in one piece, the back resembling the cape while the front assumes the appearance of the Russian blouse. Developed in any of the new, bright silks, velours or satins, it is very pleasing.

Long, kimono shaped evening wraps remain in good styel, but drapery has been introduced about the hips or at side closing. The left side front is crossed over the right about hip length and gathered into a jet or gold ornament. A pretty coat for wear with lingerie frocks may be made from soft silk of any preferred shade. Above the waistline it is kimono shaped, below it is smartly cutaway in front and terminated in a tasseled point in the back. The extension from the waist has consider. able fulness. Like the gowns, the waistline of the coat is normal or with a tendency toward the lowered line.
