MINING PROBE TO CLOSE TONIGHT

SENATORS HEAR OPERATORS' SIDE OF WEST VIRGINIA TROUBLE

MANY WORKMEN QUITTING

Fears of Fresh Outbreak in Hills are Present, But Outlook is Hopeful

By Associated Press.
Charleston, W. Va., June 17.—The United States Senate committee investigating mining conditions in this State will finish taking testimony here tonight.

Today's testimony was given over to the operators. Senator Swanson, chairman of the committee, said today it was absolutely necessary for members of the committee to be back in Washington this week. News of the critical condition in the hills continued to come into Charleston today.

Although union officials declared they were doing their best to keep their men on Paint and Cabin Creek at work, many men were quitting the mines. Operators said they were having no difficulty running their plants.

Strike Reports Meager.
The committee faces a more serious situation than heretofore in view of the declaration that really amounts to another strike in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek districts. To what extent the districts will be affected by this latest action of the miners was not made known in meager reports received from the mine regions today.

Word from the isolated sections that the strike was on again drifted into Charleston from half a dozen sources, and representatives of miners, miners and state officials sought in vain for definite word from the little camps along the creeks.

Union Attorneys Confident.
The union attorneys before the committee declared they were certain that the men had declined to go back to work today, at meetings held yesterday, but they were unable to make any estimates of the strikers. There were comparatively few union men in the field, they said, but they believed both union and non-union men decided to quit.

With the New River district, a few miles away from the creeks, awaiting only the match to set off a conflagration of excitement, the state officials today watched the situation with fear and trembling. For days the New River miners, numbering 15,000, have threatened trouble and it was feared the new outbreak on Paint and Cabin Creeks would precipitate the struggle.

Operators Are Accused.
The miners meeting at Eskdale and Layford according to reports reaching Charleston, voted to renew the strike on the ground that the operators had not lived up to their agreement to take the strikers back to work without discrimination. Their claim and the story that mine guards had "beaten up" four men on Cabin Creek on Saturday, caused the decision.

POULITSA BIZOU'S WAGE FEATURE IN RIOT CASE.
Ipswich, Mass., June 17.—Judge C. A. Sawyer, at the resumption of the case of nineteen persons charged with rioting during the strike disturbances last week, had examined a mill record indicating that during January, February and March, a maximum of $8.42 and a minimum of $6.99 in wages for a full week of fifty-four hours were paid Poulitsa Bizou, a young Greek girl.

She testified Saturday that during a year and a half in the mill, she received about two and a half dollars a week.

Bellevue, Texas, June 17.—An election has been ordered by the commissioners' court of Clay county for the following: The presentation of a petition with a large number of signatures asking the question of a fifteen cent tax to be voted upon.

The amount of interest displayed by the citizens of the county in good roads makes it nearly certain that the election will carry.

FIERY ORATORY BY SUFFRAGETTE

WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY SPEAKS IN OWN DEFENSE

MILITANCY IS JUSTIFIED

Says Trickery and Treachery of Cabinet Ministers Have Given Ample Cause

By Associated Press.
London, June 17.—An impassioned speech in defense of the outrages committed by militant suffragettes was delivered today in Central Court by Miss Annie Kinney, on trial for conspiracy.

"If I have got to die to get the vote," she said, "I will die willingly, whatever the verdict of the jury today."

Greater interest was taken in today's proceedings than in any previous stage of the trial. Miss Kinney asserted that the action of the Minister Unionists and the speeches of cabinet ministers who she said had asserted that the unfranchised were justified in rebelling to get their grievances remedied, furnished ample warrant for militancy.

"If further justification were necessary," she said, "the trickery and treachery of cabinet ministers supplied it. The present government has treated the aspirations of the women more abominably than any British government since 1867."

Six of the most prominent leaders of the militant suffragette organization and one of their mole supporters were today found guilty of conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property. The women, officials of the Women's Social and Political Union, are Miss Harriet Kerr, Miss Agnes Lakt, Miss Rachel Barrett, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, Miss Annie Kinney and Miss Laura Lennox. The man, Edward Clayton, is an analytical chemist.

NEWSPAPERS THERE, TOO

By Associated Press.
Washington, June 17.—Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, declared before the Senate lobby in investigation committee today that the clause in the sundry civil bill now awaiting the president's signature exempting labor unions and farmers organizations from prosecution under the Sherman law, represented the work of a lobby.

The very bill on the president's desk this morning was put through by a lobby of labor organizations. They know there is class legislation in it. Samuel Gompers admitted to me it was class legislation. Senator Smith added he knew John Norris of the "newspaper people" had been here for free print paper. He added that the "temperance people" had maintained a lobby in Washington.

Senator Smith said he approved of the use of influence by the presidents and said every president since Cleveland had used it.

TWO CENT FARE LAW IN OKLAHOMA IS PROPOSED

Supreme Court Decision Monday Believed to Mean Other States States Will be Upheld

Okahoma City, June 17.—Okohomans were jubilant over news that the supreme court of the United States had sustained the constitutionality of Missouri and Arkansas in their 2c fare cases, since it is generally believed that it opens the way for Oklahoma to win its case. Railroad attorneys said last night they were in no position to determine how the court's decision would affect the Oklahoma case until they could read the full opinion. It is generally admitted by them that the opinion of the Minnesota case delivered last week was a telling one against the carriers' side of the controversy.

Attorney General West was attending court in Guthrie and so not connected with the department could say what Oklahoma's next venture in the litigation would be. From a statement issued by the attorney general Saturday, it is assumed that the State will offer a motion in the federal district court to set the foot's injunction aside.

Attorney General West's position is that the essential conditions were identical in the three States. It is not believed that the litigation will stop, as far as Oklahoma is concerned. No evidence has been taken on the facts.

Judge John Burford of Guthrie, former Chief Justice of the Oklahoma Territorial supreme court and now a member of the State Senate, was agreed upon by the State and the carriers as a special master, but the case was permitted to rest until the Missouri and Arkansas cases were passed upon. The carriers still have their opportunity to show that the Oklahoma 2c rate would be confiscatory, and either side would have an appeal to the supreme court.

Both Gov. Grace and members of the corporation commission believe the State is on the threshold of success, and the former is no little elated over the prospects, since he says it bears out his position in one phase of the controversy with the Legislature.

EXPLORERS SAIL TO FROZEN NORTH

STEPHENSON PARTY LEAVES VICTORIA LATE THIS AFTERNOON

EXPEDITION FOR SCIENCE

Will Spend Three Years in Exploration and Research in Arctic Wilds

By Associated Press.
Victoria, B. C., June 17.—Adjustment of her compass was all that remained to be done on board the steamer Karluk this morning before she left to carry the Stefansson expedition into the Arctic for a three years' trip. (Capt. Bartlett, master of the Karluk said his ship would be steaming north by nightfall.)

The Stefansson Arctic Expedition, whose expenses are paid entirely by the Canadian government, differs from most of the other polar undertakings in that its objects are practical and commercial. Its purposes are to learn whether a solar current exists; to map the islands already discovered east of the mouth of the MacKenzie River; to make a collection of the Arctic flora and fauna; to survey the channels among the islands in the hope of establishing trade routes; to make a geological survey of the islands, which are believed to contain copper and other minerals, and to study the blonde Eskimos of Coronation Gulf, on the mainland south of Victrolandia. No effort will be made to reach the North Pole; that will be left to Amundsen, who will sail into the Arctic next summer. No attempt will be made to bring back any of the blonde Eskimos or to open their country to civilization, which Stefansson says would destroy them. The expedition expects to return to Nome in September, 1916, but may be carried to Greenland, crossing the North Pole on the way.

To Stop At Nome.
The Stefansson expedition, when it leaves Nome, Alaska, on July 20, will be composed of the old barkentine rigged wooden whaler Karluk, 247 tons, and the gasoline powered vessel Alaska, thirty-two tons, which is already in the north and will meet the Karluk at Nome. From Nome the ships will proceed north through Bering Strait into the Arctic Ocean, during the brief period of open water and head east to Beaufort Sea. It is reported that a continent exists north of the sea and the Karluk will steer due north and seek land which Stefansson and his party have planned to establish a base, the Karluk returning to Herschel Island for the winter. The ice in Beaufort Sea may lay hold of the Karluk and carry her toward Greenland, or it may crush the ship into bits. The explorers are prepared for either event. If the Karluk is able to make its way north through the supposed Quaternary of the continent and no land is found, it will, if possible, make its way east to Prince Patrick Island and winter there with the purpose of making winter sledge journeys north and east.

With the Stefansson on the Karluk in the northern party, will be Captain Robert Bartlett, Peary's old sailing master and picked crew of Brits; James Murray, oceanographer; W. T. McKinley, magnetician, University of Glasgow; George Malloch, Canadian government geologist, and a specialist in stratigraphy.

Scientists in Party.
Most of the scientists will join the southern, or Victrolandia, party on the Alaska. From Point Barrow, Alaska, they will head south to establish a base on Simpson Bay, Victrolandia, before winter sets in. In this party will be R. M. Anderson, zoologist, commanding; Fritz Johansen, U. S. government biologist; J. B. O'Neil, mining geologist, member geological survey; Kenneth Chapman and J. R. Cox, Canadian tonographers; Hunt Beauchamp, anthropologist, Paris; Dr. Mackay, ethnologist; Dr. Forber A. Jencks, Schaeckleton's antarctic expedition surgeon of Edinburgh University, and photographers and cinematographers. A thorough scientific expedition will be made of Victrolandia, which is supposed to contain great copper deposits. Visits will also be paid to the blonde Eskimos on the mainland. There is a tradition among the continental Eskimos that Victrolandia, about which little is known, is inhabited by Eskimo tribes.

Stefansson and Anderson are thoroughly familiar with the country between Point Barrow, Alaska, and a point far to the east of the Mackenzie River, that having been the scene of their earlier explorations. In their former journeys they were separated most of the time, and each man lived alone, except as they fell in with bands of Eskimos. Stefansson says there is no fear of starvation for there is plenty of fish and game in the north. Except for some dried, which the ship will carry, the party will subsist as the Eskimos do, on flesh of wild animals, with a few berries in the summer. Both Stefansson and Anderson speak the Eskimo tongue. They know all the Eskimo names of long stretch of coast, and will obtain dogs from them.

Jap Commissioners In America To Learn All Anti-Alien Facts

Washington, June 17.—The arrival shortly of Dr. Juichi Sayeda, representing the chambers of commerce of Japan, and T. Kamiya, who arrived at San Francisco to investigate the situation as regards the California anti-alien law, is awaited with interest by the state department. It is probable that President Wilson will receive the investigators and aid them in securing information. While all war talk as regards Japan is considered booh, still the officials here realize that Japan is taking the California situation much to heart, as it considers its dignity as a people at stake. While the commissioners are in this country seeking first hand facts the spirit of jingoism in the mikado's realm is said to be burning still. More mass meetings to air grievances against the Americans are planned, according to dispatches received by the Japanese embassy her-

DALLAS PARTIES PROPOSE NEW WHOLESALE GROCERY

Want Local Parties to Invest $50,000 in Concern to Be Established Here

W. A. Skinner of Dallas, was here today to present a proposition to the Chamber of Commerce, in which he asked the support of that body in a plan he has launched with the idea of establishing a wholesale grocery house here, and possibly a manufacturing plant which would manufacture some of the goods handled by such jobbing houses. Associated with Mr. Skinner are James A. Bordeaux, D. S. Alter and P. F. Leach, all of Dallas. These gentlemen ask ten men of Wichita Falls to take $5,000 worth of stock apiece in the proposed jobbing house of the Skinner concern. They invest $50,000 of his own money in such concern, provided that amount of stock could be sold here. He would also endeavor to interest retailers of the adjacent country in the proposition. Mr. Skinner said San Antonio had offered him a $50,000 bonus to establish a house there, but that he had asked $100,000 of that city. Ennis offered $25,000, according to Mr. Skinner, but he would not consider that offer at all. Mr. Skinner says that the geographical location of Wichita Falls makes it more desirable than any of the other towns mentioned, and that he would prefer to have a house here than at any of the others, although he might also establish jobbing centers at San Antonio, Galveston and other Texas towns. At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this morning Mr. Skinner did not present his proposition in detail, but asked the club for its moral support. A motion was made and carried, inviting the gentlemen to locate their wholesale house here, but upon further discussion of the motion was explained to mean that the moral support of the Chamber of Commerce be withheld until after the merits of the proposition had been investigated by a committee appointed for that purpose. When a motion had been previously made that a committee be appointed to investigate the proposition, Mr. Skinner said that the reason he ask-

RAIN INTERFERES WITH HARVEST, THRESHERS IDLE

Hot Weather Causes Delay in Getting Wheat Sacked and Outfits Have Lay-Off

Threshing machine men are not particularly delighted to have these rains come along just now. One man started out ten days ago with a brand new outfit, a full crew of food men, and forty dollars worth of groceries in the commissary. Since then he has purchased two more big bills of groceries, has boarded all his men free, has used a lot of coal and up to yesterday morning had threshed only 600 bushels, having been forced to remain idle because of the rain. He started out yesterday morning determined to get some entries on the other side of the ledger during this week. And then it rained yesterday afternoon.

CAR FERRY RAMMED BY GREEK STEAMER

Swinemunde, Germany, June 17.—The Greek steamer Menelaus today rammed a car ferry while it was conveying a train loaded with passengers from Swinemunde across to the opposite landing place, a half hour trip. The side of the ferry was crushed, but the skipper managed to beach the vessel in time to save the passengers.

A Correction

The Times' account of the fire which broke out in the upper story of the Hodges building on Ohio Avenue yesterday morning, the lower story of which was occupied by a stock of groceries belonging to J. E. Bond, at the time of the first fire, and which had been sold by the insurance companies to J. M. Bland, made it appear that Mr. Bland had put in new stock and had suffered another loss by fire which loss was covered by insurance. All of which is error. He had purchased no new stock, and while he had taken the precaution to re-insure the damaged stock, he suffered no loss whatever by the second fire. The damaged stock has now been removed to another building, and in keeping track of it until it is finally and forever disposed of, the Times will do its best to avoid making any more errors.

GOOD YIELDS OF WHEAT ON FARMS NEAR HERE.

J. A. Kemp has 150 acres of wheat, six miles west of town, which is now being threshed and shows a yield of twenty bushels per acre. A report from Newcastle says that a field of over 100 acres between there and Arlington made thirty-six bushels. Mr. Kemp said this morning that the wheat yield of this section is much better than even the most sanguine had hoped, and the quality of the grain is also much better than anticipated.

SEVENTH STREET HILL NOW BEING CUT DOWN

Will Give New and Short Route to Business Section to Floral Heights

About twelve men and teams are now engaged in opening Seventh street to Floral Heights. Entailed in the work is the cutting away of a hill two blocks long. The dirt as it is removed is being used to fill ravines on the other side of the hill. The opening of this street will make a new route to Floral Heights—by far the shortest of any when completed.

WILL PAY VISIT TO TWIN FALLS, IDAHO SOON.

They are to be the guests there of Morrison and Perrine, the men who really made Twin Falls. They "put through" the great irrigation scheme, which made the town a city today although it is but eight years old. These gentlemen were here some time ago as the guests of Kemp and Kell and this is a return visit.

NATIONAL PETROLEUM NEWS TELLS OF P. P. LANGFORD, OIL MAN

LILACS ARE REFERRED TO

Transition From Tenderfoot to Full-Fledged Oil Man is Told in Detail

P. P. Langford is the subject of an interesting sketch in the June number of the National Petroleum News, the occasion being Mr. Langford's becoming a full-fledged oil man. The article is by W. G. Long and follows: Your correspondent usually does not go into the highways and byways in search of a victim. Neither does he write about any one who has not been baptized in salt water and oil from the subterranean depths of the earth; therefore when a man's picture appears in these columns it is a foregone conclusion that he is an oil man. The man this month, two years ago had about as tender a foot as ever stepped onto the hard floor of a derrick. But remember, that was two years ago, and today he has been immersed in the golden fluid of oil, and he is not a Baptist, either.

He was born during the stormy period of October 23, 1861, at Newberry, S. C. When 24 years old he came to Wichita Falls, landing here in 1885, hence he has been here long enough to grow horns, and is a long horn right. But instead of growing horns he grew whiskers and he has about the finest bunch of lilacs that ever got mixed up in the sand-pumpings, and he is as proud of them as he would have been back in his dear old South Carolina had his father given him a pair of red-topped boots.

He did not go into the oil country, but waited for the oil country to come to him, and as everything comes to those who wait, he waited and it came. P. P. Langford began his career as a bank clerk in the old bank building now occupied by the State Bank and Trust Company, on the corner of Seventh street and Ohio avenue. This was a time when there was sure enough outlaws and Indians, and they needed men as well as bookkeepers. This is the same building that was robbed in February 25, 1896, by outlaws who will go down in history as men without a name. They died as they lived under the name of "Crawford and the Kids" and the stone that marks their graves is so marked today. When this bank was robbed P. P. Langford was a clerk, and, as a good soldier would state, he knew how to make a retreat; he outran the first two bullets but the second hit him and you can tell by the place he was shot that he was on the run, but it was through his efforts that the robbery was known and chase given by the local officers which was finished by the famous Texas Ranger Bill McDonald. The robbers were taken to the jail and guarded, where through deceiving McDonald they were afterwards taken out and hanged. You will note by this that P. P. Langford was not a coward, and in 1897 he was elected cashier of the City National Bank, where a large number of the oil men keep their "over-draughts" and your correspondent as well. He was promoted to the vice presidency and here is where he enters into this story as an oil man.

You will note what a high forehead he has, and before he gets I want to say that there is more in that head than you can scratch out with a fine comb. He is in the right niche now, for he is a big, broad gauge fellow, and it would be as hard to keep a man of his ability out of the oil game as it would be to operate an ice plant in a well just what you are thinking that I am going to say. Although he has only seen this one oil field, yet he is as much of an oil man as if he were born, as some men who aspire to poetry would say.

Where the derrick spies are tallest, "And the windings the smallest," Where promoters are the slickest, "And they get your coin the quickest" "In Texas."

There is a saying that "No one loves a fat man," and there is a disposition on the part of the oil fraternity to give a man with whiskers the cold side of the anatomy, but it never pleased P. P. and today the oil men have taken him, whiskers and all, in to the holy of holies of oildom. The position he now holds is one of considerable importance, that of vice president of the biggest bank in the Panhandle. No matter what his salary, he is one of the best assets that any banking institution can have for he can call, every man in the county by name, and if for one, do not believe that story where the man got the word recourse mixed with another that sounded the same.

He has a beautiful residence and growing family. Phate to jerk aside the portieres, but it is too good to keep. When the latest arrival in the Langford household came it was a girl, and it is joy was great. Some of the boys in the bank swear he brought a thousand dollars.

We are glad to welcome you, old scout, into the realms of the oil fraternity. We do this because of your breadth of vision and your disposition to take a fall out of anything that looks good to you. Because you are same and can lose without squealing. You are on the right road and our best wishes are yours, for you are the kind of a man of which oil men are made.

He Alone is Great. I like the man who faces what he must. With step triumphant and a heart of cheer; Who fights the daily battle without faltering trust. See his hopes fall, yet keeps unflinching true. That God is God; that somehow, true and just, His plans work out for mortals; not a tear is shed when fortune, which the world holds dear, Falls from his grasp; better, with love, a crust. Than living in dishonor; envies not. Nor loses faith in man; but does his best. Nor ever murmurs at his humbler lot. But with a smile and words of hope gives zest. To every toiler; he alone is great. Who, by a life heroic conquers fate. —Sarah K. Bolton.

PARTY OF YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY EVENING AT LAKE.

Summer is making its presence felt more and more as the days go by and the arrival of this season of the year brings with it forms of amusement and entertainment that can be enjoyed to the utmost at no other time. Chief among the methods of spending a carefree evening is a picnic at Lake Wichita where the breezes are always cool and the atmosphere delightful. The popularity of that resort is therefore daily increasing in the same proportion as the weather grows warmer. Three or four pleasure parties can now be discovered at the lake every night and those who go once always return and bring others with them. One of the most enjoyable of these affairs that has yet been held this summer was a picnic and supper Monday evening participated in by a few young people, most of whom have been away from town attending school for the last year and have only recently arrived home to spend the holidays. Mrs. Murchison and Miss Foster acted as chaperones, and the party was composed of a few of the friends of Miss Olive Edwards of New York, who is in the city as the guest of her schoolmate, Miss Kathleen Blair. A sumptuous supper was spread upstairs in the pavilion about 3:30 and after supper the time was pleasantly spent in dancing and other forms of entertainments. Those present included Mrs. Murchison and Miss Foster, the chaperones, Misses Olive Edwards, Kathleen Blair, Bess Kill, Bertha May Kemp, Mabelle Jackson, Anne Green, Lillian McGregor and Messrs. Robert Huff, Jerome Stone, Carter McGregor, Joe Hatcher, Ben Bell, J. J. Bonner, Jake Avis.

RECEPTION AT THE ACADEMY FOR MISS ROSE HOWARD.

The reception at the Academy of Music and Art Monday evening for Miss Rose Howard, who arrived recently from Fort Worth, was largely attended and proved a very pleasant occasion. In the receiving line were Mesdames J. L. McKee, J. C. Berney, Wiley Blair and Misses Rose Howard and Helen Ritchie. Those who assisted during the evening included Mesdames H. B. Patterson, J. G. Culbertson, J. T. Montgomery, A. H. Carrigan, T. J. Leicham. A large number called during the evening.

Wichita Falls, Texas, June 17, 1913

That California man who offered Senator Works $1,000 to get him a postoffice, and who was arrested for making the offer, says he thought it no harm to make such a proposition to a United States Senator.

That Nebraska boy who turned down the proposition of his dad, which was for him to refuse to marry the girl of his choice, join the navy and accept as a gift from him $10,000 in cash, did the proper thing. If the father is the right sort of man he ought to feel proud of his offspring and give him the $10,000 anyhow, but the fact that he made such a proposition is tolerably strong evidence that the manhood inherited by the boy didn't come from his father's side of the house.

It's about this way. It interests most of us very much to see these new-fangled split-skirted clothes on pretty girls who are not our kin.—Houston Post. You are right, it certainly comes home to us, to stand around the corner, and hear the many remarks made of pure young ladies wearing apparel that is almost disgraceful, especially when the young lady happens to be our kin. Just think about it; suppose these remarks are made at our sisters, daughters or wives, they are much to some men.—Teague Herald.

Speaking of all this tariff row, it strikes the Times that a man with intelligence enough to cast a ballot should, in order to preserve his self respect, vote for what he wants; and in cases where he does not do this he has little ground to complain if he gets something he does not want. The Democratic platform for the past twenty years has demanded just about the kind of a tariff law as is proposed by the Underwood tariff bill. And those Democrats who supported the Democratic National ticket at the November election, should continue to be Democrats and support the administration.

COLONEL JEFF NOT GUILTY

(From the El Paso Union) Some months ago many Texas papers published a poem lauding that ungainly bird, the pelican and attributing the authorship to Jeff McLemore of State Topics. Jeff came out and denied the soft impeachment, and attributed the authorship to a friend of his living on Pelican Island, off the coast of Texas. And now comes the Nashville, (Tenn.) Banner and Jeff's denial by publishing a stanza of the real "pelican poem" Jeff is supposed to have written, as follows:

Oh, a wondrous bird is the pelican! His beak holds more than his belican. He takes in his beak Food enough for a week, But I'm darned if I know how the helican.

Of course, railroads and manufacturing industries make thriving cities and towns, but without good crops the railroads are left without anything much to haul, and when that is the case the cities and towns in which these railroads center and have large payrolls they (the railroads) are forced to cut down expenses, and that means the cutting off of many crews. But the railroads will not be forced to cut down crews this year. In fact, some of them are already figuring how they are going to secure cars to handle the business that is sure to come to them after the crops that have been produced in this section of country are gathered and ready to be marketed. A trip to the country will convince any old-timer who has resided in this section of the state that the best small grain crop that has been raised in twenty years has been produced this year. Nearly all wheat and oat crops are now cut and in the shock, and threshing is now under way. Prosperous times are ahead for the farmer, and when the farmer prospers, everybody prospers.

READY FOR THE FRAY

(From the Honey Grove Signal) A joint debate on "Buttermilk vs. Pot Liquor" between Buttermilk Lowry and Pot Liquor Green would be a great stunt for the Dallas Press-Club to pull off, in view of the fact that a great many members of that organization are "agin" the demon rum. Again we are eager for the fray. In truth, we are a warrior bold and peace has been troubling our mind since the last prohibition election. We know something of the fame of Tyler spoilslanders. We know that Hogg and Hubbard were thundering Jones, that Herndon walked over a pathway of polemics to victory and glory, that Duncan's oratorical blade is sharper than a two-edged sword, and that Con-

BELLE OF WICHITA-IT'S BETTER

Johnson has routed every debater that dared tread upon his feet. But we are unafraid, even when threatened by the Goliath of the Tyler tribe. We, too, have perforated the prop, somewhat and have some scalps dangling at our belt, even now. That the Tyler warrior may know he is not matched against one who has never faced warm air let us say that our short mouthed cypriote came and to conquer, but when it sighted us two hundred yards distant it tucked its tail, unnerved and unstrung. If the pot liquor apostle would prove his boasted valor let him measure lances with the champion and defender of the only beverage that is fit for the gootie of mankind. Our chapeau is in the circle.

AND SUCH IS POLITICS

(From the Waco Times-Herald) In other words, our own Cullen F. is not exactly an aspirant, but he is not going to dodge should the lightning come his way. It's going to be a beautiful howl.—Dallas Times-Herald.

The man in politics is always looking for a place to trip a possible rival. There is none guiltless—no, not one. If Cullen gets the endorsement of the prohibitionists, he must walk over the dead bodies, so to speak, of LaHe and Tom Ball and Will Mayes and one Johnson and possibly William Poindeexter.

If Tom Ball gets the endorsement, Cullen will be among the slain. One victor, innumerable dead. So with the rival faction also. If John Henry Kirby gets the backing of the "anti" forces, there on the hot sands will lie the bodies of Charley Mills and Chester Terrell and three or four others whose names do not occur to us at this time.

If Samuel Palmer Brooks really starts for the senate he will get many a keen thrust from those whom he has heretofore reckoned his dearest friends.

Those who play the game are merciless; they cling and they crush according to circumstances.

We had a fine example of this in the Taft-Roosevelt combat; the friends of yesterday came to be bitter personal enemies because each stood to thwart the ambition of the other.

Many think that Mr. Bryan was playing for the nomination at Baltimore, causing him to crush Champ Clark and expecting to next dispose of Brother Woodrow, but like Napoleon at Waterloo, the proper support was lacking at the critical moment.

Cullen Thomas, we are almost persuaded, has the inside track on his brother runners, but there's danger at the turn when all the others are in cahoots, (as they say over in Van Zandt, to foul the favorite).

THE WANING LIGHT OF THE FALL-EN POLITICAL STARS

Editor Times: It may be possible for a political juggler to evolve into a statesman; but, once reputed to be a statesman, 'tis sad to see him descend again to jiggery.

Anent the tariff legislation now pending before the Congress of the United States, the predatory interests are making their final stand in a bitter fight against the Underwood bill.

The powerful influence of the interlocking combinations aided by defeated politicians, are beating the tom-toms and publishing scarehead articles to frighten the people and intimidate our representatives in the National council.

This was anticipated by President Wilson and his co-workers in their pre-election speeches. Observation and experience in previous campaigns justified them in believing, that the same old crowd would fight any reform proposed for relief of the common people, and necessarily there would be a clash with protected interests, backed up by the Republican party, whose well known policy and traditions was to wage a bitter attack on all Democratic measures for tariff reform.

But, what President Wilson and his co-workers could not anticipate was, how many men professing to be "Democrats," could be swayed by protected interests to use the talent and influence to combat the platform pledges of the party. Especially the tariff bill to meet the demand of the people, in their cry for relief from the high cost of living, forced on the consumer to insure a profitable investment to the manufacturers.

The President and all true democrats, have a right to question the loyalty of any man who opposes the Underwood bill by arguments to protect any industry, owned and controlled by combinations that shut out combinations that shut out competition and appreciate the prices of the necessities of life. This doctrine is opposed to the fundamental principles of the democratic party that advocates "the greatest good to the greatest number," who are without dispute the bonum of food products and other household necessities.

Outside of the infant industry protective policy of the founders of the Republic and the war revenue policy of the Republican party, there never was any excuse for the protective tariff. Through their political bureau the Republican party has worked the protective policy to a frazzle to reward their henchmen for political campaign contributions.

Voters have become wise to this condition and demanded a change. Relying upon the platform pledges of the democratic party they elected Wilson, Marshall and a majority in Congress to carry out those pledges of reform.

O. S. Williams of Bowie

The "Colorado-to-Gulf" party which has been making a trip down the Denver road, reached Wichita Falls late yesterday afternoon and after spending last night here, departed this morning for Fort Worth by way of Bowie. The party included O. L. Williams of Bowie, president of the Panhandle division of the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway Association; M. E. Leonard, engineer of the highway, and Herman Dodds of the Blue Book association.

Mr. Dodds, on this trip, will settle, probably for good and forever, the question of whether the Bowie route or the Jacksboro-Mineral Wells route from Wichita Falls to Fort Worth shall constitute part of the Meridian road. There has been much rivalry between the towns along the two routes and Mr. Dodds will settle the question on this trip.

President Williams said that while two bad places were found in this county, one just north of Iowa Park and one right here in the city limits of Wichita Falls on the south approach to the Wichita River bridge, the roads in this county were in good condition. There was more evidence of new work between Wichita Falls and Electra, he declared, than in any dozen counties along the line. Mr. Williams was very optimistic over the proposed highway and believes the towns along the Denver will win over the other proposed routes.

A large committee of Wichitans met the party at Electra and escorted them to this city. The visitors were taken to Lake Wichita last night and were otherwise entertained during their stay in this city.

CHICKASAW INDIANS IN TRIBUTE TO U. S. FLAG
Gather at Tribal Capital and Carry out Program of Unique Exercises

Tishomingo, Ok., June 17.—On the campus of Chickasaw capital a large crowd of full and mixed blood Chickasaw Indians gathered to pay allegiance to the American flag.

In a fitting ceremony the Chickasaw fullbloods raised the United States flag and the tribe swore allegiance to it in the presence of a large assembly. Each representative signed a parchment affirming his faith in the Declaration of Independence.

Phonographic speeches of Mr. Abbott, Secretary Lane and President Wilson were well received.

When Secretary Lane said, "Most of the big game in your country and mine—the Western country—such as buffalo, elk and antelope, has gone. There are just a few wolves left. When I have been hunting I have made a fire which protected me against the wolves at night, and there was always some man in the party who would watch so he could throw a firebrand out to scare them off. I have been chosen by the Big Chief in the White House to sit up and watch to keep the wolves as far away from you as I can." The Indians cheered loudly.

The climax was reached when President Wilson addressed them as "brothers." Instead of the long-established custom of calling himself their big white Chief.

J. George Wright, Commissioner of the Five Civilized Tribes, made a brief statement. Several fullblood Chickasaws spoke in their native tongue, tongue, among them Forbes Cravat.

After speaking Chickasaw he spoke the same in English. Ex-Representative Joe Brown spoke and Rube Anderson interpreted.

The ceremony had a very impressive influence on the fullblood.

C. A. Thomas and H. T. A. Lier have purchased the Gupton Tailor shop at 704 Seventh street and have taken possession. The young men are both well known in the city and have had experience in the tailoring business, and should make a grand success. They will make a strong bid for business in their line and will aim to give satisfaction in all work.

TRIBUTES TO FAMOUS MEN
National Museum Installs Collection of Military Decorations—New Medals on Exhibition

Several of the exhibits in the Division of history in the National Museum have recently been rearranged, to make room for new and valuable additions to the collections.

Prominent in the recently placed exhibits is a series of medals awarded by the United States government, including the naval medal of honor, the certificate of merit badges of the navy and marine corps, the Dewey congressional medal, the West Indies naval campaign, the campaign badges of the army and navy, and the decorations given to members of the army, navy and marine corps for proficiency in the practice of small arms. Altogether these 24 medals make an interesting display, especially calculated to attract attention on account of their bright-colored, distinguishing ribbons. Other medals of the same type are to be seen in several of the collections of personal relics and mementos of distinguished men.

The medals recently installed in the National museum include those of Commander Matthew Fontaine Maury, eminent as a pioneer in the scientific investigation of the currents and meteorology of the ocean. He was of a practical turn of mind, and the main object of his studies was to increase the safety of navigation and promote the interests of commerce. In recognition of his researches he received orders of knighthood from several foreign governments, was made a member of numerous scientific societies, and was presented with many degrees and medals.

CAPITOL'S HANGING GARDENS
Grow in Long Rectangular Granite Boxes on Marble of Three Sides of Building.

The hanging gardens of the Capitol are cheerful with their winter plantings. These hanging gardens grow in the long rectangular granite plant boxes, on the marble terrace on the west front and the north and south sides of the capitol. In summer, canna, scarlet sage and other brilliant flowers glow there higher than the top of trees in the west grounds. Some of these boxes have been set with small evergreen specimens of the cone family and others have been planted with bulbs of hyacinth, crocus and tulip, which will blossom at the early touch of spring.

In these granite-bound beds have been set thickets of small balsam fir, hemlock, spruce, Cephalaonian fir, Cilician fir, white fir, Noble silver fir, Nordman's fir, European silver fir, Chinese arbutus, golden Chinese arbutus, Mount Atlas silver cedar, Indian cedar, cedar of Lebanon, large fruited yew, blue Colorado spruce, Austrian pine, Swiss stone pine, Himalayan pine, Corsican pine, Xuzho pine, bull pine, red pine, Scotch pine, little Douglas spruce, silver retinospora, golden retinospora, spreading English yew, Thuja globosa, pyramidal arbutus, dwarf hegling, Azalea amoena and rounded leaf boxwood.

On the marble steps of the marble balustrade of the west staircase 18 cedars have been planted in the bronze tubs that top these steps. In these tubs multi-colored flowers bloomed and vines trailed last summer.

Sweetwater—The Nolan County Fair Association has started work on the annual catalog which will announce a premium list of two thousand dollars. An active campaign for exhibits has been inaugurated over the county and the exhibition is receiving liberal support.

WIRE FENCE AROUND ISLANDS
Uncle Sam Takes Possession of All Reclaimed Lands on the Potomac River.

By direction of General Bixby, chief of engineers, 6000 feet of wire fence have been placed around two small islands in the Potomac river opposite Georgetown, just below Annapolis island. That action was taken at the suggestion of the attorney general to indicate that the islands are the property of the United States.

It is in line with the recently announced intention of the federal government to take complete jurisdiction over all the reclaimed area along the Virginia shore behind the riprap training dike being built along the south side of the Virginia channel from the lower end of Annapolis island to the Highway bridge. That area is now covered with water, but is being filled in by the deposit of material dredged from the channel to improve navigation.

Dust Always In Air.
There is no such thing as dustless air. No matter what precautions are taken, particles of dust will always be found in the atmosphere, even in a hermetically sealed room. There are very rarely less than 100 particles of dust in a cubic centimeter of air, and, in big cities, there are sometimes as many as 150,000 in that exceedingly small space.

Dust has no special color, since it is composed of all sorts of things—particles of coal and other minerals, grains of sand blown from the earth's surface, pollen, and other forms of vegetable matter, etc. The reason it looks black against a white surface and vice versa is that the particles that are visible against a dark surface are naturally the light ones, whereas when dust settles on a light surface, the dark particles catch the eye.

Population is 94,496,000.
The latest estimate of the population of continental United States places the figure at 94,496,000 January 2, 1913. This figure was used by treasury department experts in determining that of the total money in circulation in the country on that date, $3,250,727,580. The amount per capita was $34.72.

News And Notes of Interest In The World of Sports

By Associated Press.
New York, June 17.—With the preliminary play in the international contest for the possession of the Davis Cup, emblematic of the world's lawn tennis championship, completed, the results in the final and challenge rounds are being awaited with interest by followers of the court game in all parts of the world. In no other play of international character has the effort to win and retain the championship been so frequent and sustained. Since the cup was first donated by Dwight F. Davis for world-wide competition, eight countries or colonies have made repeated tries for first honors with the racquet.

The opening play for the Davis Cup was held in 1900, with the United States and United Kingdom teams competing. The American players retained the trophy during the following two years, but in 1903 the famous Doherty brothers lifted the prize. Nineteen hundred and five witnessed the first real international play, when France, England, Australasia and the United States all entered players, and when the tournaments were ended England still held the trophy. Again, in 1906, Australasia, United States and the United Kingdom were represented and the challenge round saw the United States defeating the United Kingdom.

The next summer America forced Australasia out of the running but lost to England. The real upset came in 1907, for the Antipodian players eliminated the United States team and, by defeating England's States, took the cup "Down Under." Both England and America tried to recover the trophy during the next two years without success. Nineteen hundred and ten was an off year so far as cup play was concerned, but in 1911 England and the United States made another unsuccessful attempt to wrest the prize from the island continent. England came back again last summer and succeeded in taking the trophy back to England.

During this stretch of years thirty-eight teams have been entered for cup play, as follows: England, twelve; United States, ten; Australasia, eight; Belgium, two; France, three; Germany, one; Canada, one; South Africa, one. In these matches seventy-eight matches in singles have been played and seventeen matches in doubles, not counting those during the preliminaries of the 1913 series.

Mike Murphy's Death.
The death of Mike Murphy, American Olympic team and University of Pennsylvania athletic trainer, leaves a vacancy in American athletics which it will be hard to fill. Jack Mookley of Cornell and Keene Fitzpatrick of Princeton, are the most logical successors for the position of Olympic team trainer in 1914 and 1916.

Murphy was a wonderful judge of athletes, either in their embryo or perfected stages. He could tell a future star in either track or field sport after witnessing one tryout, and seldom was his judgment at fault. Once he had an athlete under his charge he proceeded to develop the performer to the utmost of his capacity. Murphy knew every angle of the athletic game and was a close student of personal character, which in part accounts for his really wonderful career as a trainer. He knew whether to drive or coax his charges in training, and suited his methods to the man in hand.

One of the greatest tributes ever paid to Mike Murphy was made by Jack Mookley, the Cornell trainer. During a talk at an intercollegiate meet in Cambridge several years ago, Mookley said: "Mike Murphy put the college athletic trainer on a clean and honorable pedestal and made it a business that any man might be proud to follow as a life work. His efforts as the dean of trainers made it possible for many others to copy his methods and secure lucrative positions. Much of the inspiration shown by his followers is due to Murphy's example and personality. There is only one Mike Murphy."

Yale-Harvard Boat Race.
When the Yale and Harvard varsity eight's paddle to the starting line at New London next Friday, the flash of the starter's pistol will mark the sixty-first anniversary of the initial boat race between these collegiate rivals. Next to the annual Oxford-Cambridge regatta, it is the oldest and most famous event of university aquatic sports. Viewing the picturesque scene on the Thames river at New London, it is hard to conjecture a comparison with the first race rowed way back in 1852. Although there had been more or less rowing by student boat clubs at both Harvard and Yale, beginning about 1844, it was not until eight years later that a direct challenge was sent from the New Haven oarsmen to those at Cambridge. The "duel" was accepted by the Onondia Club for Harvard and the date set for August 3, the race to be rowed on Lake Winnepesaukee, Center Harbor, N. H.

According to one version, Yale sent two eight-oared barges named Lindine and Shamrock to compete against Harvard's Onondia. Another account of that day gave the Yale entry as Halcyon. These are but details, however, for the race resulted in a Harvard victory, the Onondia finishing first in a two mile pull by about two lengths and the judges stating that the time "was about ten minutes."

From this small beginning came the annual regatta, which in Yale-Harvard sports divides popularity only with the yearly football game.

Athletics in Europe.
Cable dispatches from France intimating that there is a possibility of the French cabinet requesting parliament to create an office, the occupant of which shall devote his time and talent to the direction and cultivation of athletics and sport, is but another illustration of the lengths to which European countries are going in their desire to foster amateur athletic competition.

It has been repeatedly stated by American athletic authorities that European countries are advancing so rapidly in athletics that by the time the Olympic games of 1920 are held, the United States team will no longer be an overwhelming favorite for the first place in the point score tables.

Incidentally, these same students of America and professional sport in Europe have already predicted that eventually there will be a place in the president's cabinet for a "Secretary of Recreation." This is not so absurd as it may appear on first sight. Almost every city of any size in the United States today has a playground commission, or some similar body or individual whose duty it is to prepare for and govern the activities of the children in the city parks and playgrounds.

SILK FARMERS IN ITALY
GET ADVANCE ON CROPS

Seventy-Five Per Cent of Value is Paid Before Bate is Finally Closed

Milan, Italy, June 17.—Members of the American Commission on Agricultural Cooperation were shown through the largest silk warehouse in northern Italy today. The enterprise is financed by the silk growers of the district, and represents one of the most successful co-operative adventures undertaken by Italian landowners. It gives the farmers the dual service of affording cheap storage and of securing for them sufficient credit to enable them to control the marketing of their silk. The stock ownership of any one farmer in the warehouse is limited and the business is conducted on a cash basis, the profits being distributed as dividends at the end of the year. Many members of the commission declared that the visit suggested ideas that might be profitably adopted by American farmers, especially in the case of cotton and grain growers.

At the season when the silk cocoons are gathered they are sent by the farmers to their warehouse. A number of cocoons are taken from each sack and tested in order to determine the quality of the silk obtainable from each lot. The process of testing was thoroughly explained to the members of the commission. The cocoons are first soaked in boiling water and the coarse outer covering is removed. This is sold for the manufacture of spun silk. After the removal of this cover the cocoon represents a spool of extremely fine silk thread. A foot or so of this thread is unwound from several cocoons and the thin threads are run through a needle and wound over a spool. The thicker thread thus produced is then tested in various ways for durability and is put under a magnifying glass to show up any defects. Similar tests are also made with silk from oriental and other cocoons and in this way an accurate estimate is made of the market value of the crop which the farmer has placed in the warehouse. Armed with the certificate of the warehouse, the farmer can go to a bank and secure a loan for seventy-five per cent of the value of his goods in storage.

Farmers Can Wait.
Of course, with seventy-five per cent of the total value of his crop in his pocket or placed to his credit at the bank, the farmer does not need to sell his crop for some time. If the market is bad he can hold his produce for a rise. The necessity under which the farmers of many sections of the United States labor, of disposing of their crop the moment it is harvested in order to get money

Opinion of the United States Supreme Court

Rendered on Bank Overdrafts

"A usage to allow customers to overdraw and have their checks and notes charged up without present funds in the bank, stripped of all technical disguise, the usage and practice, thus attempted to be sanctioned, is a usage and practice to misapply the funds of the bank; and to connive at the withdrawal of same, without any security, in favor of certain privileged persons. Such a usage and practice is surely a manifest departure from the duty, both of the directors and cashier, as can not receive any countenance in a court of justice. It could not be supported by any vote of the directors, however formal; and therefore, whenever done by the cashier, is at his own peril and upon the responsibility of himself and his sureties. It is anything but well and truly executing his duties as cashier."

The above is an exact copy of decision of the United States Supreme Court.

We ask our customers and friends to be careful and not draw checks that will create overdrafts.

THEFT FROM POLICEMAN RIGHT IN THE CITY HALL

Some Real Mean Person Takes Lodge Pin Out of Officer's Coat

Anybody who would steal from a policeman is bold enough and mean enough to shove a little chicken into the creek, but someone stole a Moose lodge pin from Officer Graves while his coat was left hanging in the police station. The pin was stolen some time Saturday night. The entire police force is on the trail of that pin, for when a petty thief can make away with swag right from the police station, things have come to a pretty pass and for the good of the service that thief must be apprehended.

Emerson Springs

"The easiest riding buggy in the world." is our claim for Emerson vehicles. We purchase the finest spring used in vehicle construction. They are highly polished, oil tempered and never get loose in the heads, will not bind or wear on the bolt and no dirt can work its way into the head to cut out the bearings.

You will never find any Emerson buggy pitch to the front or rear, but ride perfectly level under all conditions, and as comfortable with one person as with two.

Emerson Auto Seats

We use yellow poplar exclusively of the finest quality, not less than 26 inches in width. The frames and posts are of ash, thoroughly reinforced, so that we never expect a seat returned unless damaged by an accident or misuse.

Manufacturers using cottonwood seats can quote much lower prices on what "looks like an Emerson," but when the vehicles are put in service, trouble commences, corners open up, posts give way, and the undercoats are absorbed by the open grain of the cottonwood.

Emerson Tops

We point with pride to the length and beauty of the tops we use on our vehicles. The quarters are 14 inches in depth and 50 inches in length.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION MEETS AT MINNEAPOLIS

Fee Splitting and Other Alleged Evils to Receive Attention of Doctors. Minneapolis, Minn., June 17.—The report of the judicial council condemning the evils of secret "fee splitting" and the giving of commissions by physicians and surgeons caused unusual interest in the house of delegates of the American Medical Association, which convened here yesterday. A resolution was offered which will be acted on later in the week, demanding expulsion from the association as a penalty for physicians who practice either of these evils.

Dr. Abraham Jacob of New York, the retiring president, presided at the session. Tomorrow he will be succeeded by Dr. John M. Abernethy of Nashville, Tenn., after his installation, which will take place at a public meeting at the University of Minnesota. The membership of the association last year increased from 74,237 to 77,813; while the membership of fifty-two constituent state associations during the year grew from 70,021 to 70,538, according to the report of the secretary, Dr. Alexander Craig of Chicago. There are 2,901 component county societies, organized in 2,916 counties in the United States. The report of the board of trustees showed the business of the association to be in a prosperous condition. Special attention was given to the work of the Journal of the American Medical Association in investigating and exposing frauds.

NINETY PER CENT of the people who take medicine do not know whether Phenacetine is made in Germany or grows wild in Kansas. They do not know whether Chloroform is indicated in Typho Malaria or a specific for disappolated affections. They do not know whether Homatrophine is worth fifty cents a grain or two dollars a barrel. They do not know these things and will never know because it takes half of a lifetime to learn them. So you are at the mercy of the man who fills your prescriptions both as to quality and price. However we think the man who would take advantage of your not knowing to charge you too much or give you inferior drugs in your prescriptions would take your purse if opportunity offered. Our prescription department is the pride of the business and is on the square. Give us a chance to show you.

Comfort and Beauty Talcum Powder. It is only natural that a powder which soothes and refreshes your skin will bring comfort and beauty. No housewife would think of paying the same price for every baking powder on the market. There is just as much difference in talcum powders, but few people know it, and all powders sell at about the same price. You owe it to yourself to be careful what you put on your face. It is just as important as what you eat. The talcum we sell is made from the purest and best materials. It costs us more than the other kind but it DOESN'T COST YOU ANY MORE. If it pays us to sell this kind on a far smaller margin of profit, it stands to reason that it pays you to buy it.

DIVINE ATTRIBUTES Love and respect for those who have departed this life are two of the higher attributes that distinguish us from the lower animals. We erect beautiful and lasting MEMORIALS to commemorate the life and death of those we hold dear, because of this DIVINE emotion we are pleased to call LOVE, yet no words in any of the love or dead languages can encompass or express the things of the heart, or the thoughts and emotions that make of us more than beings of less intelligence. There is a distinction between frailty and robust health, between wisdom and ignorance, between morality and immorality, but there is no distinction between LOVE and MEMORY. That which clothes in a mantle of charity and wreathes in forget-me-nots. We express these divine emotions as nearly as the human hand and loving hearts can, with our LASTING MEMORIALS. The new glass plant will be in operation by August 1, according to the present plans of the builders, and the Fairview Heights Company hopes to have many of these dwellings ready for occupancy by that time. DIRECT PRIMARY LAW URGED IN NEW YORK. Albany, N. Y., June 17.—Governor Sulzer submitted to the Legislature, convened in extraordinary session, a special message urging the passage of his direct primary bill, which was defeated at the recent regular session.
