PRETTY GAME IS LOCALS' VICTORY

DRILLERS PUT UP SNAPPY EXHIBITION WITH GOOD WORK IN BOX

ERRORS BY DURANT HELP

Outfield Gives Excellent Support. Phillips Out of Game As Team Leaves on Trip

A healthy revival of the old-time life and pep enabled the Drillers to capture the closing bill of the Durant series, three to one. Effective pitching by Brady, backed by excellent support, held the visitors to one tally, while five hits and some Durant errors gave the locals enough to cop the percentage.

The flux managed to get in its work just as the team started on its trip, laying Phillips out with a threatened attack of appendicitis. Lawson played second and covered it very nicely, but Phillips will be needed on the trip. Big Naylor has joined the squad as one of the catching string. The outfield was kept busy yesterday, getting eleven put outs out of twelve chances. Brown missing one hard one. Workman pulled in a very dangerous one in the first and both Brown and Morris jerked in drives that threatened to get away. Brown also started at the bat, getting three hits out of three times up. Durant out-hit the locals, five to six, but was able to do little with men on bases.

How They Scored.
Durant's only score came in the first. With one out, Johns and Edens singled, putting the former on third, whence he scored on Wicks' sacrifice fly. In the third with two out, Johns hit for three bases, but died on third; he was the only Durant player to reach that station and only five Durant players got as far as second.

Wichita Falls tied the score in the fourth. Nevitt singled and was caught trying to stretch it to second. Brown singled and scored on Lawson's three bagger. In the sixth, Nevitt was safe on Edens' error and went to third on Brown's two base drive. Nicholson hit to second base and Johns fooled the grounder, allowing Nevitt to score. Lawson walked and Workman hit a grounder to second that scored Brown. Campbell struck out seven batters and did not yield a hit in five of the eight innings that he pitched.

The smallest Sunday crowd of the season saw the game, the poor attendance resulting from the defeats administered the Drillers recently.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emery, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with a awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work."

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 boxes, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years of age, but feel as good as I did when only 16.

Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it. Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Auxiliary Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions on your case and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," in plain wrapper, N.C. 121 (Advertisement)

How Does It Happen That Wichita Falls? Here Is The Answer

Why did Wichita Falls? Because Henri Etta Archers Arrow and Bow knife. Then she saw Dick Worsham self while in Scotland on the way to Sey Mour of Benjamin, having stopped to Jolly Luke Wilson at Huff station after a visit to a New Castle in Young county. This was on Monday while on Tuesday, she expected her friends May Belle and Allen Dale, in the again brother Harold and sister Electra, who were on the way from Floyd (where they went to get a Plainview of a Matador near Guthrie), were delayed by Burke, a neighbor, who wanted to show them the Iowa Park close by. Is it any wonder therefore, that Wichita Falls? Such a series of mishaps would cause any one to fall, tumble or roll over, even though business was good and the town full of Byers from Petrolia, all of whom saw Burk Burn et near Red River. So she just bid Carey and Channing Goodnight, who were on the Panhandle anyhow and telegraphed Claude and Vernon to come down and help her Wash Burn and Am Rillo and let it go at that. It was a Dickens of a mess you bet, but now that it has been explained, it is as lucid as Lake Wichita water when there is mud in the pipes.

JONES IS FOUND GUILTY ON PANDERING CHARGE

Jury Fixes Sentence at Five Years in Penitentiary, Minimum Penalty in Such Case.

The jury in the E. J. Jones case brought in a verdict, guilty at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, after having had the case under consideration for sixteen hours. Jones was charged with pandering. This conviction is one of the first in the State under the new law which makes pandering a felony.

The minimum penalty as fixed by law is five years in the penitentiary. The maximum is one thousand years in the E. J. Jones case the jury prescribed the minimum penalty.

The Jones case has attracted considerable attention locally. This is the second trial of the case, the jury in the first trial disagreeing, being ten for acquittal and two for conviction. At the first trial, however, the State's chief witness had refused to testify, and this left the prosecution practically without proof of the guilt of the defendant. At the second trial, however, the State's witness, Lillian Powell, showed that she had undergone a change of heart, and her testimony sends her former lover to the pen for five years.

The defendant's father, a barber of Elk City, Okla., has done all in his power to assist the acquittal of his thirty and industrious. The son and gave him from the pen. The elder Jones has been married since coming to Wichita Falls. The bride is a woman of Elk City. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are stopping at the Rhodes rooming house on Scott avenue, formerly the Scott avenue rooming house. Attorneys have been retained to

TELLS HOW DREAM INFLUENCED LIFE

HON. R. E. TAYLOR OF HENRIETTA SPEAKS AT BAPTIST SERVICE

OTHER NEWS OF CHURCHES

Morning Service To Begin at 10:30 at Baptist Church—Endeavor Delegates Report

The story of how a dream changed the current of his ways and made him an active worker in the church was told yesterday morning by Hon. R. E. Taylor, an attorney of Henrietta, who spoke at the First Baptist Church. The Baptists are developing the work of the laymen in this section and the address by Judge Taylor was the first of a number that it is expected to have.

"A Wasted Life" was the subject of Judge Taylor's address and he drew an inspiring and forceful lesson from his theme. In the dream of which he spoke, he seemed to be passing through a long canyon whose steep walls afforded no means of egress; finally, when he came to the end, he heard music and found a meeting in progress. This dream, he declared, convinced him that his past life had not been as useful as he could have made it, and since that time he has taken an active and unselfish part in church work.

Men were wasting their lives, said Judge Taylor, by remaining away from regular church services and falling to enlist in religious work when their services were constantly needed. He spoke of many of the sins of the times and of the necessity for resisting the temptations that beset men on every side. The story of Lazarus and the rich man was recounted by the speaker, who showed the analogy in the lives of many men of the present day.

Judge Taylor said that without the co-operation of the laymen, the church could not gain ground; there were many things, he declared, that a layman could do where a pastor might fail, and he closed with an appeal to the laymen to enlist actively in the work of the church. The address was heard with much interest and was deeply appreciated.

The Sunday school of the First M. E. Church will have its annual picnic tomorrow at Lake Wichita and the young people are looking forward to a pleasant time.

Dr. J. W. Hill, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, is in Georgetown in connection with Southwestern University affairs, and Dr. J. L. McKee of the First Presbyterian Church preached at both services yesterday. Two large congregations heard forceful sermons dealing with the crucifixion. At the morning service, Miss Elden of Seymour sang a solo and Miss Mabel Simpson sang in the evening, both numbers being very pleasing.

The Baptist Church has changed the hour of its morning services from 11 to 10:30, so as to enable members of the congregation to get home before the heat of the day is at its worst. It is expected that other congregations will follow the Baptists' example.

Chairs for the primary department of the First M. E. Church were purchased last week, and the young pupils are now in more comfortable quarters.

The M. E. Church, South, is planning to install electric fans to make the auditorium more comfortable during hot weather. The Baptist church has already installed fans.

On next Thursday evening at 8:15 at the Baptist Church, there will be a special meeting of the Sunday school's teachers and officers; this will be in the nature of a social session, with a special program that promises to be of much interest.

The delegates to the State convention of Christian Endeavor societies made their reports yesterday morning at the Christian Church, giving interesting accounts of the work of the meeting. Wichita Falls was honored by the election of Patrick Henry as president of the organization.

Yesterday was observed in many cities throughout the land as "Anti-Cigarette Sunday" as part of the crusade against the use of tobacco. No services of this nature were held in Wichita Falls, so far as known.

Services are being held at the First M. E. Mission in the factory addition every Thursday evening, with good attendance. Rev. J. E. Coe conducts the services.

A committee from the Christian Church last week went to Dallas to study plans for a pipe organ, which the congregation expects to install in the handsome new building.

The traction company had cars held at the corner of Tenth and Lamar yesterday morning for the benefit of the Methodists and Presbyterians, who were thus enabled to get home promptly. The arrangement was greatly appreciated.

Walker W. Vick, Stage Manager of Wilson's Inauguration Rewarded

Washington, June 23.—The appointment of Walker W. Vick of Burlington, N. J., as customs receiver at Santo Domingo is very favorably received. Mr. Vick gained a wide reputation for his business efficiency through the way in which he handled the funds of the Democratic national committee. The post to which he has been appointed is one of the most important in the gift of the administration, because all the fiscal affairs of Santo Domingo come under the supervision of the receiver general. He will have charge of ten custom houses, the Haitian border interests and the $20,000,000 bond issue floated recently. This office carries a salary of $6,500 a year. It is provided by treaty arrangement between the United States and Santo Domingo and the President of the United States has the right to name the collector. Mr. Vick will be required to live in Santo Domingo. Mr. Vick is assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee and was secretary of the inaugural committee that had charge of the arrangements for the inauguration of President Wilson. They called him the stage manager of the inauguration. He has been a life wire from the start in Wilson's behalf. He is a native of North Carolina and practices law in New York. When Woodrow Wilson was a candidate for governor of New Jersey Mr. Vick took charge of his political interests in Bergen county.

Opinion of the United States Supreme Court

Rendered on Bank Overdrafts

"A usage to allow customers to overdraw and have their checks and notes charged up without present funds in the bank, stripped of all technical disguise, the usage and practice, thus attempted to be sanctioned, is a usage and practice to misapply the funds of the bank; and to connive at the withdrawal of same, without any security, in favor of certain privileged persons. Such a usage and practice is surely a manifest departure from the duty, both of the directors and cashier, as can not receive any countenance in a court of justice. It could not be supported by any vote of the directors, however formal; and therefore, whenever done by the cashier, is at his own peril and upon the responsibility of himself and his sureties. It is anything but well and truly executing his duties as cashier."

The above is an exact copy of decision of the United States Supreme Court.

We ask our customers and friends to be careful and not draw checks that will create overdrafts.

District Attorney Scurry is of the opinion that the law as to padding should be amended, and if amended, he thinks it will be much easier to secure a conviction. As the law now stands, the lowest penalty for padding is five years in the penitentiary and no limit fixed for the highest term it can be made for life. In some instances, a life sentence is not too severe for such an offense, but in other cases, even the lowest penalty—that of five years, is in the opinion of the jurors as well as the prosecuting attorney, a little severe, and on account of that feeling, rather than return a verdict assessing the minimum penalty of five years, jurors disagree and the jury is finally discharged, a miscarriage of justice being the result. If the law could be amended in such way as to make the penalty for such offenses from one or two years in the penitentiary to a lifetime sentence—leaving it to the jury to fix the time, there would be more convictions under the law than now, in the judgment of the prosecuting attorney and the Times is of the opinion that his way of viewing the matter is correct. The case of the nature in the district court last week, was of that character that a shorter term than was finally agreed upon by the jury would have been sufficient for the offense committed, but the jury, as the Times understands it, did not want to give the defendant five years, and yet did not want him to escape punishment for his offense under the law as it was. The jury in this case would have taken advantage of it. For this reason the law should be amended.

A LAUDABLE SUGGESTION

Have your money lying idle that you would like to put out at good interest, and have it well secured? Let the Banner tell you how to invest it. There is in every neighborhood a least one bright boy who after graduation at the public school, would like to go higher, but for the lack of means cannot do so. Loan this boy money enough to carry him through the State University with the understanding that when he graduates he gets a paying position he pays you back with interest. Nine out of ten would cheerfully pay a debt of this kind, and would remember you with gratitude as long as he lived. You would have the satisfaction of knowing that through your generosity a boy had been raised from obscurity to a position that would give him a chance to make a great man of himself—Cave Banner, Copperas Cove, Texas.

There are lots of boys who gain their education in this way, and it is only rare instances do they fail to make good by paying back with interest the man or woman who proved a friend when a friend was most needed. The one with money to invest can find nothing better, not that such an investment is secure, but that it will give to those who make the loan the credit of using their money not only for the interest it may bring them, but the living knowledge that he has used it rightly and for the benefit of those who could not help themselves.

BAILEY AND THE TARIFF

(Waco Times-Herald) "The Honorable Joseph W. Bailey has written a letter to Dr. J. A. Allen of Fulbright in condemnation of the Underwood tariff bill—and the pity of it all is," he says, "that the Democratic party is thus made to discriminate against those who have cherished its principles and supported its nominees with the most unwavering fidelity." After charging that reductions are not proportionate, and that labor must suffer a reduction in wages, Mr. Bailey proceeds to say that "our manufacturers will not be seriously injured by this bill," which is good news, for nobody wants to seriously injure the manufacturing industry of this country—certainly no free trader has any such purpose. Now let us hear Mr. Bailey as he gets down to details: "To illustrate what I mean, let us consider the result of free wool. Under the law as it now stands, the woolen goods manufacturers pay to the government $21,000,000 annually on the raw wool which they import, and according to our theory, the effect of the duty on imported wool is to increase the price of our domestic supply to the full extent of the duty. Our manufacturers import two-fifths of the wool which they consume, and the other three-fifths they buy from American farmers and ranchmen, at a cost of $21,000,000 to the government $21,000,000 on the two-fifths which they import, then

BELLE OF WICHITA-IT'S BETTER

They must pay an additional price of $21,000,000 to the American farmers and ranchmen for the other three-fifths of the wool which they consume, saving to our woolen manufacturers of the $21,000,000 which they now pay the government in duties on imported wool, and the $21,000,000 additional price which they now pay to American farmers and ranchmen, making a total of $42,000,000 which free wool saves to our woolen manufacturers. This is a stupendous sum, and constitutes, of itself and alone, a larger per cent of profit on every dollar invested in woolen factories, than our farms are now paying, even at the present price of agricultural products. Now, if those same woolen manufacturers can save a further sum by reducing the wages which they pay to their operatives, the woolen schedule in the pending bill will leave them in as good position as if found them, and whatever is saved to the American consumer will be taken away from the American farmers and ranchmen. I say that it will be taken away from the American farmers and ranchmen; and I do not include the woolen mill operatives in that statement, because the plan is to compensate the latter for the reduction in their wages by reducing the price of farm products and ranch products which they must buy; and thus imposing, at last, the total reduction on farmers and ranchmen.

The total value of the raw wool produced in the United States in 1911 amounted to $66,591,017, while the crop amounted to $1,565,258,000. The hay crop amounted to $694,570,000. The wheat crop amounted to $543,053,000. The oat crop amounted to $14,563,000, and the cotton crop, based on the year '12, amounted to $820,320,000 making a total of $4,037,874,000 in cotton, corn, wheat, hay and oats, as against only $65,591,017 in wool. As compared with other agricultural products, wool is not one-tenth so much in value as cotton; not one-twentieth so much in value as corn; not one-eighth so much as wheat; not one-tenth so much as hay; not one-third so much as potatoes; not one-half so much as barley. Our farmers sell abroad and feed and clothe the world. They sell in competition; they buy in a protected market. They even pay higher transportation charges because of the tariff, lumber, steel and iron used in railroad construction giving an added cost of $4000 per mile. They, along with the rest of us, consume annually something like fourteen billion dollars worth of American manufactured goods, increased in price by reason of the tariff an average of 43 per cent. Mr. Bailey in effect asks the men who produce the corn and the hay and the cotton and the other farm products to be patient under this arrangement—this selling in competition with all the world and buying at a 43 per cent increase in price—in order to shield Mr. Bailey's little lamb from the stiletts of competition—the lamb whose wool is not one-tenth so much in value as cotton.

In spite of an 11 cent tariff on wool, and the fact that we have to import nearly half of our supply, the sheep locks have gradually diminished each year, so that we now have some 9,000,000 sheep, and we had ten years ago 12,000,000. The sheep grower is the victim of the Wool Trust; he ordinarily gets 1, 2, or sometimes 4 or 5, cents more for his wool than the foreigner gets in free-trade England; only recently some American wool sold in London at a better price than it would bring in Boston. Mr. Bailey talks about "a total of $2,000,000 which free wool saves to our woolen manufacturers, ignoring the pertinent fact that a small per cent of the extra cost the American people pay for woolen goods by reason of the existing tariff would buy the whole sheep industry in a single year. Now keeping in mind the fact that our farm products are sold in competition with all the world; that the price of wheat in Waco, for instance, is the price of export wheat, less cost of transportation, let us further hear Mr. Bailey:

"This plan of reducing the cost of farm products to the cities and industrial centers is not new to me. I understood it ten years ago, and denounced it then. The leaders of thought in the cities and industrial centers long ago realized the condition which confronted them. They know that more land can not be created. Of course, some lands may be reclaimed for cultivation by draining the swamps and irrigating the arid regions; but even this condition to the variable area of the country can not be very great. Not only did those men realize that with the land a fixed quantity, its value must inevitably advance under a constantly increasing population, but they also realized (and this latter fact is one which gave me the greatest concern), that a constantly increasing per cent of our people were finding their way to the towns and cities to consume agricultural products, leaving a smaller per cent of our people in the country to produce those agricultural products. Under that condition it was inevitable that the prices of all agricultural products must steadily rise, and in order to escape that result those men made up their minds to repeal all tariff duties on the products of the farm, ranch and stock raisers, and to expose the American farmer, gardener and ranchman to the competition of the cheapest and most abundant labor in the world. That such is their purpose all sagacious men must understand, and how far Senators from the southern and western States can aid in the accomplishment of it is a purpose utterly beyond my comprehension." Five thousand men in this country actually own one-sixth of our entire national wealth. The census of 1900 shows that of the 16,000,000 families in the United States less than 5,000,000 own their own homes free from incumbrances. What is the cause? Why, this government of ours actually provides a bounty of $6 over $100,000,000 of dollars for the protection of interests—that much taken unjustly ly from the toilers and handed over to the privileged few. But let us not put all the blame on the manufacturers, for if they must pay more than they should for their coal and their wood and their wool and their iron and their dyes and such like things, necessarily they must exact higher prices or go to the wall. Mr. Bailey walls because of the exposure of the American farmers, gardeners and ranchmen to the competition of the cheapest labor of the world, just as if that were not the case all the while. The agricultural industry produces nine or ten billion dollars worth of wealth every year, and sees practically the whole of it absorbed by the protected interests. As some one has said, while the farmer digs and sweats in the fields, clever men are begging Congress to help them skin him out of his crop by levying a large tax on everything he must buy, while he must sell his crop—the fact which Mr. Bailey ignores—for what he can for it abroad, because he produces a surplus. The farmer gets no benefit from the tariff on meats; the packer absorbs it all, just as the Wool Trust absorbs practically all of the 11 cents allowed on the wool. It is the farmer who is bearing the great burden of robbery through tariff taxation of Mr. Bailey's assertion that a constantly increasing per cent of our people are finding their way to the towns and

But let us hear Mr. Bailey yet further: "I am aware, of course, that men who can offer no valid answer to this objection endeavor to evade the force of it by charging that those who make it are protectionists. What an insult to the intelligence for the people. They vote for a 35 per cent duty on the clothes which the tolling millions must buy from the manufacturers and call themselves revenue tariff Democrats, but assail us as protectionists because we would lay a duty of 30 per cent on the wool which the rich manufacturers buy from our farmers and ranchmen. I am further from being a protectionist than any of our opponents, and I will vote for a duty as low as any of them; but I believe that the government gets no revenue, but the people pay in increased prices. The Underwood bill, so distasteful to Mr. Bailey, reduces the rates on blankets and flannels down to 25 per cent. By placing the tax on woollens at the lowest competitive rate, and having regard for needed revenue, the framers of the Underwood bill anticipate large importations of clothing, blankets, underwear, dress goods and similar articles, to engage in active and healthy competition with the products of our American mills. Millions of dollars will go into the public treasury and the people will get better goods at lower prices, which arrangement is not at all satisfactory to the former junior Senator from Texas. "If the farmers of this country," says Mr. Bailey, "must sell what they produce in competition with the world, when there's no 'if' about it—that's what the farmers do on their principal crops, for they are exporters, and sell export price is the governing price. Sure, they are the very last of all our people against whom the law should discriminate," and the Underwood bill has them in mind to the fullest possible extent, all the circumstances considered. The farmer gets a reduction in the price of his wheat, and he buys of 24 per cent; earthenware and glassware; 34 per cent; metal, steel, and iron products, 41 per cent; wood, lumber, shingles, furniture and building materials, 74 per cent; sugar 25 per cent; cotton goods, and so forth, 33 per cent; tax, jute, hemp, rope and so forth 42 per cent; woolen cloth and clothing, 67 per cent; silks and silk goods, 16 per cent. That is better—very, very much better than Mr. Bailey did for the farmer when he assisted in the framing of the Payne-Aldrich measure. But let us hear Mr. Bailey in conclusion: "To return a specific answer to your question, I beg to say that the pending tariff bill will not benefit our state as a whole, and will positively injure our farmers and ranchmen. It will, of course, reduce the price of many articles which our people must buy and consume; but at the same time it will reduce the price of practically everything which they produce and sell. I do not mean by this to say that all prices will necessarily be lower under the pending bill than they are now; because I thoroughly understand that there are many factors entering into every question of price, and those other factors operating in direction opposite to the tariff might even raise the price, notwithstanding the fall which, except for them, would ensue from a reduction of the tariff. It is also true that those other factors operating in the same direction as the tariff might produce a fall in price greater than that which could be fairly attributed to the tariff. What I mean to say is that when the pending bill becomes a law the price of practically everything we buy, as well as the price of practically everything we sell, will be lower than it would be under the existing law; and the net price greater than that which could be fairly attributed to the tariff. USE OF STREET FUNDS FOR PERMANENT WORK

Communication on How Hard Streets Might Be Built is Submitted By a Citizen

Editor Times:

I sat one evening and looked on a little play called "Lovers Lane." It got its name from the fact that the person who had been for years the shepherd of this particular flock, was the professional "knot-tier" or the matrimonial kid, for that neighbor and the pathway leading to the manse was frequented so often by the matrimonially inclined as to give it its name. But the old parson died and went to heaven as all parsons do, and a younger and a more progressive young man had been elected to fill the vacancy. Hell with its fires and torments did not appear to the younger minister, hence he preached a sermon on "Is there a Hell?" and in his discourse he rather intimated that there was no such place. This created considerable talk among the older parishioners and a committee was appointed to wait upon the young preacher about his statement of the absence of the brimstone and other means of torture. In the heat of their argument they told the preacher that "the hell of our grandfathers is good enough for us." I use this as an illustration that the streets of Wichita Falls fifteen years ago are good enough for us, so it seems. Fifteen years ago we had the same dirt roads. No doubt they are better today than at that time. For dirt roads they are good, and the best that I have ever seen. But the cost of maintaining the streets of this city is getting too great for the city to stand it much longer and therefore there must be some means of getting rid of this tremendous expense, and when the figures of street maintenance, which are $12,580.91 for last year's maintenance, the readers of this article will bear me out when I say they are tremendous. Yet this does not include all the road expense, as for instance I find on the financial report for the past year this item: Horse feed $167. This does not include the interest on the investment, of $5,000 at eight per cent is $480. In other words it has cost you for one year, Mr. Taxpayer, to keep up the streets of this city the stupendous sum of $12,217.51 and today what have you got? It is like the two snakes beginning at each of their tails to swallow the other. You have just the same kind of streets that your grandfather had, and the same that your grandchild will have, unless you take this matter seriously and see that instead of placing thirteen thousand dollars annually on a street that will require next year the same amount, you will insist upon a part of this outlay being put to the use of making hard streets. A macadam road in Indiana costs $3,000 per mile. The streets of Brownwood, Texas cost $1 a lineal foot, or $5,280 per mile. If a mile of macadam streets were made this year that would be credited to the street work for the reason there would be no expense to its upkeep. Or there should be. It would be nominal. This is the most inexpensive method for obtaining fine streets. Saturday the dragging of the streets in this city cost $68. Five cents of that work would macadam a block and start on another. The roads of our grandfathers are not good enough for this generation, and we as fathers have no right to leave a heritage of this kind to our children. I have always thought it better to live a millionaire than to die one. At the present rate of expending the money in ten years we will have spent one hundred and thirty-two thousand one hundred and twenty-five dollars and ten cents, and we are then just where we started ten years ago. This is sufficient to have macadamized over twenty-six miles of streets. Just think of this and see if it does not pay to begin at once to macadamize the streets if you only macadamize a block at a time. For that block will stand as a monument to man who dares. If paving is wanted afterward the foundation is already in and set, and the paving can be done without the extra excavation that is usually essential.

Kansas is a State that is up to the minute on good roads. They went on the plan—that if they wanted a tooth filled that they would not go to the village blacksmith or if they wanted an arm amputated they would not go to the grocer. They believed that this was a day of specialists and therefore when they began to make progress in road building they employed a man who knew how. That may have been an awful step in progression, but it will ultimately make Kansas. One of their men told me not long since that when they went into road building they spent one-third of their fund in brains—brains that had been developed and educated along the lines needed. With what result? They know absolutely what oil is the best for a certain soil. They have reduced road and street building to a science. They know what kind of material to use and under what conditions to use it and they know how for they have been taught by the best that money could buy. And they do not guess, neither

PERFORMING ON THE AVENUE

Among Famous Men, Chief Justice White is the Champion "Hiker"—Other Notables.

Washington has a "Pedestrians' club," the members of which are among the most famous men in the Supreme court of the United States. The chief "hiker" is Chief Justice White. The privates in the walking squad are Associate Justices Holmes, Hughes, Lamar and occasionally, Justice McKenna.

These eminent jurists may be seen almost any day the court sits, "performing" on Pennsylvania avenue, around five o'clock in the afternoon. They walk from the capitol to the treasury, a good mile, and there disband. Some enter their waiting carriages, some the plebeian street car.

Their "hike" is no promenade. They take a brisk gait, considering their years, and engage in earnest and often agitated conversation. Usually they are so engrossed in their discussion that they unwittingly pass by acquaintances and friends without seeing them.

Tradition has it that Chief Justice John Marshall was the founder of the club. In the traditions of the club, Mr. Justice Story is also credited with having been an ardent "hiker." So were Justices Ellsworth, Miller, Field, Tenny, Chase and Harlan. Chief Justice White was a pupil of the latter in the art of "hiking."

do they build for tomorrow but for eternity.

Old Jonathan Bourne, ex is now written after his name, has a scheme that should be tried by all means. He says, and is right, that the United States government can borrow money at three per cent. The States usually have to pay four per cent. His idea is to have the United States borrow the money for good roads in the States at three per cent and loan it to the State at four per cent, this one per cent in forty-seven years will pay the principle and the State would only have to pay the interest—forty-seven years, and at that period would be automatically out of debt. Of course, Mr. Bourne's ingenious method has nothing to do with cities. But it solves the problem of road building when operated in the states if it should ever become operative.

There is just one thing for this and other cities who have outgrown themselves to do and that is to build a little each year; be it ever so little, and when the decades roll by, there will be substantial streets. There as a monument to the builders.

As to the country roads there is nothing to it but a careful census of the towns and the reason for their loss of population in the last decade can be attributed more to bad roads than to any other cause. These are observations in a concrete form for the future betterment of the streets of this magnificent city. Just get away from the fact that the roads of yesterday are good enough for today. For when the oak of the forest ceases to grow, when man ceases to develop, the oak is fit to pile into board measure and the man for the discard. No use caring.

ENERGETIC AND ACTIVE BUGS INVADE THIS CITY

Make Life Miserable For Sunday Night! Croak and Prove To Be Unpleasant Visitors.

Bugs of an energetic and active breed invaded Wichita Falls last night and made their presence known in all of the hundreds of ways that a bug has of announcing that he is on the job.

The latter seemed to be of an exploring turn of mind, as you discovered, no doubt. If you were at church or some other place where you couldn't take the most natural method of relief, you could feel them exploring around in a way that made the efforts of Dr. Cook seem like a piker.

The bugs were worst on the street cars, but were in evidence everywhere that a light was burning. It was amusing to sit and watch other folks squirm and grab and it was all right to laugh, because you had no squirm and grab coming yourself in short order.

SERVICE

Good business in any line is only service. We exchange service with our neighbors and friends for a numeral sum that we may obtain the service of some one else.

This exchange of service brings about business, and the more exchanges the better the business. The banker, the merchant, the day laborer, or the farmer, in fact the human race is one mighty family, where each has his or her chance to assist in this beautiful happy game of life.

BOOKS FOR BOY PRISONERS

No Ball and Chain These Days, but Character of Reading Matter is Questioned.

Prisoners are cared for so much better than they used to be. They no longer have to sit with a ball and chain on their legs, eating bread and water, or taking 75 years to carve their message on the pillars of a dank and darkened dungeon with a rusty nail smuggled in by a trusty confederate who swims the moat beyond the castle walls.

You can prove that by going up to the juvenile court, where the room in which children are sometimes confined is furnished with a wooden bench. There is a book there for the juvenile prisoners to regale their literary tastes.

Its name is "Facing Death." Some of the chapters are: "Evil Tidings," "In Deadly Peril," "The Arm of the Law," "A Critical Moment," "A Heavy Loss."

Laying aside his paper, Beanbrough exclaimed: "Men have been wearing trousers for a hundred years."

"Yes," snapped Mrs. Beanbrough, "and most of them expect their poor wives to wear their dresses for the same length of time."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Who Did the Work?

"Can't you find any work, Sam?" "Oh, yes, sah; plenty, sah." "Why don't you go and do it, sah?" "Oh, I doesn't has F, sah."

Shifting the Grate. "How do you like running a restaurant on the no tipping plan?" "First rate!" replied the proprietor. "It enables me to raise the price 10 per cent, on the bill of fare."—Judge.
