American Immigration Inspector Dixon Is Shot By Mexican Federals Ambassador Wilson Holds Long Conference With Secretary Bryan

THE DISMISSAL OF WILSON INDICATED

CONFIDENTIAL AGENT COMES

FOLLOWING AMBASSADOR MYSTERIOUS MR. DEL ZALLE CLOSETED WITH SECRETARY

SUBMITS REPORT

Later Learned He Came Over on Same Steamer With Ambassador Who Resented Espionage

By Associated Press. July 26.—President Wilson had before him tonight the report written here today by Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson on conditions in Mexico from the time that a revolution overthrew Diaz, through the event of the Orozco revolt, the downfall of Madero and down to the establishment of the Huerta regime, a period of three years.

This report was transmitted to the president tonight by Secretary Bryan, who had spent the greater part of the day in conference with Ambassador Wilson. The president expects to examine the report before Monday when he will confer with Ambassador Wilson on a possible solution of the difficulties.

Del Zalle Closeted With Bryan
For nearly an hour after Ambassador Wilson left Mr. Del Zalle was closeted with Secretary Bryan and much secrecy was manifested as to the nature of the conference. Mr. Bryan was silent, declining to state how long he had known Mr. Del Zalle or anything of the character of his mission in Mexico. Mr. Del Zalle afterwards admitted that he had been almost two months in Mexico, traveling through the troubled zone and had presented a full report of conditions everywhere in the republic. He said he had been a political acquaintance of Mr. Bryan and had been at one time a state senator in California. Able to speak Spanish, Del Zalle, who is of Mexican ancestry although born in the United States, had little difficulty in making his way through territory held by rebels as well as by federals. He declined to state the result of his explorations.

Mexican Ambassador Is Miffed.
He declined to indicate what he thought of the situation, but spoke highly of some constitutionalist leaders in Sonora whose names were mentioned to him. Coincidentally Del Zalle came up from Mexico City on the same steamer with Ambassador Wilson and arrived in Washington on the same train, that they had little in common was apparent from Ambassador Wilson's remarks earlier in the day that he did not think the government had exhibited courtesy towards him in sending an unofficial representative to investigate conditions in Mexico. He spoke caustically of the methods pursued by both Del Zalle and by Wm. Bayard Hale, a personal friend of President Wilson, in obtaining information. The ambassador said he had been told by a Mexican official in Cuba that Del Zalle had a copy of the state department code in his possession. In the ambassador's opinion this was an improper use of an unofficial representative.

While Ambassador Wilson expressed his views on Mexican affairs quite freely early in the day and before he reached Washington, he began tonight to show reticence. He said he had been asked by Secretary Bryan to refrain from discussing the situation and would abide by the wishes of his superior officer. In fact the ambassador expressed doubt as to the accuracy of some published statements attributed to him, criticizing suggestions of the Washington government for the establishment of peace in Mexico. The ambassador was not willing to say what he had written in his report, but declared he had not changed his

SHORTEST SESSION OF CONGRESS ON RECORD.

Washington, July 26.—The shortest session of the House on record adjourned four minutes after it began today to avoid a continuance of a republican filibuster on the Cammett white slave cases.

Views about affairs in Mexico since coming to Washington after his talk with Secretary Bryan. He admitted that he had at various times suggested the advisability of recognizing the Huerta administration. It is understood that the ambassador's report deals with economic as well as the political situation in Mexico. It was said on good authority that he pictured a gloomy condition in financial circles in Mexico, pointing to several big banks as being on the verge of bankruptcy and to general business distress. He estimated foreign losses as very heavy. He is said to have placed French losses alone at 250 million dollars, in gold within recent months. Constitutionalists here declared that some things he is reported to have said in interviews about Mexican people were offensive and would make it impossible for him to return as ambassador.

The ambassador was in the dark about future plans. It was reported on good authority that one of the recommendations to Secretary Bryan was that the American embassy at Mexico City should be continued in charge of its first secretary Nelson O'Shaughnessy, and the resignation of Ambassador Wilson be accepted.

It was learned later tonight that Del Zalle had not only been on the same ship and train by which Ambassador Wilson had come to Washington, but that he stopped at the same hotel in New York, followed him on street cars there, and observed the men with whom the ambassador talked. Del Zalle it was also said was the man from whom Secretary Bryan received a recommendation that the American embassy be kept in charge of a secretary for the present and Ambassador Wilson's resignation might be accepted.

RAPID PROGRESS ON THE TARIFF BILL

Republicans Tire of Fruitless Opposition and Offer Little Fight to Democrats

By Associated Press. Washington, July 26.—After several hours of long orthodox tariff discussion in the Senate today during which the Republicans were consistently defeated on every amendment the minority leaders began to tire of fruitless efforts to amend the bill and rapid progress was made. The chemical schedule was practically approved without change when the Senate adjourned. Protesting against the heavy cut on the duty on whiting, Senator Lodge declared he knew it was useless to offer amendments. Senator Smoot also refrained from offering certain amendments saying "I will not offer an amendment because I see that it will do no good." All paragraphs of the chemical schedule were approved with the exception of those referring to barytes and lead products which were passed over by request.

The men began moving their belongings out of the stations this afternoon. They object to a proposed cut in their wages and the dismissal of the fire chief. The walkout was quiet. The men formed a parade and marched through the business district. Except for occasional cheers from the crowds and encouraging words from friends along the line of march, the strike was uneventful.

DALLAS FILES SUIT AGAINST SOUTHWESTERN

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, July 26.—The city of Dallas filed suit against the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Co. Saturday afternoon seeking to compel the company to ask the city for a franchise, if the company makes such application it will probably be granted but a provision of such grant will be that the company must pay the city 4 per cent gross tax receipts provided in the new charter. At present the company has no franchise and pays nothing for the use of the streets and alleys for their poles.

MEXICAN PUBLISHER EXECUTE BY CONSTITUTIONALISTS.

By Associated Press. Brownsville, Texas, July 26.—It was learned positively today that Jose Landa, a Mexican printer from Brownsville who was arrested in Matamoros early this week was executed by order of Matamoros military authorities who are constitutionalists. Landa formerly lived in Corpus Christi. His wife and children live here. He was supposed to have been interested in the publication of a small Mexican paper called the "Dynamite," a violent pro-republican paper, which has published many articles insulting General Blanco and the constitutionalists. He was employed as a printer on a local Mexican paper whose publisher declares he had nothing to do with the "Dynamite."

TREATY WILL BE MODIFIED

NICARAGUAN PACT WILL BE AMENDED TO ALLOW NICARAGUA TO JOIN FEDERATION

U. S. NOT AGGRESSIVE

Bryan Says This Country Holds Self Open to Protectorate Treaties

By Associated Press. Washington, July 26.—Important modifications are to be made in the proposed treaty with Nicaragua by which the United States is to establish a protectorate over the Southern Republic. It has been discovered by the terms of the agreement originally outlined by Secretary Bryan, that Nicaragua would have been prevented from ever joining with other republics to Central American union. This was not contemplated by the administration and has created suspicion by the other Central American republics.

At a conference today between Secretary Bryan and members of the Senate foreign relations committee, it was agreed that the original draft of the treaty be changed, and definite statement included in the compact providing that it shall not stand in the way of any future action Nicaragua might decide to make towards joining a Central American federation.

R. R. DEMANDS WITHDRAWN

WILL NOT INSIST THAT THEIR GRIEVANCES BE CONSIDERED BY FEDERAL BOARD

AGREEMENT IS SIGNED

Railroads Withdraw Their Demands, They Say, to Protect Public From Tie Up

By Associated Press. New York, July 26.—The Eastern railroads today withdrew their demands that their grievances against the employees should be considered by the federal board appointed to arbitrate the demands for better wages and working conditions, demanded by trainmen and conductors. This action it is believed will prevent the calling of the present strike of 50,000 conductors and trainmen of 45 Eastern roads for higher wages and improved working conditions. Articles of agreement to arbitrate were signed today. The railroads withdrew their proposal to arbitrate their own grievances, they said, in order to protect the public from a tie-up. This peaceful outcome of the dispute was the result of efforts of the newly appointed board of mediation and conciliation.

PELEGRA EXTENDING OVER LARGE AREA

Number of Cases of Diseases in Area Where Confined is Also Increasing

By Associated Press. Washington, July 26.—Pelagra for which physicians have found no cure is spreading beyond the zone to which it has previously been confined, and is invading new territory, according to officials of the U. S. public health service, who base their belief on statistics of the prevalence of the disease in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas for 1907 to 1912, which were made public today.

Reports from these three states bordering on the area in which pelagra had most extensively existed in this country show, says Surgeon C. H. Laviner, the prevalence of the disease to be growing in a considerable degree. This suggests rather strongly that pelagra is increasing in areas in which it is prevalent and in invading new territory. Further inquiry is needed to determine to what degree of accuracy.

The total number of cases in Oklahoma during the 6 years was 472, with a death rate per 100 cases of 54.3. In Texas, 2625 cases, death rate 46.61 and in Arkansas 945, death rate 41.90. The figures for Arkansas for 1912 were incomplete. Today's report which supplemented a previous pelagra report giving statistics for other states is of peculiar interest at this time in connection with the bill of Representative Johnson of South Carolina, for a large appropriation for the erection of a hospital at Spartanburg, S. C., for the study of pelagra. The public health service has been urging the bill.

SOLDIER SHOT HIM IN BACK

FORSEEING FATE THAT AWAITED HIM U. S. OFFICIAL ATTEMPTED TO ESCAPE

By Associated Press. El Paso, Texas, July 26.—Chas. F. Dixon of San Diego, Texas, United States immigration inspector here, was shot in the back in Juarez today and may die. Dixon was in Juarez on official business investigating a white slave case when he was arrested by a band of federals who started marching him away from the city in the direction of the foothills where many executions have occurred. Dixon started to run and after getting a block away was fired upon and hit in the back. Dixon's father lives in Wharton, Texas.

Dixon made a statement this afternoon in Juarez to American officials that he believes the Mexicans were marching him out to shoot him when he ran. "I told the Mexicans that I was a superior to Juarez to see a negro in connection with the white slave case that was being probed here. He says he believes the negro bought drinks for the soldiers and induced them to arrest him."

"I told the soldiers that I would go with them to the commandant's office, but instead of taking me in that direction they started with me towards the outside of the town. As I had on a suit of khaki I thought they had mistaken me for a United States soldier, acting as a spy, so I ran and they shot me after I got about half a block away from them."

Doctor H. J. Pappen of the immigration service in El Paso, went to Juarez and treated Dixon. He found Dixon was shot in the small of the back, the ball going completely through his body and coming out through his stomach. He did not strike the spine. F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector of the U. S. immigration service on the Mexican border at once went to Juarez accompanied by Inspector Clarence Glatley to look after Dixon. Both were arrested and detained at the military barracks for a short time, but later were released. They took up the matter of having Dixon removed to El Paso. The immigration officials claim a mulatto lieutenant in the federal army, who was a friend of the negro under investigation, was the man who fired the shot. Ordinarily U. S. immigration men are permitted to work in Juarez.

After arguing all afternoon with Col. Basquez of the Mexican federal army in Juarez, F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector of the U. S. immigration service, Clarence G. Blackley, inspector, Dr. J. H. Pappen, surgeon and American Consul Edwards were unable to secure permission from the federals for the removal of the El Paso hospital of Chas. Dixon, immigration agent perhaps fatally shot by federal soldiers this afternoon.

By Associated Press. Washington, July 26.—"It looks like a serious case. We will do whatever is necessary," said Secretary Bryan tonight commenting on Dixon's shooting. He telegraphed Consul Edwards instructing a complete investigation. Secretary Bryan was at his office in the state department when he received a brief message from Consul Edwards advising him of the shooting. He was also shown press dispatches and manifested keen interest in the situation. President Wilson was advised of the incident but made no comment.

While immigration officials on the border frequently have had trouble with Mexicans no incident so serious as the affair at Juarez could be recalled tonight in official circles. It was apparent that the state department would call upon the defunct government in Mexico whose troops are garrisoned in Huerta to punish the offenders, although no one would authorize the course to be pursued.

ARRANGING A NEW SCHEDULE

TIME OF ARRIVAL OF NORTH-WESTERN PASSENGER MAY BE CHANGED

ARRIVAL BEFORE 9:30

Patrons of Line Desire Change, But Not For Purpose of Buying "Dry Goods"

Owing to an insistent demand from patrons along the line in Oklahoma, R. J. Sullivan has been busy for several days arranging a new schedule for the Wichita Falls Route so as to bring the night train into Wichita Falls before the saloons close. That is not the reason that is given out for the reason advanced by the patrons. The train on the Northwestern now reaches Wichita Falls at 9:30 at night. It is said that the early closing of the stores on Saturday night keeps a good many people from coming here to trade. It has never been noticeable however that any great number of people got off the night train who seemed to have a desire to buy dry goods and linens as the 9:30 closing law effects the buyers of wet goods six nights in the week, the change is no doubt to be made to accommodate them. The change contemplates the arrival here of the train at least one hour earlier than the present time table schedules it, and if this change is made it will also make necessary some changes in the M. K. & T. schedule. The contemplated change will also be beneficial to the theatres as it will give people along the line a chance to get here in time to see any performance from the beginning to the end. The new schedule has not been completed as yet, but will probably be announced in a few days.

SCURRY'S OPINION ON LIQUOR LAW

(Archer County News)

In reply to a query from one of our citizens, Hon. Edgar Scurry, district attorney of this district, hands out the following in regard to the new liquor law, but adds that in case of a violation of the law or a supposed violation of the law, he might, upon investigation, change his opinion:

"Section 4 of what is known as the 'Intoxicating Liquor Law' prohibiting the interstate shipment of same into prohibition territory, says: 'Nothing in this act shall be construed as relating to interstate shipment and transportation of intoxicating liquors, or to the delivery of same to any person, firm or corporation within this state on such interstate shipment or transportation.'"

"Now as I interpret this law, it only means that interstate shipments can be made to points in dry territories; after the interstate shipment enters the dry territory and is received by the consignee, then thereafter, the statute would apply as to interstate shipments. That is to say that you could not again ship or dispose of said shipment in that dry territory any more than you could if you had shipped it from some other point within this state. Section 5 says: 'Nothing in this act shall make it unlawful for any person for the use of himself or the members of his family residing with him to personally carry intoxicating liquors from any point within this state to any other point within this state.' I think that section means just what it says, that people living in a dry section cannot have liquor shipped to them or sent to them through any one else but can only take it into dry territories themselves for the use of themselves and the members of their family residing with them. They cannot give it to friends at their homes or any one else."

"EDGAR SCURRY," County Attorney R. S. Morrison has written the following concerning the new law:

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion among the chimney corner lawyers as to what constitutes a violation of said law and there may be room for difference. Some contend that it is a violation of said law to give a drink of whiskey to a man or his sick wife. Now that is an extreme view of the law, as the object of the law seems to be to prevent social drinking for the sole purpose of debauching. So the law wisely provides that no person shall bring malt, vinous and spirituous liquors into a local option county for any other person, provided it shall not be construed to prohibit any person from conveying said liquors into local option counties for the use of himself and the members of his family residing with him. So there are only two sets of men or persons who save any just cause of complaint at the law as it now exists. The first of these two is the bootlegger. And the other is the man who never buys his drinks but sponges them off of his friends.

"The first because a violation of the law is his means a term in the penal territory. The other because he is forced to buy his own whiskey which is a hardship on him and an outrage on his personal liberty. "But on the other hand the fellow who feels it is necessary to his well being and comfort to have his drink can go and get all the booze he wants for himself and family and will be enabled to say to the professional bum: 'Bro, I cannot give you any drunk and Mr. Officer has no right to booze as it is a violation of law and I arrest him so long as as he stays on his own dung hill. If he can stand his wife off he is safe from the bum and the sheriff. So let the bootlegger and the bum kick and let's you and I buy our own whiskey and drink it at home, and if it's good for us it's good for our wives and children.'"

This Is The Time Of The Year That Deaths By Drowning Are Frequent, With Occasional Rescues That Have Thrilling Incidents

New York, July 23.—This is the season of the year for drownings. There is hardly a chance that there will not be fatalities each Sunday because of accidents on the various waters in and around New York. Nine persons were drowned on outings last Sunday and many others had narrow escapes and were saved by thrilling rescues. Seven men on the sailing sloop Skiddoo were thrown into the sea when a squall capsized their craft as they were returning from a fishing trip just outside the Narrows in the lower bay. The launch Francis that was accompanying a swimmer trying a long distance swim went to their rescue and found them clinging to their overturned craft. Another sloop bearing "No. 10" on its sail also appeared. There was a high wind blowing, and waves swept over the deck of the little launch. The projecting mast and sails of the Skiddoo and its ropes, in which a propeller might be tangled, made close work difficult. The sloop, having no engine to risk, darted in close to the Skiddoo. A heavy south-west wind, at right angles to the incoming tide, made stationary rescue with lines and life preservers impossible. But the skipper of the No. 10 figured that by sliding in a hurry he could pick off the shipwrecked men one by one. The men of the launch Francis decided on the same maneuver. The Francis pushed her nose beneath the whirlcaps. A slapping wave nearly capsized her a few feet from the overturned boat, but in that first dash two men were rescued—one seized a rope thrown from the deck, the other grabbed an oar. Then the launch stooped off to get her breath and the sloop No. 10 took up the work. It shot by, grazing the Skiddoo by a foot. One of the crew leaped over, seized a water soaked man from the Skiddoo and jerked him to the deck of the No. 10. Circling about, the sloop returned and took off another man in the same way. It was now the Francis' turn again. Luck was favorable and the other men were pulled to safety and taken ashore.

On Account of Illness of Northwestern's Attorney Oklahoma Commission Grants Extension

On account of the illness of Attorney C. C. Huff the Railroad Commission of Oklahoma has continued the hearing of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railway Company in the matter of the 2-cent fare for thirty days. The commission yesterday exempted the Midland Valley Railroad from operation under the 2-cent fare. The officials of the Northwestern now believe that their road will also be exempted in view of the fact that the two roads operate under very similar circumstances. C. L. Fontaine and Nat L. Inge of the passenger department of the road, returned yesterday from a trip over the line during which they circulated petitions asking for the Railroad Commission to allow the road to continue to operate under the 3-cent rate. These petitions were generally signed by everybody in the towns along the line and the officials think they will have much weight with the commission when the matter comes up for decision.

PRESIDENT HUERTA'S REIGN IS EXPECTED TO BE ENDED SOON

Washington, July 26.—The Huerta government in Mexico is on the verge of collapse. The same disaster that overtook the reigns of Diaz and Madero is now rapidly approaching the provisional government of the new dictator. It is only a question of comparatively few days when Huerta will have to get steam up on the special train in waiting for flight of deposed presidents and take the Vera Cruz route for Paris. There is speculation, however, whether Huerta will run as did Diaz or stand defiantly until Madero until killed. Advice received in Washington and credited in highest circles give the news that the Huerta government cannot last long. The conditions of chaos and anarchy existing in unfortunate Mexico are centering rapidly toward another catastrophe. What will happen when Huerta falls no one ventures to predict. It may mean a period of even worse confusion. If such a thing is possible. There seems to be no especially strong man to seize the reins of government in Mexico City. No one individual stands out as leader of united opposition to the dictator. Huerta, when it does come, will be the result of a general revolution, but of dozens of revolutions scattered throughout the country.

AMERICAN COLORS SEEN IN LONDON

NO CITY OUTSIDE AMERICA FLEW FLAG SO PROMINENTLY ON FOURTH OF JULY

LONDON NEWS LETTER

Cosmopolitan Decorations on Occasion of Visit of French President "Criticized"

By Associated Press.
London, July 26.—While the grand army of the republic was holding its annual reunion at Geijtsburg there was a little gathering of veterans of the Civil War in Bermondsey, a suburb of London, and for an enthusiastic welcome to the celebration, favorably with many a larger one in America.

There were ninety-three veterans present, headed by one of the oldest living survivors of the struggle, Gen. Munroe, a sprightly old man of 104 years, who served in the Confederate navy throughout the war. Munroe took part in the parade through the streets of Bermondsey, and stayed on during the speech making, luncheon and reception, and at the end he was as lively as many of his younger comrades. He still walks very erect for a man of even younger years and his mind is as clear as it was fifty years ago. He talked interestingly of many incidents of his service in the navy. He could remember many of the dates.

The reunion is now an annual affair, and it attracts a great deal of attention in Bermondsey. Each year some prominent American resident in London delivers the oration. This year the lot fell to R. Newton Crane, an American lawyer.

Outside America there was probably no city that flew the American flag so prominently on the Fourth of July as did London. Arriving at Marble Arch on the way to the city on the morning of Independence Day will look down the street and see that many have been forgiven for believing for a moment that he was on the other side of the Atlantic. From the flag staffs of the big department stores that line the street from just below Hyde Park to the city boundary, immense American flags were flying, while many of the smaller establishments also showed the American colors. In the hotel and shipping districts the presence of the Stars and Stripes was even more noticeable.

This too just after there had been numerous letters in the papers protesting against the cosmopolitan nature of the decorations that were put up for the visit of President Poincare of France. London never does very well in the matter of decorations, and those which did survive during the visit of the French president looked as though they were the remains of many previous festive occasions. It was not so much this, however, that the writers of the letters objected to as the presence of flags of all nations, not only on private buildings, but in the decorations put up by the municipal authorities. Down the street there were so many American flags that one writer suggested that they must have been saved since the day of Colonel Roosevelt's visit to the city.

NEGRO TROOPS LIKED IN PARIS

BLACK REGIMENTS FROM FRENCH COLONIES WILL HENCEFORTH BE QUARTERED THERE

PARIS NEWS LETTER

Society Organized in French Metropolis to Build Hotels for Working Girls

By Associated Press.
Paris, July 26.—Black regiments of the French Colonies will henceforth be quartered in Paris during their enlistment. M. Etienne, the Minister of War, has announced the change of plan in putting into operation the government's three-year military service bill.

The innovation promises to be popular, as negroes, especially black troops, are well liked in France. Regiments of negro soldiers will be brought in for service in the mother country from the colonies of Martinique, Guadeloupe, Reunion Island and Guiana.

Early recognition of the heroism of an old bugler named Rolland, the last survivor of the battle of Sidi-Brahim, will be bestowed upon the veteran, whose age is now 92 years. Rolland was taken prisoner, and with wounds bleeding arranged before the Arab Chief, Abd el Kader.

The French were making a desperate stand against superior numbers. The Arab commander ordered Rolland to sound a retreat. He brought the bugle to his lips with his hand and with charge. The French troops responded his waning strength sounded the and carried the day.

The decoration of the Legion of honor now will be conferred on Rolland by the government, upon the recommendation of the Aveyron General Council.

Prince d'Arenberg has accepted the presidency of a society organized to build hotels in which working girls may have comfortable habitation at prices well within their meager incomes. Four of these hotels for women only are already open, and the formation of a new company backed by the prince, the Count de Montalivet, the Marquis d'Harcourt, the Duke de Mortemart, the Count de Vogue and the Duchesse de Guiche, lends a powerful interest to the movement.

The four hotels now in operation are similar in construction and management. Girls may obtain rooms at four dollars a month. Each hotel is fitted with all modern conveniences, contains numerous bathrooms, a library, a large dressmaking room, and a scientific washhouse for girls who wish to do their own washing. On the ground floor is a restaurant where meals are served at the rate of six cents for a plate of meat, two cents for soup, and three cents for vegetables and desserts.

All Paris knows that many struggling French poets, authors and artists have come to the capital only to succumb to the struggle to exist on the meagre incomes of their early days. Starvation and illness have done for them before they could earn enough to live. But the path to artistic fame

SPLENDID PROGRAM AT ENCAMPMENT TODAY

Rev. C. C. Coleman Will Speak in Morning and Evening—Laymen's Meeting in Afternoon

More than seventy-five new arrivals swelled the company of campers at Lake Wichita attending the Inter-State Baptist encampment yesterday and the recent rains are expected to bring in still larger crowds.

Although interest was centered in the program for today Saturday's program was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated. The quiet hour service was conducted at 7 o'clock in the morning by Rev. McDowell of Chillicothe. At 9:30 Dr. H. H. Multhead gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on the Baptist mission work in Brazil. Rev. C. G. Dillworth spoke at 10:30 and 11:30 Dr. Kester delivered a most instructive talk on "The Ownership of the Bible."

This morning the "Quiet Hour" service will be conducted by Rev. J. H. Pace. At 9:30 Dr. W. S. Wiley will conduct a model Sunday school. Dr. C. C. Coleman will preach at 11 a. m.

At 3:30 in the afternoon a laymen's rally will be held in the pavilion which will be addressed by Hon. R. E. Taylor of Henrietta. All the people of the city are cordially invited and urged to attend this service. J. H. Anderson and Audrey will also address this service.

At 6:30 Rev. E. E. Bell will deliver an address and at 8 o'clock there will be a song service presided over by Dr. C. C. Coleman.

All the Baptist churches of the city will be closed today and all the congregations will join in the services at the lake.

It is planned to make this day a red letter event for the Baptists of this section of the state.

Number of Americans Among Those Reported Massacred at Santhi Recently

By Associated Press.
Paris, July 27.—A telegram from Saloniki printed in the Paris edition of the New York Herald says that the Greek army occupied Santhi Saturday, and that all the inhabitants including Americans and Englishmen are believed to have been massacred by the Bulgarians when they captured the city some weeks ago. Several foreigners are said to have been put to death. Twenty innocent Greeks and many Jews have been reported to have perished in the town which was afterwards pillaged by returning Bulgarians. No confirmation of the reported massacre has been received by any other source.

Peñon Negroes Prepares for Attack

By Associated Press.
Eagle Pass, July 26.—Five hundred Federalists made a sortie from Monclova and were met by constitutionalists and driven back, according to reports from Peñon Negroes today. Considerable losses are reported on both sides.

Federalists are said to have executed two well known business men of Monclova. Constitutionalists say there have been many other executions.

Preparations to resist a threatened attack were made at Peñon Negroes, the constitutionalist capital today, by the strengthening of the garrison. The federalists are reported advancing along the Rio Grande from Nuevo Laredo.

CYCLONE AT AZANT, OKLAHOMA, SATURDAY

By Associated Press.
Tulsa, Okla., July 26.—A cyclone near Azant, Okla., this afternoon demolished two houses but no one was killed. Dozens of oil rigs were blown down in the oil fields and the total damage will run well into the thousands. It is not known yet whether any people in the field were hurt.

REPORTS OF CAPTURE OF TORREON ARE CONFIRMED

By Associated Press.
Washington, July 26.—Reports of the capture of Torreón by the constitutionalists have been confirmed in state department advices received today. These reports were first denied from Mexico City.

will, in the future, be made easier; a poet in need will be able to apply to the "Poet's Bank" and have his immediate wants relieved.

This bank is the idea of a number of young writers who have been successful. It will extend financial aid to needy poets and authors during their periods of woe and famine. The promoters appeal to a Paris publisher who made a fortune from the sale of Balzac's works, and he consented to back the project. The publisher was fond of relating the life long experience of Balzac, who was harassed by debts that interfered with his peace of mind and power to work. The writers therefore had no difficulty in enlisting his support.

According to a recent decision of the Paris Courts any person who cannot properly see the stage from a seat which he has paid for can demand the return of his money, and if the management refuses to comply it can be held liable for damages. As about one-half of the seats in the French theatres afford an incomplete view of the stage, this judgment is expected to have far-reaching effects.

And another good rain Friday night, following that of the night before. At this writing, the skies are thick with rain clouds and the weather is threatening.

The way things look now there will be more building of business and resident houses in Wichita Falls in the last five months of 1913 than were constructed during the first seven months.

GRAIN PRICES MOVED UPWARD SATURDAY

Every Bushel of Wheat that Can Be Bought Finds Ready Sale in Eastern Markets

By Associated Press. Chicago, July 26.—Buying that started with one of the largest houses in the trade lifted wheat today after a show of weakness at the outset. Black rust reports from Minnesota tended to aid the bulls. The market closed steady at a net advance of 1-8 a 1-4 and 3-8. Corn finished with a gain of 1-4 to 1-8 and 1-2. Oats were up 3-4 to 1-8 and provisions ranged from 2-1-2 off to an upturn of 12 1-2.

MUCH IRREGULARITY IN COTTON PRICES

After Severe Fluctuations Week Closed With Losses From 43 to 59 Points

By Associated Press. New Orleans, July 26.—The cotton market displayed great irregularity in its fluctuations this week chiefly as a result of the dissolution of the July position. The net result of the week's trading was a loss of 43 to 59 points. The high prices were made on Monday and Tuesday and the low prices Saturday. At the lowest the trading months were 44 to 59 points under the last week's close.

The new crop months were adversely affected by rains at the week's end. Texas and Oklahoma still claimed to have sections that needed moisture, but nearly all other States appeared to have received precipitation. For the time being very little interest was taken in the pending report on condition by the government. In the spot department prices lost 7-16 of a cent, middling closing at 12 cents against 12 7-16 last week and 13 1-4 this week last year.

INCREASED CONFIDENCE BEING MAINTAINED

Reaction of New York Money Market and There was Consequent Improvement in Bond Market

By Associated Press. New York, July 26.—Trading in stock today was in most essentials characteristic of the mid-summer season. The undertone was irregular and at first mainly downward, the only striking exception being the Hill group railroads. This stock responded to favorable advices. In the special group the American Express dropped five points and made another low record.

Operations were altogether professional and of narrow proportions. The general bond market was quiet and steady. United States Coupon Threes advanced one-half per cent on call but other issues were one to two points lower on the week. Total sales par value $701,000.

The action of the week's market indicated the maintenance of increased confidence. This was partly due to the further necessities of bear traders who persisted in putting out fresh lines on advances only to be obliged to buy again as the rise proceeded. Buying for foreign account was a feature of the week's events. The inclining tendency of discount rates abroad however, was arrested. There was an appreciable reaction on the New York money market and in consequence there was improvement in the bond market. Steel trade advices report a better sentiment caused by the stock market revival but no marked activity among buyers. The growth of the idle freight car surplus at this time in contrast with last year's decreasing tendency marks the divergent course of trade activity this year from last.

BIG WHIRLWIND CAUSED EXCITEMENT AT QUANAH

During the races yesterday evening Starter Carr noticed a whirlwind approaching, called out to the people in the grandstand through his megaphone to hold on to their hats. Everybody got ready and the twister rolling up immense clouds of dust came down the track going north. A couple of riders disappeared from view, the temporary fence near the judges' stand went down, the judges themselves were nearly choked, but before the whirlwind reached the grandstand to shower its bushels of dirt over all those handsome dresses, it changed direction and pulled out for the northeast greatly to the relief of the crowd. —Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Vincent Astor Will Give Picnic to 600 Weary Women And Children Each Sat. During Hot Weather

New York, July 24.—Vincent Astor is paying the expenses of outings for 600 women and children each Saturday during the hot weather. The guests of the young millionaire get a ride from the crowded city down to Bath Beach, where they are entertained at a home maintained by the Children's Aid Society. The guests reach the picnic grounds about 1 o'clock, and luncheon is always the first consideration. After the midday meal the swings and merry-go-rounds are kept busy until the boat starts for the return trip to the city. With the 400 children usually at the seaside home, there were about 1,000 guests to be entertained and fed, and the scene during the afternoon was lively.

Six Completions in Burkburnett District. (Burkburnett Star) Six completions were made in the oil field during the past week, five being good producers and one a duster. Probably the best well brought in was the Worth Oil Company's No. 1 on the C. A. Merten farm southeast of the Brochleit well which is good for 250 barrels. The Gaffey Company drilled in L. W. Proctor No. 1 this morning which is estimated to be an average well. This well is located south of Producers Morris No. 1.

J. E. Head et al Warren No. 1 was drilled in this morning, but there has not been any test made but the showing is thought to be good for 100 barrels. Allen Fisher brought in a good shallow well on the George tract good for 15 barrels.

Largest, Most Modern Store in Wichita

WE were building the spur track which runs north from Martin's Junction to the Dalefield Gold Mines, and we were not having a very pleasant time of it. Young Gorman, who was in charge, was killing himself by day, trying to be in a dozen places at once, and worrying his soul out by night, explaining to the Old Man why he had not accomplished the impossible and run his line across short cut, where the Lord had evidently never intended a railroad should go.

There were several reasons why Gorman was unusually anxious to live up to the Old Man's expectations. In the first place, the Old Man had the name of being a hard master, and he usually lived up to his name. He never accepted excuses from his men. Either they made good, or they failed. Those who failed the Old Man once were never given a chance to fall him a second time, while those who made good under him could count on securing a recommendation which would be taken at its face value anywhere in that part of the country.

Then there was the girl. There is usually a girl in the case when you see a young fellow breaking his neck to make a name for himself, but in Gorman's case it was a little different from the general run. The girl was the Old Man's daughter, and as she was her father's confidante in almost all his affairs, Gorman knew that every good stroke he made carried him one degree higher in her favor. So he got out early and came in late, and seemed to fret because Nature insisted on a few hours sleep each day.

Also, the Old Man had an inkling of how Gorman felt toward his daughter, and if ever one man required a brick of another, without furnishing him the straw, the Old Man required it of Gorman on the Dalefield spur. But for all of Gorman's exertions and his doing the work of two men during that spring and summer, the brick would not have been delivered on contract time had it not been for "Nerves".

"Nerves" drifted into camp one evening toward the last of April and asked for a job. He was not a very awe-inspiring figure, but men were hard to get, and harder to keep, so Gorman gave him a pick and sent him down to report to Nixon, who was blasting a thirty-ton boulder off the right of way. And it was there that "Nerves" was christened.

Nixon got his dynamite placed, and ordered his men out of the way while he touched off the fuse. Either the fuse was a little shorter than usual, or Nixon a little slower, but at any rate, before he had got quite out of range, the blast went off. Nixon was knocked down by a piece of flying rock, which cut an ugly gash in his head and left him unconscious for a few seconds.

It really didn't amount to anything. The men crowded around Nixon, who was up almost before they had reached him, and in a few minutes was able to resume his progress toward camp.

However, they had to carry a man back to camp, after all. The new boys topped over almost simultaneously with Nixon, and it was not until after a dozen or so hatfuls of cold water had been dashed in his face that he showed any indications of returning consciousness, and even then he was so weak that he liddled into camp with a man supporting him on each side.

THE NERVE OF "NERVES"

By CHARLES FINDLAY CARTWRIGHT

"Where you hit, kid?" Nixon asked anxiously, as soon as the boy opened his eyes.

"I—'m not hit," he stammered.

"Not hit?" Nixon cried. "Then what the blazes you kickin' up a row about?"

"I think it's my nerves, sir," the boy said weakly.

"Nerves nuthin'!" Nixon roared disgustedly. "Well, come on 'Nerves.' We'll get you back ter camp, an' find you a nice, ladylike job darlin' socks for the boys. You hadn't oughter be out here with us men. One of us might as well an' shock your nerves."

And that was how "Nerves" came by his name. Probably the paymaster had his real name on the pay-roll, but even he yelled "Nerves" when he called him up for his week's pay, and the rest of us naturally fell into line without making any inquiries.

Gorman was evidently progressing with the girl as favorably as with his work, for the lines gradually began to disappear from his forehead and the worried look from his eyes, and one Sunday he ran down to the Junction and spent the day with her, which was the first real day of rest he had enjoyed since spring.

However, it was the very next day after Gorman's day of rest that our real troubles began. Johnson, one of the sub-bosses, marched his entire squad of nine men over to the Dalefield Mines, then only three miles distant, claiming that he had been offered a dollar a day more than our scale. And the next day a dozen more men left, giving the same reason.

That night Gorman sent "Nerves" down to the Junction with a note for the Old Man, and when he got back the next morning the mystery of the delay was explained. The mining company had offered the railroad, as an inducement to build the twenty-five mile spur track, a cash bonus of fifty thousand dollars, to be paid thirty days from the fifteenth of the month following its completion. This meant thirty days grace to them if they could delay us until after the fifteenth, and as the Dalefield Mining Company was known to be temporarily in financial difficulties, owing to an unexpected panic back East, the delay would get them out of an exceedingly embarrassing position.

The Old Man also added a few lines which, construed into plain English, meant that he expected the Dalefield spur to be completed by the fifteenth, regardless.

Gorman swore softly, muttered something to himself about throwing up the job, which he didn't mean, and then went out and sweated and planned until eleven that night.

When he came in and threw himself into his hammock without undressing, "Nerves" was waiting for him.

"Mr. Gorman," he said, "I'd like to try my hand with a pick again, tomorrow. The cook can get along without me."

"She's a mighty fine girl, Mr. Gorman," he said.

Gorman rose. "Right you are 'Nerves.' We'll shake hands on that."

"I suppose you're engaged, aren't you?" "Nerves" asked.

"Well, umph, you're going a little too fast, 'Nerves,'" Gorman laughed.

"You see I've got to make a name for myself, first."

"If there's anything I can do to help," "Nerves" ventured.

"Why, thank you, old man, I'll remember that," Gorman replied, and "Nerves" went out.

For a week we heard nothing more of the increase in pay at the Dalefield Mines. Nevertheless, things did not run smoothly. Little things began to happen, calculated to discourage a man and to cause small delays. One morning, one of the big rollers suddenly stopped, and two hours were lost before one of the men found a small nail wedged in against the piston rod.

It was the following Monday that Johnson came back. Gorman always admitted that he made his biggest mistake when he allowed Johnson to rocks down on our engine, and after a couple of days Gorman seemed to forget that he had ever left us. Nevertheless, I did not feel exactly easy, and Nixon was openly suspicious of him. Whether he would have found a chance to harm us or not, if circumstances had not played into his hands, it is hard to say, but the week after he came back something happened which gave him a chance and he took advantage of it.

The "something" happened Saturday, and it was a pretty serious affair in a railroad camp. The cash with which to pay the men failed to arrive. Usually the paymaster and another man went down to the Junction on the engine and brought it up as far as they could, and from there drove over to the camp with it in a buggy. It was always in cash, for there were no banks to cash checks.

This time, however, the paymaster came back without any money. No, he had not been held up. It seems that the Old Man had made arrangements with the bank to forward to him, each Friday, to the Junction, sufficient money to pay off all his camps. There had been a mistake made somewhere, and the money had failed to reach the Old Man. Some of the camps were discontented to reach, and it would be three days, anyway, before the money could be brought to the Junction. Therefore, the Old Man had notified the paymasters not to come back until the following Saturday, when there would be a double pay-day.

Our men grumbled a little, as was to be expected, but they seemed to take it good-naturedly enough, and it was not until the last of the week that we noticed any unusual dissatisfaction.

At sundown, the men, instead of dispersing to their shanties as usual, ranged themselves in line and stolidly awaited Gorman's coming. They were evidently in an ugly mood and would make no response to either Nixon's oath, nor my questions; so, finally, we likewise, sat down and waited for Gorman to arrive.

He came up about dusk. "What's the trouble?" he asked looking at the men.

"The blankety-blank idiots want to see you about something," Nixon replied.

Gorman went over to the men, and one of them, who knew a little more English than the others, stepped out as spokesman. And then Gorman found out the whole trouble. They wanted their pay. "Meester Johnson" (Johnson was a Norwegian and still spoke the language) said that the company was "busted" and would pay no more wages. "Meester Johnson" had told them that they were fools to work when they would get nothing for it. They would work no more until they had their last week's wages.

The best that Gorman could get out of them was a compromise. If he would get the money and pay them for their last week's work that night they would go back to work the next morning. Otherwise they would quit for good.

He rode out from behind a boulder and shouted, "Hands up!"

It came so suddenly and the men were so close that there was nothing to do but obey. My hand went up immediately. Gorman had a moment and made a motion toward his rifle lying across his lap, but one of the men shoved a pistol in his face with a growl, and Gorman, with a groan, also raised his hand. "Nerves" had ducked into the bottom of the buckboard at the first command.

"And now that money you've got," one of the men said, still covering us, while the other reached for the two rifles.

I was just putting my hand under the seat for the money and mentally kicking both Gorman and myself for not having foreseen some such attempt on the part of the Dalefield people, though it was still hard to believe that they would do any matter to such an extent, when from the side of the road came a second command.

"Drop that gun, Johnson." I did not recognize the voice, which was not at all surprising considering the amount of excitement that was crowded into the next few seconds.

The two men wheeled and sent two shots in the direction of the voice.

It was the needed diversion. Our mules sprang forward and I grabbed the lines, trying to keep them in the narrow path which served for a road, while Gorman seized his rifle and sent a half dozen shots in the direction of the horsemen.

It was not until we were within a quarter of a mile of camp that I was able to bring the frightened mules to a standstill. Nixon and five or six Norwegians had already started out to meet us, and together we went back along the road.

Their acquaintances grew quickly.

HAVE KNOWLEDGE OF SCIENCE

Proof That Savage Tribes Are Possessed of More Than Rudimentary Ideas About Known Facts.

While lecturing on atoms at the Royal Institution Sir Joseph Thomson alluded to an extraordinary method for obtaining fire that was practiced by at least two savage tribes—a method in which compressed air was used, says the London Standard.

Sir Joseph had just been explaining how intense cold could be produced by suddenly expanding air and how equally intense heat could be caused by compressing it. "It is one of the most extraordinary things in connection with the habits of savage races," he continued, "that at least two tribes use this method to get fire. It is an extremely difficult problem to know how ever they got hold of the idea. I am quite sure they did not obtain it from lectures on physics, so it must have come from some kind of practical experience."

Even with special apparatus it was not easy to accomplish this feat in a laboratory. One could easily understand how men had discovered that branches rubbing together sometimes caught fire. This would give the idea of rubbing sticks together, but so highly complex an operation as making fire by compressing air could hardly have been copied from any natural phenomenon.

The only thing he could think of was that these tribes must have been accustomed to shoot their arrows from blowpipes. If one of these wooden tubes got obstructed it was conceivable that vigorous efforts to dislodge the obstruction would cause the blowpipe or some part of it to take fire.

The larger part of the lecture was taken up by an explanation of the various ways in which atoms had been counted and the wonderful agreement between the results obtained by different methods. The figures are amazing. Two grams (about thirty grains) of hydrogen contain so many atoms that no ordinary nomenclature can be used in expressing the number. If put down in ordinary numerals it would be 68, followed by 22 ciphers, which means that a cubic centimeter of gas contains 275, followed by 17 ciphers.

Even these gigantic numbers are exceeded by the number of ultimate corpuscles in the same volume of gas. No perfectly reliable measurements have yet been made, but Sir Joseph stated his belief that a molecule of mercury contained between 400 and 600 of these electrified corpuscles.

Scarlet Fever Superstition.

There are measles at Osborne, but they do not know the simple preventive which Essex puts up against its epidemic of scarlet fever. The children are walking about with cropped heads, and in answer to a puzzled inquirer a native cook replied "that 'Those are the ones that have not had it, and won't have it.' And she further explained that 'if you cut a child's hair it will never catch scarlet fever, sure as anything.' This is a belief still prevalent within forty miles of the London hospital.—London Chronicle.

BIG SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION

ENGLISH WOMEN VOICE DEMAND FOR VOTE IN MONSTER MEETING AT LONDON

400 SOCIETIES THERE

One of Principal Objects Was to Collect Funds for the Cause

Special to the Times. London, July 26.—From all points of the compass London was invaded today by an army of women who voiced their demand for the vote, in one of the biggest suffrage demonstrations ever seen in England.

The invaders were not the W. S. P. U. Anaxons familiar to Londoners, but represented the National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies the largest and most influential of the various non-militant organizations, with a membership of 12,000. Some of them had "hiked" the whole of the 300 miles from Carlisle and Newcastle. Not all the members of the union could make the pilgrimage, but with supporters and sympathizers from London and nearby towns it is estimated that fully 30,000 women converged on Hyde Park this afternoon to vote for a resolution, put from twenty platforms, demanding the immediate enfranchisement of women in Great Britain.

Mrs. Millicent G. Fawcett, president of the National Union, speaking from the center platform, declared that the people of England must realize now that there is a real demand for the vote. She was careful to explain that the great majority of suffragists have no connection or sympathy with the militants, who she said were a mere handful of violent and misguided women.

Each of the 400 societies forming the union sent delegates, many of whom had been for from five weeks to a fortnight on the road. Meetings were held in all the towns and villages through which the pilgrims passed, and their numbers steadily increased as they neared the capital. Although in a few instances the "others" were roughly handled, and at one or two places their meetings were broken up by hooligans, generally there were manifestations of genuine interest and sympathy wherever they stopped.

One of the principal objects of the pilgrimage was to collect funds for the spread of woman suffrage propaganda by constitutional methods and the leaders say the response was considerably larger than they anticipated.

Headed by bands with banners flying the northern detachments entered London by the Great North Road; the westerners, some of whom had marched from Cardiff and Bristol, by the Bath Road; the southerners by the Portsmouth Road, and the easterners by Watling Street. Their reception by the throngs lining the thoroughfares leading to Hyde Park was for the most part friendly, but in the rougher quarters there was some jeering and other expressions of hostility from spectators who see no difference between militants and non-militants.

"This has been one of the greatest obstacles we have encountered in our work," declared Mrs. Fawcett in an interview with the correspondent. "All along the various routes our speakers have had to explain that woman suffrage does not mean destroying letters in mail boxes, burning houses, or throwing bombs.

"The very word 'suffrage' to a great many persons invariably calls up ideas of violence and law breaking and the object of our marchers has been to destroy that association of ideas and to bring home to the people of every community through which they pass

That the vast majority of those who have the cause of woman suffrage at heart are peaceful and law-abiding women who realize that the tactics of the militants are doing the movement great damage.

"The joyousness of self dedication to a great cause was the keynote of the pilgrimage. Every marcher had in her heart a deep sense of reverent happiness that it had been her lot thus to participate in one of the greatest reform movements in the world's history."

BARACA AND PHILATELA CLASSES ENJOY PICNIC

Tuesday evening as the people in south and west looked from their doors and windows and saw a crowd coming down the street, dressed in old clothes, and armed with skillets and lanterns, they might have thought Coxy's army was making another raid upon Washington. But the company proved to be the Baraca and Philatela classes of the First M. E. Sunday School, who with some of their friends were tramping to the banks of the swift Helliday. On the way a goodly supply of melons were secured, which however were honestly purchased. A large camp fire was built, and soon the fragrant odor of boiling coffee and frying potatoes tended to whet the appetite of the hungry crowd. The head of the commissariat department found her resources taxed to their limit in attempting to fill up the famishing company, but this was the bountiful supply of melons all were satisfied. The party was accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Coe, who acted as chaperons.

PICNIC AT LAKE COMPLEMENTARY TO MISS SELF

At the conclusion of the games the hostess served delicious ice cream with angel food cake. Mrs. Hogan will be the next hostess of the club.

T. F. W. C. IS SEEKING MOTTO; OFFERS PRIZE

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs desires a motto that will express fitting words what our great and noble body of women stands for. The Federation has embraced by various departments and committees literature, art, music, civics, child welfare, education, sanitation, home development and everything pertaining to the betterment of citizenship morally and physically.

It is believed that each member (being an integral part of this progressive and influential organization) should have an opportunity of expressing what she thinks this body is, has been, or hopes to be, and with this thought in view the State president, Mrs. J. H. Hertzberg, has appointed a committee to arrange and supervise a contest in which it is desired all women of the State will be sufficiently interested to give time and thought commensurate with the importance of the object to be attained, that of selecting a motto for the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and will manifest this interest by sending to the committee a motto expressing what they individually feel clubbism in Texas stands for. A cash prize of $10 will be awarded for the motto deemed best by the committee and the name of the successful contestants announced at the annual convention to be held in Corpus Christi Nov. 11, 1913.

FOLLOWING ARE THE RULES GOVERNING THE CONTEST:

1. All communications must be addressed to Mrs. J. T. Smith, 1052 Monterey street, San Antonio, Texas.
2. All mottoes must be sent in before Oct. 15, 1913.
3. All mottoes must be enclosed in separate envelope and sealed.
4. All mottoes must be typewritten.

Any woman who is a member of the State Federation of Women's Clubs is eligible to enter the contest.

WOMAN'S PART IN EXPOSITION

THEY ASSUME EVEN PART IN RESPONSIBILITIES ATTENDANT UPON EXPOSITION

NOTED WOMEN ON BOARD

Workers of That Sex Will Be Responsible For Hospitality To World Delegates

San Francisco, Cal., July 26.—For the first time women have been given a place as co-adjutors in the organization of an international exposition—the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

When Congress awarded to San Francisco the honor of holding the Panama-Pacific International Exposition a group of prominent California women offered their services to the exposition directors. The offer was promptly accepted and the Women's Board of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition was organized.

After mature deliberation on the question as to whether the Women's Board should have the services of an exposition grounds for the housing of individual exhibits of women from all parts of the world it was agreed that the works of men and women were so closely associated in every field of endeavor that it would be practically impossible to separate the exhibits on the standpoint of sex.

The women asked that they might assume an even part of the responsibilities and cares attendant upon the creation of an exposition such as the directors were planning. Their offer was accepted by the directors of the exposition and at this time women serve on committees and have an active part in the upbuilding of some of the most important departments of the exposition.

While the active membership of the Women's Board is composed of California women, who, as they appear on the ground, are better able to direct the great work which the Women's Board has outlined, yet the board has gained the co-operation and support of women throughout the world. Miss Jane Adams of Hull House, one of the most famous sociologists in the world, has promised her active assistance to Mr. Alvin S. Pope, the chief of the department of Social Economy at the exposition, and a number of the prominent women of Europe and America will act as an advisory board to the department.

Women's work in the preparation of the exposition will demonstrate in a practical way many of the important principles of applied social economy. The study of social science will be elaborately treated in one of the most important departments of the exposition—that of social economy. Yet in the display of exhibits throughout the exposition there will be no separate classification for the sexes; the exhibits that pertain particularly to the work of women will be displayed with those of men. The decision of the exposition management in this respect is an acknowledgement of the advance that has been made generally throughout the civilized world in the recognition of women as an integral part of the human race and as an important factor of society from an industrial as well as an intellectual standpoint.

The departments of education and social economy will be housed in a splendid exhibit palace, which forms one of the main buildings in the central exhibit section of the exposition.

The displays in the palace of education and social economy will prove of vital interest to thinking women. In the department devoted to education every phase of educational endeavor will be taken up. School buildings, text books, furniture and models of school buildings will be shown, while entire sections will be devoted to drawing, painting, music and agricultural education in elementary grades, business and commercial training, education of defectives and delinquents, the blind, the deaf, the dumb, cripples and the feeble minded. In the department of social economy will be found studies in hygiene, exhibits dealing with the care of defectives, statistical charts on the consumption and effects of alcoholic beverages, tobacco and drugs. There will be a division devoted to the remunerative wage of women and children in all countries. The modern development of sociological work as exemplified in play grounds and recreation centers will be vividly treated in exhibits mostly contributed by women from all over the world.

Women will play an important part in the purely social features of the exposition. In the California building, under the direction of the Women's Board, many receptions and entertainments will be arranged for visitors from other States and foreign countries, and in these entertainments as in many other social functions upon the exposition grounds and within the pavilions of the foreign nations and of the American States, the members of the Women's Board will actively co-operate with their sisters from all parts of the world in welcoming visitors.

The funds of the incorporated Women's Board, raised by the women themselves, will be used in many ways, not the least important of which will be the maintenance of a corps of women attendants and interpreters; while the board is also planning to co-operate with the W.

PETITIONS CIRCULATED FOR PAVING SCOTT AVE.

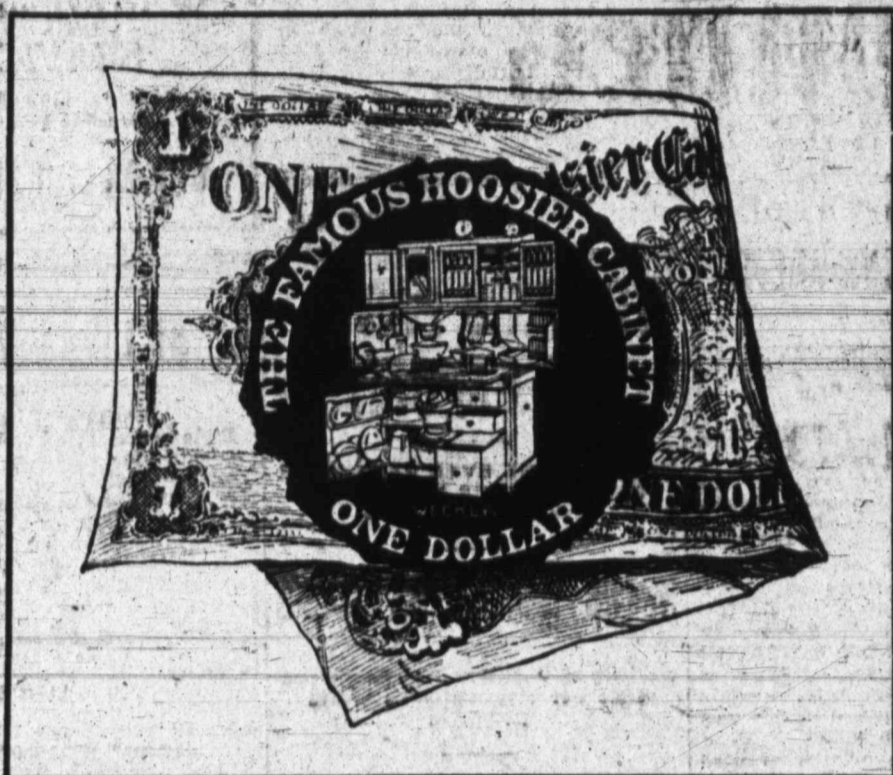

Owners Are Signing Petition Agreeing To Pay Two-thirds Paving Costs

Petitions for the paving of Scott avenue from Seventh to Tenth streets are being circulated and already a number of property owners have signed up. The property owners in signing the petition agree to pay two-thirds the cost of the paving, the city to pay the other one-third in front of their property. The kind of paving material to be selected is left to the choice of the city council. The petition asks the council to bring the street to the proper grade.

C. T. U. and the Y. W. C. A. in such welfare work as may be necessary by the exposition grounds. A portion of the money will be devoted to the entertainment of distinguished women guests of the exposition and it is even planned to raise a fund later on for defraying the expenses of famous women and international sociologists both from America and from abroad.

Not the least significant of all the work of the Women's Board will be its activities in connection with the various conventions and congresses which will be held at the exposition. More than one hundred and forty such international gatherings are already arranged for the exposition year in San Francisco and this large number is increasing daily. The women workers of the exposition will be responsible for the generous hospitality extended to the world delegates gathered on the shores of the Pacific in 1915.

As the temperance of the entire exposition is one of an uplifting and educating force with the more than usual attention given to the welfare of women and children, it is natural that women shall play a large part in the exposition. Their part in the exposition will be a manifestation of the principles which will be displayed in the exhibit halls.

POOL HALL LAW MAY BE TESTED

Former Attorney General Visits Vernon and It is Reported Will Contest Order

(Vernon Record) Developments in the case of the prohibition of pool halls here took a new turn yesterday afternoon when Hon. Jewell P. Lightfoot, former attorney general of Texas, arrived from Austin and went into conference with County Judge J. B. Copeland and County Attorney O. T. Warlick as to when the law would become effective here.

The statute on the subject is rather vague and leaves some doubt as to the intent of the law. After providing that the law shall become operative after the county commissioners have canvassed the vote and officially declared the result the statute goes on to provide that notice that the law is to become effective must be given by publication in two consecutive issues of some newspaper in the county. The wording of the statute is such as to make it uncertain whether the law is to become effective after the result is officially declared or at midnight of the last day of publication of the notice.

After the conference with General Lightfoot and Mr. Warlick Judge Copeland announced that the latter construction had been placed upon it and that the commissioners will meet on August 1st to canvass the returns and order the publication of the results of the election. The first publication will be August 7th and the second and last will be Thursday, August 14th, on which date at midnight the law becomes effective.

Before going into executive session it was suggested that the constitutionality of the pool hall law had been called in question and that a test case to determine this point will be made, probably from Vernon. It is understood that General Lightfoot has been retained by the pool hall interests of the state and that the validity of the pool hall law which became effective July 1st will be attacked.

Those who question the constitutionality of the law do so on the ground that the legislature has no right to enact a law of such nature that is, one which the people may by vote, take advantage of—without an express provision in the constitution conferring that power. Constitutional amendments were necessary before the local option liquor laws and the stock law could be enacted. There is no provision in the constitution giving the legislature power to pass a pool hall, local option act, and whether it had the authority under the police power of the state vested in the legislature by the constitution will be the question for the courts to pass upon in event of a test.

General Lightfoot neither confirmed nor denied the rumor that a test case will be made from Vernon.

NO MORE BIG GREASE TRAPS AT RESIDENCES

At a called meeting of the city council Friday afternoon the plumbing ordinance now in effect was amended so as to knock out the grease traps for sewers from private residences.

A new plumbing ordinance is now under discussion in council but the kind of a grease trap or device that will take the place of the big traps now in use has not been determined. An emergency was declared to exist and buildings now going up will not be required to install the old style traps.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IS GRANTED

Judge Martin—Orders Bail For J. W. Roberts in Sum of Ten Thousand Dollars

Judge Martin in the district court yesterday issued an order to the Clay county authorities to allow bail to J. W. Roberts in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance before the Clay county grand jury to answer to a charge of murder.

Roberts killed his son-in-law, Ira Black, in a fight at the Blue Ridge church in Clay county a week ago last Thursday. At the preliminary hearing Roberts was bound over without bail. Application for a writ of habeas corpus was heard here Friday afternoon and the order was issued Saturday morning. The order was forwarded to Henrietta by mail Saturday afternoon.

Yes, The People's Profit Sale Closed Saturday Night Just as we advertised it would

For when we say anything to you we want to do everything in our power to keep our word and promises, and we are sincerely grateful for the remarkable business given us. We sold practically everything in summer goods and, to use a slang expression, we have hardly enough summer goods left "to pad a couch." Won't it be nice for next spring and summer--all fresh, new goods and no "old last year's bird nests" to try to work off. We considered it safe and sound business to take the loss, and the sooner the better--but enough about next spring; here is what will interest you and what we want to talk to you about: it's which will soon be upon us. Our buyers will leave in the course of a short time for the eastern markets to purchase goods for this busy store. Now let's think a little; we had a big business, have cleaned out our stock, have the old long green over in the bank; don't you think when we go into the markets of the world to buy merchandise with the hard hammered cash that we can underbuy and if we underbuy doesn't it stand to reason that we can undersell? We think we have demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt our ability to buy right; well, whether we sell right we leave to your judgment. Suffice it to say this is an age of intelligent buying public, and must be dealt with as such. If you have not been our customer we want an opportunity to show you why you should be, for our store is operated on the most economical basis--no bookkeepers, no stenographers, no collectors, no lost accounts; every expense possible is eliminated so we can sell cheap. If you are a patron of this busy store you know the advantages of a system stripped of all unnecessary expense. Come and try us. We promise we will not send you away dissatisfied. Again expressing our appreciation, we are, your truly,

MOST PROSPEROUS OF LABOR UNIONS

PRINTERS UNION HAS FORGED WAY TO FRONT THROUGH ARBITRATION WITH EMPLOYERS

PENSIONS ARE BEING PAID

Almost Million Dollars in Pensions Distributed by Organization in Four Years

(Kansas City Times) The most successful and prosperous labor union in North America is one that achieves the protection of members for which purpose it was organized, not through strikes, but through arbitration.

The International Typographical Union has sixty thousand members. They are printers, mappers, newspaper writers and typographers, scattered about the United States and Canada and all the possessions of this Nation. It is an organization so powerful and wealthy that it pays pensions to 1,108 persons at the present time. Almost a million dollars has already been paid in pensions since 1908.

The story of the founding and growth of the organization is the story of the printing business in America from earliest times. The Franklin Typographical Society of Journeymen Printers of New York, organized in 1799 was the first printers' organization in America. From this in turn grew the National Journeymen Printers, and later, the National Typographical Union. The latter was organized at the third national session of the National Journeymen Printers in Cincinnati, May 3, 1852, after a failure to extend the limits of the printers' organization to take in other allied crafts at three previous conventions.

Strikes are the last resort. The stand of the printers' organization for settlement of all its differences with employers through arbitration and mediation, rather than by more violent methods, was made early in its history. This resolution was adopted by the National Typographical Union at the Pittsburg convention in 1853.

Resolved, That the National Union regards as injudicious a frequent resort to strikes on the part of journeymen or any misunderstanding occurring between them and their employers, believing that in most cases all such differences can be settled satisfactorily by other and more amicable means, and that a strike should be resorted to only when all such means fail.

That policy has been strictly adhered to by the organization to the present day. In the last eleven years the organization has put the policy into active practice by entering into three successive agreements with the American Newspaper Publishers Union regarding arbitration of all labor disputes. The last agreement entered into May 1, 1912, was renewed for five years from that date.

In 1859, at the Albany convention, the National Typographical Union broadened its field of activity and became the International Typographical Union. It now has seven hundred affiliated unions in the United States, Canada, Cuba, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico. In 1882, at Pittsburg, representatives from the Union took an active part in the American Federation of Labor of which it has been one of the important units ever since.

Pensions Its Aged and Infirm. The most striking feature of the union are its benefits for members. The Union Printers' Home and Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Colorado Springs, which cost more than $110,000, was made possible by a large gift to the union by two Philadelphia men. In 1896 the union received a certified check for $10,000 to be used in whatever way it thought best. This money was the gift of George W. Childs, publisher of the Philadelphia Ledger and Anthony J. Drexel of the International Banking firm then known as Drexel, Morgan & Company.

With this fund as a basis, sufficient money was rapidly collected to build the Union Printers' Home. The home was built in 1892 at a cost of $70,000. Not only was it free from debt, but a surplus of $13,000 was left in the bank after its completion. A hospital annex costing $40,000 was added at a later date. The home is situated on eighty acres given by residents of Colorado Springs. The value of the home now exceeds one million dollars. It includes a tuberculosis pavilion with room for twenty patients.

At a time when many large manufacturing institutions and politicians are debating the desirability of old age pensions, the union has a pension system in operation. All members 60 years old who have been members in good standing for twenty years and who cannot obtain employment at their trade receive a pension of $5 a week. The same pension is given to members 70 years old who have been active members for the previous ten years. All members incapacitated for work who cannot be received at the home because of the nature of their affliction, receive the same amount.

Cost of Its Charities Small. The pension is made possible by an assessment of one-half of 1 per cent on the total annual earnings of active members. This assessment, from March, 1908, to May, 1912, had brought in $1,256,372. Of this amount more than $550,000 still remains in the pension fund. An average of $2,860.07 is paid to pensioners every week. Among the 1,108 pensioners are five women.

The International Typographical Union is also distinguished as being the only trade union which demands equal wages, hours and conditions for men and women. The union also pays a burial benefit ranging from $75 to $400, according to whether the membership has been one or five or more years.

To prevent the specialized artisan becoming the victim of bad conditions, a commission on technical education was organized by the union with offices in Chicago. The course, consisting of thirty-eight lessons, is conducted by correspondence. At the present time the course serves thirty-five hundred students. An employment bureau is also conducted at the national offices in Indianapolis.

The president of the International Typographical Union is James M. Lynch. Mr. Lynch has served continuously in this capacity since 1909.

San Benito--Preliminary arrangements have been completed here to perfect plans for the meeting of the farmers and business men of the lower Rio Grande Valley, at this place August 9th. The purpose of the meeting is to make recommendations looking to the improvement of the system employed in marketing and distributing the products of this section.

FAILURE TO RESPOND TO THE FIRE SIGNAL APPARENTLY CAUSED HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN THE FACTORY FIRE AT BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 26--While the search was still going on in the ruins of the overall factory of the Binghamton Clothing company for victims Coroner Seymour, District Attorney Meagher and the fire commissioner were preparing for a rigid investigation of the disaster that cost the lives of between fifty and sixty persons, mostly women and girls, caused injury to thirty or more and totally destroyed the four story building. The property loss is about $200,000. There are many rumors of violations of the law in the construction and operation of the factory, but nothing has been officially determined. The fire appears to have been in many respects a duplication on a smaller scale of the "Triangle fire" in New York in 1911, which cost 146 lives. Reed B. Freeman, president of the Binghamton company, says the disaster probably was caused by a cigarette carelessly thrown aside. He declared that fire drills were held regularly and that last Friday the factory was emptied in twenty seconds. The loss of life is attributed largely to the belief of the girls that the alarm was only the signal for another fire drill. They took the time to dress or to get their prunes from adjacent lockers. "I'm not going down into the street dressed this way and make a show of myself," one girl said on the crowded top floor. This little vanity cost many lives it is estimated, because most of the girls on that floor, where the death-toll was heaviest, settled back to work. When they realized that it was a fire that they found sheets of flame and blinding smoke instead of the usually clear stairway and that they were trapped. Many were burned to death, and others died by jumping forty feet to the street for there were only two means of exit--a fire escape in the rear and a stairway to the front of the building.

HUNGER PANGS GRASP MEXICO

DISORGANIZATION OF INDUSTRY
BY REVOLUTION BEING FOL-LOWED

WORST YET TO COME

Prices of Food Stuff Doubled and Scarcity is Being Felt Even in Capital

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, July 26.—Mexico is getting hungry, and early in July it was evident that this condition would become much worse before relief could be had. Failure to plant crops in thousands of fields formerly cultivated, the increasing number of idle men due to the closing down of numerous industrial concerns, and the indirect side instituted against scores of cities have resulted in reducing to a deplorable condition regions where a great majority of the population relied only to be permitted to work. Lack of money resulting from lack of work has had its effect in increasing the prices, but the most direct cause has been the cutting of the railroads in all parts of the country. The fall of Durango revealed that the people of that town had been paying fabulous sums for certain ordinary commodities and that meat was an unobtainable luxury. Torreon for a time was in a situation almost as bad. Reports from Chihuahua were that one egg was bringing a peso and that eight pesos were paid for a kilo, or two and two-fifths pounds, of sugar. Conditions in Saltillo and Monterrey became serious notwithstanding that the government was able most of the time to keep open the line from Tampico. In all towns the neighboring country is dependent upon to supply the necessities of life, but even where railroads were kept open marauding bands of rebels made it their business to prevent the entry of supplies from the neighboring truck farms brought in on the backs of Indians or in carts. The effect of these factors has been keenly felt in the capital itself, where prices have more than doubled in the past year.

Failure to plant crops has not yet had its full direct effect. The season for the maturing of most crops has not come, but when it does, it is inevitable that the country will find itself forced to buy abroad, and money is scarce. In previous revolutions the planting has not been so seriously hindered, but since this is the most widespread revolt, the country has seen there are hundreds of thousands of unemployed acres.

not to block in with black those regions held by the rebels, but to block in the portions where the government's control was unquestioned. It was much more simple and required much less time.

Keen expectations of success were created by the determined efforts to reopen the railroad from the capital to Laredo, but in spite of some success attained the rebel movement continued to grow and the government was forced to concede the seriousness of the situation in the extreme south in the states of Campeche and Tabasco, as well as in the north, while the rebels operating in Vera Cruz along the coast line between Vera Cruz and Tampico forced the attention of the war department.

From time to time marked progress in the campaign against the Zapatistas was announced, and undoubtedly thousands were brought from that district and sent into the army, exiled to Quintana Roo or shot. But the Zapatistas continued active, carrying the warfare characterized by fire and loot into neighboring states and even into the federal district. These bands were operating in rifle shot of Tampico or San Angel ceased to excite interest on San Francisco street.

As an example of the nervousness felt in official centers was the fact that soldiers were detailed to ride on the suburban cars, early in July. Rebels on whom Pascual Orozco last year conferred the title of a commissioned officer, and whose title was used with quotation marks in the newspapers of the capital, have come into their own. They were taken into the army with the same rank, but in a division styled "irregular militia." The army had become topheavy with classifications and President Huerta has issued a decree converting all affiliated bodies into the regular establishment. It was announced that hereafter General Orozco and General Salazar and General Campes and all other holders of titles should be general officers of such as their rank might entitle the regular army.

In connection with his program for rebuilding the army, Huerta has ordered a number of changes that have created comment, some of which is not altogether favorable. One of these was the order to purchase lances with which a portion of the cavalry will be equipped instead of with sabres. The fact that the British used them with some success in South Africa is said to have caused Huerta to insist upon their use in his army.

The use of more automobiles also has been insisted upon by the president, and the columns which went north along the line of the National railway carried about fifty cars. When the order reached the war department to use more automobiles there was no time to deal with factories, and agents of the department went on the streets buying where they could from private individuals. It was Huerta's idea to use the cars and so much for the rapid transportation of officers.

FORGED WAY IN JAIL, FORGED OUT

"J. E. WILSON" GETS OUT OF JAIL
THROUGH EXPEDIENT OF A FORGED BOND

GOT $10 FROM ATTORNEY

Signature of Well Known Citizen
Forged Also Burk Burnett Justice of Peace

"J. E. Wilson," whose residence is unknown, forged his way into the county jail here last June and another forgery took him out again, and if he ever gets caught the officers are giving him more credit than is due him. Sheriff Randolph and his deputies are now convinced that they entertained for awhile one of the smoothest forgers in the business.

Wilson got in jail for forging a check. He got out through the expedient of forging a bond. The forgery of the bond wasn't discovered until Wilson's case was called for trial. Then it developed that the bond on which he got out of jail was a complete forgery.

On about June 23 Wilson asked Deputy Sheriff George Hawkins for the initials of Mr. Myers of Burk Burnett. Mr. Hawkins gave the information and a day later he noticed a letter going out from the jail addressed "F. M. Myers, Burk Burnett, Texas." A few days later a letter came addressed to Wilson, with Myers return card on the envelope.

ly and bowed his way out of the room and that's the last that has been heard of him or "De Armond" either.

The Frederick check coming back in course of time marked "N. G." and the day of the trial approached without any word from his client Mr. Mathis wrote to Mr. Myers asking him to be sure and have his man in court when his case was called. Then it was that the forgeries became known. Mr. Myers lost no time in letting it be known that he did not know Wilson and that he had signed no bond for him. Inquiry from Justice of the Peace Morris developed that no acknowledgement of a bond for Wilson with Myers' signature had been made before him and "R. G. De Armond" was not known at Burk Burnett.

nett. Mr. Mathis is still shy ten dollars and Sheriff Randolph is minus one of the cleverest prisoners who ever entered the county jail.

"Wilson" as he called himself appears to have been a well educated fellow. While in jail he drew up a set of rules and regulations for the conduct of the prisoners that would have done credit, in the manner in which they were formulated, to a lawyer.

The forgeries of the names of Mr. Myers and Mr. Morris are ones that would pass almost anyone, and indicate that "Wilson" had a confederate in "De Armond" as clever as himself.

MISS MARGARET WILSON STUDIES ARMY METHODS AT PENNSYLVANIA ENCAMPMENT.

Tobyhanna, Pa., July 26.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, was an interested visitor at the United States army camp here. She watched the field artillery at target practice and was highly pleased with all that she saw and at the marksmanship of the gunners. She asked numerous questions and gained a vast field of information concerning army life. The encampment was a great success, and the soldier boys enjoyed the outing, which was as near under service conditions as possible. Pennsylvania militia took part in the maneuvers under the direction of regular army officers.

OPIUM PACKED ABOUT CORPSE

CHINAMAN'S GREWSOME METHOD OF SHIPPING CONTRABAND DRUG DISCOVERED

ANTI OPIUM CAMPAIGN

Drastic Measures Being Enforced Against Traffic in Drug Bearing Fruit

By Associated Press.
Peking, July 26.—From Lanchow, the capital of Kansu province, comes the report of a Chinaman named Hsi who was arrested last February with two coffins in his possession containing the remains of near relatives, around which were packed four thousand ounces of opium which he was taking with the corpse into Shansi. It is the custom of the Chinese to take their dead in huge wooden coffins back to the place of their birth.

The prisoner was tried and sentenced to ten years imprisonment. The case then was referred to the central government in Peking, and the man was sentenced to death. The execution has just taken place, the prisoner being shot instead of decapitated, as was the practice in the old days. In connection with the suppression of the use of opium news reaches Peking from time to time of some drastic measure which the government is able to enforce in spite of the disorganization it is experiencing as a result of the revolution. Reports tell frequently of fighting between farmers who have formed bands and armed themselves with the object of successfully harvesting a crop of opium. Sometimes the reports tell of Christians being made special objects of attack and even murder because they oppose the growing of the poppy. The rule of keeping hands off the missionary and his property, however, is still generally observed, as it was throughout the revolution.

Other reports tell of proclamations threatening death for a third offense in selling or smoking opium. Still others tell of great stocks of the drug being burned amidst festival celebrations. Some $25,000 worth of confiscated opium went up in smoke in Tientsin a few weeks ago, while hands played and people drank tea and listened to speeches telling of the harm opium had done the Chinese. It is believed by foreigners and Chinese alike that such drastic measures would not be possible at this period of reconstruction if the feeling of the nation were not in favor of the reform. The restriction of the importation and growth has caused the value of opium in China to be enormously enhanced. Those who persist in using it must now do so not only in secret but at prices which only the rich can afford. It has been said to be beyond the reach of the poor man, selling as it does for many times what it cost before the suppression began. In consequence there are great inducements to carry on the trade illicitly and much smuggling and growing is remote hill country in the attempt. The cleverness of the Chinese police in discovering smuggled shipments is shown by the instance given above of the big burning at Tientsin. But in the country they are not always so clever, and many reports of fields of growing poppy come to government notice directly or indirectly through foreign missionaries and their converts.

An American missionary, E. W. Thwing, representing the International Reform Bureau, which has its headquarters at Washington, has been observing practices of this kind for a number of years to the suppression of the opium habit. He has been leading the campaign for the Chinese where it came in conflict with foreigners, and, as a result, he has acquired many enemies among those who are interested in the continuance of the trade. Thwing has shown the Chinese how to organize anti-opium societies and how to deal legally and to the best advantage with the white men in the business, who are subject to no Chinese laws but only to the jurisdiction of their own consular courts.

Thwing recently stated in a public speech in Shanghai that, while Chinese officials and people have suppressed the greater part of the traffic throughout the country, and stamped it out altogether in some provinces, the foreign quarter of Shanghai was licensing more opium shops each year. The suppression in what is known as the Native City had forced the opium traders and the smokers into the foreign settlements controlled by the foreign consuls subject to the orders of their governments. This, Thwing contends, is contrary to the Hague Opium convention, where all the interested Powers agreed to reduce the number of opium shops in the Chinese territories controlled by them in proportion to the reduction made by the Chinese government.

Comment is frequently made on the fact that two of the foremost American interests in China, the sale of cigarettes and the propagation of Christianity, seriously conflict. Agents of American and British missionary societies distribute Bibles and agents of the British-American Tobacco Company, which controls the sale of cigarettes in China, both penetrate to the far interior. In some remote little towns in the provinces bordering Mongolia, Tibet or Turkestan the only white men will be two small hostile groups of Americans, of two or three men each, one trying to induce the Chinese to give up their little water pipes for the cigarette, the other arguing that all things American are not good to adopt. Generally these two little troops of men are not on speaking terms.

OIL FIELD NEWS

An advance of five cents a barrel in the price of oil was posted here last week by the Magnolia and Texas companies and the fluid is now bringing $1 per barrel at the pipe lines.

This is two cents a barrel more than Oklahoma oil is bringing. Producers here say their oil ought to be selling at $1.05 to maintain its parity with the Oklahoma price. Oklahoma oil has been bringing seven cents barrel less than Electra all along until the last advance when the Oklahoma product has advanced to within two cents of the Electra.

The G. Heiserman lease of 40 acres has been transferred by H. B. Pringle to the Corsicana Petroleum Company for a consideration of $2,000.

Oil leases from G. W. Musgrave, Wade H. Walker, Lank Thornberry to Jack E. Kelly were filed for record Saturday. The leases embrace 300 acres of land. Mr. Kelly contracts to start drilling at once.

M. W. Silk of the Five Rivers Oil Company is back from a trip to Oklahoma, where he went to look after the starting of drilling on a well on a 160 acre lease southeast of Sapulpa. This well is in practically proven territory. Mr. Silk's company is also preparing to start a well to drill to the deep sand on the Marriott lease at Electra. This well will be started within the next thirty days.

ELEVENTH MEET FARMERS UNION

RADFORD WRITES OF PLANS FOR CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT SAN ANTONIO

TWO THOUSAND EXPECTED

Marketing and Rural Credits Will Be
Most Important Subjects Discussed

By Peter Radford,
President Texas Farmers' Union.

The eleventh meeting of the Farmers' Union which will be held at San Antonio on Tuesday, August 5, and continue until August 9, promises to be the largest in point of attendance the organization has ever held. At least two thousand delegates and representatives from local unions will be present. Every section of the state and various lines of agriculture will be represented. The cotton farmer, livestock, fruit and truck, nut growers and all branches of production.

A Square Deal For Marketing.

Marketing and Rural Credits will be the most important subjects submitted to the convention. The legislature is now in session considering the appropriation bill and we should insist upon marketing receiving a square deal as compared with production. We would not have the department of agriculture nor our agricultural colleges relax to any degree their efforts to improve methods of production, but if the financial ability of the state will not admit of any increase in appropriation, then we ask that fifty per cent of the amount appropriated to the agricultural department be used in improving methods of distribution and that a bureau of marketing and rural credits be established in the department of agriculture. A good market will stimulate production and make the producer eager to study better cultural methods, while unprofitable markets stagnate production and destroy interest in improved cultural methods.

Prominent Farmers on Program.

There will be many men prominent in the councils of the National Farmers' Union present. Among the national officials will be Charles S. Barrett, president; A. C. Davis, secretary; O. F. Dorshlazer, secretary national executive committee; L. M. Roach, president Tennessee Farmers' Union, and others.

These men will address the convention on the work of the union and on the problems of the farmer, which are recognized by the union to be more efficiency in production, better marketing methods, a system of rural credits and cooperation in making farmers more profitable and attractive. The convention will lay particular stress upon organization and cooperation. It is the belief of those who have given the subject most careful consideration that the farmer must take the initiative and organize before he can be materially benefitted by friendly interests, either governmental or voluntary, that seek to assist him.

The Farmer Must Solve His Own Problems.

The problems of the farmer are not going to be solved by city men shouting to him through a megaphone. He must think, study and act for himself. He must take the initiative, and with out it agriculture can not hope for self government and the farmer will continue to be preyed upon by competitive lines of industry and suffer the penalty of an inefficient system of distribution and financing.

No wave of enthusiasm can be made to guide the plow. No set of resolutions can be passed sufficiently unanimous to germinate seed, and no gift of eloquence can create a market. Agriculture is the most practical of all occupations and the farmer must organize and solve his problems just as the laborer, the manufacturer and all other lines of industry organize and work out lines of action.

What the Farmers' Union is Doing.

During the past year the officials of the Farmers' Union have devoted their energies largely to building up the local unions, securing cooperation of the bankers in marketing cotton and in placing the work of the union before the public. Our state organizers have been doing effective work in the field and many locals have organized and existing locals built up and their influence and efficiency increased.

We have established a central selling agency at Houston under the management of E. P. Shropshire, general sales agent, and all local unions will receive the advice and council of the agency in marketing cotton, and provision has been made for lending money on cotton at six per cent per annum. Unlimited funds are available at the port and provisions have been made for the funds at interior points where warehouses are located. I estimate that we have ample money available for lending on distress cotton at six per cent at interior points. In this work we have met with the cordial assistance of the Texas Bankers Association, represented by J. Hirsch, chairman of the agricultural committee, and many individual bankers have rendered valuable assistance.

Our legislative committee has attended the sessions of the legislature and has favored proposed laws which it considered in the interest of the farmer has opposed legislation inimical to agriculture. The committee is now endeavoring to secure an appropriation of $25,000 to support a bureau of marketing.

Considerable attention has been given to the preparation of articles for the newspapers and we are indebted to the press in Texas and out of the state for the very liberal space it has given us. The position of the union on production and marketing has been fully presented to the public.

Real Farmers Will Be There.

This is a meeting of men who plow, and the credentials to the convention are calloused hands and a sunburned face. Silver tongued agriculturists who shy at a locomotive will not be seated in the convention. These men are not meeting to present an appeal for aid, to frame up a stock jobbing expedition or to raid the public for funds. They are plain countrymen who toil from sun to sun, meeting on their own initiative and at their own expense in an effort to better the conditions of agriculture. They are men proud of their occupation, asking favors of none, but inviting the cooperation of all.

Special rates have been granted on all railroads and tickets will be on sale August 5, returning August 9.

CONVICTS SHUN CHANCE TO ESCAPE AND JOIN FIREMEN IN VAIN ATTEMPT TO SAVE WORKSHOPS AT SING SING.

Ossining, N. Y., July 26.—The remarkable feature of the $180,000 fire at Sing Sing prison was that in spite of the opportunities afforded none of the 1,400 convicts tried to escape. On the other hand, 200 of them, trained as a fire brigade, helped the firemen to fight the flames. The other 1,200 were marched to their cells and locked up. The paint shop, mat shop, where the blaze started; cart and wagon shop and lumber storage were destroyed. Kurt Schoenherr, burglar, escaped a few nights ago, and one theory, shared by the convicts, was that he had been hiding inside the prison wall and rather than starve or give himself up set the fire and perished. Warden Clancy believes the fire is another argument for immediate work on a new prison. The damage done by the fire amounted to $270,000.

STAGE FOLK IN NEW YORK AGAIN

ACTORS GATHER ON THE RIALTO TO SEEK ENGAGEMENT BY SHOW MANAGERS

NEW RECRUITS ARE MANY

Throng That Haunts Broadway Larger This Season and They Come Earlier

(By Beau Rialto, written for the United Press)

New York, July 26.—They are all back again, the stage folk, watching both sides of Broadway for a next season's engagement. August 1 is the traditionally accepted time for actors and actresses other than stars to begin hunting for engagements, and most of them save those who have good things in stock are forehanded enough to get to the Big Town a few days ahead of time. It's the early bird that gets the worm, they figure, and by the same token it's the early worm that gets caught, in the opinion of the wary managers, most of whom take refuge from the deluge of applicants by remaining out of town or in the seclusion of their private offices until the time comes when it is imperative that they engage their winter players.

August, therefore, is the playtime of the actors and actresses who aptly called the "children of the stage." They crowd the Rialto, which is the name given that part of Broadway holding the bulk of the town's theaters and all the managers' offices, from noon until night and noisy reasons occur almost every moment. Friends of a former season meet for the first time in months, maybe years, and they just have to stop and talk it over. These are busy days for the sidewalk policemen around Forty-second street since the edict against street loitering has been rigidly enforced. The stage folk are habitual "standees" when on Broadway.

The stage folk are all optimists, that is, when they are being looked at, though a close student of human nature, if a bit unsympathetic, might call them "four flushers." It is rather an amusing study in physiognomy, to watch the hurrying crowds of actors these late summer afternoons. If they happen to be alone, hurrying on their weary rounds from agency to agency, one is most apt than not to see a worried, anxious look on their faces, a furtively hunted expression about their tired eyes. But at the corner they meet friends. An amazing change of countenance takes place with lightning like rapidity. The lines of anxiety disappear as if by magic and their faces become wreathed with smiles and confidence.

No, they have not taken an engagement just yet, because it is so early in the season, and they want to see some of the new Broadway shows before going out, and besides they are undecided between two perfectly bully engagements. Oh yes, several managers have made them offers, but one show is to go all the way to the coast, working fifty weeks, sure, while the other is to tour the southern circuit where the weather will be heavenly all season. They just cannot make up their minds which to take. Both jobs are characters, you know, and they are tired of characters and would like a chance at some real work.

Surely, the friends understand perfectly, for they are on the horns of a similar dilemma themselves. And then, wishing many farewells, they hurry in opposite directions, accompanied by the same old weary look and the weary round of agencies continues until closing time.

This season the Rialto throng is larger than for several years past. They are here from North, West and South; from Canada and as far west as the Pacific Coast. Last year was an exceptionally hard one on road shows. The trail was dotted early in the season with their whitening bones and for that reason hundreds of men and women came to town earlier than they ever did before to "get in on the ground floor." Because of last winter's disasters Chicago rather lost prestige as an entertainment center and many actors who have heretofore made the Lake City their headquarters have come on to New York. Formerly the majority of the No. 2 companies and the popular price melodrama aggregations have been made up in the Western center, but this year a great deal of business formerly done in Chicago is being attended to on Broadway.

Then, too, according to old time observers, there were more than the usual number of recruits on hand this time. Dramatic schools are on the increase throughout the country and scores of youthful aspirants, girls and boys, have come to Broadway to try to break in. They can be picked out on the Rialto by the freshness of their faces, the absence of make-up, the amazement on their faces as they stare bewilderingly at the high buildings and the eddying throngs and lastly by their failure to join the chattering groups before the Cohen & Harris buildings.

Nobody but the actor knows the wearying grind of hunting an engagement. Along Broadway from Thirty-ninth street to Forty-fourth there are more than half a hundred managers' offices and agencies where all sorts of performers are engaged, ranging from vaudeville artists for the "kerosene" circuit to grand opera singers and chorus people. All of the offices are up stairs, most of them many flights up stairs and few of them are in the new buildings with elevators. Up the countless steps trudge the tired men and women and girls, most of them to trudge down again with hearts heavier than when they ascended.

Harmony Must Prevail In Frocks, and Trimming

New York, July 26.—Planning a vacation outfit is not the easiest task in the world. Even man finds it difficult—and if man, with his comparatively simple wardrobe, what of mere woman? If the outfit consisted only of gowns it would not seem so complicated a problem, but in these fastidious days it must include so many accessories and these must be chosen most carefully—and with a keen eye for harmony or contrast. Do you wonder then, at the quandary in which woman finds herself when this task confronts her? To be sure, even in a town of limited size, a modiste will assume the entire responsibility, seen. The shapes are considerably larger than formerly, and are simply trimmed; the Panama, with a band of velvet or scarf of ribbon or silk; and the Milan, with ribbon, wings, flowers, tulle or net. The fashion of edging crown and rim with pleatings of tulle and net is much in vogue, as is the hat whose sole claim to a crown consists of a single thickness of black tulle attached to a rim of black straw. Black grosgrain ribbon fashioned in a bow on the left side is its only trimming.

The new parasols are very odd in shape. Many are straight, like those of the Japanese; others droop well over the frame and are almost cup shaped. All are very gaudy in color, but the woman of conservative taste is satisfied if the color harmonizes effectively with her costume. A parasol suitable to carry with lingerie frocks is of white mousseline de soie, but the cost will be increased proportionately. It is out of consideration for this fact, and not from preference, that ninety-nine out of every hundred women choose to be their own modistes.

Costumes for morning, afternoon, and evening must be chosen with consummate care, whether one be debutante on her first socially established outing, or matron with a distinctive reputation to maintain. The frock of the first illustration will serve every practical purpose for the early hours of the day, whether the vacation be spent at a fashionable watering place or an out of the way farm house. It was developed in khaki color Ramee lines, with collar and cuffs of figured raitine in shades of tan, gold and old blue. The addition of a jacket on Russian or Balkan lines will make the outfit suitable for traveling or for wear on cool days.

With this costume a straw hat of tan or similar shade, simply trimmed with flowers, quill or ribbon, also tan gloves, hose and low shoes, should be worn. If one does not care to observe the tan color scheme throughout, these accessories would be in equally good taste and style in black.

Very attractive for early afternoon wear is the frock with waist and skirt of different tones. Crepe, with figures and motifs of Cubist or Futurist design, makes an effective waist and petticoat, which in appearance simulates the jacket. Such a waist worn with a skirt of similar fabric and of shade harmonizing with the main tone of the bodice, is both smart and attractive. A ribbon sash of any harmonious shade invariably accompanies such a costume. It is brought loosely twice about the waist and tied low at front, back or side, the ends extending to, or a little above the knee.

The preference in shoes for afternoon and evening wear is given to white canvas, buckskin, kid and satin. For afternoon, they may be either high button, tie, or low pump with lallored bow. For street wear, the Colonial shoe, with buckle of cut steel or gun metal, is a prime favorite. For evening either white or black is good style. Black pumps of kid or satin are ornamented with rhinestones or jeweled buckles; jeweled heels, too, are frequently seen. Stockings, as an item of dress, have reached a place of vast importance. The approved mode is to have hose of a shade similar to the frock or the color scheme which is seen about the shoes, regardless of the color of the shoes worn. They should, of course, be of silk or net and may be as elaborate and gossamer as desired or as the purse will permit. For general wear embroidery in mere tracery or in great floral motifs, is used. Brilliant gaudy beads and sequins adorn those worn by admirers of the bizarre. Stockings of lace are also in favor with the ultra-fashionable. The all white hat, suggesting a coolness especially desirable during mid-summer, predominates for wear with white lingerie frocks. Panama and Milan straws are most generally trimmed with narrow shirred bands of the material.

Service both in accessory and gown should be the keynote of the practical woman's outfit. A tub frock that is really washable is something of a rarity in these days of summer lingerie garments, but such a frock is pictured in the second illustration. The development is an ecru color figured crepon, with sleeves and gimpes of net, and collar and cuffs of color pongee silk. A girle and tie of Gobelin blue ribbon finish a costume dainty and smart enough for any afternoon affair during the torrid days of July and August. The vest blouse is illustrated worn over a guimpe, but, as desired, the sleeves may be attached to the bodice.

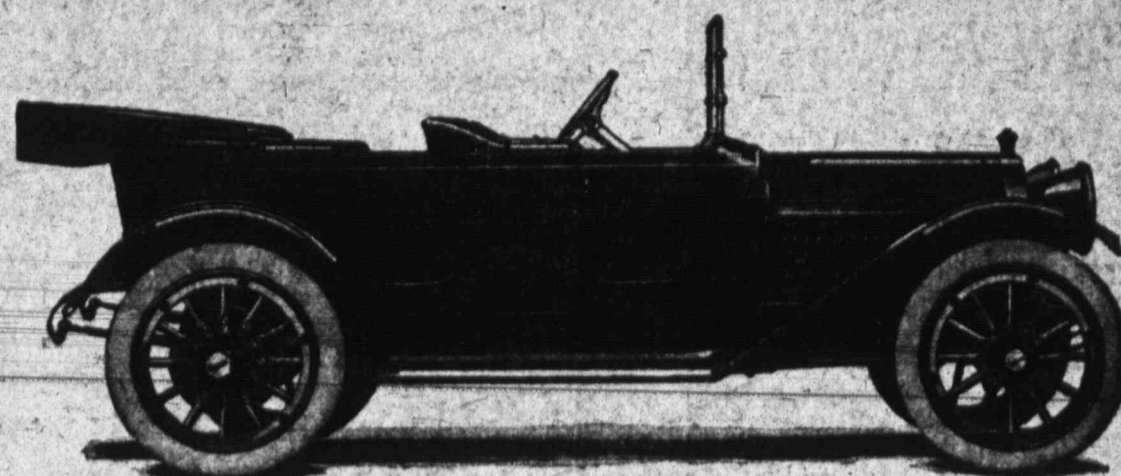

The flounce, tier above tier, makes of the maid a charming summer girl, quite the man approved, essentially feminine type; and, one must admit, most attractive. This mode may be introduced in either afternoon or evening frock. When developed in mousseline, net or chignon with billowy tulle filling in the low cut V bodice front and with sash of delicate pink, blue or yellow decorating the waist, even green eyed woman must approve of her lucked sister.

If the vacation days are to be spent at the seashore, chiffons and very perishable fabrics had best be tabooed as they do not take kindly to the humid atmosphere. Crepes, satins, soft silks and nets are attractive and equally pleasing substitutes. Of negligees and under garments there must, of course, be many.

The old right of way of the Arkansas and Choctaw has been acquired and the first twenty miles will be easily and hurriedly built for the reason that much of the grading is already done. phis and will be hauled over the Rock Island.

Mr. Ringling, the showman, who is behind the project, states that the car show and the division point will be located in Ardmore. The company's charter provides that the home offices shall be located here and Mr. Ringling is now having plans made for the construction of a $50,000 building which will be used jointly as a depot and as offices for the company.

At least two prosperous towns will be built on the line between here and the main line of the Rock Island on the west. An oil pipe line will be built into one of these towns, as the Carter and Stephens county oil fields are near the new road. Mr. Ringling and his associates have outlined 20,000 acres of these lands and the oil fields will be developed at once.

The Red River Oil Company, one of the largest concerns in the country, backed by the Critchfolds of Pennsylvania has closed a contract for the drilling of a series of wells in the western portion of the county and one of these wells is now being sunk. Four oil bearing sands have been encountered and it is the plan of the company to sink the first well to a depth of 3,000 feet for the purpose of making a deep test.

The Santa Fe has built a pipe line from mine fields into Ardmore and their oil business has increased until the company will construct a large office building here in which to locate the offices of the fuel department of the road.

Many investors are coming to the city. Some of the large ones are locating here and others are preparing to make investments in the smaller towns. The Purcell Wholesale Grocery Company is the first wholesale concern to establish a house here on account of the better shipping facilities which the western connection will give.

Mr. Ringling states that he will purchase a home here and will have one of his commercial secretaries located here to aid in the location of factory enterprises and to build up the agricultural interests of the country tributary to the new line of road.

We are now located in our new quarters where we can fill your wants for candy, wholesale or retail. All orders large or small, will have the same attention. Lone Star Candy Co., 807 Indiana avenue. 63 1c2
