SUSPECTS UNDER SURVEILLANCE

SUSPICION IN CONNECTION WITH DALLAS MURDER CENTERED ON CERTAIN PERSONS

NOW BEING INVESTIGATED

Girl's Uncle May Be Able to Tell Why Someone Might Want in Safe

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, July 30.—Police suspicion now centered on certain persons in connection with the murder of Miss Florence T. Brown, stenographer and church worker, whose throat was cut in her uncle's real estate office here last Monday morning. It is now known that the police are investigating these anonymous persons very closely.

Jeff Robinson, uncle of the slain girl and head of the real estate firm in whose office she worked is expected to arrive in Dallas today. The police hope he may be able to point out some reason why some person might enter the safe which opens only to the lady, where the young woman's body was found.

Officers who contend that a woman had committed the crime point to a woman's footprints found in the soft earth at the side of the building.

Papers in Vault Undisturbed.

It became known today that Chief Detectives Henry Tanner and Chief Ryan visited the Robinson and Styron offices late Tuesday night and opened the big vault, but found all the papers relating to the firm's business carefully filed and containing nothing which might explain a motive for the murder. The personal effects of Miss Brown have also been carefully examined. A number of letters from a traveling man who is known to have been an ardent admirer of the girl were found. Chief Tanner said some of these letters spoke of marriage.

He says, however, that the man lives out of town and was not in Dallas on the day of the murder. Chief Tanner declines to give the name or the contents of the correspondence. He said that in some of the letters the young woman was addressed as "sweetheart."

Sheriff Ben F. Brandenburg declared that the mystery surrounding the death of Miss Brown is apparently unsolved. He said he has been working on his personal attention to the case for two days, but admitted he without a clew of any kind.

"We are right where we started yesterday morning," said Chief of Police Ryan. "Every effort that has been put into this case has been fruitless, but every way we turn we are confronted with a veritable wall of insurmountable mystery. There have been many people who have telephoned offering suggestions, none of them has been of any help. It has benefited us in the slightest degree."

Game Wrong for Police.

In the first place, everything in connection with the case has gone wrong for the police department. We are not notified of the killing of Miss Brown until about twenty minutes after the body has been found. The information was so vague it was difficult to determine just what had happened. We hurried to the scene upon reaching there found the body had been removed. Numerous persons had crowded into the office, pushing and interfering through the smaller rooms. I do not feel that we have anything more about the case than at the commencement. I have not in all my own personal time on the case, I expect to stop at nothing to further the prosecution. I hope the body which will not be touched until we have solved this mystery and landed the guilty man behind prison bars."

Nothing Valuable in Vault.

Walter R. Styron said: "While I have not gone through the vault at the office, I am confident by my own eyes that the detectives looked through it and nothing appeared to have been disturbed. I am positive there was no large amount of money in the vault, neither were there papers or documents of any kind which would have been of sufficient value to induce anyone to attempt a daylight robbery, much less the murdering of an innocent girl. So far as I know the vault had not been opened since Saturday evening, until after Mr. Styron and the officers went into it yesterday morning. I am positive that the man who committed this deed was bound to have entered the office through the front doorway and departed the same way. Those doors and a small ventilation window near the ceiling are the only openings in the office. It is a small room and I have experienced some difficulty in keeping cool during the warm afternoons. Frequently we would open all of the doors, including those of the smaller rooms, to permit of an air current circulating through the place. There is no basement beneath the room, no secret passages that I know of leading from the vault; in fact, I am positive there is not any means of ingress or exit aside from the front doors. Mr. Robinson will return home Thursday through the office. The office is closed until I have received from him and the office will remain closed until his return.

BEALL WILL CONSIDER GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Congressman from Dallas District Will Retire; May Announce for Governor

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, July 30.—Congressman Jack Beall of this district who is here for a short visit reiterated today his decision to retire at the end of his present term in congress. He said: "I have not considered the matter of entering the race for governor as my friends have suggested. It is possible that I will give the matter consideration later."

EXAMINERS CLOSE BANK AT WINTERS

Defalcation of $10,000 Said to be Cause of Closing—Cashier Missing Since July 17

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, July 30.—The Farmers and Merchants State Bank at Winters was closed last night by state bank examiners. A statement issued by the state banking department shows that the bank had deposits of $55,000 with assets of approximately $50,000. The bank was closed owing to a defalcation which the department says is about $10,000. According to the state banking department it is probable the affairs of the bank can be liquidated without the assistance of the guaranty fund.

F. W. Merick, cashier of the bank has been gone since July 17.

Philadelphia Suffragettes to March. Philadelphia, July 30.—Nearly one hundred suffragettes, with banners flying, the vanguard of the big Pennsylvania contingent, leaves here this afternoon for Washington where they will participate in the monster woman suffrage demonstration in the capital tomorrow. The advanced delegation included only marchers. They were under the leadership of "General" Miss Caroline Katzenstein, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Equal Suffrage Association. Early trains tomorrow morning will carry the marchers to the Pennsylvania delegation to Washington in time for the parade. Those who go tomorrow will take in the "uninformed pageant." Just before leaving this afternoon, a telegram from the Washington headquarters to "General" Katzenstein read: "Police will be on the job this time. Major Sylvester has promised its protection from the rowdies and hoodlums who insulted and heaped indignities upon us on the third of last March."

NORTHWESTERN TRAINS AN HOUR EARLIER

Southbound Passenger Will Arrive Before Saloons Close—Northbound Will Leave Earlier in A. M.

Superintendent R. J. Sullivan returned from Dallas this morning where he has been at work for a week re-arranging the schedule for trains on the Wichita Falls Route and the M. K. & T. The principal change in the time table is that of the Northwestern train No. 3 and 4. No. 4 now arrives here at 9:25 in the evening. This time will be changed to bring it in at 8:25, making it an hour earlier and an hour and five minutes before the closing of the saloons. This change it is said will make an earning of at least $1000 per month for the company, as it is thought there will be that much more traffic if the train is scheduled to arrive before the saloons close.

Train No. 3 now leaving at 4:45 will be changed so as to leave at 3:45 a. m.

On the Katy, trains No. 11 and 12, which now pass at the station will be changed so that train No. 12 will leave at 1:30 p. m. and No. 11 will arrive at 1:40 p. m. making the trains pass in the lower yards.

There will be no changes in the time table on the Wichita Falls and Southern.

CORNERSTONE WILL BE LAID

DR. HILL WILL OFFICIATE AT EVENT AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH THURSDAY

MASONS TO TAKE PART

Citizenship Asked to Join in Ceremonies at 10:30 Tomorrow Morning

To all Christian People of Wichita Falls, greeting: My Dear Friends: In the absence of Dr. McKee, the officers of the First Presbyterian Church of this city have requested me to lay the corner stone of their new building on the corner of Tenth and Bluff streets tomorrow morning at 10:30. This I have gladly consented to do and have invited the brethren of the Masons fraterally to assist me in this solemn ceremony. It gratifies me to be able to serve a sister denomination in this fraternal capacity and I trust that all Christian people in the city who can possibly do so will be present on the occasion.

This church is to be a beautiful structure and a credit, not only to the denomination erecting it, but to the entire citizenship of Wichita Falls. Every right-thinking person will rejoice with our good Presbyterian brethren in this splendid achievement, which not only serves as an ornament to the city but contributes to the furtherance of the Gospel and to the glory of our common Lord.

J. W. HILL, Pastor First M. E. Church, South, Wichita Falls, Tex., July 30, 1913.

BURLESON SAYS SENATOR CULBERSON IS OVERWORKED.

Washington, July 30.—Postmaster General Burleson gave out the following statement in regard to Senator Culberson's health: "Senator Culberson has not one symptom of Bright's disease and never has had. I have recently seen him and also conferred with his physician, who assures me he has no organic trouble, that his present condition is purely attributable to overwork and that the only thing necessary for his recovery is rest and quietness. His health is much better than when he left Washington and is constantly improving. He will return here with cooler weather. The suggestion of his resignation is absurd. He has not the slightest intention of taking such action."

CAMPAIGN FOR PUBLIC LIBRARY

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF CITY WILL BE BEHIND MOVEMENT HERE COMING FALL

A campaign to land a public library for Wichita Falls will be waged during the coming fall and winter by the women's clubs of this city, through the United Clubs. Although practically all of the literary organizations are inactive during the summer months, plans are already being made for the work of the cooler months and it is the intention of Mrs. J. C. Berney that a public library should be an objective point. She hopes to raise sufficient funds at least to purchase a lot and believes that with such a start made, the rest would be less difficult.

A public library has long been considered a necessity in Wichita Falls, as there are few cities of this size in Texas that are without such an institution, and it is believed that an organized campaign would receive hearty support.

Sometimes next fall, Mrs. Berney hopes to have the United Clubs stage a baby show, in line with the "better babies" movement which has been attracting so much attention recently. Details of this interesting affair have not been worked out as yet, but it is practically certain that the show will be held if the United Clubs enter into the movement as part of their program for the year.

MOOSE ELECT OFFICERS OF SUPREME LODGE.

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—Election of officers and the selection of next year's convention place was the principal business at Tuesday's session of the Loyal Order of Moose. About a dozen cities are in the field for the honor.

New Orleans, Dallas, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Walter Dorn of San Francisco was elected supreme dictator by acclamation; M. M. Garland of Pittsburg, vice dictator; and Arthur E. Jones of Indianapolis, past supreme dictator.

ENCAMPMENT OFFICERS CHOSEN

R. E. BELL OF BOWIE ELECTED PRESIDENT INTERSTATE BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT

MEET HERE NEXT YEAR

Over 300 From Outside Points Registered—Iowa Park Sends Largest Delegation

Plans for next year's session of the Interstate Baptist Encampment were discussed at a business meeting held at the pavilion Wednesday evening. It was unanimously voted to hold the encampment again next year and Lake Wichita was again selected as the place for the next meeting. It was decided to hold the encampment in July, exact dates being left open.

The following officers for the encampment were elected: President, R. E. Bell, Bowie; vice presidents, W. B. Holland, Henrietta, R. B. Morgan, Memphis, T. J. Talley, Gainesville; secretary and treasurer, W. H. McKenzie, Iowa Park; executive committee, R. E. Bell, W. B. Holland, R. B. Morgan, T. J. Talley, W. H. McKenzie, H. D. Heath, Decatur; D. B. Hill, Chillicothe; W. D. Boswell, Graham, J. W. Jeff, Lancaster; E. C. McDonald, Chillicothe; W. A. Arnold, Fort Worth; J. P. Boone, Ft. N. Mainer and J. W. Brown, Wichita Falls.

A special committee to draft the program for the women's department was also named. This committee is as follows: Mrs. I. A. Ferris, Wichita Falls; Mrs. S. Webb, Bellevue; Mrs. Crawford, Graham; Mrs. M. L. Fuller, Plano; Mrs. C. Y. Crosby, Bowie.

The following resolutions were also adopted: Resolved, that we express our hearty appreciation and gratitude to the owners of this property, who have made this the most beautiful and suitable grounds for an encampment in the entire state, at a cost of $200,000. Lake Wichita is the largest and most beautiful artificial lake in Texas. On the whole country, all of which has been furnished the Baptist Encampment free of any charges, including lights for the occasion and management of the grounds. In our opinion no other Baptist assembly has been offered so excellent an opportunity to build up a great permanent encampment.

We also wish to express our appreciation to those who had the grounds in charge during this session for their constant vigilance and kindness. We also wish to express our appreciation to the visitors, express our appreciation to the Baptist churches of Wichita Falls and especially to Pastor Boone and Pastor McKenzie for their untiring efforts in launching and bearing the big end of the burden of the encampment thus far. We promise them our visitors, our constant sympathy and help in perpetuating and building up a great encampment for this territory.

Resolved further that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the Wichita Falls Times and the North Texas Baptist for publication.

W. B. HOLLAND, T. J. TALLEY, R. E. BELL, H. D. HEATH, Committee.

The attendance has far exceeded expectations more than three hundred from points outside Wichita Falls having registered. Iowa Park and Henrietta were the two towns sending the largest delegations, Iowa Park sending 59 and Henrietta 58.

THREE ARE DROWNED NEAR KIRBYVILLE, TEXAS.

Kirbyville, Texas, July 30.—Three young women drowned in Cow Creek, near here. A party of young women had gone to the mouth of the creek for an outing and a few hours after their arrival there went in bathing.

The dead are: MISS SALLIE BYRNES, MISS KATIE BYRNES, MISS PEARL NORMAN, all of Kirbyville.

The cries of the three in the water and others attracted the attention of Wall Christian, who arrived in time to rescue two others who were resuscitated. The three bodies have been recovered.

CONNECTICUT SENATOR ATTACKS DEMOCRATIC TARIFF BILL IN SPEECH TODAY

QUOTES FROM SPEECHES

Says Underwood and Others Promised Protective Principles Would be Observed

By Associated Press. July 30.—Charging that democratic leaders have broken their tariff promises with the working people of New England made before the last election Senator George T. McLean of Connecticut assailed the Underwood tariff bill in the senate today.

Senator McLean referred in his speech to passages from speeches of Representative Underwood, Commissioner Redfield, Representative Rilly and Governor Baldwin whom he quoted as assuring mill workers that the democratic tariff would look after the difference between the cost of production in the United States and countries abroad.

"The protection democrats have tried to compromise with the free trade democrats and this, of course, is impossible," said Mr. McLean. "My complaint is that the democratic party has broken its sacred promise to the people of Connecticut. If adequate protection is found in any rate in this bill it is there by accident. It is not the way the conclusions have been reached—it is the effect of the conclusions that the people of Connecticut are afraid of. This bill may be an example of the 'invisible and inaudible' government but it is a sample of the betrayal of their promises by a minority of the democratic party."

Senator Stone Replies.

Shaking his fist at republican senators, Senator Stone today charged that during the tariff debate that every republican speech had been made with a deliberate attempt to create a panic. The Missouri senator spoke in reply to Senator McLean.

Senator Stone's reply, in answer said that if any disturbance was being engendered it was being caused through the statements of President Wilson, Secretary Redfield and Secretary McAlgo.

"Senator Stone read mercantile reports showing the business conditions throughout the country to be good.

ANOTHER BIG JEWEL ROBBERY

OVER $150,000 WORTH OF JEWELS TAKEN FROM ANOTHER HOUSE AT NARRAGANSETT PIER

ROBBERY TUESDAY NIGHT

Total Value of Jewels Taken in Two Raids Exceeded $225,000

Narragansett Pier, L. I., July 30.—Jewelry worth at least $150,000 was stolen from the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hamman of New York here Friday night. The theft of the $75,000 worth of jewelry from the home of C. C. Rumsey, son-in-law of the late E. H. Harriman occurred Saturday night. The articles taken from the Hamman home included a diamond and a pearl necklace, two diamond-encrusted watches, a pair of black diamond ear rings encrusted in white diamonds.

An Organ Grinder Suspected.

The jewel robbery at the summer home of C. C. Rumsey, a member of the Cooperstown polo team, was reported to the local police last Sunday, but on the solicitation of Mr. Rumsey, it was kept quiet and no one went to the house to investigate until last night Mr. Rumsey refused to have a policeman visit his house Sunday evening, but yesterday consented and B. Alrons, a constable remained on watch all night. The police, as well as private detectives have been at work on the case.

It is the belief of Mr. Rumsey and Chief Saswell that the robber entered the front door and stole the gems last Saturday night while Mr. and Mrs. Rumsey were at the Casino.

They left about 5 o'clock and returned at 11, finding the servants asleep. "No one in the household could remember having heard any suspicious sounds during the period in which the robbery must have been committed. In the room adjoining that from which the jewels were taken slept the nurse and child. They were not disturbed.

Private detectives working on the theft believe that an organ grinder who loitered about the house during the morning and afternoon preceding the robbery may have been laying plans for the robbery.

Mrs. Rumsey kept her jewels in an unlocked drawer of her bureau and the doors and windows of the house were left unfastened day and night. The jewels were in their accustomed

His Motorcycle Collided With Street Car—Injuries May Prove Fatal

By Associated Press. Cincinnati, July 30.—Rube Benton, star pitcher for the Cincinnati National League baseball team was seriously injured this morning when a motorcycle on which he was riding, collided with a street car. At the Cincinnati hospital to which he was taken it was said that Benton suffered a fractured jaw, concussion of the brain and was internally injured. It is thought he will die.

W. B. CHADWELL FOUND DEAD IN FORT WORTH

Mari Disease Believed to Have Caused Death of Wichita Falls Man

W. B. Chadwell of Wichita Falls was found dead in a hotel at Fort Worth Tuesday afternoon. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause of death, although he has always enjoyed the best of health. He was about 35 years of age, and was the son of J. B. Chadwell. The family have lived here about eighteen months. Of late W. B. Chadwell had been working at the face mill at Childress, and went from there to Fort Worth Saturday. The funeral will be held at Trenton, Texas. The mother of the young man is now in Colorado, having gone there for her health some time ago. Her condition is rather serious and friends are rather fearful of the outcome when the news of her son's death is made known.

SHAKE-UP IN PENNSION BUREAU RASPS G. O. P.

Washington, July 30.—A sharp fight in congress is threatened as the result of alleged wholesale changes and demotions in the pension bureau. In which many old soldiers are said to have been discharged. Representative Austin of Tennessee, a Republican already has offered a resolution in the house calling on Secretary Lane of the interior department for information concerning the shake-up, especially as to whether civil service rules are being violated.

The anxiety of the Republicans is said to be based on the report that when Pension Commissioner Saltzberger returns to his post there will be further and more sweeping changes. Acting Commissioner Tiegan is quoted as saying in the general reorganization employes with democratic affiliations and beliefs will be given preference on the ground that a working force in sympathy with the administration is necessary for good work.

DROWNED GIRLS WERE BURIED HERE

Double Funeral Held This Morning for Jessie and Gordon Thomas

The double funeral of Jessie and Gordon Thomas was held from the home of the father, Horace Thomas, 1101 Denver avenue at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Notices had been sent out that the funeral would be held at 11 o'clock but the time was changed to allow relatives who were coming on the noon train to be present. A large crowd of sorrowing friends gathered at the home to show their sympathy and love for the two little girls who had lost their lives in such a tragic manner. The two coffins were placed side by side in one grave at Riverside cemetery.

It had been planned to take the bodies to Matamoros, where the funeral was given up late yesterday afternoon.

Bishop—Approximately 100 bales of the 1913 cotton crop were ginned here during July and the yield promises to be up to the average. Feed crops are now maturing and harvest will soon begin. Two forage crops are raised each year in this section.

RESTRICTED RECOGNITION

AMBASSADOR WILSON MAKES RECOMMENDATIONS FOR FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE

THE SESSION WAS SECRET

Details of Ambassador's Plan Not Made Public—Another Conference

By Associated Press. Washington, July 30.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson advocated restricted recognition of the Huerta government in Mexico at an executive conference with the Senate foreign relations committee, but the committee took no action today. Details of his plan were not divulged at the time but some of the Republican senators said the ambassador had made a favorable impression but not necessarily as to his plan, but as to his whole story his connection with events in Mexico.

Chairman Bacon said the committee had been unable to finish with Ambassador Wilson and that he would be heard again tomorrow. Senator Hitchcock, democrat, said he had been "very favorably impressed." Senator Shively said the ambassador had made an "interesting statement" of his connection with Mexican affairs.

Opening of the Conference.

Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson conferred with the Senate foreign relations committee in executive session today giving his views on the Mexican situation.

It was evident that the senators were looking forward to first hand information with the keenest interest. Secretary Bryan was not present.

Ambassador Wilson began with a chronological recital of his personal observations of the stirring events in Mexico beginning with the agitation against Diaz to the downfall of Madero and the rise of Huerta.

Expelled Mexicans in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., July 30.—St. Louis is today being called the chief exile city for wealthy Mexicans who have incurred the displeasure of the present government of that revolutionary country. From a son of one of the wealthy exiles it was learned today that an "Exile Association" has been organized composed of nearly 200 former citizens of Mexico. The organization is soon to begin the publication of a paper devoted to the interests of the "Exile Colony."

Washington Ready For Suffragettes.

Washington, July 30.—Plans were completed today by suffrage leaders and city officials for what is expected to be the greatest suffrage demonstration ever seen in the capital city. The chief event will be the parade and pageant in which wives of senators and representatives in the national legislature and other prominent women will take part. The line of march will be from the rendezvous, Hyattsville, a little hamlet in Maryland eight miles from the capital building, west on Pennsylvania avenue and past the White House. The latter route is the same attempted during the parade on March 3, last, when the hoodlums insulted the suffragists without hindrance by the police, and for a time broke up the parade. Admitting that he has learned his lesson Major and Superintendent Richard Sylvester declare today that he will have all the streets roped off—something he failed to do on March 3—and that extra details of police will be stationed along the line of march.

PRESIDENT WILSON ON RECORD AS PARTY LEADER.

New York, July 30.—President Wilson has put himself on record as the leader of the democratic party.

This fact was set forth in a letter given out by Ex-Major Otto Wittpen of Chicago. Mr. Wittpen, a progressive democrat, decided to run for the nomination for governor. Governor Fielder is also in the race.

As both Wittpen and Fielder are friends of the president, he was asked to make a choice between the pair and he did. He took Governor Fielder. In his letter to Wittpen the president says that Wittpen wished to know his judgment and forced him to make a choice between friends and then writes:

"It is that we ought to support Mr. Fielder's candidacy. I am sure that you will not think that the conclusion I have come to as leader of the party is in any way a subtraction from my cordial personal regard or from acknowledgment of the distinguished services which you have rendered the party."

The president points out that the progressive movement might be injured by two candidates.

Withdrawing from the race, Mr. Wittpen urges the election of a better candidate that will be in harmony with the progressive democratic candidate.

OPEN PAVING BIDS

THURSDAY NIGHT

Bids Will be Received for 30,000 Square Yards Paving on Tenth Street

Bids will be opened by the city council tomorrow night for 30,000 square yards of paving to be laid on Tenth street. While several standard specifications have been adopted by the council paving companies will also be allowed to present bids on specifications of their own. It being the intention of the council to accept the best bid offered.

The 30,000 square yards it is estimated will pave Tenth street from the business district out to Brook street and the bids are to be received on the condition that additional paving will be laid at the same figure if the council orders the work to be done.

The city council in its order for the paving made it known that it would be governed in the kind of a paving to be used largely by the wishes of a majority of the property owners. However, the property owners are satisfied to leave the matter up to the council. It will require some time to go over the bids and it is improbable that an award will be made at tomorrow night's session. A number of representatives of paving companies are in the city prepared to submit bids.

STANDARD OIL MONEY TO GENERAL FUND.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, July 30.—After having waited eight days for the legislature to dispose of the Standard Oil fine of half a million dollars, State Treasurer Edwards today took the disposition of the money into his own hands and deposited it to the credit of the general revenue fund of the state.

Mr. Edwards stated this morning: "As both bodies of the legislature have recommended that the A. & M. College bonds bearing three per cent interest be redeemed out of this fund I will hold $395,000 of this money for a short time and for the remainder I will issue warrants to pay outstanding pension and other regular warrants."

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Says Goddess of Liberty Will Fall Some Day

WASHINGTON.—"Some day that goddess of liberty on top of the capitol is going to fall down and hurt someone. I know, because I was up in it."

Thus spoke Rodman Law, who calls himself the "human fly," while he was reclining on a "bed in" downtown hotel waiting for a telegraphed remittance from New York, which was necessary after the way some friends of his had disappeared with his cash while he was climbing up the goddess' insides.

"All that bracing material on the interior of the statue is made of cast iron," continued the "fly." "It was put up there before anyone used steel construction, I suppose, and I acraped up handfuls of dust. I went all over the inside and I'll bet that if something isn't done about it there will be an accident some day."

The "human fly" took the impending danger to the goddess about as seriously as he took the fact that his friends who accompanied him to the top of the capitol had disappeared with his cash.

Any old time he wants to go back and sit on Liberty's head he is going to do it, but he is going to make sure that his friends can be trusted with a "human fly" pocketbook before he gets up in the air between earth and sky, with no one but a press agent to keep the secret.

The "fly" went to the capitol in the afternoon with his false friends. He climbed up a column on top of the dome, using a piece of steeple jack's rope to aid him in his efforts. Previously he had ascended his pocketbook and valuables to his false friends who accompanied him. When he descended they had gone.

"I went all around the inside and saw the rust. It was very dark, and I used up a box of matches in there. Then I crawled up on the base of the statue. A 'cop' yelled to me to come down."

"When I slid down the cop pinched me."

A rap on the door interrupted this story. A bellboy handed in a telegram. It was money from New York, replacing that which the false friends had taken with them so hurriedly.

"Well, I guess I can have breakfast now. So long."

HUERTA TIRES OF HIS JOB?

General Huerta is chafing under restraint imposed by the duties and ceremonies of his office as president. Some of his old friends in the army will not be surprised if he throws off the tri-colored band and again dons the military uniform. It is said that the president, not satisfied with the progress being made against the revolutionists, is considering seriously the resignation of his office that he may direct the campaign personally.

That the army has not made any great advancement in restoring peace is evident.

"I am not a man of governmental affairs," said Huerta in an impromptu after-dinner speech. "I am a soldier, and every time that I see a body of men entraining I long to go with them into the field."

Who would take Huerta's place as provisional president is a matter of speculation. His inability to find a man who would satisfy the people and display the requisite executive ability is what may prevent Mexico's soldier-president from abandoning the palace.

SAYS INDIANS NOT A VANISHING RACE

That the American Indians are a vanishing race has frequently been asserted of late. In only one sense is this true, according to statistics. As a race proper, the Indians are assimilating the ideas, teachings and mode of life of the white man and so losing their identity, but as a matter of fact they are increasing in numbers, are more prosperous, healthier as a result of education in sanitation, more industrious than they have ever been before and are better cared for by the government, through the office of Indian affairs, than at any time in the history of the red man in the United States.

Acting Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Abbot speaking of the Indian situation says:

"The Indian race is vanishing only in the sense that modern standards and habits of civilization are displacing those of a former day and applying those qualities in the Indian, always virile, noble and worthy, to the new and modern industrial mode of life."

"The work of the Indian bureau in caring for the Indian's interests is increasing and must continue to increase for years to come."

CARES LITTLE FOR FORMALITIES

The American agricultural commission which visited Rome recently took away a lasting remembrance of at least two very prominent men met while there, namely, King Victor Emmanuel and Signor Luzzatti, the former minister of finance and agriculture and once president of the cabinet.

Of the commission's experience with King Victor a story is now being told which, besides throwing more light on the king's democratic ideas and disregard for etiquette, also explains why the delegates were so pleased with the reception at which the king and Queen Elena were present.

According to the story, on leaving America many members of the commission little thought they would come in contact with crowned heads of several European countries and failed to bring along evening dress suits. Prince Albert, cutaways and striped trousers.

It thus happened that when the commission's presentation to the king and queen was set for five o'clock in the afternoon many delegates informed Ambassador O'Brien that they would be unable to be present on account of the fact that they had no evening clothes with them.

The ambassador, who knows the king intimately, decided to inform his majesty of the delegates' plight and the king's answer was: "Now, Mr. O'Brien, tell them to come even in walking coats. I know they are here to work and not to enjoy themselves. Besides, I care little for formalities."

HIS NAME WAS JOHN

By STANLEY B. HOUCK.

His name was John, despite the fact that he was called Jack; and he was a junior in college. Her name was Marjory, and she was a senior.

Jack was sitting on the library steps, solving a maddening dilemma of which he was on one horn and Marjory the other.

She had started it three years before at a reception where they had met. Since then neither had lost any opportunity of assuring the other of his undying affection in many varied and amusing ways.

Now he wanted seriously to tell her of his love for her, but he had told her of it so often in fun that he couldn't quite see any way of making her take his declaration as being made seriously in earnest and not made merely in fun.

"A penny for your thoughts, Jack," she said, brightly, when at last she arrived.

"Thinking about you, Marjory," he replied. "The trouble is that I'm afraid you'll cut me dead if I tell you my thoughts."

"No, I won't."

"All right. Let's take a walk down the river, and I'll think it over," he decided, making a sudden resolution.

As they went along he began to wonder what the outcome of it all would be. The more he thought the weaker his resolution became—there was Marjory, the prettiest and most perfect girl in the world; and on the other hand, here was he, just an ordinary, average sort of a fellow.

At last they passed below the last city bridge, and were alone by the river, away from all the noise and activity of the busy city.

"Are you going to tell me now?" she asked.

"No, not yet," he answered, sparring for time, "but if you will tell me what you were thinking about while we were coming here, maybe I'll begin to lead up to it."

"I was wondering whether this would be the last time I would ever take this walk, and you don't know how sad it makes me feel to think how soon my school days will be over forever."

"That's just what I was thinking, Marjory, and I was wondering how it would seem next year to take this walk without you. Do you know, I've never taken this walk with any other girl but you, and when I think of you not being here next year, it makes me feel as though I'll never go down this way enjoying it the way I have."

"We have had some mighty good times together, haven't we, Jack?"

"So good that I'll never forget them." He paused a little and then began again: "Do you remember the first night we met and became acquainted?"

"Do you realize that this is the first really serious talk we've ever had?" he said.

"I do believe you're right, Jack; I know I couldn't crack a joke today if my life depended upon it."

"Let's sit down on this tree trunk awhile before we go back," he said without replying.

For awhile neither spoke. Then he said: "Marjory."

"Yes, Jack."

"Shall I tell you now what I was thinking of when you found me at the library steps?"

"Of course, that's what we came way out here for, wasn't it? It must be something important, or you wouldn't have come so far."

He turned his eyes upon hers and they spoke in anticipation of his words that she instinctively felt what he was about to say and a slow flush crept up over her cheeks and her eyes dropped from his. He noticed it, and it gave him an inexplicable thrill of strength to say:

"I was wondering whether you loved me, Marjory, dear; I was wondering whether I could come back here again next year and be happy with you gone. I was thinking how much I needed you. Why, I've loved you ever since I first saw you, and every word I've ever said to you in all our joking, I've meant, and more, with all my heart and soul. Why, I've got so used to thinking I belonged to you that I haven't done a thing all these years without asking myself what you'd say to it if you knew. I can't say any more, dear, just I love you, love you, all the time. Will you tell me, now, what you are going to do with me?"

Then she raised her eyes to his again, and they were glistening with joy.

"Oh, Jack, you dear, dear, big, blind goose—you're worse than Cupid himself." Then she was swallowed up in a hungry embrace.

Uselessness.

"I should advise you to join the Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving," said the unenthusiastic man.

"But you are inconsistent. As a rule, there isn't anything you can give a man that is liable to prove more useless than advice."

A New Thought.

"I wonder these ultra society hostesses do not give dried apple tea." "Why on earth, dried apples?" "Because they are such spell as fails."

FLOWERS OF THE RIVIERA

Blooms Appear Everywhere; Over Each Doorway, on Every Balcony, Covering Up Old Ruins.

Rome.—Not only does the Riviera display an endless variety of rich foliage, but an enormous profusion of flowers, says William Scott in Riviera Flowers are everywhere. In formal beds, in obedient lines of ranged hues, in bareless clusters, in masses, wreaths, and sprays. They appear in every possible corner, over each doorway, on every balcony, clambering here, hanging there, covering the nakedness of ruins and exalting the beauty of architectural lines with a riotous joy of color and bloom. So the dear old-fashioned flowers of home, the stocks, gilly-flowers, geraniums, violets, carnations (and such carnations—fields of them!) We add the iris, the oleander, the mimosa, the lilac, the gigantic aloe (out of whose leaves ropes is now made), the yellow cassia and many, many more.

But the undisputed queen of flowers, the rose, beloved alike of gods and men, is everywhere pre-eminent.

Among the ancient Greeks, we are told, the rose was also the emblem of silence and beauty. And what an eloquent silence filled with the odors of sweet thoughts, too sweet for words; the pure white memories of love's kisses in the moonlight, the warm golden raptures of hot noons in southern sunshine, the blood red hours of passion in the pomegranate shade, that can never be renewed. Of all these, by its thousand varying shades and colors, the Queen Rose reminds us, and of the beauty that she smiled upon our path.

We have the tiny rosebud darling clinging in a mother's arms; the pure child-fellowship in its robes of snowy white; the red-hot passion of its young girls; the shy opening petals as the sun's first kisses move them; the coy yet glad and golden yielding of passion's warm embraces; the red, reckless rapture of its full fruition; the stately beauty of fair form and perfect outline; and not least, for some of us—the faded rose leaves cherished from a past that is ever present, that for us can never die.

In the festivals of pagan Rome the rose had an honored place. Chambers, couches and paths were thickly strewn with rose leaves, and rose garlands crowned the statues of the gods. The Emperor Nero, of whom so many harsh judgments have been recorded, had at least one good and gentle trait—he loved roses. It is said that he spent enormous sums on their cultivation.

The flower markets of the Riviera are never to be forgotten sights. We must include not merely those where foreigners go to buy a few handfuls, or armfuls, for their rooms, but the public wholesale markets held in the chill winter dawns while the visitors are yet asleep, where dealers buy the fair seasons still unopened, and pack them off by vanloads to Germany, Austria, or Russia. The making of baskets for this business of exportation is a flourishing industry in itself, and trains are often delayed on account of the large number of packages to be loaded.

HYPNOTIC BURIAL IS HALTED

Philadelphia Mesmerist Who Had Private "Graveyard" Behind House Arrested.

Philadelphia.—Joseph D'Audenriand, 2102 East Monmouth street, was arrested on a charge of practicing hypnotism contrary to law, just as he was about to bury an unconscious subject to demonstrate that the latter could be kept in a hypnotic state for forty-eight hours.

The grave had been dug in D'Audenriand's back yard and an elaborate coffin had been sent there from an undertaking establishment. A large crowd of neighbors had seen the hypnotist place his subject under a spell, wind the man in a shroud and place him in the coffin. The hypnotist was screwing on the lid when the police arrived and made him bring the subject back to life.

Magistrate Campbell held the hypnotist in $500 bail for a further hearing.

Heir and Clerk Elope.

St. Louis.—Miss Dorothy Egghoff, eighteen years old, stepdaughter of C. H. Hundal of Los Angeles, reputed multimillionaire, was married at Carrolton, Ill., after a midnight elopement, to Charles Schroeder, postoffice clerk and mail carrier at Jerseyville, Ill., whom she had known a week. Miss Egghoff, in company with her mother, had just returned from a year at school in Paris.

SUSPECTS UNDER SURVEILLANCE

tragedy was enacted, was closed yesterday and its interior shielded from the view of thousands of curious persons by newspapers pasted across the glass windows and doors. No attempt will be made to resume business for several days. Walter R. Styrer, junior member of the firm, received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Mr. Robinson in Colorado, saying he would reach Dallas Thursday morning.

Populace Incensed.

Never has a crime in Dallas so thoroughly claimed the attention of its people. Their temper could not be mistaken yesterday. Had officers unearthed and made public a clew which pointed unmistakably to the criminal or incensed populace would have made short shrift of him. For that reason the officers are proceeding cautiously, for a mistake would be fatal. Yet they declare they are no nearer a solution than they were just after the crime was discovered.

Police Get Much Advice.

It seemed almost as if the whole city had turned its attention to solving the mystery. Throughout the day dozens of persons called at police headquarters with all sorts of information which they considered might be of service to the officers. In practically all of these cases this information pertained to second and third hand advice of suspicious looking characters seen in various parts of the city at different times since the tragedy.

Several women who declined to give their names telephoned to the office of the chief of police, each volunteering some suggestion which she thought might be of assistance to the men who are laboring day and night to establish something tangible upon which to determine the identity of the slayer or to warrant a surmise as to the motive which prompted his cruel act.

One woman insisted that the person who murdered Miss Brown was left-handed because the blows on the head of the victim indicated that she was struck first on the right side of the head. Another woman, who informed the officers that she possessed all of the instincts of a professional detective, gave her views and a possible theory. None of these women, however, was in position to furnish anything like a clew.

The officers expressed gratification at the universal spirit of desire to cooperate with them expressed by the citizens.

There has scarcely been an hour, day or night, since the finding of the body waltering in the pool of blood, at persons have not been seen standing in front of the scene of the tragedy gazing upon the building.

place when Mrs. Rumsey dressed for dinner Saturday evening and were not there the next night.

The rope of pearls contained 130 graduated gems, the largest weighing twenty-one grains. The local police have long believed that a gang of expert robbers was systematically "working" this place, disposing of their booty through a "fence" in Boston.

$5,025 FOR FRANKLIN BOOK

American's "Dissertation on Liberty" Brings Liberal Price at London Sale.

London, England.—A copy of Benjamin Franklin's "A Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, Pleasure and Pain," was purchased at the sale of the fifth library for £1,005 ($5,025) by Henry Stevens, grandson of the man who once bought the book for half a crown and then tried unsuccessfully to sell it to the British museum for a guinea. The only other copy of the book is the property of the government at Washington.

Starting the bidding for sentimental reasons at half a crown, Mr. Stevens bought for possession of the book with Bernard Quaritch of London.

Incidentally Davis, who has an auto machine shop in Manhattan, had to consult a memorandum book when asked the number of their children. After looking it up he said "nine."

Wichita Falls, Texas, July 30, 1913

Dr. B. Clark Hyde, charged with the poisoning of members of the Swope family, resulting in the death of two or three of them, has been given three or four trials, and yet at large, paying (to his) and writing prescriptions for those who have no fear that he will administer poison for some harmful drug. The court in Jackson county, Mo., where the last trial was had, refused to pay the $8,000 court expense incurred by the prosecution of this famous case, or famous criminal, as the case may be, and unless this expense is paid there is not likely to be another trial of the case.

Elbert Hubbard says the real test of success is getting the money, and we have no cause to doubt Elbert, but he fails to prescribe the easiest method of accomplishing that end. A Kansas man, however, has supplied this information. As an easy method of collecting small amounts due him he has adopted the plan of sending to those who are in his debt a small package of cotton neatly wrapped through parcels post, C. O. D. with the amount due marked on the outside of the package. The receipts rarely ever fail to take the packages out and pay the charges, and even should they fail to do this, the package is returned to the sender, and is sent to another, the address and amount due being all that is necessary to change. It is a good scheme, and we are thinking seriously of adopting it and if we do we think there are a sufficient number of small accounts due this paper to use up about one bale of cotton.

The railroad managers of Texas recently have been spending some money for newspaper advertising. As far as the Times is aware, they have always spent more or less money for that purpose, but because the railroads have used this space to put before the people their contentions, their views, etc., as to how the people of Texas should deal with the railroads, and how the railroads should deal with the people, Commissioner Earle B. Mayfield, as the Times understands him, takes the position that the money required to pay for this advertising should not be charged up to operating expenses of the road. It is rather a queer idea for a man who has been honored as Mr. Mayfield has been by the people of Texas to hold. The Times' experience with the railroads is that it is just about the limit when it comes to giving up money for newspaper advertising. In towns the size of Wichita Falls they absolutely refuse to even pay for the running of their time cards, and in this day and time, the people expect to get information as to the arrival and departure of all trains through the newspapers. Let's not discourage the railroads for spending a little money for newspaper advertising. If they are as saving in other respects with their expense accounts as they are in giving money for legitimate newspaper advertising, the managers will escape the charge of being extravagant. In fact, the Times is of the opinion that if every institution spent no more money for newspaper advertising than do the railroads, the newspapers would not be carrying very much advertising. They (the managers of Texas railroads) are, in the judgement of this paper, just about as tightwadish a bunch of business men as the Times has to deal with. Mr. Mayfield will please enlighten us further on this matter and tell us if the money expended for newspaper advertising is not charged up to operating expenses, but is to be charged to the account of it to be charged to what information.

FEE FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL
The bill introduced by the late Senator Nons of us should criticize him for a desire to do everything within his power to save money to the taxpayers of the State.
And yet the Statesman can not agree with Mr. Looney that the act introduced in the Legislature in behalf of his department is entirely equitable. The bill is one that merits serious study.
The Statesman believes that every corporation should bear its pro rata of the taxes. It does not believe that any of them should be excepted. And yet under the Attorney General's fee bill it appears that a burden is placed upon the new corporations which they should not be asked to bear.

Good Method Of Selecting Cotton Seed For Planting

The average farmer picks his cotton as it opens, gins it, sells lint and seed, and then, about the last of the season, hauls home seed enough for next year's planting. This way as a rule he saves the latest and the poorest seed.
If, when the cotton begins to open, the farmer, with as much intelligent help as the size of the crop will warrant, will go through the field and select the early big bolls that are crown on short joints, vigorous, well fruited stalks, until he has saved enough to furnish seed for next year's planting and would have this seed ginned to itself and carefully store it where it will not heat, it is safe to say that the next season's crop would, even in a lean year, yield earlier than the average of this year's crop, and that the yield would be practically doubled.
It would be just as reasonable to shake down the apples promiscuously from a tree and take them to the seed, hoping to win a premium in competition with a man who had selected only the choicest specimens, or to turn all of your stock loose to breed indiscriminately—instead of forcing the survival of the fittest by the most rigid selection—and expect to improve your stock, as it is to plant seed of any kind without selecting with the greatest care the most vigorous and the best, and hope for good results.
It is fair to say that ten per cent of the cotton seed selected as above suggested, is infinitely superior to the average of the other ninety per cent; therefore if you plant only the average of the whole you invite deterioration at nine to one.
Every cotton grower, from the man who raises one bale to the man who raises one hundred bales, can very greatly increase his yield and his profit by this simple and inexpensive method.
This is something that you can do in your own field—try it!
HENRY TEXAS, President Texas Industrial Congress.

SAYS TIME IS OUT OF JOINT

John Kendrick Bangs Would Trisect the Twenty-Four Hours of Day

(Boston Post)
John Kendrick Bangs of Ogunquit, Me., known to the world in general as author of "The Houseboat on the Styx," "The Enchanted Typewriter," "Autobiography of a Mole," and many other entertaining volumes is working out a new Utopian plan to make life more lovable by dividing 24 hours day into three equal periods of work, play and rest.
Has Tried It Himself.
It is admitted by the sponsor of the idea, that the fact as the way object to the division for two reasons. One is that he will have to rise about two hours earlier than usual to conform with the plan. The other is that the hours provided for actual productive work are much shorter, only half as long in fact as the ordinary working day, though the whole 24 hour period is devoted to interests connected with work.
Mr. Bangs said he approved of some system of labor by which the days should be arbitrarily divided into the three 8 hour shifts. The first section was to be from 8 a. m. until 2 p. m., for what he termed the "musical" life. The things, he said, that must be done for the maintenance of one's self and family "in the style to which they have been accustomed."
The second part, from 2 p. m. until 10 p. m., was to be devoted to play.
The third section was to be devoted to such things as rest as have been ascertained to be the surest restoratives of one's powers.
"My reasons," the author explained, "for making such arbitrary divisions are, based upon several firm convictions that I have as to what is best for me; and while I am fully aware that what is best for another, is not always best for another, and that what is best for me may not be best for all men, I still believe that a scheme of existence which has worked for my own health and happiness will work for others as well."
The Theory of Rest.
"I have placed the rest hours from 10 to 5 because I am a believer in Napoleon's theory that two hours of sleep before midnight are better than four hours after midnight.
"It is well to retire before your vitality has got too low readily to recuperate.
"With two solid hours of reserve before the exhaustion point to use as a foundation, a man will soon find that the six hours subsequent to midnight allotted by my system to his recuperative period will restore him in body and refresh him in spirit to such an extent that when the circle is completed and the new day begins he will be ready for it."
Mr. Bangs went on to ask what it profited a man to be the father of children if all he sees of them is a brief glimpse in the morning at breakfast and another fleeting glimpse before they are sent off to bed at night. And yet, he says, there is nothing in the world so likely to keep a man young than association with and participation in the play of his children.
He concluded:
"I should like to see the laboring man of today given a chance to get out into a back lot with his pen and steps and play ball with them, or perhaps take them off to a city park and let them play on the swings and slides."
"Readjust the hours of our days so that all men may get the stimulation and exhilaration of the sunlight in their labors; may enjoy more of it in their play, with a sufficient period for rest and the refreshment of sleep and a good many of the asperities of modern life, industrial and commercial, will fade away like the mists and we shall become what we ought to be, what we deserve to be and what we really can be, a happy and contented people, living at peace with ourselves and with the world."

An Adventure On the Sands

What would be the criticism were a novelist to weave into his work of fiction this series of incidents: A beautiful woman, clad in a ravishing bathing costume, which bears the sparkling evidences of the embraces of Old Ocean, as she emerges from the waves is seized by a dashing gallant, who, with a reckless and engaging disregard for his own apparel, winds his arm about her slender waist and unmistakably impresses on her lips a salute, whether chaste or not; the beautiful woman responds with a sounding slap of her hand on his face and scuttles off in a dressing room, where she is hidden from the public gaze.
And while she runs away the bystanders, who have witnessed the stolen kiss, throw themselves on the luckless adventurer and sound him for the briny deep. Mystery arises, for the fair one, having arrayed herself in the habiliments of her daily wear, thus making a complete disguise, has disappeared and slipped into the unknown in the meantime; when the luckless embracer is permitted to talk he says that the missing beautiful woman is a family relation with whom he has had a slight difference and that his kiss was meant to be merely a surprising realization of a perfect reconciliation and that he is a professional man of a neighboring town, whose name is not Smith or Brown, or Jones or Robinson, but one of such a name, a collection of vowels and consonants as to carry the conviction of truth and he is let go.
Then enter the heralds of publicity—the newspaper men—who seek the nearby town and find that there is such a person, who is a professional man, that he is absent from home and that his family do not know of his whereabouts. And while the newspaper men are busy a man is found wandering about on the sands of the beach in an aimless way, not many yards from where the kiss took place, who has excited the attention of the officers of the law. They take him in charge to find that he is a victim of aphasia, while the contents of his pockets reveal the fact that his name is that of the ravisher doused in the water, only a short time before, that he bears no evidence of having been near the water, that his address is the same as that given by the gallant and that he is a professional man and is a very different person from the other.
And yet this is what has taken place on the sands of Coney Island, the echoes of which were found in the papers recently. Dr. U. S. Traub is the name of the victim of aphasia. That was the name given by the man who took the kiss, who got a ducking and who was never given and she disappeared into space. This theory of the want of truth in coincidence gets a severe jolt once in a while by actual occurrences in the bright sunlight of publicity.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Bell Coney, of this place, says "I suffered for two years with a sharp pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I was unable to do any work. I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 45 years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16.
Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor, wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."
If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. ENGLISH "ALMANACS" GLOOMY FOREBADINGS

Disasters, Assassination, Strikes, International Changes, Etc., "Old Moore's" Predictions
London, July 30.—The year 1914 is to be a great year for British suffrage, the majority of whom will get the vote next spring, according to "Old Moore," England's only licensed prophet. The famous "Almanack" which came out today has, however, little comfort for other folk, for the prophet gloomily predicts disasters galore moving picture fires, the burning of a government building, mining explosions, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, railway wrecks, bank failures and other equally distressing events.
England is to have a nation wide strike, according to "Old Moore" a death in the royal family and an attempted assassination of a cabinet officer. Turkey is to be sponged off the map of Europe altogether, China will have another bloody rebellion, and there is a big massacre due in Asia Minor, while war between Germany and France will be only narrow averted. Lovers may take comfort from the prediction that September 8 to 12 will be particularly favorable for affairs of the heart. All proposals made on those days will be accepted and the marriages effected on them.
CANT SELL MALT; WOULD RECOVER LICENSE MONEY
Austin, Texas, July 30.—County Attorney A. F. Gafford of Grayson county was in conference with the attorney general today in regard to the final termination of the recent cases decided in the district court of Grayson county involving the right of dealers to sell nonintoxicating liquors after having paid the tax of $4,000.
Recently two parties in Grayson county paid the $4,000 to sell nonintoxicating malt liquors and were enjoined by the county attorney from pursuing the business after having paid the tax.
The district judge, upon hearing the criminal cases, remanded both to jail and perpetuated the injunction against them. Whereupon it was discovered that there was no provision of law to return to them the $8,000 paid for the privilege of pursuing the business.

"Give Me Good Name And I Don't Care"

— George B. Cox.

Ex-Boss of Cincinnati Asks Nothing From Courts Upon His Acquittal

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—"All I care about now is that the ruling will give back to me that for which I have worked all my life—my good name," said George B. Cox of the decision of the courts which acquitted him and his associates of misappropriating funds of the Cincinnati Trust Company.

Cox was for 27 years Republican boss of Hamilton county and by virtue of his control of the party vote in Cincinnati he made and unmade representatives, senators, governors and a host of smaller officers.

Not long ago he retired and the reporter asked him if he was going back into politics, now that his trouble over the bank situation was ended. "No, decidedly not," he replied. "Not even to help an old friend. It is up to them to win without my aid."

In the conversation that followed Cox referred to the manner in which he entered politics in his State. He was a "pin boy" in a bowling alley, and during this time and while he was the driver of a delivery wagon in his home city he had no idea that he would some day become the dictator of his city.

Blaine Gave Him Start. "It was James G. Blaine who gave me my real start," he explained. "This was while he was running for president against Grover Cleveland. He came to me in 1884 and we and some others had a conference at the end of which he put me in charge of his campaign. He would have won, too but for a certain man in Gravesend, N. Y., who threw his votes against him. This man caused Mr. Blaine to lose the election. As it was, Mr. Cleveland won by a very small margin."

The time referred to by Cox was soon after he had demonstrated his strength in the Eighteenth Ward, one of the Democratic strongholds in Cincinnati. There had been a revolt against what was called the "silk stocking" element and Cox, who was always "a man of the people" was elected to the council. His rise in politics from that time was rapid, and he at the same time added considerably to his financial standing by opening the saloon which later became famous as "The Power House" at Central and Leavenworth avenues.

Made Good in Politics. "I made good in politics because I never lied to anyone, and because I never went back on a friend," Cox declared. "What is more despite some criticism to the contrary, I always tried to serve the people."

"Do you know," he suddenly said, "a person can't really get anywhere, who is a liar. It may hurt the person you are talking to tell him the truth, sometimes, but in the end he generally thinks more of you for doing it. Like as not he'll come around after six months or so and tell you so. But, there, what's the use of talking? I'm out of politics now, and so are all the old fellows. Foraker is the only one that's left. The rest are all gone."

"Does that mean that 'boss' rule won't work any longer in this country?" the reporter asked. "Oh, I guess it means that the people are tired of bosses," he retorted, with half a smile.

"How about the secretary of state going on the lecture platform?" the reporter asked. "Oh, I don't want to discuss Mr.

Bryan," was his answer. "But I believe in being just with every man. No one is perfect."

Never Asked Publicity. "I never asked any of them for publicity, and if they saw fit to print some story or other I always considered that it was their business."

As to newspapers he remarked: "He told a story which recalled the activities of Murat Halstead in the newspaper field here. One day Halstead's newspaper which had been criticizing the Republican boss found itself beset on an important news article and Halstead sought Cox for an explanation."

"I told Mr. Halstead that if I had given his paper the story the editor would have pulled all the teeth out of it before printing it and he agreed with me. But then I believe in being fair with the newspapers, too. Many print what they can get, in the way they see best."

"SECESSIONISTS" SAYS M'CONKEY

OFFICIAL OF FARMERS' UNION DECLARES SECESSIONS NOT WORTHY OF NOTICE

THE COMMITTEES MEET

Reports of Officers Being Checked Up Preliminary to San Antonio Meeting

Fort Worth, Texas, July 30.—Characterizing them as "secessionists" and unworthy of notice, J. L. McConkey of Wichita Falls, chairman of the executive committee of the Farmers' Union Monday said the committee would pay no attention to the call for an independent convention by twenty-six members of the organization.

"They have seceded from their county unions," said Mr. McConkey "many have not paid their dues, and they have been repudiated by the regular members. We will take no action at all in connection with their call for a convention."

President Radford, while confirming Mr. McConkey's statement that the executive committee would take no action on the convention called to meet here, was not so harsh in his characterization of the men who signed the call. "I know some of them," he said "and no doubt the majority of them are members of the union."

Worked for One Hour. The executive committee convened Monday morning. It worked about an hour before noon and was in session all the afternoon. It will be in session again on Tuesday, for two or three days perhaps until the members leave for the convention in San Antonio. The meeting in San Antonio is called for Tuesday, August 5. It will last four days. No estimate on the number of delegates expected to be present could be had from the office Monday except that "several hundred" would be there. The executive committee and President Radford and Secretary C. Smith probably will depart Sunday night for San Antonio.

According to Chairman McConkey no business of particular importance was taken up by the committee Monday. It is preparing the last quarterly report and also a report for the year ending June 30 for presentation to the convention. It is going over the reports for these periods of Secretary Smith. Regular routine work is being done. Mr. McConkey said nothing of special importance, nor anything of the ordinary nature, from business matters pertaining to the organization, would be considered at least for the first days of the present session.

"I have nothing to give out about what we have done so far," McConkey said Monday afternoon. "The members of the committee are meeting in the offices of the Farmers' union in the Bushong building, on Main street, are: J. L. McConkey chairman, J. E. Pearson of Dodd City, secretary, J. H. McDonald of Muenster, F. A. Grinberg of Lone Oak and Joseph Langfield of D'Hannin."

Secretary Smith was Monday afternoon engaged in checking off a sheet of Missouri, Kansas & Texas passes for the use of delegates to the San Antonio convention. He declared he could not say how many there were but when it was suggested that there must be several hundred, he said, "Yes, all of that." He said that neither he nor President Radford would travel on passes. "We always pay our fare," he said.

Radford Never Said It. President Radford Monday afternoon declared he had been grossly misquoted by an afternoon paper. "I saw no time said that the men calling the convention at Fort Worth were insurgents and not members of the Farmers' Union," he said. "Nor was there anything said by me with regard to any row over the reports of officers being serious. There is no row over any reports of officers."

Mr. Radford also emphatically declared that he had not at any time said the twenty-six members who signed the call for a separate convention of members in Fort Worth had, by their actions, severed all connections with the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative union. "I want to be put right on that," he said. "It puts me in a false light."

"We do not know anything about that meeting," he continued, "nor do they know anything about us. They have called it of their own motion." He said he knew some of the men who signed the call, but did not know whether they were all members or not. He said some he believed, had seceded from their county unions, but he had no record or information to state positively as to their membership now. "As a rule none of them have been active in the Farmers' union matters recently," he said.

Asked what effect the separate convention would have on the Farmers' union, Mr. Radford said: "It will have a salutary effect." This was explained by H. M. Pope, assistant lecturer and organizer for the union as follows:

"It will reduce the membership of the Farmers' union to a realization that the enemies of this organization are endeavoring to destroy the institution by calling a convention of the members of the Farmers' union for the purpose of influencing it to have in bringing new out to the Fort Worth convention."

Specifically with regard to certain charges of misuse of the energies of the organization and claimed affiliation with the Texas Commercial Secretaries Mr. Radford was asked: "Have you any interests with the Texas Commercial Secretaries?"

"We have no allied interest with anybody," he said, "but we cooperate with all legitimate interests that want to make things better for the farmer. Nor has the organization been used for strange forces as is claimed in the call for this Fort Worth convention."

WILL TRY FOR A LIQUOR ELECTION IN BELL COUNTY

Temple, July 30.—The prohibition executive committee has decided not to present the petition for a local option election involving three precincts, but to wait until petitions can be gotten upon three other precincts, which added to the ones included in the original plan for an election, will include every voting box in Bell county except those Saturday last, Commissioner Duncan McLean, a pro, advised the executive committee that he would not vote for a local option election such as had been framed up on the ground that it was not just and fair. Without his vote the pro cannot hope to procure an order for the election.

"DOUBLES" CROP COMES TO FRONT

MANY FOUND TO RESEMBLE PRESIDENT AND MEMBERS OF HIS CABINET

BRYAN MOST DOUBLED

Many Also Look Like Garrison but McAdoo and Burleson are Immune

By Burton K. Standish
(Written for the United Press)

Washington, July 30.—The quadrantal crop of "doubles" of newly elected and newly appointed statesmen and heads of the government has set us writing to them enclosing photographs of the President taken at the White House. "Doubles" of that official are discovered in all parts of the country. And it is the same with the cabinet members and higher government officials. It goes with their jobs to be "doubled" and have the "doubles" write to them enclosing photographs to prove their claims to fame. Some of the "doubles" even came in person to prove that they "look like a statesman."

Of course, the President always has the most doubles, and President Wilson is no exception to this rule. Since he was inaugurated, President Wilson has been informed by letter and in person with pictures as exhibits that he has as many "doubles" as he has fingers and toes.

Next to President Wilson, Secretary of State Bryan is the most "doubled" man in the present administration. But he had a start on the others because of the great length of time he has been before the public so prominently. Secretary Bryan doesn't at all mind being "doubled." In fact he admits he gets quite a bit of a laugh out of the situations that arise through having "doubles." He says priests, waiters, cabmen, conductors, and policemen have been mistaken for him and that he has seen many who laid claim to fame by virtue of their resemblance to him, who really bear startling likeness to him. He and Colonel Roosevelt have more "doubles" in this country than any other six men in the public eye. Speaking of his "doubles" the other day, Secretary Bryan said:

"Charles B. Hanford, the actor, is, as would be said in the vernacular, a 'dead ringer' for me. Hanford recently passed himself off at a Gridiron banquet as 'W. J. Bryan,' and he didn't have to use any make-up, either. A very good democrat named Wolf of Texas, who is now dead, impersonated me with great success at a national gathering of Elks, and W. Hawley, of Oregon, looks so much like me he might fool my banker if his voice was more like mine."

"The most humorous case of a 'double,' however, was when a waiter at a Buffalo club impersonated me by speaking to a number of law school graduates who were present and asked him to favor them with a short address. The graduates didn't know the speaker was not me until they read the papers the next day. I afterwards got a copy of the waiter's speech, and it was a pretty good one."

Another amusing incident occurred when Father Nugent, of Iowa, introduced him to an audience at Creston, Iowa, in 1896. Just as Bryan began to speak, two men entered the hall. Father Nugent stood just behind Bryan as the Secretary made a short speech. After a few moments, one of the late comers nudged his friend and said: "Why doesn't that fool stop spouting and let Bryan talk."

Secretary of War Garrison says he has the most "doubles." Judging from the way he has been mistaken for other people, frequently men and women have approached him on the street, grasped his hand, asked him how Alice or Bertha or John or Sam were, and remarked he was looking for her, or poorly, as the case might be. Secretary Garrison follows an invariable rule in such cases. He always replies that so-and-so is doing well and asks to be remembered, in order to save explanations and apologies.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels has had similar experiences, and has in his desk photographs of a half dozen persons who have sent them to him to prove that they look like him. He says the greatest compliment he ever received was when some one mistook him for Henry Grady.

Secretary of Treasury McAdoo says he believes it impossible for anyone to claim to be his "double." McAdoo is a modern incarnation, physically, of President Lincoln. He is long and rangy, with the prominent chin and deep-sunken eyes of the Civil War President.

Postmaster General Burleson is another cabinet member who claims to be immune from doubles. But his friends declare he is a Henry Clay visage, with Daniel Websterian touches here and there. All members of the new administration take their "doubling" good-naturedly. They humbly bow to the duties assumed by American statesmen, prominent among which is the lead in the free in having innumerable doubles. During the last administration, doubles cropped out frequently. About every fat man in twenty who visited Washington talked of his "resemblance" to President Taft. President Cleveland, another worthy president, had a similar experience, while President Roosevelt has doubles all over the country. During the first national progressive convention at Chicago, a Massachusetts delegate started even Roosevelt's friends by his resemblance to Roosevelt. The delegate dresses the part, even to the Rooseveltian sombrero and eyeglasses. He also has a Rooseveltian teeth and on his frequent trips to Boston always blocks traffic along Washington Street.

LADY SENATOR BACK FROM TOUR

SENATOR HELEN RING ROBINSON GIVES IMPRESSIONS RECEIVED ON LECTURE TOUR

MADE SIXTY ADDRESSES

Says Outlook in New Jersey Favorable to Woman's Suffrage—Disappointed Antis

Denver, Colo., July 30.—The East is now convinced that there can be no such thing as a "lady senator" who sometimes uses smelling salts, wears frocks of the kind recommended by the best fashion magazines and speaks in the tones of a "perfect lady."

This is the opinion of the suffragist leaders of Denver, following the recent return of State Senator Helen Ring Robinson from a lecture tour which took her through five states and during which she delivered more than sixty addresses. If the "antis" of the east expect Senator Robinson to be any different from thousands of other cultured women of the country they were mistaken.

Mrs. Robinson is enthusiastic over the growing suffrage sentiment in the east and is convinced that the example of Illinois in granting women the ballot will soon be followed by many other states. She gave the United Press the following statement regarding her trip:

(By State Senator Helen Ring Robinson, only woman senator in the United States).
One who has not been in the midst of it cannot realize the significance and zeal of the great women's movement in the east. I did not fully realize it. The fervidness of it, the white flame that burned in its midst inspired me. I heard women preach with the fervor of Peter the Hermit.

One of the things that impressed me was the wonderful feeling of sex loyalty and solidarity. I saw this in Baltimore, where young women, with faces like opening flowers and eyes shining like the stars, marched together with women worn by toil. I saw it in New York; I saw it everywhere. This sex solidarity has existed among the pick of women from the time of Euripides until now. Men will not acknowledge it, but it has been so.

Then too, I was impressed by the feeling that is developing for the single standard of morality. You hear these zealous women who are struggling for the ballot with a spirit of real crying for the abolition of the double standard. And other women are taking up the cry.

A movement born of such spirit and carried on with such zeal must triumph in the end, but I would not want to prophesy which of the three states in which I did most of my campaigning—New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania—will win first. The outlook in New Jersey is most favorable. In New York the opposition chiefly comes from the rural districts where conservatism reigns. Then too, Tammany Hall is, by the very

Girl Charged With Many Murders
Madrid, July 30.—One of the most sensational murder trials in the history of Madrid was expected when Senora Louisa Sanchez and her father, a captain in the army, went to trial here today for the murder of a wealthy young man named Julon.

The young man had courted the girl for several months and the date for the wedding had been set when he mysteriously disappeared. He had a large sum of money on his person at the time to deposit in his fiancée's name as his wedding gift. Sanchez and his daughter, who is in the twenties, disappeared shortly after. A search of their residence resulted in the discovery of human bones. The father and daughter were arrested in a village in the north of Spain. The girl, the police declare has turned state's evidence and admitted that according to plans laid by her father, she got her lover to bring a large sum of money to the house and while he sat with his arms about her, her father crept up behind him and knocked him unconscious. She said she and her father killed him, dismembered the body and buried it in the garden.

The bones found by the police had been discovered under the cellar floor. Saying nothing they went to the spot in the garden where the girl said Julon's body was hidden, and there they found it. Further investigation developed stories of the strange disappearance of other young men of wealth after a short courtship of the girl. The police say she has promised to confess everything at the trial which opened today.

CLASS IN SAFETY AND MODEL CAR.

HOW TO GET OFF A CAR.

New York, July 30.—Not content with teaching the young idea how to shoot, the New York authorities are teaching the same young idea how to get on and off a street car safely and properly. Street traffic in America's metropolis has had its problems, and an Museum of Safety has organized a safety league, which deals with problems of traffic, and with the desire to begin at the beginning instructions are being given to children in the public schools. A model of a street car has been constructed, and it is taken children are deeply interested in the model, and their attention is held while the instructor points out the danger of stepping off the car backward or with the wrong hand on the rail. After the lesson with the model of the car an imaginary car is introduced.

THE LAW OF THE OIL FIELD.

(By W. G. Long)
Suggested by the fire at Tulsa, Okla., where five men met their death July 24, 1913. Lighting a match was the cause.

This is the law of the oil field, and ever it must be plain
She must kill the match lighting smoker, the cigarette smoking in-sane.
Her lives are valued to loved ones, her men are as good as the best;
-She has nurtured them all on her bosom, has lulled them off to their rest.
When her hidden treasures are pinched and she gushes forth in her mind
And you see the guy rolling his "pimp stick" feeling his clothes for a light
Just grab up the "forgie jack lever" and smash him over the head—
Drive home the "rig builders hatch" be sure that this fool is dead.
Draw him like a rat in the river, starve him like the spawn of the plains—
Leave him to rot near his folly, poisoned and follow his veins.
This is the law of the oil field, the ones that have ever been first
To lay cooling hands on those injured, by the match lighting man's death
This is the law for the lowly, the millionaire men and their spawn
For the ones who carry the tinders, death must be sure and swift as the dawn.
This is the law of the oil field—that before you may raise the hatch
You must have had more lives and property are destroyed each year by the match.
Handsome sons, burned crisp and distorted, eyes staring, red and aglare
These branded men they confront you, these are the facts laid bare.
-With apologies to Robt. W. Service.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM THE CROWLEY COMMUNITY.

Our protracted camp meeting began last Monday night and will be continued as long as the interest justifies. The meeting is being held in Crowley's pasture twelve miles southwest of Wichita Falls. A number of families are in camp there and will remain until the meetings close. Pasture for the horses and water have been provided and those attending are dividing the time between the meetings and fishing. Mr. Ed Fitzgerald is conducting the meetings and has lessons daily for both old and young. A cordial invitation has been extended to all to join in these meetings. The farmers in this section have been very busy since last week's rains, some cultivating the cotton crop which is doing nicely some harvesting maize and other hoeing the weeds out of their fields.

Miss Dora Taylor and brother, Fitz who have been visiting relatives in Coleman county are expected to return Friday or Saturday of this week. Misses Johnnie and Emily Crowell will leave today for a week's visit with friends at Frederick, Okla. Mrs. J. M. Martin is visiting Mr. Crowell's family this week. Mrs. John Ground and two daughters and W. H. Gwlan and wife were the guests of R. A. Crowell and family Sunday.

COLUMBUS PRISONERS GET PAY.
Columbus, O., July 30.—The "prisoner pay-law" will go into effect on August 1 according to announcement made at the executive offices today. After that date each of the 2,700 prisoners in the Columbus penitentiary will be paid at the rate of three cents an hour for the work done in the prison shops and offices. The money will be sent to the families of the prisoners or saved for him until he is released.

COPS IN SKIRTS TO PATROL DANCE HALLS.
Chicago, July 30.—Women police for Chicago were assured last night when the council passed an ordinance creating places for them on the force. Mayor Harrison immediately will name ten patrol women for duty at the beaches, dance halls and other places where it is believed they will be more efficient than men.

No More Headaches

Coffee drinking induces headache, indigestion, nervousness, heart trouble, and many other ills. This because coffee contains the poisonous drug, caffeine.

A prominent business man of Memphis, Tenn., writes under date of April 21, 1913, of his experience in quitting coffee. He says:

"For a number of years I had been a great sufferer from headaches and indigestion. About January first of this year I left off coffee and began the use of Instant Postum. Since getting from under the influence of coffee, headaches have ceased. I can eat anything I want to, and have no indigestion. In addition to this I have gained in weight."

"I attribute it all to stopping coffee and the use of Postum."

"I write this letter simply to add my testimony to the many you already have, and to induce some fellow sufferer to get relief by quitting coffee and turning to Instant Postum as a morning beverage." (Name given on request.)

INSTANT POSTUM

is a pure food-drink, made of clean, roasted whole wheat and a small quantity of molasses. It contains no drug whatever, but does contain the vital phosphates of the grain which are essential for the upbuilding of brain and nerve and muscle tissue.

If something interferes with your comfort, suppose you try leaving off coffee and use Instant Postum.

Postum comes in two forms.
Regular Postum (must be boiled.)
Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water and adding cream and sugar to taste.

A level teaspoonful makes it right for most people. Some use a heaping teaspoonful and temper it with plenty of cream; and it has a delightfully snappy flavor that is wonderfully pleasing. Find out how you like it and always have it served that way.

Of the many causes that produce headache, eyestrain is, perhaps, the most common and the most important. Headaches from eyestrain are extremely persistent, and are productive of many derangements of the general system. Any disturbance of the relation between the anatomical structure of the muscles of the eyes and its curved, transparent surfaces would cause the act of seeing to be attended by great strain, either in the organ of vision or at the center of the nerve supply. Nature does her best to remedy this strain by exerting an additional amount of muscular effort, which results in fullness of the blood vessels of the head. This causes the brain to become irritated and dull, and headache is the natural consequence. No amount of drugging will alleviate this condition, since the cause resides in the visual organs, and unless the disturbance is corrected by properly fitted glasses the headache will continue. Let us remove that eyestrain.

BE PIGEON TOED AND FEET WON'T FAIL YOU.

(By William Brady in New York Independent) Were we a barefoot race flat feet would be a rare curiosity. Fashionable footwear, weakening the muscles and ligaments of the feet as a corset or splint weakens the muscles it supports, causes most of the pain and deformity of broken arches. The high heel, the narrow toe and the tendency to throw the toe of the boot outward instead of inward toward the median line—these are the factors of foot trouble.

A bunion is a partly dislocated great toe joint covered by an inflamed bursa or pad. It is the price we pay for following the shoemaker's ideas about the shape of the foot instead of Nature's. When the great toe is forced away from its natural pigeon toed position the joint is inevitably pried open, as one might illustrate by pushing the index finger forcibly toward the little finger. Did the shoemaker adhere to the straight inside line, and not try to divorce the great toes, there would be no bunions.

The normal shape of the foot may be determined by drawing an outline of the naked foot with a pencil while standing on paper. If the foot has not already been deformed by bad shoes, the pattern will be seen to be just the reverse of that conceived by the average shoemaker. The diameter at the great toe joint is the widest part of the foot; the point of the toe falls on, or even inside of the median line; the toes form a moderately rounded cone, not a narrow point.

When a stranger tells you of the greatness of his home city, respect him and his opinion, for he is usually a good citizen and a neighbor to be proud of.

LOVE—LIFE—HOME "Dust thou art, and unto dust turnest thou." How strong and faithfully does every good and noble life bear out the above sentiment from the Poet's Pen. Man and woman pass through this life battling with conditions and yielding to environments as nothing else does. Each have their circle of friends and loved ones. Each their joys and their sorrows; each their creeds and desires while playing an important part in our actions comes greed, avarice, misfortune and penury. What emotions fill the human breast as varied as life itself. So thrilling that no hand however skilled can picture it; so tragic that no human tongue however voluble can express the heart rending emotions that wring bitter tears from human eyes. So full of hope that we place angel wings on human form and halos of light around their mortal head. All thanks to Pandora! Hope points above where weeping loved ones see the way to a brighter and better life beyond. Our MEMORIALS tell the full story of LOVE, LIFE, HOME, COMPLETELY and EVERLASTINGLY.
