Present Styles "Evolutionary And Not Revolutionary"

New York, Aug. 9.—This is the un-dress era and man, indirectly, and militant woman directly, are to blame. So women who have been wearing "knickers" as their sole under garment may cheer up. They are exempt from all responsibility. This is the last word from a noted London medical authority, and his reasoning is not so far-fetched as at first diagnosis might appear.

Since one body of women was driven to both the extreme of militancy and that of aping man's clothes in order to attract his attention, the remainder of the sex were obliged to rely more than ever on their personal attractions, and consequently have gone to the other extreme in suggesting by clinging garments, rather than to, at least twelve inches in depth, set in at the waistline. It may be clinging or ripping, plain or full and of any conceivable material. There is one characteristic only which all up-to-date tunics possess in common; that is, greater length. At the back than the sides and front, the skirt has an even depth, as formerly.

The continued vogue of silks during the summer, and the constant cry of cotton fabrics being worn far into the fall, and even throughout the winter. This will assuredly be the case with materials of rough weave, as these are almost indistinguishable from their woolen prototypes. Sponges, agarie and ratine are some of those which are certain to prove quite as attractive throughout the cool, bracing days of autumn as during the languorous days of spring, or the humid ones of summer. They may eventually come to realize an all the year round vogue.

The attractive gown of the second illustration is well suited to August days. It will be equally desirable for afternoon and evening indoor wear during the winter. It was developed in soft surah silk, with collar, lapels and chemise of shadow lace. A sash of Gobelin blue, tan and white tartan ribbon is wound loosely twice about the waist and tied low on the left side. The waist droops considerably over the skirt; the skirt has extra fullness laid in soft pleats. Tucks by directly revealing, charms, lines and feminine curves. He also asserts that the dress movement tends toward freedom of expression, that it is evolutionary and not revolutionary, and is, therefore, to be condoned.

After all, it is only a very small minority of women whose over freedom in dress is deserving of criticism; the vast majority, while conforming to the prevailing modes, keep well within the lines laid down by modesty and good breeding. The frock of the first illustration shows an extremely smart design of the season, which is yet not too extreme for good taste. The development of the waist was in purple charmeuse, the chemise in Milan lace, and the vest in dark purple velvet adorned with pearl buttons. A graded flounce of shadow lace finishes the neck of the garment. The addition of the extension gives it a smart jacket appearance, very popular at present, but, if desired, this may be omitted.

As spring gave place to full fledged summer, this idea of the composite costume confronted us very insistently. By the composite costume is meant that which divides itself quite frankly between different materials, or which is formed of a skirt of one material and coat or cotee of another. The coutee has been the most picturesque note of the summer, and much too popular to be discarded for autumn ensemble. It is only now that women have come fully to realize its charm, and is requires but little imagination to replace the diaphanous crepes, crepones, muslins and silks with those of heavier weight silk, velvet and satin brocade for wear during the winter season.

It is, however, adopted only when the pepum is a feature of the waist, otherwise the waist should be of similar or lighter tone. The skirt of the illustration was made of cream crepon. It has stylish drapery at the left side confined by a tab, and is two piece, with slight fullness at the waistline and fashionable narrow lines at the hem. Many variations, this summer, have been played to the theme of the tunic. A very smart version of recent introduction is a spreading flounce of true lamp shade form, which begins at the waist and extends to the knees; it ripples about the figure in a very uncertain manner, apparently without rhyme or reason. Other flounces are seen at the hips and cut in points at the lower edge. Sometimes double and triple tunics are worn; these may be of tulle, net or lace, dependent only on the material beneath and the fancy of the wearer. Of their style there is, indeed, no end; but, before trying to carry out the idea, one's muse first learns what a tunic really is. According to the latest fashion authority, a tunic may mean simply a pleated rufover the shoulders and long sleeves finished by deep frills are pleasing details of the model.

For the lovely frocks of summer pearl trimmings are much worn. Especially in the diaphanous white materials do they lend a softening beauty and grace both to frock and wearer. The string of brilliants as an edging for sleeves and corsage is also much in favor, and presages a revival of the gay effects seen last winter. But the smartest creations of this season will undoubtedly place their dependence more on the magnificence of the fabric than on any accompanying trimming. Particularly will this be true where silk, brocades, satin and velvet are employed, as these seem sufficient unto themselves without extra ornamentation. For this reason it is just possible that the days of the beaded and beaded nets are numbered. The woven over dress, from which at an hour's notice milady by the use of an old foundation, could have a smart costume, will be relegated to a place in the past. In its stead will appear frocks of light weight mirlasse, crepe de Chine, Canton crepe, and velvet, silk and satin brocade, the materials rivaling one another in the beauty of their sheen and texture.

Dreamed He Was a Traitor
"There is something peculiar in dreams," said a diner in an uptown eating house yesterday. "As long as I can remember I have had dreams, some pleasant, but most of them of the nightmare order. The other night, as I was returning from a lodge banquet, I dreamed I was Benedict Arnold, and that I had come back to earthily life. At first I was in Liverpool, England, and the next thing I was in this country walking in front of the capitol in Washington. Everybody gave me a wide berth and many pointed me out to others. I had a talk with Andrew Jackson, who told me what he thought of my treason. No, I did not go into the capitol; a guard told me it would be better for my health not to attempt to enter, as the American people have not forgotten the past.

Then I found myself walking in Philadelphia with Franklin, who advised me to get back again to England as quickly as possible. I went to my old home and found it part of Fairmount Park. Then I awoke, dripping with perspiration and shaking from fear. How such a dream ever got into my head is a mystery. I have always had a hatred for Arnold, and to think I should personate him in the realm of dreams is indeed strange. I have of ten had dreams in which I travel great distances, and have concluded that in the spirit land they have no use for the telephone or telegraph. They simply get from place to place in an instant.

MOTHER SHOVELS COAL ALONG WITH FATHER

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs.

John Titus work side by side unloading coal from cars for the People's Coal Company. Mrs. Titus is about 28 years old and weighs about 115 pounds. She can shovel more coal than her husband. She handles a large scoop shovel in a manner that makes every male coal shoveler on the job envious. Clad in a calico wrapper and black as a chimney sweep, she stands at her husband's side, and all through the heat of these August days she does as good work as the men.

AROUND THE WORLD IN THIRTY-FIVE DAYS

New York Sun Man Lowers the Old Record by Over Four Days

New York, Aug. 11.—John Henry Mears, the Evening Sun's representative, is today the holder of the new record of 35 days, 21 hours, 35 minutes and 45 seconds for last time around the world. In the first flight from the Grand Central station, through Forty-second street and Broadway, Mears' automobile, hugging the police pilot car, that shot ahead, carrying Inspector John O'Brien, rushed across the finish line in front of the Evening Sun office, just as the official time-keeper plugged the stop watch at 18 minutes and 45 seconds past 10 o'clock, taking a tuck in the previous record of 3 days, 22 hours, 7 minutes and 37 seconds.

"I'm glad I'm alive," said Mears, as the others went up. Mears would have made even better time but his friends, crowding the grand concourse of the station, surged about him as soon as he landed from the Empire State express and delayed him about three minutes, throwing him about four-fifths of a second behind his schedule.

The reception given the tourist at the Grand Central terminal indicated the widespread interest his tour had elicited. Besides several hundred friends, headed by Abbott John W. Rumsey, all Mr. Mears' personal friends, there was a much larger crowd that knew him only by reputation. As soon as he appeared in the Grand concourse he was recognized and got an ovation. One of the first to greet him was John Drew, with whose company Mr. Mears is associated.

Dash in Auto Climax. At the Evening Sun office Mr. Mears fell into the hands of friends who had followed his progress from day to day. A delegation from the Circumnavigators' club and the International Travel club met him there and Mr. Mears was photographed for the thousandth time. The dash in the automobile was the climax of a series of speed sprints that began when the Empire State express found itself considerably behind time about forty miles south of Albany as the result of heavy rains. Two electric engines, carrying General Superintendent Miles Bronson and General Passenger Agent Vossburgh, were waiting for the express at Harmon, thirty-two miles up the line. The train, twelve minutes late at Peekskill, had made up some time and was eight minutes behind schedule at Harmon. "Open her up," ordered General Superintendent Bronson when the electric engines were coupled. The engineers took the cue, the schedule was picked up minute by minute, and the train rolled in the station on time to the dot at 10:10 P. M.

THE WEEKLY LETTER OF THE STATE PRESIDENT.

A letter has come from Miss Helen Louise Johnson, general federation chairman of the department of home economics, asking that I should request the presidents of Texas clubs to change the names of departments heretofore designated as "Domestic Science," to be known as the department of "Home Economics."

This change of name is urged in order to make it uniform throughout the club work of the United States. The following recommendations sent out by this exposition office and general federation aim to influence an intelligent co-operation with what the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is already doing for the rural districts.

In making an earnest study of these recommendations, and then putting them into execution, you will be aided in materially reducing the high cost of living, or rather what I believe, and many of you will agree with me, is the cost of high living.

The recommendations follow:
1. That every opportunity be used out a united effort be made to more definitely establish the meaning and scope of home economics in order to create a common understanding and interest in the household and the activities of the household but comprehends those economic and social studies which place its higher forms on a cultural study basis.

2. The uniform adoption by the clubs of the name home economics, that being the name decided upon by the joint committee of the N. E. A. and American Home Economics Association as the one best fitted to designate the whole group of several subjects included under this general title. This committee was composed of heads of college departments and experiment stations with the leaders of the home economics movement.

3. An intelligent co-operation with those endeavoring to establish or carry on work in social centers whether in urban suburban or rural communities. It is our belief that this should be done with the assistance of the Grange Farmers' Institutes in those places where a separate plan would mean duplication of efforts.

4. A reaching out along every line of endeavor to give understanding assistance to the women and homes of the rural districts with a desire to inspire the formation of rural clubs and those composed of young women in all parts of the country who may most easily be approached and interested through the subject of home economics.

5. The discouragement of those lectures, associations and exhibits which are rather commercial than educational.

6. The establishment of such ideals in food, clothing and shelter as will serve to free both the homes and the individuals from the mostly demands of those fads and fashions which are not expressions of ourselves or our needs, but seem to indicate an unthinking or foolish tendency to copy others.

7. Co-operation with those working for college entrance credits in home economics in order that we may strengthen and deepen the high school work and introduce the proper and needed reforms of home economics work into the grammar grades of every state in the country.

Has it ever occurred to you, friends that while the several committees of our federation are doing individual work along their lines, they all have one underlying aim, the service of humanity? The work of these committees is founded on righteousness; they have one practical connecting link, and that great link is the merit system.
You will concede that any branch of work entrusted to public officers should depend for its efficiency upon civil service reform which is so closely related to health and sanitation. And too, are not public morals and civil service reform, to a large extent the same, for this reform says, "No man shall serve the state who does not bring his honest services." We must not lose sight of the fact that civil service reform should be kept separate and apart from politics, for it is a question of civic, morality not secure clean and efficient government through civil service reform you can secure efficient public officers appointed on merit and not through "pull."

There is an urgent appeal being sent out to the club women of the United States by the general federation asking help to defeat a proposed bill upon the merit system.

I will ask you to carefully read the following appeal, and to act promptly.
The Simmons Underwood bill (H. R. 3321) as reported to the Senate provides for the employment for a period of two years of a large force of agents, inspectors, deputy collectors, etc., who are to be appointed without civil service examinations. This provision is under amendment appropriating $1,200,000 for salaries and supplies required to enforce the honest tax emergency act.

The report of the committee on finance, as printed in the Congressional Record does not give any reasons why this large force should be appointed outside the civil service law. Under the orderly procedure established by the civil service law, these places would be filled promptly and easily without favoritism from the ample lists from which the civil service commission stands ready at any time to make the necessary certifications. The same, when was tried fifteen years ago, when a committee of emergency agents was appointed outside the civil service law were authorized by an act of congress. That experiment resulted in a force of acknowledged inferiority to that of the regular civil service.

If the proposed amendment to the tariff bill becomes a law, congress would continue the appointment of the political employes by further legislation at the end of the two year period and senators and representatives would be impugned by the corrupt agencies to grant an extension of employment or transfer to the classified service.

To prevent this spoils raid you are urged to write or telegraph without delay to the senators from your state and to any member of the Senate committee on finance who may be personally known to you. If none is known, please send your protest to the chairman, Hon. F. L. McSimmons, United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

Governor Colquitt Replies.
Now friends, I am sure you want to know what Governor Colquitt said in reply to my letter addressed to him relative to appropriating funds for a Texas building at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

While the governor's reasons for not making the appropriation are excellent, it does seem that every state in the union should put forth special efforts to co-operate in making said exposition a success, especially since it appears that many of the greatest foreign governments have practically decided that they will not participate in the Panama-Pacific exposition. It is to be hoped that these countries may still be influenced to change their minds, but should not at least every state in our own country prove loyal and act jointly with our magnificent sister State California, and in spite of what the other countries may do make this exposition one of the grandest and most successful in the history of the United States.

She Heads The Women Voters Of Ten States In Appeal To Congress To Extend Suffrage

Washington, Aug. 9.—Women delegates from the ten states where women vote arrived here for a three day session, Aug. 13-15. As members of the National Council of Women Voters they planned to visit the capitol and urge congressional men to vote for the woman's suffrage bill. Under the direction of Mrs. Emma Smith DeVoe of Tacoma, Washington, president of the council, the delegates arranged to appear before the house committee on rules, of which Representative Henry D. Clayton is chairman, and urge favorable action on the suffrage bill. At the convention of woman voters it was planned to take steps to win other states into the woman's suffrage column.

PRODUCTION IN TEXAS IN JULY

OVER FORTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS ADDED TO WEALTH IN A MONTH

TRUCK HAS BIG SHOWING

Data Compiled by the Texas Commercial Secretaries—Output of all Kinds Considered

Port Worth, Texas Aug. 11.—The production of the farms, mines and factories, together with the influx of foreign capital added $45,120,000 to the wealth of Texas during July, according to data compiled by the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association. The figures for the same month a year ago are: $47,015,500 and the decrease is caused by a falling off in mine output, a curtailment of the factory production and the tightness of the Eastern money markets, said to be caused by pending currency legislation. The different sources of increased wealth in July, 1913 and 1912 are shown below:

Farms and forests, $23,500,000; 1913, $20,005,500.
Mines, wells and quarries $1,460,000; 1913, $1,510,000.
Factories, $11,160,000; 1913, $12,500,000.
Foreign capital, $9,600,000; 1913, $13,000,000.
Total, 1912, $45,120,000; 1913, $47,015,500.

Agricultural production shows a two and one-half million dollar increase, while a small decrease in the mine and factory output is noted. The harvest area, during July, was not confined to any one section of Texas, but on the contrary was scattered in all portions of the State. Watermelons and peaches constituted the principal harvests during the month. The truck harvest over in Gulf Coast section of the State, comprising truck in the Gulf Coast country closed about the middle of July and the gathering of cotton and corn was begun. The truck shipments for the season in this section totaled 2538 cars, compared with 2348 carloads last year. San Benito, Bishop, Mercedes, Harlingen, Brownsville and other Gulf Coast points report corn and cotton harvest in full sway. The Southern Truck Growers Association which controls the bulk of the Texas Bermuda onion, cabbage and cucumber crops, reports that the marketing season closed the latter part of June and very few shipments were made in July. Big Shipments of Peaches in East Texas.

Data gathered by the secretary of the Tyler Commercial Club is especially interesting. It shows that 265 cars of Elberta peaches were shipped from Smith county during the month. Tomatoes, water-melons and canteloupes also moved in large quantities in that section. The Early Wheeler peach crop, which is raised principally in Montague county, is estimated at 50 carloads this season, compared with 300 cars for an average year. The late frosts and cold weather this spring are responsible for the shortage. Palestine reports 25 cars of peaches shipped in July, compared with 200 cars a year ago. Corn, sorghum, alfalfa, milo, maize, kafir corn, grapes, figs and canteloupes were harvested during the month in large quantities in the vicinity of Laredo. Twenty thousand dollars worth of dairy products, eggs and vegetables were produced in the Elgin district during July and approximately $20,000 worth of cucumbers were harvested near Temple City. Melon Crop Not As Heavy As Usual. The watermelon crop is said to be less than an average yield, although the quality is up to the standard. The season has closed in the Brownsville country and a total of 177 cars were shipped this year, compared with 541 in 1912. Eighty-one carloads of the crop of Waller county, estimated to be 1,000 cars, have been moved and other sections of South, North and Central Texas report fair yields.

The grain harvest in the Panhandle, northern and central sections of the State where the grain crops were harvested in May and June, the threshers made their rounds during July and by the close of the month the task was practically completed. The Texas Grain Producers Association estimate the total production of wheat in Texas at 12 million bushels and the oat production at 35 million. The 1913 oat production is approximately 10 million bushels more than the requirement, while we will have a deficiency of about 25 million bushels of wheat. Cotton in Good Condition. Growing crops are said to be in good condition and sufficient rainfall is reported from nearly every section of the State. The federal department of agriculture, on the 25th of the month, reported the condition of Texas as section at 81 per cent of normal, compared with 75 per cent for other cotton growing States. The acreage devoted to this product is said to be slightly reduced compared with 1912. Some of the last part of the 1912 crop which has been stored in warehouses was marketed during July and brought good prices.

GLASS BLOWERS WANT NEW SCALE

NEGOTIATIONS NOW UNDER WAY FOR IMPROVED WORKING CONDITIONS

CONFERENCES ARE HELD

As Soon as Question is Settled, Fires Will Be Started in Bottle and Window Plants

Fires will be started in the Wichita Falls Window Glass plant and in the Texas Bottle Manufacturing Plant as soon as wage scales with the glass workers are negotiated. Negotiations for a new wage agreement were opened at Marion, Indiana, last week for the bottle workers and at Cleveland, Ohio, for the window glass workers. The bottle workers have adjourned to Atlantic City this week and the window glass men are still in session. While no trouble is expected in reaching wage scale agreements the fires will not be started until such agreements are signed.

FIVE SHERIFFS AT WORK IN ONE OKLAHOMA COUNTY

Osage County Well Supplied With Peace Officers While Controversy is Pending

Pawhuska, Aug. 11.—The citizens of Osage county, realizing that they have quite large sheriff's force is necessary to look after the entire county, but not one could be found who would contend that the county needs as many as five sheriffs, yet Osage county has five sheriffs or rather five men who claim the job. They are H. M. Fress, E. A. Williamson, E. E. Sams, E. R. Clewien and L. B. Morledge. Before the last November election the position was held by H. M. Fress and E. A. Williamson was a candidate against him. The election resulted in a contest from which Williamson got possession of the office, but the case is still pending in the Supreme court of Oklahoma. Sheriff Williamson held the office for only a short time until charges were preferred against him and he was temporarily suspended by a quo warranto proceeding, and the county commissioners appointed E. R. Clewien to fill the vacancy. Sheriff Williamson's trial resulted in his being ousted, mainly by evidence taken over a dictagraph, and then E. E. Sams, who served as undersheriff under Williamson claimed the office on the ground that Clewien had been elected only temporarily until the trial of Williamson and as that trial resulted in an ouster Mr. Sams contends that he inherits the office as Mr. Clewien's term has ended. Williamson has appealed his case and expects a final victory. The county commissioners were apparently not satisfied with the transaction and late yesterday evening they elected another sheriff, L. B. Morledge of Fairfax. Sams, Clewien and Morledge are contending for possession of the office, but it is expected that Sams will throw his strength to Morledge and leave the present contest between Clewien and Morledge. Osage county should be well governed, or else she must pay her sheriff a very good salary.

CHINESE UPRISING SO FAR A FAILURE.

Washington, Aug. 11.—General improvement in conditions in the rebellious districts of China was reported to the navy department in a cablegram from Rear Admiral Nicholson, commanding the Pacific fleet at Nan King. "The present uprising," reported Admiral Nicholson, "has met with failure at every point up to the present and the northern troops have been uniformly successful. The country, however, is far from pacified. Ku Ming is now leading the southern lines and the conditions are satisfactory here. Nan King has renounced adhesion to the South, but disorders are threatened here owing to large numbers of troops formerly with the southern armies, but now attached to either side. An American steamer was fired on by the southerners at Cheng Lin. Ample reparation has been made."

LONGWORTHS TOUR WORLD ON HOWARD GOULD'S YACHT.

New York, Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Longworth will make a year's tour of the world in Howard Gould's yacht Niagara. The start will be made from New York in September. After spending some time in British waters, the Niagara will cruise in the Mediterranean until about the first of the year. Then she will start eastward through the Suez Canal, and will visit India, Ceylon, China, Japan, the Philippines and Honolulu. The return home will be by way of San Francisco and the Panama Canal. They have arranged to meet former Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, and have them as guests on part of the cruise.

CALIFORNIA WINE GROWERS GIVE UP THEIR FIGHT

Washington, Aug. 11.—California wine growers have practically given up their fight in the senate against increasing the tax on fortifying brandy. This was admitted tonight by California congressmen. To oppose the tax after the tariff bill is returned to the house for conference is planned by the Californians. Senator Simmons told the Californians their opposition to the brandy tax was futile. He said the extra assessment was needed for revenue purposes.

28 SALOONS ARE PERMITTED HERE

NEW SCHOOL CENSUS INCREASES NUMBER THIRST PARLORS ALLOWED

21 NOW DOING BUSINESS

City's Population, Based on School Figures, is 14,154—One Drink Shop Allowed 500 People

Licenses for seven more saloons may be issued in Wichita Falls according to the certified statement of scholastic population in the city that will be filed with the county commissioners today by County Superintendent of Schools R. M. Johnston. Mr. Johnston's statement shows a scholastic population in Wichita Falls of 2359. This multiplied by six, the legal ratio, indicates a population of 14,154. The state law permits one saloon to each 500 inhabitants so that on this showing twenty-eight saloons can be licensed here. There are now 27 licensed saloons in Wichita Falls. Local saloon men say that the licensing of seven more saloons would be a serious blow to their prosperity as their business has already been cut into deeply by the 32-20 closing law and the Allison interstate anti-shipment bill and the Webb interstate act. It is claimed that a number of the saloons in Wichita Falls now are not making any money and that to divide their receipts with seven more would take away the slight profits they now have. Some of the larger places up town, however, view the possibility of more competition with equanimity. Brilliant Army Officer Retired. Washington, Aug. 11.—Brigadier General William H. Bixby terminated a brilliant army career today. He was voluntarily retired as a major general after an army record dating back to 1873. And he retired earlier than the required age limit in order that a brother officer, Col. William T. Russell, might have the honor for a time of serving as chief of engineers. Col. Russell was near the age limit and had Gen. Bixby remained in the service until retired involuntarily, Col. Russell would have been retired in the meantime as a colonel. With Gen.

Bixby's voluntary retirement Col. Russell today becomes a brigadier general and will be retired at the next highest grade. Bixby made a remarkable record for efficiency as chief of the engineer corps of the army. He has been connected with numerous big river improvements all over the country.

ANTI ALIEN LAW EFFECTIVE TODAY

CALIFORNIA'S LAW AIMED AT JAPANESE LANDHOLDERS NOW EFFECTIVE

SOME OTHER NEW LAWS

Sacramento, Cal., Aug. 11.—The Hiram Webb anti-alien land bill, which aroused the Nation because it threatened to become a stumbling block to peace between the United States and Japan, today became a law. During the time of its passage the bill was signed by Gov. John S. Gair and the date of its effectiveness, the Japanese of California have purchased many hundreds of acres of land. By the law, hereafter no alien who is not eligible to citizenship can acquire land within the state by purchase. He may, however, lease property, for not longer than three year periods with renewals at the end of these periods. The bill, which brought Secretary of State Bryan here on a hasty mission to attempt to prevent its passage, is aimed directly at the Japanese who have acquired vast tracts of the most fertile valley lands which American citizens have been forced to vacate because of the cheapness of Japanese labor. With the anti-alien law, also went into effect some of the most practical and progressive laws yet to appear on the statute books of any state. Some of the most important, and far-reaching are: The compulsory compensation law which affects every toiler in the state excepting only those employed in agricultural, dairying or domestic services. It imposes on the employer direct responsibility for accidents to workmen during performance of their duties and does away with contributory negligence and fellow servant doctrine. The Redlight Abatement, which has been held up by referendum but which is expected to remain on the statute books, affords a way to eliminate semi-recognized social evil establishments. Under the law any citizen may swear out a complaint against the use of property for immoral purposes and may carry his demand for action directly into court without having to depend on the district attorney for prosecution. If the citizen proves his charges the owner is deprived of all revenue from his property for one year. By the mothers' pension law the sum of $430,000 appropriated by the legislature is to be immediately available for aiding dependent mothers. The sum of $6.25 per month is given for each child, this sum to be supplemented by a similar amount from the county. The civil service law declared to be the most comprehensive in the country establishes the merit and competitive examination system for practically every employe of the state. The law was framed to divorce completely the state government from all politics. Only private secretaries, chief clerks, heads of departments and confidential employes are excepted. The "blue sky law" was aimed against unprincipled promoters and stock swindlers. By its provisions the governor is to appoint a commissioner to investigate industrial conditions in California preparatory to the establishment of minimum wage schedules for women and children. There are to be five commissioners; one from the employers one from the employees, one a woman and the other two to be selected at the discretion of the governor. The discriminatory practices act aims chiefly at Standard Oil. It prohibits corporations from making a difference in the price of goods sold in different communities allowing of course for differences in freight rates. Slashing rates to freeze out a competitor or to prevent a new competitor from entering the field will be eliminated. The eight hour law for nurses was passed after it was learned that nurses in California had been required to be on duty for from eighteen to twenty hours a day. When the law was first discussed several hundred girls who appeared before the legislature in his behalf were discharged for their activities. The weights and measures law is expected to save the housewives of the state approximately $600,000 yearly by punishing heavy penalties for short weight selling by dishonest merchants. The university extension law is along the lines of the Wisconsin statute and provides an expenditure of $50,000 by its provisions agencies must specify whether men wanted are to take the place of strikers. The full crew law is much similar to that passed in New York state. The "blacklisting" law provides against use of water marks or secret signs on discharge or transfer papers by employers, a system said to be general throughout the state among railroads and big corporations.

NEGRO OFFICE HOLDERS ARE BEING RETIRED

Southern Senators Lining Up For Fight Against Any Negro Appointees
Washington, Aug. 11.—The future that was created over the nomination by the President of Adam E. Patterson, the Oklahoma negro, for register of the treasury, is nothing more than the tick beneath the velvet which is going to protrude truculently, ferociously and delivelv every time the administration makes a move to favor a person of the negro race, and almost as a man the southern members of congress are going to be found sharpening and enlarging the gorges of their swords. The withdrawal of Patterson's name by the President and the dignified letter from Patterson requesting that such a course be pursued, have removed the color question from the limelight for the present, but there is no doubt but that Senator Vardaman of Mississippi is going to have additional recruits every time he raises his voice in protest against political preferment of the negro. The sending of the name of Gabe E. Parker, the Choctaw Indian of Tulsa, Okla., to the senate, vice Patterson, has met with universal approval, and his name will be confirmed without the slightest opposition. Then J. C. Napier, the Tennessee lawyer and banker, resident of Nashville and leader of the negro race in the Volunteer state, will retire from the big treasury building at the west end of the avenue with a full realization that he will be the last man of his race for years to come, no doubt, who will occupy such a high station in the governmental affairs of the country. Retiring the Negroes

One by one, quietly but sedulously, the administration has been plucking the colored man from places of honor and responsibility since March 4. It began with the supersession immediately after the inauguration of this administration of Collector W. D. Crum, as collector of the port of Charleston. This was merely a suggestion for a general shifting, demotion and segregation policy as to negro clerks and employes in every department in Washington as rapidly as such could be brought about without impairing the services, and such a policy is being assiduously prosecuted. The fight for Napier's job has been spirited. He will have served two years and five months and will leave the department respected by every one—he is a cultured man of his race and fortunately has been able to combine the obedience of the negro man of the South with the urbanity of the educated man of color in the East. Former Governor John D. Buchanan of Tennessee wanted the job, as did many Confederate soldiers, and also a negro from nearly every state of the union. Patterson is one of the big men of his race from the West, and has been a Democratic since joining in the House and the United States Senate. He brooked a negro, nothing could have been held against Patterson. Precedent Was Upset Ever since the late President Harrison named Blanch W. Bruce, a former negro United States senator from Mississippi, register of the treasury, has the negro claimed this office by precedent. The late President McKinley took the same view and gave the office to Judson W. Lyon, the noted negro lawyer of Augusta, which precedent was recognized by Mr. Roosevelt, who named W. T. Vernon of Kansas as Lyon's successor, and Mr. Tillman who appointed Napier. J. Pount Tillman of Columbia, Tenn., is the last whose name recalled whose name went upon currency as register of the treasury, this being under Mr. Cleveland. But Mr. Cleveland stirred up the same clamorous opposition among southern senators when he named C. H. Taylor, a resident of deeds of the District of Columbia, and did not get him confirmed until a subsequent session. Southern senators like Messrs. Vardaman, Lee and Fike Smith, who were heard from as to Patterson, take the position that the negro has not yet shown that he is understood, that he is entitled to political preferment at the hands of the democratic party. The past week demonstrated that his been will be sliced thin during the present administration, and another try-out from the White House on the matter is not expected. COLORADO TO GULF HIGHWAY MEETING AT CLAYTON Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 11.—The next meeting of the Colorado to the Gulf Highway Association is called for August 28th at Clayton, New Mexico. Mrs. G. G. Grayville of Clayton, N. M., which reads as follows: "Clayton enticed ever getting next meeting. Raised five hundred dollars entertainment fund. We want to help the officers make this the best meeting held. Please send that of all county officers and let us know what you want us to do and we will be there. Suggested to Mr. Williams August 28th for meeting. Does that suit you?" The Clayton people are very much alive to the importance of this meeting and will entertain all delegates royally. We are very desirous of having a large delegation from each county. There will be much business of importance, and representation is expected from Galveston to Denver. We ask that you kindly give this a place in your paper. Yours very truly, A. W. READ, Secretary Colorado to Gulf Highway Association.

TEN FINES FOR GAMING ASSESSED THIS MORNING

Officers Make Raid—Total of Twenty Defendants in Corporation Court Today
Twenty defendants were brought before Judge Rye in the corporation court this morning. All pleaded guilty to the charges against them which included fighting, gaming and drunk. Ten of the cases were for gaming. Six white men were caught in a fifth floor room of a local hotel in this raid. Policemen Graves, Cox, Summerville, Morris and Humphries participated in the arrest. Four negroes were arrested at a house in the flats by Policemen Graves and Allen who surprised them while a game was in progress. MILLIONAIRE ACCUSED OF STEALING RACERS
Nanticoke, Alberta, Aug. 11.—Fred Williams, millionaire rancher, has been arrested on charges placed against him by Robert Dilworth and Edwards, H. Hill of Dalhart, Texas. It is alleged that Ings took seven horses which he and Hill were racing in Great Western circuit events and had them shipped out of town. Two horses, Peanut and Butten, are owned by Dilworth, two more, Loop and Sir Falmouth, are owned by Hill in Dalhart, Texas. It is also charged that Ings had removed three horses belonging to Mrs. Jean Muller of Fresno, Cal., which were valued at $4,000. The horses were traced to Ings' ranch, where Ings was arrested by the mounted police. He was released on $20,000 bail and ordered to appear in court Friday.

LOVE—LIFE—HOME

"Dust thou art, and unto dust returnest. Was not spoken of the soul." How strong and faithfully does every good and noble life bear out the above sentiment from the Poet's Pen. Man and woman pass through this life battling with conditions and yielding to environments as nothing else does. Each have their joys and friends and loved ones. Each their joys and their sorrows; each their creeds and desires while playing an important part in our actions comes greed, avarice, misfortune and penury. What emotions fill the human breast as varied as life itself. So thrilling that no hand however skilled can picture it. So tragic that no human tongue however voluble can express the heart-rending emotions that wring their faces from souls. So full of hope that we place angel wings on human form and halos of light around their mortal head. All thanks to Pandora! Hope points above where weeping loved ones see the way to a brighter and better life beyond. One MEMORIALS tells the full story of LOVE, LIFE, and HOME, COMPLETELY and EVERLASTINGLY. SACRIFICES TWIN BABIES TO GIVE THEM A HOME Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 11.—Sacrifice of her twin babies, that they might have a home she could not furnish made by a mother at the Methodist hospital yesterday, when she kissed them good-bye and was discharged from the institution. The mother has been in the hospital for two months, during which time she has lavished affection on the babies. When the time came to leave the mother admitted she had no home for the children, and would have to work for a living. An arrangement was made by which the babies will be placed in a home, the only requirement made by the mother being that the twins be left together. Hospital authorities will try to place the twins.
