PROS' PROGRAM PASSES HOUSE

INTERSTATE SHIPMENTS AND CIVIL EARLY CLOSING BILLS ARE APPROVED

NO EXECUTIVE SESSION

Senate Delays Action on Appointment of Sheb Williams But Passes Several Bills

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Aug. 18.—Thirty-six hours from adjournment, the House settled down to business today and passed the All-Union Interstate Import Shipments bill and likewise the civil closing bill and sent them immediately to the Senate for action. Godner submitted his resolution providing for a committee of three House members to investigate the State institutions and departments and make a report with the recommendations and requests of the various departments, for the appropriation committee of the Thirty-fourth legislature. A motion to table the resolution prevailed. The House passed the bill providing for the settlement of litigation between the Imperial Sugar Company and the State, also the Waagstaff and Woods bill amending the law relating to the renewal of liens accompanying deeds of trust. The Senate was not in the best humor for work today. A personal representative, leads officials here to take a more hopeful view of the situation. Representatives of the constitution lists here are watching developments with keenest interest. If Huerta is disposed to accept that part of the American proposal looking to elections that element may come into these negotiations. As the Mexican constitution prohibits the holding of a general election during a period of insurrection, to comply with President Wilson's desire for a free and fair election something would have to be done to induce the constitutionalists to consent to a truce. So far, it is stated officially, the administration here has had no communication directly with the constitutionalists. The reopening of telegraph communication between Juarez and the city of Chihuahua was announced by the state department by receipt of a message from the American consul confirming the previous report from the consulate at Juarez of the safety of the American Hulse family, whose perilous situation led Senator Penrose to address the Senate last Friday.

LESS OPTIMISM AT WASHINGTON

ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS NOT SO PLACED WITH MEXICAN OUTLOOK

"HAVE DONE OUR DUTY"

Senator Bacon Points Out That United States Has Done Its Best in Promises

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 18.—Administration officials appeared less optimistic today over the Mexican situation but still were awaiting some word from John Lind which would make possible publication of President Wilson's views already in the hands of the Huerta government. Chairman Bacon of the Senate foreign relations committee, said after a conference with a personal representative, leads officials here to take a more hopeful view of the situation. Representatives of the constitution lists here are watching developments with keenest interest. If Huerta is disposed to accept that part of the American proposal looking to elections that element may come into these negotiations. As the Mexican constitution prohibits the holding of a general election during a period of insurrection, to comply with President Wilson's desire for a free and fair election something would have to be done to induce the constitutionalists to consent to a truce. Universal Peace Advocates Assemble At The Hague To Open Peace Palace

The Hague, Aug. 18.—Peace advocates from all parts of the world assembled here for the twentieth universal peace congress, scheduled to take place at the new peace palace here Aug. 18-23 inclusive. Since 1889 this congress has met yearly in one of the large towns of Europe and America. Among the later congresses, those of 1905 at Lucerne, of 1906 at Milan, of 1908 in London and of 1910 at Stockholm may be cited as having been especially successful as well with regard to the work of the congress itself as to the kind of hospitality with which the members were received. From the moment that the opening of the peace palace was fixed for 1913 a year in which the Dutch are making their country as attractive as possible, from that moment the idea took root that the twentieth universal peace congress in 1913 should be held at the Hague. The peace palace is the embodiment of the idea which gave birth to the peace congresses, and it is the conviction that The Hague is the royal residence of that "favored country," as Holland may be called with regard to international law, which made Stead proclaim The Hague the capital of the world and which made Mr. Carnegie choose it as the spot where the peace palace was to be erected. This year's congress will be under the high patronage of his royal highness, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, Duke of Mecklenburg.

THAW IS STILL AT LARGE; WRITES LETTER TO MOTHER

No Trace Of White's Slayer Is Found Since His Sensational Escape Sunday Morning

By Associated Press. New York, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw received at noon today a letter from her son, Harry K. Thaw, who escaped from Mattewan yesterday. The letter was postmarked New York, August 17, 12 p. m. The letter read: "All well. Shall take a rest before going to Elmhurst, as I might have asked for interviews and do not wish to refuse, yet do not care to make any statements. Hope M. and G. (Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie) arrived safe, and that you will go home together. Have sent a short note to the Journal. (Signed) H. K. T." Mrs. Thaw said the letter was in her son's hand-writing and for that reason she knew it came from him. She added she did not know where he is today or when he would go to Cresson, Pennsylvania, where the Thaw country home is located. She said she would leave for Elmhurst tomorrow. Harry K. Thaw's more than twenty-four hours absence from the Mattewan Asylum for the Criminal Insane had established today little beyond the fact that he had escaped and that the state of New York, in the opinion of those qualified to speak, had slim chance of extraditing him. That he is beyond the boundaries of the State was regarded as certain. With the Connecticut state line only thirty miles from the asylum walls and Thaw and his conspirators traveling by automobile more than sixty miles an hour, reaching Connecticut was a matter of thirty minutes or less. Whether the slayer of Stanford White boarded a yacht off South Norwalk, Conn., had not been borne out today. On the other hand, no trace had been found of him in Connecticut, nor was there any news of his having sped toward the Canadian border. When found, and it was considered sure that he would be found, the New York authorities, it was said, might try to extradite him on the ground that in escaping he technically assaulted a keeper, or that bribery of some asylum attendee could be shown. Howard Barnum, the gatekeeper, past whom Thaw darted through the open gates and dashed into an automobile, remained in jail today. He maintains his innocence. Mrs. Mary Thaw, mother of the fugitive, expressed joy at her son's escape, meantime indignantly denying that the Thaw family had any hint of the matter until newspapers told them. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw pronounced her husband dangerous to the community and applied for police protection.

BELIEVES CLAYTON IS ENTITLED TO BE SEATED

Senator Robinson of Arkansas is First to Break Democratic Opposition to Appointment

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 18.—The first actual break in the democratic opposition to seating Henry D. Clayton Governor O'Neal's appointee to the Senate succeeded the late Senator Johnston of Alabama, was made today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who took the position that the governor had the power to appoint under the new seventeenth amendment. Clayton was waiting to present his credentials and force a test.

NO COMPROMISE WITH INSURGENTS BY WILSON

President Intends to Stick by Report of Democrats on the Currency Question

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 18.—President Wilson has no intention of compromising with insurgent democrats on the currency bill. He made it plain today that he intended to stick by the report of the democratic majority of the House committee, and was confident that the House would adopt the Owen-Glass bill without material change.

STANDARD IS LAYING LINE TO CONNECT WITH OKLAHOMA

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18.—The work of laying the pipe line from the Standard Oil refinery at Woodriver, Ill., near Alton, to Carrollton, Mo., to connect with the line coming from the Oklahoma oil fields, was started Saturday. Ninety men dropped the pipe from a barge with heavy tongs joining it as the boat proceeded slowly across the Mississippi River and allowing it to fall into the river in a curve. One hundred and fifty men are busy clearing the right of way on Missouri Point for the continuance of the line through Missouri.

DIVORCED WOMAN SHOOTS EX-HUSBAND AND WIFE

One is Killed and Other Mortally Wounded When Shots are Fired Without Warning

By Associated Press. Millen, Georgia, Aug. 18.—Judge W. S. Godbee was killed and Mrs. Godbee was mortally wounded here today by the judge's divorced wife, Mrs. Edna Godbee. The killing occurred in the town postoffice. Mrs. Godbee, who did the shooting, was the judge's second wife. Today when she met Godbee and his third wife, she drew a revolver and fired without warning.

STAR WITNESS IN DALLAS MURDER CASE IS DEAD

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 18.—Merrill W. Johnson, son of "Rutabaga" Johnson, who used to be a noted character in Collin county, died here yesterday at his home, 2018 Ross avenue. The funeral will be held late this afternoon. Johnson was born in Missouri, April 11, 1857, but had resided in Texas most of his life, making his home in Collin and Dallas counties. He was a lawyer and ran for office in Dallas county for a number of years without success. He was a star witness for the defense in the recent Clayton murder case, in which J. L. Clayton shot and killed J. White, vice president of the Republic Trust Company of this city.

WANTS PUBLIC DANCE HALLS

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—Park and public amusement Commissioner Dwight L. Davis, multifarious today, is planning to convert the St. Louis coliseum into a monster municipal dance hall. Commissioner Davis recently established here the largest municipal swimming pool in the world. He believes that people will dance and that the city should convert the places of dancing so that the functions can be properly supervised.

THREE DAYS BATTLE IS VICTORY FOR FEDERALS

Rebels Now Retreating Toward Eagle Pass—Much Looting and Pillage Reported

By Associated Press. Eagle Pass, Texas, Aug. 18.—The constitutionalists were defeated in their three days battle last week near Abasco, about one hundred miles south of here. They retreated Saturday and yesterday, declaring they had not sufficient ammunition to reply to the federal's fire. About seven thousand men were engaged. No estimate of the losses has reached here. The retreat began Saturday morning northward along the railroad running to Eagle Pass. Immense destruction of property is said to have accompanied the retreat. Lampasket, a small mining town, was practically blotted off the map by dynamite and fire.

ADDITIONAL SHOWERS FALL IN MISSOURI AND KANSAS

By Associated Press. Kansas City, Aug. 18.—Additional showers were reported in parts of Missouri and Kansas last night, but the status of the drought is not changed generally. Relief to crops in Missouri is reported greater than in Kansas.

FIVE KILLED IN BROOKLYN HOME

MOTHER AND FOUR CHILDREN FOUND DEAD, WITH BODIES MANGLED

FATHER CANNOT SURVIVE

Is Believed to Have Killed Wife and Children, Then Fatally Wounded Himself

By Associated Press. New York, Aug. 18.—The bodies of Mrs. Mary Lake and her four children, Horace, aged seventeen, Walter, aged eight, Stella, aged eighteen and Dorothy, aged fourteen, were found stark naked in their Brooklyn home today, horribly mangled.

Beside them, dying, was the husband and father, Henry Lake, a restaurant chef. Apparently he had killed all five then fatally wounded himself. The tragedy occurred last Wednesday or Thursday. Odors from the rooms aroused neighbors and the police broke in. All the five members of the family had been shot and several of the bodies bore evidences of having been repeatedly slashed with a knife. In a blood-spattered corner, with a gaping wound in his head, was Lake. He could only mumble incoherently, Lake was rushed to the hospital, where physicians said he could not live.

PRESIDENT TO BE GUEST AT COMMERCIAL CONGRESS

Drew Caminetti Ready for Ordeal After Diggs Trial

MOTHER AND FOUR CHILDREN FOUND DEAD, WITH BODIES MANGLED

Is Believed to Have Killed Wife and Children, Then Fatally Wounded Himself

By Associated Press. San Francisco, Aug. 18.—As soon as the Diggs white slave trial was ended it was planned to put Drew Caminetti, son of United States Commissioner of Immigration, Caminetti on trial. He was accused of eloping with Lois Norris, and it was expected that the case would prove sensational as the Diggs case. Though both married, these two young men took the Norris girl and her friend, Martha Warrington to Reno, Nev. Their case was postponed by the department of justice at Washington despite the protests of United States District Attorney McNab, now resigned. The matter created a national sensation because of the allegations of political influence.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Aug. 18.—W. F. Doughty of Marlin, recently tendered the position of state superintendent of instruction vice P. M. Bralley, resigned, announced his acceptance today.

MAY BE CHANGE IN PAVING PLANS

SCOTT AVENUE INSTEAD OF LOWER TENTH, MAY GET APPROPRIATION

SPECIAL SESSION TODAY

Owners on Wood Block Section of Tenth Street Reluctant to Sign Contracts

By Associated Press. Scott avenue instead of the lower part of Tenth street may get part of the city's appropriation for street paving. This developed at a called meeting of the city council this afternoon when it was reported that some of the property owners between Lamar and Ohio avenues would not sign the wood block paving contracts. Unless these property owners can be brought into line the council will consider the appropriation of the money to the paving of Scott avenue between Tenth and Seventh streets, provided the property owners will sign a petition in accordance with the resolution recently adopted by the council. These property owners at the last meeting of the council presented a petition asking for the city to pave the street and alley intersections and also one-third of the street in front of their properties. Council referred the petition back to the property owners with the information that if they would present their petition agreeing to have all the street in front of their properties the petition would be taken up as soon as the city had the money to do it's part of the paving. The special meeting of the council was called to act on the matter of the purchase of 1500 feet of fire hose now at Grandfield, Oklahoma. Council voted to reject the proposition. The paving matter came up when the city was asked to sign a contract with the Crooked Wood Block Paving Co. for the paving of Tenth street from Ohio to Lamar avenue. This council declined to do until all the property owners had signed up for their parts of the paving. The contract for the paving from Lamar avenue to Brook street has already been signed and the diversion of the appropriation from lower Tenth street to Scott avenue would not affect that portion of Tenth street.

ESCAPE WAS INGENUOUS

Yesterday morning the shades were down in the dormitories and the inmates were getting their second sleep when Thaw, fully dressed, left his room. The milkman's cart was rumbling on the road outside as he walked through the store-room and into the outer court or outer yard of the asylum.

Police Are Notified

Barnum's breathless declaration at the asylum brought Dr. Kieb to his feet like a pistol shot. Within a moment he was standing at the telephone and as Barnum poured the story into his ears, repeated it over the wire to police headquarters. Mattewan became the center of a warning ripple of telephone and telegraph alarms as Dr. Kieb planned pursuit.

THAW'S DASH TO LIBERTY

As Barnum stepped aside for the milkman to drive inside the grounds, he heard the gravel crunching beneath Thaw's feet and, looking up, saw Thaw flash past him straight for one of the waiting cars.

THAW'S DASH TO LIBERTY

With a shout Barnum started in pursuit, but a flying leap landed Thaw safe in the car. The automobile wheels began turning before the keeper fairly reached the roadway and Thaw was drawing up a cloud of dust before he had gone twenty-five feet.

THAW'S DASH TO LIBERTY

Down the roadway the cars sped in a whirling cloud of dust that quickly blotted them from sight. For a moment Barnum watched his eyes with his hands and shaded them; then, with the first great blot on his career of twenty years as keeper, he dashed madly back into the grounds and locked the gate.

THAW'S DASH TO LIBERTY

"Thaw's gone—escaped!" he shouted, bursting into Dr. Kieb's presence, and in a moment the hunt was on.

THAW'S DASH TO LIBERTY

The great black car flashed like a thunderbolt through Stormville, ten miles east of Mattewan, along the road to the Connecticut line. Early risers in the little hamlet saw three

MILLION GIPSIES ROAM EUROPE

EVERY YEAR VAST ARMY MOVES ACROSS FROM EAST TO WEST

GREAT SALE OF PAINTINGS

Immense Collection of Copies of Famous Paintings in the Louvre to be Auctioned

Paris, Aug. 18.—Time immense collection of pictures, many of them copies of famous canvasses, which now encumber the cellars and garrets of the Louvre Galleries, are soon to be sold at public auction.

The pictures have been accumulating for over a century, and it is doubtful if even the Louvre authorities themselves know what is there. Most of them are copies of old masters which were made by artists in the course of their study and abandoned. Many a picture of value may be discovered under the dust of years. Doubtless a number of them were executed by artists who afterwards became famous. The sale will, at any rate, afford amateurs an opportunity of obtaining copies of their favorite pictures at a comparatively low price. Lovers of the lost "Joconde" will have the choice of more than a hundred copies.

Some days ago a group of visitors passing through the Army Museum at les Invalides, examined the glass case in which the personal effects of the great Napoleon are displayed. To their horror, they saw three holes in the skirt of the celebrated grey overcoat. Spared by bullet and shell, the famous and legendary garment is in imminent danger of destruction by the insidiously domestic moth. The gallant general who is in charge of the museum was at once advised, and measures have been taken to make the existence of moths in the precious case impossible.

Europe's Gipsy Army

One million gipsies, with neither home nor country, move across Europe every year from east to west with the beginning of summer. Nowhere are they wanted, everywhere are they eyed askance, but still every year they wander, and the authorities of the countries they cross dread their coming and are relieved when they go. There is always trouble at the frontiers. Here the wanderers are stopped, questioned, and often imprisoned as vagrants. But there is nothing to do but finally let them go, and they invariably return the next year. An effort to aid and protect these gipsies, and incidentally the perpetual authorities, is being made by a Swiss clergyman, H. Ecuver. He has organized a society, one of the purposes of which is to instruct the gipsies in the Christian religion, for these nomads are all pagans. The success of Mr. Ecuver's efforts, however, is considered very uncertain.

The levels of the various glaciers of Switzerland are slowly subsiding. In other words, these high, slow-moving rivers of ice and snow are gradually drying up for the reason that their volume is yearly decreasing. In future years they undoubtedly will present an appearance considerably different from what they do today. The gradual subsidence of these ice fields is established by statistics which the Swiss Alpine Club has compiled from observation of some thirty-two of the most important glaciers. These figures show that the Swiss glacier, the "Aletsch," subsided 10 feet in 1912 despite the exceptionally cold weather, 58 feet in 1911, and 75 feet in 1910. The "Roengletacher" subsided 36 feet in 1912, 23 feet in 1911, and 40 feet in 1910. The two "Grindelwald" glaciers increased by 65 feet during 1912, but had diminished 130 feet the year before. Since 1893 these two glaciers have subsided over 1,000 feet.

Fate in the Cards
Recent happenings in Bulgaria have brought out the story of an interview ten years ago between the present king of Bulgaria and a French diplomat, who told Ferdinand his fortune from a pack of cards with remarkable accuracy.

In 1903 the story goes the late M. Mancini was secretary of the French legation at Sofia. One night at a reception at the palace the present king, then merely Prince Ferdinand, called him into a little study and asked him to read the future. M. Mancini asked for a pack of cards, and after certain manipulations, said: "I see your influence and your power ceaselessly growing. Other rulers listen to your voice. Your armies become more and more formidable. The year 1912 stands out above all others—your fortune in that year will be meteoric."

"I must wait nine years, muttered the Prince, thoughtfully. "But tell me, what do you see in 1913?" "After 1912 the cards are blank; they tell me nothing," answered M. Mancini. M. Mancini's brother diplomat, however, were not satisfied with his last answer, when they heard of the consultation. Pressed with questions, the young attaché finally said: "I could not tell the Prince what I really saw in 1913, for in that year the cards spelled disaster."

CHANCELLORS WIFE HAS HER SUFFRAGETTE JOKE

Meets Him on Golf Links Demanding Bailout, but He Sees Through Her Disguise

London, Aug. 18.—London society and official circles today are laughing heartily over Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George's latest encounter with "suffragettes." Although the Chancellor's tormentors were not the real article, he got a rare fright and several Scotland Yard men who winked at the hoax have been severely reprimanded. The suffragettes have been on Lloyd-George's trail for the past three years and he never goes anywhere without a bodyguard of plain clothesmen. When he received an invitation to Wimbledon, the home of Sir Alfred Mond, head of the British Chemical trust, he felt no hesitation in accepting, for Sir Alfred is one of the pillars of Liberalism upon whom the Chancellor could depend for protection from annoyances.

Sir Alfred's wife, however, who is as unconventional as she is beautiful, decided to make Lloyd-George's fear of suffragettes the excuse for a practical joke. She enlisted the aid of a bosom friend and the two donned wigs, spectacles and other artistic attire, lined their faces with paint and armed themselves with suffragette literature and hammers.

They trailed the Chancellor to the golf links where he was peacefully playing. While skulking behind some bushes they were spotted by detectives who demanded to know their business. "We are visitors invited by Sir Alfred Mond," said Lady Mond. "When were you invited?" thundered a detective.

"Fifteen years ago," promptly replied the mistress of the estate, naming the date of her marriage to Sir Alfred. But as the sleuths were still skeptical, Lady Mond, fearing her joke would be spoiled, disclosed her identity and her purpose. The detectives grinning broadly, withdrew. Just as Lloyd-George was driving off from a tee Lady Mond and her companion rushed out brandishing hammers and shouting "Votes for women. Women are suffering while you are indifferent."

White with apprehension and anger, Chancellor Lloyd-George swung around and said, "I'm here to play golf and not to talk politics."

DEATH BY BICHLORIDE HORRIBLE, SAYS DOCTOR

Prominent Denver Physician Gives Advice on Subject to All Would-be Suicides

Denver, Colo., Aug. 18.—I should advise anyone seeking a flower strewn path to the Great Beyond to leave bichloride of mercury alone. I can conceive of no more horrible death than from the effects of bichloride.

Dr. L. M. Van Mater, prominent Denver physician today issued this warning to "would be suicides" through the United Press. In doing so he admitted that the increase in the number of persons taking this means of ending their lives is giving medical men all over the country much concern. The use of bichloride, said Dr. Van Mater, has alarmingly increased following the death of G. Sanders Walker, millionaire banker of Macon, Ga., who took the poison by mistake and lived for several days afterwards with full knowledge of his approaching end.

"It is an erroneous opinion that death by bichloride is painless," said Dr. Van Mater today. "Violent pains follow the spreading of the poison through the system. It is a corrosive poisoning and naturally it is holy irritant. There is no known antidote after the poison has had a fair start, except albumen—usually the white of an egg—which surrounds and holds inactive the poison if it is given soon enough and if the quantity of the poison taken is not too large."

The reason that there is no means of coping with this terrible poison after it has left the stomach is that the mercury dissolves and permeates the system so rapidly. In action it is very much like arsenic but far more painful. The effect of mercurial bichloride is much similar in some respects to the effects of an overdose of calomel. In some cases the teeth are loosened, the sufferer undergoes violent paroxysms of pain, vomiting spells and convulsions.

"How the idea got abroad that bichloride of mercury poisoning was painless is hard to say. If one or two men have stoically borne the anguish that does not mean that others can do likewise. A person who can stand the terrible pains of bichloride of mercury poisoning stoically cannot have human feelings."

Drowsy, Dreamy Days.
Drowsy, dreamy days,
When you want to roam
Mid the tangled ways
Round the dear old home,
Do'n't not a thing
But loatin' round the place
While the mock-birds sing
At your suin' face.
Drowsy, dreamy days,
Roses all in bloom,
Where the zephyr plays
Waftin' sweet perfume
Bess a-buzzin' by,
Catherin' their sweet
Miles of meadows sly
Stead of city streets.
Drowsy, dreamy days,
Lettin' time slip past,
World wrapped in a haze,
Life's too sweet to last,
Nuthin' you feel the green,
Boys your head the blue
An' blossoms in between
An' all of 't for you.

WEEKLY LETTER TO CLUBS FROM STATE PRESIDENT.

Following is the weekly letter issued by Mrs. E. H. Hertzberg, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs from the San Antonio headquarters.

There will be held this month two very important conventions, in which women's organizations are particularly interested, and the following women, members of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, have been appointed delegates to these conventions.

Mrs. Mary L. Christensen, the State chairman peace committee and Mrs. Fox of Corpus Christi, a member of that committee, are the delegates appointed to the peace conference that will be held at The Hague, Holland, the latter part of August.

Mrs. E. E. Bramlette, state chairman education committee, Mrs. Maggie W. Barry and Mrs. Henry Redmond, and Mrs. A. B. Honeycutt are the delegates appointed to attend the convention on school hygiene to be held at Baltimore at the end of this month.

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is ever working for the advance of our educational institutions, especially through our home and school clubs, for our public schools and already untold good has resulted from this cooperation. We have been a power in influencing medical inspection in the schools and in several of the cities of our state, some of our clubs have been successful in having trained nurses appointed to visit not only the schools but to go into the homes to instruct the mothers how to intelligently rear their children so that with well developed bodies and minds they can rightly enjoy all the good that this world holds for humanity.

These nurses teach the mothers, too, how to keep their homes both sanitary and wholesome. And so this convention to be held at Baltimore will consider matters that, while most of us think we know all about them, and that they are of a simple character, are in truth vitally important, and of such a nature that not only the mothers and housekeepers in general, but all connected with schools, factories, department stores, etc., should be fully informed on same. In fact all humans are in need of this education for when the adult is not equipped with this important information, the innocent, helpless child is bound to suffer through the ignorance of this adult, to whom is entrusted the innocent and moral moulding of the child.

Let me quote an incident that I experienced the other day. A small group of men and women deeply interested in the welfare of public schools, were discussing the great need of having the parents regularly inspect the public's health conditions, and to send the pupils in need of attention to the proper authorities.

One of the group, a highly cultured man, said that "if children in need of medical attention did not care to seek this aid of their own will, he certainly would not approve of expending the money of the public to compel them to go."

Now you will concede that this man was entirely wrong, for in an instance of this kind, where it is so necessary to protect the innocent and helpless child from its ignorant guardian, it is indeed a case of "I am my brother's keeper." Truly this good man was sadly lacking in the knowledge that is so necessary to help pay the just debt that humanity owes to every child, rich or poor, whether it be your child or my child.

Weather is still hot and dry and the farmers are anxious for a good rain so that they can continue their plowing for a wheat crop next year.
The Baptist meeting in the big tent is still in progress and the interest yesterday was so great that the service continued from 10 in the morning until 4:30 in the afternoon. Brother McKenzie is doing some very fine preaching and his brother, J. C. McKenzie whose home is at Hico, Texas, is in charge of the music.
Mrs. J. H. Evans and two daughters, Misses Lillie and Mary and E. E. Hartin and wife, passed through here this morning in Mr. Evans' car on their way to Mineral Wells where Mr. Evans has been for two or three weeks. Miss Lillie will remain for sometime with her father. The rest of the party expect to return Monday.
As the ground is too hard to plow, there seems to be an unusually large crowd of men in town today.

Horseback Suffragist Crusader Starts With Companions Astride In Newest Votes For Women Stunt

SUFFRAGETTE STARTS ON HORSEBACK CRUSADE

New York, Aug. 18.—For the first time American suffragists are trying campaigning on horseback. Hikes on foot and journeys in carriages are now old stories. MAN OF MYSTERY WRITES TO GWINN

CHIEF GETS NUMBER OF LETTERS FROM SOMEONE IN LOUISIANA TOWN
REFER TO DALLAS CASE
Writer Has Sent Over Forty Letters—Is Believed to be Mentally Unbalanced

For over a year Chief of Police Gwin has been in receipt of a series of mysterious letters from some illiterate individual in which he is tipped off to some suspicious characters headed this way. Most of the letters have been dated at Louisiana points although one of them was dated from Bowie, Texas.

The letters are hardly legible and are badly disconnected but usually refer to the murder of Miss Florence Brown at Dallas several weeks ago. The letters bear the signature "Fred Schnabe". In all Chief Gwin has received more than forty letters from this man. The writer, he believes, is mentally unbalanced but how he happened to start writing to him he doesn't know. The letters might get on the nerves of a less superstitious person than the chief but he apparently has not lost any sleep over them.

NEW FEDERAL GAME LAW EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1

Better Talk With Me About Preserves Before You Put Any Up This Fall

PHONES 432 AND 232 AUTO DELIVERY

Last year about this time I had a talk with quite a number of women in Wichita Falls about their preserves and other late canning. Quite a few of them were inclined to believe that it was cheaper to put up their own preserves but after they figured it out with me on a basis of preserves that I could supply in quantity they decided to make a trial of buying instead of putting up theirs and this year most of those same women have already placed their order for winter preserves. Now if you want to make a saving both in money and time and have a greater variety of preserves on hand, if you will come in and talk with me the same as those other women did I will be able to prove the same facts. Just as an idea of what you can get from my stock I quote the following items for fall delivery. For special prices on these ring me up or call personally at the store. Red cherry, strawberries, black raspberry, peach, red raspberry, blackberry, plum and pineapple.

Some of our friends who are summer resorting in Colorado are sending scenic post cards to us telling of the pleasures they are enjoying, and generally wind up by saying they are sleeping under blankets. All of which may be true, but a little unreasonable. Perhaps the blankets are stored in a room above that occupied by them, and in that instance it is all right to make the assertion.

An English woman has now been found who openly approves of polygamy. She contends that if a man is able to support more than one wife he should be given that privilege, provided the woman he has married in the first place agrees to his taking on an additional wife, or No. 2. Doubtless, there are other women who will agree with her, but they are generally of the kind who would like the same privileges extended to them of choosing as many husbands as they like, but who prefer to exercise that privilege in secret and without the consent or knowledge of their legal husbands.

The Times offers this suggestion, if it is not in conflict with the state anti-trust laws: Let all the newspapers of the state agree to ignore the personal and administrative features of the legislative proceedings and print only news of proper legislative and executive actions. This we know would make a mighty slim budget from the state capital but a great deal of space and expense would be saved and the proceedings would be briefly but plainly stated and the people would be able to learn what has been done without reading through columns recording bickerings and bunces. So long as the papers print this stuff the bunch down at Austin is going to make copy. If the newspapers would cut it it would deprive the clowns of an audience and they might get tired. Anyway the Times would like to see the experiment tried.

The farmer who has a good stock of sorghum, kafir corn or maize in his feed lot can consider himself lucky, for before another crop can grow, feed stuff is going to be mighty high in price and mighty hard to get. Local dealers are finding it hard to find supplies for the local demand even this early in the season and there isn't any prospect that the supply will become more plentiful as the winter months come. The drouth has seared corn and feed crops in Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri and while the government reports put the shortage at 300,000,000 bushels those who know the conditions from personal observation say the shortage will be nearer 500,000,000. Of course rains here can make more grass and winter wheat and winter wheat and oats will give pasturage which the open winters will make accessible, and in these things the farmers in this section will be better off than the farmers in the north.

Whether Mr. Sulzer wins in his fight to retain the governorship of New York or not, people generally will have but little faith in the man who succeeds him, if Charles Murphy, chief of Tammany, has the naming of him. At this distance it looks as if Mr. Sulzer had done nothing, really, that would justify his impeachment, but even if he had, the bunch that is doing the impeaching act are a hard lot to turn over to their management the affairs of a great state. In other words, Sulzer may, technically, have permitted things to be done with his sanction that will justify impeachment, but if that is the course to be taken the people of New York state had better act with caution less they, in punishing and humiliating Sulzer, they elevate to power the rottenest political organization that was ever permitted to exist.

THE USE OF KNOWLEDGE
Editor Times:
Of what use is knowledge?
Why, you answer, knowledge is power. Quite true, but power is of no value unless it is applied to something so that it can render service to society. An engine may have steam power accumulated in it to the bursting point but unless it has the attachments by which it can apply that power to something it is as useless as cold steel. The Niagara Falls has power to light a dozen cities but until that power is harnessed to something it is wasted. Dynamite is not dangerous itself nor is the power of dynamite dangerous. It is only the explosion of dynamite that is dangerous or useful as applied.

Knowledge is power, but it is of value only when put to use in serving society.
A man may be as wise as Solomon; as eloquent as Cicero; as ingenious as Edison but unless he applies that power to something useful he is as useless to society as a feeble-minded child. Only use has worth.
One may acquire knowledge of history, science, literature, art, etc., until he is far superior intellectually to any of his fellows, but until he applies this knowledge in some useful way he is not of as much use to society as the poorest scavenger on the street.
Only when he uses this knowledge to educate others, to lighten the burden of his fellows, or to produce something of worth does he become useful.

Knowledge is power and power is the force that moves the world. Therefore, acquire all the knowledge you can and apply the power in the way you can best serve society.

THE LAST GIFT

It is the custom to give gifts unto your children. Every year you remember your loved ones and friends a gift before the year is closed, was unremembered an unappreciated. As a last gift that dear old FATHER and MOTHER left you a legacy of truth, honesty and fidelity, along with a handsome sum of ready cash. Next day there was a protest filed in the county courts contesting the will. What is the matter? The will calls for a $300.00 memorial headstone to be purchased and placed at their graves at LAST GIFT. The children in protesting say, "They do not need it. A $10.00 tomb rock is good enough." Visit the spot and you will find they sleep in UNMARKED, UNREMEMBERED GRAVES. MANY CHANGES IN NEW YORK CAFES

GOTHAM'S EATING PLACES ARE SUBJECT OF DISSEMINATION AND LITIGATION

CLOSE WATCH BY POLICE

Some Places Cannot Stand Rigid Surveillance by Officers and Close Their Doors

(By Carlton Ten Eyck, written for the United Press)

New York, Aug. 18.—"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." That has been said so much that it is axiomatic. But would any old weed smell sweet if called a rose? That, apparently is what several of New York's best known restaurants are trying to find out.

There have been a great many changes in the favorite eating places of Manhattan in the past six months, but few new names appear. The restaurant owners seem to have the idea that location does not make a great deal of difference, so long as the name is the same. Louis Martin, the famous pioneer caterer of Broadway, now holds forth at Fifty-ninth street, where formerly the name of George Rector flaunted itself in big electric letters. George Rector, in turn, has taken over the old Polites Bergere restaurant at Fifty-eighth street and Broadway. His name already appears in big letters on all sides of the building and the place will be opened for business about first good oyster day.

When Louis Martin moved from Twenty-fifth street and Broadway to Forty-second street, impelled by the up-town rush and the northward migration of the theatre district, he formed a stock company. Not many months ago there arose a series of dissensions which culminated in Louis Martin selling out to his associates. They made the stipulation that Martin should not again engage in the restaurant business in New York and the veteran caterer in turn demanded that the company no longer use his name.

Despite his protests, "Louis Martin's" in big electric letters continued to be one of the most glaring signs around Forty-second street, where the glaring is good. Tiring of seeing his name a drawing card for a business wherein he no longer had an interest, Martin went up to Fifty-ninth street and bought out George Rector. He hung his name in big letters, lengthwise of the building and there was a vigorous protest from Forty-second street. Martin was threatened with a law suit but evidently he had the best of the argument for this sign still flaunts itself up town and at Forty-second street the sign "Cafe de Paris" assaults the eye where "Louis Martin's" formerly hung.

Now it is evident that George Rector is giving Martin the same medicine that the latter gave his former associates in transferring his well known name to another food emporium. And in doing so George Rector is making another restaurant keeper uneasy. His new stand is not far from the well known Hotel Rector at Forty-fourth street and Broadway.

And on the new place George displays the simple sign, "Rector's." In taking his new location Rector is defying one of the superstitions of the Great White Way. He is taking the stand occupied by a concern that failed. The Polites Bergere Restaurant has failed twice. The first time it was in Forty-sixth street, just west of Broadway, where the Fulton Theatre is now located and the management said the failure was due to some murder or other. Next time the same owners, in a new location, failed, they said, because of the rigid m. closing crusade of Police Inspector Dwyer.

The White Light eating places, by the way, have had a rather strenuous time since the murder more than a year ago of Gambler Herman Rosen that in front of the Metropole in Forty-third street.

The police graft investigations and the attendant reforms that followed immediately in the wake of the celebrated killing is said to have put a crimp in much of the Broadway business. The Metropole itself soon closed its doors for lack of patronage and when it later reopened as the Miller, its renaissance was short lived. The place is now closed. The Cadillac at Forty-third street and Broadway, which came in for mention in the Rosenthal matter, recently changed its name to the Wallack when the place donned a new coat of paint within and without.

The impeachment trial of Governor William Sulzer of New York is set for Sept. 18. Pending the outcome of the trial Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn became acting governor under the provisions of the state constitution, although Mr. Sulzer fought to retain his prerogatives as governor until the result of the trial was known. Meanwhile Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, who was accredited with bringing about Mr. Sulzer's impeachment, remained publicly silent. State Senator Richard P. CASE OF ROSE HUMPHRIES IS BEING TRIED TODAY.

Rose Humphries is on trial before a jury in the county court this afternoon on a charge of carrying a pistol. The indictment grows out of a shooting scrape at the place of Edna Mayes last June, in which a shot was fired that missed its mark and broke a piece of "Indian statuary." After the shooting Rose Humphries was found with a revolver in her hand in the back yard. The contention of the defense is that she was in her own back yard which adjoins that of the Mayes woman. The shot was fired through the door at the Mayes woman's house. Policeman Henry Allen testified there were powder burns on the door where the bullet entered. He said Rose Humphries was about half way between the two houses when he saw her.

One of the witnesses this afternoon who was in the room into which the bullet was fired testified as to her position relative to the "Indian statue" which was broken.

COLORADO-TEXAS ROUTE IMPROVED

WICHITANS FIND ROADS IN MUCH BETTER SHAPE THAN FORMERLY

HAVE AN INTERESTING TRIP

D. P. Talley and W. C. Gibson Return From Colorado—Keep Record of Gasoline and Oil

D. P. Talley and W. C. Gibson who returned to City Friday night after an auto trip to Colorado, have some interesting comment to make on road conditions between here and the Rockies. They said:

"We went via Amarillo, Dumas, Dalhart, Clayton, Raton and Pueblo and returned by the same route. There has been a wonderful improvement in the roads on this route since our trip over it two years ago. From Dumas there are two routes to Colorado Springs, one via Stratford and Lamar and the other via Clayton and Raton. The latter is known as "The Scenic Highway" and it certainly is correctly named, being over the Raton Pass in the Rock Mountains which for a stretch of 28 miles is the prettiest drive between here and Colorado Springs. The road over these mountains was constructed by convicts, is maintained by them in fine condition and is an average of only four per cent grade, which we easily climbed in second gear. We found that some tourists have been led to believing the Raton Pass a little dangerous. We want to most emphatically deny that and assure the public that any cars capable of climbing "Chalk Hill" between Dallas and Fort Worth will find the Raton Pass easy—almost as easy as our Eighth street grade.

"The Stratford-Lamar route is a little less mileage and more level country, but no tourist should fail to take the Raton route at least one way. Some go one way and return the other. The poorest roads we encountered were between here and Vernon and between Goodlet and Clarendon, but work is either being done or is promised throughout those sections.

"From Amarillo to Clayton there is a sign board every mile and arrangements have been made to erect the same all the way beyond. Wichita and all counties between Fort Worth and Amarillo are expected to promptly do likewise and we hope Wichita Falls will do its part promptly. These signs certainly are a great help to tourists.

"We kept a faithful record of gasoline and cylinder oil used also of exact miles traveled, which included a trip to Georgetown Loop, beyond Denver over one of the sensational mountain routes, also several side trips.

"Total mileage for the round trip was 1858 2-10 miles on 113 gallons of gasoline and ten quarts of cylinder oil—a favorable record being 16 44-100 miles to a gallon of gasoline—done by a 1911 model 4 passenger Cadillac which has covered over 15,000 miles and been running since April, 1911. This record is absolutely correct. The exact distance from Eighth and Indiana to the Cadillac Garage in Colorado Springs is 650 7-10 miles—counting accurately by starting from each stopping point in each town stopping in, and not including any driving about the towns nor any side trips."

Loot Worth $100,000 is Passed up by Robbers in Their Haste to Get Away

By Associated Press. Newport, R. I., Aug. 18.—Several thieves raided Herman's jewelry store here—sometime between Saturday night and this morning.

It was learned after an investigation that the burglars obtained jewels and silverware valued at about $10,000. They were frightened away while booty worth $100,000 was theirs for the taking. The burglars picked the lock of the front door. The police think they had only begun operations when they were alarmed and with drew.

Letters to friends here from A. S. Fonville and family and C. W. Hendricks who left a month ago for a tour of the Yellowstone National Park, have been received from Billings, Montana. The letters were written the first of last week and the party was then expecting to enter the park within a few days. The park regulations do not permit tourists entering it in an automobile so the party will go through in a carriage.

Alex Kahn's automobile party is now headed toward home after a tour of Colorado and they are expected to arrive here the latter part of the week, according to letters that have been received by friends here.

HELPLESS AS BABY

Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emey, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with an awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctored lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work."

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16. Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it.

LEAVES $750,000 TO GERMAN ARMY

UNIQUE LEGACY WILL BE CONTESTED, HOWEVER, BY WIDOW OF DECEASED

CLAIMS OF DOCTOR COOK

Some Scientists Still Interested in His Claims—Other News From German Capital

By Associated Press. Berlin, Aug. 18.—Emperor William will not receive without a fight his inheritance of $750,000 from Hermann Knorr, the patriotic wood dealer of Kauchwitz, whose deceased after bequeathing to his Majesty practically his entire estate was reported last week.

The widow, who asserts that much of Knorr's wealth was due to successful real estate speculations financed by the money she brought to him as her dowry, will contest the will, which assigns to her merely the amount of the original dowry and an annuity of $200. All the rest of the estate goes to the Emperor. "To be used in strengthening the army and navy."

First estimates gave the value of the estate at only $250,000, the amount at which Knorr had been assessed for taxes, but later investigation showed that a far larger amount had been covered up by the incidental profits of his royal residuary legatees. The widow, who after nineteen years of untroubled married life finds the provisions of the will exceptionally hard, will be assisted in her fight by ten near and needy relatives of her husband, who do not seem filled with that enthusiasm for Germany's armaments of which representatives of the government and the patriotic parties made so much in the recent debates in the Reichstag on the military bills.

It will be interesting in this connection to note whether the authorities will revise in this case the decision handed down a few months ago in the case of a legacy to the city of Charlottenburg. There a testator made the city his sole heir to a considerable property. In the course of the usual advertising for heirs presher dowry, will contest the will, which assigns to her merely the amount of the original dowry and an annuity of $200. All the rest of the estate goes to the Emperor. "To be used in strengthening the army and navy."

Canon Recall Old Story. Emperor William has just presented to the city of Emden two old rusted cannon, which recall an almost forgotten chapter of Germany's colonial history and show that Germany was seeking its "place in the sun," so far as African colonies are concerned, over two centuries before Agadir.

The cannon were found on the site of an old fort, Gross Friedrichsburg, on the Gold Coast of Africa, which was built to rifle the defense of the colony established there by the Great Elector in 1683. His ambition was to make Brandenburg the nucleus of the future kingdom of Prussia, a rival of England and Spain as a colonizing power, and he sent out an expedition from Emden to establish a settlement on the west coast of Africa. Emden had at that time one of the best harbors on the North Sea and the Elector decided to make it the home port of his colonial venture, as well as of his modest little navy.

The undertaker, however, did not prosper, and in 1717 Frederick William I, the father of Frederick the Great, sold the colony to the Dutch East India Company of Amsterdam. It finally fell into the hands of England through the Anahante war, about 40 years ago.

STORY OF HIS LIFE TOLD BY MAN 106 YEARS OLD

French Centenarian Says He Drank Heavily in Younger Days—Believes in Eugenics

Paris, Aug. 18.—Pierre Schamel Roy, the only living man whose hand ever clasped that of Napoleon Bonaparte, today celebrated his 106th birthday by rising at 5 o'clock and taking a long walk through the streets of Neuilly as along the banks of the Seine. Later in the day he was tendered an informal reception by fellow imperialis. Quite poor, unmarried, Roy lives in a two room apartment, his only income being a governmental pension of 20 cents a day; imperialist sympathizers occasionally help the old man with donations. His mind is as clear as a bell, his hand is perfectly steady, yet he was "playboy" to the King of Rome, Napoleon's beloved "L'Alphonse," in the palace at Versailles. It was only at St. Helena that Roy remembers seeing the Emperor. There he saw him four times.

Until Roy was 60 years old he was rather a heavy drinker. He drank wine. Since then he has drunk milk principally, though now and then he still takes a glass of wine with meals. He has never taken any particular care of himself, attributing his long life to open air walks, lack of excesses, save drinking "when he was a young man" and to the fact that his mother and father both were very young when he was born, the one being 17 and the other 19. He has always eaten whatever and as much as he chose.

"I have lived through the reigns," said Roy, "of two emperors and three kings—a change of presidents under the third republic. Yet, as you see me today, I can read and write without glasses and mend my own clothes. I learned to sew when very young and later was costumer at the opera. Never having had a wife, the knowledge served me in good stead. "You ask me whom I believe to be the greatest man since Napoleon. My answer is that there has been none since to stand a comparison. Eugenics, I believe more than any other one thing, have been responsible for my 106 years. Eugenics seem to be modern enough as a study, but I'm an example of the children sane and healthy young couples can bring into the world when properly mated. I never married because I was happy enough as a bachelor. It was not because I had no use for women. Why you know," and here Roy smiled again roguishly. "I flirted with the fair sex until I was 85."

Spanish Veterans To Amalgamate

Denver, Colo., Aug. 18.—Amalgamation of all the organizations whose members saw service abroad during the Spanish-American war and the campaign growing out of it, was the important plan proposed today when the army of the Philippines and the veterans of the foreign service opened their annual reunions. Five hundred members of the organizations and their families are in attendance. The army of the Philippines is composed of men who saw service in that country and the veterans of the foreign service is composed of soldiers who saw service in any foreign country, principally Cuba and Porto Rico. The reunions will close Wednesday with the election of officers.

Bill Podden's Luck

By A. P. Garland

Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co.

JUDSON, the stout and genial proprietor of the Rose and Anchor, was busily engaged polishing glasses behind the bar when the village postman, with his customary air of importance, came through the open door.

"Nothing for you today, Mr. Judson. One for William Podden, Esquire. Calling old Bill Podden 'Esquire' got a furrin' stamp on it. Likely one of them there German lotteries. Fat lot they'll get out of Bill." And in a disdainful manner, he carelessly laid a large, imposing-looking letter on the counter and continued his rounds.

Sam Judson merely nodded in reply. It was early in the afternoon of a sweltering day in June, and the hostelry was full of customers, and his complacent forbade any unnecessary exertion. He continued his task, and it was evident that with a few minutes more he would have been looking down at a siesta on the massive table that his eyes were attracted so.

He picked it up carefully, and, making his way into the little parlor, which lay at the rear of the shop, placed it on a glass ornament that decorated the mantel-piece. Mrs. Judson, equal if not superior to him in bulk, looked up from the armchair where she had been having a nap.

"What's that, Sam?" she asked.

"Only a letter for old Podden, addressed 'care of Rose and Anchor, Sloddy, Berkshire, England.' Comes from Germany or somewhere."

"I like his cheek, gettin' letters sent from Germany or somewhere. He's a right rascal, and proceedin' to examine the cause of her indignation.

"It's from America—Germany. I've used 'em with my own two eyes. Who does he know in America?"

"Why, he's always braggin' about his brother Joe. Says he made a fortune in the harness-trade."

"Oh, I've heard them tales before," she replied, turning the letter over as if to glean some idea as to its contents. To her surprise she noted that the flap was insecurely fastened, as if the gum had failed to hold. She inserted her large forefinger timidly, and a slight pressure led the envelope open and uniform.

"Oh, Sam! Look here! It's open."

"Just like you, doing something silly. 'Don't you know you can be 'ad up for that?'"

"Who's going to know? Can't I stick it up again easy enough? But now it's open we might as well see 'oots in it."

Her husband shook his head solemnly, as if to indicate his disapproval, but nevertheless produced his spectacles and placed them carefully on his nose. Mrs. Judson, meanwhile, gingerly drew forth the letter, and, spreading it out, allowed him to join her in perusing the missive. It ran as follows:

80 Broad Street, Boston, June 15, 1908.

Dear Sir:

I regret to inform you that your brother, Joseph Podden, died here on Tuesday last, June 13. Before his death he instructed me to draw up his will, whereby you are named as sole legatee to his estate, the value whereof I estimate to be two hundred thousand dollars, or, in your currency, forty thousand pounds ($40,000).

A few weeks must elapse before all the legal formalities can be gone through in order to have the property realized, but, as soon as this is done, I shall myself proceed to England to hand you over the proceeds.

Your obedient servant,

HIRAM FLOOKER.

Sheer amazement held the worthy couple spellbound for a moment. They could hardly believe their eyes.

"Bill Podden!"

"Forty thousand pounds!"

"Well, I never, did. It can't be true."

They re-read the document carefully to make sure there was no mistake.

"Fancy that, now," said Sam bitterly; "here's me bein' slavin' day in, day out, by the sweat of my brow, all for nowt, as I might say, and that there Bill Podden—owes me one and-eight pence 'appeny—who spends 'art is time cadgin' drinks, becomes a millionaire for life. Is that fair and just, I'd like to know?"

He glared around as if seeking an adversary willing to controvert his statement.

"Don't be a fool, Sam Judson," retorted his better and bigger half; "you'd best go and see Bill Podden before he knows about the letter. Else some other folks will get 'old of 'im. I'll gum up the envelope, so as 'e won't know 'owt about it bein' opened."

Sam seemed struck with the wisdom of her remark. "That's right, Liz; I'd better go at once. There's lots of advantage to a 'armless, good-natured chap like Bill. But 'e'll find a true friend in me," he added loftily.

He wiped his face carefully, turned down his shirt-sleeves, and then proceeded by the aid of a buttonhook to fasten the two lowest buttons of his simple vest. Mrs. Judson meanwhile set to work regumming the envelope-flap and fastening the letter. This done, she was helping her husband to don his coat, when, to her surprise, she saw Bill Podden coming along the road past the house.

"There 'e is," she cried; "go and stand at the door and ask 'im in. After a bit, I'll remember to tell 'im about the letter."

The object of their interest was meanwhile progressing in his customary languid manner. He was between forty and fifty years of age, with a homely, sunburned, clean-shaven face, scanty black hair, and extent to which riches promised happiness.

On one point, however, all were agreed, Bill Podden ought to get married.

"Forty thousand pounds and 'im not married—why 'is wicked quoth Mrs. Tutton, the mother of five strapping wenches, free so far from the galling band of matrimony. "What's a woman in a strong, hearty young woman?"

"Not too young," interjected a spinster defensively.

"A strong, healthy young woman" went on Mrs. Tutton unmoved—"oo can look after 'im nice and proper, and nuss 'im when 'e's got rookin'?"

In the meantime Bill Podden had returned to the cottage which he was supposed to rent—the landlord knew, being a good neighbor, the preparations for migration to the Rose and Anchor. The task was not a difficult one, as excepting the few sticks of furniture which he had little or nothing to transport. Hitherto not a soul in the village save himself had ever entered the cottage during his lifetime. Tutton, his old friend of callers approached his door. But to none did he open. To all the replies, knockings, he would merely mutter, "I'm busy, and the visitors had to turn away disappointed.

Foremost among these was the widow Branson, the local tobaccoist. About three months before when Podden had first come to settle down in the village, her charms had worked such havoc with his impressionable heart that one afternoon, having purchased two pennyworth of shag, he had been emboldened to declare his passion unromantically across the counter. A lump about the size of a pigeon's egg, that still marked his right temple, served to remind him of the dangers of a hasty wooing.

With the news of the legacy came a sudden change of feeling on her part.

"Fraps I was 'ard on 'im," she murmured bitterly, and proceeded to don her best attire in order to obtain immediate forgiveness for her forcible methods of rejection. She had taken the more of grief when she found him inaccessible; but, nothing daunted, she sought the hospitality of a cottage close at hand from which she could watch his door.

When he did at last come forth, armed with a carpetbag, a fishing-rod, and a large wicker cage containing a scarcely tamed, fowl-mouthed parrot, half the village seemed waiting for him. Everybody was congratulating him and shaking his hand—the widow being the foremost—so that it was many minutes before he could proceed on his way. But he did not go alone. One individual seized his bag, a scoldingly fowl-mouthed, while two others grasped the cage and held it steady. He was not alone when he returned, but with a whole party.

That evening the village was nearly troubled. All the residents of Sloddy were out much to the discomfiture of the other end of the village. They had at least one anxious in display in the ward the heir, who, in time, was to be the heir. The great of the village were made to him, etc. pending the settlement.

Bill's manner was perfectly. He was not a man of many words, but he accepted drink with a grace that was not to be denied. His eyes were bright and his smile was warm. He was not a man of many words, but he accepted drink with a grace that was not to be denied. His eyes were bright and his smile was warm.

Four days later, the intention of going to see a firm of solicitors, who would manage his affairs. He was also in need of a suit of mourning to replace his old one, which by had got up to the local hay-dealer.

On the day of his departure, a large crowd assembled at the village. Everybody wished to shake his hand or offer advice. He was a man of many words, but he accepted drink with a grace that was not to be denied. His eyes were bright and his smile was warm.

"An' may I ask, Mrs. Branson, where you're going?" she said with marked politeness.

"I want to see my Bill."

"Your what, Mrs. Branson, was as good as engaged."

"Engaged? 'E ain't taken on no servants yet. Any 'ow, you're too old."

The double insult was too much for the amorous widow.

"Too old, you fat 'cap. That's 'e, Liz Judson, you know it. I'm younger'n 'e is."

"Wouldn't 'ave thought it. But looks is always deceptive."

"Are you going to let me in?"

"Settin'ly, no. You ain't been asked into my 'ouse, not as I know of. Mr. Podden is goin' to live with us for the present."

"You're a pair of thieves, that's what you are. Want to get 'old of poor Bill's bit of money. I know you."

But here the bulky landlady decided that the matter had gone far enough.

"Run for Mr. Boddie," she said to a little urchin that was enjoying the attention from the open window. "I'll give this woman in charge a-creatin' a disturbance on licensed premises."

And by this move, Mrs. Branson's intention of seeing the lawyer was frustrated for a moment.

MONEY AND FAITH

These are two of the great essentials in buying real-estate. Lots of people have the money and yet they lack faith. Others have faith and lack the money.

If you have resided here as long as six months and haven't got the confidence that this is going to make a large city, then you ought to rub up against a wide awake real estate man and come out of your trance or stupor and awaken to the great possibilities that surround you.

Don't you know that Wichita Falls is going to make a city? Can't you see its great natural advantages which are bound to make it grow to a large manufacturing, industrial and commercial center? Certainly you can see it if you will but open your eyes. We have water, gas, railroads, oil, coal, good farming lands with a large trade territory to draw from with no competitive city. We also have the finest bunch of business men that you can find anywhere. What more do we need? Why, it is a cinch that we are going to build a city here. If I didn't think so, I would move out, wouldn't you?

Well, you say that you have the money and the confidence, but you are going to wait awhile to invest.

Are you waiting for a slump, cool weather or a big sensational movement in real estate? If so, learn now your mistake. There will be no slump in Wichita Falls property, and prices will never be so low again as they are today. Hot weather should cut no ice nor delay you, neither should you wait for some excitement, but learn to use good judgment rather than impulse.

The best time to purchase property is when the market is quiet as you will find more good bargains offered. Never wait for a big rush to buy property for it is then that every one wants to buy and no one wants to sell, consequently you don't find so many bargains offered.

Now if you have a little money and will call at my office, suite 311, Kemp & Kell building, I can soon convince you that we can make your little money grow into big money by investing it in Wichita Falls real estate.

You will note that I have changed my office but that I am still in the real estate business.

While I expect to push Floral Heights as a leader for bargains, yet you can rest assured that if there are any other bargains offered in the city you will find them among my listings and I will take great pleasure in showing them to you. I have quite a few of these bargains now. Call and see me.
