CURRENCY VIEWS OF BANKERS TOLD

OPPOSED TO ASSET CURRENCY SECURED BY INDIVIDUAL THEY SAY

CENTRAL RESERVE BANK

Idea of Bankers Association on Proposed Legislation Told to Senate Committee

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 3.—The kind of national bank paper currency the American Bankers' Association would like established in place of the United States treasury notes, proposed by the administration currency bill, was outlined to the Senate banking committee today by bankers who declared they did not favor asset currency on notes secured by the general credit of individual banks, because of the danger of "wild cat banking."

"We believe the notes should be issued to the federal reserve board by banks and by them to the public, and that all the federal reserve banks should be responsible for the whole issue," said Sol Wexler of New Orleans, a member of the bankers' committee. The bankers again suggested the advantages of a single central bank.

The bankers claimed that under the proposed system of twelve regional reserve associations it would be impossible to secure enough capital in some districts to make up the minimum of $5,000,000. They declared that many changes must be made in the bill, including the reduction in the amount of capital required to be taken by each bank of the 17,000 State banks and trust companies were to be induced to enter the new system.

Members of the bankers' committee present included George Reynolds, president Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago; Festus J. Wade, president Mercantile Trust Company of St. Louis; E. J. Hill, vice president National Bank of New York; Newark, Conn., Joe Chapman, vice president Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis; R. F. Maddox, vice president American National Bank of Atlanta.

Chairman Owen and his immediate supporters on the committee stressed that the most important changes demanded by the bankers will not be made.

A letter made public by Senator Owen last night, denouncing a so-called propaganda carried on by certain banking interests against the bill, served to intensify the feeling that marked the opening of the hearings today.

J. B. Forgan and George M. Reynolds, Chicago bankers, were two of the first to discuss the bill from the bankers' standpoint. The session opened with differences of opinion about the expediency of hearings while the Senate was working on the tariff bill, but finally went on, with Mr. Forgan on the stand.

MILLION TRAVELERS IN AND OUT OF NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 3.—It was estimated that the Labor Day influx and exodus of travelers here was over 1,000,000 persons, including 750,000 bronzed vacationists on their way home and 250,000 bound to the South. Veteran railroad men declared that the travel was probably the largest for a single day in the history of the metropolis.

At one of the great railway terminals it was reported that in the past five days 191 extra trains had been run carrying 500,000 passengers. Baggage heaped in great piles at the terminals today bore evidence that the congestion still is great.

FAVOR ABOLISHMENT OF DEALING IN FUTURES

Salina, Kan., Sept. 3.—More liberal agricultural appropriations, abolishment of a bureau of marketing in the agricultural department, rural credit extension, stricter immigration laws and a protest against the proposed central bank currency plan were some of the recommendations to congress contained in the report of the executive committee of the Farmers' Union, as drawn for presentation at the opening session of the national convention here today.

NEW CHIEF CLERK NAMED FOR CONTROLLER LANE

Former Official Asked to Resign When He Announces His Candidacy for Office

By Associated Press. Sept. 3.—J. P. Moulton, of the controller's department, took the oath of office as chief clerk to succeed Charles B. White, whose resignation was requested by Controller Lane for political reasons today. Acting Governor Mays yesterday acknowledged the bond of Mr. Moulton, following an opinion from the attorney general that it was within the power of the controller to request the resignation of Mr. White for no material reason. White recently announced his candidacy for controller.

SIGNS OF WRECK ARE TAKEN AWAY

DESPITE COMMISSION'S ORDERS, SITE OF FATAL CRASH IS CLEARED

DEATH LIST TWENTY-ONE

County, State and Federal Investigations of Accident are Already Under Way

By Associated Press. New Haven, Conn., Sept. 3.—Reports from the hospitals this afternoon indicated the surgeons' skill probably will be of no avail to save five of the seventeen persons injured in the wreck near here yesterday when the White Mountain Express crashed into the Bar Harbor Limited. Should all of the five succumb to their injuries the death list will be brought up to twenty-six.

By Associated Press. New Haven, Conn., Sept. 3.—The death list of the New Haven wreck still stood at twenty-one today and the hospital list at seventeen. Railroad employees who played the leading parts in the New Haven's latest tragedy were held by the coroner's order. Meanwhile, the machinery for the county, state and federal investigation was set in motion.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's investigators, on their arrival today, found practically no vestige of the wreck along the right of way. Notwithstanding telegraph orders from the commission that the wreckage remain undisturbed, officials of the road set gangs of men to clearing up the road bed after the crash. Passengers in both trains were asleep when the collision occurred. The White Mountain's engine, No. 103, twin of the new Pacific super-heater locomotive that figured in the Stamford wreck of last June, plunged through two cars of the Bar Harbor train.

For some minutes after the first shock there was silence, and then sounded the screams of the wounded. Passengers from both trains turned out to the work of rescue. They found the dead and injured strewn on both sides of the track, but there were few in the wreckage. The terrific force of the impact had literally reduced the two Pullmans to the mere kindling wood and the bodies of the passengers either fell upon the wreckage or were hurled over a fence into a watermelon patch.

The vestibule of one Pullman, setting astride the pilot of the locomotive, and the vestibule of the other, tossed into the ditch, were the only parts of the two cars not demolished. Railroad Burns Wreckage.

The wreckage was burned by railroad employees. Trolley cars were pressed into service to bring to New Haven the dead and dying. A part of the White Mountain train took some of the injured to Meriden and the undamaged cars of the Bar Harbor train were used to bring others to this city, where they were placed in hospitals.

There are eighteen in the hospitals here and some are in serious condition. Some of the less seriously hurt went on to New York. Several of those badly injured died on their way to hospitals or after reaching there.

Daniel Dunn, a former Yale football star and athletic instructor of the boy campers and Harry Mooney, who is in charge of them, came out of the wreck unscathed and led in the rescue work. Practically all of their young charges were in the overturned third car, the Chisholm.

The first steps to determine who was to blame were taken in secret. Nor will the inquest be public, if Coroner Mix adheres to his announced plan. At the preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon trainmen of the two trains were examined. Later what purported to be a synopsis of the testimony was given out.

All Precautions Claimed. According to this recital, every possible precaution was taken. The flagman of the Bar Harbor express went back when his train stopped, placed torpedoes on the track and stood ready to stop any train that might be following. He was recalled by an engine whistle.

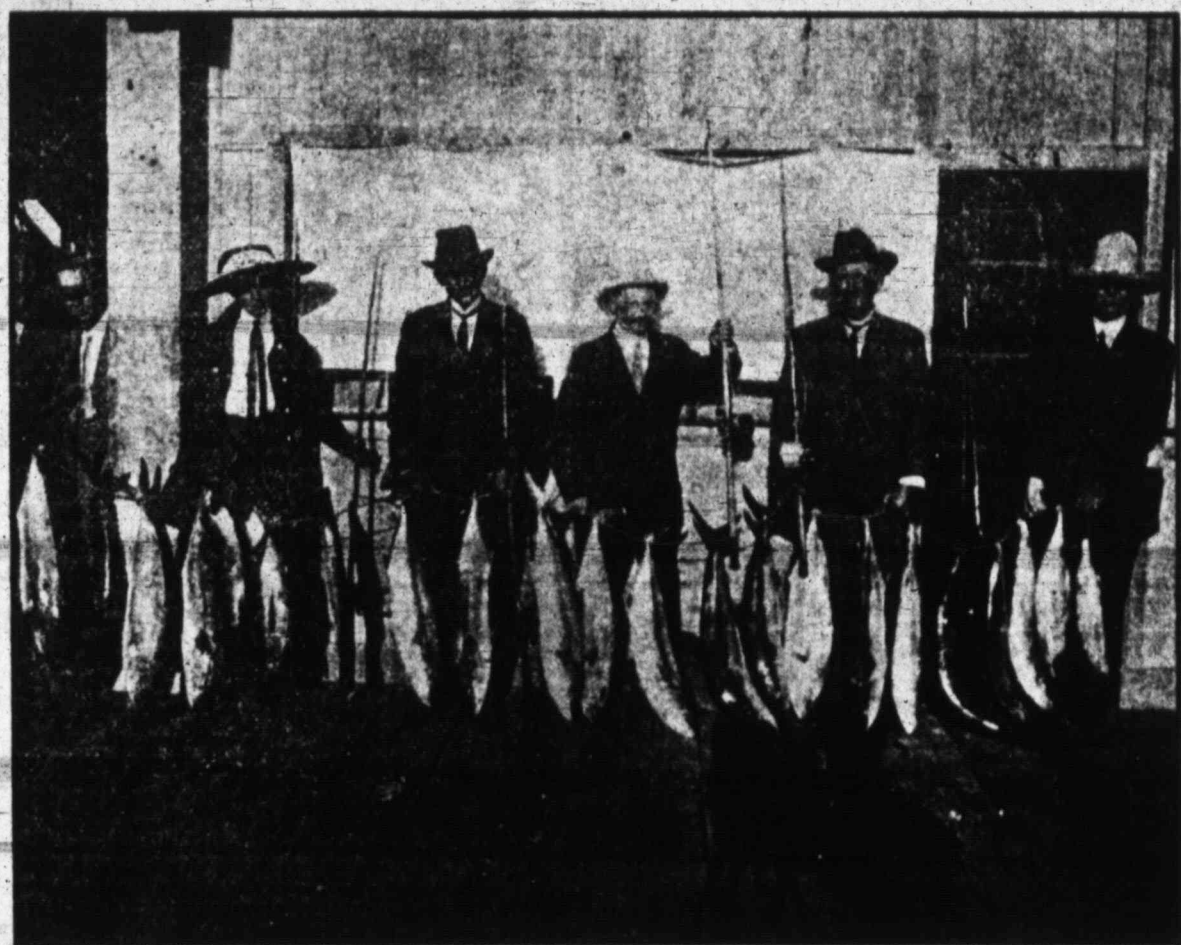

The engineer of the oncoming train saw him, heard the torpedoes explode and saw the red bull's-eye of the "banjo" block signal leap out of the fog—but saw and heard too late to stop.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS FOR HOME AND CIVIC REFORM

Washington, Sept. 3.—High school girls now propose to take a hand in the betterment of both civic and home conditions. This was set forth today in the announcement that the girls of the Grover Cleveland school were to organize a Civic Betterment club, through which it was proposed to aid in uplift movements.

Miss Frances S. Sairley, principal of the school, and several of the teachers are leading the girls' movement. The boys of the school already are organized along similar lines, and the girls' organization will co-operate with the boys' club for reforming conditions in the neighborhood of the school and throughout the school district.

TARIFF MATTERS TO BE ADJUSTED

REDUCTIONS BY SENATE

Underwood Says Upper House Has Cut Too Much Revenue From the Bill

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 3.—Majority Leader Underwood was at the White House today when the president returned from the summer capital.

"We hope to dispose of the differences between House and Senate in conference in less than two weeks," said Mr. Underwood, "I am not disposed to fight the Senate for the purpose of maintaining all the House provisions. There are no great differences of principle involved. I believe the Senate has cut too much revenue from the bill, and if I can convince the conferees that my estimates are correct, I think the Senate will be willing to put some of the revenue back."

COTTON PICKERS BADLY NEEDED IN SOUTH TEXAS

Columbus, Texas, Sept. 3.—It rained here Monday evening and put a stop to cotton picking. Surplus pickers have gone to other places and left a lot of unpicked cotton in the fields, thus retarding the gathering of the crop. Seventy-five and 85 cents per hundred is paid for picking and it reported that pickers are contemplating charging $1 per hundred for picking long staple cotton. The yield, though not as good as last year, is better than first expected. The lint in some instances turning out 40 to 42 per cent. The price hovers around 12 cents per pound.

TAXING OF UNRENDERED PERSONAL PROPERTY

Attorney General Rules It May Be Assessed For More Than Two Years Back

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Sept. 3.—Tax assessors and collectors may assess unrendered personal property for more than two years back, was the opinion rendered by the attorney general's department today to the state tax commissioner. A codifying committee has no authority to add to, or take from the statutes, a law passed by the legislature; any error made by a codifying committee would have no effect on laws passed by the legislature, the attorney general also said.

PULLMAN COMPANY TO BE MADE PARTY

Washington, Sept. 3.—The Pullman Company is to be made a party to the Interstate Commerce Commission's investigation into yesterday's wreck. The commission will inquire why the Pullman Company continued to operate wooden sleeping cars on through fast passenger trains.

Information reached Commissioner McCord, who will conduct the investigation, that efforts were being made by New Haven officials to conduct the investigation of the wreck in secret. He immediately telegraphed Chief Inspector Belnap.

"Have men at all meetings of coroner regarding wreck to get what is said and done." "There will be no secrecy about this matter," declared Commissioner McCord, "the public is entitled to know the facts and it will get them."

JAPAN EXPORTS HEAVY DURING THE PAST YEAR

Took More of American Products Than all the Rest of Asia Combined

Washington, Sept. 3.—In spite of the flurry with Japan over the passage of the California alien land bill, the exports to Japan in the fiscal year just ended were greater than those to all other countries of Asia combined. This statement was made today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which furnished detailed figures to substantiate the declaration. The statistics disclose that the exports from this country to Japan last year were larger than ever before.

The value of the exports to the Flowery Kingdom were estimated at $7,741,815, while the value of American goods sent to all other Asiatic countries was more than $4,000,000 below that total. It is added that the total amount sold to Japan does not include the value of American goods going into Korea and Japanese leased territory in China.

Nearly $2,000,000 additional would be added to the credit of the Japanese trade if the business done with those markets was included. The trade with Japan is not one-sided, however, for the United States bought of that country in the fiscal year goods to the amount of $91,500,000, which is a big increase over the amount purchased in the previous year. While raw cotton was the largest item exported to the island Empire, the principal purchases made by this country from Japan were silk, tea, matting, straw braids, rice and copper.

"I protest against that man sitting over there and making faces at me," roared Mulhall, pointing at Kirby. "If he is a gentleman he will meet me outside and I'll pull his nose." Chairman Garrett ordered Kirby to change his seat.

THAW LOSES HIS FIGHT TO PREVENT DEPORTATION

By Associated Press. Sherbrook, Sept. 3.—Harry K. Thaw today lost his fight to defy deportation by remaining in the Sherbrook jail. Judge Hutchinson sustained a writ of habeas corpus calling for his release. Thaw remained dazed for possibly three minutes.

As he crossed the threshold, E. Robertson, assistant superintendent of immigration, tapped Thaw on the shoulder and called him officially under arrest as an undesirable alien. It was announced that Thaw would be taken immediately to Coaticook for a hearing.

"I'll see you in Coaticook, boys," said Thaw, waving his hand to the reporters.

GAMANETTI'S PROMISE TO MARRY IS RELATED IN COTTON WITHIN WEEK

Government Plays Trump Card in Closing Its Case Against Mann Act Defendant

By Associated Press. San Francisco, Sept. 3.—In closing its case under the Mann white slave act against F. Drew Gamanetti, the government played a trump card today. Testimony given by Gamanetti to a district attorney on the way back from Reno after the arrest was made, as taken down by a court reporter, was read.

The testimony went to show that Gamanetti had made promises to marry Lola Norris and had said he intended to leave his wife and children to marry her. The testimony was read out during the Diggs trial. At yesterday's session Lola Norris repeated more fully than in the Diggs trial the story of her relations with Gamanetti.

His wife and mother of the defendant listened to Miss Norris closely and Gamanetti frequently advised his lawyers. Diggs was in attendance as has been his wont since the trial of his companion began. Mrs. Gamanetti displayed no emotion as she heard the girl tell how Gamanetti had pressed his love on her, promising to marry her as soon as he could obtain a divorce.

"Was anything said about marriage before March 1?" she was asked. The eloquent did not take place until the early morning of March 10, and in the meantime there had been trips to San Francisco, Stockton, San Jose and Jackson.

"No," was the answer. "The day before we left for Reno Mr. Gamanetti said his wife would petition for divorce at once and then we could be married."

"I introduced Mr. Gamanetti to my people," she testified, "under a false name, because I did not want them to know I was going with a married man."

"Then why did you continue to go with Gamanetti?" "Well, I knew it was not proper. If they had been living properly it might have made a difference. I did not feel that I was doing her (Mrs. Gamanetti) an injustice, as he told me they were going to be separated."

Robert Devlin for the defense, in cross examining the witness, dwelt on the return trip from Reno. "Didn't you tell District Attorney Atkinson that you and Miss Warrington had occupied the same berth on the way to Reno?" "Yes."

"Why did you try to protect Drew Gamanetti then?" "I would not believe what they told me about Drew's deceiving me—not until later."

"You were still in love with him then?" "Yes."

"What are your feelings toward him then?" "The girl hung her head and did not answer."

"Do you feel the same affection for him?" "There was another moment of silence before she answered 'No.'"

In this and other passages of the cross examination the essentials of her story were not changed. Its essence was that Gamanetti had trespassed her into leaving her home by threats of scandal; that Diggs had presented the arguments and Gamanetti had followed them with personal persuasions.

Judge Emory Speer Will Fight
Charges Of Unfitness; Federal Jurist Faces Impeachment

Federal Judge EMORY SPEER

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 3.—Judge Emory Speer of the southern federal district of Georgia, against whom charges have been preferred and who may face impeachment proceedings before the judiciary committee of the House of representatives, will fight. Various charges against the judge have been brought during the last three or four years, but the investigation on which was ordered an inquiry by the House of representatives was conducted during the year by R. Colton Lewis, a special examiner of the department of justice and others. Examiner Lewis spent several weeks in Georgia, visiting Macon, where Judge Speer maintains an official residence; Savannah, where some of the adverse criticisms of the jurist have originated; Atlanta and other places. While the report deals with specific instances in the conduct of Judge Speer, especially in bankruptcy cases, it also deals with the temperamental fitness of the judge for the office he holds. The charges include allegations that Judge Speer appointed his son-in-law, A. H. Hayward, an attorney, as executor of certain estates and allowed him to charge exorbitant fees for his services.

OVER
War Swept

VILLAGE OF KADINKENI

THE line of travel from the Bulgarian frontier to Tchatalja runs the length and cuts the very center of the Bulgarian field of campaign. This journey we had the good fortune to be permitted to make during the armistice. Now that fighting has been resumed, it is again impossible. The entire distance is something like 275 miles. We completed it by train in about five days, exclusive of voluntary stopovers, but this unusual speed was due only to the fact that we were able to make good connections, writes Paul S. Mowrer in the Chicago Daily News.

Despite its interest as revealing the setting of a great modern war, the trip was hardly a pleasure excursion. Most of it was not even picturesque. Suppose that from the hills out around Aurora, Ill., every house and barn and fence and road and tree, and even every sign of cultivation, were removed; suppose in addition that the grass were afflicted with something resembling the mange; that is how this country looks. It could be a garden; it is nearer a desert. The villages—low clusters of stone huts roofed with brown tile—are far apart and invariably distant from the railroad. Many have been burned. To see any human beings except groups of ragged Bulgarian troopers is a rare thing—a thing worthy of comment.

Bulgars Seen Everywhere.
The Bulgars, however, are everywhere; for practically every able-bodied male of that nation has been ordered into Turkey in one capacity or another. Their tented camps, their wagon transport, their worn and grizzled persons are almost the only variation of the monotony. An armed Bulgarian peasant in homespun wraps the track at every 200 yards. You see some standing before the huts they have built of brush or before the holes they have hollowed in a bank. You see others sitting alone by mud puddles, patiently picking off their vermin. At the railroad station there are usually a few sober, efficient-looking officers, and a hundred or so regulars in long, mud-colored coats, their feet and ankles wrapped in rags. These common soldiers have not been able to wash or shave properly, or to take off their clothes, since the war began. They sleep unsheltered on the ground, without even blankets to cover them; and they live exclusively on bread and cheese, except at a few favored spots where there are soup and an occasional stew.

But if the military diet is scant, that of the traveler is even scantier. Two great armies have passed here. To speak in an expressive Irish idiom, there was nothing to begin with; the Turkish army took all there was, and the Bulgars took the rest. The Bulgarian officers, of course, eat and live fairly well; but the men have only just enough to keep them going. Except when we were guests of hospitable officers we had to breakfast, lunch and dine on sausage, cheese, bread and sweet chocolate from our traveling bag. It was impossible to buy so much as an egg or a potato. The water was nowhere fit to drink; its general flavor, to be frankly explicit, was of offal, and after it had been boiled as a precaution against cholera, its only virtue was that it was wet.

The railroad is a single-track line, adequate enough for such travel and commerce as there used to be here, but utterly inadequate for the supply trains of an army of 600,000 men. For this reason the way was everywhere blocked by lines of cars. The few sidings were continually full to running over. The wonder is that the Bulgars have been able to feed their horses at all. There were, of course, no passenger coaches. We rode in freight cars, changing trains every little while. For every two miles we went forward we went one mile back; for every hour we were on the move we were at a standstill five, and as nobody ever knew just where the train was going, when it would start or where it would stop, we never dared stray more than a step from it for fear of being left behind.

The train on which we set out from Philippopolis, in addition to carrying supplies in the cars, carried soldiers on top of them—mostly young fellows newly drafted. At every watering place we stopped an hour or so—nobody seemed to know just why. At one village we waited so long the soldiers all climbed down to get the cramps out of their legs, and after wetting their throats at the boiled water barrel, began to sing, much to the embarrassment of a group of village girls.

"How delicious is my love
For the parson's pretty daughter,
And the parson's pretty daughter,
How delicious she!"

Not as naughty as many soldier songs; but nevertheless the maidens hastened away blushing. The youths laughed. Night came on and the train, with a steamy sigh, resumed its course.

Foretold Fate of Turkey.
We now found ourselves squeezed into a dark corner of the car beside an official who was going down to take charge of the Bulgarian postoffice at Salonika. He confided to us, though with the skeptical air of a man of the world, how certain signs had foretold the fall of Turkey, even before it was known that the war was imminent. For instance, a tent which had been erected for the sultan at a military review in Constantinople, was caught in the teeth of a wind storm and flung flat—just what had lately happened to the whole Turkish army! And again, the crown prince of Turkey, Ismail Izzedin, while on a recent visit to Constantinople, had made a misstep from the gangway and had not a tumble into the chill waters of the Black sea—just as the empire itself had since got a tumble into the cold waters of defeat. To all of which we nodded our heads and nodded, and were falling fast asleep, when, about 10 p. m. the train drew up with a jolt greater than usual, and a gruff voice from the black of the night informed us this was as far as we went.

Out we dragged our baggage onto the ground.

"Please, sir, where do we get the train for Tchatalja?"

Thus we inquired of every one we saw except of those who inquired of us first. Nobody knew. Nothing to do but pile into the railroad station, where the waiting room had been turned into a sort of cafe.

The place was crowded with hungry, thirsty soldiers. We sat at a table beside a man who did not care to talk; he had just got news his brother had been killed. Opposite us, reminding one of a couple of pompous bears in uniform, were two veterans of the Turkish war of 1878, their beards bristling with valor and their heads all but lost in huge fur hats, whose long hair fell fiercely over their eyes. Being too old for the regular army, both were volunteers; both had been wounded and were returning. One, whose name was Nicola, carried a captured Turkish Mauser rifle, of which he was very proud, and his brass-mounted belt was stuck full of Turkish cartridges.

"I have a son at Tchatalja," he explained, swallowing with a friendly growl, a glass of hot, yellow liquid miscalled tea. "I am going down to tell him never to fall back."

However, it was not long before old Nicola himself fell back—in a stupid sense, in that smoky, overcrowded room. Then midnight came, and with it another train. We started; we stopped; we bumped about through the rest of the night, cold, cramped, heavy with sleep, yet sleepless, till finally toward dawn we were drawn slowly alongside the station of Mustapha Pasha. We had crossed the frontier and were in Turkey at last.

Evening Song.
Pleasant the ways whereon our feet were led,
Sweet the young hills, the valleys of content,
But now the hours of dew and dreams are fled,
Lord, we are spent.
We did not heed Thy warnings in the skies,
We have not heard thy voice nor known thy fold,
But now the world is darkening to our eyes,
Lord, we grow old.
Now the sweet stream turns bitter with our tears,
Now dies the star we followed in the years,
Lord, we would rest.
Lo, our proud lamps are emptied of their light,
Weary our hands to toil, our feet to roam,
Our day is past and swiftly falls, Thy night,
Lord, lead us home.

CONFIRMED PROOF

Residents of Wichita Falls Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved

In gratitude for relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Wichita Falls who so testified years ago, now say the results were permanent. This testimony daily proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Wichita Falls kidney sufferers.

Mr. G. A. Swope, carpenter, 612 Burnet street, Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "I had pains across the small of my back and in my sides and there was trouble with the kidney secretions. My ankles become swollen. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills entirely cured me. I seldom have occasion to use a kidney remedy now but when I do, Doan's Kidney Pills always give fine results."

The Best Coffee in America

AUTO DELIVERY

Now I know that that sounds like pretty strong talk but I've got a reason for saying it and you will agree with me if you will investigate the question carefully. There can be but one best brand, others may come pretty close to it but there is bound to be one high grade point that is only reached by one brand and in my estimation Seal Brand is that coffee. I have known it for some time and would have been glad to offer it to my customers had I been able to buy it, but it is such a good coffee that the Chase & Sanborn Company limit it to one dealer in a town. Seal Brand sells for 45c per one pound tin, 80c for 2 pound tins and $1.20 for 3 pound tins. You can get it for a little less if you buy it in two or three pound lots. Here's what I will guarantee to do: If you want the very best coffee in America and will try one pound of Seal Brand and after using it you don't like it I will refund your money. That is my faith in the quality of Seal Brand.

Americans In Mexico Flock To Vera Cruz For Safety, Following Wilson's Advice

Many Americans in Mexico dropped their business, closed their homes and hurried to Vera Cruz after President Wilson had announced his policy of non-interference in Mexican affairs and had urged Americans there to leave the country. Every train entering Vera Cruz brought refugees, some of them indignant at the president's order, but others satisfied to leave the land of revolution. The sight of the United States battleships was good to the eyes of all.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 3, 1913

Gov. Colquitt does not like the Wilson tariff bill. This causes us to wonder what platform he will get on when he makes the race for U. S. Senator.

People are always asking foot questions. Here's the latest: "How is it that so many people with bicycle incomes can afford automobiles?" We pass it up to the next fellow.

This is the time of year when every fellow can afford a straw hat. The kind that sold at the beginning of the straw hat season for $3.50 can now be had for $1.00.

It appears that Samuel Palmer Brooks will not be a candidate for governor. He prefers the Senate, and will more than likely make the race. Ex-Gov. Campbell is also favorably spoken of in that connection as well as Gov. Colquitt. If it's to be a three-cornered race of that sort of line-up, we're picking the man from Palestine as the winner.

The press reports tell us that the wool clip is very heavy this year and the prices are even better than they were in the spring. Doubtless this will prove another sad disappointment to those who professed to believe that the election of a Democrat as president would send the price of wool and cotton down. So far, it has had exactly the opposite effect.

The oil field around Iowa Park seems to be claiming the attention of the oil men. In this field it is said oil is struck at a depth of only about 500 feet, and while the production from these wells is anything from 10 to 100 barrels daily, the cost of putting down such a well in this field is only about $1 per foot. This makes the Iowa Park field a very attractive proposition, and the way things look now this field will be producing oil from more than a hundred wells before another year passes.

When Wall street and the money barons started that scare about a shortage of money with which to move crops in the south and west, nearly all the little bankers and financiers throughout the south and west took the hint, and there was an immediate tightening of the purse-strings. Those who needed money for their businesses were either denied it, or accommodated at a little raise of the interest with additional security. The Democratic administration at Washington with Woodrow Wilson at its head, saw what Wall street and the money barons were attempting to bring about, and without going through a whole lot of red tape, headed their scheme off by having placed at the disposal of banks in the south about $50,000,000 to be used for crop moving purposes, with the assurances that if that was not sufficient as much more could be had for the asking. As a result of this action on the part of the government the money barons and Wall street will lose at least a part of their profits which they could have retained by not attempting to put something over on President Wilson. The president has whipped that fight but he hasn't started, and if he can only retain his hold on the people and receive the support of congress he will be able to whip all future stunts that Wall street and the money barons may attempt.

MOST HUMILIATING

Washington Times. The Prince of Monaco, who runs the other biggest gambling joint in the world, is coming over to visit the United States this summer.

It is just cause for national humiliation that we will be unable to show him Wall street going at full blast. It could make him realize what a small affair is his little old Monte Carlo.

TOMFOOLERY AND MARRIAGE

(From the Pittsburg Dispatch) Mrs. Rosalind Guggenheim or Mrs. Horatio Winslow, whichever she may be, makes a shrewd appeal to those who regard common sense as more vital than convention in some of the things which she has discarded. "Tight shoes, tight clothes, necessarily including corsets and starched linen," she declares to be "tomfoolery" and casts them aside.

It may be that the constituency consisting of those who rank common sense above convention is not large enough to carry the country. But Mrs. Guggenheim would have the inner knowledge of standing for the rule of reason if she stopped there. She goes on, however, and further puts in the category of tomfoolery various other things, including the institution of marriage. But as when she united herself with a male she went through that same ceremony, the outsider is left in doubt whether the institution or her condemnation of it is the real tomfoolery. Since the institution of marriage is devised expressly for the protection of women, in the bearing and raising of children, we can not but regard the woman who attacks it as indulging herself in the genuine article of tomfoolery.

OKLAHOMA AND THE INDIAN

Commercial Appeal. Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma has introduced in the upper branch of congress a bill which shows conclusively that the Indian of James Fenimore Cooper's day is more than ever an object of envy to his white neighbors.

Inch by inch he has been driven before the advance of the white man. It is useless to argue otherwise. The Anglo-Saxon race will eventually dominate the Christian world. It is the destiny of fate. The Indian can not expect to ever regain his lost possessions. Still he is entitled to justice, and justice has been denied him ever since the landing of Columbus. This country rightfully belonged to the Indian. It was his native land, given him by God. It has been wrested from him by the more powerful white race, and now he is at the mercy of the great white father at Washington.

As usual the comparative wealth of the Indian is a source of greed to the white people living on or near Indian lands and reservations. At a time when the farmers of the Southwest feel an urgent need of money for the development of their vast new country the 120,000 Indians of Oklahoma possess the wealth of the United States treasury and Oklahoma banks amount to $25,500,000. To this amount $6,000,000 more is due them on deferred land payments. The pending sale of the segregated coal fields will add $10,000,000 more, and the tale is not even then told.

It will be seen from this that the surviving members of the tribes in Oklahoma are not exactly paupers. Oklahoma statesmen know this and the white people are wondering how this wealth can be used. This surplus may be used without directly robbing the Indians of their patrimony.

The purpose of Senator Gore's bill is to secure this trust fund so that it may be deposited in state banks and in such a way that it will be available for the Indians. The argument is that the nation will recoup the interest it now pays on the Indian funds, reaching nearly a million dollars each year. It is further argued that the farmer will be immeasurably benefited and that the Indians will lose nothing.

This is all true enough, but it does not seem exactly fair. Technically there is nothing wrong in such transactions; but the question naturally arises: Where does the Indian come in? It will leave the simple tribesmen, whether in contented ease or whether laboring upon their farms, in a somewhat puzzling position. A national government throws open their lands to the whites, and, collecting the money return, holds it in trust, and then the whites borrow the purchase price again to develop their new holdings.

WALDON FAVORS CONCRETE ROADS

Motor Age. Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—"My opinion is," says S. D. Waldon, formerly a member of the good roads committee of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, "that there should be only two kinds of roads built in the country: concrete and gravel. Concrete is the best material in efficient and durable surface at not too great a cost and gravel is the best farmer's road at the minimum expense. I think it is a waste of time to build anything better than that, and not as good as concrete." "Gravel roads cost only a fraction of the cost of macadam roads and the saving that can be effected by building one mile of gravel road instead of macadam on the less traveled roads would more than pay the difference in cost of building one mile of concrete road instead of macadam," says the publicity bureau of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"In fact, records prove that concrete roads cost not to exceed 50 per cent more than water-bound macadam and about the same as tar macadam. The cost of concrete in Cuyahoga county, O., was $603.34 for each foot in width one mile long as compared with $577.45 for water-bound macadam and $585.30 for tar macadam. Those in 1907 cost, Mich., cost $638.03 a foot per mile as compared with $562.76 for water-bound macadam in Maryland. Experimental road sections laid in Ohio by the state commission cost $340 a foot for ordinary macadam; $497.24 to $651.98 for tar macadam, and $507 a foot for gravel concrete.

"When properly laid, the concrete road is entirely successful, as is proved by 65 miles that have been built in Wayne county. The cost of upkeep is almost nothing—less than $100 last year on the whole 65 miles in Wayne county and not exceeding $150 in 21 years on one-half mile of concrete

SAYS FARMING METHODS COST TEXAS $1,000,000,000

Representative of Department of Agriculture Says Loss This Year is That Much

Houston, Texas, Sept. 3.—W. F. Brooker of College Station, State agent of the United States department of agriculture, told farming demonstrators of South and Southeast Texas today that $1,000,000,000 will be lost to Texas this year by lack of proper farming conditions and proper development of the soil. He placed that figure as the amount that would be made over and above the cost of carrying on the demonstration work in Texas. "The meeting will be continued Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Attorney General Makes Ruling Today—Opinion Also Affects Deposit in Treasury

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Sept. 3.—Foreign life insurance companies must show that all capital stock has been paid in full, before they can be granted permits to do business in Texas, according to an opinion by the attorney general's department this morning. The department also held that the deposit of securities made by life insurance companies in the State treasury was a general fund for the benefit of all creditors of the company depositing. The commissioner of insurance and banking was advised that he should approve the schedule of rates, if sufficient, of casualty or insurance companies, and file them regardless of the fact that the Texas Employees' Insurance Association had not been formed as yet.

AMUSEMENTS IN UTOPIA

After supper they bestow one hour in play; in summer in their gardens; in winter in their common halls, where they dine and sup. There they exercise themselves in music or else in honest and wholesome communication. Dice play and such other foolish and pernicious games they know not. But they use games not much unlike the chess. The one is the battle of numbers, wherein one number stealthily away another. The other is wherein vices fight with virtues as it were in battle array, or a set field. In the which game is very properly shared both the strife and the discord that vices have among themselves, and again their unity and concord against virtue; and also what vices are repugnant to what virtues; with what power and strength they assail them openly; by what wiles and subtlety they assault them secretly; with what help the virtues resist and overcome the puissance of the vices; by what craft they frustrate their purposes, and, finally, by what sleight or means the one getteth the victory.—Sir Thomas More.

N. Y. MORTAR DEFENSES SHOW DEADLY ACCURACY.

New York, Sept. 2.—The mighty mortars of Fort Totten, which guard the Long Island sound approach to New York City, were given a severe test during last night, with the result that each of the twenty shots fired at searchlight targets hit their mark. The guns are of twelve inch caliber and 1,000 pound projectiles were used.

Colonel Adelbert Cronkite, commanding this important artillery post, declared it was one of the finest target achievements in the history of mortar work in this part of the country, and the way in which the shells swept the sound proved beyond doubt that an enemy who tried to get into New York by the Fort Totten route would receive withering welcome of devastating fire.

RURAL CHURCHES LOSING GROUND

HELD IN ITS EARLIER DAYS

NEED MINISTERS IN TOWN

City Churches Demand and Get Best of Clerical Ability and Country
Suffers

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—Hundreds of rural churches are dead and hundreds more are dying and the rural ministers are to blame entirely, according to James W. Street, of Mackinaw, Ill., of the Rural Church Department at Bethany Park, Ind., an article written for the United Press.

That the rural church is decadent is not questioned by those who have scanned the stream that ever flows into the urban centers of population. It no longer possesses the strength to mould the lives of its people on a large spiritual plane. Rural communities are no longer immune from modern evils. The grossest forms of sin are now found amid the most attractive rural surroundings. "Country slums" are no longer a curiosity but an alarming situation demanding immediate attention. Hundreds of rural churches are dead and hundreds more are dying. It is not because there is no want or desire for the services rural churches might render that so many are dead. It is because the right kind of leadership is not present.

The largest single item in shaping the policy of the rural church is the minister. He comes as an evangelist and organizes the congregation. He is called to direct its workers in their efforts to bring "the kingdom of God among men." He is given full charge of the work. His time is his to be used as he directs. Seldom does his people question the use he makes of it. The people have confidence in him and trust him in all church matters. They usually pay him a larger salary than any member of his congregation receives, notwithstanding the great future regarding the low salaries for ministers. The homes of the community are open to him. Every officer of the church has a right to look to him for help in directing the work of the church. How has he acted under such circumstances?

From a careful investigation of many cases it has been established that nearly every man who has accepted a call to a rural church does so only as a stepping stone to city work. He has been imbued with the idea that only beginners and broken down failures find a place in the rural service. He believes that the big men and the strong men always go ultimately to the city and that he will soon do. This idea results in sermons that smelt of the roar and rush of the city. They are flowered with the city opportunity and its task. They are colored with the city needs and its sins. He sees no local observation except to preach some sermons that he expects to use later in his city church. He reads no books except those that deal with the city service.

Ask him about the problems of his community and he will look at you as though you were a fool. Ask him if he has planned for the enlargement of the service his church renders the people and he smiles at your simplicity. The Great White Way of the city holds him enthralled and he does not know that many of the evils of the city are already rampant in his own locality.

With this attitude is it any wonder that his farmer folk grow hungry for spiritual food suited to their needs? They grow weary of being "aroused with the sins of the city" while their boys and girls are going to the devil along the stilted lanes. Is it any wonder they have turned away from the church and the rural minister? Then the minister, who has always regarded his charge as a mere stepping stone, and who has always had an eye on an open solely for the call to the city, begins to abuse them as being hardfisted, miserly and lacking in desire for the gospel.

They asked for bread and he has given them a stone. He has eaten their bread and used his strength to prepare for the city. Is it any wonder they have grown tired of this kind of minister? We have talked with hundreds of farmers in regard to this. They love God and yearn for the service the church could render. Many of them have told the writer, "Send us a man who loves our community and studies its possibilities and its needs; who will be sympathetic with us and see our faults and try to help us correct them and we will furnish the money."

Where can you find a minister with ability to undertake this task? There are a few of them and they are doing good work. They receive good salaries and are doing a great service. Give us the right kind of ministers and thousands of rural churches now dead will be resurrected and other thousands now dying will be revived.

The rural minister must be consecrated to his task and be willing to give his life for his people. And when that life is thus given, as Jesus said, "He will find it" and with it the life of the rural church.

SO MASSACHUSETTS CHILDREN MAY GROW.

Boston, Sept. 3.—Thousands of "children of the mills" were thrown out of work today by the operation of a new state law which prohibits employment of any child under 14 years in a workshop and provides that no child under 16 years shall work more than eight hours a day or more than forty-eight hours a week. Fifty thousand employes are affected by the change.

BAR ASSOCIATION CONVENTION AT MONTREAL CLOSES.

Montreal, Canada, Sept. 3.—"The Struggle for Simplification of Legal Procedure" was the principal subject discussed today at the sessions of the American Bar Association which tonight will close a three days' annual convention with a banquet. The question under discussion was treated under three sub-topics. "Some Causes" was discussed by William C. Hook of Kansas, judge of the federal circuit court of appeals for the eighth district. N. Charles Burke of Maryland, associate judge of the Maryland court of appeals took up a sub-topic, "Legal Procedure and Social Unrest" and William A. Blount of Florida spoke on "The Goal and Its Attainment." The routine business today included nomination of officers, unfinished business, miscellaneous business and election of officers. Senator Elihu Root of New York will preside at tonight's banquet, and the guest of honor and principal speaker will be Maitre F. Labori, distinguished French advocate who was leading counsel for the defense of Dreyfus at Rennes. He is now Batonnier of the Paris bar.

PRINCIPALS IN MAYORALTY FIGHT IN NEW YORK CITY

GAYNOR

MC CALL

New York, Sept. 3.—It looked like a three cornered mayoralty fight in this city, with the candidates lined up as follows: Mayor William J. Gaynor, running independently for re-election; John Purroy Mitchell, collector of the port of New York, heading the fusion ticket and Edward E. McCall, chairman of the New York state public service commission, leading Tammany Hall's candidates. There was a movement on foot to run Mayor Gaynor for chief justice of the court of appeals, the highest legal plum in the state, on the Progressive ticket instead of for mayor.

Keep Your Eyes on Southland Addition

Contact for 200,000 square feet of cement sidewalks was laid last week. Work is progressing rapidly on sewerage system and new street car line. Water mains to guarantee a plentiful water supply for the addition will be laid shortly. SOUTHLAND ADDITION will be the most complete residence addition ever placed on the market in West Texas. Buyers will be protected by restrictions preventing the building of unsightly shacks through the placing of a minimum building restriction on the property when deeded. These restrictions will not, however, retard the building of modest homes. Lot owners will be protected against the building of outhouses alongside front of lots by preventing lots being cut cross-wise and backing up against other lots. Lots will be sold for residence purposes only. SOUTHLAND ADDITION WILL not be placed on the market until all improvements are completed. It will be a full grown addition that will sell rapidly and build rapidly. It's location is far enough away from the noise and dirt of the business district to be very desirable for homes and close enough in to give quick direct car service down town to enable the busy man to lose but little time. WAIT FOR SOUTHLAND ADDITION. OPENING SALE WILL TAKE PLACE IN ABOUT 30 DAYS.

Good Intentions!

Do you remember what you told yourself, your wife, loved ones and friends about beautifying and marking the lonely mound out on the hill? Good men and true all over this part of the country, have said time and time again, they were going to mark the sacred plots in the cemetery tomorrow, next month, next year. But visit those graves, and you will find them unremembered, unmarked. In many instances, there is a rotten board, which the dust of time has all but destroyed. Every cemetery has its unmarked, unremembered dead, thus hindering those who have the work at heart and desire to make the place beautiful and attractive. Why pave your way with good intentions and as the shadows of night gather round you forget them? Count your marked graves, and you KNOW your best citizens in any community. Come to our plant and do your part in this great work.
