DEMOCRATIC TARIFF BILL PASSES SENATE TODAY

VOTE IS TAKEN AT FOUR O'CLOCK AFTER BUSY SESSION DURING DAY

SEVERAL CHANGES

Republicans Soon Abandon Their Attempts to Amend the Measure, However

Washington, Sept. 9.—The Senate this afternoon passed the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, after a day spent in debate over numerous amendments. The roll-call began at four o'clock.

The final vote on the tariff bill was taken in the Senate at 4 o'clock this afternoon, in accordance with an agreement reached before the Senate adjourned shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, after a sixteen hour session in which many important features including free wool and free sugar were disposed of.

Republicans Give Up. An caucus of senators was expected soon after the final vote. Senator Simmons in trying the four o'clock hour for a vote, said it was imperative that one democrat who wished to vote for the bill should leave town on a train at 5 o'clock.

The Republicans today gave up hope of carrying any amendments and allowed many of the votes to be taken without roll call. When the fight over agricultural products began, Senators Thornton and Ransdell, democrats, joined the Republicans in voting against the free duties of the democratic bill. An amendment by Senator Bristow for a fifteen per cent duty on cattle, hogs, sheep and other domestic animals was defeated, 33 to 29.

Several Changes Made.

The Senate committee's action in cutting off the ten per cent duty on cattle, fixed by the House bill, and putting them on the free list, was then ratified, 51 to 28. Senator McCumber led the fight against free wheat. The House bill imposed ten cents a bushel, but the Senate committee transferred the issue to the free list. An amendment by McCumber for a 15 cent duty was defeated, 35 to 29. Senator Jones made a further attempt to have retained the House provision for five per cent reduction in duty on all goods imported in American ships. He got only eleven Republicans to support him and the provision was removed. Many foreign governments had protested against it.

Democrats Stand Firm.

The final onslaught of the opposition found the Democratic lines standing solidly for the bill. Under urging of their leaders the ranks closed against the anti free wool and anti free sugar forces and as fast as amendments came to a vote they were defeated.

Attempts to restore to the bill a duty on raw wool and to raise the duty on woolen manufactured goods made in successive amendments by Senators La Follette, Catron and Penrose, were defeated without the loss of a party vote.

A last stand by the anti free sugar forces led by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana (Dem.) held the attention of the Senate throughout the evening, but the votes of Senators Ransdell and Thornton had been long conceded to the Republicans on the sugar issue.

Inheritance Tax Losses.

Repeated efforts were made to secure a general agreement for a final vote on the bill at some definite hour today. Democratic leaders were willing to adjourn at midnight if such an agreement could be reached, but while negotiations were under way they insisted the Senate should remain at work with the prospect of an all night session if the attempt at the agreement failed.

Among the amendments defeated was that of Senator Norris for a heavy tax on inheritances. This was beaten 5 to 12, the following Republicans joining the Democrats in voting against it: Senators Brandegee, Catron, Clark of Wyoming, Colt, Fall, Gallinger, Jackson, Lippitt, Lodge, Oliver, Penrose, Parkins, Root, Sherman and Sutherland.

Two attempts by Senator La Follette to secure the adoption of a substitute for the Democratic wool tariff schedules failed by strictly party votes. There remained the prospect of a final wool fight when the single item of free wool was reached in the free list of the bill.

Senator Ransdell in beginning his fight against free sugar announced he opposed free wool also and would join in any attempt to have a small duty put on that product. He had voted against the La Follette amendment which embraced a duty on all classes of woolen goods, but it was expected he would support the Republicans in the last fight against the wool item in the free list.

Miss Rose Howard has returned to her home in Fort Worth after successfully conducting the normal class for teachers and the harmony and kindergarten class for children in the Wichita Falls College of Music. Miss Howard has been requested to conduct the same course in the summer normal next year.

Veterans Of The North Gather Sept. 15-20 At Chattanooga, Where Once They Fought

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 9.—One of the principal points of interest during the forty-seventh annual encampment of the G. A. R. here September 15 to 20 will be the old Cravens home on the side of Lookout mountain around which the heaviest fighting of the "Battle Above the Clouds" took place in 1863. The New York state monument is located at this point. Among the important figures in charge of the encampment is General Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio, chairman of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Park commission. His fine war record, long public service and active interest in public affairs have kept him in the public eye for a half century. General Grosvenor was in all of the great battles fought by the army of Ohio and the army of the Cumberland, beginning with the capture of Bowling Green, Ky., in 1862, and ending with the pursuit of the rebel army into Alabama. General Grosvenor commanded in person an expedition of troops to Cleveland and Athens, Tenn., in June, 1865, and in October of the same year was promoted to major general on the staff of General Steedman, commanding the department of Georgia. General

Grosvenor served two years as speaker of the house of representatives of Ohio and twenty years in the lower house of congress. Another noted veteran is Dr. Washington Gardner of Abion, Mich., editor-at-large, who enlisted in the Union army at the age of sixteen years, was with Sherman during the campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta and sustained a serious wound in the battle of Resaca, Ga., which necessitated amputation of his right arm. Colonel Gardner was a member of congress from Michigan for a dozen years.

ARE DETERMINED TO LOCATE BLAME

OFFICIALS ARE BUSY INVESTIGATING CONVICTS' DEATH AT HARLEM

CHARGES AGAINST GUARDS

Negligent Homicide is Basis of Complaint—Stories of Burial Told

Houston, Texas, Sept. 9.—Members of the prison board, Assistant Attorney General Sweeton and others interested in the investigation of the death of eight negro convicts in a dark cell at Harlem Farm, spent the day here, preparatory to going to Richmond tomorrow for the preliminary examination of the sergeant and two guards, each of whom is charged with negligent homicide.

All the officials are reticent and have absolutely nothing to say of the tragedy except that the blame for it will be fixed, if blame exists. One of the rumors today is that the accused men will waive examination at Richmond and enter bond pending grand jury investigation.

STORIES TOLD BY SURVIVORS

Differing though they did in details, the stories told by the four surviving convicts matched in the main. These four were Edgar Evans of Jefferson, Marion County, serving two years for burglary; John Douglas Burrough of Bexar County, serving two years for burglary and theft; James Curtis of Livingston, Polk county, serving two years for assault with intent to murder, and Ollie Brown of Dallas, serving five years for burglary.

"We were punished for not picking enough cotton," said Burrough. "When I went in the cell after a day in the chains they gave me a bakin' powder tin of water. That's the only water I got. 'Bug Juice'—we called him that—'cause he was in for bootleggin'—he had a fit and started rollin' round on the floor. He got Jim Curtis' foot between his teeth and bit him, and some one says 'He started to die.' 'Bug Juice' died; that is, I reckon he died, 'cause he quieted down."

CELL'S FACILITIES

"It was just as hot in there as if some one had threw a bucket of hot water in on us," said James Curtis, another survivor, to the group of newspaper men. Curtis' story tallied in most of the details with that told by Burrough.

Ollie Brown added further unprintable details of conditions in the cell when the stifling negroes were in the last stage of asphyxiation and sank back with the blood running from nose and mouth. In nearly all of the cases of the eight dead negroes these blood stains were found upon noses and mouths of the corpses Sunday morning.

MANAGER GIVES STATEMENT

Capt. Calvin Blakely, manager of the Harlem State farm, gave a full account of the circumstances leading up to the eight deaths, to the extent of his knowledge.

"I regret this tragedy probably more than any man in the penitentiary system," he said. "I regard it as simply a case of poor judgment. Twelve men ought not to have been put in a cell that size at the same time. Yet two weeks ago eleven men were there twenty-four hours instead of twelve, and no harm resulted."

"Will there be a new set of prison regulations on the dark cell as the result of this mishap?" Capt. Blakely was asked.

"As far as I am concerned, this is the end of the dark cell for men," he rejoined. "There won't be any orders necessary to keep down the number confined to the cell after this."

CURRENCY BILL REPORTED TODAY

MAJORITY RECOMMENDATIONS ARE STRONG IN FAVOR OF MEASURE

DISSENT BY REPUBLICANS

Democrats Declare Their Bill Aims at Correction of Evils of the Present Banking System

Washington, Sept. 9.—The administration currency reform bill, as approved by the democratic caucus, was reported to the House today, from the committee on banking and currency by Chairman Glass. The majority report declared the bill "is intended to bring about necessary changes in the present banking and currency system of the United States, and to correct long standing evils that have had a slow and deep rooted growth. It aims at the rectification of the essential defects of the present system, although it does not seek to make all the innovations that might, from an ideal standpoint, seem desirable."

"After looking whole ground over and after examining the various suggestions for legislation, the committee on banking and currency is firmly of the opinion that any effective legislation on banking must include the following fundamental elements which it considers indispensable in any measure likely to prove satisfactory to the country:

"Creation of a joint mechanism for the extension of the credit to the banks which possess sound assets and which desire to liquidate them for the purpose of meeting legitimate agricultural, manufacturing and commercial demands by their clients.

"Ultimate retirement of the present bond secured currency with suitable provision for the fulfillment of government obligations to bond holders, coupled with the creation of a satisfactory flexible currency to take its place.

"Provision for better extension of American facilities in foreign countries to the end that our trade abroad may be enlarged and that American business men in foreign countries may obtain the accommodations they require in the conduct of their operations.

"Beyond these cardinal and simple propositions, the committee has not deemed it wise at this time to make any recommendations except that in a few places it has suggested the amendment of existing provisions in the National Bank act, with a view to strengthening that measure at points where experience has shown the necessity of alteration."

In their minority report on the bill, the Republicans of the committee pointed out what they held to be the weakness of the measure. They said they found the measure of the committee was bound by their caucus action that they could not consider amendments to the bill which if adopted would have eliminated its unsound and questionable provision."

When the constitutionalists approached peacefully the federals opened fire, killing twelve and wounding 42. Villarejo then executed an entire company of federals which he had previously captured.

AGED PASTOR ON VISIT TO CHINA

DR. R. C. BUCKNER OF DALLAS RETURNS FROM LONG TRIP TO ORIENT

TRAVELED 40,000 MILES

On Missionary Journey for Baptist Church and Says he Enjoyed it all the Way

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 9.—For a man of his age, Dr. R. C. Buckner has just completed the most remarkable missionary trip ever undertaken. Though more than 80 years old, he, his wife and daughter, made a journey around the world, taking six months for the trip and covering a total of 40,000 miles.

Dr. Buckner did not make the trip for pleasure. It was work and he worked every day of the journey and thoroughly enjoyed it. He has returned benefited in health and wishes to make the trip again in the future.

Dr. Buckner is founder of the Buckner Orphans' Home located near Dallas. When he reached his eightieth year nearly twelve months ago this home was presented with a gift of $50,000, a thousand for every year of his life. He has devoted his entire life to helping orphans and in missionary work.

Thrills on Trip.
The world wide jaunt was replete with thrills and important events and included a long, dangerous journey into the interior of China, by motor launch, where the veteran missionary preached the gospel to natives in walled cities, using an interpreter. Dr. Buckner never once flinched because of hardship of travel or menace of natives. He declares his gray hair and wrinkles won him respect from the Orientals, who had never seen such an old missionary before.

Dr. Buckner also went through the jungles of the Philippines, facing death daily from disease, insect, wild animal and Filipino spear.

After reaching home, one would think the aged preacher would seek rest but instead he met scores of friends, gave out many interviews and arranged for a series of lectures and attended to the details of his orphans' home. He preached last Sunday at the First Baptist Church on his experiences.

Never Missed a Meal.
Attired in snow white tropical clothes and sitting in the shade of his veranda, Dr. Buckner said yesterday: "No man, young or old, ever enjoyed a voyage so much. I spent a wakeful night, never missed a meal and enjoyed every minute whether in danger or not. In the Orient the Japanese and Chinese respected me because of my gray hairs and they can teach lessons to young America."

"In Honolulu we found great prosperity, especially in agriculture. We found the people there pleased with American rule."

"At Tokio, where I next went, I attended the J. C. Mott conference which sought means by which various denominations may co-operate in foreign fields without sacrificing their beliefs. There is great desire to co-operate as far as possible. Missionaries from all over Japan had gathered there and I got a fine insight into the progress that is being made."

From Nagasaki, the finest harbor

I ever saw, we voyaged through the South China Sea to Manila. Here I visited the oldest building ever erected for orphan children of Spanish officials.

Moros Want Uncle Sam.
"I then went to Fort McKinley and later went into the jungle and saw just how the native, uncivilized Filipino lives. The Moros, the best of the wild tribes, want the United States to maintain rule there, always fearing that if Uncle Sam withdraws that the upper classes will oppress them."

"After finishing in the Philippines we went to Hong Kong and up the Pearl River, eighty miles to Canton. The tide water backs up this river for eighty miles and irrigates thousands of acres of rice land. Their system of irrigation is like that used in Texas and they have been using it for thousands of years. Intensive farming also is practiced to a remarkable extent. One acre is an average size farm upon which a Chinaman supports himself and family and he may have six children."

"Canton a city of 3,000,000, has no sewer system. The matter we get rid of by sewer pipes is an article of commerce and is used to fertilize fields. The Chinese use oxen and carbou to draw their rude plows. They plow right into the water and plant their crops there."

"I went 250 miles into the interior up the North River. Here we visited many cities in which I preached. At Washow I was cordially received by the Baptist Theological Seminary and Christian Alliance School."

Girls Sadly Neglected.
"Here, as everywhere, I made an appeal for the elevation of motherhood and higher valuation of child life. Girls in China suffer greatly from neglect. It is considered a misfortune to have a girl born in a family. As I spoke, my interpreter delivering my message, an old Chinaman was so moved by the new doctrine that he cried out in the meeting. He wanted me to stay and speak further. He gave me an ancient idol as a token of regard."

"The people of China are ready and eager to hear new things. The republic is torn by strife, but I believe things will soon quiet down."

Budding Mexican Jeanne D'Arc Leads Rebel Band In Destroying Railroads

One of the interesting figures in the Mexican revolution at the present time is Juanita, "Daughter of the Regiment," who aspires to be the Mexican Jeanne d'Arc. Equipped with rifle, revolvers and ammunition, this Mexican vivandiere, young and good looking, has attached herself to the present with the daring band of track wreckers who are ripping up rails and burning bridges so as to hinder the advance of the federals. The rebels are seen here as they operate in the state of Coahuila. They use engines to rip up the rails. This damage to railroad traffic has hindered some Americans in their flight from the country.

MEXICO "WORKS" FRENCH PAPERS

PAYS THEM TO PRINT NEWS UN-FRIENDLY TO THE UNITED STATES

FOR DIPLOMATIC EFFECT

Many Stories Printed to Gain This End—Witch-Burning Outdone by French Family

(William Philip Simms, Paris correspondent of the United Press) Paris, Sept. 9.—That the Huerta government in Mexico has spent $300,000 for the insertion of "news" in French newspapers of a nature unfriendly to the United States, is the contention of constitutionalists here today.

According to the same source the paid news articles were inserted for the purpose of creating in France an anti-American sentiment which would lead the French government to take diplomatic steps to bring about the recognition of the Huerta regime by the United States.

Admitting that the constitutionalist Junta exaggerated, it is generally understood that Paris newspapers have been seen by the Mexican diplomatic representatives here to such an extent that anti-Huerta news has disappeared from the columns of most of them. Whatever the cause, in spite of the friendliest official relations existing between the sister republics, the press, and the general public seemingly, are strangely and persistently misinformed as to the American attitude, and frankly hostile things are being said.

William Jennings Bryan, peace advocate to such an extent that he was recently ridiculed in the French press.

is now accused here of warlike intentions and trying to hide his cannons under a pile of olive branches. President Woodrow Wilson is accused of betraying American interests through a desire for military intervention in Mexico. Says one important paper with more than a million circulation:

The democratic party in the United States has always been violently anti-imperialistic. It has always fought with the utmost energy all idea of intervention in the affairs of neighboring states. And when Mr. Wilson was elected the world got the impression that this policy of prudent reserve was to be more than ever in force, especially when it became known that Mr. Bryan was to be his minister of foreign affairs. Well, what has happened? The first two acts committed by Mr. Bryan have been to propose a protectorate over Nicaragua, and to murmur a policy in regard to Mexico which leads straight to war.

Another newspaper, also of large circulation, declares it has "nothing to say against President Huerta's attitude in regard to Mr. Lind," and upholds Mexico for her anti-American stand on the ground that the behavior of the American government is exceedingly singular to say the least.

A third article says "the future is full of trouble," and that the least to be expected is the failure of the "plan cooked up at Washington." What this plan is the newspaper did not state but the inference to be drawn was that President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan are plotting war against Mexico with the ultimate intention of gobbling the country.

With one or two notable exceptions other Paris newspapers have followed the lead of those mentioned. But according to disinterested parties as well as the Mexican constitutionalists here—the nigger in the woodpile is that a big loan, which would have given French capitalists a better hold in Mexico—which country has appealed to them since long before the tragedy of Maximilian—has been held up by the government here until the situation calms down. For this, capitalists blame the United States.

PROPOSITION FOR GLOVE FACTORY

$25,000 PLANT MAY BE ESTABLISHED HERE BY DALHART MAN

WANTS STOCK SOLD HERE

Factory Contingent Upon Wichita Falls People Taking One-Third of Capital Stock

A special committee was appointed by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Tuesday morning to consider a proposition submitted by Mr. Hilburn of Dalhart for the establishment of a cotton glove factory here. Mr. Hilburn is operating similar plants at Dalhart and El Paso.

His proposal was for the organization of a $25,000 stock company in which he would take two-thirds the capital stock and Wichita Falls citizens owning the plant he proposed, would employ between 30 and 40 operatives at the start at wages ranging from $6 to $15 per week.

Mr. Hilburn came here from El Paso at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce. A special committee consisting Messrs. Hines, Huey, Gates, Noble and Henderson was named to discuss the proposal in detail with Mr. Hilburn and if they thought advisable to enter into a tentative contract with him contingent upon the ability to secure subscriptions for the amount of stock asked.

PROPOSITION MADE FOR CATHOLIC SANITARIUM

Sisters of Incarnate Word Want Ten Acre Site and $25,000 for Institution Here

The Sisters of the Incarnate Word who were here several weeks ago in reference to the establishment of a hospital here have expressed a willingness to accept a proposition donating a site of ten acres and $25,000. They have so written Messrs. Kemp and Kell and Dr. Wade H. Walker who were instrumental in bringing Mother M. Teresa here from Galveston to confer with local citizens in reference to the proposal.

Many of those who have been interested in the establishment of a hospital have been out of the city and the matter has not been taking up since the letter from Mother Teresa has been received. It is expected that some action will be taken in the near future.

SUMMER RECIPES.

Pineapple-Orange Salad. Arrange upon each individual salad plate of crisp, curly lettuce leaf; upon this place a smaller slice of canned pineapple, then a smaller slice of orange and top all with a spoonful of whipped cream, slightly acid, to which a spoonful of chopped walnuts has been mixed.

Stuffed Eggs. Boil as many eggs as needed, hard, and throw into cold water to loosen the shells. Shell and cut the eggs in half, lengthwise. Remove the yolks and rub them smooth with enough olive oil to make a paste, and add a half teaspoonful of finely chopped or ground English walnut meats for each egg. Season with a quarter teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of pepper. Form the mixture into balls and place a ball in each halved white. Put on the ice until thoroughly cold and serve on lettuce with a spoonful of mayonnaise on each egg.

French Cucumber. Peel three cucumbers and cut lengthwise into four strips each; simmer very slowly until tender; drain and sprinkle over them salt and pepper. Make a cup of rich white sauce and lay the cucumbers in and serve hot. Fine with fish.

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

The informative "Fillum," it is everywhere conceded that a matter to be heeded is the motion picture movement which is sweeping over the land.

For disseminating knowledge Neither pulpit, press nor college is a factor any longer, now the "movies" are at hand.

They edify the masses and they entertain the classes; Their polemic possibilities admittedly are great; And for science inductive Any method more instructive Than a "movie" is a matter you can hardly estimate.

As an aid to education, In pursuit of information, You are sure to strike the picture of a pedler wagon chase— Of the chap who's paid to stumble. At, say, 50 cents a tumble, In the water as a finish to a most exciting race.

Every night sweet Laughing Water, Kicking Horse's dusky daughter, Perched behind her cowboy lover gallops down the mountain track. And although you feel the thunder Of the flying hoofs, you wonder Why the mountain so resembles one along the Hackensack!

Then a lovely maiden poses With a wreath of purple roses On her saffron tinted tresses as she gazes up above; While a voice, somewhere or other, In the dark, sobs: "Next to mother, Who—not 'whom'—don't mind the grammar!—do you really, truly love?"

A Weak Heart

"An interesting British report suggests that science has prolonged the lives of very young city folks, but not of the middle-aged. A series of tables compiled from reports of the Registrar-General and covering seventy years shows that for males between five and ten years of age the deathrate has declined sixty-four per cent, while those between forty-five and fifty-five years of age it has declined only three per cent—and for the next decade there is an actual increase in mortality. For both men and women between the ages of forty-five and sixty-five there is no decrease in the deathrate. Dr. Newsholme finds that for both men and women in this period of middle life diseases of the heart and blood-vessels were registered as the causes of about one-third of the total deaths. Apparently, then, for those who reach middle life in fairly good physical condition the heart is the chief source of danger. Fortunately everybody knows that excessive use of intoxicants and tobacco and coffee weakens the heart. At this season, when New Year's vows are falling like leaves of autumn, we abstain from urging anybody to stop drinking or smoking or overindulging in coffee. Go ahead—if you think your heart will stand it!" —Saturday Evening Post, Jan. 18, 1913.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 9, 1913

The Atlanta Constitution says "no man, rich or poor, has the right to be a consumer unless he is also a producer."

In New England in the early days, only those who worked were allowed to eat.

If we can get back to that, idleness and hunger will be unknown, crops will not rot in the field, human derelicts will not crowd the side streets of the cities, and life for all will become worth while.

The development of the oil fields at Electra, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Petrolia has brought great prosperity to this part of Texas, and as yet, it is the belief of those who are or ought to be in a position to judge, the development of these oil fields is yet in its infancy.

The total daily production of all four fields is now above 30,000 barrels, and it is believed that before another year passes the daily production will be more than doubled.

There are now more than one hundred well drilling outfits in the fields, some of which are shut down, not because there is no work for them, but on account of the water supply being short.

After it rains sufficient to fill all the water tanks all the drillers will be kept busy, and many more producing wells may, with good reason, be expected to be brought in.

It now appears that the wreck on the New Haven railroad a week ago, which snuffed out twenty-one lives, is traceable to the fact that the engineer of the ill-fated train had been on duty a greater number of hours than he was supposed to have been, and for that reason passed the danger signals without heeding them.

Now, if the same old story over again. Railroads are not careful enough in the running of their passenger trains, and in most instances are more anxious to make time than they are to protect the lives of their passengers.

For more than a week this engineer testified that he had been doing the work of two men. If this be true, and the practice is general to overwork men on that road, is it any wonder the wreck occurred?

The law providing the "dark cell" as a place in which to confine convicts as a punishment for violating prison rules, as the Times understands it, was enacted under the administration of ex-Gov. Campbell, but its administration was left to his successor in office.

It is hardly likely the law contemplated crowding into a dark cell 8x10 feet with only a seven foot ceiling and with five or six ventilating holes the size of a half dollar, as many as twelve men. If those in charge of the unfortunate prisoners were possessed of good sense, and were not brutes themselves, they should have known that not even half that number could be confined in a place like that for as much as twelve hours at a time without taking a great chance on killing them.

Those eight negroes who lost their lives in the dark cell on the state farm were murdered by the state. There is no way getting around that fact. Nothing worse or more brutal has ever occurred in any state prison in the United States to compare with it, and it is now up to the state of Texas to punish to the limit of the law those who were in charge of the murdered men. It is the only recourse the state has of wiping out this blot. The "bat" was bad enough. It was abolished, but the dark cell is a poor substitute. So far as our memory serves us, no convict was ever murdered on the spot by being beat with the bat. Some of them may have died afterwards from the effects of such beating. As to that, we do not know. At any rate, they were never murdered by wholesale, as by the smothering process. It is up to Governor Colquitt to see that the matter is probed to the bottom, and as it may be said to his credit, that he has made a start in the right direction. We have heard of placing a refractory prisoner in a pit provided with a pump capable of lifting the water out as fast as it ran in, but in order to do this the condemned prisoner was forced to use his strength and muscles in order to save himself from drowning, but never before have we heard of confining a bunch of prisoners into a place where, it mattered not what sort of effort they might put forth by themselves, or in what manner they might use their strength, it could not save their lives. For the commission of atrocious crimes, negroes have been burned to death without warrant of law. Under such circumstances such crimes are generally excused on the ground that the people were excited, seeking to avenge a great wrong. But no such excuse as this can be pleaded in this instance. It was a cold-blooded, deliberate affair, or else the men in charge of the prisons are fit subjects for an insane asylum.

PROGRESSIVES TO CONTROL THE G. O. P.

(From the Washington Herald)

Progressive Republicans are controlling the reorganization of the old party's congressional campaign committee. The new chairman is Representative Woods of Iowa, who supported Mr. Roosevelt, but did not bolt his party when his candidate did not secure the nomination. This committee will have charge of the congressional campaign next year. Its membership is composed of one representative from each State who is either a senator or a congressman.

There is no occasion for this committee to consider ways and means for reunion; that is being accomplished rapidly enough. The committee's business is to see to it that the record of the party in congress, between now and next year, deserves indorsement by all forward-looking Republicans, regardless of last year's quarrel, and to make certain that the record is made known to the voters. The new schedules will have been in operation long enough, when the congressional campaign opens next year, for the public to make up its mind whether this country has made a mistake in abandoning the protective principle in its tariff.

IN SPEAKING OF SPECIAL CHARTERS.

To the Times: So far there has been only one side of the question placed before the public and that is, commission form only. Now when this honorable body of men met to draft a special charter for our city they specified that either commission or aldermanic form would practically be the same, with the exception that if the citizens desired commission form of government that there would only be four commissioners and the mayor elected by the people; but if the citizens desired aldermanic form of government they would have a mayor and a city marshal would be elected by the people.

In Sunday's issue of the Times one of our writers on this subject stated that politics would be eliminated under the commission form; also ward lines abolished and that the responsibility upon the commissioners and that the elective officers were subject to recall. Now, if the charters are the same identically there is no reason why, that under the aldermanic form of government, that all of these things should not be the same as under the commission form, for they are practically the same; the only difference is in the election.

Under the aldermanic form of government the officers are responsible for their duties in office just the same, especially with the special charter that was prepared by our special charter committee, and today every man is under bond to insure his responsibility just the same as he would be under the commission form. The initiative and referendum will be in force under the aldermanic form just the same as under the commission form.

Every alderman of today's administration of our present city government is at the head of some department just the same as if under special charter, either commission or aldermanic form.

Our writer on this subject in last Sunday's issue of the Times quoted all the good things that would be under the commission form. Every thing that you are entitled to under the commission form so will you have under the aldermanic form. The only difference between the two charters is that under the aldermanic form the people elect every man that goes into office that is elective, but under the commission form the people only elect four commissioners and the mayor, leaving the mayor the right to decide all votes that would become a tie of the commissioners and making him practically the powered man of the city, and if he happens not to be a good man then he can show his power, because it is all placed in his hands, and you are placing the welfare of the city in the hands of one man, an empowering him over all departments and to run things his way regardless of the desire and wishes of the people; but under aldermanic form you elect five aldermen, mayor, tax collector and assessor, city secretary, city attorney, city engineer and city marshal, and the power is placed in the hands of the five aldermen who are representatives of the people and every man that is at the head of any department is responsible for that department.

The special charter (either form), eliminates the $1 city poll tax, also the $3 street tax, so there can be no difference in that respect between the two charters; but there is this difference between them and that is this: Under commission form you will have a one man town, but under aldermanic form of government you will have a people's city.

The cities that have made a success with the commission form can be easily counted. Houston and Fort Worth have made a failure out of it. Their indebtedness is so great since they have adopted that form that it is a burden to the property owners that live there. So it is in Oklahoma, where taxes are unreasonable.

Another writer comes in on Sunday's issue of the Times, and starts out to ask a few questions. One of the main questions was: "If the commission form is more efficient, is it not liable to be more dangerous?"

To my idea it is, for the commissioners have things all in their own power. This writer also states that under commission form that the commissioners will devote their entire time to the welfare of the city, but now, would just like to ask if he would like to take the job? It would only pay $25 per month under the commission form of government to each commissioner. I think that he or any one else would not take the job for that and devote, as he states, his entire time.

Under aldermanic form of government, there will be five aldermen and each one will draw $20 per month. They will give just as much of their time as would the four commissioners. I think that our citizens do not want to turn the welfare of our city over to just one man.

Let us have aldermanic form of government which is by far to the people's interest and less chance for graft.

H. C. DAKAN.

A MAN'S JOB

(By W. G. Long)

Some of the arguments against the commission form of government are chiefly directed against the power that is delegated to the commissioners and is styled the one, or two, or three men power. All right, at this writing and in Wichita Falls how many men does it take to dominate the politics of this city? You know it takes just three. I am in favor of a one man policy, for they usually get results. It was one man who dominated the building of the Panama Canal, Col. Goethals. Is there any complaint about how he has done it? It was, and is one man who is dominating the sanitary system of the Canal Zone, Dr. Gorzak. He took a fever breeding and impregnated atmosphere of disease, filth, malaria reeking with yellow fever and made it a health resort. General Wood made unhealthy Havana an ideal place for the American soldier to live. If ever the Big Wichita River is dammed and its flood water conserved it will be through the dreams of one man. And this later brings the proposition right home to you.

If we will not recall our history we will find that one man has been able to pioneer all the great public benefits. Fulton done it in the steam engine. Morse in the telegraph. Drake in the drilling of oil wells. Bushnell has been alone in his method of improving the water-bomb, and ever since we could go on, almost indefinitely showing that one good man is better than a dozen medium fellows. But the proof of the pudding is chewing the rag, and you are going to have the city manager plan right at your door—Dallas.

However, much as I would like to, I am not arguing in favor of the city manager plan, but will still believe that that is the best method for managing any city, and it will come here in time. But we must learn to walk one step at a time, and let our neighbor Dallas try it. But it is an old method, as Germany has been using it for years. The Burgomasters are city managers and they are promoted according to their abilities and when one starts even Berlin itself is within the promotion.

Running a growing city is a man's job. The conditions are ever changing and it requires originality as well as executive ability to keep in pace with its growth. It is like winning a big law suit, it is not the man who shows flashes of genius, it is not the man who makes a very big deal for his mastery eloquence that always wins the cases. But it is the fellow who is able to digest a law library, it is the man who is familiar with the law and all its technique that will get the goods nine times out of ten. There are a few men in this city who are there are conditions at all times that must be met without fear or favor, for instance, the man of influence and wealth will make different demands on the city than the section hand. The business man will need things that a railroad man does not need. The medical man will make demands that will not have any bearing on what a lawyer wants. Yet all these various demands must have a consideration by the city fathers. For instance (see how much of a prophet I am), when Bentz street is paved, there will be a howl from Burnett street. Austin street and a number of other streets, that they are neglected and want their streets paved. Wait and see whether I am not stating a fact.

Is there anything wrong in the following facts that will be in existence when the commission form is adopted and it is sure to be.

1. The best man that can be found for your street commissioner.

2. A chance to vote on all questions too big for the commission.

3. The recall to dump an inefficient employe to the scrap heap.

4. A commission that will disregard political lines and govern from the standpoint of interest of the many instead of the few.

5. A weights and measure inspector, one that will inspect without fear or favor.

I have carefully read the new city charter that was drafted last winter by the committee. It is a charter that when one knows the men, that would be expected from them. For by their works ye shall know them. It is a great big broad gauged paper drafted by big broad gauged men. And if the initiative, referendum and recall was embodied therein, and a city manager adopted, it would be an ideal city charter and has all the elasticity necessary to be applicable to a city of the size of Dallas. This charter has one effective means of efficiency of government and that is it put the commissioners in the spot light at all times and no executive sessions except when an officer is being tried for misconduct.

A story is told in Des Moines. A merchant went to the head of the then aldermanic form of government to complain that his basement was wet, he sent him to another official; he in turn sent him to another official, that sent him to another and so on until he finally returned to the first man. In desperation the merchant said: "Well, what am I to do?" The official said "I do not know unless you go into the bath tub business; the dampness would not hurt them." A commission form eliminates this.

Another story that is particularly pertinent here was the story of the alderman at Huntington, W. Va. This was told to me by the alderman. They had a law that an employe of the city couldn't sell the city supplies. Said he: "They have me arrested for selling the fire department some hardware (this was this man's business), and I do not see why any one should be so nit-picky. But I know who it was. It was the fire chief. Why, I never made any one trouble in my life for anything. I know right now, that the chief has two dummies on his pay roll, but I would not give him any trouble, it is too small a matter, as the firemen only get $45 per month and the chief probably needs it. Now another time when I was on the street committee, there was a paving job on, and the specification called for eight inches of broken stone. I went out and investigated and found he was only using four inches of broken stone. Now I never said a word about this to any one as I did not wish to make him trouble."

This last story was related to me in all sincerity by this alderman a few years ago. Since that Huntington, W. Va., has adopted the commission form of government. These things could happen under the old form but never under the commission.

Sometime this week we will tell the story of the short bill and the commission relative to improvements and taxation.

SCATTERED SHOWERS IN PARTS OF THIS SECTION

Monday's Rain Not General Throughout Northwest Texas, Missing Many Towns

The shower which fell here Monday afternoon while giving local relief from the dust and heat and being of benefit to cotton and other crops was not general. Reports today indicate that scattered showers fell over much of this section of the state but that some communities were passed up with a light sprinkle.

The rain was light east and south of Wichita Falls. Vernon had only a twenty minute shower. A heavier shower fell from Chillicothe to Childress.

On the Wichita Valley there were heavy showers at Stamford, Bomarton and Haskell, with lighter showers at Winnet, Abilene and several other points. A number of towns did not get any rain. The Western Union's 8:30 a. m. weather report today follows:

Oklahoma generally fair, cloudy to threatening over state 72 to 74. No rain reported last night.

Texas—Dallas, fair, 75. Good rain last night. Texarkana cloudy, 70. Good shower at 7 p. m. Tyler, cloudy, 72. Mt. Pleasant, cloudy, 76. Weatherford, cloudy, 72. Clarksville, fair, 76. NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC!

A good deal has been said about the name "BRIN" being on my signs and wagons, and in order that my friends and the public generally may know why this is, will say that the firm name Freear-Brin Furniture Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of Texas, and it would be impossible for me to change this without the consent of the stockholders.

Through courtesy to Mr. Brin I have not used his name in any of my advertisements trying to avoid as much as possible the use of his name. And I can assure all that nothing would give me more pleasure than to remove his name from the places on which it now appears. However, the firm name still remains the same and will until the stockholders see fit to change it.

Very respectfully, W. A. FREEAR, Sec. and Treas.

OIL FIELD NEWS

The Guffey company this morning brought in a well on the Goetz farm, about a mile east of the Borcheid wells. The sand was found at 1400 feet and is showing for a fair well.

Only one rig is now running in the Petrola field. This is owned by the Producers Company. All others are shut down on account of the drought. The rig now operating may be forced to shut down in a few days unless rain falls.

Forest Oil Company's Marriot No. 7 came in yesterday and is said to be one of the best wells in that part of the field. This is an old well which had been pumped from the 1970 sand and which was drilled deeper. The well was drilled to the 1960 sand with a rotary. The sand is 18 feet thick and a producing oil in a copious quantity.

CHANGE OF VENUE HEARING IN PROGRESS AT FT. WORTH

By Associated Press. Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 9.—The prosecution which is demanding a change of venue in the trial of Lee Weatherford accused of burning the First Baptist Church, introduced witnesses in support of its move this morning. The defense sprang a surprise by offering to let District Judge Brown try the case against Weatherford. This was ruled out of order. The change of venue hearing will continue at least until tomorrow.

STORIES from the BIG CITIES

New York's Second Hand Queen Moves Up Town

NEW YORK.—A new woman merchant has just moved from downtown into the theatrical district of West Forty-second street. She is Mary J. McShane, who lived next door to "Paddy" Divver's where, at No. 5 Madison street, she did a thriving business for thirty-seven years, bought the land occupied by her store and reared a family of ten children. "I'll tell you how I did it all," she said the other day. "I was a child in Cork, Ireland, when my father was buying gold lace and the discarded trappings of the English officers who were suddenly ordered to India and other parts of the empire. He was such a fine, square man that he had friends everywhere. As the officers changed their barracks, my father not only bought all the regimentals and supplies, but got the gowns and draperies of the ladies, so that I instinctively absorbed a knowledge of values. When I came to New York in 1872 as a girl, I was ready to buy anything, knowing well that I could sell at a good profit. First I bought little job lots of ornaments; then household goods, until I took the contents of entire tenement houses. "Presently I had the monopoly of the best yearly hotel sales of the city and was making money rapidly when I expanded into a still higher branch of the business. The hotel men introduced me to representatives of rich New York families until I began to have the patronage of the 'four hundred.' "It may surprise lots of people to know that thousands of beautiful garments are sold every year in New York because families go into mourning or suddenly go to Europe. Mourning means selling their colored clothing. In Europe they want the Paris styles, and so sell most of their wardrobes before leaving here. These thousands of families take apartments and give up house-keeping in their homes. I buy everything they have to sell, from silks and satins to diamonds and jewelry that no longer meet their taste. Others sell because they want money. Few know how many people meet with reverses in the course of a year. Every day I am receiving notes to call at fine mansions to look over the wardrobes and set a price.

Duck on the Window Sill Known to Many People

TWO weeks ago attention was called to a duck on the second story window sill of a fine old house on H street. "Attention was called" is not a happy phrase, because nearly everybody who passes along that part of H street knows the duck. In the previous story it was said that, perhaps the family living in the house will be able to explain it, and perhaps not, but the writer did not care to pursue the inquiry further than to make the necessary observation and notation.

"This is the history of the duck in the window: "My father, Dr. Clymer, surgeon, U. S. N., on his return from the Asiatic coast brought with him some very beautifully colored ducks, which he purchased in Ceylon. "On the trip over, whether from change in climate or difference in food or exposure aboard ship, all died but one drake, and he arrived in H street in good health. He lived with us happily and contented for two years, occupying the back yard, where he had a large pond filled by a natural spring. "When Alexander R. Shepherd put in the deep street sewers our pond ran dry, and our drake then became sad and pitifully melancholy, and one day we found him dead. "We called in a taxidermist, had him treated, and placed him in the front window, always looking toward his native home. And when he faded out of existence we placed another there—in memoriam. He or his representative has been in the front of 1617 H street for 41 years."

He Found Out What the Yellow Flag Was For

IT is notorious that street railway companies in Washington, as in other cities, have a good deal to trouble with rail joints and with the street paving along the rails. The pounding wheels and the vibration of the track seem able to break down or break up almost any kind of pavement which the railroads lay. The result is that repairs are made frequently necessary.

For several weeks repairs have been making to the tracks of the Mount Pleasant cars along Connecticut avenue. Yellow clay has been piled high up on both sides of the track. Strong men have been working there with crowbars, sledges, picks and other tools. At the end and along the sides of the repair work has been quite a procession of flags, mainly red to warn of danger, but some of them green to indicate safety, and marking where teams or machines might pass. At each end of the construction work by day fatters in more or less harmony with the red and green flags a yellow flag, and at night lanterns with yellow globes let their light shine there. The question was put to many fellow-travelers: "What does the yellow flag mean? Day after day the answer was: "Give it up." "You got me now," or "It stands for small-pox."

Those yellow flags were getting on the scribe's nerves, and on one of the few pleasant days in early April he got on a car determined to pay an extra fare to find out the significance of those strange flags. He walked over to a stalwart colored laborer, who was cracking concrete in the excavation, and asked him: "What does that yellow flag mean?"

The man looked amused. There was pity in his eyes and his voice as he replied: "Boss, dat am 'de sign fo' de yvars to go slow."

Why Some Cocoanuts Cost More

The food value and flavor of cocoanuts is dependent upon the amount of natural oil and sugar which they contain. There are many varieties growing in almost every tropical country in the world and it requires a knowledge of cocoanuts to select the best. The cocoanuts which are richest in oil and sugar are those which are the highest priced.

The very best cocoanuts from the world's markets—those richest in oil and sugar are used for White Swan Coconut. The shredding and packing are done so carefully that practically all of this oil and sugar, all the delicious coconut flavor is preserved. It arrives in your kitchen as fresh as if you had grated it yourself, and it is better because it is made of these cocoanuts than you could possibly buy.

When The Gates Of Matteawan Asylum Loomed Up Large For Thaw After Defeat In Canada

THAW TURNED OVER TO IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES. PHOTO © 1913 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Harry K. Thaw is seen here as he appeared when turned over to the immigration authorities at the courthouse at Sherbrooke, Canada. As he descended the courthouse steps guarded by a Dominion police officer and one of the immigration officials Thaw was utterly downcast. He seemed to realize that he had been defeated and the gates of Matteawan asylum loomed up large before him.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH PLANNED

BELIEVED THAT NATIONAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD ESTABLISH BUREAU

MOVEMENT'S RECENT GAIN

President of American Public Health Association Comments on Present Needs

Colorado Springs, Sept. 9.—Prophecy that it is only a question of a very short time until the United States government establishes a department of health, the head of which will be a member of the president's cabinet, was made here today by Rudolph Herring, president of the American Public Health Association which opened the sessions of its forty-first annual convention this morning. Delegates from the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba were in attendance.

Dr. Herring briefly traced the development of the public health movement from the time of the Egyptians down to the present day. "The development," he said, "has been gradual progress of expansion from the day when medicine and public health were limited to a selected group to the present time, when not only physicians, but bacteriologists, chemists, engineers and interested laymen are all united in the battle for better health conditions. The engineer is rapidly coming to be recognized as the man to whom is designated the task of applying the discoveries made by the medical and allied professions. He is, in other words, an applied scientist, able to furnish necessities, comforts and better health to our people to an extent which former generations never dreamed of.

"When we contemplate the evolution of public service in various countries of the world it seems clearly in the line of natural development that the administration of the public health affairs of this country should be delegated to an independent department, presided over by a cabinet officer. Cuba is the only country in our association which embraces the United States, Canada and Mexico besides, which has a national department of health and a minister of public health with a seat in the cabinet. But it does not seem difficult to foresee that it can only be a question of a very short time when we also shall have a national department of similar character. No service can have more justification for its existence than such a one which establishes a means for improving the physical and mental health of the people."

Taking as his topic, "Reappearance of the Ghost of Malthus," Dr. W. T. Sedwick, professor of biology and public health in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, pleaded for food and fuel conservation in America as a means to keeping the nation healthy. "If America would avoid famine in the future as she has in the past," declared Dr. Sedwick, "she must begin at once scientifically and systematically to increase and conserve her food supply. Less than ten years ago the late Edward Atkinson, one of the most eminent economists of the time, and an inveterate optimist, assured me that Malthusianism was now really dead and even the ghost of Malthus forever banished. Cheap fuel and power were to come first from heat and later from sunshine and cheap food from intensive agriculture. Lentils were to replace animal food and slow cookery. Using little heat, and therefore cheap, to make coarse foodstuffs appetizing as well as nutritious.

"But now what do we see? A population already vast and increasing by leaps and bounds; a virgin soil largely ravished and already showing signs of exhaustion; timberlands mostly depleted; wild animals and game almost exterminated; exports of foodstuffs diminishing; fisheries and especially shell fisheries, showing ominous signs of coming failure; and everywhere outbreaks and complaints of the high cost of living. Meantime although the cost of coal increases no one seems to be using heat for power and no one wants lentils instead of meat, fish or eggs although these staples are sometimes almost prohibitively dear. Intensive farming has not reduced the cost of cereals, fruits or cotton. If it had not been for three great scientific inventions, namely, cheap transportation, the art of canning and cold storage, the cost of wholesome food would today be greater than it is even now. These three alone keep the ghost of Malthus in the background. It is well for the world that pessimism is unpopular."

Dr. H. E. Barnard of the Indiana State board of health, in an address before the pure food symposium declared that in order to protect its citizens the state should compel laborers in canning factories to have certificates of health. "Healthy workmen in canneries," he said, "will never be assured until the state compels all employers to bear certificates of freedom from disease, and until employers insist upon such certificates as prerequisite to employment." Although advocating federal inspection of almost all raw and prepared food, Dr. Barnard nevertheless declared that many important food problems such as milk supply, meats slaughtered by local butchers and bakery products should be dealt with by state and municipal authorities. "A satisfactory meat inspection," he said, "never will be attained unless the state assumes responsibility for stamping out bovine tuberculosis and hog cholera."

"There is little evidence of a great amount of deception by food retailers in New York in the matter of weight and quality of the articles they sell," said B. B. Burritt, director of Social Welfare.

You May Delay Too Long!

21 have joined the Hoosier Club within two days. 54 only can now enroll and have their cabinets delivered immediately.

$ 1.00 Only Membership Weekly Dues

A single $1.00 pays all, as this club is under the strict supervision of the Hoosier Company, which limits membership.

With the remarkable rapidity of this week's sales, these few Hoosier Club Memberships we have left will be snapped up long before we expected. The others have gone to enterprising women who appreciate this great chance to solve the servant problem in their kitchens and make their work comfortable and easy by expending only a dollar.

These women each received the cabinet within a few hours of the time they joined the club. We delivered it at once and set it up all ready to use. Their delight can be appreciated only by a Hoosier owner.

Each paid merely $1.00, (the Hoosier Club membership fee that is part of the price of the cabinet), and weekly dues of only $1.00 for merely a few weeks complete the small total bill.

The women who may enjoy these same advantages are so few that we urge you to make up your mind now to be here early tomorrow morning and enroll as one of the lucky Hoosier members.

Only Complete Cabinet

There isn't a woman living who isn't overjoyed at the comfort and ease of management and working conditions that the Hoosier brings.

Every modern labor-saving machine for the kitchen has been tested by the Hoosier Company to bring the Hoosier to its present perfection. It is the only scientifically built kitchen cabinet, and the only one that is complete. Every cabinet shown here is the newest model.

And any one is yours for $1.00 if you call on us right away.

Don't Forget the Time Saving

No matter how pleasant the Hoosier makes your kitchen though, you don't want to spend your life in it. There are more agreeable things to do.

And while making working conditions comfortable and easy, the Hoosier also saves much time.

These extra hours are yours for rest and pleasure, to do the things you want to do and make life worth living. Work made easy—time saved—and you not tired.

Join the Club Tomorrow

But you must not delay, as the Hoosier Company rigidly limits the allotment of Hoosier Cabinets for our club. Four thousand Hoosier agents are forming these clubs and there are not enough cabinets for all. The Hoosier Company supervises the club plan, and you pay not a penny more than the low national cash price quoted at the factory.

The new club memberships are not many to offer, but it is the best we can do.

The best you can do is to see us early.

Think of a Hoosier set up in your kitchen before noon tomorrow, and don't delay. Make up your mind now and enroll first thing in the morning.

Club Terms Apply Only During This Sale After That, Our Regular Terms Will Prevail

In regard to Miss Jordan the Boston Monitor has the following to say: "Miss Elizabeth Jordan gave a Dramatic Reading of 'The Littlest Rebel' on Wednesday evening, April 10th, at Irving Hall. Her impersonation of the several characters was highly entertaining and technically admirable. As a dramatic reader she ranks among the best—gifted with a charming personality and keen dramatic instinct she endows her characters with life and movement. Miss Jordan is a Virginian by birth and possesses that rich charming Southern accent which makes her work attractive. She is able to sway any audience at will."
