CURRENCY BILL DEBATE BEGINS

CHAIRMAN GLASS DECLARES
WALL ST. IS PROMPTING OP-POSITION TO MEASURE

"NO POLITICS" HE SAYS

Challenges Statement That System
Proposed in Bill Can Be Perverted in That Way

By Associated Press.
Washington, Sept. 10.—The administration currency bill today started
on its way to the statute books when Chairman Glass of the House banking committee opened the currency debate in the House. He said:

"There is no politics in this matter. It is an earnest conviction based upon long reflection that no man
can conceive, as none has yet pointed out, how any part of this system can be perverted to political ends. I happened to be present when an eminent banker suggested such a possibility
to the present occupant of the executive chair and I heard this banker
vainly challenged to show how it might be done. I shall not forget the emphasis with which the president of the United States declared that no
man would ever be found who would be willing to imperil his reputation or tarnish his fame by so flagrant a prostitution of his high office."

Mr. Glass declared that opposition to the bill by bankers was caused by the fact that the money center
realized that the bill was a loss of profits derived from a system which makes the banker the legal custodian
of the reserve fund of the country, $240,000,000 of which on the fourth day of November, 1912 they had put into Wall street stock operations."

PATRICK HENRY RESIGNS PLACE AS LEGISLATOR

Will Enter Upon New Duties at Fort Worth Shortly—No Successor
Soon

Patrick Henry, representative for Wichita and Wilbarger counties in the Thirty-Third Legislature, has filed
his resignation with Governor Colquhitt, announcement being made today. Mr. Henry, as was stated some time ago, will be principal of the business department of the Texas
Christian University at Fort Worth
and will make his home in that city.

Unless Governor Colquhitt should
call another special session of the Legislature, no successor to Mr. Henry
will be chosen until the regular election, next year. While several Wichitans are understood to be grooming
for the race, it is said that Wilbarger
county will also have someone in the race next year. Should there be another called session of the legislature
between now and January, 1915 it will be necessary to hold a special election
to fill the vacancy caused by Mr.
Henry's resignation.

CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE MEMBERS ON EXCURSION.

Koekuk, Iowa, Sept. 10.—Delegates
to the annual Christian Church conference meeting here today were guests of the local committee on an excursion about Lake Cooper, the great artificial lake formed by the building of the Koekuk Dam, the largest structure of its kind in the world. The conference will be in session until Friday night.

WALLER BAKER OF WACO DEAD IN SAN FRANCISCO

Manager of Gov. Hogg's Campaign
in 1902 Believed To Have Met
Foul Play

By Associated Press.
San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10.—Walter S. Baker, a prominent attorney of Waco, Texas, was stricken on the streets here last night and died. The police are investigating a report that
several hundred dollars was missing
from Baker's pocket. His vest was found to be turned inside out, with his coat buttoned over it.

Baker was visiting here with his wife and children and his brother, J.
S. Baker of Waco. Last night he brother suggested that they go to a theatre, but Baker declined, explaining that he did not feel well. He insisted, however, that the others enjoy themselves. Shortly afterward
they heard that he was dead.
Waller S. Baker managed the Clarke
campaign for James S. Hogg in Texas in 1902 and was chairman of the Texas democratic executive committee at that time. He had lived in Waco since 1868 and had always been prominent in state politics.

Principals In Latest Developments Of The Harry K. Thaw Deportation Case

BILL NOW READY FOR CONFERENCE

EXPECTED TO REMAIN THERE
AT LEAST TWO WEEKS FOR ADJUSTMENT

FEW IMPORTANT CHANGES

In Principal Measure Does Not Differ From That Passed By Lower House

By Associated Press.
Washington, Sept. 10.—With the tariff bill passed by the Senate Tuesday afternoon by a vote of forty-four
to thirty-seven, arrangements are now being made to send the measure to conference, where the differences between the House and Senate bills may be adjusted. The bill is expected to remain in conference two weeks.

The tariff bill as it passed the Senate retained the principal House provisions, including free sugar and free
raw wool, but revised other rates still further downward. The average advalorem rate in the bill now is approximately 28 per cent, a decrease
of 28 per cent from existing rates
and nearly 4 per cent lower than the rates of the House bill.

The Senate's additions to the House free list with 1912 as a basis
will cost the government more than $44,000,000, but by adding a tax of one-tenth of a pound on cotton for future delivery, a tax on bananas of one-tenth of a cent, restoring the requirement of a full internal revenue tax of $1.10 a gallon on brandies
used to fortify wines, and by increasing the duties on large incomes, Senate leaders believe they have provided an actual increase. That is a point disputed by Majority Leader
Underwood of the House.

The Senate made these other
changes:

Lowered the normal exemption
from the 1 per cent income tax from $4,000 to $3,000 for single persons
with exemptions for wives and dependent children; exempted the incomes of mutual insurance companies which revert to the benefit of stockholders; increased graduated
surtax on large incomes to a maximum of 10 per cent of those of more than $500,000; exempted incomes of municipalities derived from operation
of public utilities and changed the
date from the first year from January 1 to March 1, 1915.

Free listed cattle and other live
stock, wheat, hair of the Angora goat
and some other agricultural products;
restored oatmeal and rolled oats to
the dutiable list and provided an elaborate inspection of meat imports.

Reduced House rates on woolen manufactures to become effective
January 1, 1914.

Provided in the sugar schedule for immediate abolishment of the Dutch standard test; postponed operation of proposed reduced rates until March 1, 1914, leaving the provision unchanged for free sugar in May, 1915.

Slightly increased rates on finer
cotton goods, reclassifying the whole
cotton schedule.

Vice President Marshall appointed
Senators Simmons, Stone, Williams
and Johnson, democrats and Senators Penrose, Lodge and La Follette, Republicans, as the Senate conferees.

Senator Stone withdrew from the committee and Senator Shively was appointed in his place. The House
conferees, it was reported, will be Representatives Underwood, Kitchin
and Rainsey, democrats, and Payne
and Fordney, Republicans. Each house will have an equal vote in the conference committee, even though
each does not name the same number of conferees.

Roll Call on Tariff Bill.
Following was the roll call on the
tariff bill:

Chamberlain, Chilton, Clark of Arkansas, Fletcher, Gore, Hitchcock, Hollis, Hughes, James, Johnson,
Lane, Kern, Lewis, Martin, Martine,
Myers, Newlands, O'Gorman, Over-
man, Owen, Pittman, Penrose, Robinson, Saulsbury, Sharpe, Shepard, Shields, Shively, Simmons, Smith of Arizona, Smith of Georgia, Smith of Maryland, Smith of South Carolina,
Stone, Swanson, Thompson, Tillman,
Vardaman, Walsh, Williams, Democrats; La Follette, Republican and Poindexter, Progressive—Total 44.

Now—Senators Borah, Bradley,
Brady, Brandegee, Brewster, Catron,
Clapp, Clark of Wyoming, Colt, Cummings, Dillingham, Fall, Gallinger,
Jackson, Jones, Kenyon, Lippitt, Mc-Cumber, Lodge, McLean, Nelson, Nor-
ris, Oliver, Page, Penrose, Perkins,
Root, Sherman, Smoot, Stephenson,
Sterling, Sutherland, Warren, Weeks
and Works, Republicans; Randall
and Thorburn, Democrats—Total 37.

Paired and Not Voting—Senators
Townsend of Michigan, Burton, Crawford, Goff, Dupont and Smith of Michigan, Republicans; Bankhead, Byran, Cullerton, Lea, Thomas and Reed, Democrats—Total 12.

Absent and Not Paired—Senators
Burleigh and Gronna, Republicans—
Total 2.

Vacancy—Alabama 1.

The final struggle began at four o'clock, when, under a previous agreement, arbitrary votes began on pending amendments. During the closing hours of debate Senator La Follette
had become the center of interest,
proposing final amendments on the
cotton and agricultural schedules and
discussing some features of the bill which he deemed favorable. It was nearly 5:30 o'clock when the vice president put the bill upon its passage. The roll call proceeded deliberately until the clerk called "La Follette."

The Wisconsin senator, seated in the front row, hesitated a moment.
His head was bowed and resting on his hand. He leaned forward a trifle
and vigorously answered "Aye."

La Follette's Vote Applauded.

Instantly the applause broke from
the galleries and senators on the Democratic side joined in enthusiastic handclapping, nearly every Democrat on the floor participating in the brief but vigorous demonstration.

When the name of Senator Poindexter
the only Progressive senator, was reached, he had contributed his vote for the bill the applause was renewed.

Senator La Follette had a few words to say of his vote after many Democratic senators had surrounded
his desk and shook his hand.

"I realize what I did was a political sacrifice," he said, "but that will
in me compelled me to vote for the bill. The tariff act of 1909 was but little short of a crime; the bill passed
today is not a Democratic measure,
but is a protective measure. Every change made by the finance committee was made by way of adjustment to a protective basis except
such as free wool and free sugar,
which were determined upon outside.
They treated the agricultural schedule, I repeat to say, on a free trade
basis and I would have retained more
duty on cutlery and some other articles in order to be sure not to ruin
American production. Give the Democrats time and they will put everything on a free trade basis, but they have not done it in this bill."

Senator Poindexter said of his vote:

"I voted for the Senate tariff bill
because it is as a whole a better bill
than the Payne-Aldrich law now in force. Furthermore, it contains an income tax, which we have been trying to get for twenty years."

"Some of its rates are too high and
some are too low, but its general
average on manufactures is high enough. Its classification is far from scientific, but not more so than the existing law."

Snyder—At the request of good roads advocates in this country, C. R.
Buchanan, county judge, designated October 2nd and 3rd as good roads
days for Sevier county. It is expected that several thousand men will help
work the roads on those dates.

HEARING BEGUN IN CONVICT CASE

FOUR SURVIVORS OF DARK CELL TRAGEDY WILL PROBABLY TESTIFY

CABELL TO BE WITNESS

Legal Battle Likely Over Admission of Testimony of the Convicts
Involved

By Associated Press.
Richmond, Texas, Sept. 10.—Justice
P. M. O'Connell this morning began the examining trials of Sergeant Sid Wheeler and Guards S. M. Fain and
R. H. Stewart, all charged in eight cases each, with negligent homicide
in connection with the deaths of the eight negro state convicts in the dark
cell last Saturday night.

An array of counsel was present
for both sides. The state's interests were looked after by Assistant Attorney General Sweeton. The State had fourteen convicts present, whose testimony it was said would be offered.
These included the four survivors of the dark cell. The morning session was spent in testimony of medical experts, all of whom testified to facts
previously published, adding but little
new to the record.

At the noon adjournment, it was announced that Ben F. Cabell would be called in the afternoon. When the State offered the testimony of the convicts a sharp legal battle is scheduled as the defense will contend
they are ineligible as witnesses. Indications are that the hearing will last several days.

COMMISSION ADVOCATES MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Will Form Organization at City Hall
To Work For Their Charter
Plan

"A conference of friends of the commission for the improvement of the city hall (Chamber of Commerce rooms) Thursday, September 11 at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose
of organization. All favoring the movement are invited to attend."

The above notice was issued today
by several of the advocates of the commission form, an bill meeting is expected to start the bill rolling on behalf of the commission cities. An organization will be formed and it is expected to wage a vigorous campaign.

It is not known whether the opponents of the commission form will organize or not. Considerable opposition to the commission has developed and it is not unlikely that this will be crystallized in some way.

AMERICAN PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION IN SESSION.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 10.—
"Sanitation in Cuba; Its Progress,"
was the subject of an interesting address delivered at today's sessions
of the forty-first annual meeting of the American Public Health Association today, by Dr. Jorge LeRoy of Havana, Cuba. Dr. LeRoy told of the great progress that has been made
by the department of health of Cuba,
the head of which is a member of the president's cabinet. He declared that the United States, Canada and Mexico would do well to follow Cuba's
example and establish a department of health. Only in this way, he declared, could the federal government
properly combat disease and increase
health conditions of the country.

THAW SUDDENLY DEPORTED, UNDER ARREST AGAIN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

PRO VICTORY IN ARCHER COUNTY

TUESDAY'S ELECTION RESULTS
IN DRY MAJORITY OF ABOUT THIRTY

ANTI'S CONCEDE DEFEAT

With One Box Yet To Hear From,
Vote Stands 381 Dry and 351
For Saloons

Archer county will remain in the dry column as the result of Tuesday's local option election. Anti leaders
this morning conceded that the pros
had won by a majority of at least thirty votes. A complete tabulation
of the vote was not received here but
with one small box missing the vote
was 381 dry and 351 wet.

The results in the larger boxes as reported last night were: Archer City, 76 dry, 72 wet; Megargel 66 dry, 36
wet; Dundee 53 dry, 9 wet; Terrapin 9 dry, 29 wet; Windhorst 2 dry; 60
wet; Scotland 2 dry, 50 wet.

In the statewide prohibition election two years ago the county gave a dry majority of 35. In the last local option election about three years
ago the dry majority was about 115.
The county voted dry the first time
a number of years ago by a majority of three votes.

at Leipzig

By Associated Press.
Leipzig, Saxony, Sept. 10.—Two soldiers were killed and another Zeppelin dirigible balloon narrowly escaped destruction here today. The great German airship Z. 12, was wrecked
from the hands of 150 men and carried aloft by a sudden gust of wind.
The dirigible is still in the air.

COTTON GLOVE FACTORY AGREEMENT IS REACHED

Committee Comes to Terms With Mr.
Hilburn as to Terms of Contract for Plant

Mr. Hilburn, the cotton glove
manufacturer and the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce
have practically reached an agreement as to the draft of a contract
providing for the establishment of a factory here, but it will not be signed until after it is inspected by Mr.
Kemp who is now out of the city
and by other stockholders who are associated with Mr. Hilburn. The latter left this afternoon for El Paso.
The committee was favorably impressed with Mr. Hilburn.

CLAIMS HIS UNCLE SPIRITED HIM AWAY.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—John Farmer of Cleburne, Texas, who says he was kidnapped from Chicago when five years old, has asked the Chicago police to search for his parents.
Farmer believes his right name is John Fisher. According to his story
he was taken from his home by an uncle and spirited away on a train
in the night his uncle disappeared.
The boy was taken in charge by a negro porter and finally landed at Fort Worth, Texas. He was kept by various families until finally adopted
by a man named Farmer in Donley
county, Texas. He is now employed
by William Graham, Cleburne, Texas.

SCREAMING AND FIGHTING, IS RUSHED ACROSS BORDER

Wanders About Unmolested Un- til Rural Officer Arrests Him— Action Ordered By Authorities

By Associated Press.

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 10.—Harry K. Thaw wandered about the hills of Coos county, New Hampshire, for three hours today
after being thrust across the Canadian border at Norton Mills, Vermont, and was arrested by Sheriff Drew of Coos county at Little School House, five miles from Colebrook just before noon.

Thaw made no resistance and was brought immediately to Cole-brook. In his wanderings he was accompanied only by two newspaper men in an automobile.

He did not know where to go. After leaving Norton Mills, he stopped a few minutes at Averill, Vermont for breakfast and leaving there doubled back into Canada, re-entered Vermont at Canaan
and then crossed the Connecticut river into Stewartstown. Meanwhile no one attempted to detain him.

He was planning, when arrested, to strike a railroad and buy a through ticket to Detroit. He tried vainly to get into communication with his lawyers in Montreal.

Failing in this he resumed his blind journey, until detained by the sheriff. The sheriff had no warrant but held him as a fugitive from justice.

Is Set Free On Reaching Border

By Associated Press.

Cotacook, Sept. 10.—Harry K. Thaw was started for the Vermont border at eight o'clock this morning. As Thaw left the station here, under custody of deputy superintendent of immigration,
Robertson, he was protesting that it was a case of kid-napping.
Robertson answered that it was "all regular."

Thaw had been rushed out of the immigration pen without breakfast. The immigration officers would make no explanation except that they were acting under orders of the minister of justice. Thaw was taken at once toward the Vermont border in an automobile. He seemed to be screaming and fighting like a mad man.

On the way to the automobile, Thaw shouted at the top of his lungs that he was being kid-napped and immigration officers tried to quiet him with assurances that such was not the case. Nevertheless he fought hard and smashed a window with a bottle as the officers dragged him downstairs. The suddenness of the maneuver took Thaw and his counsel entirely by surprise. The destination of the automobile except that it was some place in Vermont, was unknown here to any persons except its passengers.

The automobile crossed the Vermont border at 8:55 this morning. Thaw was astonished when the Canadian immigration officials told him at Norton Mills, Vermont, that he was free to go wherever he liked. He got out of the Canadian automobile and stood gazing helplessly around until the newspaper men who had followed, offered him room in their car. He gladly accepted the offer. He said:

"This thing has been such a surprise to me that I don't know
yet what I shall do."

Armed with written orders to deport Thaw, Robertson came unhindered to Cotacook last night. Accompanied by two subordinates and two policemen, Robertson went to Thaw's quarters in the detention pen shortly before eight o'clock. Robertson told Thaw that he had orders to deport him to Vermont. Before Thaw could reply, Robertson ordered him to get ready at once, that an automobile was waiting for the dash to the border.

Immediately Thaw's surprise changed to fury. He refused to go and picking up a bottle hurled it at Robertson. The missile went wide. Robertson and his men seized the prisoner and ejected him from the room. After Thaw had departed, townspeople unloosed their indignation in a small public demonstration. Thaw was fifteen minutes away, well on the road to the international line
before the newspaper men learned what had happened.

Wanders About On Vermont Border

By Associated Press.

Averill, Vermont, Sept. 10.—Thaw arrived here at nine o'clock from Norton Mills, four miles away, and at this hour, was an absolutely free man, as nobody representing the State of New York or the State of Vermont was on hand to take him. Thaw reached Stewartstown shortly after ten o'clock. No attempt was made to arrest him there. He stood about the village square for about fifteen minutes, then re-entered his automobile without announcing his destination. About eleven o'clock he stopped at a farm house near Stewartstown then continued his journey.

Maer Building, Scott Avenue

Montevideo, URUGUAY'S FINE CAPITAL

"I SEE a mountain" exclaimed the first daring white navigator who rounded from the broad Atlantic into the mouth of the Rio de la Plata and searched the northern bank. Juan Diaz de Solis is said to have thus called and mayhap he made use of the expression. If he was personally of the lookout. At any rate, whoever said it and notwithstanding the fact that the mountain is little more than a good-sized hill, the Latin expression stuck, and its two words, now welded together, form the name of the splendid little modern capital of the Republic of Uruguay.

Little Capital? Well, yes—when compared in population with its two big neighbors, Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro—but even at that just about as big as the capital of the giant of all republics, the United States of America. In fact, in point of population, Montevideo and Washington are very nearly twins, each claiming a near approach to the 400,000 mark. However, the impression made upon the tourist is that there is nothing small about the Uruguayan capital. Its fine, substantial houses are large, its streets are wide and well paved, and its parks and plazas are beautiful and spacious, while the liberal hospitality of its people shows that their hearts are large as well.

Ideal Location.

The city has an ideal location on a fine bay, the eastern side facing the Atlantic and the southern fronting the Rio de la Plata. It is built on a peninsula that juts out into the water and forms the eastern extremity of this semicircular bay which forms the actual port, while on the ocean side the coast sweeps directly north for quite a distance, and it is here that are located the fine bathing resorts of which more anon, writes a correspondent for the Pan American Union.

Promptly at 8 o'clock we left the vessel for the wharf carriages awaited us for a sight-seeing tour of the city. Our drive took us first to the Plaza Matriz, a pretty square inclosed by some fine buildings, among them being the Cabildo or Parliament house; the Club Uruguay, the leading social organization for the wealthy Uruguayan; and the fine old cathedral, one of the ancient structures of the city, which dates back to the Spanish regime, and in which repose the remains of the first president of the republic and those of the first archbishop. Our time was too limited, however, to stop here, and we proceeded to the Plaza Independencia. This is a beautifully kept garden of trees, shrubs, and flowers, covering a space about 800 by 600 feet. Here may be seen the government house—which is also a relic of colonial days—the residence of the president of the republic, the splendid Teatro Solis, and the national museum. In every city visited in South America we found the leading theater to be one of the costliest and handsomest structures, and the Solis Theater was therefore not such a surprise. It ranks with the finest in the world, and such great artists as Patti, Bernhardt, Caruso and others, have appeared there. For Montevideo's amusement-loving public must have the greatest artists in the world to cater to its critical taste, regardless of expense.

The national museum, located close beside the Solis Theater, is worthy of more than passing notice, for it is one of the most interesting and instructive places in all South America. Here are gathered specimens of Uruguayan art, natural history, geology, and hundreds of objects of historical interest. The collection of Indian "bones" alone is a remarkable exhibition, for among the hundreds of these primitive weapons may be found specimens of every stone formation known to this section of the continent. Other weapons and primitive utensils of the aboriginal tribes found in the country, mounted specimens of the fauna of the country, relics of the wars of colonial days, and in the art gallery paintings by the early Uruguayan artists, as well as some of the old masters of Europe, may be seen. Several days could have been spent here in profitable study and enjoyment, but only a hasty glance was vouchsafed to those who were trying to see something of Montevideo in less than two days.

Modern Business Houses. From the Plaza Independencia our route lay up the fine Calle 18 de Julio, the street whose name perpetuates the date of the adoption of the constitution. This we found to be a broad street, lined with a succession of modern business houses.

The first residential section of the city we saw in the Paseo del Molino, and all were most favorably impressed with the clean, carefully kept villas invariably set in gardens of flowers. One of the handsomest structures we passed was that of the Argentine Legation. From the Paseo we drove through a double line of fine eucalyptus trees to the Prado, the Bois de Boulogne of Montevideo. This park is the pride of the beauty-loving citizens of Montevideo, and very justly so. The rolling plain has been transformed into a veritable garden of spacious extent, where groves of magnificent trees shade grassy dells and placid lakes. The well-known trees of our northern forests mingled with the natives of the semitropics. A grove of oaks was neighbor to a cluster of horsechestnuts, while the stately palms and slender bamboos might be seen close to the giant eucalyptus, and flowering shrubs and snowy water lilies lent more color to the scene. In many shady nooks rustic benches invited the weary to rest, and time alone was needed to enjoy the charm of the seclusion offered in this breathing place of the Uruguayan metropolis.

The route from the Prado to Pocitos, our next stopping place, was lined with handsome "quilatas," or villas, set in exquisite gardens. From the Prado we proceeded to some fine buildings, among them being the Cabildo or Parliament house; the Club Uruguay, the leading social organization for the wealthy Uruguayan; and the fine old cathedral, one of the ancient structures of the city, which dates back to the Spanish regime, and in which repose the remains of the first president of the republic and those of the first archbishop. Our time was too limited, however, to stop here, and we proceeded to the Plaza Independencia. This is a beautifully kept garden of trees, shrubs, and flowers, covering a space about 800 by 600 feet. Here may be seen the government house—which is also a relic of colonial days—the residence of the president of the republic, the splendid Teatro Solis, and the national museum. In every city visited in South America we found the leading theater to be one of the costliest and handsomest structures, and the Solis Theater was therefore not such a surprise. It ranks with the finest in the world, and such great artists as Patti, Bernhardt, Caruso and others, have appeared there. For Montevideo's amusement-loving public must have the greatest artists in the world to cater to its critical taste, regardless of expense.

ODDS AND ENDS

W. W. Jackson, formerly of Wichita Falls, but now in the mercantile business in California, is the subject of a story brought back from the West by J. A. Kemp. A man entered the Jackson store one day and made several small purchases, including a "penny's worth" of this, a "penny's worth" of something else, and so on. Mr. Jackson, unaccustomed to hearing a cent called a penny, tried to pick the native state of the customer.

Dry weather usually inspires a bunch of dry weather yarns, and the recent one in this section—it's all right to talk about it, now that it has rained—was no exception. Several farmers were telling each other how dry it was, and setting off the old ones about digging up wish bones and selling them for gas pipe, and about full grown frogs that had never learned to swim, when one member of the party sprung this:

"Well," he said, "it's been so dry out my way that my baby, two months old, has never shed a tear, though it's cried a lot."

He was right about it, too. A young baby never sheds tears, no matter how much it tries to. The tear ducts in the human eye are not sufficiently developed in a two-month-old infant for it to shed tears, either in dry or wet weather, and whatever weeping it does, is bound to be of the dry variety.

Nobody, of course, can keep accurate count of the new comers that arrive to make Wichita Falls their home, but it has been noticed in the past year or so, that the number of lawyers in this city has steadily increased. Most of the new attorneys formerly practiced in the smaller country seats of Northwest Texas and decided that Wichita Falls afforded larger opportunities, so that there are now from forty to fifty licensed attorneys in this city. Incidentally, it is learned on the quiet that two of the best known lawyers in Northwest Texas are planning to cast their lot here and will probably move before the year is over. Both are men of statewide reputation and Wichita Falls should be glad to welcome them, although their names can't be told yet.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Birmingham, Eng., Sept. 10.—"The discussion and controversies relating to the existence and functions of space, and to the physical continuity of which it is the chief element," was the subject discussed by Sir Oliver Lodge in his presidential address before the British Association, which opened its annual congress here today.

The British Association is the leading scientific body in Great Britain and Sir Oliver Lodge, whose researches into the unknown have assisted him to build up a world wide reputation, is England's most famous scientist. The continuity of life after death is popularly regarded as one of his favorite subjects, and some three thousand scientists gathered in the congress hall today to hear the views of the master.

The electrification of railways and wireless signals, the nationalization of canals and popular education are among the subjects to be discussed during the week the congress will be sitting. Professors of anthropology will be inquiring into prehistoric trade between England and France at the same time that a woman delegate is explaining to the physiologists the results of her studies of the behavior of guinea pigs. Women delegates will be much in evidence during the congress and for the first time in the association's history a woman will preside over one of the sections—Miss Ethel Sargent, who is president of the botanists. The suffragists will be heard when Charles Burt reads a paper on "Mental Differences Between the Sexes."

Mr. and Mrs. Staples and two children have returned from an automobile trip to Medicine Park.

Mrs. Hugh James and small son, John Bob, are visiting Mrs. James' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Young.

DIVIDE YOUR TIME BETWEEN DRESSMAKER AND LIBRARY.

Grace Margaret Gould, fashion editor of the Woman's Home Companion, makes the September issue of that periodical an advance autumn fashion number. Twenty pages of the issue are devoted to the latest news of styles.

While Miss Gould believes in women being fashionably dressed, she is against the eccentric, the immodest, the grotesque, or the conspicuous. She doesn't want women to dress so that people will turn around and stare at them. She wants them to look well, be comfortable, feel fashionable, and all this at a reasonable cost.

One of the most interesting parts of her report is the latest dress gowns—that which shows how fashions change in an educational side. She says that women will have to divide their time between their dressmakers and the public library, because the makers of fashions have, for this fall, the horror of the various countries more than ever before. The new fashions for the fall and winter show a decided Oriental tendency. China, Japan, Russia, Ancient Greece, and the wonderful gilded courts of the Louis have all been drawn upon for ideas.

The deep arm size in many of the new gowns is one of China's contributions. It is known as the Mandarin sleeve, a near relation of the kimono sleeve. China has also contributed many of the most fashionable new color combinations, such, for example, as the yellowish green gown touched with cerise and black. The wide Japanese sash drapery is being used, as well as the long Japanese collar, which originally was never seen except on a kimono. Japanese embroideries are very smart fashion touches today, and the short double tunics, with their new flowing tendencies, display them artistically. So much for the fashions that have come from the land of the cherry blossom.

Perhaps no country has done so much for the artistic in dress as classical Greece, says Miss Gould. This year its influence is so great that women are actually sacrificing their waist lines to be fashionable. Once it was the sacrifice of comfort to obtain the tapering, tight waist; now it's the sacrifice of the effect of Ancient Greece that is fashionable. It is imperative today to wear one's clothes with ease. The loose effect is modish. Other ideas taken from Russia and France, and adapted into the fall fashions are fully described by Miss Gould.

Attention A. F. & A. M. Wichita Falls lodge will confer the M. M. Degree Monday night, E. A. and F. C. Degree Tuesday night and the F. C. Degree Thursday night. All visiting Masons extended a cordial invitation. J. O. SMITH, W. M. CHAS. R. FULLER, Sec.

MUTUAL RELATIONS AND INTERESTS OF THE BELL SYSTEM AND THE PUBLIC

The suit brought by the United States questioning the purchase of certain telephone properties in northwest, as well as the pending Interstate Commerce Commission telephone investigation, have caused many inquiries. Without taking up anything going to the merits of these proceedings, it has seemed to us proper to state generally what has been our policy and purpose in the conduct of our business.

We have found, or thought that we had, that our interests were best served; and the public interests were best served; and we believe that such success as we have had has been because our business has been conducted on these lines.

We believe that our company has an interest as vital as that of the public in the proper administration of the problems of electrical intercommunication. The success had prosperity of our company depends upon a solution of these problems which shall be sound from both the standpoint of the company and the public which it serves.

Following our own best judgment, supplemented by the best obtainable advice, we have endeavored to do what would best serve the public interest wherever possible. Our plans have been disclosed to the public in advance, and what has been done in carrying them out has been along ordinary business lines, with the implied, and generally with the expressed approval, authorization or consent of the municipal and state authorities directly interested. Our effort has been not only to obey the law, but to avoid everything which might even have the appearance of an attempt at evasion.

Our business methods and policy, and practically all of the details as to the transaction of our business, are matters of common knowledge and are, and for many years have been, well known to the government. We will willingly furnish the government any additional information which is in our possession or under our control, and will cordially co-operate with it in obtaining such further information as it may require. Every possible assistance will be given by us to the courts in their effort to determine whether our policy is or has been inimical to the public interest. We desire that anything wrong be corrected; we will voluntarily rectify any wrong that may be pointed out to us; and, so far as it may be determined that our policy or any act under it is against the public interest, we will promptly conform to such determination.

We believe that if each of our exchanges were an independent unit, and if each connecting line were put under separate control, the effect upon the telephone service of the country would be a condition so intolerable that the public would immediately require such physical connection and control of these various units as would amalgamate them into a single system. Physical connection in the case of telephone exchanges does not mean transfer of messages from one line to the other. It means such a connection as will permit one person to have the actual possession of the particular line of communication from one end of it to the other. This can only be given efficiently by exchange systems and connecting lines under a common control; and that is what the Bell System is.

In this connection, and for general information, we will restate the policy which controlled the building up of the Bell System, and our belief as to what a telephone system should be, and what are its relations to the public.

We believe in and were the first to advocate state or government control and regulation of public utilities; that this control or regulation should be by permanent quasi-judicial bodies, acting after their own investigation and governed by the equities of each case; and that this control or regulation, beyond requiring the greatest efficiency and economy of operation, we believe that these bodies, if they are to be permanent, effective and in the public benefit, should be thoroughly representative; they should be of such character and should so conduct their investigations and deliberations as to command such respect from both the public and the corporations that both will without question accept their conclusions.

We believe that the public would in this way get all the advantages and avoid all the manifest disadvantages of public ownership.

We believe that centers of business and population exist for the convenience of the public as a whole, and that no such center can prosper without sufficient and efficient means of intercourse with other centers and tributary territories; that such means can only be afforded by prompt utility and service companies; and that fair rates are essential to prompt service. We do not believe that any public utility desires or can obtain, nor can any service or utility furnish, permanent and efficient service at less than cost, including capital charges. We believe that ultimately the public either directly or indirectly pays the losses involved in the effort to furnish such service at less than its fair cost of the capital involved, the losses incident to poor service or the necessary increase in charges required to pay for duplication of capital.

We believe that the highest commercial value of the telephone service depends on the completeness of the facilities for intercommunication, not only between individuals but between centers of population; that no isolated section can be considered independently of any other section or of the whole; that rates must be so adjusted as to make it possible to obtain the maximum development by making it possible for every one to be connected who will give the greatest value to the greatest number; that the interdependence of the telephone service and the value of complete and universal intercommunication justify and require some services partly at the expense of the whole for the benefit of the whole.

We believe that this highest commercial value can only be attained by one system under one common control and that it cannot be given by independent systems unless they are operated under agreements which result in one common control and one common interest, in effect making them a single system.

We believe that rates should be so adjusted as to afford the company sufficient revenue to pay such wages and compensation as will secure the most efficient service; to maintain the very highest and most advanced standards of plant and apparatus, to carry on such scientific and experimental research and inventions as to apparatus and methods as to insure the highest standards, and to carry to reserve and depreciation such amounts as will enable the company at any time to replace old plant and old methods with new plant and new methods as fast as they may be developed and found to be to the advantage of the service. We believe that in addition, such fair charges should be paid upon the investment in plant as will enable the company at any time to obtain money necessary to provide the plant required to meet the continuing demands of the public; and in order that there shall be duplication of effort may be avoided and the benefits of the public and common control be secured, that there should be centralized general administration in close communication with and having general authority over the whole on matters common to all or matters of general policy.

We believe that any surplus beyond that necessary to equalize dividends on a fair basis should be used by the company for the benefit of the public and should be available for any other purpose, and should be either invested in revenue-earning plant until necessary to substitute plant which may become inadequate or obsolete, or should be used to make the service cheaper or better.

We believe that under proper governmental control and regulation the profits from promotion or operation allowed to be distributed should not be so large as to warrant or tempt complete duplication of plant and organization, with its duplication of its capital charges and its organization, operating, maintenance and depreciation expenses; and we do not believe that utilities giving at fair rates an efficient and sufficiently comprehensive universal service should be subject to limited competition, not giving such service. Competition which ignores the obligation to furnish a complete and comprehensive service is not competition; it is not for the benefit of the public in that it does not reach the whole public interest.

If, therefore, complete duplication, with its duplication of capital charges and duplication of effort, is a gross waste to complete competition, government control and regulation cannot go hand in hand with competition.

We believe that the record of the Bell System will be accepted by the public as fully in accord with these declarations. Consistent adherence to this policy has given the public of the United States the best, most comprehensive and cheapest telephone service in the world and made the Bell standards the standards of all nations.

To remove any possible excuse for misapprehension on account of the many misleading statements which have been circulated as to the alleged unnecessary and overcapitalization and excessive charges of the Bell System, the following statistics are given. Except where stated, the figures are for the Bell System; that is, the American Telephone and Telegraph, and its Associated Companies.

The entire Bell System on June 30, 1913, had outstanding in the hands of the public obligations (i. e., notes, open accounts, bonds and shares) to the par value of $770,000,000.

The book value of the total tangible assets, which is considerably less than their replacement value, amounted to $600,000,000. Many appraisals of property included in these assets have been made, and most of them under the direction of public authorities. In no case has the value as it stands on the books failed to be sustained, and in most cases it has been very largely exceeded.

The total dividends and interest paid during the year 1912 amounted to only 0.1 per cent on the average of its outstanding obligations, and to less than 5 per cent on the average value of its assets.

The actual cash which has been paid into the treasury of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company on account of capital obligations now outstanding amounts to $22,000,000 more than the par value of such outstanding obligations.

The Associated Companies collected from the public and paid back to them over $10,000,000 during the year 1912.

The steadily increasing necessities of the public not only for additional but for new telephone service can only be met by new construction, involving capital outlay. To meet these demands during the six and one half years from 1907 to June, 1913, inclusive, the increase in telephone plant was as follows: Toll line wire increased from 1,400,000 miles to 2,212,000 miles; exchange wire increased from 6,000,000 to 12,000,000; the number of exchange stations increased from 2,730,000 to 3,200,000; the number of stations of independent companies connected with the Bell System increased from 243,000 to 2,620,000. The number of independent companies connected with the Bell System is about 25,000. The number of employees in the Bell System, not including the employees of connected companies, on December 31, 1912, was 141,000.

During this same period the number of shareholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, not including either the associated or connected companies, increased from 17,000 to about 51,000. About 17,000 shareholders hold less than 100 shares each; 6,500 shareholders hold from 10 to 1,000 shares each; 347 shareholders hold from 1,000 to 5,000 shares each, while there are only 16 shareholders of 5,000 shares or over in their own right. A majority of the shareholders are women.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 10, 1913

It seems that heretofore every time ex-President Roosevelt has written a story about lions some other fellow bobs up and gives us one on "nature fakers." The Colonel has turned loose his story, now watch for the other one.

We are now getting an average of one rain a day. They are light, to be sure, but are welcome just the same. Looks like the weather man was just training us up to see if we can stand a real sure enough gully washer and trash mover.

Waco is now about to enter into a contract with a Kansas City concern to furnish that city with gas from the Mexico gas field with the understanding that the maximum price to be charged is not to exceed 50c per 1000 feet. Our only object in making mention of this is to remind our people that they are getting natural gas for domestic purposes for just about 25c per 1000 feet, and for manufacturing purposes 10c down to as low as 4c per 1000 feet, according to amount used. Waco may not be able to that well.

The Canadian court has acquitted Mr. Jerome on the charge of gambling, and made due apologies for his arrest and incarceration. But even at that, the incident does not leave Mr. Jerome in the best light. In the name of the law he betted into the Texas affair, and so far forgot himself as to engage in a game of cards at the railway station in full view of all who might chance to pass. Whether he intended it or not, it looked like he had but little respect for the law in such matters, and depended on his prominence and standing as an American citizen to excuse him. In this his judgment was good. From his conduct, however, one is forced to conclude that he is little if any better than Thaw, the man whose deportation he was seeking.

Whether suffrage is to be extended to women or not, it is hardly likely they can possibly exercise poorer judgment in the selection of men and women to fill political offices than most of them do in the selection of their husbands.—Wichita Daily Times.

A guilty conscience needs no accuser; nobody had connected you with the proposition.—Fort Worth Record.

What we really want to say, but didn't is that they were as capable to pick efficient officials as they are to select good husbands. Guess that will explain matters.

We may be wrong about it, but if the report is true that American citizens in Mexico who are well provided with funds of their own are taking advantage of President Wilson to furnish free transportation to the United States to those who are financially unable to pay their own fares, it is pretty strong evidence they are not American citizens of the type desired, and the longer they remain away from home the better off will be our country. Some of them go the press dispatches tell us, even have the gall of nerve, or whatever you might prefer to call it, to demand transportation of the first-class. Beggars should never be choosers. A true American will part with his last dollar before he will ever accept charity from a friend, or from a government to which he professes loyalty. The United States has but little or no use of that kind of citizen, and the quicker they attach themselves to some other government the better off will our country be. Uncle Sam would much better afford to give all such first-class funeral and pay the expense with the understanding that their bodies should rest on foreign soil.

In yesterday's election in Archer county the pros won by a majority of thirty votes. If the election holds good and the law is to be enforced as some of the anti construe it, it will be a violation of the law to even buy a quart of liquor and give a friend a nip out of the bottle. However, that construction of the law was placed on it more for campaign purposes than for anything else. According to Judge P. A. Martin any man residing in dry territory, can still have the right to invade wet territory, supply himself with a reasonable amount of wet goods and go back home and invite his friends to sample his stock. This should reassure some of our friends in Archer who were led to believe by some campaign speakers that they would be denied this right and privilege, and for that reason, either did not vote at the election, or if they did, voted the wet ticket. On this account the usual pro majority in that county was cut considerably.

WELL IS FLOWING AT 2100 BARRELS

NEW RECORD FOR INITIAL PRODUCTION MADE BY RECENT COMPLETION

OLD WELL IS DEEPEMED

Is On R. S. Allen Tract and Is Owned By Producers—Breaks Two Field Records

Two records—one for initial production and one for total daily production—were broken in the Electra field late yesterday when the Producers company No. 1—Reese Allen, deepened to 1900 feet, came in for 2100 barrels.

This well was a producer in the 1600 foot sand for more than two years but recently had dwindled to such an extent that it was decided to drill deeper. The result was the best initial producer the field has ever seen. A few months ago the Producers completed a well on the Honaker for about 1700 barrels which was the record up to yesterday. The Allen well is still flowing vigorously at a 2100 barrel clip; it is in the northwest corner of the south half of Block 224 of the Waggoner Colony.

The well was drilled nearly three years ago by the Electra Oil and Gas Co., being a fair producer in the shallow sand. Later it was the property of Clint Wood and was bought by the Producers about two years ago.

Reports of production in the Northwest Texas field, published in The Times of Sunday, showed the total to be very close to 30,000 barrels daily. This new producer, with other smaller ones drilled in since the figures were compiled, brings the field's total production well above the 32,000 barrel mark. Reese Allen, owner of the land on which the record breaker was drilled, and who will draw down an additional royalty of something like $250 per day, is now in Colorado.

"SIN KILLER" CLAIMING CREDIT FOR THE RAINS

Declares He Made Good on His Promise to Bring Wet Weather to This City

"Sin Killer" Griffin, the negro preacher who is conducting services here has decided to whom the credit for the rain belongs. It belongs to him; he says so himself.

"Sin Killer" declared when he first arrived, last Saturday, that he was going to get a rain here, seeing that one was needed very badly. That evening there was a very light sprinkle and the next day a sure enough rain came. Since then other rains have followed. Sin Killer tells of having brought a rain to Sherman, also one to Kaufman, when precipitation was needed at those points and he is quite sure that he alone is responsible for the moisture here.

It has been so wet that the plans for meetings at the corner of Tenth and Ohio, where Sin Killer was to have preached nightly, have been badly interrupted.

Thaw Suddenly Deported, Under Arrest Again In New Hampshire

Declares Deportation Legal

By Associated Press.

Ottawa, Ontario, Sept. 10.—C. J. Dougherty, as acting minister of the interior department today said he had rejected Thaw's appeal from the decision of the immigration board of inquiry upholding the findings of the board and ordering the deportation of Thaw immediately. This order was carried out this morning. The writ of habeas corpus or writ of prohibition issued at Montreal, Mr. Dougherty said, did not enjoin the immigration authorities from taking this step.

"Dumfounded" Say His Lawyers

By Associated Press.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Members of Thaw's family and his lawyers here were dumfounded when they learned the fugitive had been deported. Attorney Greenshields said: "I am simply dumfounded."

Jerome Surprised At Latest Move

By Associated Press.

Manchester, Vermont, Sept. 10.—At North Adams, Massachusetts, W. T. Jerome en route to New York was notified today of Thaw's arrest at Colebrook. He said immediately he would proceed there. Jerome expressed great surprise that the Canadian officials had not notified him of their intention to deport Thaw. He learned that notification was sent to the authorities in Vermont, but so late, he said, as to make it impossible for anyone to reach Norton Mills in time to arrest Thaw.

PURE FOOD LAW USELESS IN RURAL COMMUNITIES

Chief Chemist of Department of Agriculture Discusses Operation of Statute

By Associated Press.
Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 10.—City dwellers alone are protected by the federal pure food law, according to Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, who told delegates to the annual convention of the American Public Health Association that the health interests of rural communities were being sacrificed to the great centers through the inaction of State health authorities. He reminded them that federal control was limited to interstate commerce and had no authority to undertake inspection of food within the borders of any state.

"The probability, therefore," said Dr. Alsberg, "is that there are upwards of 70,000,000 of our $1,000,000 people who have no efficient and systematic protection from the major causes of the spread of typhoid, tuberculosis, deadly intestinal diseases of infants, scarlet fever, septic sore throat, trichinosis and other ailments resulting from the circulation of disease producing organisms."

The solution of the problem, the speaker urged, was to be found in a more rigid and energetic enforcement of state health laws. "A factory may be run under the most unsanitary conditions," he continued, "milk may be done by a man recovering from scarlet fever, or milk may be produced on a farm where a member of the family is suffering from typhoid, and the federal authorities have no power to act. Even if these products are shipped across a state line and samples are taken, there is no method for analyzing a product which can supply evidence that the food is produced in unsanitary ways or within contaminating reach of epidemic or endemic diseases. State authorities, however, can enter these factories and need not wait for shipments to cross state lines and, therefore, provide only that their laws are effective and the funds at their disposal adequate, can prevent the sale of these deadly, unlabeled foods."

The products Dr. Alsberg considered most dangerous, and, therefore, which should be most carefully watched, did not enter largely into interstate trade. They included milk and other dairy products, water, fish and shell fish, candy and in fact, "all food that is eaten raw or is shipped exposed to the air."

With the declaration that the pure food law was "largely an economic measure," in that it compelled principally accurate branding of goods entering into interstate commerce, Dr. Alsberg said the department of agriculture was considering an extension of its powers "in order to protect further the rural communities."

"The department feels it should give more attention to the protection of these communities," he said. "This means that the work hitherto largely confined to detection of the presence of preservatives in labeled foods which do not carry organic diseases, and the prosecutions for misbranding which might work a me on the consumer, should be widely and rapidly extended to the control of interstate commerce in the dangerous unlabeled foods which can transmit and which do transmit serious diseases. Plans for extending this work to interstate shipments of milk all over the country have already been made. It is the plan of the department to do more than exercise merely police control over interstate shipments."

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC!

A good deal has been said about the name "BRIN" being on my signs and wagons, and in order that my friends and the public generally may know why this is, will say that the firm name Freear-Brin Furniture Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of Texas, and it would be impossible for me to change this without the consent of the stockholders.

Through courtesy to Mr. Brin I have not used his name in any of my advertisements trying to avoid as much as possible the use of his name. And I can assure all that nothing would give me more pleasure than to remove his name from the places on which it now appears. However, the firm name still remains the same and will until the stockholders see fit to change it.

Very respectfully,

LOCAL BROOM MAKERS OUT, AND PLANT CLOSED

Controversy Over New Contract Causes Men to Go Out—Negotiations Under Way

Fourteen broommakers employed by the Wichita Falls Broom Manufacturing Company have been on a strike since last Friday. While only fourteen men went out the strike resulted in the closing of the entire plant affecting a number of other workers.

The strike followed the expiration of the contract between the company and the broommakers and the men asked concessions the management was not prepared to grant. While both sides are apparently firm in their positions negotiations are still in progress with the hope that an amicable settlement can be reached and the factory be reopened and the men go back to their work.

No attempt has been made to bring in strike breakers neither is it intimated that any such attempt will be made.

Diagnosed the Case. An elderly doctor, who was as peppy as a cayenne pod, was from time to time sprung upon by the practical joker.

On one occasion a well dressed young fellow called and asked the doctor to prescribe for a headache and rash on his left arm. The doctor examined the limb and pronounced it to be a bad case of psoriasis and eczema.

"I suppose, doctor, you can cure it?" said the patient.

"Why, certainly," replied the doctor. "How long will it take to get well?"

"Oh, I should say about two months," said the doctor.

"Quite sure? Is it a bad case?"

"Positively the worst I've seen."

"Then I will leave it with you and call for it again when cured," solemnly said the patient, slowly unfastening his arm, which was an artificial one, and painted for the occasion.

Just Glimpses. A group of small boys stood on the gallery of a little cottage in a quiet side street; they were very small boys; also they were very much wrapped up and absorbed in something that was taking place just inside the window. They were crowding about the sill, peering over each others' shoulders, nudging each other for seeing space.

Curiosity prompted a passer-by to stoop silently up the steps. Inside the window was another and still smaller boy; he was the center of a group of three; the other two boys were tipping the wee boy's head back—so far that it seemed as though his neck would break. One assisted the very small chap to keep his mouth open by grasping his chin and forehead firmly in two very dirty hands. The two bigger boys were looking out upon the crowd with all the pride of sideshow exhibitors.

"Can you see 'em?" called one of the proud assistants of the small boy. The doctor says he's got white spots in his throat."

Bees Infest a Church. Montclair, N. J.—Bees which infest the First Congregational church here are so numerous that an acid will be poured into the interstices of the wall to drive them away. Their buzzing is annoying, and it is said several persons have been stung during services.

Handel in England. "Handel is not a mere composer in England; he is an institution. What is more, he is a sacred institution. When his 'Messiah' is performed the audience stands up, as if in church, while the 'Hallelujah Chorus' is being sung. It is the nearest sensation to the elevation of the Host known to English Protestants. Every three years there is a Handel festival, at which his oratorios are performed by 4,000 exponents, collected from all the churches in England. The effect is sublime, and everybody declares it holy. Many of the songs in these oratorios were taken by Handel from his operas and set to pious words; for example, 'Rejoice ye in the Lord, now and forever' has become 'Lord, remember David; teach him to know thy ways.' If any one in England were to take the song from the oratorio and set it back again to secular words he would probably be prosecuted for blasphemy."—George Bernard Shaw in Albany.

LEGACY OF $2000 LEFT UNCLE SAM

REQUEST TO BE ACCEPTED AFTER ELEVEN YEARS ARGUMENT OVER IT

LEFT BY CHILDLess MAN

"Father of Money Order System" Leaves Most to Further His Chosen Life Work

Washington, Sept. 10.—Acceptance by Congress of a bequest of $2,000 made under one of the most unique and unusual conditions in the government's history, is a problem facing Congress and the postoffice department today.

That the postal money order system be officially and legally recognized as the "child" and legatee of a deceased government official has been solemnly recommended to Congress by Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery. For eleven years the bequest has been available. Now the postoffice department recommends that the money be accepted and used as a trust fund in accordance with the will of the donor.

Dr. C. F. McDonald, formerly of Boston, the father of the money order system, is the government's beneficiary. He died in 1902, leaving $2,000 to Uncle Sam for the extension and betterment of the federal service.

For eleven years lawyers of the department of justice, the postoffice department and Congress have been unable to decide what to do with the money. A treasury draft for the legacy has lain idle in the office of the chief clerk of the postoffice department since that time. Now it is proposed that Congress formally pass a law accepting the money and appoint a commission for its use as directed by the testator.

Dr. McDonald's will provided: "The sum of $2,000 to be the property of the postoffice department to be used by the postmaster general in such way as he may deem expedient for the improvement of the postal money order system of the United States."

The will was duly probated and the $2,000 turned over to the treasury department by the administrator of Dr. McDonald's estate. Legal sharps of the government read ponderous tomes and many long opinions, holding that the money order could not be accepted by Uncle Sam, although the money was a trust in the treasury subject to the draft given the postoffice department. Succeeding administrations puzzled with the legacy, but could not touch it.

In 1905, former Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts, sought to solve the problem by introducing legislation to have the money released by the government and turned over to a distant relative of Dr. McDonald, who was an employee of the postoffice at Boston. The federal lawyers got busy again and decided that this could not be done; they held that while the government could not accept or use the legacy in the absence of legislation by Congress, neither could it give the money to McDonald's relative.

For seven years the matter was held in abeyance with the $2,000 awaiting disposition. The money was not officially "inherited" by the new democratic administration. Assistant Postmaster General Dockery recently transmitted to Congress, through Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary of the Treasury, McAdoo, a letter recommending that Congress authorize the department to accept and use the bequest. Dockery's letter, stripped of its official "red-tape" terms with human interest. He said:

"Dr. McDonald was the father of the money order system and its first superintendent. He founded the system in the United States and made it the life work, devoting to its success all the time and energy. Childless, he watched the growth of this creature of invention until it came to be the greatest and most successful system of its kind in the world, and it seems natural enough that his pride in that success assumed the attitude of a parent toward a favorite child. Viewed in this light, the bequest by which he endeavored to insure continued improvement of the service, when his far seeing mind could no longer direct the policies and safeguard the interests of the system, is easily understood and seems to impose upon the department as a trust the duty of making all reasonable efforts to fulfill his wishes."

"Law officers unite in pronouncing the bequest valid and the title of the United States perfect. Therefore, in order to enable the department to realize the testator's wish and thus honor his memory by efforts to advance the interests of the service, I suggest that the whole matter be again referred to Congress with a recommendation that its formal sanction be given to acceptance of the gift, and that the amount of the be-

CLEVELAND SUFFRAGETTES TRYING TO EDUCATE MEN.
Cleveland, O., Sept. 10.—Cleveland suffragettes today held a fair "for the education of mere men." Several score mere men were entered in the breadmaking, cakebaking, sewing and darning contests. Blue ribbons are to be awarded to winners. The food cooked by the men will be eaten at the supper which is to be served at six o'clock. At noon today, when this announcement was made, a score or more attending the fair declared they have previous supper engagements.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Wichita Falls Readers Cannot Deny

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

P. W. Nolen, 1100 Indiana St., Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Harrington's Drug Store and was relieved of pains across my kidneys that had made every move one of misery. In the morning the trouble was worse. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and I consider them a fine remedy for regulating the kidney action and removing trouble with the kidney secretions. I willingly confirm the testimonial I gave some years ago."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

TRAIL OF THE SERPENT

By A. F. BONNEY.

Mollie Chapman stood in the doorway of her ranch house home. "You are just mad at me, Charley Farrel," she cried, "cause I went riding with Mr. McIntyre."

"I don't just trust these tenderfeet who come browsing around in store clothes," he replied.

"Jealous, ain't you?" she jeered.

"No, not jealous," he said, low and quiet-like, "only, I love you."

"I love you, I love you," she mocked. "I don't believe you love a thing on earth except yourself and that brute of a pony you ride."

"Of course I love Nig," he said, "and so do you."

She stared unwinkingly at the distant mountains. Still, I love you better than anything else in the world, Mollie.

"Jim Noman told me the same thing only yesterday."

Farrel left her abruptly.

Presently, as she worked, a voice from a nearby window startled her.

"May I come in, Miss Mollie?" it said.

"Why, Mr. McIntyre, where did you come from?"

"Same old place," he conically.

"And what brought you here?" innocently.

"Same old thing—no—I mean—the same."

"Your horse?" ignoring his meaning glances.

"Well, I rode the pony, of course," he laughed, "as I am much too lazy to walk."

However, I did not come to see the horse," with a suggestive accent on the "see."

"Want to see dad?" clattering the dishes she was washing.

"Saw him on the way over."

"Maybe you want to see Mr. Farrel?" he asked.

"Charley? Oh, he is down at the corral, playing with Nigger. No, Mollie."

Turned at the First Sound of the Man's Voice.

He, I came to see you," leaning in at the window and trying to take her hand.

She turned on him in blind, unreasonable fury.

"You just want to see me," she stormed. "Well, look at me, with your big, green eyes, Chase McIntyre, and what do you see? Think I'm a fool?"

"What have I ever done to cause you to talk so to me?"

"Jim Noman says—"

"He says," came a snarling voice from behind McIntyre, "that yer a—"

—sneak, trying to get yer iron onto other people's cattle."

McIntyre had turned at the first sound of the man's voice to find himself looking into the muzzle of a pistol.

Mollie scrambled through the window.

"Jim Noman, you quit!" she screamed.

McIntyre thrust the girl aside, an act of chivalry which saved his life, for his enemy fired the instant he moved, and while the bullet missed his heart, it shattered his arm. There was another spurt of flame and smoke, and the girl hid her face in her arms, that she might not see. Then she heard a steady voice.

"Now you hit the trail, Jim Noman," and looked up to see the man holding his mangled hand, which he gazed at in horror, with Farrel standing by, smoke still curling from the muzzle of his gun.

Bandaging the wounded arm as best he could, Farrel started to get his horse to go for the doctor, thirty miles away. When he returned for a final word with his patient he found Mollie just outside the door, weeping bitterly.

"I did not think you cared so much for him, Mollie," he said, "or I'd have hit the trail long ago."

He stopped when he saw McIntyre's face over the girl's shoulder, a new pain in every feature.

"I always gave you credit for having a little horse sense, Charley," he said. "I'm hurt in more ways than one, old man," he said, his lips twitching, "but take her, and may God bless you both."

When McIntyre recovered from a deadly swoon, Mollie's face was on his pillow, which was wet with her tears.

"I—tried to—to love you, Mr. McIntyre—Chase," she sobbed, "but I found I loved Charley, you see. And—and I'm only fit to be a cowman's wife anyway, you know."

"Yes, Mollie, I know," he said, turning his face to the wall.

CHINA'S JOAN OF ARC

Miss Shen Pei Ching Is Leader of Suffragettes.

Her Energy and Intelligence and Charming Manners Command Respect. An Intelligent Official Took Part in Revolution.

Peking, China.—When the ballots of China's first presidential election were counted it was found that a woman had received three electoral votes. The little person who thus boldly contested honors with Dr. Sun Yat Sen was Miss Shen Pei Ching, the commander of the amazon corps which formed a part of the revolutionary army. With a burning desire to emulate Joan of Arc she had organized a company of infantry composed of maidens as courageous and patriotic as herself. She had secured for them arms, uniforms and equipment and had drilled them in the latest military tactics. At Nanking these resolute maidens could be seen marching to battle, each carrying a heavy rifle and several cartridge belts. While they were never allowed to go into action no one doubted that the amazons would have fought valiantly had they been given an opportunity.

Before and during the revolution the amazons had rendered distinguished services to the revolutionary party. They acted as messengers, carrying documents which the revolutionary leaders dared not intrust to the mails. They served as spies in the very stronghold of the imperialists. They smuggled arms and ammunition to the secret revolutionary societies which flourished in every part of the empire. It never occurred to the police that the baggage of innocent-looking high school girls might contain rifles and revolvers destined to be used in the overthrow of the government.

Sometimes an over-zealous customs officer in rummaging through their trunks might find implements of war carefully concealed beneath delicate feminine garments. Perhaps a cog glance and a smile from the owner of the contraband baggage would deter him from reporting the matter, but if he did his duty the poor girl would be handed over to the police, who would put her to death by torture. Many girls thus suffered martyrdom for liberty, but none ever betrayed the cause or told the names of her comrades.

Soon after the establishment of the republican government in Nanking the amazons, headed by Miss Shen, took the lead in demanding the right of suffrage for women. They pointed out to the republican leaders that the women of China had worked for the revolution quite as hard as the men. The assembly in Nanking was largely composed of men who had been leaders in the revolutionary secret societies. These men, being thoroughly familiar with the work of the amazons previous to and during the revolution, could not find it in their hearts to deny them their wish. The assembly in Nanking, accordingly, passed a law giving women the right to vote.

When the overthrow of the Manchus had been accomplished President Sun Yat Sen retired in favor of Yuan Shih-kai, who was then elected president. Soon after Yuan's election the assembly was moved from Nanking to Peking. The conservative atmosphere of Peking seems to have caused the legislators to repent of their action in granting women the right to vote. At any rate, the law was allowed to become a dead letter in so far as the national government was concerned. Several of the southern provinces, however, kept the compact and allowed women to vote and even to hold office.

Though disappointed at the apparent lack of faith on the part of the national assembly, the suffragettes were not disheartened. Under the leadership of Miss Shen they began a national campaign for women's suffrage. They established branches of their society in most of the large cities of China and sent out lecturers to address mass meetings and to hold conferences. They began to publish newspapers, pamphlets and circulars in the interest of their cause.

Miss Shen is admirably fitted for the position of leader of the Chinese suffragettes.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Kaiser Wilhelm has become a "teetotaler." This report of the ruler of the country famous for the finest beer and choicest wines in the world has come as a distinct shock to two of the biggest industries in Germany. These fear that he may become an ardent advocate of the growing temperance movement in the Fatherland.

The latest development in the character of the many-sided Kaiser, according to persons in close contact with him, is a decided antipathy to all alcoholic drinks. This has grown to an extent that he virtually never touches liquor any more. He has not drunk beer for several years and now he has also barred wine.

This is not a sudden notion of the Kaiser nor is he seeking to emulate the example of Secretary of State Bryan. It is said to be the gradual development from moderate drinking to abstinence covering a period of several years and now resulting from the personal conviction that alcohol is injurious to the individual and an obstructive factor in the development of a nation.

It is not so many years ago that the Kaiser, in a speech, showed his appreciation of a "drop" and praised the noble wine from the terraced vine clad hills of the Rhine. "The German must always have a little alcohol," he remarked. "Never anything more than a moderate drinker, Wilhelm one day surprised his suite with the remark that beer wasn't good for him. And he hasn't been seen drinking any beer since. About the same time a mineral water appeared on the market, with the label, "His Majesty's table drink."

Statistics of the havoc caused in Germany by immoderate use of alcohol is said to have made a deep impression on the Kaiser. Germany is known as a nation of moderate drinking rather than for unusual drunkenness. And yet it is shown that drink causes annually 16,000 suicides; 1,300 accidents; 30,000 cases of delirium tremens and insanity, and 180,000 crimes. More than sixty per cent of the insane, fifty-two per cent of the epileptics, forty-six per cent of the criminals and eighty-two per cent of the immoral women are reported to have been born of drunk parents.

The Kaiser's favorite drink now is lemonade with a dash of orange juice

Startling Change in 29 Wichita Falls Kitchens

$1.00 Will Work This Miracle in Your Home. Join the Hoosier Club Tomorrow

Instead of cluttered, confused kitchen tables with everything out at once and no place to put it, these women are now enjoying the delightful order brought by the Hoosier Cabinet.

They joined the Hoosier Club, paid $1.00, and had a Hoosier delivered immediately. They now are saving miles of steps and hours of time and standing.

For the famous Hoosier not only makes work surprisingly easy, but it saves so much time that you are through before you know it.

These women are going to have plenty of time for pleasure, as do the other half million Hoosier owners.

And above all, each will be rested enough to enjoy this leisure and pleasure; as you will be, if you don't wait too long and find the last Hoosier membership taken.

All This Comfort for $1.00

By calling on us early tomorrow you may still be able to join the Hoosier Club we are forming.

This means that merely $1.00 puts the Hoosier in your kitchen, making it a comfortable, easy pleasant place to work.

The single dollar admits you to the Hoosier Club, and is applied on the price of your cabinet. We deliver at once and set up in your kitchen, all ready to use. Weekly membership dues of only $1.00 quickly pay the balance.

The low national cash price of your Hoosier is quoted everywhere by the Hoosier Company, who supervises this entire club.

You pay not a penny

extra to get your cabinet on this celebrated plan.

You are a Happy Hoosier Owner without ever missing the money.

Only Complete Cabinet

Every modern labor-saving machine for the kitchen has been tested by the Hoosier Company to bring the Hoosier Cabinet to its present perfection. It is the only scientifically built cabinet, and the only one that is a complete kitchen machine. Every cabinet offered to Hoosier Club members is the newest model fully equipped.

Grasp Your Opportunity

Over half of our limited allotment is sold already. All we have left will be taken by a handful of lucky women, and luck in this case means "call early."

When these few are taken we shall have to close the club simply because we have no more cabinets to offer. With 4,000 Hoosier agents all conducting Hoosier Clubs, and every one of the 4,000 clamoring for cabinets, the Hoosier Company strictly limits our allotment which is far less than we need.

You women who wait, we are afraid will delay too long, as this is your fine chance this year. A few more women get these remarkable labor savers for $1.00—and then the last club this year is closed. Be one of the fortunate few.

Head the list tomorrow morning. Our store is open at 8 o'clock.

Exclusive Hoosier Features

1. You can clean the metal flour bin without inconvenience of removing. No other bin has this feature. Easily filled, because the top is low. Holds 15 pounds more than any other. Best and fastest sifter.
2. Can't break, can't leak, metal, dust-proof sugar bin.
3. Pure aluminum table at no extra charge; costs manufacturers ten times as much as zinc. Enormous output keeps sale price less.
4. You can open all doors freely, no matter what you pile on the table, because it slides out.
5. Crumbs can't stick in the new metal self-closing bread and cake box.
6. Flavoring extract bottles have special shelf.
7. You can't lose the new swing lids on the twelve crystal glass spice, coffee, tea, salt and cereal jars.
8. Sixteen inches extension over the base when you slide out the table. Plenty of knee room for sitting.
9. Comes apart to clean; closes tightly when not used.
10. Pick your choice of white or plain inside upper section. All-metal table, or oak side arms.
11. Interior construction that is not equaled anywhere—will last a lifetime.
12. And among the minor details—big cupboards; sliding shelf; drawers for linen, cutlery; pan racks; meat board; rolling pin rack; hooks; want list, and scores of practical conveniences.

You can't begin to appreciate them all until you see them.

KAISER WILHELM ON WATER WAGON

HAS PRACTICALLY GIVEN UP THE USE OF INTOXICANTS ALTOGETHER

WATER, NOT GRAPE JUICE

Lemonade Also Favorite Beverage of Emperor—Temperance Propaganda in Germany

(By Karl H. Von Weizsacker, Berlin correspondent of the U. P.)

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Kaiser Wilhelm has become a "teetotaler." This report of the ruler of the country famous for the finest beer and choicest wines in the world has come as a distinct shock to two of the biggest industries in Germany. These fear that he may become an ardent advocate of the growing temperance movement in the Fatherland.

The latest development in the character of the many-sided Kaiser, according to persons in close contact with him, is a decided antipathy to all alcoholic drinks. This has grown to an extent that he virtually never touches liquor any more. He has not drunk beer for several years and now he has also barred wine.

This is not a sudden notion of the

Kaiser nor is he seeking to emulate the example of Secretary of State Bryan. It is said to be the gradual development from moderate drinking to abstinence covering a period of several years and now resulting from the personal conviction that alcohol is injurious to the individual and an obstructive factor in the development of a nation.

It is not so many years ago that the Kaiser, in a speech, showed his appreciation of a "drop" and praised the noble wine from the terraced vine clad hills of the Rhine. "The German must always have a little alcohol," he remarked. "Never anything more than a moderate drinker, Wilhelm one day surprised his suite with the remark that beer wasn't good for him. And he hasn't been seen drinking any beer since. About the same time a mineral water appeared on the market, with the label, "His Majesty's table drink."

Statistics of the havoc caused in Germany by immoderate use of alcohol is said to have made a deep impression on the Kaiser. Germany is known as a nation of moderate drinking rather than for unusual drunkenness. And yet it is shown that drink causes annually 16,000 suicides; 1,300 accidents; 30,000 cases of delirium tremens and insanity, and 180,000 crimes. More than sixty per cent of the insane, fifty-two per cent of the epileptics, forty-six per cent of the criminals and eighty-two per cent of the immoral women are reported to have been born of drunk parents.

The Kaiser's favorite drink now is lemonade with a dash of orange juice

prepared from a recipe which the Empress originated. It is made with mineral water and prepared in a hollowed pineapple and makes a really delicious and satisfying drink.

To those who have had their jabs at the expense of Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan, it may come as a surprise that Kaiser Wilhelm has upon several occasions drunk toasts with water.

Unlike Bryan, however, the Kaiser doesn't insist that others also drink water. There is always wine on the table for those who like it and want it. The Kaiser is said to have laughed heartily when he heard of Bryan's grape juice banquet to the foreign corps in Washington and remarked, "Well, a little water or something soft won't do the diplomats any harm."

Drinks Water at Banquets.

When the Kaiser sits at table, a hedge of flowers, cleverly arranged, invariably screens his plate from the majority of the guests. Under this armor he hidden his glasses. Some of them are colored and it is practically impossible to tell when his Majesty drinks water and when he drinks wine when toasting his guests.

While swearing in the naval recruits in Wilhelm shaven this spring, he openly drank the toast in water. Recently when he was asked whether he might drink his health in water or grape juice, he is said to have replied that he did not have the slightest objection to the practice.

It cannot be said that much fuss is being made in the press or the public over the Kaiser's latest plan to quit any kind of alcoholic drinking. While the temperance movement is making steady gains in Germany, total abstinence on the part of the Emperor is decidedly unpopular in many influential circles. Only a few months ago the minister of education in one of the South German states refused to permit the establishment of a Good Templars Lodge on the ground that the movement threatened one of the most important industries in Germany and should not be encouraged.

PRISONER KILLED WHEN HE BREAKS FOR LIBERTY

Committed To Jail For Contempt, He Runs and Is Shot Down By Sheriff

By Associated Press.

Palo Pinto, Texas, Sept. 10.—Gus Height, a prisoner committed to jail for contempt of district court, was shot and killed here late yesterday by Sheriff A. C. Jordan when he attempted to escape from the sheriff on the way to the county jail.

Height was on trial for assault and murder and the jury in his case was deliberating when the sentence of three days in jail with a $100 fine for contempt, was pronounced. Height made a break for liberty as soon as the sheriff left the court room.

SAN ANGELO COMPANY WOULD BORE DEEP WELL.

San Angelo, Texas, Sept. 10.—Efforts are being made here to organize a company composed of local citizens to sink a deep test well. Upon several occasions in the past some money has been subscribed, but never a sufficient amount to bore a well. Geologists say there are splendid indications of oil beneath the surface of San Angelo.
