TRIALS & TRAVEL in PERSIA

PERSIAN'S THRESHING CORN

IN THE heart of Peking, close to the gates of the imperial palace, the legation quarter stretches along the huge wall of the inner or Tartar city and covers an area a mile long by a half a mile wide. Before the Boxer uprising of 1900 there was no legation quarter distinct and separate from the rest of the city. The legations were then scattered in and about Chinese shops and houses in that part of the city now definitely set apart for the residences of foreign envoys.

After the siege of the legations by the Boxers the foreign powers decided that it was necessary to fortify the legations and to maintain permanent guards for their protection. The Chinese buildings in the area set apart for the legations were demolished and the grounds of the respective legations were enlarged. A high fortified wall was built on three sides of the legation quarter, while on the fourth the wall of the Tartar city was occupied by soldiers of the American and German legation guards.

Defended by Moat and Glacis. In order to render the order more defensible a deep moat was dug outside the fortified wall and outside of this a large space was cleared of houses. This open space, which surrounds the quarter on three sides, is called the glacis and is used as a drill ground by the troops of the various legation guards. Viewed from the wall of the Tartar city the legation quarter with its palatial buildings, all erected in western style, presents a striking contrast to the rest of Peking, with its curved roofs, pylos and pagodas.

Eleven of the fourteen nations represented in Peking have their legations located inside of the legation quarter. Each legation has a spacious compound in which there is a group of large, modern buildings. Besides the residences of the minister, each legation has houses for the legation secretaries, interpreters and clerks. Attached to each legation, excepting the Spanish, there are barracks for the soldiers of the legation guard and houses for their officers. Besides the legation the quarter also contains the offices of the Chinese customs service, which is managed by foreigners, seven foreign banks, representing the financial interests of European and American capitalists doing business in China, several commercial establishments, and a large European hotel.

There are few communities in the world more cosmopolitan than the legation quarter of Peking. In the course of an hour one may hear most of the languages of Europe and Asia spoken. There is, however, no confusion of tongues, as everybody speaks English, which is the "lingua franca" of the far east. One is impressed by the international character of the place more by the uniforms of the military than by anything else. Simply by walking down Legation street and observing the sentries at the various legation gates one may see the uniforms of the world's greatest armies.

By taking a promenade around the glacis one may observe the military tactics of many nations. Near the front gate of the imperial palace one sees a company of Uncle Sam's soldiers of the marine corps drilling; across the street on the Russian glacis there are cosacks performing wonderful feats of horsemanship; further up toward the pink wall of the imperial cit some of King George's royal fusiliers are engaged in signal practice; to the north of the legation wall the Japanese, Italians and Austrians are drilling furiously; on the east glacis the celebrated French Infantry Colonne are performing evolutions, while to the south, near the Tartar wall, the Germans are maneuvering huge field guns.

Social Formis English. In Peking, as in the far east generally, the social customs are dictated by the English. This accounts for the formality which characterizes most of the social functions in the legations. The custom of dressing for dinner is very generally observed. During the social season there are balls and dinners in the legations almost every night. At these functions great care is exercised to seat people according to their rank and dignity. In order to facilitate this rather ticklish task

Longview—D. B. Coates, an adroit newspaper man has established a new weekly publication here entitled the a book is issued by the diplomatic corps giving the rank and station of every official, foreign and Chinese, in Peking. In case of officials having the same rank the one who has stayed longest in Peking takes precedence. Every woman receives callers and serves tea on a certain day of each week. Most of these teas are delightfully informal, but many have a stiffness which makes them a social duty rather than a pleasure.

The legation balls in Peking are brilliant affairs, suggesting the splendor of "European" courts. The bright uniforms of the military officers and the Parisian gowns of the women give color and elegance to the scene. The ministers and secretaries do not wear their diplomatic uniforms at legation functions, but there is usually a great display of royal decorations. The military orchestra, half hidden behind palms and ferns, besides rendering the necessary music, also furnishes its quota of color, especially if it is composed of British redcoats. Under the Manchu regime the color scheme of the legation functions was further enhanced by the embroidered silk gowns of the Manchu princesses and the Chinese mandarins.

For recreation, however, one does not have to depend on the formal functions of society. Almost everybody keeps horses and there are frequent excursions into the country to temples and places of historic interest. On such excursions formality is banished and hilarity reigns supreme. Then there is the Peking club, where all the men gather from seven to eight in the evening. In the winter there is a skating rink at the club, which is, of course, open to the women. This is the scene of many band concerts and carnivals.

In the summer the tennis courts at the club become the centers of interest for Peking society. Outside the city walls the club maintains a racetrack, where the spring and autumn races are held. The racecourse is also the scene of the spring and autumn gymkhanas, which are burlesqued athletic meets. At the gymkhanas the principal events are the camel races and the donkey polo games.

Bullets to Set Balloons on Fire. Tests have been made in Germany with a special projectile which is intended to repel dirigibles and which is designed not only to pierce a gas envelope, but also to set fire to the gas. This projectile, fired from the old German rifle known as "model 71," which has a caliber of 11 millimeters, is provided with little wings that open in flight under the influence of a spring, compressed while the projectile is still in the rifle barrel, but expanded as soon as the muzzle is passed.

An ordinary bullet leaves such a small hole in an envelope that the gas escapes through it but slowly. The wings on the improved bullet tear a hole of appreciable size in the fabric. What is more, they retard the bullet sufficiently to ignite fulminate contained in the bullet. It is said that experiments conducted at Neumannswald gave encouraging results.—Scientific American.

He Couldn't See the Joke. Rodolph Hauser stirred things up in central police station by kicking about a case of sample shoes he admitted he had stolen from in front of a Fifth avenue store. Hauser was so mad he was unable to talk coherently, but managed to explain that all the shoes were for the left foot.

"Something crooked here," he spluttered. "That man ought to serve time." Hauser had carried the case, containing forty shoes, a mile to his home. When he opened the case later and discovered that only one one-legged man could use the contents, he rushed to police headquarters. He was arrested.—Pittsburgh Dispatch to the Philadelphia Record.

Prepared. "I guess that young man is going to ask me for Maggie's hand tonight." "What makes you think so?" "He's wearing a sweater and an old pair of trousers." "But I don't see—" "It won't hurt his clothes if he is rolled down the front steps."

"Leader." The initial copy was issued last week and is a credit to Longview.

Miss Pauline received her guests in a beautiful lingerie dress with Nell rose trimmings. Miss Elizabeth Eddins wore a lace dress over pink silk and Miss Ruth Eddins, lace over blue silk. Forty-two, flinch and other games were played and the guests were invited into the dining room where the table presented a very pretty appearance. The cloth of snowy damask and centre piece of real lace held the birthday cake, supported by thirteen waxen tapers. The honoree lighted these and each guest blew out a candle and made a pretty birthday wish for the little hostess. A delicious ice course was served to the following guests: Hazel Hurst, Elizabeth Eddins, Ruth Eddins, Genevieve Mudd, Beatrice Shell, Opal Stewart, Linette Miller, Leleh May Lawler, Gladys Matchett, Bernice Walker and Audrey Ferguson. The number of beautiful presents received attested the popularity of the little hostess.

STATE FEDERATION PRESIDENT'S LETTER

The request has come to your president, from the editor of the General Federation Magazine, that I send to her at once, the names of all of the members of the individual clubs that hold membership in the Federation. I therefore ask each club president through this letter to be good enough to send to Mrs. Harriet Bishop Waters, editor in chief, General Federation Magazine, 25 West Forty-Second street, New York City, N. Y., a year book from her club, for her club roster being incorporated in said book will give Mrs. Waters the desired information, and if you will be kind enough to do this at once, the information will reach her with little delay, and your president will be very grateful to you for doing her this favor.

Be sure to send to your president and to your corresponding Secretary Mrs. James B. Cunningham, 1836 North Flores, San Antonio, a copy of your year book, for it is very important that we have the names of the newly elected officers of the club. If your book is not ready will you not be good enough to instruct your secretary to write on a post-card the names of your town, your club, your president and your corresponding secretary and mail same to your president, 521 Macon street, San Antonio, and to your State corresponding secretary without delay. There is important literature that must reach you at once, and it is imperative that we have the correct names of these club officers.

Dear friends, you remember that I appointed two delegates to attend the Peace Congress at The Hague, unfortunately they could attend. I sent their names to Prince Heinrich, Duke of Mecklenberg, chairman of the executive committee of the congress, and the other day the mail brought the following reply, written in crude English as follows, for I want you to read it just as I received it, and to show you the action of the Texas women is appreciated.

It is dated "The Hague," 19th of August, 1918, and reads:

"Dear Mrs. Hertzberg: I received your letter of Aug. 2, but in answering that letter I have the honor to send you a program of our congress and from this program you will see it is impossible to take part already in the congress, because it is beginning just today and so it will be impossible for our delegates to come in 'The Hague'."

"I am very sorry that it has gone in this way and that we could not appear earlier on your interesting in this movement. We have taken your letter as an appreciate mark of sympathy and I am quite ready to send you all from the congress you want to receive."

Through the work and enthusiasm of Mrs. Christensen, our State chairman on peace committee the movement is assuming large proportions in our State. Member of the Legislature, Representative Haney of Henrietta, has now espoused the cause, and only good can be the outcome of this interest.

I hope that every club has set aside one day in the year to be devoted to the consideration of this tremendous subject. At Fort Worth it was voted that all future annual conventions of the Federation be closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," this by the entire audience. What a tremendous volume of song we shall have at Corpus Christi, for everybody will of course join in, for knowing the words of this song, gives one the confidence that is lacking when one is not acquainted with the words. Am I not right?

The contest for a suitable motto for the Federation is creating a great deal of interest. I have received several letters from residents of other States, asking if they might enter the contest. I will say here that only members of Texas Clubs have the right to compete. You know, of course, that the winning motto will be awarded $10.00.

Then do not forget the Federation song contest. This too will be interesting. Also the contest in original literary work. Results of these contests will be announced at the convention at Corpus Christi, Nov. 11 to 14, and I hope to see many of you dear women there, for they are making great preparations for us, and we are going to have such a good time. I understand that one of the entertainments planned is a fish and oyster fry. This will be an unusual treat. Always faithfully yours,

MRS. ELLI HERTZBERG, President T. F. W. C. San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 18, 1918.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Lena Ratchel of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband could not do me any good, and he had to give up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me. At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 22, 1913

Congressman James L. Slayden has settled the matter as to whether he would become a candidate for governor. He will not, and the reason he assigns is that he cannot afford the campaign expense, which for the past ten or twelve years has almost amounted to more than the salary attached to the office.

Mr. Bryan has rendered an itemized statement of his receipts and expenditures while on his recent lecture tour. This was made, it is presumed to satisfy his critics, who seem to think it more honorable for a man in Mr. Bryan's position to beg, accept charity, or perhaps peddle on his influence rather than accept money which he is able to earn by delivering lectures. He pursued this occupation before becoming a member of the cabinet, and there is not the slightest evidence that he is proving a greater success or is more popular than before he entered the cabinet. Therefore, it is unjust to accuse him of using his official position for financial gain. He is doing it because he likes it, and has just as much right to lecture while holding that high position as others who held that office before had in making tours of the country for the purpose of delivering campaign speeches in their own or in the interests of the political party under which they were holding office. Mr. Bryan has been open and frank in this matter, and does not care to care a snap whether his enemies use it or not. That is the way he has always been. If that is all his enemies have to condemn him for, they are entitled to take all the pleasure of their criticism they can get now. It will do Bryan no harm. The people love and honor him as much for the enemies he makes as they do his ability as the greatest statesman who has ever held the office which he now holds.

MR. BULLOCK FAVORS ALDERMANIC FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Editor Times: I see that Brother Long in a lengthy article explains to his own satisfaction, presumably, if to that of no one else, why he wrote and distributed a circular saying if the commission form of government was adopted we would not pay three dollars street tax, which of course left the inference if the aldermanic form was adopted we would pay it.

All right, Brother Long, it is just a matter of taste as to whether a man prefers to make a statement of a thing, political or otherwise, in such a manner, that something is untrue appears to be true, or whether he prefers to act in a different way. Brother Long knows that the charters were exactly alike in this particular. But Brother Long as the publicity agent for the commission folks, says he could not advertise our war.

I am publicity man for the aldermanic people and I am glad to say that the collection of street and poll tax will be a thing of the past under either of these charters adopted in Wichita Falls. One man told me he got the wrong impression from this circular and supposed the commission form was the only charter that abolished the street tax. Let us be frank and fair, gentlemen, in every matter affecting the vital interests of the city we all love.

Do you believe, Mr. Voter, that the people of Wichita Falls are capable of governing themselves, or must they be governed by four commissioners and a mayor? Are we qualified to select the city attorney, secretary, assessor, marshal and engineer, or must they and all other officers down to the city scavenger be appointed by the commissioners?

Do you believe in a handful of men having absolute control of this city, or do you want every citizen to have a voice in the management of our affairs? How would you like for the county judge and commissioners court to appoint all the county officers, and discharge them at their pleasure "with or without cause"? The commission people propose to select every officer they possibly can for us and discharge them at their pleasure. The city of Wichita Falls is a co-ordinate branch of the government, and the people have just as much right to elect the officers here as they do in the county. Shall the people or shall the commissioners rule?

Will you take the government further away from the citizens who make it, and turn back toward a monarchy and the rule of the kings? Will you help men to build up a colossal political machine through the appointive powers like we have in some Texas cities and thus perpetrate themselves or their friends in office?

A commission form of government is a fact and an experiment. Less than 300 cities have tried it and thousands of others have not tried in America. Fort Worth is practically bankrupt and owes a million dollars under the commission form of government. There are opportunities for graft and greed under the commission form that can never exist under the aldermanic form of government. In the city council the aldermen discuss in the open every measure among themselves, while the commissioner runs his department to suit himself without interference from his colleagues.

The two charters are exactly alike except that one provides for commissioners and the appointment of officers, and the other for aldermen and the election of officers—the taxing and all other vital powers are the same, save one leaves the government in the hands of the voter and the other takes it away from him.

Which will you choose? I am ready to let well enough alone and go on in the same way in which we have prospered, and not try something that at the best can only be called an experiment.

W. J. BULLOCK.

DUEL OVER GIRL CAUSES DEATH OF ONE RIVAL

Brussels, Sept. 22.—An Italian workman named Lubardinetti was killed and another Italian, Rimigli, fatally wounded in a duel with knives over a German girl. Meeting Lubardinetti and the girl on the road between Long in Ville and Hautmont, Rimigli, who was a former lover of the girl's, drew a knife and challenged his rival to fight on the spot. The men fought for a quarter of an hour and both were covered with blood before Lubardinetti was stabbed to the heart. Rimigli received a severe wound in the abdomen and cannot recover. The girl who assisted Lubardinetti in the fight was arrested.

KATY HEARING IN PROGRESS HERE

"Yes." "For the same reason you try to get ordinary passenger cars and keep your schedules on time?"

"Yes." "You do all those things because of the competitive traffic?"

"Yes." He said prompt settlement of claims was also an element in competition. There was considerable questioning to the same general point.

Witness did not know how many roadmasters the Katy had and knew nothing of why L. W. Wright had been laid off as roadmaster on the Texas Central.

He said Mr. Webb, complying with his general order to reduce expenses "anywhere they could save a dollar" had laid off a number of men in the engineering department. He had not given any detailed instructions. He said the annual reports of all the dependent companies were combined in his annual report to the stockholders.

"Do you remember leaving the car account out of the Texas Central to Denison when you took charge?" "I don't remember."

Numerous questions which followed dealt with the car accounting system in detail.

"Where is the depository of the system located?" Mr. Schaff enumerated a number of banks. The Texas Central's surplus, he thought, made its deposits at Waco. He knew nothing of the report that the deposit was made with the Katy of Kansas.

He said his stock in the various roads was in a safe at St. Louis, made to him. There was no understanding as to his selling the stock back to the Kansas Company. He expected to sell it back to the Kansas company if he severed his connection with the road; he had paid $100 per share for the stock.

Answering questions as to the budgets and appropriations he said these were acted upon by the board of directors, which received them through Mr. Trumbull. He said Mr. Trumbull had no authority except as a member of the board. The executive committee, he said, had the same authority as the directors, with reference to incurring obligations.

Mr. Schaff called attention to the by-laws explained such matters, to which Mr. Nickels said he wanted to see at Mr. Schaff's understanding of the matter.

Mr. Schaff answering Mr. Nickels' further questions, said that the road had laid about 150 miles of new steel since he became president. He explained the handling of claims amounting to over $7500, saying he passed on them, through the road's general counsel. Asked regarding the duties of S. B. Fisher, he said he was head of the road's valuation committee, which would proceed under his orders. He did not know who the claim agents were on the various lines in Texas.

Questioned as to the superintendent of the Wichita Falls lines, Mr. Schaff said that R. J. Sullivan was superintendent, performing the duties usually performed by a general superintendent. Mr. Sullivan reported direct to him, witness said. There were several questions as to Mr. Sullivan's duties, apparently with the idea of determining the superintendent's authority. Mr. Schaff said that if he thought expenses were too high, he would instruct Mr. Sullivan to reduce them, and that a matter like the building of a side track would be referred to him (Schaff) for action.

Mr. Nickels then questioned the witness as to the definition of the latter's duties when he became president. Mr. Schaff again refused to answer a question touching the salary question.

The witness was then asked if he wasn't paid a salary with the agreement that he should expend part of it for political purposes, the Commercial Secretaries' Association being mentioned in this connection. Mr. Schaff answered with an emphatic negative.

"If the records show that there was such an agreement, you haven't discovered it?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Nickels then announced he was through. The Katy attorneys said they had no questions to ask and noon adjournment was taken.

R. J. Sullivan was the first witness at the afternoon session. He said he was superintendent of the Wichita Falls lines and of the Katy as far east as Whitesboro; previous to January, 1911 he was superintendent at Greenville, being brought here by Mr. Kell; he presumed that his appointment to his present place had come from Mr. Schaff. The only man who had discussed his appointment with him, he said, was H. P. Anderson then general superintendent. He detailed his duties as superintendent. His pay-check comes from the Wichita Falls Route, not from the M. K. & T., and the latter name does not appear on the vouchers. In his work he corresponded frequently with Mr. Schaff, and the files of such correspondence were kept in this city; on the Henrietta division he reported to H. P. Anderson and to Mr. Schaff on the other lines.

"Have you received any order in the past month to consult your superiors before giving information to the attorney general?"

"No, sir."

He said he had been in the service of the Katy for twenty-five years, in Texas for eighteen years. There had been correspondence between him and S. B. Fisher of a routine nature; had some correspondence with A. M. Acheson, chief engineer.

Questioned by C. C. Huff, he said he reported to Mr. Kell when he came to Wichita Falls. He was then excused for the present.

The next witness was L. F. Linney, auditor of the Wichita Falls lines; he said he had held the position since July 11, 1912, coming from Louisiana. His appointment came from the board of directors, the notification coming from Controller Cutts at St. Louis. He made monthly reports to Mr. Cutts, being the balance sheet of the lines; he was instructed by Mr. Cutts to make such reports, and sent them to him because "it had apparently been the custom to do so. He received no special instructions from Mr. Schaff, Mr. Webb, Mr. Trumbull, Mr. Halle or Mr. Pearce, auditor at St. Louis. Witness himself prepared reports for the Oklahoma, Texas and Interstate Commissions.

"SAFETY FIRST" IN MINES MOVEMENT IS HELD.

Pittsburg, Sept. 22.—In an effort to reduce the death toll in mines and quarries of the United States, leaders of the "Safety First" movement, which began in this country about five years ago through the influence of the Bureau of Mines, gathered today in Pittsburg for a three day conference and discussion of methods and results.

Mine operators, mining engineers and mine surgeons representing practically every important mining company in the United States are in attendance.

The conference opened with a mine rescue and first aid contest in Arsenal Park. Tomorrow the members will visit the experimental mine of the Bureau of Mines at Princeton, Pa., where a coal-dust explosion will be made in order to demonstrate that coal dust is even more dangerous to the miner than gas. Various meetings will be held on Wednesday for the discussion of methods and possibilities of uniform practice. Later in the day another visit will be made into the experimental mine.

A majority of the delegates are members of the American Mine Safety Association which held its first meeting here a year ago.

SAYS TRUST WOULD CRUSH ITS RIVALS

Houston Attorney Says Standard Wants to Boost Crude Prices in Oklahoma

(From St. Louis Post-Dispatch) "Standard Oil is up to its tricks again in Oklahoma this time, strangely enough, in co-operation with the Oklahoma Corporation Commission."

So said William H. Gray, the Houston attorney whose relentless trailing of the Oil Trust has cost it millions of dollars during the past five years. Gray is at the Plains today.

"The Oklahoma Corporation Commission," Gray added, "is trying to demonstrate that Oklahoma producers of crude oil ought to get higher price for it, and that Oklahoma consumers of refined oils, including gasoline, ought to get them for lower prices. In this effort the commission has the hearty co-operation of the Standard Oil Trust's Southwestern subsidiaries."

Trust Meets Alternative.

"Post-Dispatch readers will remember that several weeks ago the paper, reviewing then recent developments in the oil situation, printed for the first time the news that the Oil Trust had been outwitted by some of its active young competitors—or potential competitors—which had cut deeply into Standard's control of the supply of crude. The Post-Dispatch at that time stated truthfully that it was up to the Oil Trust either to regain control of a much larger portion of the crude supply, or to shut down some of its refineries and lose a considerable portion of its marketing business."

Standard, in short, found itself controlling 15 to 20 per cent more of the refined oil marketing business than it did of the crude oil supply, and its imperative need was, and is, to bring those percentages together so they will tally.

"This the Oil Trust evidently intends to do by helping out this new move of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission. The commission's idea is a good one for Oklahoma people, if the situation it is trying to create can be made permanent. It would mean more money in the pockets of Oklahoma producers of crude oil and less money out of the pockets of Oklahoma consumers of refined oil."

Chance to Destroy Competition.

"Standard sees in it a chance to wipe out the competition of 30 or 40 small independent refineries in the Oklahoma-Kansas (midcontinent) field by helping boost the price of crude oil so high they can't pay it and do business at a profit, and to grab the lion's share of the refined oil trade of Oklahoma by helping out the prices of refined oils so low its little competitors can't meet them."

When this is done, Standard, in the good old fashion, will be found in control of that portion of the crude supply which the little independent refiners have been buying and in position to lower the price of crude oils back to a point high enough to cover its losses plus a fat profit.

"The oil wells of Oklahoma produce 175,000 barrels of crude oil daily. Of this the Texas and Gulf companies get 45,000 barrels; from wells which they own or control. The little independent refiners get about 50,000 barrels, leaving about 10,000 barrels for Standard's subsidiaries. If Standard can add that 50,000 barrels a day now used by the little independents to its share of the Oklahoma output it will come near restoring the lost balance between its control of crude and of the market for refined oils. That is what it is figuring to do, by joining in with the play of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission."

Has Power to Stand Losses.

"Standard is the only company in the oil business in this country rich enough to stand heavy losses on a large volume of business for a year or two. That is the essence of its power to smash or subdue its potential competitors to its wish; that is the club with which it enforces its monopoly control of prices over the country as a whole. It will continue to possess that club, and to use it whenever necessary, until the attorney general of the United States asks for—the courts as we now know are ready to grant it—a decree ordering actual dissolution of the trust in terms forbidding common ownership of its several parts."

Gray was asked what is the "present price of crude oil in Oklahoma. "It was $1.03 a barrel the day I left Tulsa, last week, and it will go to $1.50 within the year. I fear the little independent refiners are going to get driven to the wall down there, as they have been in other fields in years past. With the State's Corporation Commission—for perfectly good reasons of its own—thus joining hands with the oil trust to create exactly the situation the trust most desires, I see but little chance for the little fellows to get away alive."

Magnolia to Market Oil.

"The Magnolia Petroleum Company of Texas, the Standard's Texas subsidiary, is preparing to do a marketing business in Oklahoma. It will be able to do its share in creating the situation the trust desires, and in satisfying (temporarily) the ambition of the State Corporation Commission, by helping reduce the price of refined oils, while Standard's Oklahoma subsidiaries help it along by boosting the price of crude."

The Waters Pierce Interests, which are building a big Oklahoma refinery that will be ready for production in six months, now buy a large part of

We desire to inform you that we have just received an enormous shipment of 250, extra high-grade, genuine Wilton Rugs that our buyer, Mr. Brin, bought while East last week. We secured these rugs at a sacrifice price, practically at 50 per cent on the dollar. We are going to offer them to you tomorrow and as long as they last at an extra special price. You will buy them from us at a price less than dealers can buy them for. Here is a golden opportunity to secure an extra high-grade, real genuine Wilton Rug in size 36x53 inches that Sanger Bros., Fitch-Gettings of Dallas advertised for $12.50 and considered them bargains. They're in the very latest designs and patterns. Exact copies of real oriental rug patterns. They are in two-tone effects in beautiful shades of green, tan, old rose, blue, reds, gray, browns. The quality is the very best. Come early as we expect a sure enough rush for these magnificent rugs. First come, first served. Price $5.50

STOMACH UPSET? Micon Will Prevent Further Trouble - It Quickly and Surely Ends Indigestion

Distress after eating, belching of gas and undigested food, that lump of lead feeling in the stomach, headache, biliousness and lack of energy, are warning signals of out of order stomach. Now—at once—is the time to stop this distress.

Dallas—A representative of the Department of Extension of the State University was in this city recently arranging for space at the Texas State Fair that will be utilized by the University's display. The exhibit consists of child welfare work, sanitation, proper methods of building school-houses, ventilation, domestic economy and every other scientific method used to better the conditions of the people.

FORBES-ROBERTSON IN MOVIES FOR FIRST TIME

London, Sept. 22.—Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson today "saw himself" as others see him. At the New Gallery Kinema in Regent Street, England's greatest Shakespearean actor watched with lively interest the first film performance of "Hamlet" which he, his wife, Gertrude Elliott, and a full company recently produced before the camera.

L. Q. Stocktons Famous Troupe of Fox Terriers presenting the handsomest and best trained troupe of dogs in America.

PARIS TO NEW YORK IN BOTTLE, NEW INVENTION

Paris, Sept. 22.—From Paris to New York in a bottle—such is the latest sensation. Under one of the archways of the Pont St. Michel, on the Seine, two men are working in the greatest mystery on the construction of a cylindrical, bottle like craft which is to take them across the Atlantic.

The master of this curious craft is turned seventy and wears a blue suit with no shirt underneath and no shoes. His long curls have evidently known no barber shears for many a long year, for they reach to his shoulders and mingle with his patriarchal beard of snow white.

Paris are children. It is a good thing for them to see a good play produced on the screen. Surely a Shakespearean play is a better educational feature than a cowboy drama.

SCHOOL HYGIENE SERIOUS MATTER

UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE LOOKING INTO PROBLEMS

"Sight and hearing are the two senses it is the most important to safeguard during childhood, yet it is these two which we find most commonly defective among school children. Many children, not learning properly in school, are backward because of some defect of the eyes or ears, usually of a remediable nature. Some twenty per cent of all school children suffer from defective vision, while from six to seven per cent have defective hearing."

Wilsons & Woods. EVERYTHING FOR THE OFFICE

DREAMERS Men and women who do things, have always been dreamers. They dream of something nearer the ideal, than the other fellow then they get busy and do it. The populace say "they are a genius," but they are only ordinary folks that make day dreaming a habit, that must come true. Dreamers in every line, if they develop their ideas, make a hit. They are listed on this mundane sphere as Electricians, mechanics, bankers, lawyers, doctors and preachers, the farmer and the day laborer, battling with adversities. In our own little place, "the best known to the science of our craft is not enough." A better plant and studio, a truer conception of harmony both in subjects and surroundings, telling the story of life today in all of its fullness that the children of tomorrow may read, your life, your thoughts and dream of your great love for those who passed before you, and in so doing be made better for the thought. Our memorials to your loved ones are everlasting. Its not a duty, but a glorious privilege.
