SULZER'S COUNSEL MAKE NEW POINT

JUDGE HERRICK HOLD FAILURE TO FILE STATEMENT NOT AN OFFENSE

COURT IS INTERESTED

Impeachment Attorney Contends Acts of Candidate Official are Inseparable

By Associated Press. Albany, N. Y., Sept. 22.—D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for Governor Sulzer, announced at the outset of today's session of the impeachment court that Governor Sulzer could cease henceforth to exercise the functions of governor.

When the court opened Sulzer's counsel offered a motion to strike out the three articles of impeachment charging him with the expenditure of campaign fund receipts and expenditures and with the use of the funds for speculation. Herrick argued that the offenses were not impeachable on the ground that they were committed before the governor was sworn into office.

Former Senator Brackett argued the impeachability of the charges holding in substance that the acts of a candidate for a political office, and after he has become an officer-elect are so intimately connected with the actual holding of the office as to be inseparable. The court's decision will make clear the way for the actual beginning of the trial.

Judge Herrick had the floor throughout the morning session. After a long address in support of his motion for the dismissal of three articles of the impeachment, he summed up as follows:

"The failure of the governor to file a statement required by this act is not an offense but subjects him to a peremptory demand by a court to perform this duty. William Sulzer never received such a demand. As the election law does not require the statement to be verified and as neither the election law nor the penal code require a candidate to be sworn, no ground is made to him there is no ground for the charge of perjury or neglect of duty."

These points in a supplementary brief came as a surprise to the members of the high court to whom copies of Herrick's original brief had been furnished.

Messengers were sent scurrying to obtain law books and the members seemed to take greater interest in the new contention than they had to any of the legal proceeding heretofore.

Brackett Answers Herrick's Argument

Attorney Brackett for the board of impeachment contended that a crime committed before an official's induction into office made the perpetrator as guilty in his new position as before his election. He reviewed that portion of the corrupt practices act relating to campaign contributions and said:

"It will thus be seen that from the time a candidate is nominated for an office he comes under the provisions of the act. He is not an officer but he is seeking to become one and in order to become one he is required to conform to the directions of statutes."

Brackett then drew a picture of the possibility of a criminal being retained in the higher office of governor despite the fact that he committed a crime a few moments before assuming the duties of his position. He said:

"When it comes to the dread issue of life and death, must the criminal feel that he is applying to a fellow criminal for a reprieve or pardon, and if denied goes to his doom with the just feeling that he has been judged by a fellow criminal. This question is their own answers. None of these things must be or can be."

Vote Was 51 to 1

The decision that Sulzer must go to trial was reached last night by the high court of impeachment when, by a vote of 51 to 1, its members overruled the motion of the Governor's counsel to dismiss the proceedings on the ground that he was constitutionally impeached by the Assembly because that body was in extra session when the impeachment was brought.

Senator Gottfried H. Wende of Buffalo, Democrat, an ardent supporter of the Governor, cast the solitary nay while seven members of the court were absent.

The Governor's defeat was the second that has marked the battle waged by his attorneys to annihilate as far as possible the impeachment proceedings. Last week the court thwarted their attempt to prevent four Senators from sitting as members.

WICHITA FALLS WELL LIGHTED

NO LONGER NECESSARY FOR RESIDENTS TO LIGHT LANTERNS AFTER DARK

WHOLE CITY IS LIGHTED

175 Incandescent Lamps and Thirty Arc Lights to Light City's Streets

From almost utter darkness in which the few feeble gas and electric lamps scattered spots over the city were almost lost, Wichita Falls has within the past few nights been transformed into a well lighted city with a lamp at practically every corner in the city.

The street lights which the Light company has been installing for the past several months have nearly all been placed into position, and connected. They were lighted for the first time Sunday night and it will no longer be necessary for Wichitans to take along lanterns when they go abroad at night.

One hundred and sixty-four incandescent lamps have been erected throughout the residence sections. There are about ten more of these lamps to go up.

In the business district twenty flaming arc lights have been installed lighting this section of the city in first class style. Ten more of these are to be hung.

HIS FRIEND GAVE HIM WRONG INFORMATION. (Fort Worth Star-Telegram)

The rule that Dallas people must come to Fort Worth to catch a train was remembered by Finance Commissioner Henderson on the neighboring city Monday, when he started to Wichita Falls, but he made a mistake about the time the Denver train leaves Fort Worth.

Accordingly he spent the greater part of the day in Fort Worth waiting to find out if Wichita Falls people thought he ought to discuss the commission form of government there had enough to pay $65 for an automobile to get him to Wichita Falls to keep the appointment.

When he made the Wichita Falls engagement he consulted a friend familiar with the Denver time table and was told that there was a train to Wichita Falls at 10 o'clock and one at 11:15, but failed to discover that the 11:05 train is a night train.

He spent part of Monday learning about the transportation facilities of Fort Worth.

TRADE TREATIES ARE CONSIDERED

Tariff Conference Plan Introduction of Resolution in Congress for Continuance of Relations

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 22.—International aspects of tariff revision drew the attention of tariff conference today when consideration was given to the plans to supplement the tariff bill with a special congressional resolution—asserting foreign nations that existing trade relations will be continued four months while President Wilson and Secretary Bryan undertake to negotiate new trade treaties.

The present tariff treaties expire with the Payne-Allrich tariff and it is hoped that the trade relations can be continued without change for four months. The purpose of the resolution is to prevent automatic application for higher tariff rates by countries that have maximum and minimum tariffs before the new treaties can be arranged.

EXTRADITION HEARING IS ON

THAW'S ATTORNEYS APPEAR CONFIDENT GOV. FELKER WILL NOT GRANT PAPERS

JEROME FIRST TO SPEAK

Thaw's Attorneys Declare New York Has no Jurisdiction in Pittsburgh Citizen's Case

By Associated Press. Concord, N. H., Sept. 22.—Harry K. Thaw's first fight for freedom began today with the opening of the extradition hearing before Gov. Felker. Counsel on both sides realized that the hour of legal sparring had passed and that the outcome rested on the interpretation of a law regarding which there were few if any precedents.

Counsel for Thaw retained their confident attitude that Governor Felker would not grant the extradition.

Governor Felker announced he was inclined to hear whatever the lawyers had to say without strict regard to legal technicalities.

Jerome addressed the governor briefly, declaring the documents asking for Thaw's extradition spoke for themselves and that there was nothing for the governor to do but issue the extradition papers.

William M. Chase of Thaw's counsel opened for the defense declaring that Thaw, a resident of Pittsburgh, is charged with a conspiracy to escape from the asylum at Matteawan, N. Y. No indictment, he said, had been found against Thaw although the grand jury of that county has been in session since September 8.

Thaw wept as his counsel pleaded with Governor Felker to do something for him. The New York authorities, he said, were not blinded by his handkerchief they were focused intently on the face of the special deputy attorney general of New York. By his side sat his mother and sister.

An adjournment until two o'clock this afternoon was given to allow Mr. Jerome to prepare his reply to the arguments of Thaw's counsel that the petition for extradition was insufficient in form and unsupported by the necessary evidence, and that the state of New York having declared Thaw insane could not now request from New Hampshire his extradition for a crime which by its nature only a sane man could commit. This was the conspiracy to escape from the Matteawan asylum.

Aldermanic Adherents Announce Another Meeting Thursday Night—"Commission" Men Busy

Adherents of the aldermanic form will hold a mass meeting at the city hall tonight at 8 o'clock when G. H. principal speaker. Mr. Ruth had lived in Oklahoma City both under the aldermanic and the commission forms of government and it is understood that his address will be a presentation of contrasts between the two forms and the conditions that prevailed under the aldermanic government and that which now prevails in Oklahoma City.

It is stated by members of the campaign committee of the aldermanic adherents that local speakers will briefly reply to some of the arguments advanced at the commission meeting last night. The aldermanic people announce another meeting for Thursday night when local speakers will address the voters. The band has been engaged for both meetings.

The commission people will probably conduct a mass meeting Wednesday night and another Friday night, although no definite announcement was ready this morning.

As Friday night will close the campaign it is probable the aldermanic people will also hold a meeting then. The campaign has now reached the boiling point and the question that is asked is—How do you stand on the charter?

Whether crops, the tariff, Mexican affairs and other much discussed topics have been forgotten for the time and interest is centered in the charter question.

MANY LETTERS ARE IDENTIFIED

STATE SEEKS TO SHOW CONNECTIONS BETWEEN W. F. AND N. W. AND KATY

POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

Testimony Shows Aid of Katy Agents Enlisted Behind Consolidation Bill

Identification of a mass of letters and documents occupied the entire morning session of the Katy hearing today. C. L. Fontaine, general freight and passenger agent of the Wichita Falls Route, being on the stand. There was no hearing this afternoon but work will be resumed tonight.

The state secured the identification of the letters for two purposes: First, to show the connection between Mr. Fontaine's department and C. Halle, general traffic manager at St. Louis; second, to show the close traffic relations between the Katy and Northwestern.

It developed during the hearing that the aid of Katy agents was enlisted in behalf of the consolidation bill, it being their understanding, according to Mr. Fontaine, that they were to acquaint the business men of their communities with the Katy's desires.

The morning's witness was C. L. Fontaine, general freight and passenger agent of the Wichita Falls lines. Mr. Nickels called attention to the fact that the Wichita Falls & Northwestern operated the Wichita Falls & Wellington, according to the Oklahoma commission report. Mr. Fontaine said that the Wellington branch was part of the Wichita Falls Route. He had held his position since June 10, 1908, being employed by J. A. Kemp. There had been no change in his duties since.

This report states that the Wichita Falls & Northwestern was consolidated fully and directly by the Katy; do you know that to be a fact?"

"No, sir; not so far as my department is concerned."

He then explained his duties in detail. He denied that if his road had any business with the Katy it would necessarily get all business between this city and Fort Worth, saying no such arrangement existed. He said that between two routes the elements of time, service, class of freight and volume would determine whether business was competitive. He said he frequently had correspondence with J. L. West, general freight agent and that he often conferred with him on traffic matters; witness had never received instructions of any kind with Mr. Schiff, Mr. Webb or Mr. Anderson; he had some correspondence with C. Halle and J. W. Allen. He did not know, he said, that there were close financial relations between the Wichita Falls Route and the Katy, but he had heard it.

Prior to 1910 you arranged divisions with lines originating lumber traffic, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"You tried to get the Katy to participate on the same basis as you did the Denver?"

"No, sir."

He said he did not try to get the same division with the Katy as with other lines, because the earnings on Katy business were larger than with other lines. He identified many copies of letters written by him to J. W. Allen in 1910, which were offered in evidence. The Katy attorneys objected because of the interstate nature of some of the letters.

Mr. Nickels referred to a letter from W. A. Webb, stating that the Katy had acquired control of the Texas Central and the Wichita Falls lines; Mr. Fontaine identified it.

"There appears to be attached to that letter a list of the members of the legislature; do you recall who did that?"

"No, I don't recall."

He said he thought lists of the members of the legislature were distributed to agents for their information.

"I think the idea was to acquaint business men with the object of Mr. Webb's letter."

"Were they asked to get up petitions for the consolidation bill?"

"I don't recollect that we did; in a general way it was my understanding that we should assist in the passage of the bill."

He said there was a "passover" agreement between him and Mr. Sterling of the Denver as to traffic originating beyond Fort Worth. By its terms the Denver was to receive a small part of the traffic that might otherwise come by the Katy; this agreement was discussed between Mr. Halle and himself, but denied that Mr. Halle "instructed" him to make such an agreement. He would not admit that the agreement was

ARGUMENTS GIVEN

"Aldermanic" Supporters Statements Discussed and Reasons Given for a Commission

ARGUMENTS GIVEN

A crowd that comfortably filled the Alamo Theatre last evening heard the commission form of government discussed and advocated by four speakers—R. E. Huff, A. H. Britain, W. F. Weeks and F. W. Houschalter. The crowd for the most part heard the speakers attentively and with interest. There was no test of sentiment

The commission form was introduced from many angles and answers were made to many of the arguments set forth by the aldermanic faction at the meeting of last Friday. In all, the meeting was one of much interest. The fact that W. T. Henderson, the Dallas commissioner who was to have been the chief speaker of the evening, missed his train, did not prevent a rowd of considerably over two hundred people being present to hear the local speakers.

Judge R. E. Huff, who presided at the meeting, explained briefly the nature of the gathering. Those with great faith in the city's future, he said, believed that through a commission form of government, Wichita Falls would best "cast off her swaddling clothes" and go forward. He told of what had been done toward the commission form of government in the necessity for two sections. He told of the difference between the two charters and his declaration for a commission elicited applause.

Denies "One Man Power." He denied that the commission meant "one man power" because he said that five men elected for certain duties, must be the sort of men to stand close scrutiny. He cited the instances of Memphis and Galveston and of how those cities had prospered under the commission. This work in reply to Judge A. H. Houschalter, who spoke at Friday's meeting. One by one, the cities of Texas had adopted it, he continued and it had been shown that it was good not only for disaster, wrecked cities, but for those in less dire straits.

Fort Worth, under the aldermanic system had been forced to pay less interest on her bonds than she owed. In spite of what was said about misrule there under the commission things had been worse under the aldermanic plan.

Answering the charge that the commission was undemocratic, he said that the opponents of that form who thought the people ought to elect all the officers, might be soon wanting to elect school teachers instead of having a school board. Under the commission, said Judge Huff, five men would be charged with full responsibility for the city's business. Mr. Huff called attention to Dallas and the recent claims made against it; he said that the character of men nominated by the Citizens' Association had been elected time after time, showing what faith the people had in them.

"You'll never regret it," he said, "and you'll never return to the old plan if the commission is adopted. No Texas city that every adopted it has gone back."

The reason Fort Worth's commission had failed was that there was too much politics in the charter. He was a democrat, he said, but he believed that in city affairs government should be divorced from party politics as far as possible.

"If there is a man here who can remember every officer he voted for last July," said Judge Huff, "let him stand up." "Nobody stood up," Judge Huff cited this as an instance of how little attention people paid to minor officers. The opponents of the commission were good men, he declared, but they were not the men who took the lead in the city's upbuilding. Several were officeholders, he said, and others were "ex-officeholders" who had finished other cities; they're good fellows, but they've let the procession get by them."

Mr. Huff told of incorporating the recall, initiative and referendum in the commission charter. "Senator" Bonner's promise to get a corrupt official out quicker than the recall he said, would be useless if the officers were not corrupt and yet failed to do his duty. He said the aldermanic forms seemed to think the recall a good thing, as they had asked for it also. He then closed.

A. H. Britain Speaks.

The second speaker was A. H. Britain, who opened by expressing the hope that every man who votes next Saturday will "be honest, not only with his city but with himself." He was not an office-seeker, he said, he wanted to see Wichita Falls with the best government possible. Answering those who said "let us stay with the government of our fathers," he said our fathers would be ashamed of their sons today if they failed to better their government when they could.

The aldermanic form, he said, was handed down from the monarchies of Europe while the commission form was a Texas product. He referred to W. J. Bullock's letter in yesterday's Times in which it was said the commission was monarchial; yet Woodrow Wilson was the commission advocate and he did not believe any would dispute Wilson's democracy.

LOCAL MEN SPEAK AT COMMISSION MEETING

Mr. Britain said he looked forward to the day when cities would be run solely along business lines with no thought of politics; when men would be elected to municipal office on their merits and without attention to their abilities as politicians. The speaker declared that he had "no axe to grind and no mud to sling" in the contest, but that he was not taking a hand "for revenue only."

In a private corporation, said Mr. Britain, where directors were elected, the stockholders looked to them for results and service and not in the subordinates and employes. It was along this line, he continued, that the commission charter had been drawn, with a view to fixing the responsibility.

Answering the "one man power" charge he said that under the commission it required three men to pass any law. He explained how each commissioner was held responsible for the proper conduct of his department, and he alone. He contrasted this with conditions under aldermanic forms of government.

"Don't you think if you are going to hold five commissioners responsible for your city, you ought to give them the right to select the men to help them?"

"Lots of our opponents are opposed to any sort of new charter," he declared, "and others simply aren't informed. It's just a matter of education."

He deemed the charge that under the commission, a minor official could be removed "with or without cause," reading from the charter on this point. He answered W. J. Bullock's argument on this point.

"Bill Bullock is a school trustee," said the speaker, "why doesn't he ask that the voters elect school teachers? It isn't a question of politics; it's a question of efficiency."

Mr. Britain discussed the claim that the commissioners could perpetuate themselves in office. This was impossible, he said, because the charter prohibited a commissioner holding more than two terms.

"Bill ought to have known that," said Mr. Britain, "because he helped draw the charter."

He replied to Judge Felder's utterances along the same lines, quoting the recent letter from Judge Seay.

Judge Britain reminded his audience that up to 1910 all the city officers had been appointed and that the city had been under the commission form and nobody had objected.

"Except Ed Howard," interposed Mr. Huff.

He told of some of his experiences as a resident of Fort Worth under the old aldermanic system. Mr. Britain concluded with a plea for the commission, citing the hundreds of cities that had used it and liked it.

W. F. Weeks is Heard.

W. F. Weeks was introduced as one of the city's young men upon whose shoulders part of the future burdens of this city's government would rest. Mr. Weeks began by praising the "home rule" law of the present legislature, saying it was done in compliance with the demand for more popular government. Whether for aldermanic or commission form he urged his hearers to vote for a new charter; the initiative, referendum and recall alone, he said, made a new charter advisable. He cited the many advantages of these features, explaining their workings in detail.

Mr. Weeks said that the power of amendment to the charter would always be with the people. He declared that the commission had never been a failure, not even in Fort Worth, and that not one of the cities that had tried it had ever come back.

"I'm sorry Wichita Falls couldn't have taken the lead," he said, "I'm sorry we've waited for Galveston and these other towns to set the pace, except this."

Under an aldermanic form nobody could judge a man's qualifications because nobody knew what he would have to do; under the commission form every voter would know what he ought to expect of every candidate.

"The mayor has been accused of everything that was wrong and given credit for everything that was right. Under the aldermanic form, he is the only officer under public scrutiny."

Those who opposed a new charter for fear of high taxes, he reminded that a limitation was placed on the tax rate by the home rule law. The only material difference between the charters, he said, was in the appointing power of the council.

"The job of city attorney is not important in this town," he said, "it simply resolves itself into a question of the best politician. We want men in office who can show credentials of their ability. He wanted to know where the lawyers to be paid by between elective and appointive officers. He spoke at length along this line, saying that it was better more than anything else, that had given this city such good officials in the past.

The commission, he said, was the people's own reform themselves and disregard the misrepresentations that had been circulated.

Householder Last Speaker. F. W. Householder spoke briefly emphasizing two points—the fixing of definite duties for each commissioner and the holding of that commissioner responsible for his duties. He related a possible illustration of the contrary system under the aldermanic plan. The meeting then closed.

NEVER AGAIN FOR HANDSOME JACK

GIRL WHO MASQUERADED AS MAN QUITE SATISFIED WITH HER EXPERIENCE

'MARRIED' TOWN BEAUTY

Bride Was Onto Her Secret and Helped Her Pool Girls of Colorado Town

Meeker, Colo., Sept. 22.—"I would not go through with it again for a million dollars. It is all a horrible nightmare to me now that it is over and I am glad to be wearing dresses again like other girls."

Helen Hillaber, the pretty girl of 23 who masqueraded as a man for two years in Meeker and even "married" Miss Anna Silfka, the town's beauty, thus expressed herself when interviewed in the county jail, where she is awaiting trial in the district court on the charge of impersonating a man.

As "Handsome Jack," "Handsome Jack" Hill, as Miss Hillaber was known during the months of her masquerade, expressed repentance for her deception, but reiterated her previous statements that she had done the "habitations of man in order to earn a man's wages and gain enough money to assist her to a college education. She declared she still believed she was justified in going to these lengths to gain so worthy an object.

Pressed for an explanation of why it was necessary to "marry" Miss Silfka, the masquerader smiled and related her experiences with the young girls of the town.

GIRLS 'Worried Her. "When I came here," she said, "the girls dubbed me 'Handsome Jack.' I liked the excitement and fun of the thing at first and enjoyed myself thoroughly. But the girls just wouldn't let me alone. They worried me to death with hints to take them to parties and other social events.

"I got tired of it all and I found I just had to tell some one and confided my secret to Miss Silfka. She was a tramp and when we found that our wish to go to an Eastern college was mutual, we planned our 'marriage.' You see, I knew if I got married the girls would not bother me. So we tried it that I was to woo and win them. I became an ardent wooer and carried many girls, but finally settled my affections on Anna and we were married. Our courtship ended in our marriage ten months ago.

Arrest Queered All. "Everything was going lovely when I was arrested. We had moved to our 'home' and were getting along happily. We were not doing anything wrong or bothering anybody and both of us were saving money. I can not see yet what I have done to deserve arrest."

It developed today that the girl's statements had some basis from the fact that she formerly lived in Denver six years ago and it was during this experience, she says, that she found masculine attire comfortable and of assistance in getting employment.

During "Handsome Jack's" two years in and around Meeker she cooked in a hotel, worked for various bachelor ranchmen and tended bar before taking up the homestead where "he" and "his bride" were living when Jack was arrested.

AMERICAN WOMEN BEHIND THE CHINESE

The following article, in which American women are scored by a Chinese woman, may make "Mistress American" sit up and take notice. There are worlds of women who are thoroughly up on every question under the shining sun, but there are also no end of women who seem to derive infinite delight from the boast that they "never read the newspapers." Only a few days ago I heard a woman say: "Oh, I don't know one thing about this Mexican situation—I never look at a paper—it bores me to death and makes my head ache." Now you can imagine this woman's indifference toward everything under the sun when she can find nothing in the newspapers to interest her.

Chinese Women Well Informed.

We don't know anything at all about China. Hakwei Ha Nong, a Chinese girl who is now Mrs. Clifford Dromberger, wife of a retired officer of the United States Navy, delivered an address in Philadelphia in which she said:

"You Americans are so ill informed that you know absolutely nothing about China. Some of the questions Americans are continually asking me are, 'Do you eat rats and other dreadful animals? Do you in China have flowers?'"

"These and others make me wonder that persons in this country can be so ill informed. 'Let me tell you that our Chinese women are not lacking in information regarding Americans. They know vastly more about you than you know about them, and the better class women of my country, far from being ignorant or uncultured, are often familiar with all the great questions of the day and many of them speak seven or eight languages.'

"Don't I see by the papers every day that Americans are guilty of misdeeds? Don't you think Chinese are apt to commit the same misdeeds? Are you people so ignorant as not to know that we live pretty much like other human beings?"

OKLAHOMA RANCH WILD WEST SHOW

Big Organization Presenting Panorama of Frontier Life Comes Here Next Week

There are only two days in the summertime worth living for, in the opinion of the small boy, one is Fourth of July and the other is the day on which the Oklahoma Ranch Wild West Show comes to this city, and hard as it has been for him to wait for Tuesday, Sept. 23, which is the day of the Oklahoma Ranch's appearance here, his patience is about to be rewarded.

The two long trains, each of as many cars as the biggest locomotive can haul, will reach this city early Tuesday morning, and so perfect is the organization of the show that by the time the average business man is drinking his morning coffee, the huge tents will be erected, and the five hundred and fifty people and horses will be having their breakfast preparatory to starting out to cover the principal streets of the city in the enormous free street parade, which is always given the morning of show day.

No more picturesque or enticing pageant than the parade has ever been offered as a free exhibition to the public. Its hundreds and hundreds of horses, band wagons, tableau wagons, cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Russian Cossacks, Mexican ropers, sharpshooters, rough riders, broncho busters, clowns and all the others who combine to perform this extraordinary organization, require more than twenty minutes to pass a given point, which means in other words that the procession is more than a mile long.

The quality of the show is exemplified by the parade. It is genuine on every detail. Its cowboys have lived their lives on the great ranches of Oklahoma, Texas, Wyoming or New Mexico; its cowgirls have seldom, if ever seen a larger gathering of human beings than are brought together by a cattle roundup, while its Indians are in charge of United States Government Interpreter, who is responsible

Wichita Falls, Texas, Sept. 23, 1913

Before making up your mind as to whether a change of form in a city government is necessary...

Gov. Colquhitt has issued a proclamation setting aside November 8th and 9th as Good Roads Days...

At last night's meeting of the friends of Commission government it was asserted by one of the speakers...

About two years ago the Dallas people through the agency of the initiative voted for public resting places, swimming pools, etc.

MR. BIBB WRITES ABOUT DALLAS GOVERNMENT.

What a Wichita Falls lawyer who once lived in Dallas says about the Commission Government.

To The Times: I have always opposed the commission plan since its inception or inception in Dallas, for many reasons; primarily, because it is a radical departure from the representative government of our fathers...

Through a self-appointed, oligarchic committee composed of local capitalists and their representatives, the association always names the candidates for the commission places...

The people in Dallas, a local club known as the Citizens' Association, controlled by millionaires and near millionaires, have selected, supported and elected the commissioners for the people there.

The arrogance of the Citizens' Association committee in furnishing the commissioners for Dallas is something astounding. The interests of the people in general, they consider but a distant second.

citizens, to follow and preserve the principles and practices, upon which, the experience of the past, the wisdom of the statesmen and the universal testimony of the American people have set the seal of approval.

The question before the people involves the underlying principle of democracy, the object being to preserve what is good in the body politic by reforming in time what may be evil; to conform our municipal government to the great object of civil institutions; to contribute good to the people as a whole and not as a part, set or special class of people.

In Dallas, as before said, the candidate for the commission places are named by a few influential men, the aforesaid committee of the Citizens' Association. They are pledged to nobody, to no specific principle; the people must take them on faith, because, forsooth, they are the creation of the mysterious committee, which can do no wrong and therefore like Caesar's wife, the candidates are above suspicion.

The people in Dallas are no longer their own political masters; they have submerged their individualities, parted with their sovereignty and become disfranchised automatons in the hands of the oligarchic, holler than thou committee of the Citizens' Association.

SCHOOL HYGIENE SERIOUS MATTER

UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE LOOKING INTO PROBLEMS

"Sight and hearing are the two senses which are the most important to safeguard during childhood, yet it is these two which we find most commonly defective among school children. Many children, not learning properly in school, are backward because of some defect of the eyes or ears, usually of a remediable nature. Some twenty per cent of all school children suffer from defective vision, while from six to seven per cent have defective hearing."

DREAMERS

Men and women who do things, have always been dreamers. They dream of something nearer the ideal, than the other fellow then they get busy and do it. "The populace say 'they are a genius,' but they are only ordinary folks that make day dreaming a habit, that must come true. Dreamers in every line, if they develop their ideas, make a hit. They are listed on this mundane sphere as Electricians, mechanics, bankers, lawyers, doctors and preachers, the farmer and the day laborer, battling with adversity. In our own little place, "the best known to the science of our craft is not enough." A better plant and studio, a truer conception of harmony both in subjects and surroundings, telling the story of life today in all of its fullness that the children of tomorrow may read, your life, your thoughts and dream of your great love for those who passed before you, and in so doing be made better for the thought. Our memorials to your loved ones are everlasting. It is not a duty, but a glorious privilege.
