

An Open Letter on Butter-Nut Bread

For several days past I have had to refuse to send my customers hot Butter-Nut Bread, and I want to explain why I have had to do this.

In deciding to put out the Butter-Nut Bread, I did so only after the most thorough examination into its quality, and upon being convinced that the ingredients in it were the best that could be put into any loaf of bread. In the study of methods employed in the best bakeries of the United States, I also became convinced that the only sanitary method of handling bread was to wrap it in an airtight, dustproof, waxed wrapper. To this end I installed machinery to wrap and seal the loaves, so that it was never touched by hand from the time it went into the oven until it was put on the table to be eaten. I made Butter-Nut Bread out of ingredients that cost nearly twice as much as the ordinary loaf of baker's bread, but I made just one mistake. I tried to deliver it to my customers hot.

Now, in the nature of things, one cannot wrap a hot loaf of bread in an airtight wrapper and have it come out good. The chemical process that takes place in the cooling of bread after it is baked makes it imperative that it lie in the open air until cooled, else it becomes soggy, just the same as if it were confined in an airtight bread box before cooling.

For this reason I have decided in the future not to deliver Butter-Nut Bread while it is hot, and those who desire it hot from the oven should come to the store and get it before it is wrapped. In this way I believe I can serve the people of Wichita Falls with the best bread that was ever turned out of any bakery, and I know it will reach my customers in the most sanitary and healthful manner possible. It will be on sale in all of the leading grocery stores of this city, and will always be fresh and pure. Give it a trial.

DECLARE SOUL OF MURDERER DEAD

SUCH IS ALIENISTS' VERDICT IN CASE OF A. WAGNER, WHOLE-SALE SLAYER.

LIKELY TO BE EXECUTED

is Placed in Category of Those Sane and Responsible, But Emotionally Dead.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Sane and responsible, but "emotionally dead," is the verdict today of physicians, mental experts and psychologists who have examined A. Wagner, the murderer of sixteen persons at Mulhausen, Wagner was a school teacher and during the first week in September, cut the throats of his sleeping wife and four children, set Mulhausen in flames at night and then opened fire with two automatic revolvers on the scantily clad villagers as they fled from their burning homes.

Experts declare Wagner's mental condition as not abnormal, but that he is "dead to all feeling and emotion." They compare him to the McNamara brothers, who confessed to a series of dynamite killings culminated in the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times with a big loss of life, and with Mrs. Guinness, the "female Bluebeard," who conducted the "murder train" in Indiana.

As a result of this expert opinion that Wagner is sane and was when he committed his crimes, he will in all probability expiate them on the headman's block, in sharp contrast to the punishment meted out to the McNamaras.

Wagner is placed in the category of those whose souls are dead. Glances into the working of his mind are given by those who have examined him. Wagner has no regrets and does not feel at all sorry for what he has done. He regrets only that he could not have "finished off" his brother's family of nine persons which he had carefully planned and for which purpose he had secreted 200 cartridges in his brother's stable. He had first gone through his brother's house, noting carefully where each member of the family slept. He finally decided, he says, to start with his own family, then "get as many as he could" in Mulhausen, and finish up with his brother's family. His capture by the villagers prevented him from carrying out the rest of his plan.

Wagner, like the Rev. Father Hans Schmidt, Roman Catholic priest, who dismembered the body of Anna Mueller while she was still alive and threw the parts into the Hudson river, declares that "there are too many people in the world who ought not to be here." Like Father Schmidt, he declares "it were better that half the people in the world were killed off." He calls himself a "positivist" and professes to belong to the "school of pessimism" of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche. Wagner's trial is to be called in a few weeks.

RESULTS OF SATURDAY'S FOOTBALL CONTESTS

Harvard 14, Bates 0.
By Associated Press.
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 4.—Playing a conservative game, Harvard registered fourteen points against Bates and held their opponents without a score on the water-soaked gridiron of the Stadium today.

Maine 0, Yale 0.
By Associated Press.
New Haven, Conn., Oct. 4.—University of Maine's football team gave Yale the biggest surprise in years on Yale field this afternoon by holding the Blue to a 0 to 0 score. Yale used a new variation of the Minnesota wing shift that was a great ground gainer, but whenever a score seemed imminent there was hesitancy and then fumbling which prevented touchdowns. Yale's defense was excellent.

Princeton 59, Fordham 0.
By Associated Press.
Princeton, N. J., Oct. 4.—Princeton defeated Fordham in football this afternoon by a score of 59 to 0. The Tigers played an entirely open game.

St. Louis 11, Cincinnati 2.
St. Louis, Oct. 4.—St. Louis won the first game of the final series with Cincinnati this afternoon eleven to two. Patrick was hit hard and his team mates held raggedly. The score:
Cincinnati 2 6 7
St. Louis 11 13 0
Batteries—Dankard and Blackburn; Stewart, Perritt and Snider.

MENAGERIE IS FEATURE OF THE RINGLING CIRCUS

Collection of Animals Costing Over $1,000,000 To Be Shown Here October 15

Every representative of strange animal life is to be found under the menagerie tent of Ringling Bros. circus which on Wednesday, October 15, will give two exhibitions in Wichita Falls. The collection cost over $1,000,000. It is an open library of natural science from which all may read. In rebuilding the show for this year, all the old animals were sold to other shows throughout the country. They were not considered rare enough to remain longer with this menagerie in the new collection, all of which was secured direct from the various wild spots of the earth by the show's own hunters, there are to be found hundreds of specimens that are new to this country, and only the very finest of those animals which have been seen before but still are necessary to complete a big menagerie.

Everything possible is done to make visitors enjoy themselves. Usually patrons are afraid to ask questions in a circus menagerie for fear of discourteous replies. No such fears need be felt in the zoological department of this show. There are uniformed lecturers who are paid to give information to patrons. A great deal of interest is thus added to the zoo.

Here are given a few of the strange facts of animal life that can be learned: A giraffe has no vocal organs and makes no sound. Its hind feet are not shorter than its front feet as some suppose. It can go longer than a camel without food or water. A hippopotamus exudes blood from its pores when it is angry. An elephant does not smell with its trunk, as is often said. The height of an elephant can be told by measuring its foot. Twice around the animal's foot at the ground is its height. This rule never fails.

Among the 1,000 other animals are fine specimens of the hippopotamus and rhinoceros tribes, all varieties of the cat, bear and deer families, gnus, nyghaus, laxies, yaks, kangaroos, zebras, llamas, horned horses, Philippine cattle, water buffalo, hyenas, an-eaters, tapirs, vlak vaarks, wart hogs, peccaries, emus, porcupines, camels, dromedaries, ostriches, behemoths, giraffes, seals and sealions.

SPEED MANIAC OF AIR FLIES FASTER THAN EVER BEFORE

MAURICE PREVOST

Rheims, Oct. 4.—Maurice Prevost won for France the international aeroplane cup, open to all nations, with only France and Belgium competing, by flying the 124 1/2 miles in the record time of 59 minutes 45 seconds, or more than two miles a minute. Observers were thrilled by the marvelous speed of Prevost's winged monoplane. The flying machine at one moment seemed like a bird in the distance, a few seconds later the craft was passing with shrilly whirring propeller and then again rapidly dwindled in size, flying at terrific speed.

SOME PECULIAR KOREAN CUSTOMS

OBEEDIENCE TO ASTROLOGERS SOOTHSAYERS GENERALLY GIVEN.

MATRIMONIAL CUSTOMS

Widows Not Allowed to Marry Again But Are Often Abducted by Needy Suitors.

Seoul, Korea, Oct. 4.—A curious social fact about Korea is that the most numerous crimes committed by Koreans are connected in some way with tombs and burials. This is the conclusion of M. Kokubu, Chief Public Prosecutor of the Supreme Court here. A common occurrence is for Koreans to bury their dead in ground belonging to other people without first obtaining the consent of the owner. This is sometimes accomplished in secret, sometimes by force, and it is almost invariably done under cover of darkness.

The underlying reason for these offenses is the Korean superstition that the prosperity or unhappiness of the surviving members of the family in which death has occurred, as well as the happiness of the departed person, depends upon the selection of the burial ground of the dead. Therefore, when Koreans are told by soothsayers that a certain spot is good for the burial place, they do not hesitate to take possession of the indicated ground.

Blackmail concerning tombs is also frequent. The criminals first open the tombs belonging to some wealthy family, then remove the head of the corpse and hold it for ransom. In former times the blackmailer succeeded, as Koreans believe that the desecration of tombs brings woe to those who allowed them to remain in a ruined condition. Recently these crimes have decreased, owing to the activity of the police.

Influenced by Confucianism, Korean women in general believe that they are morally bound not to marry a second time. On the other hand, many men cannot marry on account of the great expense attached to the ceremony. These two conditions have combined to bring about abductions, which are very often nothing more than elopements. Immediately a woman loses her husband some Dou Juan in needy circumstances is certain to undertake her rescue from widowhood. Accompanied by friends, he goes to the woman's house at midnight and bears her away. Afterward the marriage is announced at a banquet and nobody blames the abductor or the abducted, who are supposed to be happy forever afterward.

The investigation of crime and criminals in Korea by Procurator Konkubu, and the tradition of the widow's abduction led him to study marriage customs in general. These he finds have not been changed by the annexation of the peninsula to Japan.

All classes of Koreans marry very early. Not infrequently one meets in Korea boys and girls of fourteen or fifteen already married. These boy-and-girl marriages are arranged by their parents, the young people having no voice in the matter. The decision rests with an astrologer, to whom the parents of a prospective couple go for advice. If the astrologer decides against the pact the matter is dropped. If his advice is favorable, presents are exchanged between the two families and the coming wedding is announced to the actual parties to the alliance. They are, however, still not allowed to see each other.

In Korea, girls are kept confined in an "inner chamber" and are not allowed to go out. They are entirely cut off from society, and consequently are melancholy and unsocial. The wedding announcement is accepted by the prospective bride as heart-breaking news, for she has to leave her own family and join strange people. On the wedding day she says goodbye to her parents and goes to the bridegroom's house, carried in a Korean chair covered with a tiger's skin. This the Koreans believe, keeps away the evil spirit. The bride is only allowed to see her husband for the first time when the wedding ceremony is over, for during the ceremony her head is enveloped in a thick veil.

An attempt of a few politicians in Korea to form a "righteous army" to restore Korea to its independence has collapsed and the leaders have been sentenced to jail chiefly on the ground that they were obtaining money under false pretences.

The defendants, numbering three, were recently tried in the local court at Seoul. The hearing had all the picturesque of a Korean gathering, the top-knots and the historic Korean stove-pipe hats contrasting quaintly with the modern European dress of the up to date Korean dandy.

Two of the defendants were Confucian scholars and the third a farmer. They declared that their ambition was to show to foreign powers that Koreans were discontented with Japanese rule, and that the restoration of independence was justified and desirable. The "righteous army" numbered about fifty, and they realized they were weak. Money was collected for traveling expenses, but nothing ever came to the movement.

Yi Ching No, a small thin man, who stated that he had been made chief of the general staff of the army, accused the police of having beaten him as a means of forcing him to make incriminatory statements. The defendants were vague as to the disposition of the money collected for the independence movement. Kim Chai Sun was sentenced to two years for having obtained money under false pretences and having invented a story about the "People's Party" in Japan which was supposed to be ready to help the Koreans to win back their independence. Kwak Han was given one and a half years for helping to organize the "righteous army," and Yi Ching No six months for conspiracy against the government.

JACKSON TRIAL AT ARCHER CITY

CASE WILL BE CALLED IN DISTRICT COURT THERE TOMORROW

SPECIAL VENIRE ORDERED

Defendant Is Charged With Murder of C. P. Yeary In This City Several Months Ago

In the district court at Archer City tomorrow, the case of G. H. Jackson, charged with the murder of Charles P. Yeary at a wagon yard in this city several months ago, will be called for trial. A special venire of sixty men has been ordered from which to select a jury.

A number of Wichitans will attend the trial and will go to Archer City today or tomorrow. District Judge Martin and District Attorney Scurry have been at Archer City since court opened last week.

The defense is represented by Walter Nelson and the firm of Carrigan, Montgomery and Britain, all of this city. It is understood the plea will be self-defense. This case was transferred to the Archer county court on a change of venue after Jackson had been indicted by the grand jury at the June term of district court here. Yeary's death followed a fight between him and Jackson in which Yeary's throat was cut and Jackson was cut in the back by a hatchet by a third party.

Good stands of wheat and oats have come up in many fields of stubble that had been plowed before the rains. Many fields are green with the growing crop and the owners have been saved the trouble and expense of sowing the crop and at the same time are assured of good fall and winter pasturage.

Reports from all sections are that a large acreage of wheat and oats will be sown, and it is probable that the acreage in these crops will be the largest in many years. Farmers report the best fall season in ten years.

A New Hospital Plan For City Of Wichita Falls

Editor of The Times: The subject of a hospital for Wichita Falls has been discussed pro and con now for many years, and with the present light before us it does not appear that any acceptable plan has been, or will likely be attained in the near future.

With due regard to all concerned especially those gentlemen who have maintained such institutions here I would say that during the recent session of the legislature a law was passed making it obligatory for the county commissioners to order an election in each county having a city of more than 10,000 inhabitants, providing for co-operation of counties and cities in erecting and maintaining hospitals.

Now, since we have the required number of inhabitants and such an election must be held, what is the use of going to the expense of erecting and maintaining another institution, when two such institutions will not pay?

It is to be admitted that the original idea was perhaps that such counties and cities should provide a place where the local indigent population could be provided for without the heretofore red tape procedure necessary to secure entrance into a state institution and that each county should provide suitable places outside the prison walls where physical and mental ill would not be in such close contact with those confined wherein moral questions were involved.

It seems that heretofore some question has been brought into each proposition that precluded all possibility of those most vitally interested working in harmony. Under the present law, there is ample room for co-operation of all and every state and local. The county hospital movement is gradually but surely crystallizing and gaining momentum. The movement is actually on foot at the present time

DEATH COMES TO GEORGE A SOULE

PIONEER CITIZEN AND VETERAN STAGE DRIVER DIED EARLY SATURDAY MORNING

AN ADVENTURESOME LIFE

Owned and Operated Stage Lines Out of Jackboro, Fort Griffin and This City

George Alonso Soule, pioneer citizen, owner of freight lines and stage driver in Western Texas before the days of the railroads and a man whose honesty and integrity were proverbial, died at his home at 907 Travis street in this city at 5:45 o'clock Saturday morning. His death followed a paralytic stroke last Sunday morning.

In the death of Mr. Soule there passed one who had seen more of adventure and more of hardship than most men, yet who was withal a man of great modesty and one who never boasted. Mr. Soule was born at Mound City, Ill., October 16, 1840, and would therefore have celebrated his seventy-third birthday anniversary on the sixteenth of this month, had he lived. In his early youth he moved with his father's family to Kansas where, at Emporia in 1859, he was married to Miss Lilla Clapp, sister of Will Clapp, of this city. Mrs. Soule died nine years ago. Three children survive: Miss Etta Soule, with whom her father made his home in this city; W. A. Soule, of this city; and Mrs. M. E. King of Hattiesburg, Miss. Mrs. King was called to her father's bedside Monday, arriving several days before his death.

Mr. Soule came to Texas in 1872 first settling at Jackboro, then one of the outposts of civilization in West Texas. For several years he operated a freight and stage line between that place and Fort Worth and Dallas. In 1876 he moved to old Fort Griffin, an army post where troops were stationed to hold in restraint the Indians and also headquarters for the buffalo hunters and a hide market. From 1876 to 1883 Mr. Soule owned and operated stage lines between Fort Griffin and Fort Concho, the latter being where San Angelo now stands. He also operated a stage line from Fort Griffin to Seymour.

In 1883 he brought his family to Wichita Falls, arriving about the same time as the railroad and made this place his headquarters for the operation of stage lines to Archer City, Henrietta and Paula Valley, Benjamin, Vernon and Quanah.

More than once Mr. Soule was compelled to pull up his team of four, six and even eight horses at the command of highwaymen, emphasized with Winchester and the drop on the sturdy and courageous driver. The section of the country through which Mr. Soule operated his stage lines was truly rough and woolly in those times and a stage driver met with more adventure than any other character of the frontier. Mr. Soule, however, talked but little of his part in the many adventures, and what little is known has been learned almost entirely from his stage drivers and hostlers or passengers who rode with him.

After the advent of the railroad and when the stage lines were no longer necessary Mr. Soule ran livery barns at Wichita Falls, at Harrold and at Vernon, being engaged in that business up to within a short time of his death. Throughout his life Mr. Soule retained a strong affection for that most useful friend of man, the horse, and his gentleness in his handling of horses and livestock and his excellent care of his stock was a characteristic of the man in latter years. It has been a pleasing sight to see this venerable man riding his thoroughbred mare through the streets with a colt following at her heels or driving a spirited colt to a cart. The horses returned the affection of the man. Several years ago while driving a party of Wichitans to Holliday the coach overturned and Mr. Soule's shoulder was broken and his arm hung limply ever afterwards. A little more than a year ago a buggy driven by Mr. Soule was struck by an automobile and he sustained injuries which hastened his death. It is believed. Although crippled and worn with exposure Mr. Soule kept going and was active in looking after his horses and stock until the week of his death. He was a member of no church and belonged to no fraternal organizations but no man had a better reputation for honesty and integrity and few have lived a less blameless life. The funeral service will be held at the family residence at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. J. L. McKee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate.

RACE SUICIDE IN GLASS WORKERS GERMANY FEARED

BIRTHS STILL EXCEED DEATHS BUT NOT AS MUCH AS FORMERLY.

OTHER NEWS OF BERLIN

Courts Decide Police Can Say When It Is Dark and When It Isn't Regardless.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—It is dark in Prussia whenever the police say it is dark. The mere fact that it may still happen to be daylight in defiance of police orders is of no importance.

This is the decree of the Prussian Supreme Court in an appeal taken by a truck owner accused of driving after dark without a lantern on his wagon. The law prescribes that a lantern must be carried by such vehicles after dark, and the police have decided that the dark thirty minutes after the sun sets. The defendant admitted that he had driven after the prescribed time without a lantern. Two lower courts permitted him to prove his contention and acquitted him. The police, the lower courts held, have no power to set a certain time when it shall be considered dark. The actual conditions must govern in each case. The Supreme Court has reversed this decision upon appeal by the prosecutor and imposed a fine on the offender.

An analogous ruling has been made in an action for damages, brought by a tenant of an apartment house who had fallen in a dark hallway and injured himself. The landlord pleaded that the hour had not yet arrived when, by police regulation, hallways must be lighted. The plaintiff offered proof that it was quite dark when the accident happened. The proof was excluded as irrelevant. The police, said the court, had decided that it was dark at a specified hour and that settled it.

A decided check in the growth of Germany's population, most alarming to the military apostles of the empire, is shown by the statistics for 1911 which have just been published.

The surplus of births over deaths fell from 879,000 in 1910 to 740,000 in 1911, a shrinkage in the rate of growth of 129,000, or over 15 per cent. This marked retardation in the growth of the nation is found due both to a reduction in the number of births and an increase in the death rate. Despite an increase in marriages from 496,356 to 512,819, the total number of births for the empire dropped from 1,382,836 in 1910 to 1,297,039 in 1911, while on the other hand the number of deaths rose from 1,103,738 to 1,187,094, an increase of more than 83,000. This increase in mortality is attributed chiefly to the extraordinary heat and drought which prevailed during the summer of 1911 and under which infants suffered with particular severity.

Almost a third of the deaths, 355,522, during the year were of children under one year old, some 48,000 babies more than in 1910 succumbing to the heat. The death rate for children in their first year rose from 16.2 in 1910 to 19.2 in 1911. The general death rate, too, after a steady decline for a number of years, rose to 18.2 per 1,000 as compared with 17.1 in 1910.

Summing up the statistics in another form, the net surplus of births over deaths per thousand of population was only 11.3 in 1911, as against 15.6 in 1910 and 14.9 in 1906. These statistics bring out also the fact that at most 30 per cent of the illegitimate children died before reaching their first birthday.

A novel interpretation of how the Monroe doctrine should be applied after the completion of the Panama Canal has just been voiced by a German diplomat of authority and high position. In substance it is to give the United States full control as far south as the isthmian waterway, but to let the countries of Europe, including Germany, have a free field from Panama to Tierra del Fuego.

The high standing of this diplomat may reasonably be expected to influence the standpoint of Germany in any future controversy involving the famous doctrine of American foreign relations; consequently his views are not without a certain interest. He would cut the American continent in two at the Panama Canal and allow to the United States full and free hand as far south as that waterway, but exclude from the sphere of any Washington supervision or control the relations of Germany and the other European powers with the state of South America. He believes Germany should refrain from any interference whatsoever in Mexico, and that the same rule should apply to all the Central American states. This would involve a virtual extension of the southern boundary of the United States to the Canal, so far as the relations of these states to the European powers is concerned. This it will be seen, is the Monroe doctrine for Central America in an even stronger form than is at present enforced.

But the European states must and should, this diplomat believes, be allowed to settle their controversies with the countries south of this line in their own way and without reference to Washington. The role of the United States as guardian and protector to the whole continent is, he believes, a thing of the past; the South American states have reached years of discretion; they are out of the legitimate sphere of control of the American Department of State; the countries of Europe are entitled to insist on a free hand in their relations with them.

GLASS WORKERS GET AN INCREASE

WINDOW GLASS PLANT WILL OPEN OCT. 27—BOTTLE PLANT OCT 25

WAGE SCALE IS SETTLED

Fires at Two Plants Already Lighted and Opening of Tanks Eagerly Awaited

With a ten per cent advance in wages for the window glass plant workers and practically the same for the bottle factory employees, the announcements were authorized yesterday that the window glass factory would reopen October 27 and the bottle plant sometime before November 1, probably about October 25.

These announcements followed advices from Pittsburg, that an agreement had been reached between the representatives of the factories and those of the workmen, as to the wage scale. The new scale carries a raise of ten per cent for the window glass workers, a compromise; the bottle plant employees also get an advance, but the exact percentage is not known. Manager W. E. Busby of the window plant said yesterday afternoon that the fires were already lighted and that preparations were under way for reopening on October 27.

This news will be more than welcome to the members of the glass working trades in this city, for some of these had feared that the negotiations would result in the plants failing to reopen. That both factories will soon be running again and at an advance in wages, will be welcome news to practically everyone.

The workmen had asked for a twenty per cent advance and the representatives of the factories at first declined to consider anything above the scale of last year. Several meetings were held, without result, and it was not until yesterday that a compromise agreement was effected. The agreement means the reopening of dozens of glass plants throughout the country, most of them in Ohio and Pennsylvania, a few in Indiana, West Virginia and Kansas and two in Wichita Falls.

SENATOR LAFOLLETTE WILL SPEAK HERE

Famed Progressive Leader Will Speak Here October 23 Under High School Auspices

Robert LaFollette, senator from Wisconsin, progressive republican, insurgent and other things, will speak in Wichita Falls on October 23, according to an announcement made yesterday by Professor O. H. Carpenter, superintendent of public schools. Prof. Carpenter was instrumental in bringing the distinguished speaker to this city, and it is arranged that the proceeds will go to some high school enterprise.

Prof. Carpenter yesterday secured the promises of a number of Wichitans to take tickets for the speaking, so as to be assured of a sufficient amount to guarantee the expense of bringing Senator LaFollette here, which is considerable.

POSTPONE EXHIBIT UNTIL NEXT FRIDAY

Rains Prevented Many Farmers From Attending and Award of Prizes Postponed

The heavy rain of Friday night prevented more than half a dozen farmers getting to Wichita Falls with their exhibits, in the contest for the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association prizes, and it was decided to postpone the exhibit until next Friday. At that time, the awards will be made and the products collected for exhibit at the Dallas Fair.

Enough farm products have already been received to make a very creditable display a certainty, but it is believed that a great many more would have come in early yesterday had the weather permitted, and it was decided to postpone the exhibit until next Friday.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES CAUSE OF SUICIDE AT MANGUM.

(Altus Times) W. H. Jacobs, aged about 42 years, president of the Snow Grocery Company with stores at Granite, Willow, Sentinel and two at Mangum, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with an automatic revolver Sunday afternoon at his place of business at Mangum. Deceased was married and leaves a wife and two children. Jacobs had apparently been in usual health and spirits Sunday, and at 3:30 p. m. entered the buggy of a friend and drove from his home to his place of business. When they reached the store he made an excuse that he wanted to go inside for a moment. His friend waited half an hour and as Jacobs did not return, sent a passerby into the store to tell him to come on. He was found seated in a chair in his office, dead, with a bullet in his heart and a revolver in his hand. Financial troubles are supposed to have been the cause of his taking his life. In evidence of last week the firm made an assignment, with assets of $199,000 and liabilities of about $65,000. Mr. Jacobs carried life insurance to the amount of $40,000, which is thought will be sufficient to clear up any financial obligations he may have had.

ANOTHER INCH RAINFALL HERE

HEAVY SHOWER FRIDAY NIGHT AND DRIZZLE SATURDAY MORNING

LAKE WICHITA IS RISING

Big Wichita River Still Swollen and Whole Section of State Thoroughly Drenched.

Another inch of rainfall was added to the precipitation that Wichita Falls has received within the past few days, there being a heavy shower Friday night. The shower followed a damp Friday and it was cloudy yesterday until about noon when the sun broke through the clouds once more. The rain brought a slight rise in Lake Wichita and will probably increase the stage considerably more as soon as Archer county's share of the rain is declined. The Wichita River is still at an unusually high stage, or at least it seems high after the faint trickle that the river dwindled to during August. On the Denver, points from Childress to Decatur had about the same amount of rainfall at Wichita Falls. On the Wichita Valley south of here the rain was considerably heavier than in this city and there was some minor damage along the railroad line.

DISTRICT MEETING OF FARMERS' UNION HELD.

One hundred and twenty-five delegates representing fourteen counties met here Friday in the regular quarterly meeting of the Wichita Valley District Farmers' Union. The meeting was adjourned at a late hour Friday night. The union has completed the financing of the Farmers' Union cotton oil mill here and shipments of seed are now coming in at a rapid rate considering the meager crop in this section.

The starting of operations at this plant has been delayed for the installation of two 150 horsepower boilers and a 250 horse power engine.

WICHITA FALLS STORES OBSERVE 9 HOUR LAW

Various Expedients Resorted to by Stores to Keep Within Law's Requirements.

Yesterday was the first Saturday since the new nine hour law for women became effective and various expedients were resorted to by the dry goods stores employing women to live up to the requirements of the law. This law provides that female employees shall not be worked more than fifty-four hours in any one week and that they shall not be worked more than ten hours in any one day.

Some of the stores arranged it so that their female employees were given several hours off by rotation during the day and in this manner were enabled to keep their stores open last night until ten o'clock. One store which conducts a ladies and a mens department closed its women's department at 9 o'clock.

Wanted! Perfectly healthy men and women who will voluntarily submit to an experiment which may lead to temporary or permanent impairment of health, or possible death. This experiment to be conducted with the coffee drug, "caffeine."

Would You Apply for the Job?

Thousands are trying the experiment every day in spite of the fact that physicians and government experts have proven:

- That the average cup of coffee contains about 2-1-2 grs. of caffeine;
That caffeine is attributed to be one of the principal causes of headache, biliousness, heart disease, indigestion and kidney, liver and bowel trouble;
That caffeine in doses as small as that contained in two average cups of coffee has killed rabbits, guinea pigs and other animals at the laboratories of the Gov't in Washington and elsewhere.
To be sure a guinea pig or a rabbit may weigh but a pound or two, while the average human may weigh 160 times as much.
A few cups of coffee or a single cup (according to the resistance of the individual) will not kill, but the poison is there and can be added to day by day.
That's why so many coffee drinkers suffer from headache, dizziness, indigestion, and other symptoms referable to the poison effect on heart, liver, nerves, kidneys and stomach.
If you know coffee has no bad effect in your particular case and you like it, why, bless your heart, stick to it, but if coffee drinking leaves its tell-tale mark by some symptoms of physical discomfort or peace of mind, it's a good idea to stop and use

POSTUM

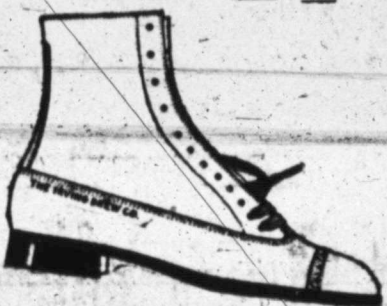

This pure food-beverage, made of prime wheat and the juice of southern sugarcane, makes a rich, seal-brown blend turning to golden-brown when cream is added, which tastes much like real Oriental Java but is absolutely free from the coffee drug "caffeine." Postum comes in two forms. One, called Regular Postum, must be boiled full 15 minutes. The other, Instant Postum, is in powder form and a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes the beverage instantly. Grocers keep both kinds. "There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Something You Can't Buy

There is one thing in our stock which you can't buy no matter how much you will offer for it, and yet we gladly give one with each purchase made at our store.

This is a jewelry box bearing the Art Loan and Jewelry Co. imprint.

The name Art Loan and Jewelry Co. on a jewelry box indicates that the contents are of a high quality.

It has taken years of consistent fair dealing to build up this enviable reputation and it is therefore necessary to protect it.

Otherwise many persons would buy jewelry at some irresponsible place and then put the Art Loan and Jewelry Co. guaranty upon it by placing it in an Art Loan and Jewelry Co. box.

And so our stock of boxes is as zealously guarded as our diamonds and jewels.

Therefore, when some one gives you an Art Loan and Jewelry Co. box you may be sure that you are getting a gift that bears the acknowledged distinction found always in anything that comes from this store.

This Is Mountain Moving Day At The First Christian Church

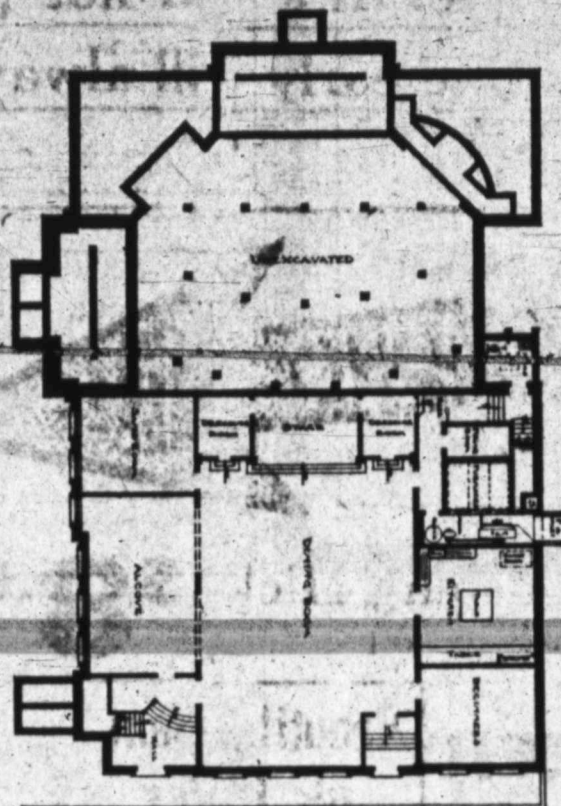

This is "Mountain Moving Day" at the First Christian Church. Rally services will be held at which an effort will be made to raise $7,000 in order that the handsome new church now building at the corner of Tenth and Travis street may be dedicated free from debt. Those who know the spirit of this congregation and the liberality with which they have contributed toward the building of the new church are not doubtful of the results.

The church when completed will cost $40,000 of this amount all excepting $7,000 has been paid in and paid out and the beautiful new church, one of the handsomest and most commodious in the entire State, is nearing completion. The church occupies a beautiful site on a hill overlooking Tenth street and the business section of the city. It has ground dimensions 55x124 feet, is pure Greek in architecture, and has over thirty rooms.

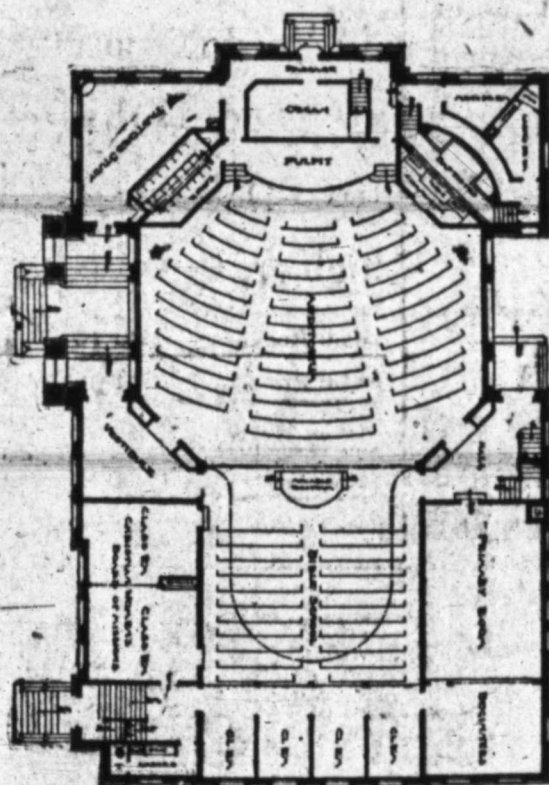

The basement is a full story with all windows above ground; provides for men's toilet, heating and ventilating plant, kitchen, young people's headquarters, banquet hall 56x68 feet which will also be used for the junior Bible school department, all classes seated around tables with graded work, a large stage for all entertainments. The athletic equipment will be installed in the basement so young people need not look wholly to the world for recreation and amusement.

The main floor has a large auditorium to be used only for worship and special services regularly. This, we hope, will become a center of thoughtful, quiet reverence and devotion. It has a beautiful open baptistry and communion, choir seating for twenty-one. A three-thousand dollar organ located back of speaker's platform. There are double entrances, a large study and two robing rooms back of choir and baptistry.

The Bible school department is the real workshop, opening into main auditorium directly in front of the pulpit. It is equipped for graded work, large beginners and primary departments arranged so little ones have no steps to climb; a large assembly room surrounded by class booths, library and Christian Woman's Board of Missions parlor. Three entrances lead to this department.

The upper story of Bible school department has headquarters room for superintendent, secretary and all supplies. Here all children must go to be enrolled and get assignment cards for departments from the grading committee. On north side is young men's room and a men's room sufficient for one hundred and fifty in a class. On south are the ladies' aid rooms, also to be used for ladies' classrooms and on this side are provided two rooms for young ladies, with four class booths. All of these rooms open into a large circular balcony. Above the study and baptistry are two rooms for choir and classes.

The pastor, Rev. F. F. Walters stated yesterday that the congregation would receive the building from the contractors probably this week. Between then and the first of November the seats, pews and organ are to be installed and the first services in the new building will be held the first of next month, if possible.

Plans are being made for dedicatory services which will continue for a week and which are expected to start the church in its new home on a secure footing.

WILL SOON UNITE OCEANS' WATERS

GAMBOA DIKE, LAST OBSTRUCTION, TO BE BLOWN UP IN SHORT TIME.

TO FLOOD CULEBRA CUT

Step Marks Beginning of the End of Work on Canal, Joining Two Oceans.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—Arrangements are practically completed for the blowing up next week of Gamboa dike, which will mean the flooding of Culebra Cut and the practical completion of the water connection between the Atlantic and the Pacific ocean. Gamboa dike is a great artificial embankment at the northern end of the famous Culebra Cut. It was erected to prevent the waters of the Chagres River and of Gatun Lake, created artificially by impounding the waters of the Chagres River, from flowing into the Culebra Cut while the excavating work was going on there. This dike is nearly 1,000 feet long, 48.3 feet high, 183 feet wide at the base and 85 feet wide at the top.

Gatun Lake, the waters of which will be released by the dynamiting of the Gamboa dike, came into existence on April 25, 1910, when the western diversion dam at Gatun was closed and the flow from the Chagres and Trinidad rivers was forced through the artificially constructed spillway channel. Since then the waters in the lake have risen gradually, and will fall the rising of the lake caused the waters of the Chagres River to back up against the great dike at Gamboa which protected Culebra Cut. The flow and the rising continued and for several months the water backed up against the Gamboa dike has been higher than the bottom of the finished portion of Culebra Cut.

Since the morning of June 27 last the gate of the sluices through the ogee of the Gatun spillway has been closed. At that time the surface of the water in Gatun Lake was 48.3 feet above sea level, having been maintained at that level since January 1, 1913, when the sluice gates were opened. The spillway has been completed and the sluice gates will not be opened again before the final completion of the canal. This means that the lake is on its final rise to the operating level. Under conditions of normal runoff of the Chagres and other streams which are pouring their flow into Gatun Lake, where the water is held confined, it is believed that Gatun Lake will reach its final level of 85 feet above the level of the sea about December 4 of this year. If the calculations of the engineers have been correct, the diversion of the waters of the Gatun Lake into Culebra Cut next week should give a twenty-one foot channel through the cut. The town of Gorgona would be covered with water and wiped off the map.

The top of the dike at Gamboa is 78.2 feet above sea level, but, even if the dike should not be blown up, the water in the lake would not reach that height for some time. The waters now impounded in Gatun Lake represent the draining of a basin comprising 1,320 square miles. When the surface of the water in the lake rises to 85 feet, the level at which it will be maintained for the operation of the canal, the lake will have an area of 164 square miles. It will be the largest artificially created lake in the world. There will be 183,000,000,000 cubic feet of water in the lake. When the level of the lake is 85 feet above sea level there will be a depth of 45 feet in Culebra Cut.

After Gamboa dike has been dynamited and the water from Gatun Lake has flooded Culebra Cut, great dredges will be put to work to dredge the channel and to remove the enormous mass of material that will naturally be swept into the cut by the rushing waters of the lake and any masses of rock and soil that may find their way into the cut, having been shaken loose by the shock of the explosion.

Although the flooding of the Culebra Cut will be an event of great importance, highly significant in its bearing upon the final achievement of the canal, as it will mean the supplying of the last link connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific ocean, the blowing up of Gamboa dike will not be made the occasion of any extensive official celebration. There will be no elaborate exercises and the program for the occasion is extremely simple and matter of fact.

Col. Goethals, the guiding genius of the canal, clad in the white soldiers uniform which has made him a conspicuous figure during the work on the canal, will occupy a position just beyond the mud of the Gatun dam. With him will be a little staff of officers and a small number of civilians, all men who are actively engaged in the work on the great waterway. When the explosion comes, after everything is in readiness and the signal given, there will be a tremendous upheaval, followed by a mighty rush of waters from Gatun Lake, carrying enormous masses of rocks, soil, trees and other tropical vegetation into Culebra Cut. That will be all and on the following day the work of removing this mass and clearing the channel of the cut will be taken up by a number of dredges which have held in readiness for some time.

MOVING PICTURES IN SCHOOLS OF KANSAS

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 4.—Motion pictures as a regular part of the course of study in all the Kansas public schools, city and country, probably will be introduced shortly by the state textbook commission. W. C. Austin, state printer, and a member of the commission, has been studying the possibilities of moving pictures in education and is certain that much good can be accomplished in that way at small expense.

"The average country boy and girl does not need so many books as the city boy and girl," he said. "This is because the country boy and girl live with Nature. They see birds and animals and growing crops and know those things first hand, while the city child has to learn most of it from books and from teachers.

"Nature studies, agriculture, hygiene and health, fire prevention, first aid and similar subjects could be taught better by moving pictures than by books. Show the children actual animals and birds, growing plants and the processes of planting, cultivating and maturing, pictures of disease breeding places, the evolution of the house fly and other disease-bearing insects, and the children will get more vivid impressions and ones that will last longer than they could from books or lectures.

"The moving pictures would have to be graded, the same as the other studies are. The state would own the films, the same as it owns the copyrights on the textbooks it will publish. They would be sent out by the textbook commission and handled exclusively in the schools."

GASOLINE CAUSES FIRE AT NINTH AND BURNETT STREETS

Gasoline that had been used in accelerating the burning of some trash in the back yard at the home of O. R. Riggs, corner Ninth and Burnett streets, Saturday morning caused a small blaze. In some manner the gasoline made a trail to the back porch of the house and when the trash was kindled the flames ran to the house. The fire department was called out and the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

GATUN LOCKS, PANAMA CANAL COMPLETED WITH WATER LET IN. PHOTO BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

This picture is the first photograph taken on the Panama Canal showing the water in the Gatun locks and in the great Gatun lake, which is now rapidly filling. The Gamboa dike, the only barrier now existing between the Gatun lake and Culebra cut, will be destroyed by dynamite October 10. The Gatun lake, originally intended to be about 110 square miles in extent, will cover an area of more than 200 square miles. It was constructed to overcome the obstacle to the construction of the canal caused by the constant overflow ing of the Chagres River, which in the days when the French engineers were at work on the cut set at naught all their efforts. The Gatun locks are seventy-nine feet high and 1,000 feet long.

1912 VETERANS TO MEET AGAIN

SAME PLAYERS WHO FOUGHT LAST YEAR COMPRISE BACKBONES OF TWO TEAMS

LAST YEAR'S RECORDS

Composite Scores of Last Year's Series of Especial Interest and Significance Now.

New York, Oct. 4.—Veterans of the memorable struggle between the Giants and Athletics for the world's championship in 1912—

Of the fourteen Athletics who went to the diamond in the world's series of 1912, thirteen are in the list of twenty-five which Connie Mack has prepared as eligible for the forthcoming games.

What these men did in 1912, their past performances in the six games of that series, are of unusual significance and bearing on the present contest.

The first game of the series of 1913 was played Oct. 14 on the Polo Grounds, scene of this year's first encounter, before a crowd the like of which had never seen a baseball game before.

The second game was played at Philadelphia Oct. 16. Marquard took the ball for the Athletics for the Athletics' pitcher.

Philadelphia won the third game also, played in New York the following day, by a score of 3 to 2.

With Philadelphia twice winner out of three games, the series was interrupted by continued rainfall for a week.

On Oct. 24 the fourth game was played at Philadelphia. Mathewson pitched again for the Giants.

The attendance fell off to nearly 8,000, reflecting the sentiment that the Giants were doomed to defeat.

The composite score of the six games—played by practically the same men who will decide the fate of the championship flag this year—reads as follows.

Table with batting averages for Philadelphia and New York players, including columns for G, AB, R, H, and Pct.

*Batted for Mathewson in the third game; for Mathewson in the fourth game, and for Marquard in the fifth game.

FLAG HAS WAVED ABOVE 11 CITIES

TWENTY-ONE WORLD'S SERIES HAVE BEEN STAGED IN PAST YEARS.

FIRST PLAYED IN 1884

Several Years Skipped—Some History and Reminiscences of Past Conflicts.

New York, Oct. 4.—Twenty-one times have the pennant winners of the country fought for the world's championship on the diamond.

son, came back to Detroit and never since has crossed the Father of Waters.

A flag without a home, it has floated over eleven cities. Providence, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, New York, Louisville, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia—all have sent forth from time to time clubs that have fought victorious battles for the trophy.

Ninety-seven of the 134 games have been won by the teams which captured the flag.

The world's series will pass its twenty-fifth birthday, however, with the forthcoming contest between the Giants and Athletics. It first came into being in New York in 1884, when Providence, winner of the National League pennant, crossed bats with the victorious Metropolitan—New York's standard bearers—of the old American Association.

tionals and Americans fought for it in 1906 and the White Sox won it.

In 1907 and 1908 the Chicago Nationals won it easily from Detroit. Pittsburgh took her place on the championship map in 1909, the Detroit team being defeated for the third consecutive time in the world's series games.

Six of the eleven cities—Providence, St. Louis, Detroit, Louisville, Cleveland and Pittsburgh—have been the world's champions, but only once.

Results of World Series to Date.

The Plot of the Play

The story of the play is simple enough. Mr. Robert Stafford, a man of wealth, possessing the character and instincts of the born gentleman, falls in love with a poor telephone operator, Miss Virginia Blaine, a young woman of fine character and high ideals. Her refusal of his many invitations to partake of pleasures only increases Mr. Stafford's love for her. Finally he invites her, together with a sister, Fanny, and her intended brother-in-law, James Gilley, to his home, and here Mr. Stafford confesses his love for her and pleads with her to marry him. For he is sure that if she loves no one else and holds him even in affectionate regard, the warmth of his affection will soon make her love him.

They are married and live together for two years. Every luxury which a husband can shower upon a wife he showers upon her. A beautiful home, a yacht, a box at the opera, automobiles, trips abroad. He even takes the happy-go-lucky James Gilley, her brother-in-law, into his office, paying him a salary entirely out of proportion to his ability, just to please his wife. But, in spite of all these attentions, a growing spirit of discontent gnaws at her heart strings. She loves her husband, it is true, for he is invariably attentive and affectionate. But, of late, he has succumbed to a habit of drinking to excess, and at such time he has given evidence of a growing disposition to degrade her which fills her with shame and dismay. Sober, he is a courteous, considerate gentleman; drunk, his usual calm dignity gives way to a spirit of exhilaration of amiable and genial humor, which lasts as long as he can have his way, but the moment he is crossed in his desires the dictatorial and domineering character of the man, so successfully concealed when sober, is displayed, and he will stop at nothing to have his way.

On one particular evening Mr. Stafford comes home exhilarated and inflamed by drink. He is pleasant and amiable enough until his wife refuses to propose to a toast which he desires to drink to her. The heat in him is aroused, and he attempts by force to compel her to do his bidding. When this fails he asserts his legal authority as husband to compel her to obey him. This she scornfully rejects, with the assertion that the husband who would claim such authority confesses that he no longer possesses the only authority which exists in marriage—the moral one. Goaded to desperation by her persistent refusal, he taunts her with the charge that he has bought and paid for her and therefore she must do what pleases him. Her finer instincts rebel at this insult, and even though she knows it was spoken by him when he was no longer responsible for it, she decides to leave him.

On the following morning when he is sober, she makes known her determination to leave him forever and forget the man who has offered her that she has been "bought and paid for," for this strikes at the very character and dignity of womanhood. He is thoroughly repentant and beseeches her for pardon. He reminds her that he was drunk and not responsible when he said it; but she rightfully reminds him that the very fact that he made it when his reason no longer controlled his actions revealed all the more clearly how he really felt towards her. She would therefore remain with him on one condition; he may not erase this feeling from his heart, but he could keep it concealed by remaining sober. She therefore would exact a promise from him, as the condition upon which she would remain, and that was that he must never drink again.

He denies her right to make this demand. She asserts her right to make the demand, and she leaves him with the vow that she will never return to him until he has sought for her or come for her, an act which will be a confession that he will comply with her demand. He pleads with her to remain. He points out to her how she has become accustomed to luxury, and that she can no longer live as she did before their marriage. He offers to make her an allowance, but she refuses all his advances and leaves him with nothing, as she came to him with nothing.

Three months later Mrs. Stafford has obtained a humble position as secretary at a modest salary, and, together with her sister and brother-in-law, is living in a humble apartment to maintain which means a constant struggle. She is constantly importuned to return to her husband, but she refuses every plea, as her self-respect is of greater importance to her than the material things which her surrender would bring her. James, her brother-in-law, now resorts to a little ruse to bring the husband and wife together. He sends for Mr. Stafford, and leaves him under the impression that Mr. Stafford has sent for him. In the meantime Mrs. Stafford comes from her day's toil thoroughly exhausted by the monotonous and confining labor. Just as she goes to her own room to change her clothes and rest, Mr. Stafford enters, and when she returns to the living-room again and sees her husband there, smiling and with outstretched arms to receive her, she falls into his arms. She again professes her deep love for him, especially because of the sacrifice he has made in coming to her unbidden, and he, immediately perceiving the ruse that has been practiced upon them both, though he does not reveal his discovery, tells her how he had fought the battle and how she had won, for he now could promise her that he will never drink again, that he will make himself worthy of her. She, too, discovers the deception which has been practiced to bring them together, but the plea of her husband is so earnest, and his admission that as she did not send for him she had therefore really won the victory, is so convincing, that she forgets and forgives him and then returns to him again, and renders complete and permanent the happiness that should exist between husband and wife.
