To shield his wife and son he assumed the name of John Couch. The leper said he was forty-five years old and came here from Junction, Tennessee. He said he had been confined in several places, but always escaped. He declared he contracted the disease in the Philippines in 1893.

NO ANSWER FROM HUERTA LIKELY

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS DO NOT BELIEVE HE WILL ANSWER PRESIDENT WILSON

NO CHANGE IN SITUATION

Expected That This Country Will Adopt More Aggressive Policy In Dealing With Mexico

By Associated Press. Washington, Oct. 16.—The Mexican situation remained unchanged today. Administration officials agreed generally in the view that Huerta would not answer President Wilson's latest note.

More Aggressive Policy. Both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are turning over in their minds the possibility of a more aggressive course of action by the United States. Three methods of dealing with the situation are being suggested as open to the Washington government.

First, there is the ever-recurring suggestion in official circles of a military and naval demonstration which would serve as a precautionary move in case a forcible policy is later required. For the present, however, the president and his advisers are concentrating on a constructive solution by the use of peaceful measures.

Second, many officials think a series of strong demands made upon the authorities at Mexico City to force the immediate elimination of Gen. Huerta would complete the record of the United States in attempting to assist as "the nearest neighbor" in solving the difficulties of the Southern Republic. It has been suggested by some officials that should such demands be ignored the American government should be justified in throwing its support to the constitutionalists in the north.

Third, the United States could formally announce its absolute termination of relations with the Huerta regime, leaving it to the influence both of the constitutionalist movement and various liberal elements in Mexico City to secure the elimination of Huerta and the establishment of a provisional government with which the United States would negotiate for peace and arrange a free election in compliance with Mexican law.

Secretary Bryan left here for Waterloo, Iowa, and before his departure told callers he did not expect the American government to take any further steps for a few days at least. The dispatch of an additional German warship to Mexican waters did not bring forth any comment, as the Washington administration looks upon such action as well as upon the conference of the diplomats today in Mexico City as the beginning of a series of manifestations by the government of the world generally that may have a sobering effect on Gen. Huerta.

The arrest of Gen. Maass, Mexican federal commander on a civil warrant while traveling through the United States to get from Piedras Negras, Mexico, to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, excited attention chiefly because the war department's permission was overridden. As the general was released on bail, however, it is not believed the Huerta government will make any representations in the matter.

$2,600,000 LOAN OBTAINED FOR MEXICO IN PARIS

By Associated Press. Paris, Oct. 16.—Provisional President Huerta of Mexico has obtained a loan of $2,600,000 in Paris chiefly according to circumstantial reports, through the influence of the chiefs of the Catholic party.

Most Rev. Jose Mora, archbishop of the State of Mexico, it is understood, came to Europe partly on this account. The loan was presumably on short term bills to be repaid out of the proceeds of the unissued portion of the loan arranged last spring.

ENGLAND IS WAITING BUT WATCHING MEXICO CLOSELY

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 16.—The British government had adopted a waiting attitude in regard to the Mexican situation. It considers the matter thus far as an entirely internal affair of Mexico and does not contemplate any action although it is watching events closely.

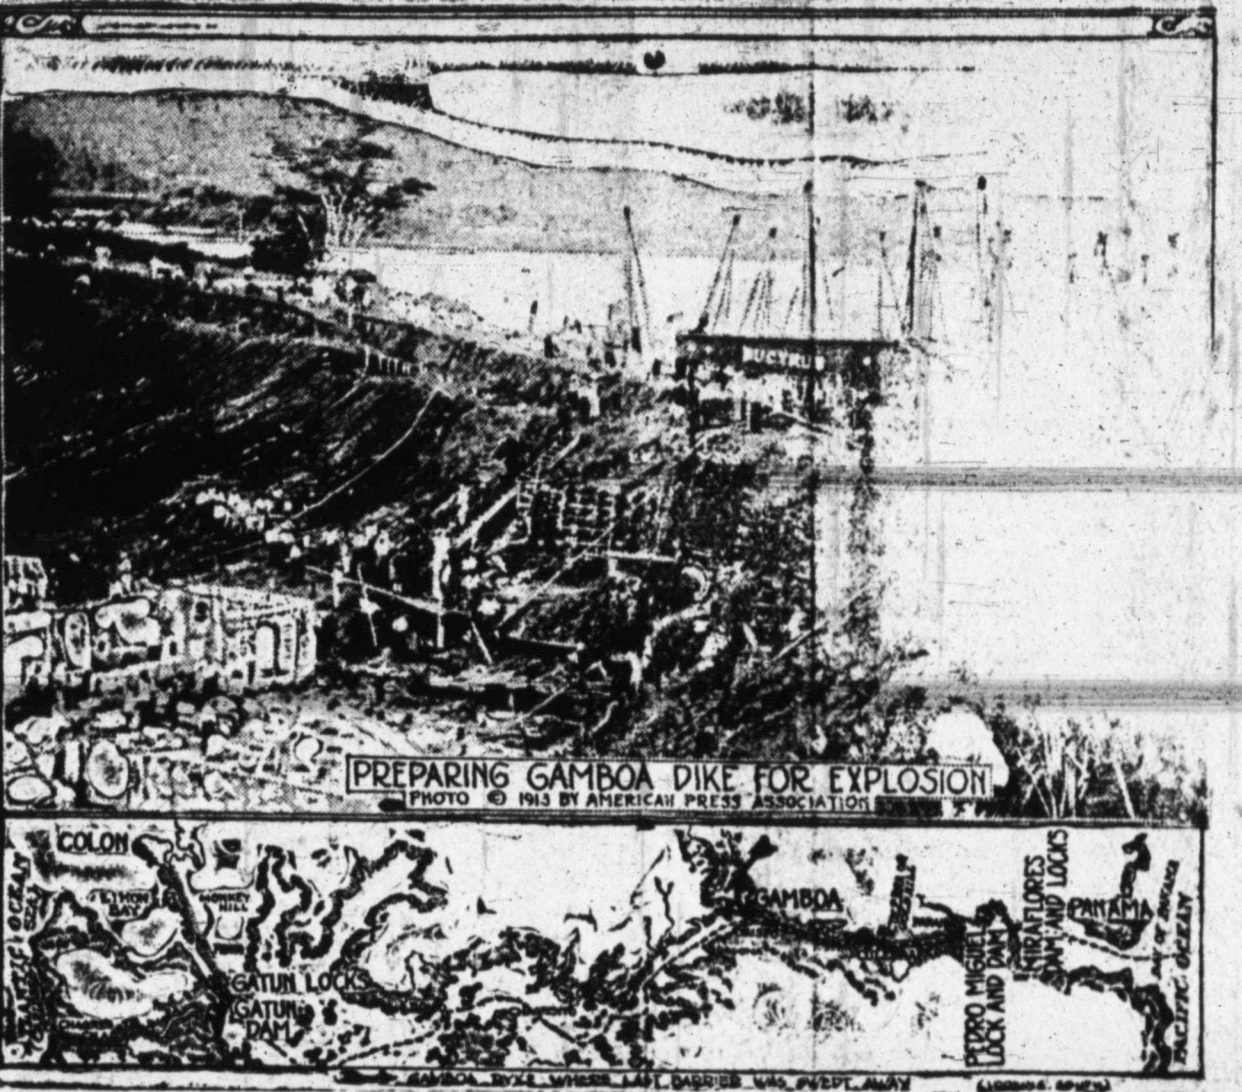

FRANCE WILL PROBABLY SEND WARSHIPS TO MEXICO

By Associated Press. Paris, Oct. 16.—The foreign office here today received a telegram from the French legation at Mexico City suggesting that a warship be sent to Mexico. Government officials are considering the matter, and following the usual practice of sending a warship when a French colony requests one, it is probable that one of the French vessels already in American waters will be detailed to Mexico.

RALPH ROSE, ATHLETE, DIES OF TYPHOID FEVER

By Associated Press. San Francisco, Oct. 16.—Ralph Rose, holder of the Olympic and world's records for shot putting, died here today of typhoid fever after a brief illness.

WHAT GAMBOA DIKE LOOKED LIKE BEFORE IT WAS DYNAMITED; MAP OF PANAMA CANAL

The Gamboa dike, which separated the north entrance of Culebra cut from Gatun lake, was blown up by an electric current switched on by cable by President Wilson in his office at Washington. The explosion threw 200 feet of the center of the dike high into the air in a fanlike mass of rock, earth and water. When the smoke cleared away 2,000 persons gathered on every side of the dike saw the water from the lake flow rapidly into the lower level of the cut just like a stream at a point where there are rapids. The sight was not especially spectacular because the difference of levels between the lake and the cut is only six feet, the level of both being now 67.7 feet above the sea. Colonel Goetz said: "I cannot predict the time when the canal will be open to navigation. The Cucaracha slide now blocks the channel to a length of 600 feet, and it is estimated that 2,000,000 cubic yards must be removed. This work will be begun by dredges within two weeks. If we can take out 500,000 yards a month and no more the slide will be empty by Jan. 1. I hope the channel will be entirely cleared by the first of the year." Forty tons of dynamite were used in the task of figuratively completing the cutting of the Panama Canal. The explosion was distributed in 1,227 charges under the dike. Four hundred charges were exploded at one time, and the rest were set off at intervals. This picture shows workmen preparing the dike for the explosion. The map explains itself.

DUCK SHOOTING IS AGAINST LAW

NOVEMBER 1 IS EARLIEST DATE UPON WHICH THEY MAY BE KILLED.

SPORTSMEN PLAN ACTION

Mass Meeting Has Been Called at Dallas Tomorrow and Will Probably Make Protest.

Wichita Falls nimrods who braved the rain and went out to lakes and tanks this afternoon to shoot ducks have violated the federal game law with reverence to the killing of migratory birds of an interpretation of the law given by an official of the department of agriculture is correct.

It seems that the Weeks-McLean law, as passed by Congress last June provides that in Zone 2, practically all the Southern States, the closed season shall be from Jan. 15 to October 1. The exception has been made to apply to Texas and to have the closed season from Feb. 1 to November 3.

A Dallas sportsman has telegraphed the department of agriculture and has been advised that the closed season for Texas is from Feb. 1 to Nov. 1.

This ruling practically prevents duck shooting in North Texas. A mass meeting of sportsmen has been called to convene in the Dallas Chamber of Commerce headquarters tomorrow to take steps toward a petition to congress to change the law so as to permit duck shooting in October.

BASEBALL FOLKS CALL ON PRESIDENT TODAY

"Pop" Anson, Clarke Griffith and Brownie Burke, Cincinnati's Mascot, Are White House Visitors.

By Associated Press. Washington, Oct. 16.—"Pop" Anson, Clarke Griffith, manager of the Washington American, Brownie Burke, mascot of the Cincinnati Reds, dropped in on President Wilson today for a baseball chat.

"I used to tell folks," said Anson to the president, "that Taft was content to run the game from the bench, but Teddy wanted to be pitcher, first baseman and everything and do his own footling besides, but that the demograts laughed him and won."

"Well," chuckled the president, "there was nothing left for me to do but umpire the game." Brownie Burke, who had been sizing up the president during the conversation, piped up: "I'm the mascot of the Cincinnati Reds." The president observed that Cincinnati wasn't in it with the Washington team this season. "You'd make some baseball manager," observed Brownie as the party walked out.

20,000 PERSONS WITNESS CIRCUS

ONLY ONE TOWN IN TEXAS EXCEEDED WICHITA FALLS IN ATTENDANCE.

LOCAL RECORDS BROKEN

Circus Leaves For Altus Where It Is Scheduled to Give Two Performances Today.

More than 20,000 persons paid to see the two performances of Ringling's circus here Wednesday. More than 14,000 persons, it is reported, paid to see the afternoon performance and fully half that number were out at night. These crowds break all attendance records for a circus in Wichita Falls and the crowd is said to have been the largest ever gathered in the city.

Circus officials said that only in Dallas did the circus have a larger attendance in any Texas city than here. The crowd was much larger than the circus people had anticipated and the seating arrangements were insufficient to take care of the crowd. In the afternoon, fully two thousand spectators were compelled to sit on the ground or stand.

The circus was hauled out last night over the Wichita Falls & Northwestern for Altus where it will show today if the weather permits.

SECRET BALLOT REPORTED UNFAVORABLE TO SULZER

A Final Vote Being Taken This Afternoon Said To Have Been Convicted, 43 To 14

By Associated Press. Albany, Oct. 16.—The court of impeachment trying William Sulzer adjourned at one o'clock today to meet again at three o'clock this afternoon, at which time it was announced a start would be made on the final vote to determine the governor's guilt or innocence.

It was reported that the court voted informally in its secret session this morning to remove the governor from office by a ballot of forty-three to fourteen. A vote disqualify him from ever holding another office under the state was lost, it was said. There was not a single vote favorable to his disqualification, it was reported. Every article of impeachment was voted upon separately, according to the news from the court room, and not all of them were sustained.

Those on which the governor was reported to have been found guilty were articles 1, 2, 6 and 4 of the impeachment charges. The first three have to do with the alleged falsification of the governor's campaign statement and misuse of the campaign contributions. Article 4 relates to the suppression of evidence by the governor before the Frayley committee.

Higher Court Remands Him For Another Trial Here on Charge of Embezzlement

The case of F. Happy Day, convicted in the Wichita county district court on a charge of embezzlement and given a two years sentence, has been reversed and remanded by the court of criminal appeals at Austin. Day was formerly secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here and the indictment charged embezzlement of the funds of that organization.

SECRETARY OF STATE IS WICHITA FALLS VISITOR

F. C. Weinert, Prominent Figure in Texas Politics For Many Years, Here on Business.

F. C. Weinert, secretary of state, was in Wichita Falls yesterday and this morning, going out this afternoon to visit his brother, who resides at the town of Weinert on the Wichita Valley. Mr. Weinert is in this section to investigate some property belonging to parties who are seeking for a charter and took advantage of his visit to run down to see his brother.

Mr. Weinert was for a number of years in the State Senate, becoming secretary of state early this year. He was offered the post of prison commissioner, but declined, being unwilling to move to Huntsville to live, as would have been required. He said that there was considerable interest in Austin in state politics and that other candidates in addition to those already announced were expected to get in the contest.

When a member of the State Senate of the Thirty-second Legislature, Senator Weinert was one of those who slipped away from Austin to Bandera county, together with nine or ten others, to block prohibition legislation. He has always been an anti-prohibitionist and one of the leading members of that faction in the upper branch of the legislature. His home is at Seguin, Texas.

STATE OUTLINES CASE IN EATON POISON TRIAL

Evidence Mostly Circumstantial—Prosecution Willing To Accept a Plea of Insanity

By Associated Press. Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 16.—The state's case against Mrs. Jennie May Eaton on trial accused of the murder by poison of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Eaton, was outlined today by Assistant District Attorney Fred G. Catzmann, who said that jealousy furnished the motive. He admitted that the case against the prisoner was mostly circumstantial, but declared that the government has sufficient evidence to prove its case. He introduced a suggestion of insanity and told the jury that if they should find Mrs. Eaton killed her husband while laboring under hallucinations that constituted an irresistible impulse, the State would be satisfied with a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.

TWENTY SIX DEFENDANTS IN POLICE COURT TODAY

One of Them Is Small Boy Who Says That Two Men Forced Him to Drink Liquor.

As an aftermath of show day twenty-six defendants faced Judge Rye in the city court this morning. Fifteen were charged with intoxication, five with affray, three with swearing in the presence of ladies, two with vagrancy and one with assault.

Twenty of the number plead guilty and were assessed fines of ten dollars each, four asked for trial and one, a boy of fifteen years of age who was charged with intoxication was held pending an investigation of the case by District Attorney Scurry. The boy was found by Special Officers White and Milliron in a sorry state of intoxication and was brought to the city hall last night where he spent the night in jail.

He told the officers this morning that his home was in Petrolia. He said he had not gotten the liquor in a saloon but that two men whose names he gave the officers forced him to drink the liquor over his protest.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE POSTPONES VISIT HERE

Pressing Duties in Washington Force Him to Delay Lecture Until Some Time in November.

Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, who was to have delivered his lecture on "Representative Government" at the Wichita Theatre on Friday night of next week, will not be able to fill his Texas dates until sometime in November. His manager has notified Superintendent Carpenter, who was instrumental in bringing the senator here, that the uncertainty of currency legislation in Washington made it necessary for the senator to return to the capital. He expects to be able to carry out his Texas engagements in November, but the exact dates are not known at this time.

ITALIAN VIEW ON CURRENCY BILL

DECLARES THAT CENTRAL BANK OF CONTROL IS NECESSARY TO MEASURE

LEANS TO ALDRICH PLAN

Does Not Believe Anyone in This Country Will Be Satisfied With Completed Bill

Rome, Oct. 14.—That a permanent and successful currency reform in the United States can only be effected by the establishment of a central bank of control—not, however, under the direction of bankers as suggested by former Senator Aldrich—is the belief of Luigi Luzzatti, former minister of Italian finances, former prime minister of Italy, and who recently refused the post of financial advisor to the new Chinese republic in an article prepared by him for the United Press he today gives his views on the proposed currency legislation in the United States, as follows:

There has already been noted the clamor with which the Americans of the United States have demanded some time ago and completed their investigation of the question of banks of issue for the purpose of reforming their present inadequate currency system.

At that time all Europe was levying upon information and Italy's contribution was competently made by Signor Canova. I did not at that time make any comment, not because of lack of courtesy or lack of interest, but merely because I was then at the head of the government. Now I must admit, I am not sorry I kept silent. In fact, the proposed law for the reform of the currency in the United States, which have followed the investigation into the question of banks of issue, appear to me most strange. It is not, indeed, to be wondered at that no one, not even President Wilson, is satisfied with them.

In the first place, I believe, former Senator Aldrich, who was the moving genius of the currency investigation, wished to create a single central bank administered by bankers. His plan was open to many criticisms both in substance and in form, but the idea, however, of a single central bank is unquestionably the right one. Now, I believe, the latest proposed law would furnish a bank not only government, but twelve different authorized banks of issue or emission.

Which in turn would secure the bank notes to the national government by commercial paper and which would maintain a guarantee reserve fund of 33 1/3 per cent of gold or other legal money. This certainly is a more exact conception of good banking rules. The issuing of bank currency on commercial paper and the guarantee in part of the currency (this issued by a reserve fund of gold or other legal money, in this way is indeed the persistence in the old times and error of covering the bank currency with government bonds. It is in fact merely the adoption of the new system which has already been generally in vogue in Europe for some time past, and which the United States alone has been slow to adopt.

However, leaving to one side the considerations aroused by the twelve banks of emission, which is opposed to the present day tendency of unity (the only tendency, as it is to be seen in Switzerland, that is capable of regulating opportunely the currency, the slight exchange, the inward and outward flow of gold—who is going to decide upon the severity of the discounting of the commercial paper? other, in one way or another the state will take a hand and politics will thus enter in, discrediting the responsibility of the bank, or each individual administration of the twelve banks will act independently and there will be twelve different standards of discounting, either severe or lax (according to the competition of other banks, a spirit of absolute rigidity, etc.) which will undermine the soundness of the bank currency in circulation, in which case he doubts thus created will react in moments of financial crisis on the banks of emission themselves, thus aggravating the condition of the industrial market.

In fact, the grand studies which have been made by the United States upon the currency question have up to the present moment remained in the grand confusion. The United States has failed to have the courage shown by another sister republic—that of Switzerland, which also had several banks of emission, in the different cantons, as at Geneva and elsewhere, and which, after many quiet investigations, with the usual wise way of doing things, finished with instituting a single central bank. This approach to the highest type of the German Empire, which holding onto the vital forces of the old institutions, enjoys a happy autonomy, succeeds in guaranteeing perfectly its bank notes, and above all serves the national circulation instead of making the national circulation serve it, thus improving the exchange with foreign countries and diminishing the outflow of the metal currency.

However, one cannot lose hope that President Wilson, who succeeded in obtaining his tariff reform will succeed also in securing sound and healthy principles in the control and issuance of the national currency.

TALKS OF TELEGRAPHERS' GRIEVANCES AGAINST KATY

Vice President Dermody of O. R. T. Says Walkout Would Involve Eight Classes of Workers

(Denison Herald)

There is nothing new in the strike situation of the telegraphers on the Katy system. Katy officials say there is nothing of interest to be given out to the public. General Manager Webb left for Dallas Monday for an inspection trip of the lines in South Texas and nothing in relation to the threatened strike is being given out from his office.

J. J. Dermody, vice president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, who now maintains headquarters in Dallas, said there were several points of information in regard to the situation that will give light on future proceedings.

"Our policy has been one of open work from the start," said Mr. Dermody. "It's settle or fight—for the Katy and I guess the fact is generally known to those who have read the papers.

"Though the matters to be discussed between the committee and the railroad have not reached a final stage, I think a few matters could be cleared up with a word of explanation. It is really due to the public.

"This matter is strictly up to the management, for our position is clear. We want a reasonable working day instead of 15 hours each day, increased pay instead of a steady reduction such as has been going on in years; a set of working rules that will allow us to treat with the road in the matter of obtaining and holding positions.

"I want to say that the mere fact that the Katy system is covered with a telephone system and granting they could operate trains by it, does not tell one-half of the tale. The traveling and business public should know that stations cannot be handled; tickets sold; baggage checked, and various other duties involved in conducting general railroading with a telephone system.

"Should there be a walk out of the O. R. T. on the Katy line it would involve eight classes of workers. Ours is known as Railroad Telegraphers, but it really embraces seven other departments that come within our lines of work. Such a strike would bring out telegraphers, agents, line repairmen, levermen, tower men or train directors, block operators and staff men. I know beyond all doubt that there are not enough available men in America to relieve the Katy strike should our men go out."

Mr. Dermody was asked to discuss Mr. Webb's statement but declined in a courteous manner to do so. "I will say, however, that we are in the dark over one point, and I will put the telegraphers in the clear at once.

"We did call upon Mr. Webb some time ago, and agreed with him to a conference. When he delayed this until about December 15 we again agreed with him.

"Since that time O. R. T. men have been dropped from the pay roll in rather large numbers; I can safely say 25 over the system. At this rate we would not have an organized man on the Katy line by December 15, so what would be the use of meeting with him then? We have prepared to have another meeting in the near future, and I will extend my conference with him at that time. I will gladly keep the public in touch with the out- come. A railroad and its servants, whether it be a general manager or a telegraph operator, is due the public's full confidence. We feel that we

THE THING FORGOTTEN.
I have no sail but just the one I flutter.
When we two drifted with the tides we knew.
I have no compass that will tell me true.
There is no North but you in all the world.
And where you failed me: There my heart failed, too.
I took no count of hours you did not share.
Your coming was the sunrise and the hue
Of summer skies broke on an early made new.
I have no other life save loving you—

WESLEY GIRLS PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED TUESDAY

The Wesley Girls were most pleasantly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Miss Myrtle Humphries. In addition to the regular routine followed in these meetings Mrs. Hartsook their teacher gave each girl articles which represented an investment of ten cents which they were to turn into more for their Christmas giving. During the course of the afternoon the hostess served a delicious salad course, consisting of fruit salad, walnuts and grape punch. The members present were Mesdames Hartsook, Robson and Lester Jones and Misses Kathleen Benson, Bon Hardy, Haze Robson and Alta Stuffer.

MISS JULIA LATHROP NOT TO MAKE VISIT TO TEXAS

The following clipping was sent to Mrs. J. W. Lee by Mrs. Mabel Hutchins, president of the Texas Congress of Mothers:
Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Federation bureau of child welfare has canceled all lecture dates in Texas. She was to have been one of the principal speakers at the state convention in Fort Worth of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parents Teachers' Associations.

MISS LATHROP GAVE AS HER REASON FOR CANCELING TEXAS DATES THE FACT THAT HER PHYSICIAN HAD ORDERED ALL SPEAKING DATES BEFORE JAN. 1 CUT OFF

"I have just received a message from Mrs. W. B. Fall of Houston stating that Miss Lathrop would not visit Texas this year."
Before coming to Fort Worth, Miss Lathrop was scheduled to speak at the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Corpus Christi. This convention will be held during the same week that the mothers meet in Fort Worth. Miss Lathrop also was to have spoken later in Dallas and in San Antonio.

Miss Lathrop's failure to come to Texas will be a cause of wholesale disappointment among Texas women.
The work of the Federal child welfare bureau as yet has not reached Texas as a general thing. This is the first year of the bureau's existence, and Texas women are not acquainted with the work proposed by the new department. They know only

Marion Leighton looked up from her book, a little amused and puzzled at the attitude of the maid, who after thoroughly arranging the misplaced articles, dusting, and polishing, still lingered.

"Well, Corley, what's the matter? Something you want to ask for? Go ahead," she suggested kindly.

"It isn't about me," the girl answered hesitatingly, "and I don't know as I ought to say anything about it; but I do like you, and I don't want you to—"

"Tell me, Corley, the other said, laying down the book.

"I'll tell you just what it is. Mr. Shafter, who comes here, and whom you are engaged to—"

"Not quite yet, Corley; I haven't made up my mind," Miss Leighton said.

"It's about him; he has been writing love-letters to a girl—wonderful love letters!"

The words were a sudden shock to the listening girl. It was true she had not given her promise to Shafter, but that she loved him she would not deny. It needed but a moment to make her feel that the maid was mistaken.

"But you can't know, Corley, whether he has or not," she said.

"The girl shook her head. "Yes, I do," she said with firmness. "I've seen the letter, read it with my own eyes! It's written to a girl whose name is Ruth; it's a wonderful love letter!"

"I don't see how it could come into your possession—"

"It didn't," the girl answered, her head drooping. "A friend got it. He works at the Fraces Company with Mr. Shafter. I don't know how he got it; but I'll get the letter from him, and show you."

"That—that would be best—I am sure," said Miss Leighton.

It seemed hardly plausible that a letter of his could be secured, yet he might write in an idle moment in his office, and such a letter might be found—it might be among his waste-paper, put there because of some flaw. There was a chance, a small one—the chance that human hearts must always take into consideration though there are a thousand against it.

Later in the afternoon, the maid came in, a little fearful, because she was in love herself with the bearer of the note to her, of what effect it might have on the beautiful girl she served.

One glance told the story to Miss Leighton. It was the same even, characteristic hand with which she had been familiar. It began with "Dearest Ruth," and went on into a tender love letter, brief but full of meaning, and made an offer of an engagement for the following night.

It was perfectly plain: It was his letter. He was in love with some one unknown to her; he was even meeting her, as the proposed engagement showed.

"Go, Corley," she said. "No wait; did you ask—where this was found?"

"Yes, Fred found it in the waste-paper basket. It was crumpled a little and there was a slight mark on it—"

"I see; thank you. Go, Corley, please," she said.

With that note crumpled in her hand, she sat down to think, to endeavor to plan some way to let him know—that she knew. He was to call that evening, he must not.

She went to the telephone and called the office, but as she expected, he had gone with the rest of the men. She found him at his rooms, and his cheery voice answered her question over the wires.

"Robert, I don't want you to come tonight; I will tell you why in a note I shall write you. With it, I shall enclose another. Good-bye."

"But, Marion, wh—"

She hung up the receiver, cutting off his answer.

She bravely went to her desk and drew paper in front of her but her courage failed under the stress she had put upon it. She thought of him, her love for him, her dreams of him and with him.

She was aroused by a step in the room, and turning, thinking it was one of the family, she saw him, tossing his hat into a chair.

"Your mother said to come up, so I have, Marion. I want to know what you meant by what—"

He came up to her, and she rose drawing away from him; but he was taller and stronger than she, and she felt pitifully weak in her defence. "By what you said to me?"

"Read this, and you'll see what ground I had," she answered in a low voice, holding out to him the note.

He took it, read, it started her, smile, and laughed. Then he caught her in his arms, and held her. "Listen, dear, I know now. But you are mistaken. I wrote that note for this reason. One of the lads in the department I discovered trying to write a letter to his sweetheart during the noon-hour. He was having a hard time of it, and I offered—kidlike—to help him, give him a form to use. So I wrote that out. He wanted to make a date with her, he said, and I put it in, too. Some one brought you my genuine copy of a love letter. That's all, dear. Were you hurt by thinking that I cared for anyone but you?"

She nodded.

"Don't you think it would be best if you gave me your promise now, so that I shall never really write such a note, thinking that after all you care nothing for me?" he asked.

She nodded.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Oct. 16, 1913

Hugh K. Taylor, associate editor of the Texas Trade Review and Industrial Worker, is in the city today at the interest of his splendid publication.

When the five-story Kemp and Kell office building was constructed, it was then freely predicted that many of the upper floors of the two and three story buildings would "go begging for tenants." But such is not the case though several very handsome two or three-story buildings have been constructed since the Kemp and Kell building was put up, and today professional and trades people are hunting for office room with none to be had. Wichita Falls needs another five or six-story office building, and such an investment will bring handsome interest to the ones who will put it up.

Gov. Eugene Foss, three times elected governor of Massachusetts as a Democrat, fopped to the Republican party a few weeks ago, and at the time it was predicted he made the change in the hope of capturing the Republican nomination. He failed in this, however, and now has filed his papers as an independent candidate for governor to succeed himself. A fellow who can change his politics as often as Foss is somewhat of a wonder, and if he meets with defeat this time, we can with confidence look for him to come back to the Democratic party or join the Bull Moose bunch.

According to the best estimates obtainable, the Ringling circus, which gave two performances in this city yesterday, sold more than 20,000 admission tickets. At the afternoon performance the big tent was taxed to its seating capacity, which is said to be 32,000. More seats were brought in and even then more than 1,000 were forced to stand or sit on the ground. Shortly after the show opened, or about 1 o'clock, instructions were given to cease selling reserved seats for the reason the supply had been exhausted. The crowd at the night show was not so large, but it was all the show people had expected. This circus picks out the cities that are alive and growing, and outside of Dallas, Galveston and Fort Worth, the man who sells the tickets said that Wichita Falls furnished the largest crowd. Ringlings is a good, clean show, and such shows do not hurt any country. The Times hopes it will play Wichita Falls again next year.

The child of the common citizen of the state of Texas receives a little less than $7.00 per year from the state educational fund, while the "higher education" pupil is given a sum of something like $37.00 per annum. And still there is a clamor for more funds for higher education. There is really more need for funds for the common schools, as there are more common people to be educated.—Dallas Times-Herald.

It has always puzzled The Times to know why it is that after a pupil passes out of the scholastic age he or she should expect the state to expend more on helping them on to a higher education, when there are thousands within the scholastic age who are being neglected because the state is unable to appropriate more than $7.00 per annum per capita to aid them in receiving a common school education. After pupils reach the age of 17 years, they are supposed to be budding into manhood and womanhood. Most of the girls marry, or at least are ready to marry at that age, and the boys ought to be able to make their own way. Higher education is all right, but those who are desiring of higher education are generally the young men and women who have enough common sense to gain it at their own expense, and not at the expense of others not so fortunate, who are unable to receive even a common school education principally for the reason that the demands on the state for the support on the higher educational institutions are receiving by far more than they are entitled to. In most cases, when a boy or girl wants to gain a higher education, and a sufficient amount of brains to retain it, they also have the ability to manage in some way or other to gain it at their own expense. This business of spending more money on "higher education" per capita than is expended on giving to those within the scholastic age a common school education should be stopped.

A JUST COMPLAINT.

Editor Times: There seems to be a great deal of complaint and dissatisfaction in Wichita Falls among farmers in regard to selling cotton.

They say (and it is a fact) that when they drive on the street they find no cotton buyers, but have to climb one or more flights of stairs and carry a sample to each buyer. They also find the buyer indifferent as to whether he buys or not, claiming that he is a "wholesale buyer" and buys from the merchant.

It is also a fact that there is but one merchant in town that buys, and he is always so busy that he has to be hunted up.

So the result is that the most of the cotton is sold at the gin with no competition at all.

In Gainesville, Bowie, Henrietta and even Petrolia there is a place to drive with cotton and the merchants and buyers come out and bid the cotton in at the highest bid, and the farmer goes away satisfied that he received a fair price for his cotton.

Now, the farmer and producers are the foundation of any town, and Wichita Falls is too good a town to allow any dissatisfaction among them.

Why can't we have a market place and more interest and co-operation in buying and selling and less hard words said about combines, etc?

F. M. HULL.

AN ILL ADVISED SUIT.

Watching for some time the suit brought by the Attorney General against the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company of Texas for forfeiture and penalties, we have come to the conclusion that such a suit is ill advised and lacks firm ground for support. Those who have followed the legal maze through which the case has wandered so far are aware that the suit is brought on the grounds that the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company of Texas is a part of a "system" and that the aforesaid Texas railway is dominated and controlled by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway of Kansas. It is further alleged that the Kansas part of the "system" draws unjustly from the revenues of the Texas line by means of disproportionate salaries and high charges for material sold to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas of Texas. Meanwhile, railroad development in Texas ceases. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas of this state feels compelled to countermand orders for extensive improvements. Other railroads are in a quandary, not knowing but that their time may come next, and the attitude of the state government toward the railroads in the state becomes a Chinese puzzle whose solution puzzles the most skillful.

Certainly the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway Company of Texas is closer to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas than are other railroads. The lines are, in a sense, continuations of each other, and such a condition of close nearness is natural. From this condition the traveling public benefits. This "system," if "system" it be, results in better arrangement in regard to through service. It is a system or plan of co-operation by which the people of Texas are benefitted, instead of being disturbed.

Other Texas lines have their working agreements with lines outside the state. It is difficult to see how the traveling public could be accommodated in regard to satisfactory connections, through tickets, etc., without such agreements. The Katy, however, seems to have been selected as a sort of vicarious sacrifice for all. Yet other roads must realize that their turn may come, and this realization naturally makes them loath to expend sums of money in a state that may be preparing to use its best legal efforts to take large sums away.

Let us go far and say that some technicality may have been disturbed. Granting this, the fact still remains that the disturbance seems to have worked good rather than evil, so far as the people of Texas are concerned. The suit against the Katy seems ill advised, a small-term which could be considerably strengthened when we realize what it has already meant towards stopping railway progress in this state.—Dallas Times-Herald.

NINE CLASSES, HE SAYS PRECEDENTS IN THE SENATE

Declares That Many Normal Human Beings Have Criminal Habits or Tendencies Vice President Marshall Cheerfully Disregards Them Whenever He Takes a Notion.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 16.—If a criminal expert looked you over, studied you and rendered his decision declaring that you have many characteristics, attributes and habits of a criminal you'd probably hit the colling, but according to a classification of criminals given today before the American Prison Congress it would appear that there are mighty few people but what have criminal characteristics. Dr. Phelan, who spoke at the closing sessions of the congress today on "The Mental Factor in Crime" is surgeon of the Dominion Penitentiary at Kingston, Ontario. He has studied classification of criminals and criminals specially, is noted as one of the most famous experts in the world along these lines. His classifications therefore should be intensely interesting. He enumerated nine classes as follows:

Criminal from adventure who started by reading "penny dreadful" novels—not necessarily bad—may be redeemed; criminal from weak mentality—not insane but whose mentality is not up to the normal—this class belongs degenerate—when aroused are dangerous—will murder for slight gain; insane criminal who has irresistible impulses to commit notoriously anti-social acts; accidental criminal, or criminal by passion—generally a man of good reputation who, owing to peculiar sensitiveness attempts life or seeks revenge for insult to himself or anyone dear to him; incorrigible criminal—morally depraved or completely un-moral—beyond any possible hope of improvement—enemy of society—absolutely defiant of law and authority; habitual criminal—generally intelligent—forms fully 50 per cent of all prisoners—presents some form of mental aberration which accounts for anti-social acts—split into two classes: occasional criminal who yields to some sudden temptation—usual; manifests marked instability of character which easily is aggravated by trouble or worry—unless treated early, soon becomes habitual criminal; professional criminal who represents aristocracy of criminal world—little or no moral responsibility—boastful—conceited—cunning—generally heartless and lacking in pity; instinctive criminal—master devoid of social guiding instincts—sensual—selfish—brutal—commits crime for the love of it—incapable of reform.

Other speakers and their subjects today were: "Some Important Types of Delinquents," Dr. William Healy, director of the Juvenile Psychopathic Institute and president of the Physicians Association, Chicago; "Responsibility and Crime," Miss Elizabeth S. Kite, Vineland, N. J., Training School.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Welfare work has not kept down the level of wages in the industrial plants where it has been introduced, according to a bureau of labor report just issued by Dr. Elizabeth Lewis Otley. It has, however, acted as a brake against strikes and other expressions of discontent on the part of the employees. It has greatly strengthened the influence of the factory manager over the factory hands. It appeals to the underpaid and illiterate class of workers whose gratitude for the parks, rest-rooms, dining rooms, baths, or other special considerations is shown in loyalty to the employer.

Dr. Otley defends the welfare system as a means of securing comfort for the average employee, to which all industrial plants will gradually be brought by pressure of public opinion or by legislation. She reasons that since welfare work has proven good business for some those employers who have tried it, the public has a right to demand that all employers adopt its essential standards.

The report deals with 50 of the largest plants in which welfare work has been organized. These include various metal, textile and food factories, stores, hotels and public utilities. Mutual benefit societies, pension funds, libraries, outing clubs, savings banks, medical services and other items are illustrated. In each instance the employees appear to have approved the scheme.

"Along with the welfare work, however," remarks Dr. Otley, "the employer might show a further recognition of his obligations to society by trying to crystallize the higher standards in his own mill or factory through legal enactment, and not by opposing the passage of laws which tend to secure these benefits for all workmen."

Vice President Marshall every little while, exhibits a refreshing lack of knowledge of the Senate rules and its equally musty precedents, and a delight in using a microscope and of how hair splitting frequently adds tracks public business in the upper house occurred during a recent night session.

Senator Bacon had complained to Marshall that he holds up the Senate rule which forbids applause in the galleries. The vice president retorted "frankly that he would" mind any such rule. Some time later Senator Bacon arose his sense of precedents horrified by this statement of the vice president. He opined that "precedents are very serious things" and he trusted that the presiding officer would revise his statement about there being no such rule.

The vice president beamed down from his rostrum and a lion rising to his full height of five feet, remarked: "The chair thinks that request demands that the chair say something. The chair proposes to say that the chair has no objection upon the subject whatever. Since the chair has been presiding over this body the chair has observed when there are manifestations of approval in the galleries that meet with the pleasure of the senators it would not be disorderly if there were manifestations of the disapproval of senators it is disorderly."

"The chair has tried to have what he thought were the rules of the Senate enforced. That constitutes disorder the chair has assumed was a mistake finally for the Senate itself to determine. The chair may as well say right here that as much confusion has occurred among the senators themselves as ever occurs by those who are most desirous of having order preserved in the Senate."

THEATRICAL DOING ON NEW YORK'S RIALTO

New York, Oct. 16.—It was a gala night when Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the eminent English actor, appeared at the New Shubert Theatre in West Forty-fourth street. It was the dedication of the new playhouse, built as a memorial to the late Sam S. Shubert, and at the same time the beginning of the end for the great actor. With his wife, Gertrude Elliott, and a company of twenty-five English players, Forbes-Robertson will play a season in New York, then tour the East and retire from the stage for all time, so he says. He had goodbyes to the British theatre-goers at the Drury Lane in London last spring and it was a memorable occasion. His New York farewell was just as impressive. Forbes-Robertson's opening bill was "Hamlet" and he scored a tremendous hit. His Hamlet this time had what it lacked when he played the part here several years ago. Just what it lacked then and has now is indefinable, intangible, elusive, but it is very noticeable. It is the quality that he put into "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

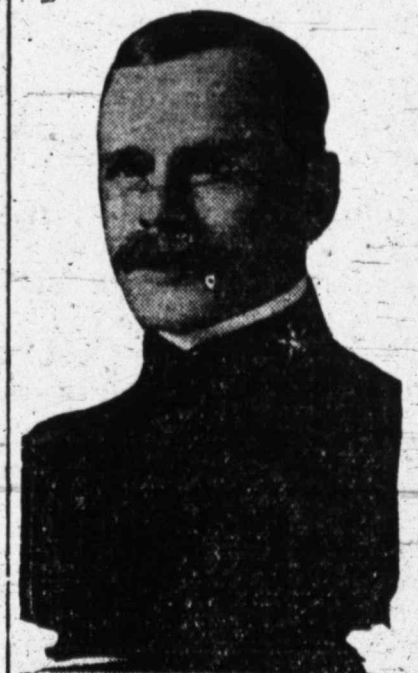

Personal magnetism, charm, call it what you will, it was Forbes-Robertson's genius that made "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" a great play. In the times there was little. Plot there was none. But it was an extraordinary play because of the actor's personality. He put the same touch in his Hamlet this time and ~~recreated it from the medloce~~ Broadway has seen many Hamlets from Booth and Sir Henry Irving down to Eddy Foy and it takes some Hamlet to make a splash on the Rialto. Forbes-Robertson splashed.

"I never wanted wealth so much as now. If I were a queen I would give you a beautiful place. Being only an artist I will give you my talent." Those words were written in 1879 by Sarah Bernhardt in the visitors' book of the French Hospital in London. Today the Divine Sarah made good her promise—thirty-three years later. In a London theatre she gave a benefit performance for the French Hospital and also Charing Cross Hospital. The latter institution was included in order to get the royal patronage. King George and Queen Mary are greatly interested in Charing Cross Hospital and when Mme. Bernhardt announced that part of the money would go to it, their Majesties at once endorsed the venture and occupied a box at the theatre this afternoon.

"La Samaritaine" was the bill, perhaps the most wonderful role in Bernhardt's repertoire—after "Camille." Much money was obtained for the hospitals and perhaps the share of the French institutions will enable the management to erect the long desired new building, the beautiful place that Bernhardt wrote of a third of a century ago. The great French actress said it was her last appearance in London. Praise Allah! She has not said that about New York yet.

To make room for David Warfield in "The Auctioneer" David Belasco moved "A Temperamental Journey" from the Belasco Theatre to the Republic. The move was only four squares but it proved to be a decidedly temperamental journey—the Republic stage hands furnishing most of the temperment.

FATE DEALS BLOW TO COL. GILLIARD, CULEBRA CUT HERO

COL. DAVID D. GILLIARD

Baltimore, Oct. 16.—Those who know best by what enthusiasm, ingenuity and ceaseless devotion to their task the mountains of Culebra in the Panama Canal have been rent asunder had one note of sadness in their jubilation over the practical completion of the canal when the Cambosa dike was blown up. Colonel D. D. Gilliard, division engineer of the central division, which is Culebra cut, the man who has been personally responsible for what has been the biggest part of the task in building a Panama Canal, lay in a hospital here so seriously ill that his recovery was a matter of doubt. His illness was the result of overwork and strain in the tropical climate of the canal zone. There was universal regret that after eight years of the most arduous labor he should have been deprived of witnessing the completion of that part of the great task which was most especially his.

"VICTORIA" WILL OPEN DOORS NEXT SATURDAY

New Moving Picture Theatre On Ohio. Will Soon Be Ready For Patrons

The "Victoria" the new moving picture theatre at 810 Ohio avenue, will be thrown open Saturday at noon and Wichita Falls moving picture fans are anticipating the event with considerable interest. The theatre is barely ready for occupancy, but patrons are assured of comfortable seats and good pictures. The Victoria has arranged for some of the most attractive films the market affords and will display the sort of pictures that appeals to discriminating patrons. It was found necessary to rent 400 chairs from a local furniture house for the opening, as the regular seats have not yet arrived. Also, some of the decorations for the front of the building were delayed and while it presents a most attractive appearance at present, it will be still prettier when the new decorative features arrive.

In line with the latest ideas in moving picture construction, the patrons of the Victoria will face the front doors of the building when they are seated, and the picture machines will be installed at the rear. This gives one big advantage—that of safety; in a picture theatre, the film cabinet is the most likely source of fire and in theatres like the Victoria it is back of the patrons, instead of between them and the exit. The proprietors of the new playhouse are Wilbur Sweeton and W. J. Johnson.

A RECORD

We opened our doors for business on September 29th, 1889, have been under the same roof selling groceries ever since. It's a "CINCH" we wouldn't be here today, if we hadn't been about right. Don't you think so? We've got lots of customers we started with, and think more of that than we do of any financial success we may have made.
