RESOLUTIONS: To the Times: Christmas of 1913 is a thing of the past. For some it has left a pleasant remembrance of sweetest pleasures...

There are many, some even of our own city, who have been called upon to part with friends and loved ones which has left a vacancy in the heart...

But he who ever watches o'er us, With His aid and comfort give, His strength and grace is sufficient...

The banks will be closed New Years day. This will at least afford one day's grace in which to settle those Christmas bills.

In difficult pieces of work some people can be trusted some times, others can be trusted most of the time, but the man that stands up and can be trusted every time is the fellow on whom the leaders depend.

The annual report of the Controller of Currency shows that the national bank throughout the country earned two per cent more than for the previous year on their capital stock...

FINNIGAN'S RIVAL (Potter Kansan.) A few years ago Engineer Donahue of the Missouri Pacific had a breakdown on his engine on the Kickapoo grade...

again, on again, message of Finnigan is clearly outlashed. Mr. New: Number Two Has busted her hue While going through Kickapoo. What would you Have me do? Donahue.

As we view it, the only regrettable feature of the new currency law is that the House could not agree with the Senate on the guarantee deposit, feature part of it. Depositors have a right to be guaranteed against loss.

QUAKER MEDITATIONS (From the Philadelphia Record.) The fellow who never tries to get even with anybody is decidedly odd.

After a man has encountered the buzz saw two or three times he can take a dare without feeling deeply humiliated.

Murgins—"I wonder how Mr. and Mrs. Gnags first became acquainted." Baggins—"They met by chance." Murgins—"No wonder marriage is a lottery."

The Temple Telegram tells of a Marlin woman who caught a chicken thief in the very act of carrying off the chief item on the bill of fare at the home where she was boarding...

There remains only two more days of the year 1913, and while Wichita Falls has progressed faster than any city of 15,000 population in the state...

"GOOD MORNING" When we are at our best a flood of life pours itself out in the simple old words, "Good morning"—a flood of meaning which strains to express itself in a thousand ways...

Germany, kin to half of our inherited methods of thinking, and one with us in science, music, literature and business, is essentially different in government. Germany is governed by Kaiser Wilhelm and no other.

THE AIMS OF A NEWSPAPER The following from the Emporia (Kans.) Gazette so thoroughly expresses our view under the above caption that it is reproduced with our full endorsement.

"The Gazette has never printed a paper that satisfied the people who issued it. But, on the whole, take one item with another, one page with another, one day with another, one year with another, the Gazette is trying, with conscientiousness, to tell the truth, to tell the truth kindly and generously, to tell the truth according to the ethics of the newspaper profession, and never to be afraid or in the least reluctant to correct an error or freely admit a wrong.

"What chiefly we are aiming at is to reflect in good, simple English, the events of the day in the light of such truth as Providence has given us, and to comment on the events of the day as candidly and as honestly and as understandingly as the good Lord will let us.

"Crops in this and adjoining counties for 1913 were not the best by a whole lot. There was a very good yield of wheat and oats, but the long dry spell cut short all other crops, such as cotton, corn, and feed crops.

The Sixth National Corn Exposition is to be held at the State Fair Grounds in Dallas February 10th to 24th. Plans are on foot to make this the most successful exposition that has ever been held.

Christmas has come and gone, the press dispatches have not yet told of Villa taking his dinner at the palace in the City of Mexico. Perhaps he meant that Christmas, 1914, he would eat his Christmas dinner there.

It is estimated that foreigners in the United States sent back to their former homes nearly $8,000,000 in money orders to make Christmas merry for the loved ones left behind.

While Christmas was in many respects the cheeriest and happiest of any Christmas for many years, it also brought its sorrows, sadness and death, in that on that day two of our most esteemed and respected citizens died, Messrs. James H. Huggins and P. C. Maricle.

ENTIRELY DIFFERENT We Americans try to measure the politics and the nationalism of the Mexicans with our and find it hopeless because they are not commensurate. We may break in racial and tribal differences in business and industry, but there are great fundamental life currents that flow alike in the veins of human minds.

more patriotic and more unselfish than all the rest of the state's officialdom. A fair, old-fashioned interpretation of what he is quoted as saying, above, would be: "If you'll be good; if you'll forget that you are the Legislature; if you'll permit me to dictate just what the laws shall contain; if you'll permit me to get down and belly-crawl before the Bullwhip Boss!"

The way things look at this time there will be more buildings to go up in Wichita Falls during the year 1914 than ever before. That is not all. Under the new city charter, the city government will be given a chance to catch up with the procession and pave more city streets.

Those of our aspiring statesmen who have been figuring on filling the shoes of Charles A. Culberson had just as well make up their minds to crush their ambitions for a while longer. Reports are that Culberson's health is improving, and that he will soon be himself again.

The year 1913, while not the most prosperous for the Times, financially speaking, has been fairly good. One reason why it has not been so prosperous is the fact that its subscription list has increased faster than the Times could increase its rate for advertising space.

Are you interested about your future and eternal life? You may not have life even though you die. You may not be dead even though you die, for you can live and be dead and you can die and be alive.

WANTED: "WRITTEN PROMISES" By J. C. McNeal, in Dallas Democrat. In an interview given out in Houston on Wednesday last, according to daily newspaper reports printed on Thursday morning, Gov. O. B. Colquitt is reported to have discussed the subject of a possible special session of the legislature, and is quoted as using this language, as a part of his statement:

Governor Colquitt has frequently been quoted, during the past four years as giving utterance to words and similar expressions, reflecting on the capacity and patriotism of the Thirty-second and the Thirty-third legislatures. It seems to be a source of especial pleasure for him to have an opportunity to belittle and express contempt for these two particular bodies of the state's lawmakers.

Wichita Falls has been most generous in their use of Times' space during the year just closing; the volume of advertising being fully one-fourth more than carried by the Times in any twelve months in its history.

any man have not the spirit of God he is none of His, so we see how necessary it is for every man to have the Holy Spirit, for without it we are not recognized as being of the family of God, in Rom. 8:11.

If the Spirit of Him that raised Jesus from the dead dwell in you, He that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by His Spirit that dwelleth in you. Now, if we have not the Spirit we will not come in the first resurrection for we are not of the body of Christ, for only the dead that are in Christ will come in the first resurrection (1 Thes. 4:16).

Let us not forget: He made a speech at Fort Worth, during the special session, last August. A few days later he made another, and more notable, speech, in the senate chamber, and repeated it in the hall of the house of representatives, the same day. Soon after adjournment of the special session he made a third speech, at the Hotel Adolphus, in Dallas. The Texas legislature was his text on each of these occasions.

LIFE AND DEATH PROBLEM Are you interested about your future and eternal life? You may not have life even though you die. You may not be dead even though you die, for you can live and be dead and you can die and be alive.

A LEADER WHO LEADS Houston Chronicle. "Whatever may be the political affiliations or predilections of any man, he must concede that Woodrow Wilson has developed the possession of the elements of masterful leadership.

He consecrated himself unreservedly to the service of the people, and manifested a supreme and unquestioning confidence in their capacity for self-government. With him a political platform was not an empty, meaningless declaration, set forth in compliance with conventional party custom, but a pledge which was given to be kept.

When a vision unclouded, a mind as luminous as the noontide light, with a conscience sensitively responsive to his obligations to his party and to his country, he keeps his eye fixed on the polestar of duty and steers the ship of state clear of shoals and breakers.

Such a combination of courage and tact, with the power to write clearly and sentimentally and to speak with phenomenal felicity and eloquence, and to see into the very gist and core of every question, and with a devotion to duty which lifts him out of the low levels where politicians dwell, into that purer, serener atmosphere which statesmen breathe, and who, withal, is a gentleman "born to the purple," well nigh fills the ideal of a president of a great democratic republic based on the fundamental principle that this is a land of liberty and of law, where the people are the repository of sovereign power.

DIRECTORS GET READY FOR 1914 COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO MAKE NOMINATIONS FOR NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS PAYMENT OF POLL TAXES Steps Will be Taken to Get Everyone to Take Out Receipts—Other Matters Receive Attention. Committees to urge the payment of poll tax and to make nominations for the new board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to be submitted at the annual membership meeting next Monday night were appointed at Tuesday morning's meeting of the directors, of that organization.

Choosing New Directors. When the question of selecting a committee to make nominations for the new board of directors was brought before the National Editorial Association and the Texas Press Association at Dallas at which plans for the entertainment of the National Association of Editors in Texas to hold its convention at Houston were discussed, Mr. Long attended the conference as an official representative of the Chamber of Commerce here to make an effort to have the editors' special trains on their tour of the state routed through Wichita Falls. He reported that no decision in the matter had been reached and that it would be taken up at the meeting of the general passenger agents of the Texas railroad. Upon a motion C. L. Fontaine and J. A. Kemp were appointed to attend this meeting to urge Wichita Falls claims.

$10,000 WE NEED THE MONEY $10,000

SALE

YOU wonder why we call this a $10,000 Sale. We have two good reasons: First, we must sell $10,000 worth of goods to make room for Spring and Summer stock. Second, we need the money. You have our promise that this is more than an ordinary sale. We want quick action, and to get it prices will be made so low that no one can resist buying, probably the lowest you have ever known. Come and investigate the truth of this statement.

PRE-INVENTORY SALE

An event extraordinary important—an opportunity to pick and choose from the great McClurkan stock—made possible only because we must get winter goods out of the way to make room for spring stock. Come

Friday, January 2, 1914, at 9:30 o'clock and Reveal in an Avalanche of Bargains in the Very Finest Lines of Merchandise

It is contrary to our custom to hold "sales." We try to make every day a bargain day for our customers, but this is an extraordinary occasion that is justified by reason and sound judgement. The inclement weather during December prevented much shopping, and we find our shelves overstocked with goods. We are not going out of business or making any radical changes, we simply have to sell the goods to make room for spring stock, and to move them quick we are going to make prices that will interest every economical buyer in the Wichita trade territory. This sale will last just eight days, until we begin our inventory on January 10th, and if you will be in need of Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Furnishings, Underwear, Ladies Ready-to-Wear Goods, Notions, etc. any time within a year, don't fail to grasp this opportunity.

BUY NOW---PAY LATER

If your credit is good with us when we ask a reasonable profit, it is good at this sale. Come and buy what you need. We will carry the account thirty days. Another thing—this is a bona-fide reduction sale. We will give $100.00 to any person who can and an article in the store that has been marked up from the regular price and then down again to make an impression. Alterations will be made free, and reasonable exchanges made cheerfully, just the same as always.

BIG GAME OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

BISON FEEDING GROUND

Of recent years the necessity of preserving the scattered remnants of the great game herds which once roamed the untrodden ways has become more and more apparent. Public opinion, led by a few enthusiasts, has been aroused; game preserves have been organized and, in the majority of civilized countries, the depredation and senseless slaughterings of educated and uneducated butchers have been stopped. Nowhere has the need for such reform been greater than in North America. With the bison practically exterminated and the existence of the wapiti (why will American naturalists persist in misnaming these fine deer "elk?"), the mountain sheep and the pronghorn antelope seriously threatened, it was not long ago that British Columbia the matter has been taken in hand, and it is with this great province that I propose to deal, writes Frank Wallace in Country Life. There are two men whom future generations will have to thank for the preservation of the large game of the province. One is Mr. A. Bryan Williams, the provincial game warden, and the other Mr. A. J. Bousler, attorney-general for British Columbia. By dint of unremitting exertions they have procured the establishment of two efficient game reserves and a large annual expenditure for their preservation. I think I am right in saying that when I was hunting in British Columbia in 1906 the most spent literally nothing on the preservation of their game beyond the warden's salary and those of the rangers. Last year $75,000 were expended, a fine testimony to the energy of these two gentlemen.

did they feel. The big rams often work out, but a few remain in the reserve itself. The reserve is very well observed, and no one is allowed to shoot there. I have already alluded to the sale of heads. Formerly mounted heads could be exported without export duty, but this is not the case at present unless a special permit has been obtained. Moose, caribou, sheep and wapiti heads killed in British Columbia are not allowed to be sold or exported without permission, but heads obtained elsewhere can be branded and sold on payment of a fee. A great inducement to poachers is thus removed. Everyone carrying firearms must pay a $2.50 license. A resident's license for big game costs $5. A guide's license is the same, and a trapper's $10. A general game license for a non-resident is $100. In the Elk river reserve in East Kootenay wapiti are on the increase. It is a big reserve and, taken all round, about the finest piece of game country in British Columbia. In addition to the wapiti, sheep, goat, white tail and mule deer are in a flourishing condition, while an odd moose or two may be found, and it is a great grizzly country. The white tail deer are becoming a nuisance, and one of the rangers counted over a hundred in one day; but it is hard to get a good head, as they frequent the timber. Three are allowed to be killed on one license. In two or three years one wapiti bull will probably be allowed on each license, and some very fine trophies should be secured by those who are fortunate enough to be able to hunt them.

Good game laws are easy to make, but very hard to enforce. As an illustration of the spirit which animates those in charge of the game, Mr. Williams told me the following story: A trapper was suspected of killing wapiti just outside the reserve, and the ranger asked Mr. Williams if he might make a special trip into the reserve in midwinter to try and catch him, as he fancied that the suspect would wait until the worst season of the year, fancying himself immune from pursuit. Accordingly the ranger, accompanied by a second, traveled over 150 miles on snowshoes over ground covered with from 4 feet to 8 feet of snow, with 8 or 9 inches of soft snow on top. They crossed a big range of mountains at an elevation of 9,000 feet, with a temperature about 30 degrees below zero, found the remains of a wapiti in one of the trapper's huts, followed the trail, caught their man, took him out with them (occupying three days in doing so and having to pack everything themselves) and within half an hour of reaching civilization had obtained a conviction. The trapper was fined $250 for killing wapiti and $50 for killing mule deer. The effect of such an example is incalculable, as a poacher never knows when he is safe. Anyone and everyone who infringes the game laws is prosecuted. Last year for example the head of the first one to buy or sell or offer to buy or sell the heads of mountain sheep, elk, moose, or caribou, or the teeth of wapiti or elk. This latter provision is aimed at such organizations as the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, which, across the border, to the lasting shame of all true American sportsmen, has done more than anything else during recent years to hasten the extermination of one of the noblest of the cervidae.

The Yalakone reserve now covers an area of ground about 25 miles by 15 miles at its widest part, and is in form a rough triangle. It includes the north fork of Bridge river, and embraces all the beaver colonies in that district. The deer (mule deer, Mazama (Boreolapinus) nemtorus) are very tame in this reserve, and Mr. Williams tells me he saw five good stags together there a short time ago. They know the limits of the reserve quite well, and never cross the river when "jumped" near the trail, which runs parallel about 200 yards off, but trot ahead and swing back into the reserve. A wounded ram, too, always makes for the reserve, just as a stag who knows the pound in a Scottish forest will make for the sanctuary. The sheep are increasing rapidly, and a party of farmers recently passed close to three fine rams who never even stopped feeding, such security

STATISTICS SHOW CAUSES OF DEATH

MORTALITY FIGURES FOR YEAR 1913 ARE COMPILED BY CENSUS BUREAU

TEXAS NOT YET INCLUDED

No Registration of Deaths in This State—Tuberculosis Shows Falling Off as Cause of Death

Washington, Jan. 1.—The mortality statistics of the United States for 1912 are contained in the report on that subject just published by Director William J. Harris, of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. It is the thirteenth annual report of the series, which began in 1900, and was prepared under the supervision of Dr. Cressy L. Wilbur, chief statistician for vital statistics.

Unfortunately, the mortality statistics do not include the entire country, but only those states and cities in which the registration of deaths is approximately complete. This area, known as the "registration area for deaths," embraced nearly two-thirds (63.2 per cent) of the total estimated population of the United States in 1912, as compared with only a little over two-fifths (40.5 per cent) in 1900. The increase is gratifying, and there is widespread interest throughout the country, especially in the South, in regard to vital statistics. Virginia has just been admitted, at the result of the model law adopted in 1912, and laws of like character are now in operation in other Southern states, namely Kentucky (admitted for 1911), Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina, and Tennessee. Active efforts to secure such legislation will be made in Georgia and South Carolina, as well as in the Northern states of Illinois and Iowa, at the next session of their legislatures.

Death Rate.
The total number of deaths registered was 838,251, corresponding to a death rate of 13.9 per 1,000 population. The rate is the lowest on record, that for 1911, previously the most favorable year, being 14.2. The year 1912 was also unusually healthful abroad, a new low mortality figure of 13.3 per 1,000 being established for England and Wales.

By sex, there were 432,112 deaths of males and 379,139 deaths of females. The proportion of deaths of infants under 1 year to total deaths (17.8 per cent) was slightly lower than that for 1911 (17.8 per cent). Full details are given of the deaths during the first days, weeks, and months of life of the 147,455 babies who died before they reached their first birthday, but satisfactory figures for infant mortality cannot be given, as the report states, because of the very general neglect of effective birth registration. The bureau is making an earnest effort to remedy this condition and will publish statistics showing what states and cities enforce their laws for this purpose in its next report.

Attention is also called to the desirability of a full statement of the facts in regard to deaths of nonresidents and deaths in hospitals and institutions as required on the standard certificate of death, also relative to more precise statements of causes of death and the statistics of illness. A booklet has recently been distributed to all physicians in the United States in order to secure their aid for this purpose.

Principal Causes.
Diagrams show the variations of the death rate from all causes and important diseases since 1900. Tuberculosis markedly decreased, although it still causes a vast number of unnecessary deaths—50,360, or 14.5 per 100,000 in 1912. This was over 10 per cent (10.8) of the total mortality. Next came organic diseases of the heart, with 56,179 deaths (adding endocarditis, they slightly exceeded tuberculosis), acute nephritis and Bright's disease (62,267), pneumonia (51,495), congenital debility and malformations (48,596), cerebral hemorrhage and softening (46,791), cancer (46,531), and diarrhea and enteritis of infants under 2 years of age (42,482). There were 68,385 deaths from external causes, of which 49,775 were due to accident, 9,656 to suicide, and 3,954 to homicide. The suicide rate (16 per 100,000 population) was slightly lower than that for 1911 (16.2) and is the same as the average for 1906 to 1910.

Typhoid fever, with 9,957 deaths (16.5 per 1,000), showed a notable decrease from the preceding year (12,451) and a most gratifying reduction from the average rate for the five-year period 1904-1908 (32). In other words, it has been cut in half in the last decade, although our rate is still high as compared with some European countries. As the report says, "Nothing is more easy, with adequate support of proper health administration, than to reduce greatly the typhoid mortality of the communities that still show high rates from this cause, and thus to contribute to decrease in the national toll of untidily deaths and costly illness

Rascally Bill Smith.
George Newman, during the recent Baltimore convention of advertising men, told at the midnight banquet a number of advertising anecdotes.

"Then there was Bill Smith" so one anecdote began—"the rascally Bill Smith, who put in all the papers an advertisement saying:

"Send 30 two-cent stamps for speedy, safe and certain rat extermination."

"A good many people, their properties being overrun with rats, sent for the rat exterminator. In return for their 60 stamps they got this recipe from Bill:

"Treat your rats with kindness—they'll die of surprise on the spot."

The Enthusiast—Well, you shouldn't camp out unless you can enjoy yourself without being comfortable.—Puck.

Insult to Injury.
"Mrs. Wombat is highly indignant."
"Her house was robbed, I hear."
"Yes, and the next night the burglars brought back her silver-plated wares."

EVERYTHING FOR THE OFFICE

ON TODAY'S PROGRAM AT THE VICTORIA THEATRE.

"The Sign of the Snake" (Katy Lee). The colonel receives word that some Chinese are about to be smuggled across the border. Lieut. Hight is detailed to attend to the matter. He succeeds in capturing the Chinese and among them is a christened girl named Moon-Chow, who later falls in love with the lieutenant and saves his life by receiving the dagger that was intended for him.
"A Warm Welcome" (Majestic). A very clever comedy sensation with Lamar Johnson, Francis Billing, Dick Cummings in the leading roles. One of those stories of a mistaken identity in a small town, a millionaire who is roving around the country in the garb of a tramp, but is mistaken for a criminal and placed in prison.
"A Rough Diamond" (Reliance).

Louise Vale and Stanley Walpole in the lead assisted by Thos. Mills and Geo. DeCarton. A story dealing with an ex-convict who was unable to procure work and is hounded by detectives who are trying to get some information of some crooks, whom he protests he knows nothing of. He wants to do right, but is kept from it by the police everlastingly nagging at him. Driven to desperation he is about to commit another criminal act, but instead saves his benefactors from a blighted future.
For tomorrow the Victoria has booked an especially interesting feature as follows:
"The Final Game" (Epineux). This shows the last game played between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics that was played in New York City. The part of the film that shows the ball game itself gives the audience a good view of the ball game and shows the entire field.

DIAMONDS!

If you contemplate buying a Diamond don't forget to look over our stock. We carry the largest line and make the lowest prices in the city.

Listen!
It's a mighty good thing to have a supply of cistern-water handy when the city service balks on you. Besides that, it's pure and clear when kept in one of our superb corrugated cisterns. It's good to drink and a luxury for washing purposes. The initial cost, too, small compared with the comfort it affords. Let us make you an estimate on a competent job. Ring 359 and we will do the rest.

CONGRESS DOORKEEPERS MUST REMAIN STANDING.
Washington, Jan. 2.—Doorkeepers in Congress must stand up hereafter. They used to have nice soft cushioned chairs, but Democratic economy or something else hit the place and now the doorkeepers don't have things as soft as they used to.
