ANNIVERSARY OF MAINE INCIDENT

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICES ARE HELD TODAY IN WASHINGTON

PARADE AND CEREMONIES

Military Takes Part in Procession Through Streets of National Capitol

By Associated Press. Washington, Feb. 16.—An imposing street demonstration, followed by impressive ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, marked the commemoration here today of the sinking of the United States battleship Maine in Havana Harbor, that historic event which started the whole world and fanned in flame a war fever culminating in the Spanish American war.

Although sixteen years have passed since that day in February, 1898, when the Maine was literally torn to pieces and 260 of her officers and crew perished, yet each year seems to bring added veneration for those who lost their lives in the explosion. Today's exercises, while centering about the graves of the Maine heroes, took on, however, a larger significance in including all those of the land or sea forces who had sacrificed themselves in the line of patriotic duty.

Large bodies of cavalry, artillery, sailors and marines began assembling through the morning for the street parade leading to Arlington. The forces included the troops stationed at Fort Meyer, together with their long line of rambling field pieces, a large detachment of blue-jackets and marines from the warships and marine barracks in this vicinity, and the full strength of the National Guard of the District of Columbia. Many patriotic societies also participated, and in the line of march were carriages bearing the Commander in Chief of the A. R. Washington Garden of All Souls, Mich., the Commander of the Spanish War Veterans, John Lewis Smith, the head of the Army and Navy Union, H. Ogden Lake, and others prominent in civic and patriotic affairs.

Great crowds lined the streets as the procession moved through the downtown section and across the Aqueduct Bridge, over the Potomac River, to Arlington. Crossing the bridge, the parade halted to witness a novel and impressive feature of the day's ceremony—the unloading on the river below of a boat laden with flowers, which was sent adrift down the historic old stream, making its way slowly seaward, until lost to view—a memorial to the unrequited dead, not only of the Maine but of other times and places.

Arriving at Arlington, all about were seen the mute reminders of the Maine's glories. On one side were the graves of the sailors recovered from the wreck of the ship and brought home by the government for final burial here. In the foreground lay a huge cylinder of tapering steel, rusty and indented, but still preserving the stately outlines of the foremost of the Maine. This too had been brought back from the tangled wreckage, to be erected and unveiled later in the spring or summer, alongside the graves of those who in life had seen the flag whipping from its topmost point. At either side of the steel lay two great anchors of the Maine. Today's exercises were held at the foot of the monument, which were flanked by two large wreaths coming from the White House, and others from patriotic bodies and citizens.

As the parade made its way slowly through the grounds, a salvo of artillery greeted the raising of the flag to full mast. The invocation of the day was delivered by Bishop Harding, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Washington. The exercises included addresses by Mr. Lake, Col. John McElroy, a commemorative address by Mrs. Ida M. Galloway, past president general of the United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary, and the reciting of the Recessional by Mrs. Isabel Worrell, chairman of the woman's executive committee.

An impressive feature of the closing exercises was the sounding of taps—the final good-night—by many buglers widely separated at remote points throughout the vast cemetery, one after another taking up the dying echoes and passing them along from point to point like old time signaling of war days.

UNIVERSITY TRACK TEAM GOING TO DALLAS MEET

Will Take Part in Athletic Contests To Be Held at the Corn Exposition This Week

(By Jerome Stone). Austin, Texas, Feb. 16.—That the University of Texas track team will be held at Dallas on the 23 and 24 of this month during the Sixth National Corn Exposition, is the hope of Coach Taylor, Managers Lang, Runge and Cotton and the entire student body. Each afternoon for several weeks Coach Field has been the scene of busy activity on the part of candidates for the track team, which there are already more than fifty reporting for practice. Vaulters, jumpers and weight men are working as hard as hurdlers, sprinters or long distance runners and a large number of students come down to the field every day to see the men work out.

Some members of last year's championship team are back this season. Ralph Mathis of Wichita Falls, holder of the Texas inter-collegiate long distance record, has declared that he intends to break the southern mile record this year and it is generally believed that he will succeed before the end of the season. He is twenty-one years old, weighs 128 pounds and is beginning his second year of work in a college track team.

Others who won their letters last year and are back again are Gene Berry of Austin, who has hurled the javelin further than any man in the State; Clyde Littlefield of Arkansas, a champion hurdler and Grady Niblo of Dallas, holder of the State record for the hammer throw. Charles Hamilton of Fort Worth, an excellent hurdler and a good broad jumper and Chesley Adams of Marshall who ran next to Hoover in the sprints last year. All of these men will be heard from at Dallas.

Although no definite schedule has yet been completed, Manager Lang is hard at work arranging meets. Contests have been closed or negotiations are in progress with Louisiana State, Oklahoma A. & M., Tulane and a number of other strong out-of-State colleges. It is hoped that the team will be able to attend the Southern meet this year but no answer has yet been received to a request for information.

MEET TOMORROW FOR GOOD ROADS

SESSION OF THOSE INTERESTED IS SET FOR THREE O'CLOCK TUESDAY AFTERNOON

TRAVILLA WILL BE HERE

Invitations Are Sent to Residents in Every Part of County, Urging Them to Attend Meeting

Letters urging attendance at tomorrow afternoon's good roads meeting, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms have been mailed to a number of Wichita county towns and a good attendance is anticipated. The meeting will begin at 3 o'clock.

The following statement of the plans and purposes of the meeting is contained in the letter:

"The Chamber of Commerce has invited Mr. J. C. Travilla, road expert, who is now in charge of the construction of the $1,600,000 system of roads in Tarrant county to address a meeting to be held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, February 17th at 3 p. m."

It is proposed to organize an association which would have for its purpose the development of good roads in Wichita county and all commercial clubs and associations looking forward to the development of the county are expected to cooperate. It is believed that the automobile owners will especially be interested in a vigorous movement of this kind, looking toward the construction of good and permanent roads.

The roads are being constructed in Tarrant county under Mr. Travilla's supervision are of crushed rock with asphaltum filler. It is believed that it is practical for Wichita county to construct such roads at this time. The life of such roads is believed by road experts to be at least indefinite with low cost for maintenance. With such a system of roads as contemplated the funds now being devoted to the maintenance of the principal roads of the county, which it is proposed to reconstruct could be utilized in the construction and maintenance of lateral and connecting roads which would within a short time establish in Wichita county good roads throughout.

DEATH TO OPIUM USERS IS NEW RULE IN CHINA

Extreme Penalty Now Invoked in That Country For Those Who Smoke Seductive Drug

By Associated Press. Peking, Feb. 16.—Proclamations announcing the death penalty for smokers of opium have been promulgated, according to reports from various provinces. Although definite cases of execution for this breach of the law seldom come to special notice, it is reported from Wu Chang that a smoker among the soldiers of the garrison there was caught indulging in the habit and "trial" before a court made up of his comrades he was sentenced to immediate execution and was shot to death.

This is one of many instances of the fact that courts of law are not employed in China in cases where they would be in western countries. An attempt is being made now by the government of Yuan Shih Kai to institute law courts which will gradually render unnecessary the planning of autocratic power in the hands of the local governors.

Numerous orders have been issued recently from the president's office designed to reform and reorganize the judiciary. The following is an extract from one mandate:

"There never have been institutions, for training judicial officers. The choice of judges has not been made with care and the salaries are small. Consequently inefficient men are placed on the bench and corruption prevails. In extreme cases corruption is practiced jointly by the judges and barristers and the evils thus brought about are worse than those of the past dynasty. Good citizens are usually weak and feeble, while bad characters are cruel and strong. These two elements can be made to live peacefully together only through the operation of the law. But if the law falls to protect the weak from the strong then anarchy ensues. Confucius says that if justice is not impartially administered the people will not be able to distinguish what is right and what is wrong and that if they fail to make such distinction there can be no stable government. In Peking and the provinces there are some good judges, but there are many who are inefficient and unprincipled who, instead of protecting the people employ their offices for corrupt practices. I, the president, have inquired into the feelings of the people and am painfully aware of their grievances. It is my intention thoroughly to clean up the system and start afresh."

QUIET AT MARLIN AFTER EXCITEMENT LAST NIGHT

Men Go To County Jail and Demand Negro Who Had Been Previously Spirited Away

By Associated Press. Marlin, Texas, Feb. 16.—All was quiet here today following the visit last night of a crowd to the county jail, where Howard Bennett, negro, was confined on a charge of assault on Miss Maggie Price Saturday night. There was little excitement and the crowd did not assume the proportions of a mob, as reported Bennett and Jim Tubb, another negro, had been removed to the Belton jail.

Sheff M. J. Poole had spirited the negro away about fifteen minutes before the crowd arrived at the jail. Not finding him, the crowd demanded another negro, held on a similar charge who was arrested in December, but he also had been taken away by the sheriff. It is supposed the prisoners were taken to Waco.

The attack on Miss Price was made about 10:30 Saturday night. Mr. McKimney is a merchant here and Miss Price is a sister of Mrs. McKimney. Mr. and Mrs. McKimney and Miss Price came home together from the store a few minutes before the attack was made. Mr. McKimney had gone to the barn and Mrs. McKimney had gone upstairs. Miss Price was in her room on the first floor landing. The intruder entered through the front door in his bare feet and went boldly into the room where the young woman was, turning off the electric lights at the switch as he entered. She screamed and he struck her with a piece of timber and he carried her into the kitchen. As a result of the blows physicians today said that Miss Price had a broken arm. Miss Price screamed brought her sister downstairs immediately but when she arrived the intruder was gone.

FLAT DENIAL OF CHARGES BY GORE

ACCUSED OKLAHOMA SENATOR TAKES STAND IN HIS OWN BEHALF TODAY

DIDN'T TOUCH MRS. BOND

Relates Circumstances of Alleged Assault—Says She Caught Hold of His Hands

By Associated Press. Oklahoma City, Feb. 16.—Senator Thomas P. Gore took the witness stand today in the trial of the $25,000 damage suit brought against him by Mrs. Minnie Bond and told his version of meeting Mrs. Bond in the Washington hotel, where she alleged he attempted to assault her.

Denying all the charges, the senator told his acquaintance with Mrs. Bond and her efforts to have her husband, Julian Bond, appointed collector of internal revenue in Oklahoma. He said his first thought of a conspiracy against him came when Mrs. Bond fell back on the bed screaming, having their conference at the immediate apartment of Robertson, Fitzpatrick and Jacobs.

Senator Gore said he met Mrs. Bond at a reception here and that her husband's candidacy was mentioned at that time. He said he never gave her any encouragement about the appointment.

He told of meeting Mrs. Bond at her hotel after she had telephoned making the appointment.

Tells of Incident. "When I reached the door of the hotel, Mrs. Bond approached me in the lobby," he said. "I supposed we were to go to the hotel parlor, but she took me to another room. We talked about the appointment of her husband. I told her there was no chance for him and she seemed so upset that she had had a seizure, remarking that I must go and Mrs. Bond took hold of my hands. She was remarking that I was going to have a hard race. At that moment the telephone rang and she unlocked the door. When I came back and got hold of my hands again, then fell back on the bed."

"I asked, 'What does this mean?' Just then T. E. Robertson came into the room and told her to stop that squalling."

"Did you at any time touch Mrs. Bond?" he was asked.

"I did not," the senator answered. He denied that he had told Dr. Earp to get Mrs. Bond out of the city. He Made No Outcry. On cross-examination in reply to a question as to when he first told anybody that Mrs. Bond had pulled him over the bed with her, Senator Gore said:

"Probably the first time I talked about the matter."

"When Mrs. Bond pulled you over on the bed, did you make any outcry?" he was asked.

"No," the senator replied. "You know it was a conspiracy. I did, at least I thought then it was a conspiracy."

FOURTH STREET BAPTIST CHURCH REVIVAL OPENS

Seven additions marked the opening of the revival meeting at the Fourth Street Baptist Church Sunday night. A large crowd attended the meeting and there was close attention to the speaker.

REV. FREDERICK DATSON INSTITUTED AS RECTOR

Formal Services Are Held at Church Sunday Morning—Large Crowd in Attendance

Rev. Frederick Datson was formally instituted Sunday morning as rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd before a throng that completely filled the chapel. The service was an impressive one, yet was marked with simplicity, the actual institution consisting only of the turning of the keys of the church over to the new rector.

The services began with the professional of the vested choir which was followed by the turning over of the keys to the rector by the wardens, Dr. Mackebay and N. L. Langley. Immediately after this the prayer books, Bible and other altar furnishings were presented to Rev. Datson by Archdeacon Crittenden.

After the institution Rev. Datson delivered a concise sermon on the true place of worship. He stated that in the earlier times no church edifice had existed, the people worshipping their Lord in their hearts and that this constituted the true church. The proper reverence and respect should be paid to the church buildings as God's house, all this was most fitting, but at the same time the inward worshiping place should not be overlooked. He cited the fact that for a number of years after the death of Christ none of His sayings and teachings were recorded in writing, but rather on the tablets of His disciples hearts.

After the sermon further services were gone through with in a most solemn and impressive manner, holy communion concluding the service followed by the recessional. Throughout the service the vested choir took part in the chants and choruses. Miss Mabel Simpson gave as a solo "Teach Me To Pray." The choir is composed of Messdames Thorburn Sammons, Inge, Fontaine, Short, Shutt, Misses Cobb, Simpson and Eldred, Messrs. VanVoy, Bloom, Bradbury and Carnes with Mrs. Carnes as organist. The recessional was led by Master Almond Gates as-tractor.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HELD IN NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Sunday school of the First Presbyterian Church met in the Sunday school parlors of the new church yesterday for the first time. The attendance was one hundred per cent better than on the Sunday preceding. The orchestra from the College of Music and Art assisted in the music rendering one special number.

The address of welcome by J. T. Hunt, superintendent, sounded a deep devotional note. The pastor, Dr. J. L. McKee introduced a fine slogan for the school. "Every member of the church in the Sunday school and every member of the Sunday school in the church." Considering the fact that everything was new and that the Sunday school had to be practically reorganized, a number of the officers accepting new positions, the school was admirably conducted, showing good generalship on the part of the superintendent. The program moved along according to schedule finishing within a few minutes of the time set by the superintendent.

The teachers expressed themselves as well pleased with the new class room. The prof. thanked them for everything and let them know that the school has taken into the ranks of Sunday school.

Miss Dora Jennings and Mr. E. L. were united in marriage at the home of Mr. Keen on Burnett street Sunday evening by Rev. T. E. Canedy of the Fourth Street Baptist Church. The couple will leave within the next two weeks for Houston, where they will make their home.

The Belated Valentine. I sent my love a Valentine, the kind all silk and lace. Where doves and darts and rings and hearts and garlands interlaced.

And gilded verses (as to feet perhaps a trifle lame). Are eloquent in every word of love's undying flame.

In letter bold, I wrote her name, her number and her street. And pasted on the stamps with care and fancies fond and sweet.

And though the air was bitter cold, and full of stinging hail, I walked a mile of icy streets to put it in the mail.

St. Valentine's was past before I called upon her then. She showed me scores of Valentines but all from other men; And much I wondered why my own had been so much delayed.

And in what mass of the mail the precious missive strayed. A year elapsed, we had been wed eleven months or more.

When lo! we heard the postman blow his whistle at the door; My wife untied a battered box above her tea and toast.

It was the Valentine—see it went by parcel post.—Minna Irving.

Reports of damage to fall oats from the recent frosts are coming in. The extent of the damage will not be known until after several days of warm weather.

There was a larger acreage than usual in fall oats this season much of which was a volunteer crop. This grew luxuriantly in the fall and in some fields advanced to a stage where heads began to appear.

The hard frosts killed this growth to the ground and it is feared the roots have been killed also.

I Want a Few More Good Meat Customers

What do I mean by "good meat customers"? Well, you might take that in two ways: 1st. I want some more good customers for meat. You might take it this way too: I want some more customers for "good meats"—the only kind I sell, but put the two together—that's what I mean.

My meat service appeals to people of particular taste—people who recognize quality in meat and good service, and who are willing to pay the little extra necessary at times for such meat service.

As a rule, my prices are all on a par with meat prices all over the city. Some time when you want a real fancy cut, of course, comes a trifle extra, but not a bit more than you'll be perfectly willing to pay for such quality.

Now, if you decide to become a customer of mine, I would be very glad to have you call personally, inspect my meat department, get acquainted with my meat cutter, and who are willing to pay the little extra necessary at times for such meat service.

As a rule, my prices are all on a par with meat prices all over the city. Some time when you want a real fancy cut, of course, comes a trifle extra, but not a bit more than you'll be perfectly willing to pay for such quality.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Feb. 16, 1914

The Times notices from the Commercial and the McKinney Examiner that ex-Congressman C. B. Handley is to be a candidate for congress in that district against Hon. Sam Rayburn, the present incumbent. Handley represented that district for twelve years, and perhaps could have held the job had he not wanted to go to the Senate, for which he made the race and lost out. The chances are that he will win over Rayburn.

The Times is requested by Mr. S. W. Stout, business manager of the local order of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners that the organization of carpenters is not supporting any candidate for either city or county office. As citizens, the carpenters believe it is the duty of every man to vote the way he feels, or for those who, in the opinion of the voter, are the best qualified to perform the duties of the office. The reason for making this statement is to correct the report that the carpenters were supporting a candidate who is square with the union, and that the general public may know that their organization is taking no part in politics.

From the looks of things now it would seem there was no great demand for either Lane or Mayes to be governor of Texas. Even Cullen Thomas, who had withdrawn from the race ran ahead of Lane. Up to this time the returns show the results of Saturday's mass meetings of pro Democrats to be about as follows: Ball 4334 convention; es; Mayes 1618; Thomas 528; Lane 558. Uninstructed 4578. This estimate is based on returns from about 100 counties that held mass meetings or conventions on last Saturday. On the basis of representation as fixed by the Fort Worth convention, there will be 16,000 convention votes, and the counties heard from represent 11,000 of those votes. From this it would seem that Ball is clearly the choice of the prohibition Democrats of Texas for governor. As to what Mayes and Lane will now do will be determined at Fort Worth next Saturday.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT MR. BRYAN

The editor of the Dallas News pays Mr. Bryan a high compliment in the following paragraphs:

"The country will hardly concur in the President's measure of Mr. Bryan as a diplomat. As a Secretary of State Mr. Bryan has, as we believe, been somewhat of a disappointment to the country, though we think it ought to be added that several misadventures that have been held up as evidence of his inaptitude in diplomacy are not the result of unavoidable circumstances, are consequence of blundering on the part of his predecessors. It is not his fault, for instance, that our relations with Japan are strained, nor is the resentment which all Europe feels toward us because of our violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty chargeable either to him or his party. Most of the predicaments that beset us were inherited, nor is it likely that one more skilled in the craft of diplomacy than he professed to be could have accomplished more by way of relieving us of these embarrassments, than he has accomplished. On the credit side of Mr. Bryan's account there is an item which alone would more than counterbalance all that the most uncharitable criticism could charge to him. It is the new-born conviction in the mind of the whole world that the United States craves to be at peace, and that it does not covet an additional inch of territory on the Western Hemisphere. The words, the works, and the character of Mr. Bryan have animated our policy with a spirit of honesty and beneficence far finer than it previously knew, and that service would more than atone for any awkwardness he may have shown in the ceremonies of diplomacy.

"But if the country disagrees with the President's estimate of Mr. Bryan as a diplomat, it will join in the tribute he pays to his character and rejoice that he has made occasion to pay that tribute. For it must have become evident long ago that there was an organized effort on foot to discredit and belittle Mr. Bryan. Whether this attempt was inspired by resentment growing out of some interference by the State Department with the enterprises of concession-hunters in Central America, or whether it was merely a means-chosen to try to disrupt the Wilson-Administration is not clear. Both motives, however, may well have conspired. At all events, it has been evident that Mr. Bryan has been chosen for target by all those who have found his patriotism an obstacle to their schemes as well as by all those who have reason for desiring to break the power of the Administration and of the party that supports it. It can not be doubted that in paying this tribute to Mr. Bryan, the President both wished to do justice to Mr. Bryan and serve notice on those who have been assailing him so malignantly that they were doomed to fail in their purpose. When the history of the Wilson administration comes to be written there will be no chapter of it more interesting and more instructive than that which deals with Mr. Bryan's part in it."

BRYAN AND THE SENATE

(By Savoyard in Houston Chronicle)

At a social party the other night given by a prominent democrat to entertain prominent democrats, Mr. William J. Bryan was a distinguished guest, and in the course of an eloquent address on that festive occasion he said: "From early boyhood my ambition has been to occupy a seat in the United States senate." It was an infallible instinct that prompted him, and the country lost when Mr. Bryan was unselfish enough to allow "Everlasting Allen" to wear the toga that Bryan should have donned. I do not mean to discredit Allen. He is a noble fellow and a splendid man; but Bryan was the one who should have been senator.

For years the writer of this was not in accord with the preachments of Mr. Bryan, but there never was a day that I would not have made him senator in congress had it been in my power, and in my lame way I wrote some mile or two of stuff urging Nebraska to make a senator of her most distinguished and most eminent citizen.

But four presidential terms of Al. Leitchism—1897-1913—and even less, drove me into the Bryan camp, all but 16 to 1, and by 1910, mayhap earlier, I found myself on Bryan's side of the hedge. I do not think it humiliating to make such recantation, for he is a mighty poor scamp who will not say today what he sincerely thinks, though it make him as inconsistent as the wind. Mr. Bryan is not vindicated by his own logic or eloquence so much as by the republican party in its saturnalia of sixteen years—McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft—or, rather Hanna, Aldrich, Cannon.

Somebody has said that for half a generation the British parliament was a dialogue between Charles James Fox and William Pitt, and had Mr. Bryan entered the senate twenty years ago what interest he would have lent to the dialogue? He would have provoked with the children of Cain on the republican side who fetched and carried for privilege? If Bryan had been there in 1909, he would have whipped with a scorpion tongue that unfaithful set on the democratic side who launched a jolly-boat and was to the rescue every time Dolliver drove Aldrich to despair and the great apostle of monopoly and extortion flew a signal of distress.

What a team Bryan and Dolliver would have been in the Sixty-first congress! And oh, had Carmack been there!

The Rome of the Brutus who banished Tarquin was no more unlike the Rome of the Brutus who slew Caesar than is the American republic of Woodrow Wilson unlike the American republic of Thomas Jefferson. At the inception of the nineteenth century the distance between rich and poor was short, and there was a yeomanry, especially at the South that was the finest citizenship the world had ever seen. And so in what we now call the "Middle West," so in less degree, perhaps, everywhere else.

When the twentieth century appeared things were changed. The distance between rich and poor had widened, and that was not all of it, nor the worst of it—sympathy had vanished. There were classes, and it reminds—

Napoleon's grimest marshal was Massena, and his master called him "the spoiled child of victory." He was eaten up with the basest of the passions—avarice—and on Wall Street, in our day, had he been as on the field of battle in his day, his accumulations would have made beggarly Rockefeller, or Carnegie, or Vanderbilt, or Gould.

Perhaps it was at the Aspern that the veteran old marshal, wounded and borne in a cabriolet, charged to re-

FARMERS' UNION ISSUES WARNING

STATE OFFICERS THANK FARMERS FOR TAKING NO PART IN MEETINGS

CITY PROHIBITIONISTS

Lewis and Radford Urge Farmers To Leave Liquor Question Alone In Coming Contest

Fort Worth, Texas, Feb. 16.—The officials of the Farmers' Union gave out the following signed statement from their headquarters in this city today:

We want to publicly thank the farmers of Texas on behalf of the Farmers' Union for taking little or no part in the Democratic prohibition primary election, held on February 14 and to urge the farmers and city business men to stand firm in their demands for a cessation of strife and to insist on a business administration and business legislation during the next four years.

The refusal of the men who plow to recognize the primary reduces the State convention, to be held in Fort Worth on February 21 to a gathering of city prohibitionists and while prohibition leaders from small towns may be in evidence, it will, in the main, be a body of city men dealing with city problems.

But when the battle for supremacy is over and if the convention settles the controversy to the satisfaction of the most radical prohibitionist, they take a cemetery. It was one of the blindest assaults that even Napoleon ever ordered. The old marshal headed it with this curious harangue to his legions: "How now, you infernal rascals! You have but five sours a day; I have forty millions, and you let me go ahead!"

Well, that's the way our monopolists looked on it when the presidency was bought for McKinley. They felt that a "new phoenix has risen from the ashes of Montrose," bated and spurred, armed cap-a-pie, to separate the people in two classes, the rich and the poor. Money was everything; character was a negligible quantity.

I do not believe Mr. Bryan is Luther; rather he is Melancthon. He is an agitator rather than an executive. He awakens the conscience, rather than leads the battle. It was always so in rare cases do we find universal geniuses. The hand that penned the Declaration of American Independent Independence could not have wielded the sword that forced the surrender of Yorktown. In the world of public affairs Julius Caesar was the only man unmatched in every walk of state-field, forum, cabinet, letters.

Had Mr. Bryan entered the senate a quarter of a century ago, I am sure the work of reform that Woodrow Wilson has set about would be less difficult and less arduous. Some celebrated debates in that body would have been real parliamentary combats, not parliamentary sham battles. They have been "hoss-kicking" affairs, and not pelting of each side by the other with pillows of down.

But it is all right as it turns out. In the senate of the United States the democratic party is now become militant. On the public stage as a debater John Sharp Williams has not his match, and all looks bright to me. The star of the democratic party is in the ascendant.

And, my dear Governor Cole please, do you want to go into cold storage while yet in the land of the living? If you get a seat in the senate of the United States, Cole, my boy, I fear you don't know the United States senate. If you are what you are picture, the United States senate, to quote from "Gentleman Chucks," metaphorically speaking, will make you see more stars than God Almighty ever made, and out-crow more experts than all the dancing masters in France.

If, however, you must go into that lion's den, Cole, it's a free show, but I let you ten to one the senate takes you before the first regular session is half over, and you will get out of its hand like a tender, bleating, delicate, quiet, timid, ladylike little lambkin. Oh, how impatient some of us are for that show!

Washington, D. C.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES.

A great deal of late has been said of the proposed presidential primaries. The bill which it is said has President Wilson's approval is about as follows:

Primaries to be held throughout the entire Nation on the same day to choose the presidential nominees of all parties.

Primaries to be under jurisdiction of the state laws and the election machinery of the various states.

Each state to prescribe the qualifications of the voters of the primary.

The bill to provide temporary machinery until the states can enact the necessary laws so the next presidential nominees may be chosen by primaries.

Either the state or the congressional district to be the unit—the present sentiment is for the congressional district.

price of cotton will not be increased one cent; the rate of interest on our loans will not be reduced a penny and it will be no easier for a farmer to buy clothes for his family to educate his children or to secure a home.

Huris Defy at Obstructionists. We recognize that the liquor question is a problem that is entitled to the consideration of the public, but we submit that the issue has but recently been passed upon by the voters of the State and that the past three or four sessions of the legislature have done little else than wrangle over the liquor question and it has also obstructed other important legislation for almost a quarter of a century.

We are as much opposed to legislation favorable to the antis as we are to legislation favorable to the pros. The introduction of a liquor bill has invariably swept the calendar of all other measures, however meritorious and has thrown the legislature into a seething mass of dissension. It is between these combatants that the Farmers' Union, with a membership of a quarter of a million, marshals its forces, raises a flag of truce and huris a duty at either pro or anti, great or small, who refuses to salute the flag and warns the prohibitionists of whatever character to cease their activities until constructive legislation can be secured for the agricultural interests of Texas. Legislation that will help the farmer must be made the paramount issue in this campaign.

Eliminate the Politician. We recognize that the elimination of the liquor question from the present campaign will paralyze the ambition of many party leaders, strike dumb some of our foremost political orators and send many of our leading politicians to useful occupations for a livelihood, but the prosperity of all the farmers is more important than the preservation of a few contentious leaders.

It may be said that liquor legislation need not necessarily conflict with business legislation, but past experience completely biases that hope. The liquor question is a different type of men to transact business from what it does to play politics. The next administrative and legislative branches of government should be a student body addressing themselves exclusively to solution of economic problems and they should not be disturbed by troublesome questions from the cities.

Laws That Will Build Needed. The Farmers' Union, as an organization, will endorse no candidate for office, but its members will, in the main, support candidates who are in accord with its principles of peace and harmony. Perhaps seventy-five per cent of our members voted for statewide prohibition when the question was last submitted, but they cannot live on water alone; they must have bread. There are things the farmers of Texas want for themselves far more than things they want to keep others from having. We need necessities for ourselves far more than to keep others from buying things that are unnecessary. We want the next legislature to develop the positive side of life rather than the negative; we would like to hear the legislator say: "Thou shalt not be stingy and the country with the natural." In the cities the problem is one of restraint and in the country it is one of growth.

In the cities they seek to prohibit the weak and curb the strong; in the country we seek to help the weak and encourage the strong. In the cities we encourage the miserable poor and the wealthy rich; the genius and the degenerate, the slave and the master; the helpless and the powerful. We have none such in the country and laws adapted to cities will not suffice for the country.

The farmers of Texas will no longer be satisfied with platitudes or be further entertained with horrible stories of the wickedness of cities. Since the beginning of time the cities have been seething in sin and they always will be. They have been making agricultural legislation in Texas for the past quarter of a century, asking for laws that will wash them whiter than snow. Will they Statewide Prosperity the Issue. We want to counsel the conservatives and warn the radicals in the convention that the paramount issue in this campaign is statewide prosperity for the farmer and the more rapid development of the resources of Texas. We ask all the farmers of Texas and the city business men to co-operate with the Farmers' Union in its efforts to secure political peace and constructive legislation.

THE MISSION OF THE MERCHANT of modern days is a mission of service. The great manufacturers whose products are sold in even the remotest of earth's bounds spare neither effort nor expense to give the merchant the most efficient service. It is possible to produce. The merchant is a unit in the scheme that has for its mission the gathering of the world's crude material making it into a finished product and bringing it ready to use into your home.

We are using every means at our command and sparing neither men nor money to fulfill every requirement of modern merchants. Every requisition made on us will have the best attention we are capable of giving it and the fewest number of moments possible of your valuable time will be taken in its execution. Long experience, trained heads and skilled hands are the business requisites that have brought us success. Our methods are original. The close observation of years, has taught us that the initiator and the substitute are of few days, full of troubles and their pathway leads to failure. Honesty, accuracy, dispatch and originality of methods are our watchwords.

Wilfong & Woods. EVERYTHING FOR THE OFFICE

On Feb. 11th

We gave two pairs of my best gold-filled frames and Geneva Crystal Lenses to Mrs. Frances Rahl, 606 Travis, and to Mrs. J. M. Fabian, 200 1-2 Seymour street. These ladies were successful in being at my store first for glasses.

Now I will give to the first gentleman entering my store Feb. 11th, 1914, one pair the same as I gave to the above ladies. We are scientific opticians, and know how to make you see. It will be a pleasure to have a pair of my Geneva Lenses.

We are serving people every day and the best reason I can give is we make them see as they once did. You need not fear any drops put in your eyes which is so harmful. We use the latest methods in every respect. Phone us for engagement. I may be busy when you come to see me. I certainly will not rush a patient through to get to the person waiting. We do our work right and take the time needed. Further you will not have to wait till we send off for our lenses. We grind them and make delivery soon after the examination.

MUSICAL ACTS FEATURE

PROGRAM AT LYDIA MARGARET The Musical Stewarts and the Novelda Duo are the attractions at the Lydia Margaret the first three days of the week.

The Stewarts use styphonic corsets and French horns. The comedian plays what he calls the smallest trombone in the world. A feature of the act is a bicycle race between three girls. They use "home trainers," as they call them or treadmills on the stage. Local bicyclists will be challenged for a five mile race by Miss Staker, who claims to be the world's champion bicycle racer.

Miss Mabel Morgan of grand opera and musical comedy fame, and J. W. Howard, basso for five years with the Williamson Grand Opera Co., in Australia, comprise the Novelda Duo.

A Lady Said To Us

On last Saturday night: "I have traveled pretty well over the United States and drank coffee in the leading hotels and cafes in America and have never drunk a coffee as satisfactory as your 'WHO CAN BEAT IT.'" This afternoon the Chef of the leading hotel in the city and said, "I have cooked in big hotels in all the leading cities in America and used all the leading brands of coffee and have never used any as satisfactory as yours." This sounds pretty good but both came to us unsolicited and we will give you the names of the parties if you wish. Better try a pound yourself. WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION. Fresh roasted every day. "Drink it Kid."
