COLQUITT BITTERLY ASSAILS ADMINISTRATION— REPORTS ON THE VERGARA INCIDENT

SHEPPARD CRITIC COLQUITT'S ACTS

DECLARES TEXAS NOT IN SYMPATHY WITH HIS STAND REGARDING MEXICO

HE BELIEVES IN PRESIDENT

Declares He is Ignoring Federal Gov. Says People of Texas Have Full Confidence in the Administration

Special to the Times. Washington, March 10.—Senator Sheppard in a speech in the Senate yesterday repudiated the actions and attitude of Governor Colquitt in connection with the Mexican situation. He said: "I have refrained from discussing the Mexican question heretofore on the floor of the Senate because I have felt and feel today, as I believe the American people have felt and feel today, that the president and the secretary of state have handled, are handling and will continue to handle this delicate and difficult problem in the best possible manner. Every day that passes without intervention and without war is an additional tribute to the ability with which they have handled this matter."

"What would the critics of the administration have done had they been in control? Would they long ago have plunged the country into war? Could they have pursued any other course than that pursued by the administration without involving the country in war?"

Declares National Honor Preserved.

"A publication by the state department of the numerous appeals that have come to this country from Americans and others who claim to have been injured or to have been threatened with injury in Mexico will show that the department has rendered all possible assistance short of the declaration of actual war and the publication will show that the national honor has been preserved."

"In a number of instances I have transmitted to the department complaints of American citizens in Mexico and in every instance the state department has responded promptly and effectively. I wish to give the Senate one instance which is somewhat different from the instances cited by the senator from New Mexico."

"A constituent of mine in El Paso went to Juarez, across the river, one day and immediately disappeared. His friends and relatives were in a panic. They sent me telegrams after telegrams urging me to have the state department inquire as to what had become of this American citizen. They feared that he had been shot by the rebels."

"The machinery of the state department was set in motion and it turned out that while he had not been entirely shot, he had been half shot with whiskey, had been imprisoned in a lockup in Juarez and was later released on the deposit of the necessary collateral."

"The logic employed by the critics of the administration is neither entirely sound nor just. They want bloodshed, they want outrages, they want to see the administration mean intervention; intervention would mean war; war would mean infinitely more bloodshed, infinitely more outrages and infinitely more mutilations."

"They say that they want to stop murder in Texas and yet intervention which they say is inevitable, would mean death to thousands of American citizens, the expenditure of unlimited American treasure, the creation of enormous war taxes and war complications that would vex us for fifty years to come. They want to substitute for a condition which they now call bloody and distressing a condition vastly more bloody and vastly more distressing. Bad as present conditions may be, war would be infinitely worse."

"Not in sympathy with Governor. 'I don't know something of the feelings of the people of Texas on this subject and I think it due the Senate and the country to say that the people of Texas are most unanimously in sympathy with Woodrow Wilson and William Jennings Bryan in the course they have pursued as to Mexico. They are not in sympathy with the governor of Texas on this question. They deplore his attitude. If I know anything about the condition he has assumed as to the advisability of entering Mexico with Rangers of Texas, I have been relieved to hear that an armed force of Texans did not cross the border and did not enter Mexican soil to recover the body of Vergara."

ANOTHER OUTBURST FROM COLQUITT

ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION AND SEN. SHEPPARD BEFORE CATTLE RAISERS

MAKES PASSIONATE SPEECH

Declares He is Ignoring Federal Government—Association Fails to Endorse Him

By Associated Press. Fort Worth, Texas, March 10.—Speaking in the Texas Cattle Raisers' Convention this morning Governor Colquitt repudiated Senator Sheppard's attack on his Mexican policy and indicated that he would run for the United States Senate in opposition to Sheppard. A motion in the convention to endorse Gov. Colquitt's actions and policy provoked heated discussion. Finally it was ruled out of order.

"In a passionate defense of the right of Texas to protect the lives and property of its citizens," Gov. Colquitt made a number of startling statements and declarations. Among them were: "The declaration that he was afraid to turn himself loose for fear that he would not stop until he went to Washington, and changed the policy of the government there in defiance of 'any authority on the face of the earth to take from the governor of Texas the right to defend its citizens from wrong.'"

"The declaration that during the illness of Senator Culberson 'Texas is without representation in the Senate of the United States.'"

"A challenge to Senator Sheppard to resign from the United States Senate while he, Colquitt, resigns his place as governor and go before the people of Texas as opposing candidates to see whose views will be sustained by the voters of the State."

"That he had formed negotiations directly with the Mexican authorities for the righting of wrongs against Texas citizens."

"An appeal to the Cattlemen's Association to endorse Colquitt's talk was marked by applause, but when, after he had finished, J. N. Bassett proposed a resolution, 'agreeing with Mr. Colquitt in his actions and his defense of Texas citizens,' Ed. C. Lasater, of Falfurrias, Texas, former president of the Cattle Raisers' Association rose in opposition."

"I feel that Mr. Colquitt has presumed on the courtesy extended to him by this convention to make the statement he has," said Mr. Lasater. "He has attempted to get a condemnation of the National government from this association. Not one man here is competent to pass on his question, and for this nation has come to be a world power and the problems are more than local. From time immemorial the policy of this convention has been to keep out of politics and I hope the man who introduced the resolution will withdraw it."

Col. Ike T. Fryer of San Antonio, requested that both the resolution and the speech opposing it be ruled out of order which was done by President Jackson.

WORKMEN OF ROME AWED BY MILITARY DISPLAY

General Strike Begun Monday Has Been Abandoned and Men Will Return To Work
By Associated Press. Rome, March 10.—Awd by the display of the military and cheered by several cavalry charges which frustrated attempts to disorder the workmen of Rome who yesterday declared a general strike decided this morning to return to work.

"Before this announcement was made at noon a body of strikers tried to march to the ministry of the interior was dispersed by the police who fired several volleys into the air."

BODY RECOVERED BY RELATIVES

VERGARA'S KINSMEN AND HIRED MEXICANS BROUGHT CORPSE ACROSS

GENERAL BLISS REPORTS

War Department and Secretary Bryan Receive Additional Details of Incident

By Associated Press. Washington, March 10.—Secretary Garrison received today from Brigadier General Bliss, commanding the American border forces the following report on the Vergara case by Capt. H. T. Howard of the Fourteenth United States Infantry:

"Investigation shows Vergara's body was taken from the Hidalgo cemetery Saturday by relatives of Vergara and hired Mexicans. Capt. Sanders states positively no Texas Rangers crossed the border. He met the body at a landing opposite San Agnato with undertaker Condry Sunday morning and brought the body to Laredo at 7:30 p. m. Sunday. He states there were no signs of burials on the body. Found four bullet wounds. Neck stretched but not broken. Body decomposed and with out coat which Vergara had left at home when he was called to the island. Identification seems reliable. Recovery of body said to have cost $90. T. Hill, brother-in-law of Vergara, $400. Body being held at request of Adjutant General Hutchins."

Secretary Bryan upon entering the meeting of the cabinet today said American Consul Garrett had reported relatives of Clemente Vergara had recovered his body on Sunday, and that Texas Rangers had not crossed the border. That Consul Garrett said he had been notified that if he would go to a place on the American side of the Rio Grande across from Hidalgo, Mexico he would find the body. He went there in company with Captain Sanders of the Texas Rangers and the body was delivered by friends of Vergara. Mr. Garrett added that he was sending a full report by mail.

Mr. Bryan said no representations had been made to the Huerta government.

HUNDREDS VISITED AT DUNDEE LAST SATURDAY

Excursion To Witness Starting of Oil Wells Patronized by a Large Crowd

Dundee, Texas, March 10.—The excursion to Dundee Saturday, March 7th to witness the beginning of the deep wells for oil near the town was a grand success, hundreds of people from all over the country were assembled at an early hour. Autos from Wichita, Archer City and Seymour brought them in droves. The country people were in buggies, carriages and wagons by the hundreds. The combination of the ladies from the various churches combined to prepare the dinner for the immense crowd and the profuse compliments that came from every one were sufficient to justify them in their labors for the magnificent feast. The beautiful young ladies who served at the table wore the Napoleon caps that would have made the little general stand up and take notice and even Villa would have bowed to their gracious manner. The town was decorated with Uncle Sam's red, white and blue flags. In addition to this the stores were all decorated with the bunting of different colors. And everyone seemed highly pleased and passed the day in the most enjoyable manner. Sam Bellah from Deatur, one of the old settlers of the town made a magnificent address in behalf of the country, and the crowd received a hearty applause from his old neighbors. He urged the co-operation of the farmers along the line of stock raising and suggested a creamery for Dundee and urged the raising of greater quantities of all kinds of poultry in the country. He also predicted Dundee would be the next oil field. A board of trade was organized to be known as the Commercial Club and Mr. Bellah was selected as president. Staff G. Helm to be vice president and Walter Bellah to be corresponding secretary. The crowd was dispersed at about 5 o'clock in the afternoon with a hearty good cheer for Dundee and success for all the wells going down.

ADMINISTRATION'S VIEW OF INCIDENT

NO CONFLICT BETWEEN STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENTS IS PROBABLE

CONSUL GARRETT'S REPORT

It is Declared Texas Rangers Had Nothing To Do With Securing the Body

By Associated Press. Washington, March 10.—No conflict will arise between the federal government and the State of Texas over the recovery of the body of Clemente Vergara. Further steps demanding punishment of Vergara's slayers will be taken. That was the status after the cabinet meeting this morning.

The officially accented view was that Vergara was lured across the border and murdered and that his body was subsequently recovered by his friends who crossed the border as private individuals and not as armed invaders. After today's cabinet meeting Secretary Bryan gave the following paraphrase of Consul Garrett's report:

"Consul Garrett went with Captain Sanders of the Texas Rangers and a deputy sheriff to San Agnato for the purpose of further investigating the Vergara case. They went to a ranch and examined witnesses and saw Vergara's horses which were stolen. They also examined witnesses who had seen Vergara cross the border. These investigations occupied them until late in the day. They then went to Coleman's camp where they ate supper and concluded to remain for the night. At about 4 a. m. one of Vergara's men came and told them Vergara's body had been brought across the river. Consul Garrett aroused the chaffeur and they drove five or six miles to a point on the river. Mr. Garrett there found the body with a number of relatives of Vergara who had also been notified to come and identify it. Mr. Garrett was informed that a small party of Vergara's friends had gone over the border to secure the body. Mr. Garrett added that the Texas Rangers had no hand in bringing the body to the American side but had been notified to be on hand to receive it."

REPORT ON CONDITIONS W. VA. MINE DISTRICTS

By Associated Press. Washington, March 10.—The report of the Senate sub-committee on the West Virginia coal strike was filed today by Senator Swanson of Virginia, chairman. His report, while characterizing conditions in the district as "most deplorable" explained that the resolution authorizing the investigation conferred no powers to recommend remedial legislation.

"The report was a general review of reports on the Paint Creek and the Caber Creek fields. Blame for the conditions there is ascribed to the following: "The failure of the operators in the Paint Creek district to renew their expiring contracts with the Mine Workers union; the determination of the coal operators under no circumstances to recognize the union and the equal determination of the mine owners to organize the employment of mine quarries by the operators; discontent among the miners because they are given no opportunity to purchase homes or cemeteries and that the roads to the postoffice and the company stores are private roads on the companies' grounds; and the disposition of the miners to resist the strict espionage maintained over their movements by the companies."

FALL OATS BEING PLOWED UP—KILLED BY FREEZES.

Good prospects for the wheat, forage and spring oat crops are indicated by reports received here from this and neighboring counties but the fall oats were badly damaged by the February freezes and are being plowed up. The wheat outlook is said to be better than usual at this time of the year the last rain having come in good time.

An increased acreage in forage crops is reported, fertility showing decided gains in favor of this country. Reports from down the Wichita Valley tell of considerable damage to oats in that section. The acreage in oats was larger than usual this year and the cold snaps of February proved the undoing of the crop which had reached a good stand. Local grain men say that reports from the wheat crop are exceptionally optimistic.

By Associated Press. St. Louis, Mo., March 10.—Firemen today entered the ruins of the Missouri Athletic Club which was destroyed by fire Sunday night and recovered three bodies. This raised the total number of bodies recovered to ten. Twenty-two or twenty-three more bodies are believed to be in the ruins.

The known dead are: WILLIAM E. ERD, real estate man, East St. Louis; ALAN HANCOCK, typewriter salesman and well known M. A. C. athlete; EDWARD KESSLER, 30 years old, cashier of the Ludlow-Saylor Wire Company, 913 Pine street; JOHN MARTIN RICEK, 40 years old, of St. Paul, general auditor of Ford Motor Company; JAMES D. RILEY, 55 years old of the Scott Construction Company.

Three unidentified, one believed to be Thomas Wright, secretary of the Apollo Club and traveling auditor of Lemp's brewery.

PITTSBURG TO HELP "THE DOWN AND OUTS."

Pittsburg, March 10.—Preachers, bankers, educators and sociologists prominent in this city today are backing a movement to care for the down and out which will place this city on a par in its facilities to help the unfortunate with Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and other large cities. The plan as outlined contemplates an institute at Market street and Third avenue with George Trotter of Chicago, brother of "Mel" Trotter of Grand Rapids, as superintendent. The old fair building is now situated on that corner and purchase of the structure is called for by the plan. Either remodeling of that into a modern settlement building or the construction of a new building would follow.

The Union Mission would be abandoned and merged with new mission which will be controlled by the Pittsburg Presbytery. Food and lodging will be afforded those who can pay a small cost, while for those completely straggled comfortable quarters, food and employment in workshops connected with the institution will be given. One large room will be set aside for religious services and a social center. Only the amplification and carrying out of the plan remain to be worked out.

WICHITA COUNTY WILL EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR

Announcement of Prizes and Premiums For County Exhibitors Expected Soon

Plans are being made for an unusually comprehensive farm exhibit from this county to be exhibited at the fairs at Dallas and elsewhere next fall and it is likely that announcement of prizes and premiums will be made within the next few weeks. It is believed that by announcing the prizes this early interest can be stimulated and the farmers induced to save the best specimens of their crops for the exhibit.

It is probable that the first Monday in September will be selected as the day for the county exhibit and as a one day race meet is to be held here then a gala occasion is in prospect. Last year the gathering of the exhibit did not start until late in the year and it is thought that by making an early start a much better showing can be made this year.

COOKING TO BE TAUGHT IN CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL.

Berkley, Cal., March 10.—"What shall we have for dinner?" Housewives of California will have this question answered by the University of California Miss Margaret Cooley, trained professionally at Columbia, to take full charge of a correspondence course in domestic science which will deal with the selection and use of the food in the home. Among other things the classification of food materials will be taught with consideration of the cost of various foods, so that menus may be prepared in which the different nutritive elements needed may be represented and yet economy be observed. The kitchen and the cook stove will be the laboratory equipment required for the correspondence course. In the "Principles of Cooking" in this case will be taught the relation of different methods of cooking to the appetizingness and the digestibility of foods.

CHILD LABOR COMMITTEE IS READY FOR CONFERENCE

New York, March 10.—Announcement was made here today by the National Child Labor committee that all the details have been completed for the tenth annual national conference which will open here at New Orleans on Sunday afternoon, March 15.—Two score or more of the most prominent advocates of better child labor laws representing as many sections of the country have accepted invitations to attend. Many will address the conference during the sessions which will continue through Wednesday, March 18.

The two important subjects which will come before the conference are: first, the enforcement of child labor laws and the question of federal legislation with special reference to the Owen-Palmer child labor bill now pending in Congress. The backwardness of Southern States and the exemptions allowed in the laws of other States will be discussed in detail. In connection with today's announcement of the program, Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the National Child Labor committee issued the following appeal for funds:

To carry out the study of methods of administration of child labor laws we need a larger staff, for our work will be more comprehensive than it has been in the past. The legislative battle is far from won and unless our income is greatly increased we must face the serious question as to which line of effort is most urgently necessary for us to follow. We should like to celebrate our Tenth Anniversary with a doubling of our membership and a total income of $100,000. Then it would be possible for us to continue our membership and present presentation of the petition for laws and to take up adequately the matter of enforcement of the child labor laws already enacted."

ELECTIONS WILL INVOLVE SALOONS OUTSIDE CITY

Local Option Election Called in Commissioners' Precincts Nos. 2, 3 and 4

A prohibition election which, if carried by the pro faction will knock out all saloons save those in Wichita Falls, was ordered for April 4 this afternoon by the county commissioners, upon work for the petition required by law. The territory covered by the petition includes commissioners' precincts 2, 3 and 4. There are at present two saloons in the county outside of Wichita Falls, they being located in a sort of Luerke strip west of Burkhardt. Since the oil field was opened up in that section they have been doing a thriving business. All the rest of the county has been dry for many years and efforts to vote parts of it back into the wet column have failed.

The election was ordered for April 4 the same date as the school trustee elections which will be held throughout the county including Wichita Falls.

They had signed with the Fedrs but jumped back to the American league.

Go At Once To Lake. The trip from Kansas City was made without incident, save that the baggage was lost at Bowie and the train hit a cow. The visitors were met at the station by Acting Secretary Thomas of the Chamber of Commerce and a number of fans and at once took street cars for the lake to rest up after their trip. They will have their first workout tomorrow. The Indianapolis team will be here tonight. Passenger officials of the Katy here received similar advice.

Nothing further has been heard of the scout who is reported to have been sent here by Cleveland to try to induce Falkenberg to jump back to the Naps. Falkenberg is quoted as saying that he would not jump back under any circumstances.

Life in Land of Shah

VIEW OF SHIRAZ

THE best idea of oriental bazaars is furnished by the arcades of European and American cities; yet there are many points of difference between the bazaar and the arcade. For example, the passage in the bazaar is much narrower than in the arcade; it is a passageway for animals and vehicles, as well as for pedestrians, bazaars are never more than one story high; they are lighted only by circular holes in the arched roof; the fronts of the little shops on either side are entirely closed by rough wooden doors; the shops are very long in proportion to the width of the passageway and are exceedingly narrow.

One curious thing about the bazaars of Persia is that all the shops of one kind are grouped together, and so we speak of "the cloth bazaar," "the hat bazaar," "the shoe bazaar," "the gold bazaar," etc. Mary A. Clarke Colquhoun writes in the Springfield Republican: "There are both wholesale and retail stores, but there are no department stores, as in the United States. Nor is there such a thing as a general grocery or dry goods store. One grocer keeps spices only; another tea, coffee, sugar and so forth; one dry goods merchant will sell you muslin, another broadcloth, another silk. There are no large manufactories in Iran. It is common to have a small factory and a shop together or side by side. All the metal utensils used in the country are made of either brass or copper. These substances are hammered into shape; a staff through the bazaar where this work is going on gives one the impression that pandemonium has broken loose. To an American it is astonishing to see the very small quantity of a thing that can be bought in Persia. Spices are inexpensive, and the spice merchant will weigh out an infinitesimal amount; so that even the very poor can have flavorings and seasonings in their food that would otherwise be impossible to them.

Fare of the Persian Cafeteria. Different kinds of bread are made in the bazaars. One kind, which is especially liked by the people and which can be obtained fresh at almost every hour of the day, is called "non-sanak," literally littlestone bread. It is made by pouring the dough on very hot pebbles, which bake it quickly and give it a crisp crust. Of course, it is thin, not more than a quarter of an inch in thickness. The sheet is about a foot and a half wide by two and a half long. Near the bazaar where this bread is baked you will usually find a place where mut-tog chops are being cooked on skewers over a charcoal fire. Any one desiring a lunch will buy from the baker a sheet of the thin, crisp, freshly baked bread, then a few "kabobs," as the chops are called. Wrapping the chops in the bread, he will proceed on his way, eating his lunch as he goes. A Persian cafeteria, as a missionary friend of mine calls it, is a place where you can get a good meal for a few cents.

As you walk through the bazaars or stand to examine or purchase goods, especially if you are a foreigner, you must expect to be jostled, not only by crowds of curious pedestrians, but also by caravans of horses and donkeys and even of vicious camels. You will perhaps have to wait, also, for the shopkeeper to finish his prayers before he can attend to your wants. Foreigners usually go to the bazaars, not to buy things, but to see oriental life; and in the bazaars are to be seen many interesting phases of it. When you really wish to buy anything you will find the peddler, that supreme nuisance of America, your best friend. He will bring to your door anything that you wish to see and give you all the time that you desire in which to examine it. You must needs be a haggler to deal with any merchant in Persia, but usually you can make a better bargain in the quiet of your own home than you could make in the bazaar.

In one respect the theory of the Persian merchant and peddler in regard to buying and selling is the opposite of ours. Instead of giving you a reduction if you buy a large quantity of one thing, he will almost invariably charge you more in proportion than if you buy a small quantity. The reason is, probably, the lack of small change in Persia and the fact that it can always be disposed of at a profit. I am told that the same thing is true in Constantinople, where, for example, a bridge ticket cutting you to cross a bridge ten times costs more than if you paid a single fare ten times. This scarcity of small change and the consequent value placed on it makes the money changer an important person in the East today, as he was in the time when Christ found it necessary to drive him from the temple.

Foreign Goods in Evidence. When he carries out his own ideas exclusively the Persian is always artistic. The bazaars in which oriental goods are displayed in oriental fashion are always pleasing. But there is a growing demand for European articles, everywhere in the bazaars one is confronted by cheap broadcloth, cheap cotton goods, shoddy cutlery and glassware and tawdry foreign articles of all kinds. These things, displayed with the native goods, cheapen the latter without themselves gaining dignity by the contact, and the combination is one not pleasing to the eye.

Save for one month in the year, the bazaars, even in the capital of 350,000 people, are never open at night; during the month when the Persians fast every day from sunrise to sunset it is customary to do some marketing, some business and much visiting at night. Then the food bazaars, tea shops and so forth are open; pedestrians with huge lanterns of oiled paper and carriages give an appearance of life and safety to the streets which is quite unknown at other times. To one who has known the quiet of an oriental city the noise of an American city is almost unendurable. Many occupations which in western lands are carried on in shops are in Persia carried on in the open air. This is due partly to the poverty of the people, partly to the warmth of the climate, partly to the fact that the Persian is preeminently a social being, and with the exception of his domestic life, which is lived in great seclusion behind high walls—he likes to be with his fellowmen. The barber, for example, seldom has a shop and never really needs one. A busy street corner you are liable to stumble over a man sitting on a ledge of the wall and being shaved or having his hair cut. It is your one opportunity for seeing a man with his hair cut; but as you look at his tanned face you do not regret that your opportunity in this direction are limited by the way, is the hair one's most beautiful feature? It would seem to be the one most often sacrificed to the demands of asceticism. The monk shaves his head; the nun, while showing her face freely, carefully conceals her hair; the oriental woman is fully as careful to cover her hair as her face.

The only things that are free in Persia are air and sunshine. Water, not only in the cities, but everywhere, is one of the most expensive commodities and one of the most difficult to obtain. The entire water supply of Teheran comes from the snow on the mountains north of the city. It is brought for a distance of many miles in underground water courses. There are 34 such channels which enter the city. At various places, as they pass along, there are openings into them. Through these openings the water is dipped up with a leather bucket and poured into a goatskin bag, which is slung over the shoulder of the private servant or the professional water carrier.

AUTO RIDE THROUGH OIL FIELD FOR THE EDITORS

Electra and Burkburnett Join This City in Plans For Entertainment

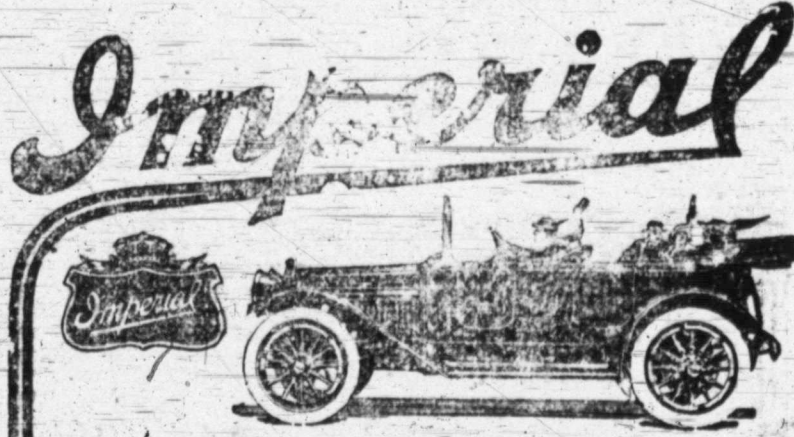

Preparations for the entertainment of the members of the National Editors Association who will visit Wichita Falls on May 1 on their tour over the State, are being completed as far in advance as possible and enough has already been accomplished to make it certain that this city will give the visitors an entertainment long to be remembered. The co-operation of Burkburnett and Electra has been secured and citizens of these places have promised automobiles in which the editors will be transported through the oil field. On the cross country ride from Electra to Burkburnett derricks are always in sight and such a trip it is believed, will give the visitors an excellent idea of the extent of the Northwest Texas field. The entertainment in this city will begin from the time the editors get back from the oil field ride. A banquet at Lake Wichita will conclude the festivities. If there is time this will be preceded by a visit to the plant and other factories and to other points of interest around the city. Only tentative plans have yet been made for entertaining the Texas editors who will hold their convention here in May.

CALOMEL A GREAT DANGER TO MANY

Has Bad Effect on Some—Dodson's Liver Tone Takes Its Place and is Perfectly Harmless. If you will inquire at your drug-gist's you will find that Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed to be a safe, reliable remedy to take the place of calomel and a harmless liver stimulant having no bad after effects. Indeed your druggist will refund purchase price and without question if you are in any way dissatisfied with this vegetable liquid. It is very unwise to take calomel, even dangerous, as many people suffer from the poison afterwards, even though they may appear at first to be temporarily relieved. On the other hand, Dodson's Liver Tone works easily and naturally (really assisting nature) no pain nor gripes and correcting all bilious conditions and ill of constipation, clearing away the sick headache and the coated tongue, brightening up the dulled brain and strengthening the weakened body at the same time that it removes collected waste from the overburdened system. Those who have tried Dodson's Liver Tone have found that it made them healthier and happier. A test may prove of great benefit to you right now. (Adv.)

Tuesday and Wednesday Comparison Sale Days

Compare values! We do! You should! Don't stumble along, dropping in just any old place and spending your hard-earned money! Wake up! Compare values! It's a duty you owe yourself. Here's a good time to begin comparing. If we don't sell you cheaper—buy from the other fellow. If we do—buy here. The only real judge of true values is comparison, so we repeat for emphasis—compare. Evidence of our supremacy in quality merchandise, and our ability to underprice others on the same grades of merchandise is only a matter of careful comparison—that's all—so compare. Aside from these comparison values, special attention will be given to the showing of New Spring Merchandise.

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB WILL BE STARTED HERE

Wichita State Bank Will Inaugurate Novel Plan To Provide Shopping Fund

Commencing Monday, March 16th the Wichita State Bank will inaugurate a novel savings plan which will be known as the Christmas Savings Club. The purpose is to provide the members with funds for their Christmas shopping.

Whether the idea developed when the originator was paying the Christmas bills and trying at the same time to keep enough ahead to pay taxes or whether it was born in the stress of Christmas shopping or the failure to shop on account of lack of funds, it seems to be a good one. The plan is for weekly deposits of small amounts at the bank until November 20 when the bank will mail to the depositor a check for the sum of deposits together with three per cent interest. These deposits may be made at that rate of a dollar a week or may start at one, two or five cents weekly and be increased each week by the amount of the initial deposit or may start with the amount that the last deposit on the ascending plan would be and decrease each week until the last payment would be initial deposit of the other plan.

For instance the Club will permit a member to start with a deposit of one cent increasing each week until the final deposit is 28 cents. The total of the deposits by this plan would be $7.41. Or the depositor may start with 28 cents decreasing the weekly deposits one cent each week until the last will be only one cent. An initial deposit of two cents will make the final deposit 76 cents and the total $14.82. An initial deposit of five cents will make the last deposit $1.90 and the total $37.05. A regular weekly deposit of one dollar will make a total of $38.

HAVE PRETTY HAIR

Thick, Soft, Fluffy and no Dandruff—Use Parisian Sage

If your hair is losing its natural color, coming out and splitting or lacks that enviable softness, gloss and beauty, do not despair—pretty hair is largely a matter of care. If it is too thin make it grow—If it is harsh and brittle soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp with Parisian Sage—all dandruff disappears, falling hair and itching head cease, your hair is doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage sold by Footshee & Lynch and at all drug counters is just what you need—a large bottle costs but 50 cents. It surely makes the hair lustrous and seem twice as abundant. You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage. (Adv.)

DORA LANDRUM, Notary Public, Wichita County, Texas. My commission expires May 21st, 1915.

There are signs that the final depression is over. As evidence of this we note by the Waco newspapers that $150,000 worth of bonds of that city have just been sold at the highest premium paid for municipal bonds in five years.

Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader in Congress was entertained at dinner yesterday by President Wilson. Mr. Hobson, who is also a member of Congress and candidate for the U. S. Senatorship against Underwood, was not present. This is taken by some as substantial evidence that the President desires Underwood to triumph in the Alabama senatorial contest, if he is settled in the Democratic primary in that state on April 6th.

J. H. Lowry, editor of the Honey Grove Signal, is one of the many candidates for congressman-at-large, and newspaper men generally all over the state are having some very complimentary things to say of "Jim" Lowry. He deserves these compliments, and what is more, there is not a man in the race with more natural ability out of which to make good congressional material. Doubtless he will attend the State Press Association, which is to meet in Wichita Falls in May of this year, and when he comes will doubtless take occasion to make a speech, for he can talk as well as write, and he talks just about like he writes. With so many aspirants for these two positions, it is of course difficult to predict the result, but we can only hope that "Jim" will land one of the jobs.

It is plain that Jim Ferguson, out at Temple, is not banking on any conference, on any Saturday, Monday or Wednesday, to aid him in perfecting his title as an aspirant for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. He says as much, says it openly, and his words ring clear. He is looking to the Democrats of Texas, in the July primary, to nominate him, is the Temple man. Keep an eye on Jim Ferguson. He is looking up as a man to look to for good service for Texas.—Waco Tribune.

Yes, candidate Ferguson talks now just like Lane and Maves talked before the Fort Worth elimination road roller struck them, and to keep from being run over did just what Mr. Ferguson more than likely will do—get on the machine and ride with the crowd. The next governor of Texas is going to be either Col. Tom Ball of Houston, of the man who the ants are going to endorse as their candidate at Fort Worth on April 14. That much is certain. So Mr. Ferguson had just as well not burn any of the bridges as he crosses. He will want to come back to them, in all probability.

Dr. S. A. Waits, owner of a fine 300-acre farm ten miles north of the city was in today, and says he has the finest prospect for a wheat crop that he has ever had since he became a citizen of Wichita county seven years ago.

Dr. Waits came to Wichita from Fannin county, where he owned a farm of about 1000 acres. Speaking of cotton farming in this and Fannin county, he says that the soil of this county is fully as good for cotton as that of Fannin. To emphasize this assertion Dr. Waits says that in 1911 he planted 90 acres to cotton on his farm, gathered 70 bales of an average weight of 500 pounds to the bale, and after picking the field sold what was left to a fellow who gathered seven or eight more bales. Dr. Waits also favors the building of good roads. He thinks good roads will enhance farm values by far more than the cost of the roads.

A great deal of criticism just at this time is being leveled at the farmers—more particularly their organization, the Farmers' Union, for taking an interest in things politically. But, as the Times sees it, the farmer as a rule takes too little interest in politics. Often when importuned by his friends and neighbors to become a candidate for some important office to which there is little or no salary attached, he waves them off by saying he is too busy with his own affairs and can't afford to work for the public for so small compensation. The trouble is, the farmer leaves these important offices, such as legislators who make our laws, go to the professional politician—the fellow who makes politics a business, and as a result laws are enacted that are capable of double construction, and some that are a puzzle, not only to those who made them, but to the courts that attempt to place a correct construction on them. What the Times would like to see is for farmers generally to take more interest in politics. A legislature composed mostly of farmers instead of professional men—lawyers, doctors, school teachers and professional politicians, might be able to do something in the way of enacting a few plain common sense laws for Texas, and repealing some laws that no human being on earth can understand the correct meaning of. Instead of too many people in politics, there are too few, and the few who are in the saddle now are afraid they are going to lose their calling, lest the farmer should wake up and play the game of politics for a while himself. Of course, it is a shame and disgrace that our law-makers, members of our legislature, are not paid good salaries, but the state is getting just such laws as it is paying for. The farmer, apparently, never realizes this point until he is asked to become a candidate for the legislature. He can then see that no man who has anything else to occupy his time can afford to accept the office. As a result, these offices are made the stepping stones to young fellows who use them principally to advertise them-

Short Talks on Timely Topics Made Up Program—Will Debate Woman's Suffrage

An unusually interesting session of the Young Men's Forum was held Monday evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. There was no debate but short talks on timely topics were made by a number of the members; the principal address of the evening was by Dr. J. W. Hill, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, who argued for the "Big Men." Other topics were: "Current Events," John Gould; "Heavenly Kelter," W. M. Fuller; "Manual Training," E. Helm; "The White Slave Traffic," S. Heysler; "Unlocking Alaska," Charles Crowell; "Alaska and Her Railways," Henry Arnold; "The Electric Machinery Theory," C. R. Long. The talks by Messrs. Heysler and Long were considered of especial interest.

Monday, March 23 was fixed as the date for the debate on equal suffrage and on that occasion Messrs. Chas. Crowell and Henry Arnold will argue for votes for women, while E. H. Eddlemen and Burton Stayton will have the negative side. The program for Monday, March 16 follows:

Debate, "Resolved, That all old maids over thirty and bachelors over thirty—should be required to pay a special tax," affirmative, John Gould and B. J. Roemer; negative, S. Heysler and C. R. Long. There will be short talks by Burton Stayton on

"Wonders of the World," C. R. Fuller on "Modern Inventions" and L. Burns on "Robert Burns." W. F. Robertson will address the club at its next meeting.

Mr. President, if the American people will continue to lend their support and sympathy to Wilson and Bryan they will guide us through Mexican affairs without war, without intervention, without imperiling a single American principle, without reflecting on the honor of the nation or the glory of the flag.

Mr. President, I pray and I know the American people pray, that the foolhardiness of adventurous men and the schemes of hostile politicians may not drive this country into war.

Chris Murphy, the machinist who was assaulted by two men on Burnett street between Sixth and Seventh streets one night last week, is recovering from his wounds. Yesterday the doctor removed the stitches from one of the cuts on his head. Mr. Murphy says he has no doubt about robbery being the motive of the attack. He says the men were hiding at the side of the embankment. When they hit and seized him he had his hand in his pocket and when he drew it out he brought out his money with it and dropped it on the ground. They were going through his pockets, he said, when Mr. Markham came up and frightened them away. Mr. Murphy says he got a good view of the men and believes he could identify them.

ROMANCE OF A GIRL

Lady Cook, Once Tennessean Clairin, a Magnetic Healer.

Had Vaulting Ambitions—With Her Sister She Rose to Wealth, Fame and a Title and Position in English Society.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Whenever Lady Cook talks publicly it is always about something startling. So, when, with eyes flashing and vigorous gestures this widow of Sir Francis Cook, knighted by an English king for his benevolent actions, advocated before a Pittsburgh audience recently the branding of the physically unfit for marriage she was merely giving her hearers something for their money.

Now about seventy years old, Lady Cook has put behind her a long career that has included poverty, obscurity, notoriety, fame, social position, wealth and a title. Any one of them might have filled an ordinary life, but not so for the resourceful woman of almost three score years and ten, whose energy and activity belong to progressive young womanhood of today.

Some sixty years or more ago Tennessee Claflin and her older sister, Victoria, were children in an Ohio village, the Kansas City Star observes. Their father, was poor, their mother a spiritualist, and you would not have believed there was much of a chance for the ten shabby youngsters that swarmed in their little home. But shortly after they had reached their teens two of them—Tennessee, who was the youngest and prettiest of the lot, and Victoria, her older sister—became women of the world and independent wage earners. This they did by starting a magnetic clairvoyance establishment and exploiting Tennessee as the "child wonder." For many years dating from this time it was alleged that Tennessee had wonderful magnetic power. Perhaps she had. At any rate, the sisters were successful and acquired a large clientele.

But they were looking beyond the restricted horizon that bounded the magnetic power business. They went to New York. Did they spend their time looking for somebody that wanted to hire them? They did not. Victoria and Tennessee, who is now calling herself Tennie C. Claflin, possibly because it savored less of humble origin, appeared in the brokerage business in Wall street. Within a month they were doing better than a good many men brokers in the street. It was the day of Jim Fiske, Jay Gould and Commodore Vanderbilt, and there was always some business they could put in the way of the clever sisters who had taken the plunge into the business world where women were then rare enough to be regarded as curiosities. Victoria at that time is described as fine looking, but a cold, commanding woman, while Tennie was a beauty, more nervous and high strung, yet with a sympathetic, winning manner.

The brokerage business did not hold them long. They soon branched out in the publishing business and were getting out a weekly called Woodhull and Claflin's weekly. Victoria had meantime met and been married to a Dr. Channing Woodhull, her senior by a good many years. Their weekly didn't have much to say about spiritualism or magnetism at this time, but it did have a good many startling things to say about free love, equal suffrage, morality of a type somewhat advanced for that day, sociology, humanitarianism and kindred doctrines and theories.

Victoria had flown in the face of public opinion by marrying Col. James Blood of Missouri without being formally divorced from her former husband, Doctor Woodhull. Public opinion was aroused against the Claflin sisters, the weekly was on its last legs, the brokerage business was petering out, damage suits confronted them. They were at the end of their rope in America. They sought the more congenial atmosphere of England and for a few weeks dropped out of public view as far as America was concerned. But both were brilliant women and both were busy writing and lecturing in London, and gradually they won a following over there and resumed the publication of a weekly paper. Mrs. Victoria Woodhull-Blood was fortunately freed by the death of her two former husbands and she met and won a rich banker, John Blodolph Martin, with a fine home in Hyde Park. Money and social position were hers at last.

The progress of her younger, handsomer sister was even more romantic and startling. Francis Clark, a millionaire silk merchant, heard her lecture, fell in love with her and married her.

Through her wise direction of the placing of his personal charities and benefactions he was knighted and became Sir Francis Cook and Tennie became Lady Cook.

Nobody Steals From His Cigar Stand, Vancouver, Wash.—A cigar stand where the smokers help themselves to the cigars and make their own change is operated in the basement of the bank building at Sixth and Main streets by Stanley Voorhes, elevator boy.

In a large showcase he keeps cigars, cigarettes and tobacco for the occupants of the six-story bank building. The sign has been in operation for six months and works admirably. No one takes advantage of the boy, and his cash box at night always tallies correctly with the stock when checked.

Continuation Of Review Of Bloody Happenings In Mexico

(Written for the United Press by an American in Mexico)

Vera Cruz, March 9.—Following the ruthless killing of Gustavo and Francisco Madero and Vice President Suarez, Gen. Huerta issued an "explanation" of the deaths of the latter two. "It was all due to their trying to escape," said Huerta's representative. "They were placed in an automobile to be taken to another jail. A band of men rode up to rescue them and in the fight both Madero and Suarez were killed. It is very regrettable and we wish you would quote us in your dispatches as saying that it is very terrible and sad." Huerta made no effort to explain why, in the exchange of bullets which had killed Madero and Suarez, and riddled the closed automobile in which they were claimed to have been riding, not one person besides Madero and Suarez had been hurt. It was not explained how the so-called band of rescuers had shot down the men they were trying to rescue without wounding one of the guards who surrounded Madero and Suarez.

Civilization was jolted by the astonishing news. Huerta, from the chair in which the murdered president had sat, explained that he had had nothing to do with the killing. He would not act as president until a fair election could be held. He felt he was able to keep peace in the country. The army, he said, was with him, and it had never been with Madero at heart.

Carranza's Declaration.—Two matters of tremendous importance to Huerta occurred almost immediately. The hardy Venustiano Carranza, one of Madero's closest friends, governor of a northern state, student of socialism and democracy, declared that he would fight the new government. And the United States government refused to recognize the government founded by Huerta. Huerta had overreached himself in permitting the slaying of Madero. The killing of Madero would probably have been condoned by the world at large; it certainly would have been condoned by the Mexican people for, though they liked Madero the president, they hated Gustavo for his lack of conscience and felt that it was Gustavo who was making Francisco's administration a failure, through graft and rapacity. But the slaying of the fifth president, the gentleman who would not kill Diaz when Diaz was in his power, and who would not take the life of Reyes when Reyes had tried to take his; who almost faithfully followed the Biblical admonition to turn the other cheek and who was true to his big dream that human rights stand above all other rights, was an affront to all human progress. The man who slew such a leader tried to overthrow the hopes of common humanity.

It is not to be wondered at that the United States government refused to recognize Huerta as provisional president. England, however, hurriedly recognized the presidency of Huerta, but there is small wonder for this, because Huerta was friendly to the English oil interests of Mexico and Lord Cowdray, head of these interests, was a leader of the ruling party in England. Other nations followed England's lead.

Recognition Withheld.—Woodrow Wilson took office as president of the United States. He declared that Huerta must not hold office as president of Mexico; that a presidency gained by bloodshed and treachery could not be upheld in any country in America. "This seemed like sheer talk for a time," Huerta didn't get out; his government continued in power. But the passage of a few weeks showed the force of Wilson's declarations. Huerta sent emissaries to Europe to sell an issue of $200,000,000 in bonds. But the European bankers said, "We cannot take these bonds until the United States recognizes as legal the government established by Huerta."

The efforts of Huerta to gain funds grew more and more desperate. Leaders of the people arose against him. The French revolution has nothing more grim and terrible to show than the incidents of the days that followed. One senator made his will at his home and marched down to the senate chamber. He arose and said in substance:

"These are my last words, my will and testament to the Mexican people whom I love. I believe I shall perish for what I am going to say here and how I declare that Huerta is a tyrant who must be overthrown. That might be disappointed. He has never been seen again. Where his grave is not even his family knows."

that the restricted district of Floral Heights is destined to be the non-ton residence section of Wichita Falls for all time to come. It will be impossible to have any other restricted property like it. It is a charming property, ideally located. Situated on the car line with the highest elevation between the city and Lake Wichita, the view in all directions is one of magnitude of stretching landscape as far as the eye can see. You don't have to be rich to own a home in this district. The restrictions are modest and simple, as follows: No residence shall be constructed in this restricted district in excess of one residence to two whole lots and no residence shall cost less than $3000.00. Just think; you can purchase a pair of these lots for $660.00, one-third cash, balance on or before one and two years at 8 per cent interest. The Company only has a few of these lots left, and there is no limit to the prices you will see these lots sell for in the future. Two of the finest homes in the city are in this restricted district. Saving is not always a virtue nor is it always good sense. You can't remedy eye-strain for a dime but by spending this amount for glasses you may deceive yourself temporarily. Put a value on your eyesight and decide whether it isn't economy to pay a little more and be certain of the results. We examine eyes, make and fit glasses in accordance with your needs, as shown by delicate instruments in our examination room—the only safe method.

OLD BUSINESS METHODS that were in vogue twenty years ago have gone glimmering into that mystic haze, the past. They have been relegated to the scrap heap of inefficiency and dissatisfaction. They outlived their usefulness. The man who today tries to give satisfaction and cope with competition using the old methods is a pitiful sight as he totters with his burden on the uphill road, the top of which he can never hope to reach. The customer of today demands not only the best merchandise that men and machines can produce but they demand service that nothing but modern systematic business methods can render. Our system of serving the exacting public comes from years of experience in catering to the wants and supplying the demands of all kinds of people and when a defect is found in this system it is promptly eliminated. The standard we seek to maintain throughout the crucial tests of time is satisfaction. It is the one standard on which we want to merit your patronage not only this month and this year but for all time to come. Put us on trial for our business life today.

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE COFFEE ROASTING INDUSTRY In the early days all coffee was shipped from Brazil and other producing countries in sailing vessels. These vessels were subject to severe storms and often the cargoes were badly damaged by salt water. This damaged coffee was piled on the wharves and there sprouted and rotted, and had to be hauled away at much expense. Charles and John Arbuckle were engaged in the wholesale grocery business in Pittsburg, Penn., and made frequent pilgrimages to New York in behalf of their business. Being Scotch, this waste of coffee bothered them, and Charles, who was of an inventive turn of mind, set about to solve the problem, and built the first commercial coffee roaster, which consisted of simply a large iron cylinder revolved by steam power. They bought this damaged coffee at practically their own price and roasted it before it had time to sprout and put on the market the first coffee sold in a roasted state. This was in the early sixties and since that time the business has grown to gigantic proportions and now involved the investment of millions of dollars and practically all coffee is sold in the roasted state. This method of course saves the house wife lots of trouble and annoyance, but as most of the coffee so far has been roasted in the large sea-port cities, it has been the cause of much stale coffee being used and has not tended to make coffee as popular a beverage as it should be. But now the trend is in the direction of localizing the coffee roasting business and selling the bean freshly roasted direct to the consumer. That is as it should be as it eliminates all waste and middlemen's profits, traveling salesman's expenses. But best of all, it gives the consumer freshly roasted goods. Green coffee is a commodity like wheat, corn, cotton, etc., and is sold in the open market and can be bought by all at the same price. The minute it is roasted, however it becomes a proprietary article and becomes subject to heavy advertising expense, traveling salesman's expenses, fancy labels, and if shipped a distance expensive tin cans which only to a very small extent prevent deterioration. In order to give the people of Wichita Falls and vicinity the very best coffee at a minimum price we have established a thoroughly up-to-date Roasting Plant and can serve you with the very best goods, scientifically blended and fresh roasted. We invite your inspection of our plant and methods and trust to be favored with your coffee business. Coffee is the best beverage given mankind. In its brew there is health, in its aroma a fragrance as delightful as the rose, a nectar, rarer and diviner than grape ever distilled into wine—VIVE LA CAFE. 608-610 Ohio Ave. O. W.
