ALLEGED LEPER IN WASHINGTON TODAY

CREATES PANIC IN FASHIONABLE HOTEL WHEN HIS IDENTITY IS LEARNED

TAKEN BACK TO ISOLATION

Is Recognized When He Sends For Newspaper Men—Case One of Five Years Standing

By Associated Press.
Washington, June 2.—John E. Early who in the last five years has made many enforced journeys about the country in box cars and been held under quarantine while medical experts have disagreed as to whether he is a leper, turned up in Washington again today and before his identity was discovered, took quarters in a fashionable uptown hotel, the home of Vice President Marshall and others prominent in capital life.

Early was not discovered until after he had telephoned to a newspaper asking for a reporter to interview Mr. Estwood. The newspaper men at once recognized the noted patient and notified the authorities who took Early back to his place of isolation in the city limits.

The fashionable hotel and its guests were thrown into a state of commotion. The alleged leper escaped from the Diamond Quarantine station near Port Townsend, Washington and was traced to Victoria, British Columbia, where officers lost track of him.

The manufacturers will be notified to discontinue using the saccharine.

HOME ENTERED IN DAYTIME AND MANY VALUABLES TAKEN

Residence of Mrs. R. E. Clopton on Eight Street is Burglarized Monday Afternoon

The home of Mrs. R. E. Clopton on Eighth street was entered by unknown parties Monday afternoon, a number of valuable articles of jewelry stolen and the entire house thrown into confusion. The intruders made their entry through the bathroom window using a ladder. The drawers had been pulled out of every dresser and chest in the house and trunks and a cedar chest had been emptied, articles of wearing apparel being scattered all over the floor and left in that condition. A leather suit case was cut to pieces and much of the clothing contained in the trunks and dressers was torn and otherwise badly damaged.

The refrigerator had been raided and a quantity of fruit taken from it, the peelings left scattered about the floor and several boxes of matches were emptied on the kitchen floor. Two watches were taken, numerous pins and a gold chain but no clothing was missing. From the manner of entrance and the nature of the thefts, it is surmised that the intruders were boys, barefoot tracks being found in the yard and in the house.

This is one of several similar depredations that have been committed in the last few days and the offenders are in all probability a gang of maliciously inclined boys who have nothing to do but roam the streets. Up to about 2:30 this afternoon the officers had been able to find out nothing that would lead to the apprehension of the thieves.

USE OF INJUNCTION IN STRIKES LIMITED

ANTI-TRUST BILL LEGALIZES PEACEFUL PICKETING AND PRIMARY BOYCOTT

INTIMIDATION CHARGE MADE

Pennsylvania Congressman Accuses Progressives—Measure Called "Labor's Bill of Rights"

By Associated Press.
Washington, June 2.—Close restriction on the use of injunctions in labor disputes are the feature of the section of the Clayton anti-trust bill reached today in the House. This section also provides that no injunction shall prohibit strikers from peaceful picketing or peaceful persuasion of persons to work or quit work or from primary boycott or the payment of strike benefits or peaceful assemblage.

An amendment proposed by the judiciary committee and agreed upon by the representatives of organized labor and administration leaders proposed "nor shall any act specified in this paragraph be construed or held to be unlawful."

With this amendment Representative Henry of Texas declared that the provision became "the bill of rights of American organized labor."

Makes Practices Legal.
The House adopted without a record vote the Webb amendment declaring that none of the acts specifying peaceful strikers, boycotts and picketing shall be construed to be illegal. All other amendments were rejected and the whole section covering the injunction question was adopted.

Representative Moore, Republican of Pennsylvania, pointing to Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation of Labor and other labor leaders in the gallery, arraigned Representative Murdock and others who had voted for the labor exemption, as having been intimidated by the Federation. Moore exclaimed:

"I have not waited for a nod from the gallery to tell me how to vote. I have not voted to please our labor friends in the gallery. I would not have voted to exempt Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison nor would I have voted to exempt Rockefeller or Carnegie."

Republican Leader Mann declared that the Progressives did not know how to vote on the labor amendments until after consultation with Col. Roosevelt.

PEACE DELEGATES AWAIT INFORMATION

NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN SITUATION AT NIAGARA FALLS TODAY

DURANGO STATEMENT'S EFFECT

Expected to Delay Proceedings—Still Seem Deadlocked Over Admission of Carranza

By Associated Press.
Niagara Falls, June 2.—Still deadlocked over the question of constitutional representation at the conference here, the Mexican and American delegates were awaiting more information today about the character and ability of certain persons who had been previously suggested to comprise the new constitutional government.

The Mexican delegates are reporting to their government the developments with reference to constitutional participation, but have as yet no official knowledge on the subject from the mediators.

Wait For Information.
The American delegates have not finished their discussion with the mediators in this connection and are awaiting more information from Washington.

Indications today were that nothing definite would be solved on constitutional representation, although the mediators were reported to be framing a reply to the last Carranza note. The statement from Durango last night, giving the constitutionalists' view of the mediation conference, was regarded here as likely to delay rather than hurry the negotiations. While no comment was obtainable, those of the conference who did express themselves, pointed to the statement as concrete evidence of the misapprehension that existed in the minds of the constitutionalists as to the character of the negotiations here.

Last Night's Statement.
The statement issued last night, also by constitutionalists in Washington was regarded as throwing an interesting light on the disposition of some constitutionalists to recognize the possible benefits of mediation. These statements, it was said, showed a lack of information by constitutionalists on some of the important points being treated here, especially as to just what representation in the new provisional government the conference had intended for them.

There is some reason to believe that the peace conference here has planned from the first to give the constitutionalists a large share in the new provisional government, but definite information along this line has necessarily been withheld until the views of the Huerta government and Washington could be obtained.

By Associated Press.
Mexico City, June 2.—A semi-official note relative to the mediation conference at Niagara Falls was published under a prominent heading under El Imparcial today. It says:

"We can give the assurance that the peace conference here has planned from the first to give the constitutionalists a large share in the new provisional government, but definite information along this line has necessarily been withheld until the views of the Huerta government and Washington could be obtained."

Upon receipt of dispatches from Washington, the American delegates requested with a conference at 3:30 p. m.

GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS TUESDAY

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES HELD AT WICHITA THEATRE

FORT WORTH JURIST SPEAKS

Principal Address Delivered by Judge Ocie Speer, Commencement Task Back to Program

The commencement exercises which marked the closing of the city schools and the graduation of a class of thirty from the high school were held last evening at the Wichita Theatre.

The opening number of the program was a chorus by the music pupils of Miss Alice Gordon, instructor in the schools, composed of both high and grammar school pupils. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Roscoe Miller followed by the salutatory to the class and the address by Miss Bernice Landers, Miss Daisy Stewart, chosen as class essayist, followed her graduation theme, "Education as a Social Duty." The chorus again rendered a very pleasing number, "Estudiantium," the class oration by Carl Jungk following. Miss Audrey Addicks, valedictorian, had chosen for her subject, "The Opportunities Offered by Our City" and her essay was a very comprehensive and exhaustive summary of the many facilities and advantages offered by Wichita Falls.

At this point in the program the D. A. R. medal which is offered by the local chapter of Daughters to the seventh grade student making the highest general average in American history, was presented to Goldie Marlice who made an average of 94.2. There were a number of contestants for this medal and the grades were exceedingly gratifying to the donors of the medal who seek thus to foster in the children a love and desire for the history of this country.

Judge Speer speaks. The commencement address was delivered by Judge Ocie Speer of Fort Worth. Judge Speer in his address laid stress upon the need of the cultivation of the inner man, the heart and endeavored to impress upon the graduates the necessity of finding out themselves to decide upon what to do and do that well to excel in whatever they undertake. His speech was interspersed with apt illustrations, calculated to fix more clearly the different points brought out. He stated that the inner man, the heart is predominated by three emotions, love, sympathy and faith. They are all akin but the most stress is to be laid on faith, as faith is the basis of the other emotions, he said.

W. J. Hullock, president of the school, presented the diplomas to the graduates, taking advantage of the opportunity afforded to add a few timely words of advice to the young men and young women who were entering upon the broader responsibilities of life.

Awards Are Made. The prizes offered by the Wichita State Bank for the student making the largest deposit also the student making the largest number of deposits and to the teacher who interested the largest percentage of the public in her room in the savings department were awarded following the presentation of the diplomas.

Wayne Small was awarded a five dollar gold piece for depositing the largest amount in the past three months and Lewis Johnson a five dollar gold piece for making the largest number of deposits. Miss Mary Matt Wilkes was the teacher who interested the largest amount in the past three months and Lewis Johnson a five dollar gold piece for making the largest number of deposits.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Walters ending the exercises. Those receiving diplomas on this occasion were: Mary Matt Wilkes, Roy Anderson, Lillian Boy, Solon Downing, Lillian Paine, Jewell Giffel, Mary Hull, Vera Hinkle, Bernice Landers, Theodore Luecke, Earl Murph, Minnie McCallahan, Gus McIntosh, Ralph Marlice, Lois Norris, Otis Nelson, Carrie Roberts, Pauline Tibbitt, Henry Robertson, Alta Ruffner, Cora Livingston, Daisy Stewart, May Vaughn, Rurio Wells, Mabel Williams, Cora Lee Waggoner, Carl Jungk.

The following made up the chorus which furnished the musical portion of the program: Sopranos, Julia Long, Lucy Higgins, Adelle Addicks, Edna Adelle Robertson, Edna Gilpatrick, Annetta Humphries, Ruby Greenwood, Mabel Morris, Nettie Fribers, Bessie Gibson, Fretina Isler, Beatrice Hays, Louise Litchman, Helen Beaschinn, Madie Gaulters, Obbevere Nudd, Kate Gaulters, Alto, Agnes Leichman, Kate Gravel, Grace Tidwell, Marian Dobson, Lola Gilpatrick, Edna Coleburn, Glensie Lamb, Tallier Sasser, second soprano, Geneva Strman, Cora Sheppard, Patry Lou Koonce, Mattie Smith, Corbett Jewell, Shores, Bessie Ruffner, Cora Livingston, Dangan, Chas. Butts and Clyde Smith.

The oration by Carl Jungk follows: "Education as a Social Duty." A book on Mexico had for its dedication words to this effect: "To the illustrious President of Mexico, Don Porfirio Diaz who has placed his country in the foremost ranks of civilization and prosperity and to a country whose flag has never waved over a slave."

These few words unconsciously touch the keynote of the present day trouble in Mexico. Diaz wished to make his country great one but in order to accomplish this he needed a strong government to back him. He needed also foreign capital to develop the resources of his country. His own people were not to be considered as a means for this accomplishment. The Mexicans are a people who would do very little for each other and therefore much less for their country. Personal gain is the paramount thing in their thoughts. They have much ambition but little energy. There is not that enthusiasm in them for the advancement of their own interest as a nation as there is in the foreigner. They have a national pride but no patriotism. Their one idea is how much do I get for this or how much can I get from the other. Mexico is a land of slaves and the Mexican has the smooth talk of the Spaniard and the shrewdness of the Indian and is a master without rivals in the art of diplomacy.

With these facts known to him Diaz turned to the foreigners. To get them interested he had to give them great concessions and privileges. The Spaniards, French and Americans dominated the mercantile trade, the English became heads of the banking houses and the American owners of the railroads and mines. American possessions in Mexico alone today may be considered as worth over seven billion of dollars. These foreign companies, with their concessions and privileges, were the cause of today's unhappy condition in Mexico.

Land Question. The land is still in the hands of the Mexicans but they are few in number. Their power was almost equal to that of old feudal time. Little did the people of the United States know of the actual conditions of the lower class of Mexicans until Mr. Turner published his article. The law of Mexico compels a man to pay his debts. That law is Mexico's law of slavery. Before the outbreak of the Madero revolution it could be said of the lower class of Mexicans, that they neither owned the clothes on their back nor the lives they lived. It was the possession of the big land owner, whose method it was to place the poor in debt by advancing small sums of money and provision over and above the amount of their wages which in their case was seldom over thirty-seven cents per day and kept the poor man always in debt. As the crops were never big enough to free the man from debt, he had to borrow more to keep his family alive, which among this class is very large. Consequently the poor man was forced by the land owner to work part or all of his time on the big ranch. Luis Terrazas, now an exile, held over one million acres of land in the State of Chihuahua alone. On this he paid such a small amount of taxes in proportion to other people's taxes that he practically paid nothing at all for the land he controlled over one thousand men, all of whom were nothing more than slaves. These unhappy conditions have forced the lower class to take up arms and they now compose over ninety-eight per cent of the constitutional army.

A man's political aspirations were never rewarded until he was a Dictator. This was the case with Diaz. The people were not of a serious consideration. It was in this way and by this method that Diaz was able to hold his office for nearly six terms. His elections were farces. It was but a question of passing the word to his men that only Diaz returns would be considered. It was removal from office or disappearance for the man who returned an unfavorable election report. Harsh laws and unfair trials have caused the lower and middle classes to finally throw off their burden and endeavor to gain their rights. Carranza and Villa.

Carranza the present day head of the constitutional cause, was first heard of when he attempted to smash the Diaz Reg. He was easily set aside by being made governor of the State of Coahuila. Francisco Madero came to the front and plunged heart and soul for electoral reforms which led to the revolution that overthrew Diaz. Madero's fault was his lack of determination. His plans and ideas were too far advanced for the people. His unpopularity after his election was due to a great extent to his inability to fulfill his rash and impossible promises made during his revolution. He was treacherously murdered by Huerta, then head of the army. Since becoming president, Huerta has steadily lost power. Every possible cause has been tried, but for a quick settlement of the trouble. But he has steadfastly refused and has barricaded himself inside the wall of his own ignorance.

Upon the death of Madero, Carranza immediately started a counter revolution. In this he has been successful only through the help of a heady, Pancho Villa. Villa, escaped from the prison in Mexico City where he had been incarcerated by Huerta. Coming north he also started a small revolution which has grown to such an extent that his men practically control over half of Mexico. Carranza may now be considered as only a head and a part of Villa's plans. When it comes to a final agreement Carranza will not be heard from. Villa is the man of the hour. The Napoleon of Mexico. He is a man of no education but a strong will. His word is law and death to the man who dares disobey. He has had a government set up in Mexico that is no good. If not better than any government that has ever had. Villa has publicly declared that he is a bandit, ignorant and incapable of running the government. He therefore has placed it in the hands of efficient men.

United States Attitude. The United States from the first outside has been very lenient with Mexico and with its leaders. She has kept her hands off in an endeavor to let the Mexicans settle their own troubles. When she saw that Diaz could not possibly put down the Madero revolution, she gave her approval and recognition to the revolutionist. Huerta usurped his power and has not been recognized. The constitutionalists have not been recognized. The embargo on arms which has been a disadvantage to them was removed. Since the trouble at Vera Cruz the embargo has again been placed on arms. The United States has kept off from intervention and suffered many insults. She has shown a pa-

TIMES PUBLISHING CO.
ED HOWARD, Mgr.

When it rains you realize how much we need. Just keep on reading it after the rain stops.

The ice man is beginning to lose that worried look. The rest of us can do the worrying for a few months.

We understand that the woman who advertised for a position, stating that she could "give god references" has found a place.

There was once a reporter who forebore to use the term "sweet girl graduate" in writing up the commencement exercises; also there was once a hog that could play poker.

Another tradition is shattered. The Houston Post, for years known as the "headless wonder" of Texas newspapers, now has a new head letter.

Our idea of a real brave man is the fellow who will undertake to remove the River Doubt from the map. It was placed there by our own Teddy, and it is there to stay.

The more optimistic are saying that Wichita county will produce 1,500,000 bushels of wheat this year. The crop was never finer, and if the rains will cease now until after harvest, their estimate is none too high.

There is this much to say about Ball and Ferguson: It matters not which is nominated, there will be those who will contend that a great mistake was made; but even they will be forced to concede that no greater mistake will be made at this election than was made before. That would be almost impossible.

It is just about two weeks until the sensible Texas editor will remove all the cash from the safe except enough to pay freight on some Mexican war plate from Dallas, tell the boys to be sure and get out on time, and hang a sign in the window saying "Gone to Wichita Falls; May Never Come Back."

Persons contemplating going abroad this summer can anticipate some of the horrors of seasickness by taking a short trip on the train in some of the sections where the rain has been heavy; that is to say, almost everywhere.

It is June 3 and not June 4, that Col. Tom Ball is to address the people of this city and surrounding county. It was written June 3 at the start, but the throtyping man made it 4, and the proof reader who is no other than yours truly overlooked the error. So don't forget that June 3 is tomorrow, and that Col. Ball, who many of us hope will be the next governor of this grand old state, will be here and will speak at night at the court house.

He, with Cone Johnson, Tom Campbell and other big men of Texas, took the lead for Wilson for President, and sent a solid Wilson delegation to Baltimore. It is for this as much as for any other reason, that the fellows who fought in the rank and file in that presidential campaign for Wilson against Clark, Harmon and Underwood, are supported by the masses for governor.

THE LATEST OCEAN TRAGEDY

The Titanic disaster of two years ago, in which some fourteen hundred lives were lost when the great liner struck an iceberg, has been paralleled by the sinking of the Empress of Ireland in the icy waters of the St. Lawrence River on the night of the 28th. The Empress of Ireland, with some nine hundred passengers and a crew of four hundred, left her pier at Quebec on the 28th, and made her way down the river, anchoring in the mouth of the great stream at nightfall because of a dense fog. She was struck amidships by an oncoming Danish liner, and the whole aft part of her hull was torn away along her water line. The circumstances, as reported, were such as to give no opportunity to close water-tight bulkheads—indeed, judging from the extent of the injury, it is likely that the use of these means would have been of little avail—and in fourteen minutes hundreds of passengers and crew passed from the sleep of life to the sleep of death, with the boats of the collier Storstad seeking for them vainly in the fog. It is said that the captain of the Empress asked the commander of the collier not to back from the wounded ship, so that the rush of the waters into the torn side might be prevented. The Storstad backed clear, however, and dropped her boats, rescuing some 355 persons from drowning.

There have been many frightful disasters in the merchant marine, but a review of a hundred years in the United States Navy shows, except for the wreck of the Huron—and the loss at Samoa shows nothing—even approaching the cases of the Titanic and the Empress. The reason for the immunity of the naval vessels does not lie in the fact that the man-of-war is stronger than the passenger boat, for the Titanic was the last work in marine construction in her class, and the Empress as regards sea-going qualities was hardly inferior. If the Titanic had been a naval vessel, she would not have been racing through a midnight sea through with iceberg, nor would the Empress, under the command of government officers, have lain at anchor in the fog without sounding her siren and foghorns.

The whole trouble and risk comes from the saving of expense to pay dividends to stockholders by driving ships at full speed through fogs and dangers, or through going short-handed so the anchored vessels will be less able to take the precautions that are rendered necessary by the midnight and fog. Risks mean larger dividends, and captains who do not take them soon have records of being expensive marked up against them. When a commander of a vessel faces the alternatives of lack of employment and violation of the law, the lengthy list of marine disasters shows which he chooses. In the navy the ship commander is unpunished for taking unnecessary risk; in the merchant service he is penalized for not doing it.—Greenville Herald.

A SUGGESTION TO CANDIDATES

To the Times: I find there are some forty candidates in the field for the various offices in the district the voters of Wichita county and in behalf of those voters who are farmers, the bone and sinew of our country. I suggest that those candidates get together and help the farmer out of the difficulty that he is now having in saving the biggest crop of grain that they have been blessed with in years, and hold up for a short time on their vocal powers in trying to make him believe they are the political Moses for the various offices. I hope they will see the good that can be done in such a worthy cause, and get together. I know they are all hardworking lot of fellows and will make the wool fly. I for one am ready. Yours for the field.

ANCIENT RITES OBSERVED

Ancestors Are Solemnly Notified That Ceremony Has Been Postponed Two Years

By Associated Press.
Tokio, June 2.—Although it is nearly two years since the death of the Emperor Mitsuhiro, it will be another two years before his successor, the Emperor Yoshihito, is fully enthroned, according to all the Japanese rites. The postponement of the coronation festivities, which had been arranged for the coming fall, is hemoaned by the whole Japanese people, but the death of a sacrificial thing to use at the coronation ceremony the seed of rice that has been ripened during a season of sorrow.

A part of the coronation ritual had the spirit of his grandmother. The treasures were handed down to Emperor Jimmu, the first of the imperial line, through five dynasties and then to the present emperor as the symbol of the throne.

History of Sacred Sword
The sacred sword, one of the three treasures, also has a romantic history. In the dim prehistoric days the brother Amaterasu Omikami, who was a very heroic and restless deity came down to the island empire, being driven out from the heavenly region by the sun goddess. While traveling through the province of Izumo he happened to kill a very big boa-constrictor which had been terrifying the people and found a rare sword in its tail. Returning to the heavenly region he presented it to the sun goddess, who later bestowed it to her grand son together with the mirror and jewel.

The comma-shaped jewel, last of the sacred treasures, is also believed to have been made at the time of the sun goddess by one of her followers but no exact description of the jewel is available. That is a sacred secret of the sanctuary.

The ceremonies at this imperial sanctuary were impressive. All of the participating officials were in full dress chamberlains, court ritualists, and court ladies being attired in ancient ceremonial costumes. The Emperor, been observed prior to the death of the Empress Dowager, however. The imperial ancestors had been duly notified that the ceremonies were planned for the coming fall, and upon the death of the Dowager Empress, the ancestors were again visited at their various shrines and notified that the ceremonies would be deferred until 1916.

Ancestors Are Notified
In Tokio, the Emperor himself made the announcement before the imperial sanctuary in the palace. This is the most sacred of the shrines, where the spirit of the grand ancestor, Amaterasu Omikami, "goddess of the sun," is enshrined. Here, also are the three sacred symbols of the throne, the metal mirror, the sword, and the comma-shaped jewel, around each of which is woven the tradition that they were all handed down by the "goddess of the sun," the imperial grand ancestor, to her grandson, Ninigi-no-mikoto, on the occasion of the latter's descent to the island empire from the heavenly region. When the sun goddess conferred these treasures upon her grand son she solemnly told him to respect them and enshrine them in the palace. She told him that the sacred mirror which was the most important of the three, representing the spirit of the sun goddess should be held in highest respect and the imperial descendant should regard it as he would attend by Count Toda, grand master of ceremonies, and Count Watanabe, household minister, made his entry, followed by chamberlains who carried the sacred symbols. Afterward the Empress entered with equal pomp, escorted by numerous court ladies and princesses, and Baron Hara, vice chief of the coronation commission.

Emperor Meets Shrines
When all were seated, the Emperor proceeded to a place before the sanctuary, and after a reverent bow, read an address concerning the ancestral souls of the date of the Coronation ceremonies. The Empress also went before the shrine, followed in order by all of the members of the imperial family, making the same obeisance.

Similar ceremonies were conducted before the shrines of Koreiden and Shiden, with the Emperor participating, and imperial messengers were, at the same time despatched to other shrines. Later all the original ceremonies were repeated to announce to the imperial ancestors the postponement of the coronation for another two years.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN PETROLIA FIELD

S. A. FLEANOR OF DALLAS IS KILLED WHEN HIGH PRESSURE HOSE BREAKS

TWO OTHER MEN INJURED

Both Recover—Is First Fatal Field Accident in History of Petrolia District

One man was killed and two others were knocked unconscious at Petrolia yesterday when a hose used in a rotary drilling outfit carrying a pressure of about 400 pounds broke and flew around in the derrick. S. A. Fleanor, of Oak Cliff, a suburb of Dallas, was the man killed. He was struck on the head and knocked against a piece of machinery, breaking his head and shattering his brain. He died as he was being carried into Petrolia in an automobile.

J. Dillard, a driller, and another man were knocked unconscious, but soon recovered. Fleanor's body was taken to Henrietta and was shipped to Dallas this morning. R. C. Sanders, of this city, by whom he was employed, accompanied the remains.

The accident happened at the Owens well on the Matlock track. Fleanor was about 40 years old and was unmarried. He was employed as a tower man.

This is said to be the first fatal accident in the Petrolia oil and gas field in the eight years of its existence. There have been other accidents but none have resulted fatally.

NEW INTERURBAN PROPOSAL

Fort Worth Man Submits Offer—Creamery Proposition Discussed by Directors Today

That the city council would favor taking over a slaughter house that would be built under its direction within three years was the substance of a report made to the Chamber of Commerce by J. B. Marlow of the committee appointed at the last meeting of the directors of that organization to confer with the city council on the matter. The city would also be willing to allow those who furnish the money for building the slaughter house eight per cent upon their investment.

A plan whereby 100 business men would sign notes for $20,000, the estimated cost of a suitable plant, so that the plant might be built as soon as possible, was discussed. J. A. Kemp, T. J. Taylor and A. H. Britton were added to the committee appointed at the last meeting to devise some plan for financing the project until such time as the city would be able to take it over.

Creamery is Discussed
The creamery question was brought up when Mr. Carithers, proprietor of the Holiday creamery told about the operation of his plant and discussed butter fat supply, markets and other factors here. He said he believed it utterly impossible to operate a creamery here such as the promoter evidently had in mind without losing money. It developed during the discussion of the matter that 1,000 pounds of butter fat were shipped from Holiday Station last week between 700 and 800 pounds from Iowa Park and about the same amount from Burk Burnett.

A letter from a Mr. Ayers of Fort Worth announcing that he was promoting an electric interurban was

Fort Worth to Wichita Falls via Mineral Wells and Weatherford was read. He asked for stock subscriptions of $100,000. The communication was referred for further correspondence asking Mr. Ayers to present something tangible.

A proposal from Mrs. J. L. McKee in reference to a band leader was discussed informally. Myles O'Reilly was designated to confer with Mrs. McKee in reference to the proposal.

Property Owners Tell Their Woes To Board

Of Equalization Today

Realty and other values were at a low ebb in Wichita Falls today. Many property owners appeared before the city board of equalization to protest against raises in their assessments. Merchants told of poor business and increasing costs of doing business, really owners foresaw difficulty in getting enough money to pay increased taxes and pessimism was exuded in huge quantities in the room at the city hall ordinarily used for police headquarters where the board of equalization is sitting to hear protests.

The equalizers induced most of the protestants to see things in a brighter light and showed that the other fellow was assessed in about the same proportion as the protestants. Some property owners who were able to show that their property was assessed at a proportionately higher rate than others got their assessments reduced.

ARTHUR GRAVES TO LEAVE; QUILTS CONSTABLE RACE

Arthur A. Graves has been here for several days preparing to move his household goods to Healdton, Okla., where he is running a store in the oil field. On account of his removal from the city Mr. Graves has withdrawn as a candidate for constable in precinct No. 1. In this connection he wishes to thank his friends for their promises of support and to say he appreciates what they have done as much as if he had gone on through the race and been nominated. He says he has good prospects at Healdton and hopes to make a good stake there.

ST. LOUIS OBSERVES 150TH ANNIVERSARY

MAMMOTH PAGEANT MARKS CLOSE OF CENTURY AND HALF OF CITY

HISTORY VIVIDLY PORTRAYED

Thirty Living Pictures of Leading Event in Annals Since Earliest Days

By Associated Press. St. Louis, June 2.—The Pageant and Masque of St. Louis, which was given here last week in commemoration of the founding of this city one hundred and fifty years ago, required for its production probably the largest stage in the world and a cast of 7,500 persons.

The production was in two distinct parts—the pageant, by Thomas Wood Stevens, head of the school of drama at the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the masque by Percy Mackaye.

The pageant began shortly before sunset, and continued until dark. After a short intermission, the masque was given under electric light. The pageant was a series of thirty living pictures, portraying important events in the history of St. Louis. Fifty-six hundred men and women took part in this presentation.

TEXAN IS RESTORED BY MAYR'S WONDERFUL STOMACH REMEDY

Alvarado Man Gets Appetite and Comfort Back After Taking First Dose

T. A. Hensley of Alvarado, Texas, succeeded for a long time from derangements of the digestive tract. He had colic attacks and indigestion. His liver had become inflamed and he was in pain after eating.

He took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. From the very first dose it brought swift results. He wrote:

"I have taken your treatment for stomach trouble and consider it a Godsend to suffering humanity. I have been suffering from stomach troubles for a long time, such as colic attacks, bloating after eating, sick spells, indigestion, constipation and inactive liver and gall stones. Now I do not feel like the same man. I can cheerfully recommend this remedy to all stomach sufferers." Mr. Hensley's experience is typical of those of the thousands who have depleting the mound-building era of St. Louis, which is on the site of many old mounds. The movement began with long lines of men and women bringing earth in baskets and building a mound in which they buried the chief of their tribe. The immense stage represented the site of the present city of St. Louis. Between the stage and the hill to the south on which the spectators sat was a lagoon, 150 feet wide, representing the Mississippi River. The spectators were asked to imagine themselves as seated on the bluffs on the Illinois shore and looking across the Mississippi River to the site of St. Louis as the history of the city passed before them. As the mound builders buried the chief of their tribe, buffalo hunters approached and persuaded them to give up their mound building ways.

Indians Make Appearance Indians then appeared on the stage—the year now was supposed to be 1535—and gave characteristic dances and war scenes. Then came a representation of the expedition of De Soto with his Spanish gold seekers, Father Marquette, the French missionary then came up to the pageant stage—the city site—in a canoe, and after him LaSalle and fifty-four traders and Indians.

This far 1,150 persons had appeared on the stage in a few scenes already portrayed. The movement ended as an Indian prophet foretold the future of his race.

The next movement opened with the portrayal of the founding of the city by Pierre LaCade, the French settler, who was represented as planning the town and leaving his fourteen-year-old son, Chouteau, to build it. Gradually the town grew as the French settlers came in, and then the Spanish troops were represented as coming to take possession under the first Spanish governor. The dedication of the first church was re-enacted. In 1870 Indians attacked the settlement, and this attack was portrayed on the stage tonight. A school mistress appeared on the stage and fought with the men in repulsing the Indians.

The movement closed with a representation of the transfer of St. Louis to the United States. On one day, according to the historians, St. Louis was under three flags—Spanish, French and American. The raising of three flags and the lowering of two, leaving the Stars and Stripes, was portrayed in the pageant tonight. A watchman then appeared on the edge of the stage—supposed to be the river bank—and foretold the growth of the city.

Under Stars and Stripes The last movement of the pageant portrayed the history of St. Louis under the American flag. First came the starting from St. Louis of the Lewis and Clark expedition to the northwest by way of the Missouri River; then a portrayal of the day of fur traders and settlers bound for the west. About two thousand persons appeared in this scene; then came a re-enactment of the scenes when General LaPayette visited St. Louis in 1824; the return of a battery from the Mexican war; the coming of German immigrants in 1849; and the re-production of the torch light procession that marched through the streets of St. Louis in 1865 at the announcement of peace between the north and the south.

After a brief intermission, the electric lights on the stage were turned on and the Masque—a symbolic interpretation of the history of the city—began. The masque opened with the dream of Cahokia, who represented the spirit of the mound builders' civilization. He awoke to find his empire gone and himself mocked by heat, cold, wild nature forces, buffalo, and wild cat, forest and flood. He asked the stars if there were no hope, and was told that the Mississippi River would bring a white child who should restore civilization. This child struggled with the forces of nature, but they retreated as the discoverers approached, who named the child St. Louis.

St. Louis, leading on pioneers, miners, and rangers, struggled with the forces of nature, and finally fought the spirit of gold and the war demon. Then came representations of vice, plague, despair, and rebellion; all the children of Gold. St. Louis then called on other cities to help him, and envoys sent by the mayors of other American cities, appeared on the stage to represent those cities in the symbol of a league of all to conquer Gold.

Music is Elaborate An elaborate musical setting had been arranged for the masque by Frederick E. Converse, and there was much incidental music in the Pageant. A hidden chorus of five hundred and a band of 100 took part in the production.

Throughout the pageant, the actors were citizens of St. Louis who gave their time voluntarily to the production of the spectacle.

The stage on which the pageant and masque were given was built over the floating lagoon at the foot of the hill in Forest Park on which the City Art Museum stands. This hill was the site of the Cascades during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and is a natural amphitheatre. It rises steeply from the lagoon, and from any point on this hill a commanding view of the stage could be obtained. Forty-two thousand seats were placed on this hill, and back of these was room for thousands more who preferred to bring camp stools or to stand.

It was stated that more than sixty thousand persons could view the pageant at one time from the hill. The stage was 520 feet wide at the rear, and it had a semi-circular front of 350 feet. The stage was 200 feet deep, the background being a great screen fifty feet high and 300 feet long. On the stage were two towers forty feet high and within these was the mechanical devices used to control the lights. Within one of these towers was a telephone station of the stage manager. So stupendous a scale was the production, that the calls to actors were sent by telephone.

BOLD THEFT OF CLOTHING IS FOLLOWED BY ARREST

Man Enters Hotel Room On Indiana—Is Later Caught With Missing Property

A suit of clothes, toilet articles and women's dresses taken from the home of W. J. Nolan on Indiana avenue yesterday afternoon were found in a room on Lee street at 4 o'clock this morning by Constable Burns of this city and Constable Edwards of Bowie. The occupant of the room was found in the kitchen barefooted. The place was a boarding house and the man had a room upstairs. He was placed in jail after he had been identified as the man who had visited the Nolan home and the articles found in his room identified as those taken.

At the Nolan home the man gave his name as Lee. The first anyone knew of his presence was when he walked downstairs and asked Mrs. Nolan for some paper to wrap up some laundry. Mrs. Nolan thinking that he was collecting laundry from the roomers gave him the paper. When her son went to his room after supper he found a suit of clothes missing. A suit case also was gone and other articles missing.

The first clue led the officers to believe the thief had taken a train for Bowie, and a suspect was arrested there and brought up on the early morning train by Constable Edwards.

SEVERES ARTERY IN HIS ARM WHILE WORKING AT LAKE

F. J. Seeley Meets With Serious Accident But Is Given Prompt Attention

Accidentally cutting an artery while at work Monday afternoon on a boat at Lake Wichita, F. J. Seeley, who was working for the Carpenter Electric Company lost a great quantity of blood before he could be brought to a doctor's office in the city and his injury given attention. Had it not been that an automobile was close at hand and that he was brought to the city by a fast run, the result might have been serious indeed. Mr. Seeley was leaning out the bottom of a boat with a sharp knife when it slipped, the point entering his left arm midway between the elbow and the wrist severing the artery that lies next to the skin on the inside of the arm.

SAVINGS BANK PRIZES ARE AWARDED TUESDAY NIGHT

Plan instituted at Christmas by Wichita State Bank Has Proven Successful

Shortly after the Christmas holidays the Wichita State Bank instituted with the consent and approval of the school board, a system of savings bank for the school children where they could bring their savings and deposit them with the teacher of each room. Three prizes were offered another prize of five dollars to the student making the largest deposit, another prize of five dollars to the pupil making the greatest number of deposits and a third prize of ten dollars to the teacher who interested the largest percentage of the students in his or her room in the savings bank department.

This plan was instituted by W. R. Ferguson, president of the Wichita State Bank as an experiment and it has proven to be quite a success. The children have become interested in saving and since this plan afforded them an opportunity to bank their savings without having to go to the bank it became an easy matter for the children to become accustomed to bring their nickels and dimes to be deposited instead of spending them. Three hundred and eighty-eight of the school children became depositors and a total sum of $1,093 was deposited. The teachers had worked faithfully and the pleasing results are due to their efforts. At the commencement exercises Monday evening at the Wichita Theatre, F. H. Cox, a prominent lawyer of this city, explained the school savings deposit and presented the prizes. Wayne Small received the gold piece for making the largest deposit, his deposits totaling $157. Lewis Johnson received the five dollars offered for the largest number of deposits made. Miss Mary Marie Wilcox, teacher in the Austin school received the ten dollars offered to the teachers, having thirty-three out of thirty-seven pupils enrolled being depositors.

DADDY'S FORTUNE

"Daddy was a good man." I happened to hear a well-to-do young man say, so I went out to the cemetery and looked for his record on the family MEMORIAL. The record was not there. The plot was neglected, grown up in weeds and the like. The young man and his associates were riding around in a big six, leading a gay life, spending the neat little fortune daddy left them. Looks to me like they were very ungrateful. Did not think enough of him to buy a simple little headstone, but what's the use. Such is life.
