FALL FROM BALUSTRADE FATAL TO A COLONEL

Retired Marine Corps Officer Killed in Accidental Fall at Washington Home

Washington, July 8.—Col. Frank Denny, of the marine corps, retired, was almost instantly killed today when he fell over a balustrade in his home to the floor below. The report to the police said he was walking in his sleep.

Daughter Awakened by Crash. Col. Denny's family, however, believe he was seized with an attack of vertigo and fell while moving about the house. He struck his head on a marble top table, crushing the skull. The colonel's daughter was awakened by the crash and found him dying. The coroner gave a certificate of accidental death. Col. Denny was one of the central figures in a controversy in the marine corps three years ago in which it was charged a number of staff officers in Washington were controlling the corps.

Prominent in Social Life. Former Secretary Meyer of the navy department, after an investigation ordered all the officers to distant points, sending Col. Denny to San Francisco. Early in his administration, President Wilson returned all to Washington. Col. Denny was prominent in the social life of the capital.

PANKHURST AGAIN LEADS MILITANTS

RESUMED COMMAND OF FORCES THIS MORNING AND IS RE-ARRESTED

VIOLENT SCENE IN COURT

Pair of Militants Refuse To Plead and Carried Kicking and Squelching From Room

By Associated Press. London, July 8.—The brief respite in the militant suffragette agitation called today when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst resumed command of the forces of the Women's Social and Political Union at their London headquarters. Mrs. Pankhurst, however, was permitted to remain in active command of the militants for only a brief period.

Violent Scenes. Simultaneously with the reappearance of Mrs. Pankhurst, a violent scene was created in the central criminal court where Mrs. H. F. Alice-Hall, Miss Grace Roe, Miss Julia Jameson and Miss Ellen Arnes, were brought in trial for conspiracy. The charge against them was "conspiring with others maliciously to commit damage and injury and to spoil certain real and personal property of the liege subjects of our lord, the king."

Disorder In Court Room. Mrs. Hall and Miss Roe when brought into court refused to plead and created intense disorder. Mrs. Hall threw herself on the floor and kicked several policemen before she was removed. The other prisoners pleaded not guilty.

REBEL GENERALS OPPOSE MEETING

DECLARE CONFERENCE WITH HUERTISTAS WOULD BE COMPOUNDING A FELONY

OPPOSITION WAS UNANIMOUS

All Generals Heard From Strongly Oppose Conference Proposed By Mediators

By Associated Press. Laredo, Tex., July 8.—Constitutionalists are not likely to accept the offer of the Niagara mediators to arrange a conference with Huertistas representatives to plan a provisional government in Mexico. This announcement coming from unquestioned sources reached the border here today.

It was declared that all the generals of the constitutionalist army had, with the exception of General Obregon's division who had not had time to report, opposed strongly any such conference.

The position taken by the constitutionalists, it was said, was that to agree to accept a provisional government would be to compound a felony in that any such government must necessarily be of a temporary character and must be attended by the outbreak of other revolutions.

TWO OIL MEN BLOWN TO PIECES IN EXPLOSION

By Associated Press. Findlay, O., July 8.—Charles Armstrong and T. B. Longabaugh, oil well shooters, were instantly killed here today by the explosion of several hundred quarts of nitro-glycerin, which they were taking to Buckland to shoot an oil well. The men literally were blown to pieces, only a small piece of the axle of the automobile in which the explosive was being transported being found. Several houses were wrecked and many panes of glass in the vicinity were broken.

TWO MEN BEATEN UP AT WESTINGHOUSE PLANT

Striker Who Had Planned To Return To Work Beaten Into Insensibility

By Associated Press. Pittsburgh, July 8.—Stanley Fialek, formerly employed in one of the Westinghouse factories, was rescued today by a crew of a street car from three men in Braddock Avenue, who had beaten him into insensibility. Last night he was said to have announced that he would return to work today. Two arrests were made and deputy sheriffs and state troops were looking for the third assailant. There was no change in the situation in the strike district.

The general strike committee prepared another offer of settlement to E. H. Kerr president of the electric company, when he returned from New York. Intense excitement followed the offer. A proposition to establish a plant here for the manufacture of rock crushing machinery was submitted by Mr. Buchanan of Albuquerque, who wants Wichita Falls citizens to take $5,000 stock in the enterprise. His proposition was referred to the manufacturers committee.

A. L. Huey reported that as chairman of the special committee on telephone service, he had taken that matter up with Manager Phillips, who had told him that if subscribers would always call number 500 when the service was not satisfactory he would see that the trouble was remedied. Mr. Phillips had said that under no circumstances should more than forty seconds be required in getting a connection. A general discussion of telephone service followed, Wiley Blair referring the position that the service locally was no worse than in other communities.

CHAMBER COMMERCE DIRECTORS MEET

HEAR PROPOSAL FOR LOCATION ROCK CRUSHING MACHINERY PLANT HERE

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Mr. Kemp Makes Report On Interurban Meeting at Gainesville

A brief session of the Chamber of Commerce directors was held this morning, having been postponed from Tuesday on account of the absence of a number of directors from this city. This morning a proposition to establish a plant here for the manufacture of rock crushing machinery was submitted by Mr. Buchanan of Albuquerque, who wants Wichita Falls citizens to take $5,000 stock in the enterprise. His proposition was referred to the manufacturers committee.

A. L. Huey reported that as chairman of the special committee on telephone service, he had taken that matter up with Manager Phillips, who had told him that if subscribers would always call number 500 when the service was not satisfactory he would see that the trouble was remedied. Mr. Phillips had said that under no circumstances should more than forty seconds be required in getting a connection. A general discussion of telephone service followed, Wiley Blair referring the position that the service locally was no worse than in other communities.

Mr. Kemp reported on the interurban meeting at Gainesville yesterday. Myles O'Reilly brought up the question of an endorsement of the Wilson administration, the matter coming up in connection with recent dispatches from Washington. It was decided that the directors should not take any action on such a matter, though most of those present seemed to be administration supporters. Adjournment followed. Present were: President Huff, Secretary of this proposed Chamber of Commerce, Directors Gardner, Huey, O'Reilly, Blair, Kemp, Hines, Noble, Ward and Snider.

Rockefeller Plays 18 Holes of Golf 75th Birthday

By Associated Press. New York, July 8.—Although John D. Rockefeller is seventy-five years old today, no celebration is being held at Pontotoc estate where he is spending the summer. Mr. Rockefeller planned to follow his daily practice of playing eighteen holes of golf. Weather rarely interferes with that exercise. Later in the day he may be taken for automobile ride. There will be no birthday gathering, as Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister are in feeble health and his son, John D. Jr., is at Seal Harbor, Maine. Many congratulatory messages have been received which pleased Mr. Rockefeller although he said he wished he might spend the day without publicity.

Chicago Grain Futures By Associated Press. Chicago, July 8.—Generally clear weather in the northwest all day (year of damage from black rust today tended to make the wheat market easy. Cable bids were decidedly lower than yesterday. The opening which varied from 1-4 off to a shade lower was followed by a slight rally, and then by a decline all the way round. Corn rose on account of the improved cash demand. Oklahoma dispatches told of injury due to the dry, hot weather.

A. & M. WILL CO-OPERATE WITH FEDERAL DEPARTMENT

Austin, Texas, July 8.—At the request of President Puryear of the A. & M. College, Governor Colemit has issued a proclamation permitting that institution to participate in the benefits of an act recently passed by Congress and approved by President Wilson on May 8, 1914. Under this act the department of agriculture at Washington will co-operate with agricultural colleges throughout the country in teaching farm subjects. The board of directors has been instructed to establish these courses in the Texas institution when the fall term opens.

RINGLING ROAD MAY COME TO WICHITA FALLS

Line Completed to Ringling Will Be Extended into Texas Says a Dispatch

Wichita Falls' long-desired rail connection with Southern Oklahoma seems nearer an actuality than ever now, with two projected lines from Oklahoma to this city. The Ringling line, known as the Oklahoma, New Mexico and Pacific, which has already been constructed thirty-two miles west from Ardmore, has this city for its objective point, and Wichita Falls is the intended terminus of a general electric line system, mention of which has already been made. The following agent the Ringling road is from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, under a Ringling date line:

"Both Wichita Falls to the southwest and Sherman to the southeast are bidding for extensions of the Oklahoma, New Mexico and Pacific railroad, which was completed into Ringling three weeks ago, thirty-two miles directly west from Ardmore. The original plans called for a line southeast from Ardmore to Sherman and a big bonus was offered by the people of the Texas city, but later the plans were changed by John Ringling, who is handling the construction. Recently, however, it is learned that Sherman has again asked for an extension of this road southeast. The western extension of this line, which is to begin this fall, is causing great activity on the part of Lawton, Duncan and Wauchope, each of which cities is asking for the road and offering a substantial bonus. But whichever route is finally selected, it is now generally understood that the objective point is Wichita Falls, Texas, the most important city in the Lone Star State at the present time, because of its proximity to the Electric, Petrolia and Burkburnett fields. Such an extension would give direct connection between the Healdton field, near Ringling, and the North Texas fields.

"The people of Oklahoma City are also anxious to get an extension of this road north from Ringling, along the line of the old surveys made by C. G. Jones and associates several years ago. A map of this proposed extension has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, showing the route would be about midway between the main lines into Texas of the Santa Fe and the Rock Island, splitting north and south a country sixty to seventy miles wide, now without railroad facilities.

The same paper publishes the following dispatch about the proposed electric line:

"The plans for the proposed extensive interurban system to connect eventually Kansas City and Dallas by electric lines are to be taken before the Oklahoma State Corporation Commission in the near future by J. W. Tipton and C. B. Hale, who have been with the Ringling railroad since the first days of its construction about a year ago. The commission will be asked to pass upon the feasibility of the plans, taking into consideration also the rights and privileges under the Oklahoma state constitution and statutes. The plans for this network of electric lines were completed during the past week by the promoters, following a discussion of the proposition with many prominent railway men.

"The electric system, as proposed, would connect Independence, Kansas, with the Kansas Interurban to Kansas City and at Denison, Texas, with the Interurban to Dallas and Fort Worth. Tulsa is made the hub of the system, with the first construction to be in line east from Tulsa through Broken Arrow, Coweta and Wagoner to Muskogee, thence south through Collinsville, Nowata and Bartlettville to Independence. A third line runs south through Chickasha and Lawton to Wichita Falls, where another direct interurban connection will be made with Fort Worth. A fourth line runs west from Tulsa through the Cushing oil field and via Perry and Enid to Woodward, Oklahoma.

"A public ownership of the system is planned and an entirely new method of financing the construction is proposed. The road will be built from the capital stock, which will be held by many hundred railway employees of the country—the idea being that these employees will finance, own, operate and maintain the system. Every effort will be made to keep away from bonding the road and not to depend upon capital for any of the money."

OBREGON REPORTS REBEL VICTORY

FEDERAL COLUMN ROUTED IN FRONT OF GUADALAJARA AND SUPPLIES CAPTURED

ENEMY FLEE IN DISORDER

General Dieguez in Rear of Guadalajara and Escape Believed Improbable

By Associated Press. Nogales, Mexico, July 8.—In a message to General Carranza filed yesterday at Ahaguailco, Valisco, General Obregon reports an important constitutionalist victory in front of Guadalajara. The message says: "We have destroyed a federal column at the west of Guadalajara. The fight lasted 36 hours. At this time the enemy is fleeing in disorder leaving ten trains of artillery and ammunition. General Dieguez is in the rear of Guadalajara and I believe none of the enemy will escape."

OHIO STATE BOARD HITS PRIVATE PROFIT

Columbus, Ohio, July 8.—The day of private profit in state work is passing. The Ohio State Board of Administration has struck it two body blows. First the board decided to stock its farms with cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and the like. With this as a start it began the construction of creameries to furnish dairy products to all state institutions.

Then slaughter houses were planned to furnish meals. Now it is planned to open a cannery to can vegetables and fruits, raised on state farms for winter use.

The second step was taken when board announced that it was ready to award its last contracts for buildings to private parties. Hereafter the state will use prison labor on all of its buildings. The State now has a brick plant in operation with convicts in charge and convicts at work under the honor system.

DEMOCRATS NOT BUSINESS' ENEMY

PRESIDENT ISSUES STATEMENT ON FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

BIG BUSINESS NOT A TAINT

Praises Warburg and Jones For Their Patriotism and Public Spirit

By Associated Press. Washington, July 8.—Declaring that it would be unfair to regard the Democratic party as the enemy of business either big or little President Wilson today gave out a statement in support of Paul Warburg of New York and Thomas B. Jones of Chicago, two of his nominees for the federal reserve board.

The president's statement in part follows: "It would be particularly unfair to the Democratic party and to the Senate itself to be regarded as the enemy of business, big or little. I am sure that it does not regard a man as an object of suspicion merely because he has been connected with great business enterprises. I predict with the greatest of confidence that nothing done by the Democratic majority of the Senate of the United States will be of a sort to throw suspicion on such men as Mr. Jones and Mr. Warburg who in manifesting their willingness to make personal sacrifice and put their great abilities and experience into the service of the people with thought of personal advantage are setting an example of patriotism and public spirit which the whole country admires."

The president said today he earnestly hoped Mr. Warburg would reconsider his decision announced yesterday not to accept the appointment. He expressed confidence that Mr. Jones would be confirmed.

WICHITA FALLS CHAUTAUKA OPENED THIS AFTERNOON

The opening program of the Wichita Falls Chautauk, brought to this city under the auspices of a number of local business men, was held this afternoon in the tent at the corner of Tenth and Austin streets, with a good attendance. The opening number was the concert by the Frontenac male quartette, singing organization of unusual merit, whose numbers found prompt favor with the crowd. Following this there was a "children's hour" for those of the kindergarten age; this will be a daily feature. Tonight the quartette may be heard again, with a lecture by the famed Granville Jones as the principal feature. Tomorrow afternoon while the children are being entertained by the kindergarten supervisor, M. M. Mahany will lecture on "Mexico." This is said to be an exceptionally pleasing number. A "novelty" evening conducted by Willard Gordon is planned for tomorrow night.

PHYSICIAN'S WIFE IS UNDER ARREST

CLOSE OF INQUEST INTO MURDER MYSTERY QUICKLY FOLLOWED BY ARREST

WITNESSES SAW WOMAN RUN

New Witness Gives Testimony at Very Close of Inquest Just Before Noon Today

MRS. CARMAN PLACED UNDER ARREST. By Associated Press. Flash—New York, July 8.—Mrs. Edwin Carman was arrested this afternoon in connection with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey.

By Associated Press. Freeport, N. Y., July 8.—The inquest into the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, who was murdered on the night of Tuesday, June 30, in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman of this city, was closed shortly before noon today. A verdict was expected later in the day. Edward Barden, a witness, testified just before the hearing closed that he had seen a woman whom he was unable to identify running away from the doctor's office shortly after the shot which killed Mrs. Bailey was fired. She wore a dark skirt and a light waist, was bareheaded, and hurried along the side of the doctor's office toward the back yard.

VICE CRUSADERS LET PUBLIC KNOW WHO OWNS HOUSES

Chicago, July 8.—Making public the names of owners of property used for immoral purposes has been the most effective method of fighting commercial prostitution in Chicago, according to the report made today by Superintendent S. P. Thrasher of the "Committee of Fifteen" that has been waging war on immoral resorts.

"It is admitted by all who are in a position to know that the old vice district on the south side is practically closed," said Thrasher's report. "It would be folly to say that vice has been obliterated, but some of the most notorious resorts are included in the 450 houses of ill-fame, assignment and disorderly saloons which have been put out of business in the last year.

"In these 450 houses of ill-fame, there were, according to conservative estimates, 2,000 professional prostitutes, an average of five per house. "A conservative estimate as to the gross income would be 10 per day per woman, which would mean $20,000 daily, or the snug sum of $7,300,000 in a single year. "I have no hesitancy in saying that at least 80 per cent of this amount was paid to about 1,500 keepers, runners, pimps and panderers, the male exploiters of these women. I wonder that the vice interests are in a panic when several millions of dollars have been taken away from them by this committee."

WILSON CONFERS WITH CHICAGO BUSINESS MEN

They Support Anti-Trust Bill in Parts and Oppose It in Others

By Associated Press. Washington, July 8.—Supporting the administration anti-trust bill in parts and opposing it in others, a delegation of business men representing the Chicago Chamber of Commerce conferred here today with President Wilson. All details of the pending anti-trust bills were gone over. Afterward the president said the conference had been mutually instructive and helpful.

MILITANTS ATTEMPT TO BURN BURN'S COTTAGE

By Associated Press. Glasgow, July 8.—An attempt to destroy the cottage at Ayr where Robert Burns, the poet was born, was made just before daylight today by two members of a militant suffragette arson squad. The women were surprised by a night watchman as they were in the act of placing large bombs against the doors and windows of the poet's birthplace which is venerated as a shrine by the Scotch. One of the women was captured but the other escaped.

FREEPORT INQUEST IS RESUMED TODAY

UNOPENED BOX OF CARTRIDGES IS FOUND IN DR. CARMAN'S HOME

SHOT FIRED AT HIS DOUBLE

Man Who Resembles Physician Is Attacked—Negro Servant Girl Testifies Today

By Associated Press. July 6.—The inquest into the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of a New York manufacturer who was shot and killed last Tuesday night while in consultation with Dr. Edwin Carman, a prominent Freeport physician in his office, was resumed here today.

Assistant District Attorney Weeks exhibited an unopened box of 38-caliber revolver cartridges which he said he had found in the attic of the Carman home. Dr. Carman told him, said Weeks, that he did not know how the cartridges came there. A 38-caliber bullet killed Mrs. Bailey.

W. J. Huff Jr., of Lynnbrook, near here who strongly resembles Dr. Carman and who drives an automobile of the same type, reported to the Freeport police that early this morning while driving his machine not far from where Dr. Carman was fired upon last night, that a man standing beside the road fired one shot at him.

Negro Maid Is Witness.

At the inquest today, the first witness called was Celia Coleman, a negro maid in the Carman home. She said Mrs. Carman complained of having a headache and said that she was going upstairs. The witness saw her leave the dining room and later heard foot-steps which she believed were those of Mrs. Carman on the stairs. She admitted having talked with George Levy, Mrs. Carman's attorney the morning after the murder. She insisted that no one else was present at the conference.

"Do you know what perjury means?" asked the district attorney. The witness answered that she did. The attorney then asked if she had not told him previously that Mrs. Carman was present. The witness said she did not remember.

Attack on Dr. Carman.

Last night Dr. Carman was shot three times as he drove in and was killed through the torso of Baldwin near here. None of the bullets struck him. The doctor was on his way home from Rockville Center, where he had been to attend a patient.

Dr. Carman told the police the story of the attack on him. He had "blacked out" in a professional calls and passed through Rockville Center on his way home. Here he met Garland Gaden, an actor and invited him to ride home with him.

"Gaden accepted my invitation," said Dr. Carman, "and got into the car. We stopped in a store and as we again got into the car I noticed a man on a bicycle near the curb. We drove on without paying particular attention to the man.

"When about a mile and a half out of town I heard a report and thought one of my tires had exploded. My friend got out on one side of the machine and I got out on the other. As soon as I put my foot on the ground I heard another shot and when I looked around I saw the man I had seen when we came out of the store standing beside his bicycle with a revolver in his hand. Gaden shouted, 'My God, Carman, he's trying to kill you.'

"We both jumped into the car. There was another report and a bullet went singing by my head. Gaden and I leaned far over in our seats to be out of range of the bullets and I opened the throttle as far as it would go."

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS FAIL TO NUMBER CARS PROPERLY

Some Confusion Results—Nevad Devices To Keep Police From Seeing Numbers

When you sell your automobile it will be a good idea to take off the number before you deliver over the car to the new owner so that he will take out a new number. Recently an electric motor was sold a car and had neglected to take off the number was haled into court and given considerable trouble when the new owner violated the speed laws.

Local authorities believe that more than one car is being run here with the same number. A few nights ago Policeman Gilham saw a car burning up the wind on Indiana avenue. He got the number and a complaint was filed. This was at 10 p. m. Mr. Gilham was quite positive about the license for he looked at his watch. The owner of a car bearing the number 1024 was by Mr. Gilham was brought into court this morning and proved conclusively that he had not been down town all evening and that his car did not tally with the description of the car seen by Mr. Gilham at all.

The police are investigating the matter and propose to see to it that every car has a number of its own different from every other car in town.

Since the effort to enforce the speeding ordinance was begun and a motorcycle officer placed on duty some of the young bloods have resorted to various devices to escape arrest. One of these has been the attaching of a string to the number on their car in such a manner that the occupants of the car can pull it up when speeding it up. Another favorite method is to oil the number plate so that it will be covered up with an accumulation of dust.

The Dallas committee has notified Mr. Kemp that it will be represented by its full membership at Gainesville. Other towns including Henrietta, St. Jo, Montague, Nacogdoches, Bowie, Decatur, Gainesville, Denton, Irving and Grapevine are expected to have representatives at the meeting.

Mr. Kemp said this morning that he had no plans for an automobile trip from Gainesville to Wichita Falls, but indicated that he believed it would be a good idea for the committee to make such a trip.

SALOON LIMIT SECTION OF CHARTER IN EFFECT SOON

No Licenses To Be Granted Outside of Business District After July Tenth

At midnight on July 10 the saloons owned by Joe Legos and Pierce Nichols located east of the railroad tracks on Mulberry street will go out of business as a result of a provision of the new city charter which limits saloons to certain territory. This territory is from Sixth to Tenth streets in Wichita Falls, extending between Scott and Lamar avenues and Michigan avenues.

The charter provided that when the licenses of retail saloons outside this district expired they could not be renewed. The licenses of both of the saloons mentioned expired at midnight July 10. Nichols has filed application for a renewal of his license but it will not be granted, at least unless the validity of the charter is tested and found lacking.

Lagos has not applied for a renewal of his license. The licenses of nearly all the saloons in Wichita Falls expire July 10th and are, now, being renewed. Both state and city licenses must be paid. The payments to the city will help bridge over the financial straits in which the city has been placed.

TRADE TERRITORY WILL BE EXTENDED

ONE RESULT OF PURCHASE OF C. O. & W. LINE BY MR. KELL

TO BRING TRAFFIC THIS WAY

Line Will Probably Be Extended When Trade Conditions Are More Favorable

Closer traffic relations between the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and the Clinton, Oklahoma, and Western will result from the control of the latter line by Frank Kell of this city. Heretofore the Northwestern has given very little business from the Clinton line. Arrangements are now being made whereby most of the business will come to the Northwestern and will be brought through Wichita Falls.

The change will mean that more territory will be made tributary to this city. Some day when legislative and other conditions become more favorable, Mr. Kell indicated several days ago he would attempt the extension of the line both eastward and westward. Oklahoma City is the logical terminal point for the line to the east. An extension westward up the Washita river valley would serve a territory that is one of the richest and most productive in all Oklahoma, but which is many miles removed from any railway connection.

NEW ORLEANS SITUATION IS LITTLE CHANGED TODAY

Work of Getting Rid of 400,000 Rats in City Continues Under Dr. Blue's Direction

New Orleans, July 6.—The bubonic plague situation in New Orleans today was practically unchanged. No new cases had developed and Dr. Rupert Blue, surgeon general of the federal health service who took full charge today of the eradication work, declared that there was no cause for alarm.

"There is no human plague epidemic in New Orleans," said Dr. Blue, "and we must seek to remove the only means to such an epidemic, the bubonic plague among rats." The surgeon general estimated the rat population of New Orleans at 400,000.

HEAVY GRAIN SHIPMENTS KEEPING RAILROADS BUSY

Wet Weather Diminishes Wagon Receipts Giving Lines a Chance To Catch Up

The jump of a cent and an eighth in the price of wheat in Chicago at the close of the market today came too late to affect the price here today which remained at seventy-two cents but it is expected that the local price will be raised a cent a bushel tomorrow.

The rains last week and muddy roads checked the flow of grain to the shipping points and receipts fell off the latter part of the week. This has given the railroads time to get caught up in measures to the local price of the grain, but even with this respite the yards here today were filled with grain cars. Three switching crews are working almost day and night in the local yards. If fair weather continues the latter part of the week will see the railroads well ahead put to it to avoid a blockage here.

So far the railroads have been able to furnish all the cars needed without much difficulty but the supply is not being renewed and sent back from Galveston as fast as they are sent out.

The movement of the Kansas crop will begin this week and this will require many thousands of cars.

FAMILY OF FOUR IS KILLED IN CHICAGO

WIPED OUT BY BLOWS FROM AXE IN SUBURBS OF CITY

BODIES DISCOVERED TODAY

Laborer and His Wife and Their Daughter and Grandchild Are Murder Victims

Chicago, July 6.—A family of four was wiped out by blows from an axe in the German settlement of Blue Island, a suburb last night. The victims were: Jacob Neslesla, a German laborer, aged 57, his wife, their daughter, aged twenty-five and the later's infant child.

The crime was discovered by Jacob Neslesla Jr. Whether the butchery was the work of a maniac or of a person seeking revenge is not known after the first investigation. It was learned that the young mother of the infant had not been living with her husband for some time and efforts were begun to find him. His name was said to be Hamilton.

Each of the slain was struck in the head. Jacob Neslesla, a son of the old couple, living in another part of Blue Island is a track laborer and went to the home of his parents which is near the tracks to get a pail of water. He discovered the bodies after calling members of his family in vain.

Estate of Assassinated Prince Not Sufficient For Needs and Castles Must Be Sold

Vienna, July 6.—It was said today that Emperor Francis Joseph has granted an annual allowance of $80,000 to the children of the late Archduke Ferdinand. It was estimated that the archduke's fortune was less than $400,000 which is insufficient for the upkeep of his castles which will have to be sold.

AMBASSADOR TO GREECE BECAME VERY BUSY PERSON

Interviewed Everybody in Sight After International Congress Wouldn't See Him

London, July 6.—According to the Athens correspondent of the Times, after the international commission declined to receive George Fred Williams the American minister at Athens, he set himself the task of interviewing persons high and low, the ministers of Prince William of Wied, medical and naval officers, the commissioners, officers of the gendarmerie, Christians and Mohammedans, with the result set forth in his report in which he says referred to Prince William: "I am not afraid to match my efforts for freedom with his bloody rule, before the great judgment seat."

ALREADY FIGURING ON 1915'S CONTESTS

WASHINGTON BEGINS TO SPECULATE ON POSSIBILITIES FOR NOMINEES

Washington, July 6.—Washington is beginning to speculate seriously over 1915 Presidential possibilities. Incoming political bees from Indiana, New York, Idaho, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kansas are beginning to arouse the capital which for weeks past has been honeycombed with possibilities of war.

That President Wilson, his health permitting, will be urged by many Democratic party leaders to accept a second nomination is conceded. That Colonel Roosevelt, fresh from his conquest in South America, will get his hat in the ring, is considered a good bet. That former President Taft is out of all races for Republican party honors is admitted by his best friends.

South, these indications become facts Wilson will be pitted against the Progressive leader again. But in the next campaign, the Colonel's friends privately hope Roosevelt will be the presidential choice of both Progressives and Republicans.

There is a pretty big hive of political bees, however, who are doing their utmost to eliminate both Wilson and Roosevelt. Some of them for instance—of course are all loyal to their present party chiefs—are supporters of Majority Leader Underwood, of Alabama, Speaker Clark, Chief Counsel Folk of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Governor Glynn of New York and Secretary of State Bryan. Such is the lineup of Democratic possibilities.

Butler is so old that he has forgotten the exact tally.

"Dear, sir, I'm getting too old to go to meditations any more," he allowed today. "But I'll wish them well, and hope they settle this Mexican business all right."

BOND HOLDERS BUY ORIENT ROAD TODAY

SALE IS MADE BY COURT ORDER, TOTAL OF $6,000,000 BEING PAID

NEW COMPANY IS HELD BY ROAD'S PRESIDENT AND WILL CONTINUE PLANS OF ROAD

Wichita, Kansas, July 6.—The Kan. City, Mexico and Orient railroad was sold here today for $6,000,000 to the reorganization committee representing the bondholders of the company. The bid was made by A. M. Wickwire of New York City. There were no other bidders.

Application for the receivership of the road, which was sold today by the federal court, was made before Judge Pollock in the federal court in Kansas City, March 7, 1912. Eleven receivers were appointed to take over the company's affairs in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Immediately afterward the holders of the company's stocks and bonds began work on plans for refinancing and reorganizing the road and $15,000,000 of European capital was raised for the purpose of finishing the road and putting it into operation from Kansas City to the Pacific coast of Mexico.

It was announced that the new company, headed by Edward Dickinson as president, will assume full management and will begin the work of extending the road from Wichita to Kansas City.

WANTS CONSIDERATION OF TREATIES IN OPEN SESSION

Senator Borah Begins Fight On Colombian and Nicaraguan Agreements

Washington, July 6.—Senator Borah today began a fight to force consideration of the Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties in open session. He presented a resolution also calling for the publication of all investigations by the foreign relations committee. It went over until tomorrow under the rule.

A resolution to investigate how the secret hearings of the committee got into the newspapers was adopted.

Congress wants to buy President Wilson wouldn't.

Washington, July 6.—By executive order President Wilson today exempted from civil examination the four teen commercial attaches authorized by the new legislative bill; they are to be attached to embassies and legations in South America and Europe of investigation of American trade abroad. Congress after a long fight put them under the civil service rule and against the recommendation of the administration.

Bull Moose to meet in National convention, Gov. Johnson of California, former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and other Progressives probably will find their supporters lined up against T. R., maintaining that that party will support Senator Shively for the Colored as "backer" than would T. R. as a candidate.

The race the Republicans will have to select from will have a wide range. Senators Borah, La Follette and Cummins are already considered strong possibilities. Some Indiana Republicans think the nomination should go to former Vice President Fairbanks.

As the situation is today there will be little shifting in the strength of the possibilities until the elections this fall. Whichever party carries the greatest number of Congressional districts will in a measure have a fair claim to ascendancy. As far individual candidates are concerned a great deal of Beveridge's future strength will depend upon the race he makes against Senator Shively for the senatorial toga in Indiana.

Governor Glynn's future is in a measure wrapped up in the campaign in that state which will probably be the hottest since the 1912 presidential campaign. Underwood's real strength will develop probably after he reaches the senate. Folk's prospects rest upon his prosecution of the New Haven railroad inquiry.

In the meantime the speculation is being heard in Washington and will begin to grow as the various states send their reports down here, for Washington is the political filtering plant of the country. Booms don't get very far until they have made some headway in Washington and then returned to other parts of the nation.

Famous Negro Messenger John Butler, colored State Department messenger isn't attending the Niagara Falls mediation conference. This simple announcement might not appear significant, but diplomats of renown jokingly declared that today that any mediation proceedings minus the aged messenger wouldn't be quite complete.

Butler has been around the State Department since Lincoln's administration; he has attended many diplomatic conferences, including the position of serving tea and banquets to the Russo-Japanese mediation at Portsmouth and the Samoan treaty proceedings at Berlin more than 25 years ago.

Butler is so old that he has forgotten the exact tally.

Captain Robb announces that there will be plenty to eat and plenty to amuse, so that a real good time is in prospect for those who attend.

The picknickers are to meet at the Salvation Army hall and from there will march to the corner of Ninth and Indiana where the special cars will be waiting. They will remain at the lake until late in the afternoon.

INTERURBAN FORCES IN SESSION TODAY

NEARLY ALL TOWNS ARE REPRESENTED AT MEETING AT GAINESVILLE

TO RAISE $20,000 FOR SURVEY

Probable That First Steps Will Be Taken Toward Securing Necessary Funds

Gainesville, Texas, July 7.—Delegates were heard today from Dallas and Wichita Falls and intermediate towns along the proposed route of the Dallas-Denton-Wichita Falls interurban railroad, to join the conference of the Dallas and Wichita Falls committees, the purpose of which is to take necessary steps looking to the survey of the interurban route.

It was estimated that $20,000 would be spent in making the survey. The committees from the small towns along the route probably will be assigned to collect a portion of that amount. Virtually all the towns between Wichita Falls and Dallas along the line of the proposed interurban have signified a willingness to contribute toward the first survey of the enterprise and it was regarded as very likely that today's conference in the undertaking of definite plans for building the road.

Gainesville already has subscribed $1000 her proportion of the expense for preliminary survey. The delegates were met at the train this morning on their arrival here and were taken in automobiles, accompanied by a large number of local business men, over the proposed route. This afternoon the business session was held.

AWAIT EFFECT OF ANGELES' DISMISSAL

MAY CAUSE MORE TROUBLE BETWEEN CARRANZA AND VILLA

Washington, July 7.—Carranza's action in dismissing General Felipe Angeles from the constitutional army, with its prospect of another break with Villa was the principal topic of discussion today among constitutionalist agents here. Charles A. Douglas, Carranza's counsel, declared openly that Angeles must be removed from the situation before peace can be perfected between Carranza and Villa.

According to one personal message from Villa, received today from Torreon, differences between himself and Carranza are being satisfactorily adjusted. No mention was made of General Angeles.

Pending the outcome of the Torreon conference, Carranza's agents continue their watchful waiting for his decision as to the proposed conference with Huerta's delegates. Juan F. Uruqui, a secretary of the constitutionalist agency, who recently started for Mexico on a confidential mission returned today. His friends urged him not to join the Carranza forces because of his avowed support of Villa.

A TRYING ORDEAL

By ELIZABETH SCHOEN COBB. "Almost enough!" proclaimed Eva Truman, with sparkling eyes.

Her companion and fiance, Merton Hull, divided an evident satisfaction and delight between her shining face and a bank book which both were scanning. It showed over six hundred dollars to his account.

It meant the redemption of a wild, wayward youth through one faithful woman's devotion. It presented the sure evidence that over a reckless spendthrift may become almost a miser when love commands.

"When we have enough to buy a little home we will begin life together," Eva had said, and to that end both had been working for over a year now.

"It seems so little," deplored Merton. "It takes so long to reach the limit we have set."

"But we are more than half way on our road," challenged Eva sweetly. "And what a road!" enthused Merton. "All roses since I met you!"

"One day a month later Mr. Worthington was cleaning up his desk. Merton stared hard as he saw him throw the waste basket with the words: 'Be sure you burn up all that truck, Hull.'"

"Oh, that isn't money," replied his employer with a smile. "Some specimen counterfeits in a celebrated case we shall write up for my 'Criminology' volume some day."

But Merton rescued the money his and Eva's—and the happy wedding was no longer postponed, and the severe lesson he had learned made of Bertion Hull a stronger, better man.

NAVIES ARE COSTLY THINGS

When That Subject Is Under Discussion, Millions Appear Comparatively Small Sum.

Rear Admiral Joseph Strauss, the chief of the bureau of ordnance, submitted figures to the house committee on naval repairs showing that to build a plant for the construction of armor with a capacity of 16,000 tons a year would cost about $11,000,000.

"It is not that, for the pay is good. It is the lack of permanency," Mr. Worthington is paying me handsome money, but the work will last only a month longer. I would rather have steady, settled work, even at a low price, than these occasional writing jobs."

"The steady work will come, don't worry, dear," said Eva encouragingly. "It was a rather mystifying task that Merton had secured through answering an advertisement calling for a writer and compiler. It had led him to apply to a bachelor's quarters in a high-class apartment house."

"I think Mr. Worthington is preparing a volume on criminology," Merton told Eva. "He leaves me to my work daytime and evenings, gives me a key to his rooms and his desk and seems to place absolute trust in me. Often I do not see him for days. Yesterday he left the city and said he would be gone for a week. He has left me in entire charge of his apartments."

Merton had certainly been made at home in his new position. At the request of Mr. Worthington he now slept nights at the rooms of the latter. After he had left Eva on that particular evening he met an old journalistic friend whom he had not seen for years, a man he very much liked.

"See here, Hull," spoke Dudley Cragin. "I'm leaving in the morning. Can't you put in the time showing me around the old clubs we used to go to years ago?"

Reluctantly and from courtesy only, Merton agreed to join Cragin at his hotel an hour later. He went to Mr. Worthington's room, gave his writing outfit, donned his best hat and tie and prepared to leave to keep his appointment.

caused Merton to open a drawer where he had noticed a revolver. He took out the weapon and as he did so he was somewhat startled to notice a little package of fresh new bank notes. There were ten of them, each for one hundred dollars.

"At first I thought the thought that came to Merton was of the risk and carelessness involved on the part of his employer in leaving all this money in so unprotected a situation. He started to place the money in the safe. Then a whimsical idea came into his mind. He was inclined to make a show of prosperity with Cragin, who now lived in his home town. Merton placed the money in his pocket book.

"The bills are safer with me than in that desk drawer," he reasoned. "I will masquerade as a Croesus for one evening at least!"

"That evening was rather a bore and a burden to Merton. This was because there was some drinking in the literary clubs he visited. In this Merton did not partake and was not in harmony with the old-time revelry. He saw that his reformation produced a good impression on Cragin, and as he flashed the one hundred dollar bills promiscuously Merton was assured that he would be reported on the road to wealth, and smiled whimsically over the idea.

It was after he had reached the Worthington apartments that he made a disarming and fearful discovery. His pocket book was gone. Lost or stolen, it was out of his possession, and—

"Run! disgrace! perhaps arrest! All night long he tossed on a sleepless bed. He wandered the streets aimlessly all that day. He was pale, haggard, desperate, he went to Eva and told her all the truth."

She was only sorrowful. The question of replacing the lost money was the course honorable, inevitable. She made Merton draw his savings from the bank, she added enough of her own to make up one thousand dollars. Then Merton purchased ten new one-hundred dollar bills and placed them in the desk drawer.

The luckless twain bore their secret burden courageously. Eva was more lovable than ever, but Merton never for a moment ceased to reproach himself for his foolhardy exploit.

"We will just build all over again," said Eva sweetly.

Somehow Mr. Worthington continued to require the services of Merton. He finally made an arrangement where he was to remain as his private secretary at a liberal stipend.

One day a month later Mr. Worthington was cleaning up his desk. Merton stared hard as he saw him throw the waste basket with the words: "Be sure you burn up all that truck, Hull."

"Oh, that isn't money," replied his employer with a smile. "Some specimen counterfeits in a celebrated case we shall write up for my 'Criminology' volume some day."

But Merton rescued the money his and Eva's—and the happy wedding was no longer postponed, and the severe lesson he had learned made of Bertion Hull a stronger, better man.

work, and never tiring of it when secured.

"Such as the work has been," responded Merton with a helpless and resigned shrug of his shoulders. "I wish it would change."

"Then your new task for this Mr. Worthington does not please you?" inquired Eva.

"It is not that, for the pay is good. It is the lack of permanency," Mr. Worthington is paying me handsome money, but the work will last only a month longer. I would rather have steady, settled work, even at a low price, than these occasional writing jobs."

"The steady work will come, don't worry, dear," said Eva encouragingly. "It was a rather mystifying task that Merton had secured through answering an advertisement calling for a writer and compiler. It had led him to apply to a bachelor's quarters in a high-class apartment house."

With only a portion of the feet equipped to burn fuel oil, the American navy is now using 30,000,000 gallons of fuel oil a year, and, according to the secretary, the time will soon come when the annual amount required will be 125,000,000 gallons.

It is proposed to establish tanks at various ports and strategic points; and a special board is investigating the oil lands of the Osage Indians in Oklahoma with a view to their purchase for naval supply.

The New Woman. Simeon Ford, the humorist, said at a recent dinner at the Vanderbilt: "The new woman is a commanding figure. Man buckles down to her."

"Man, the conqueror, when he would win a woman in the past, brought her to the dust. Today, on the contrary, he brings the dust to her."

How He Got It. Little Bill came bringing a scratched finger for peroxide and consolation. "I cut it on the cat," he explained.

He has had much to do with large business concerns. He is a business lawyer. He is one of those men having a good knowledge of the law and ability to apply it along business lines.

His career shows that instead of being a destroyer he has been a creator and a builder. He never looted any corporation or ever assisted any corporation to destroy another.

No lawyer at the Chicago bar is more highly respected, and no citizen more highly esteemed than Mr. Jones. It is fortunate that Mr. Wilson has prevailed upon to go on the reserve board.

Mr. Jones will regard the entire country as his client, and he will give the people the best that is in him. It is good that such men can be drafted for the government service.

Mr. Wilson will be fortunate if he can get Mr. Jones, just as he was fortunate in securing Paul Warburg as a member of the reserve board. Mr. Warburg is a student of finance. He was trained in a European university. From there he went into international banking. He has not been in America many years, but he is a better American than many of us who have been here all of our lives. He has made a close study of our institutions and he understands thoroughly the main springs of our national life.

It is unfortunate that success in certain lines in this country discredits one before demagogic politicians and a few unthinking people.

A man who has made a success of a big bank in New York, another man who has made a success of the practice of law, and a third man who had become conspicuous as a teacher in a great university are more likely to give the government of the United States better service than an unsuccessful teacher, a man who had not shown the taste or ability for banking and a man who in the practice of the law never got beyond police courts.

We ought to draft the services of our big men. We ought to take such men as Ogden Armour of Chicago, Paul Warburg of New York, H. P. Davidson of J. P. Morgan & Co., Fairfax Harrison and C. H. Markham out of regular business when they are 55 years old and make them devote 10 or 12 years of their remaining active life to government service along those lines in which they have demonstrated their ability.

This drafting of good men could go further than taking into the government service those who have made a success in a material way. An able leader like John Mitchell could make a splendid high government official. An educator such as Dr. Hadley of Yale, and a journalist such as Melville E. Stone should all be called upon to give to the nation when the nation needs them the benefit of their experience.—Commercial Appeal.

THE CALAMITY HOWLER.

(By Savoyard in Houston Chronicle.)
 The voice of the calamity howler is heard in the land, and in congress it is tremendously vociferous. It is employed to transmit a good deal of silly lying, such as the assertion that a bond issue is imminent. It chuckled when the income tax did not yield as much as was estimated. Now, as to that, either the boasis we have been making about the vastness of our wealth, or the exaggerated exaggerations of there are a great many rascals among our rich folks. That we have rascals with us is certain and there is a pretty good chance for some elegant and high-toned millionaire to get into jail.

Our importations of foreign goods are very heavy, whereas there is an unusually dismal howl from such statesmen as Mendell of Wyoming and Humphrey of Washington in the house of representatives, and the Hon. Smoot and others in the senate. These argue that every piece of goods we buy from abroad takes a job away from an American laborer, whereas the fact is that no cargo of goods can come to us from abroad that does not set an American laborer to work to make something to exchange for it. If that were not true it would be impossible for a protective tariff to exist. That is what it is founded on. That is the body and the soul of trade between the nations. It is stark naked absurdity to export everything and import nothing. If all men had believed in and practiced that nonsense, which is the taste of a protective tariff, from the beginning, one of two things would have happened—mankind would be dwelling in caves and dressed in skins to this good day, or the Almighty in disgust would have destroyed the world long ago.

It seems that recently our bankers sent abroad gold worth $50,000,000. And they are howling about that, though there would be just as much sense in it to howl about sending abroad cotton, or wheat, or provisions, or other commodity. Why send beyond one nation and goes into another it is in response to a demand for it. It goes in bulk, and, though it may be coined, it is sold as bullion. Just now there is a great demand for gold in France, and that gold that we sent abroad commands a higher price in Paris than it could command in New York. The bankers who shipped it made money by the transaction and thus added to the sum of the aggregate wealth of this country. The Honorable Smoot says that is ruination and he howls about it.

Now, that gold will come back, and a great deal more, as soon as we harvest the present crops. Cotton and wheat will attend to that blessed balance of trade your standpatter talks so much about and knows so little about. The balance of trade has been "against" England for fifty years, and during that period the "balance of trade" has been "in favor" of Mexico. If you wanted to borrow money, to which of these countries would you go for the loan?

John Sherman, in his line, the greatest statesman the republican party ever produced, used to give his party credit for good crops, and actually there were thousands of folks who believed him. Absurd as it may seem, the g. o. p. got tens of thousands of votes every year for a double decade as a result of that somewhat blasphemous claim. If there were anything in such pretension, I know certain statesmen in Capitol Hill who would be swift to renounce Mother Nature with an utter lack of patriotism at this time. Indeed, it is next to treason for the soil to yield such a crop of wheat as that now harvesting with a democratic administration in charge of affairs.

The country cannot adjust itself to the new tariff right off. It will take at least two years. At this writing the democratic tariff is less than nine months old. It will require two years to adjust business to the new banking law, which will not be organized before August 1, 1914. Then the proposed anti-trust legislation is not yet out of the senate and may not be the law until October. It will take some time for business to adjust itself to that. Then how unreasonable and how unjust it is to pass judgment on these things till they have had a fair and honest trial. Every fair-minded man ought to go to the polls next November with a determination to give Wilson's policies a trial, and it will take until the presidential election in 1918 to do that.

We know one thing, and that is the grip of the money power is relaxed; that Wall street does not run this administration. We know that the parcel post has cut down the charges of the express companies enormously. We know that the taxes levied on the country were written by congress and not by a set of manufacturers. We know that the banking law was not written by Wall street. We know that it will be a long time before another great railroad is wrecked as New Haven and Boston and Maine were.

in our humble opinion Mr. Morris will do so. So that we have only Ball and Ferguson left, both good men, either would make a good governor, therefore the issue is more on who you will send to the legislature. The Governor does not make laws.—Rio Grande Clarion.

Whether Ball or Ferguson is to be our next governor, neither can accomplish much unless the legislature, the law-making body, is composed for the most part of men who are not of the meanest politician variety.

R. B. Humphrey, of Throckmorton, has withdrawn from the race for congressman-at-large. Aside from T. J. O'Donnell of this city, he was the only candidate from this part of the state seeking one of the two positions. Mr. Humphrey's withdrawal leaves ten in the race. Mr. O'Donnell is well and favorable known in Wichita Falls, and has just returned from a six weeks' campaign of the state. He feels confident that he will be one of the successful candidates. Northwest Texas is entitled to and should have one of the congress-men-at-large.

BEGINS TO LOOK AS IF THE FARMERS OF WICHITA COUNTY ARE NOT BOTHERING MUCH ABOUT THE CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE. THEY ARE TOO BUSY CROP-MAKING AND WHEN NIGHT COMES THEY PREFER TO REST.

The press dispatches of Saturday from Mexico indicated that Huerta was just about ready to take passage for some foreign port, but the dispatches of today say he was re-elected president of Mexico in yesterday's election, though only a few votes were cast. All of which goes to show how difficult it is to forecast an election.

The state courts have ruled that social clubs that dispense liquor must close shop on election day, and there seems little reason that they should have ever been permitted the privilege if the people at the coming election elect the right sort of legislature a law will be made that will require social clubs that sell liquor to take out a regular liquor license and open and close shop at same hours as the saloon.

The Times has on its hands a whole lot of boiler-plate that is being sent it regularly without our solicitation. It has tried to stop its coming by writing letters, but to no avail. This boiler-plate costs The Times nothing, but it has it on good authority that the service is costing somebody about $750 per week. That's a whole lot of money for somebody to be expending, and as The Times prefers not to use it, the officious person or persons who are responsible for sending it to us can confer a favor by having The Times stricken from "its," "their" or "his" mailing list. The "stuff" being sent to us may be better than we can originate ourselves, or are able to fetch from our exchanges, but at any rate, we prefer to edit The Times in the good old-fashioned way.

BUSINESS AND THE OUTLOOK.

(Philadelphia Record.)
 Of course, the most sensational commercial event of the week or for very many months, was the suspension of the Claffin company, but now several days have passed without developing any disturbance of general trade. It has not caused other failures, outside of owned or associated stores, and all the known facts indicate that the suspension was due to difficulties peculiar to this concern and not common to business in general. The insolvency figures, which have been improving, would have shown a further improvement in June but for this embarrassment.

The Salem fire late in the week is also an important commercial event, but no insurance companies have collapsed under it, though the losses of some of them are heavy. The wealth of the country is very great, its business is vast, and losses by fire or failure which a generation ago would have sent a shudder through the community are now received without the slightest idea that the general course of trade is to be affected.

Bank clearings last week were not quite so good as the week before, but they were a little better than several corresponding weeks of last year. Railroad gross earnings continue to show declines of 8 to 10 per cent from last year. Although the winter wheat harvest is far advanced, its effect upon railroad tonnage is yet to be felt. There is a high degree of prosperity in all the agricultural regions. The certainty of a record harvest of wheat crops generally is producing its inevitable effect upon western business, and the south got more money for the last cotton crop than for any other it ever produced, while the average acreage shows an increase, with prices ruling high.

Reports from the trade centers are not uniform, but there are more favorable than unfavorable reports. Warmer weather has favored the movement of reasonable-dry goods. There has been an increased buying of iron and steel, but further price concessions are not reported, and new business has not met the more sanguine expectations.

The St. Louis and San Francisco railroads has ordered 32,000 tons of rails. Small orders for rails and several moderate orders for engines and cars have been reported. It is stated that the rail purchases of the Pennsylvania railroad will be 100,000 tons in addition to the 37,000 tons already bought. The railroads have been buying material more freely in the past month than in April or May, but they are still very economical. The Iron Age says that recent buying has been mostly for the third quarter of the year, though implement makers have been buying bars for delivery through the year. Merchant bladders of iron are on a diminishing scale. Mid-year rolling mill shut-downs, which will begin this week, are likely to last longer than usual. Disagreement over wage scales may close several union sheet mills.

Cotton speculation has been more active at irregular prices varying with every sort of report. The official quotation for cash cotton showed no change last week. The Philadelphia wool market has been firm, and a fair aggregate of business has been done, though manufacturers are not buying accomplished more in fifteen months than any other administration of our history ever did in four years. We know these things.

As for Mexico, Wilson has had but two things in view—avoidance of war and a restoration of order in that unhappy land. He may fall in his endeavors to maintain peace, but all good men and women must applaud his motives. Had he been the weakling and coward that the fools and knaves in congress call him, this good moment tens of thousands of new-made widows and orphans would fill our land with sorrow.

Trust him. Woodrow Wilson is a patriot and a statesman. Trust him. Washington, D. C.

Begins to look as if the farmers of Wichita county are not bothering much about the candidates for office. They are too busy crop-making and when night comes they prefer to rest.

The first bale of 1914 cotton was shipped to Houston on the 3rd inst. from Cameron county. The first bale came from the same county last year, but was marketed on July 19th.

In spite of the hot weather the political pot is not boiling over. The voters seem to be acting with more sense this campaign than usual, and if there is to be any political shouting or shirt-tearing the candidates themselves will have to do it.

After July 25th the career of some of our would-be statesmen will come to a close. But they should not be discouraged. The present outlook is for a splendid cotton crop and cotton pickers will be in demand.

There are signs that the people of Texas are awakening to the folly of sending peanuts to the state legislature. The small bore politician who makes running for office his business in life is going to get a jar this time.

For the second time Chas. B. White has withdrawn from the race for controller. His reason for dropping out the second time is that, had he remained in the contest, it meant there would be two prohibition Democratic candidates to vote for and one anti-prohibition Democratic candidate. Franklin of Collin is the pro; Terrell of McLennan the anti.

The Beeville Bee thinks the withdrawal of Robertson from the governor's race increases the chance of Leopold Morris for election, but insists that in order to bring that about Ball and Ferguson will have to withdraw, and the sensible voters will have to die off suddenly.

A reader of The Times called up yesterday afternoon to say that during his twenty-four years' residence in this city he had never before noticed such a magnificent array or display of the American flag on the Fourth of July. And it was a fact, and there is a reason for it. In the first place, Wichita Falls is in Texas and Texas is a Democratic state and a part of the great South. Under Republican administrations the South was ignored, and was hardly considered a part of the great Nation. The people of the South, while loyal to their flag, felt little enthusiasm on Fourth of July occasions. They felt as if they were being ignored and resented this by not showing as much enthusiasm on the Fourth of July as they might had the National administration shown greater regard for them. It is different now. We of the South have a Southern born man as president of this Nation, and he is making good. Under his administration, he knows no North nor South, but is the President of the whole people. May the example he has set be followed by his successors.

A few weeks ago many newspapers throughout the State made the assertion that Colonel Ball was not holding the strength he started out with, and most of them attributed this to his Greenville speech in which, it is asserted, he partially repudiated the platform endorsed by the meeting of the Democrats at Fort Worth. That he was losing ground for some cause there is hardly a question of doubt. But what caused the slump is different. Some attribute it to Candidate Ferguson's vote-getting qualities. Others say that the prominent anti-pro leaders who climbed into the Ball band wagon shortly after his Greenville speech was a further evidence to the weak-kneed press who were supporting Ball, but were not so enthusiastic about as they might have been that Colonel Ball had made some concessions to the leading anti-pros, and had partially repudiated the Fort Worth platform. But since it is very evident that the leading anti-pros have not been able to carry with them the crowd of voters they usually run and vote with to the support of Colonel Ball, and that they (the prominent anti-pro leaders) have completely lost out with their crowd) the disgruntled pros are beginning to open their eyes. They are beginning to think it far better to accept Colonel Ball, even though he does not go as far as Morris Shepard does, on Nationwide prohibition, or as far as W. P. Lane or Will H. Mayes for Statewide prohibition, he is yet far superior to Mr. Ferguson, who that, in the event he is elected governor of Texas, he will veto all legislation on the liquor question which may be presented to him whether favorable to the pros or the anti. Besides this, those of the pro-Democrats who are also Wilson Democrats, are recalling that it was Colonel Tom Ball who stood in the thickest of the fight that carried Texas for Wilson in 1912, and that it was Colonel Tom Ball and the Texas delegation sent to Baltimore by the Houston convention that stood shoulder to shoulder with William Jennings Bryan at the Baltimore convention that nominated Woodrow Wilson for President. In addition to this, Colonel Ball has the endorsement of Cato Sells, national committeeman, and Ed House, a close personal and political friend of President Wilson, and that is counting for much in this campaign. The ground that Colonel Ball was losing for a time is being regained very rapidly, and there is good cause for it.

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVERS.

"The Courts should have no more respect for the reckless auto driver than the driver has for the lives of the people."—Record, Cadiz, Ky.

This is a concise statement direct to the point. Like "hitting a nail on the head" it ought to drive the truth into the mind of the auto drivers. This statement is in harmony with Art. 1913, pp. of the Texas Statutes, that reads:

"No person in charge on an automobile or motorcycle on any public road, street or driveway, shall drive the same at any speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the traffic and use of the public road, street or driveway by others, or so as to endanger life or limb of any person thereon."

These remarks are called forth by an incident, supposed to have happened last night. A freckled, fat, long, gangling youth of about twenty summers, appeared at the City Hall about 10:30 a. m. today. His face was scratched, blue marks under his eyes and a decided dragging limp in one leg. He claimed that while enjoying a comfortable sleep beside the public road leading to Iowa Park, that a reckless auto driver shied off the beaten track and ran over him. Now the writer claims that this not only endangered the life and limb of the youth, but disturbed his peaceful slumbers.

CHARBON or anthrax, a disease that resulted in the death of more than fifteen head of horses in Texas last year, is said to have appeared in Young county this year, and in one or two precincts in that county has almost reached the epidemic stage. It is a gland disease and causes the throat of the animal it attacks to swell to such proportions as to cause death very quickly. The disease also is dangerous to cattle. Some counties quarantine against this disease and it might not be a bad idea for Wichita county to do likewise. If there is any remedy for its cure the health authorities do not prescribe it. So the only safe thing to do under the circumstances is to quarantine, and by that means prevent its spread.

Announcement that five cent fares will be put into effect to and from Lake Wichita July 15th, has been received with delight. Nothing that the Traction company has done has received more favorable comment. The five cent rate according to the announcement made yesterday will be in effect only after 6:20 p. m., but this will give an opportunity for those who labor during the day and who need the tonic of the cool ride and refreshing breeze from the water, an opportunity for the outing at a minimum cost. The Times is informed that if the patronage justifies, the rate will be continued in effect all season. It hopes that the patronage will be large and that Lake Wichita will become the resort and resting place that it ought to be.

Sure and select company Denton is running in—Dallas-Denton Wichita Falls interurban. The old town is sandwiched in between two of the liveliest cities in Texas, each one the head of its class. But, for all that, Denton was the first to put up its pro-rata of the expense assessment levied for the preliminaries.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

Denton has taken the lead in that respect.—With Denton in the middle, Dallas at one end and Wichita at the other, the enterprise should and doubtless will be put through. Speaking for Wichita Falls, this city has never failed to carry through any project it undertook. If, after the surveys are made and it can be figured out that the interurban will be a paying proposition, Wichita Falls can be counted on to do her full share in financing and building the road.

It is amusing to read the statements of the Ball and Ferguson partisans with reference to the progress of the campaign and the effect it is having on the voters. For instance, we pick up a South Texas paper and we read that Col. Ball is gaining ground in North Texas. And then we select another publication from some other portion of the State and we learn that Col. Ferguson is gaining ground in South Texas. And there you are, but we will bet six bits to a jug of batteries that not one of the sages who talk so glibly can name a single individual who has changed his mind as to whom he will vote for on July 25.

and it costs nothing to count the votes in advance.—Denton Herald.

That's true. Everybody can make election forecasts and almost everybody is doing that very thing. Ball admirers are saying he is a sure winner by from 75,000 to 100,000 votes. Ferguson supporters are claiming their candidate is as good as elected now. Both sides are doing their shouting now. It is very noticeable, however, that neither Ball or Ferguson are losing any opportunity to gain votes and this evidence that each is of the opinion he is going to need all he can get.

The Temple Telegram, a Ferguson paper, and published in Ferguson's home town, estimates the crowd that gathered at the Ball rally in that city on the 6th at from 5,000 to 15,000 people, and says it was the largest political gathering ever held in Bell county.

So far as known only thirteen persons lost their lives in celebrating the Fourth of July this year. That is entirely too many, but is considerably less than that of last year. Two hundred and forty-three were injured. Last year thirty-two were killed or died of their injuries, while over eleven hundred were injured. It was a sane Fourth.

Ferguson—Perjurer and Usurer.
 Ball—Drunkard and Liquor Dealer.

These are the pleasant characteristics of the opposing candidates that speakers for the opposite sides have been making in the gubernatorial campaign. The primary is nearly three weeks off yet and we shudder to think of the charges that will doubtless be made before that eventful date.

Leaving out of consideration what may have been said in addition most of us will agree that the man who remarked "It's awfully hot" yesterday afternoon got no more than he deserved when he was beaten over the head with a parasol and fined $25. The fellow who remarks "It's awfully hot," or who asks "Is it hot enough for you?" invites assault and battery and whatever punishment can be inflicted.

Candidate Hobby who wants to be lieutenant governor, says he favors a law which will require every bill introduced to be examined by experts and adverse or favorable reports made thereon. The idea is a good one.—Denton Herald.

Why not send a few experts to make the laws in the first place?—Mexico News.

The News has the right idea, Texas can never expect to have sensible and sane laws until her people cease sending to the legislature men of the peasant politician variety.

The Chataqua which opens here today is worthy of and should receive the liberal support of the people of Wichita Falls. The price of $2.00 for a season ticket is a most reasonable one and the attractions seem to be of a high class. The local business men who have put up the guarantee are not doing so from mercenary motives. While under no conditions can they take a profit out of the enterprise all of them stand a good chance of being losers unless the patronage is liberal. The Times hopes that a Chataqua may be made an annual of ning this year ought to pave the way for a larger and better Chataqua next year.

It appears from the unofficial returns that the $125,000 road bond issue in Commissioners' Precinct No. 4 in which Electra is situated has carried by the necessary two-thirds majority. It follows that the Electra precinct which has taxable values to abundantly take care if such a bond issue will be the first to have good roads. The Times ventures the prediction that if there is no hitch in the proceedings and the money is expended for road building, the example of the Electra precinct will be followed by other precincts in the county one by one until the whole county is abundantly take care of such a bond by a single precinct precludes the possibility of a county bond issue as was discussed several months ago. Perhaps precinct bond issues will work out just as well. However, the Times believes, before any roads are built in any precinct a road plan for the entire county ought to be mapped out, so that in the beginning the Electra precinct roads would connect with roads from the Burk Burnett and Iowa Park precincts, and roads from these precincts connect with roads from the Wichita Falls precinct. Road building in any precinct that will not take into consideration of a county plan will be folly.

ORIGINAL OF BOOK OF GENESIS FOUND

EARLY BABYLONIAN TABLET SAID TO TELL STORY OF CREATION

SUPPORTS BIBLE NARRATIVE

Noah's Experiences in Deluge are Believed to be Related on Crude Stone Book

London, July 7.—The London Times announces that a discovery of the utmost importance in Biblical archaeology has just been made by Dr. Langdon, professor of Assyriology at Jesus College, Oxford, who has found among the early Babylonian tablets discovered at Nippur a pre-Semitic account of the Deluge, it is described as "clearly the original of that preserved in the Book of Genesis."

The same tablet contains a reference to the Fall of Man, brought about by his eating a certain fruit. This is the first reference to the fall found in Babylonian literature.

The tablet came from an early library at Nippur and is now, with a number of others, in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Last October Dr. Langdon visited the museum and copied the inscriptions on about 50 tablets of the Nippur collection.

One of these tablets is engraved with a hymn to Nimrod, who, in the Babylonian legend, is the creator of man. The hymn contains the Babylonian version of the flood, and in contrast with the famous "Chaldean account of the Deluge," discovered by George Smith in 1872, agrees with the Biblical account in naming as patriarch, who saved the world from a catastrophe by reason of his piety.

It further agrees with the Biblical narrative in making him a gardener or agriculturist and in the duration of nine months assigned to the flood. The name of the patriarch is given as Tagmog—the Semitic "Nuhu."

It is related that after the flood Noah became "like the gods," which is interpreted to mean that he received the gift of extraordinary longevity.

This version says that Canaan (Babylonian for the God, Enki, the water god) taught Noah the secrets of things revealed to him and the wisdom possessed by the gods. With this revelation the tablet breaks off. It is notable that this "revelation of wisdom" is related by Berossus, a Babylonian historian who wrote in the time of Nebuchadnezzar.

Story of Fall of Man. After a break in the inscription there occurs a remarkable story of the fall of man, his punishment, being the loss of eternal life or longevity, because he ate of the Tree of Life. The story includes the contention between the creator of man, Ninharag or Nimrod and his husband, Enlil.

The beginning of the story of the fall is broken off. It is noted that, as distinct from the Biblical narrative, it is Noah, not Adam, who is tempted and falls.

The publication recently of the discovery made by Dr. Langdon of Jesus College, Oxford, of a pre-Semitic account of the Deluge among the early Babylonian tablets discovered at Nippur aroused the greatest interest among scholars and students of the Bible in New York.

Dr. Solomon Schechter, the well known theologian and president of the Jewish Theological Seminary since 1892, a former professor at Cambridge University and professor of Hebrew at the University College in London, when seen at his home, 468 Riverside drive, recently was enthusiastic over Dr. Langdon's work.

"I know that Prof. Langdon is a careful scholar, and I have great faith in his announcement," he said. "If it is as announced, I can only say that it is so remarkable as to be tragic. I can not make intelligent observations about this until I have the full information. I am going over to Hamburg next week and I shall cross over to England and see with my own eyes what he has found."

"As I understand the announcement, Professor Langdon has found the origin of the Book of Genesis, and his discovery goes to prove the authenticity of that work. George Smith's discoveries in Chaldaea, which was the ancient name for Babylon in 1872 and 1873, while fairly complete differed in material facts from the text of the Book of Genesis as handed down by the Hebrews. That led to a great amount of controversy which has never been satisfactorily settled. Now, the Chaldean account of the Deluge is of later date than the Nippur tablet that Prof. Langdon has just translated. That proves that they are an account of the same story, corrupted by generations of telling and changing to the religious necessities of the day. The Langdon translations are of writing that might date back to over 2000 years B. C. while those of the Chaldean account must date from about between 600 and 1000 years B. C.

Explained the Flood. "Thus it is easily deduced that the Jews obtained the more ancient account of the deluge, for at the time all those countries were under the same king or emperor. Later the Jews became a separate kingdom and kept the old story perfect and intact, while in Assyria and Asia Minor it was corrupted and adapted to the needs of the people. It is not surprising that the oldest account of the flood should agree with that in the Jewish records. I am very sorry that there are breaks in the inscriptions. They, of course, lead to inaccuracies. The account of the fall of man in which Noah appears instead of Adam requires further explanation. It is my opinion that a fragment of the Enoch legend has entered into this and created confusion that has resulted in the identities of Adam and Noah being confused. This, however, is only conjecture.

"The portion of the translation in which Noah received revelations from the Babylonian water god, Enki, being taught the wisdom of the gods, will require much explanation. I can find no parallel to this in the Bible although Noah was advised of the coming of the flood. This sounds a little like the Enoch legend also, and it will be difficult to determine the exact truth. You know, Enoch occurs in several places and seems to have been an important personage. His name is never very much about him. He is one of those mythical characters in the ancient writings who are always being added to and leading to inaccuracy. The story contained in the Nippur tablets made the story of Adam and Noah stronger than ever. They say, however, that Prof. Langdon might have made a mistake in one of the fragments translated, and that the story of Enoch might have crept in and been taken for that of Noah.

Half in Philadelphia. The missing half of the Babylonian clay tablet taken from the temple of Nippur, matching perfectly the fragment from which Dr. Stephen Langdon gained a new version of the fall of man and a new story of Noah and the flood, has been found in the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

Such is the announcement of great interest to archaeologists and to the world in general, made recently by museum officials. Cablegrams from London last week told of Dr. Langdon's translations from the Sumerian script, but said he had been handicapped in getting the full story because he had only half the tablet. It develops that Dr. Langdon wrote to the University of Pennsylvania authorities asking them to search in the museum for the missing half tablet. Now comes the announcement that the missing fragment is here, intact; clearly legible to a Sumerian scholar; that it corresponds exactly with the portion of stone upon which Dr. Langdon worked—and that it is an authentic find. It was found on Saturday by Dr. Curator Gordon of the University Museum.

With the few facts contained in the printed announcement, and said that the Nippur tablets made the story of Adam and Noah stronger than ever. They say, however, that Prof. Langdon might have made a mistake in one of the fragments translated, and that the story of Enoch might have crept in and been taken for that of Noah.

IRON MAN MCGINNITY INVENTS GROUND DRYER Tacoma, Wash., July 8.—"Iron Man" McGinnity, president of the Tacoma Northwestern League, formerly a big league twirler of renown, is enthusiastic today over a ground drying machine he has invented. The machine is similar to a huge blow torch, and is about four feet long and mounted on three wheels. Four distillate burners furnish the heat. After a hard night's rain McGinnity claims the machine will dry out the diamond in two hours.

DOES "LABOR EXEMPTION" CLAUSE REALLY EXEMPT?

Washington, July 8.—Does the debated "labor exemption" clause in the administration anti-trust bill now before the Senate really exempt labor unions from Sherman law prosecution? This is a mooted question at labor headquarters, the Capitol and White House today, notwithstanding claims of arguments on the subject closing official records.

President Gompers and officials of the American Federation of Labor who have been leading the fight for incorporation of the exemption clause are satisfied with the phraseology now in the bill as passed by the House. The president, too, is satisfied and House and Senate leaders accept it as O. K.

But the actual operation of the clause is still problematical. High legal authorities in Congress—where legal "sharpshooters" predominate—insist that only a test of the clause in the courts will decide whether labor receives or is denied any privileges under the new proposed law. The wording of the disputed section is as follows: "Provided, that nothing contained in the anti-trust laws shall be construed to forbid the existence and operation of fraternal, labor, consumers, agricultural, horticultural, organizations, orders or associations instituted for the purposes of mutual help and not having capital stock or conducted for profit or to forbid or restrain individual members of such organizations, orders or associations from carrying out the legitimate objects thereof; nor shall such organizations, orders or associations or members thereof be held or construed to be illegal combinations or conspiracies in restraint of trade under the anti-trust laws."

President Wilson's view of the clause is that it exempts labor and the other organizations from prosecution because of the sole fact of organization—combination—but does not prevent their prosecution or that of any individual member, for any illegal, unlawful act of combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade. Those who doubt the efficacy of the legislation point out that the courts have never declared that mere "organization" is prohibited by the Sherman law and that therefore, the "exemption" clause adds nothing to the law and does not, in fact, "exempt" anybody or anything.

Agreements such as closed shop working arrangements, between labor unions and big employers will still be prohibited and subject participants to a Sherman law suit, it is contended by many.

FALLS IN THRESHER BLOWER AND NARROWLY ESCAPES

(Burkhardt Star) Wallace, the 12 year old son of Will Thom, a well known farmer residing near Clara, had an extremely narrow escape from being instantly killed Wednesday evening. J. H. Anderson's thresher was threshing wheat on Mr. Thom's farm and the boy was walking on top of the blower when he fell through a trap door into the small chute. The machinery was running full speed at the time and before it could be stopped the boy had come in contact with the rapidly revolving fan, resulting in one of his legs being broken in two places—above and below the knee and the lad was severely bruised about the body. Fortunately the machinery was instantly stopped after the boy was seen to fall into the blower, for had it continued to run a moment longer the unfortunate boy would no doubt have been instantly killed. It required an hour's hard work to get the injured youth out of the blower and strange to say he was still conscious. Dr. J. L. McGeehe was summoned soon to give the boy medical aid, and surgical aid. At last reports the boy was doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

ORIENTAL PROBLEM UP AT N. E. A. CONVENTION St. Paul, Minn., July 6.—Responsibilities of education for the solution of the Oriental problem was to be one of the important subjects discussed at the meetings of the National Educational Association which today opened its annual convention here. Prominent educators from all sections of the country were present at today's opening session. Dr. Soren L. Gulick was to be the speaker on the Oriental problem. He advocates instruction in geography, histories and other text books, such material as will give American children and youth more correct ideas as to Asiatic peoples and their customs and ways of thought. He declared that "the property of America depends to a large extent upon the presence, the right treatment and the happiness of the immigrant here." Dr. Gulick urged that the children be taught to look with good will upon immigrants of all classes.

How He Became the Robin Hood of Mexico, and Why He Hates Diaz, Orozco and Huerta - His Real Character Told By One Who Is Personally Acquainted With the Constitutional General

FOR the past three years General Francisco Villa, the fighting head of the Constitutional Army in Mexico, has held the center of the stage with the American press. One day he is lauded as a marvelous military genius and a half Indian, and the next day the same newspaper will be found denouncing him as an ignorant butcher of men and a negro. Indeed, if one were to believe all the reports that would seem to come from the press, he would seem to be a living Doctor Jeckel and Mr. Hyde. The writer is personally acquainted with General Villa, having seen him under various conditions; whether it be in his quarters at Juarez, at headquarters on the field of battle, or in a private home, he is ever on the alert, busy and a body—a remarkable man in respects, but wholly unfit to Mexico from the presidential account of his military and political fighting. "There is nothing to be gained by being in the line of the fray," he would rather "eat my own fat any time," said one of his officers.

General Villa has repeatedly denounced others that are only ambitious to see Carranza Chief Executive of Mexico, and to know that Carranza has been punished. Carranza has gone far toward providing truthfulness of his statement. Carranza's "With Carranza" has a headline in the news conference the next day's dispatch differences patched up—If there were differences, which is highly doubtful.

THE REAL VILLA

and learned to read and write only a few months ago while he was in a Mexican prison. His father died when he was a mere child, and his mother seems to have had little influence over the boy, who began to sow his wild oats early. Becomes Bandit. A story is told of how he killed a man who took his sister from the ranch, including the marriage ceremony. Villa is said to have pursued the couple and, after forcing the man to marry his sister, killed him a few minutes afterwards. When this became known he was compelled to leave home or go to prison, and perhaps his death in expiration of his crime. So, he took to the mountains, as the Mexicans call it, and soon became the Robin Hood of Mexico. An excellent shot and a man who could control even the wildest horse, he soon became a name of men about him and he became a terror of the Mexican mountains for a period of more than a dozen years. Porfirio Diaz was the Dictator of Mexico at that time and, alarmed at the boldness of Villa and his men, he set a price upon the head of the young robber chief. The Rurales (the constabulary of the country) set out to capture him, and several desperate fights in the mountain passes took place. Villa succeeded in killing a score or more of the Rurales in these encounters, being slightly wounded himself. With each clash with the officers of the law his hatred for Diaz increased, and when the Madero revolution against the Diaz regime began Villa offered his services to Madero, which were at once accepted. He gathered several hundred men about him and began a campaign against the Government. Untrained in the ethics of the treatment of prisoners in modern warfare Villa's men were allowed to slay the enemy and all circumstances, and they fought with a savagery which shocked the world. Diaz was compelled to flee from Mexico, and Madero became its Chief Executive.

The battle of Juarez, in 1911, fought Villa before the public, for all through the battle he was in the open in the thickest of the fight, leading his men in the most daring charges. His courage amazed the war correspondents, and descriptions of the courageous fighting of the ex-bandit were published throughout the world. General Orozco, another of Madero's officers, soon became violently jealous of Villa and began to make sport of his fighting qualities, but Madero had won and Villa retired from the army and was given a Government position at Chihuahua. A few months later General Orozco demanded a large sum of money from the Madero Government for his services during the revolution, and on being refused he set about to have a revolution against the Government and organized an army for that purpose.

Hated Of Orozco. Villa, who in the meantime had heard of Orozco's slurs at his military ability, begged Madero to allow him to return to the army "and get even with the coward Orozco." General Victoriano Huerta, the present Dictator of Mexico, was at that time Madero's commander-in-chief, but Villa did the real fighting, and although the Orozco revolution was speedily put down, it is one of the sorrows of Villa's life that he failed to capture the leader. Friction between Huerta and Villa soon became apparent, and as Huerta was the ranking officer he accused Villa of disobeying orders and had him put in prison. But iron bars had no terrors for the ex-bandit, and he soon escaped and went back to his old life in the mountains. Then came the cold-blooded murder of Madero and the rise of Huerta. When Villa learned of this he said "I'll pay him back!" He had gathered some of his old followers about him. A few sacks of flour and some ammunition were loaded on the pack animals and the present revolution began—the revolution in which thousands of lives have been lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed. This was in March of 1913. Today we for they are like bright, black beads, and seem to penetrate the inmost thoughts of the visitor. It is in this feature that the Indian is predominant. He was dressed in a heavy coat in a fashion that many expert American riders might envy. In ordinary conversation his voice is low and rather pleasant, but like all the Latin he speaks rapidly. He is quick to understand, especially where military affairs are concerned, and acts quickly on his own volition, rarely consulting his officers, who are always gathered about him. Raoul Madero, the brother of the murdered President, is always at his side, following him about like a faithful dog. He regards Villa as his brother's avenger.

one fair American or whether he seizes a wife after each battle. However, the reader need not worry over the puzzle, for the whole story is a fabrication. General Villa was married in the regulation fashion to a Mexican woman who is not even pretty—a plain, quiet, slender creature of the typical Mexican type. Like her husband, she is illiterate and speaks little English. She is devoted to her husband and follows the news of his campaign with the same eagerness and pride as shown by an American woman in the success of her husband.

General Appearance. General Villa's appearance is a disappointment and a pleasant surprise. There is nothing of the swashbuckler bandit about him, either in manner or appearance. He is about five feet nine or ten in height and of medium build. His hair is black and slightly curly and crowns a face which is tanned from exposure to the tropical sun. His features indicate a craftsman amounting almost to cruelty, his mouth especially being indicative of this trait. His eyes are remarkable

Throughout the campaign General Villa has been a teetotaler, refusing to drink any intoxicants, even when flushed with victory. "A man must have a clear head," he declares, "to win." Various pronouncements have been given to his name, and there has been some difference of opinion about it. He, however, pronounces it as it is spelled, "Yee-ya," which is the real pronunciation in Spanish.

Mathis-Winfrey nuptials last Thursday evening.

Last Thursday evening at 8:30 a very pretty home wedding took place at the home of G. H. Winfrey at Charlie at which time his daughter, Emma, was united in marriage to J. C. Mathis of Temple, Texas. Simplicity marked the decorations of the reception suite and the arrangements, the bridal party being composed of the bride and groom and two attendants only. Miss St. Clair of Decatur, sang "Because I Love You Dear," and the bridal party entering from opposite doors, were met in the archway by Misses Marie and Dora Winfrey, changing into the wedding room which was banked with ferns and cut flowers by the Rev. A. C. Gettys of Crowell, and there the words were spoken that made them man and wife, the ring ceremony being used. The groom was attended by Mr. Goodlow of Olney as best man and Miss Nellie Winfrey of Grapevine, was maid to the bride. The party entered to the sweet strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March played by Miss Mattie Winfrey, sister of the bride and during the ceremony "Trauer" was played, softly on violin by Misses Marie and Dora Winfrey, changing into the wedding room which was banked with ferns and cut flowers by the Rev. L. BANKS APPROVE PLAN TO ADVANCE MONEY FOR HANDLING CROPS

SEVEN MILLION IS NEEDED

Here Urges That Government Place Funds Directly With Banks Where Needed

Wichita Falls national banks support the government's plan to advance money for handling crops, but want the matter handled differently from last year. This is the opinion of the replies by the banks to the queries sent out by the secretary of the treasury at Washington. The banks throughout the south what they think of the government's plan. This year the government advanced even million dollars for this purpose in Texas banks, but only in four or five of the larger of the states were directly advanced. This year the national banks believe the money should be advanced directly to the "country banks" as they are called. The banks estimate that upwards of a million will be required for crop needs in this city and its vicinity between now and July 1, 1915, and the replies of the banks to the queries of the secretary of the treasury are as follows: The banks in this city and its vicinity are estimated to be at from $200,000 to $300,000. This bank agreed with the other banks in the small towns to be loaned the money direct by the treasury department. Commercial Paper Security. First National's reply set forth the loan of last year did very good because the money went to the larger cities; that more than 1,000,000 would be required this year not too great a share applied to the larger cities. The bank that United States bonds up as collateral made the offer to the banks, but the banks, not such bonds, had to borrow or loan in order to share in the money, and it was stated that the banks be allowed to loan on their commercial paper. Direct Loans Advised. National Bank of Commerce recommended that a large part of the money be placed directly with smaller banks and cited the example of the city of Wichita, in which it is loaned to the small banks. The bank of this section this year, the bank stated, would be unusual, the requirements for handling wheat crop, feeding cattle and holding the cotton crop, above the average. The bank stated that to make the amount of real value, the loans should be loaned on commercial paper and security not be confined to small bonds. The replies have all been forwarded to Washington and will receive attention of the controller. It is likely that a considerable amount of money will be advanced for Texas' crop. It will probably be several months, however, before any action is Associated Press. St. Louis, July 10.—Two masked bandits who held up westbound Katy Flyer on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad near Matson, Mo., sixty miles northwest of here late last night captured a track walker who surprised them and took him away with them. This was learned from the train crew today. The story of the robbery was told to A. L. Mudd, conductor of the train by John Sagney, engineer. Engineer's Story of Robbery. The bandits are supposed to have boarded the train at Matson. After the train had gone a short distance, a man confronted the engineer with two revolvers. "He told me to stop the train," said the engineer, "and I did. Then he told the fireman to run back and unhook the train, between the last express car and the first passenger car. The fireman uncoupled the train and the bandits forced him to run the engine and express cars to a point near Klondyke on the river bank. They entered the American Express Company's car and forced the messenger, J. D. Nicholson, to stand with his face to the wall while they blew both doors from the safe. While this was going on a track walker, said to be William Christopher appeared. The robbers made him prisoner. When the train first stopped at the bandit's command conductor Bugg and William Glass, train auditor, got off to learn what caused it to stop. They were driven back into the car by a fusillade of shots. The bandits made no effort to molest the passengers and so far as is known nothing was taken except the contents of the express safe. What this amounted to is not yet known. The bandits are thought to have crossed the Missouri river near the scene of the robbery and to have started south. EXPRESS AGENT SAYS NO MONEY IN SAFE Associated Press. St. Louis, July 10.—M. T. Brown, general agent here for the American Express Company, said there was no money in the express safe but there were a few packages of jewelry, the value of which he would not estimate.

The other association of makers is yet to be heard from and the designers are admittedly at sea.

"PORK BARL" APPROPRIATION FOR HARBOR AND RIVER IMPROVEMENTS BITTERLY FOUGHT

Washington, July 10.—One of the bitterest fights ever waged against "pork barl" legislation is being fought in the Senate now by a handful of senators against the river and harbor appropriation bill. That bill on its face carried $43,250,000, the largest cash appropriation ever carried in a measure of this kind. It also authorizes specifically later appropriations of $10,352,000. But one of the sharpest critics is that of Senator Burton of Ohio calls its "dribbling system" really implies the estimate expenditure of untold millions on projects of little if any value to navigation. One of the most striking illustrations of the extravagance of the measure is the item for the carrying on of the improvement work on the Mississippi River between the mouths of the Missouri and Ohio rivers. That work was begun in 1881 with an estimated total cost of $16,000,000. Already $17,000,000 has been expended on the project and the estimate carried in this year's bill for completing the work yet to be done is $17,250,000. The significance of these figures is increased by the fact that the relative importance of the river as a carrying road has steadily dwindled. This particular stretch of river at issue in this item is 206 miles long, with an annual freight tonnage of 250,000. The appropriation for this work this year is $1,000,000 or $4 a ton. When the work is completed, even if it does not exceed present estimates, it will have cost approximately $150 a ton on the basis of the present tonnage up and down that part of the river. Senator Martin of Virginia is chairman of the appropriations committee.

Leonard Abbott, president of the Free Speech Society of America, is backing Berkman. Mr. Abbott is wealthy and is considered sincere in his ideals for the revolution of society. Elaborate preparations are being made by the police to prevent trouble.

When a friend asked him why he had changed his wealth accumulating advice Mr. Rockefeller said, "Oh, well you know children have to have candy now and then."

CITY NATIONAL IS CITY-DEPOSITORY

BANK WILL PAY 3.33 PERCENT ON DAILY BALANCES FOR CITY FUNDS

COUNCIL MEETS SATURDAY

Ordinances Relative to Joint Hospital Will be Taken Up at That Time

The City National Bank was chosen as the city depository for the ensuing year at Thursday's session of the city council and will pay 3.33 per cent on daily balances. This is an increase of .68 per cent over the rate for the past year.

Little was done at the meeting, adjournment being taken to Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the question of a new ordinance fixing the tax levy for the hospital bonds will come up. The buyers of the bonds have asked that another ordinance be passed and that other necessary formalities be gone through with, before the securities are finally accepted. The bonds have not yet been approved by the attorney general and it is understood that the action of the state department is hanging up pending an investigation of the entire charter question, so that approval of the bonds would amount to approval of the new charter. The bond matter went over until Saturday in the absence of the mayor.

The council elected Dan White a member of the police force, Will Allen being granted a leave of absence for the present.

Three bids were submitted for the city depository. The Wichita State Bank which has been the depository for the past year offered 3.33 per cent. The same rate has been offered by the National Bank of Commerce and 3.33 per cent and the City National 3.33 per cent. The last named bank was accordingly designated as the depository.

The Wichita Mill and Elevator Company filed a protest against allowing freight cars to stand on the alley track between Michigan and Ohio, from Eighth to Twelfth streets, contending that this violated the franchise of the railroad company. The council adopted a resolution directing the railroad companies to cease spotting cars on the track mentioned.

ARCHER COUNTY STEERS BRING A HIGH PRICE

Sam Gowan Sells Two Loads Averaging 1261 Pounds at $106.52 a Head

St. Louis, July 10.—Much has already been said to press about the prices which have been paid in the past six weeks or more for Texas cattle, more particularly the straight grass variety. The highest prices in the country is not by any means the only reason for this condition—the cattle from Texas this year certainly look to be worth the money. It is no exaggeration to say that the Texas cattle offerings this season are the best that have ever been put on the market from that State.

While grass cattle have been making this price record, few cattle have also been established here market. For instance, Sam Gowan the Fort Worth attorney, was on the St. Louis market today with two loads of 1261 pound steers which sold for $9.40. He fed them in Archer county. Some price you say, yes, and they were some cattle. Were it not for their brands they could easily have been taken for Northern cow fed steers.

A South Texas shipper, who incidentally had just disposed of a string of medium weight grass cattle at $7.60 steered on the fence watching the steersman, and hyper-clone. The trader of the Green county, Tex., can hardly realize, he said, that only a few years ago, five maybe, that a bunch of cattle like that one as nearly like they are as we could make them then, would only bring a little more than half the price this year has just sold for.

BAG OF CLOTHES FOR WEEK END TRIP

Problem of Space Not Bar for Modern Girl Who Wears Little

New York, July 10.—When the fair city maid swoops down upon rural relations and country cousins it is necessary that her week end bag be a bag of tricks. To get as much as possible in a small space as possible being the main problem, the modern maid would seem to have a cinch, judging by the things she doesn't wear as well as by the things she does. As the more style she puts on the more clothes she takes off, a string of clouded amber beads and a few ruffles of net would seem to be enough to turn the head of most any country gentleman from Saturday to Monday.

First of all she travels in a suit either of light weight serge ratine, raitine or one of the other smart cotton fabrics with a plain blouse of handkerchief linen either in white or one of the new gay colors. If she believes implicitly in signs, a white suit a la Phoebe Snow is most effective.

A smart top coat or cape of dark furs, carried over the arm can be pressed into service with equal success for motoring or evening wear. Armed also with one of the conventional little party cases or victorias, toilettes requisites are ready to hand.

MEAT THAT IS PROPERLY CARED FOR

It requires considerable "know-how" as well as the real desire to give good meat service, to handle successfully the meat business during hot weather.

It's so easy for meat to spoil unless it is given extremely good care that it is not at all uncommon for a perfectly honest butcher to send you a piece of meat that may not be just exactly what you want it to be or what it ought to be.

I take unusual care, not only in buying my meats in the summer time, but in properly handling and caring of them so as to keep them in perfect condition when delivered to you. I want you to report personally immediately after receiving any piece of meat that you get from my shop, that isn't exactly what it ought to be and I'll make it good very gladly.

Let me have your next meat order.

Nobody Knows. Nobody knows why the summer rose droops and dies at the summer's close, And the vagrant wind its petals brown Scatters will thro' the busy town— Ah, nobody knows! Nobody knows why the summer goes And the weary winter brings the snows; And the houghs are bare and the birds are gone. And the dreary days drag dully on— Ah, nobody knows! Nobody knows why the days disclose Fears and follies and wants and woes And death and duty and pain and care Scatter their shadows everywhere— Ah, nobody knows! Nobody knows why the spirit goes And the lips grow dumb and the eyelids close— And the world's desire and the eye's unrest Wake no more in the icy breast— Ah, nobody knows! Nobody knows why the day departs And night brings shadows to skies And finds the dreamer at set of sun With a broken heart o'er task undone— Ah, nobody knows! Nobody knows? Ah, yes! Oh, yes! And that One—God! We grieve and guess. But He is clearer of sight than we And He knows why that it comes to be— Yes, somebody knows! —Springfield Republican.

WICHITA FALLS RECIPE.

Recipe For Que Lait. (By Mrs. C. B. Montgomery, An old French recipe which has been handed down from generation to generation.) Three fresh coconuts, grated, three pounds of sugar, one can of grated pineapple, two large oranges cut fine, one sponge cake. Dissolve the sugar in one-half gallon of water and cook until it threads, then add the coconut, let cook for a few minutes, stirring constantly, then add the pineapple and oranges. Care must be taken that the syrup is properly candied or the mixture will be sloppy and will not keep. Have a sponge cake, which has been baked the day before, if possible, crumbled fine. When the fruit mixture is thick take from fire and mix with alternating layers of the fruit and cake, putting first a layer of cake the no layer of fruit. When all of the mixture and crumbs have been used ice the top layer in order to keep it moist. This will keep for weeks in a cool place and makes a very rich and delicious dessert. Serve with whipped cream if desired. (Recipes are solicited. Phone 1671 or send to Times office).

The society reporter requests that all having items either for the social calendar or the society column will phone or send them in as early Saturday morning as possible. It is preferred that all items be in by noon.

An interval of work was broken by the serving of delicious food plums and at the conclusion of the afternoon's crocheting the hostess served ice cream and cake. The guests on this occasion were: Mesdames Garner, Stenigle, Wammuck, C. C. Scott, Moore, Allen, Hood, Marshall West of El Reno, Misses Higgins of Hico, Hood of Gainesville and Marie Knight. MRS. M. J. GARDNER HOSTESS TO THURSDAY SEWING CIRCLE

Thursday afternoon the Thursday Sewing Circle entertained by Mrs. M. J. Gardner. The usual sewing, some fancy work and some just plain sewing, occupied the attention of the ladies for some time, conversation as usual being also a feature. Late in the afternoon de-

To Have Pretty Hair

If your hair is not as soft and pretty or as fresh and full as that of some friend, do as she does—give it daily attention, just the same care you would give a plant to make it healthy and beautiful. Luxuriant hair—soft, fluffy, thick and lustrous—is really a matter of care. If it is too thin, make it grow. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off.

Parian Sage, an inexpensive tonic which you can get from any druggist or from Fosshee & Lynch is just what you need—it softens the scalp, nourishes the hair roots, immediately removes dandruff, and makes the hair fluffy, lustrous and abundant. Parian Sage takes away the dryness, stops itching head, makes the hair thick as abundant and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous. By the use of this helpful tonic any woman can easily make her hair fluffy, soft and pretty. (Advt.)

YOUNG FOLKS PICNIC AT LAKE WICHITA THURSDAY

A merry crowd of young people sought the cooling breezes of Lake Wichita Thursday evening, going out shortly after sun down. Boating, fishing and bathing were among the diversions enjoyed by the crowd, both before and after the bounteous basket supper which was spread picnic fashion in the pavilion. The party was chaperoned by Rev. and Mrs. C. Ermel and was composed of the following young people: Mesdames Edith Ermel, Irma Savage, Pauline Oster, Emma Holder, Edna Windsor, Frieda Ermel, Lucy Mae Havenor, Ethel Moore, Elsie Oster, Mary Weakley, Lizzie Bohm, Stella Wenkley and Goldie Moore. Messrs. Zimmerman, Reeves, Vickery, Lunck, Ermel, Sayles, Moore, Howard, Gilbert, Whitesides and South.

Mrs. E. M. Brown and granddaughter, Miss Lucy Mae Priebe, leave today for Amarillo and other points to spend the summer.

DALLAS MAN'S VIEW OF PROPOSED INTERURBAN

(Dallas Journal) "The Dallas-Denton-Wichita Falls Interurban will be built if the report to be made by the engineers indicate that it will be a paying proposition." Such was the statement made by William Doran, chairman of the Dallas committee which is arranging for a preliminary survey. Mr. Doran consulted with some engineers today and it is probable that the matter will be considered at the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon.

It is estimated that the preliminary survey will cost $20,000. At the Gainesville meeting, representatives of the various cities interested pledged the pro rata for their respective cities, but the money has not actually been subscribed. Dallas portion of the fund is $10,000. No effort will be made to raise Dallas portion until bills have been received which will give those who put up this money a call on the stock in exchange for the amount put up by them.

"People all along the route are very enthusiastic and the prospects seem to be very good," Dr. Doran said. "Interurbans to Sherman and Waxahachie are built and paying dividends. An Interurban to Greenville is nearly finished and an Interurban to Ferrell is assured. This territory already belongs to Dallas, but the territory we purpose to tap by the Wichita Falls line, especially that beyond Denton, is not Dallas territory. It will be virgin soil for this market. "They want to come to Dallas."

SECTION MERIDIAN ROAD IS IN BAD CONDITION

Improvements Needed Between Burnett and Lawton According to Report

Improvements are needed on the section of the Meridian road between Red river and Lawton according to reports reaching here and it is feared that the proposed "optional route" by way of Byers will become popular if the road is allowed to remain as at present. It is said to be especially in need of repairs in the Randlett vicinity. The clipping below from the Lawton News, sets forth the situation but D. P. Talley says that it is incorrect as to the approaches to the Burk Burnett bridge, which he declares have been clayed and put in good condition. The clipping follows: "Now that the harvest season is ended, let us begin to talk about our Meridian Road. That this much discussed highway is badly in need of something more effective than discussing, is apparent to every one who has ridden over it through Comanche and Cotton counties this summer.

"It is bad north from Lawton, but that part of it is a turnpike in comparison to the portion between Lawton and Burk Burnett. In fact, if the portion just mentioned has ever been marked, the signs of the marking have mostly disappeared. As to dragging or grading, that seems to have received no attention at all, between Lawton and the river. "Our neighbors to the southeast of us have, we are informed, made a good road and kept it well dragged and graded as far as the new bridge south of Temple. But the branch leading toward Wichita Falls, is as bad a piece of country road as may be found anywhere. Not only is it rough, ungraded and undrained from Lawton to Randlett, but at both ends of the Burk Burnett bridge the sand is something terrific."

TWILIGHT LEAGUE WILL PLAY ANOTHER 18 GAME SCHEDULE

Another eighteen game schedule will be played by the Twilight League teams, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the club managers. The season will open Tuesday and will close Labor Day. Practically the same teaming will take part, though under different names. The schedule will be published shortly. There was some sentiment in favor of Sunday games, but this was voted down; Twilight League teams, however, will arrange Sunday games among themselves, not as part of the league schedule.

It was decided to make some improvements at the Twilight League park and a fence and some seats will be constructed. The team which heads the list at the close of the schedule will play the Irish Lads, winners of the first schedule, for the city championship. Efforts will be made in the coming games to provide seats for all spectators and to start all games promptly at 6:15 on Tuesdays and Fridays.

WHEAT PRICES AVERAGED LITTLE MORE THAN CORN

Washington, July 10.—Wheat sold at only 14 cents a bushel more than corn on July, according to the average of prices for all the states, just announced by the department of agriculture. In Kansas corn was selling for 7 cents more a bushel than wheat. This was due to the failure of the Kansas corn crop last year and the extraordinarily fine prospect of the wheat crop there this year. The average price of wheat for the country on July 10 was 76 cents a bushel. This is 19.3 cents less than the July average for the past five years. In North Carolina the price was $1.05, while in Oklahoma it was 64 cents a bushel.

The average price of corn was 76.5 cents a bushel or 4 cents a bushel more than the average July price for the past five years. In Iowa corn sold at 83 cents, in North Carolina 98 cents.

FRECKLES

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. Remove Easily. Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling. Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength from any druggist—and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles. (Advt.)

GOOD RAIN THIS WEEK IN PARTS OF TILLMAN (Frederick Leader)

Parts of Tillman county were favored with heavy rains Tuesday afternoon. The rain was accompanied by a stiff wind, but no damage of any consequence is reported. The heaviest rain seems to have fallen north and northwest of Frederick. In the Mantion neighborhood the fall is reported to have been about 2 1/2 inches and it was heavier between that place and Tipton extending to Red river. East of Mantion the rain did not extend but four miles. All the country north of Frederick got a good wetting. Southwest of here there was no rain. At the same time the Big Pasture country from Red River to Frederick got a fine shower. Where the heaviest rains fell they probably will furnish enough moisture to carry the corn through to maturity. The fall in Frederick amounted to but .09 of an inch.

of its financial mismanagement. He will rehabilitate our wrecked penitentiary system, which threatens to become a great burden to the taxpayers, and he will reorganize the school system of our state and bring about what we all have so long desired—better graded schools, better high schools, a better A. & M. College, and a greater university.

"You have asked me for my views on the gubernatorial situation and I have given you, as they now come to me, some of the reasons why I should support Tom Ball if I were in Texas. There are other equally important reasons that undoubtedly occur to every serious-minded man who contemplates the conditions in our state. I only want to add that I would not be deterred from supporting Mr. Ball because of the reasons I have just given. In my opinion, the Democratic Party of Texas has not too much faith in supporting this strong, clean and capable candidate for governor."

While we do not pretend to know anything about the merits of the cause of action the Attorney General has instituted against certain contributors and members of the Texas Business Men's Association, there is one allegation underlying his proceeding that seems to us a danger that is not to be passed over lightly. It is this: The right to organize for the purpose of disseminating arguments and information for or against a proposal is called in question. In other words, it seems that Mr. Looney entertains the notion that the acts or proposed acts of a legislature cannot be subjected to argument before the bar of public opinion. Or to be a little more explicit, it seems to be regarded as a crime for any person having any connection with a corporation of any sort to express an opinion on public questions. Still Mr. Looney is by no means the only one who has given expression to such a sentiment. Senator C. J. Pollard, some time ago denounced the railroad for disseminating its advertising and other legitimate information in a way that was not favorable to themselves in their request for an increase in freight rates. Does this mean that a citizen is to be denied the right of freedom of speech if his motives impugned and his certainties curtailed simply because he owns stock in a railroad or belongs to an opinion on some public question? Is one class of citizens to be invited and encouraged to take part in the discussion of public questions and the same privilege denied to another class? Is a man to be branded as a criminal simply because he belongs to an association that is incorporated, or owns stock in a corporation? If so, there are thousands of citizens in Texas in that class. Social organizations, commercial and civic organizations, and even trades unions are incorporated. The corporation is a creature of the law. Yet we witness the spectacle almost every day of some lawmaker denouncing wholesale, making no discrimination between law-abiding and law-breaking organizations, the very thing the law has created and encouraged. If corporations, per se, are such awful things why does not the lawmaker abolish them? Let's be fair to all men.—Vernon Record.

As The Times understands it, the Attorney General is not seeking to restrain individuals from engaging in political activity or contributing funds for that purpose. His suit is directed at corporations, and in his petition he cites Texas statutes, which he claims prohibit corporations from making contributions for political activity of any character. The Times does not believe it is the province of any newspaper to try this injunction suit through its columns. It does believe, however, that it is within its province to discuss the statutes. Almost everybody believes in limiting the political activity of corporations. A corporation is a creature of the law and its standing and rights are quite different from individual and personal rights. Nevertheless, a spirit of fair play ought to permit the corporations a hearing before the bar of public opinion when legislation affecting their interests and very existence even is being considered. All that the people ought to ask is that the corporations state their argument fairly, frankly and openly and without subterfuge or concealment of purpose. If the Texas press laws do not permit this they ought to be amended so as to give the corporations a chance to present their claims to the public.

WANTS DEBATE WITH A DEMOCRATIC SPEAKER

The Times has received the following communication:

Is there a Democrat, a representative man who can get the endorsement of his party who will meet me on the court house lawn Sunday night, July 12, 1914 at 8 o'clock and defend his party? The Democrats are again appealing to the workers for their support, the masses are homeless, they have become homeless under the reign of Democrats, the South has always been controlled by the Democratic party; how will they restore homes to the homeless, land to the landless? The Majestic

For today only the great Alaskan-Siberian Moving picture will be shown here. These films were taken during the scientific expedition sent by the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, Pa., to Alaska, Siberia and the Polar regions. The expedition was sent out for the purpose of securing specimens and authentic data of the big game animals of the Far North for the museum, and the success of this expedition is now being exhibited in actual moving pictures throughout the world. The expedition was financed by Andrew Carnegie. It is a lesson in geography that is rendered interesting by reason of its being in motion pictures and will make a lasting impression on the minds of all. The film starts with the sailing of the expedition, the company leaving Seattle for the Polar regions via the beautiful "inside passage" showing thousands of seals on the rocks in Resurrection Bay, Totem-Poles and their carvings by the Indians at Sitka, numerous kinds of wild birds on Bogoslo and Walrus Islands, the Murie, Glaucus-Winged-Gull, Red Faced Cormorant, and Pinguins, life of the Esquimaux, a trip through their villages on Wings Island, showing their modes of living, pastimes etc., kayak diving, wild mountain sheep-hunt, seal lions, wild Moose, the diving bear, Walrus-hunt on the ice floes, on the trail of Polar bears, and many scenes of interest which lack of space will not permit us to mention.

The Empress

Owing to some mistake of the film exchange "The Odie Rich," a three part feature in which Sidney Olcott presents Miss Valentine Grant, which was announced for yesterday did not arrive until today. This feature with a single reel picture, completes the four reel variety program. Tomorrow a three reel feature, "The Air Torpedo" will be shown.

OUR REPUTATION

Is not based upon the sale we make today, but the way our work shows up throughout the years withstanding that greatest of all tests, "The ravages of time."

We have erected a good many MEMORIALS throughout Texas and Oklahoma, and can always point with pride to each and everyone, they representing full value for the money expended. We never sacrifice QUALITY in order to make a sale knowing as we do that quantity without quality is always a source of much dissatisfaction, not only to our customers, but to ourselves.

Your dollars will bring greater satisfaction used in the erection of a memorial to your departed loved ones than they will expended in any other way. Why not follow that best of all impulses, and beautify your cemetery plot today?

Remember the house of QUALITY.
