BATTLE IMMINENT IN BELGIUM WITH GERMANY FACING BELGIAN, FRENCH AND ENGLISH FORCES

Situation At Liege Unchanged—French Declaration Of War On Austria Adds To Duties Of American Diplomats—Evidence Of Battle On Russo-German Frontier—Fighting In Alsace

In and around Liege, the situation was unchanged today. The Germans held the town itself but the forts were still fighting strongly. The German main army in the north was reported entrenching itself on the River Ourthe, while two large divisions of cavalry had got to Tongres, north of Liege.

It was expected that a general advance was in preparation and a battle imminent in which the Germans would be confronted by the allied Belgian, French and British forces.

The French force met with opposition at Muehlhausen, Alsace, after their occupation of that city. A superior force of Germans caused them to leave the place and take position outside where an action was fought, details of which have not been made public. French reports indefinite but give the impression of French success.

Many German spies were arrested today in Belgium and a secret wireless apparatus was discovered on a German store in Brussels.

Fighting has evidently occurred on the Russo-German frontier as six carloads of German prisoners were reported to have passed through Vilna today on their way to the Russian frontier.

Russians have concentrated a considerable army in Finland thus disposing of German reports of the landing of a German army corps.

Bulgaria apparently is mobilizing all her forces, as she announces, to prevent violation of her neutrality.

The United States diplomatic officials in Europe have the further task since yesterday of looking after French interests in Austria and Austrian interests in France, following France's declaration of war on Austria.

A state of war has been declared in the southern provinces of Holland.

Russian funds seized in German banks amount to $25,000,000.

The German cruisers Goeben and Breslau are still at large in the Mediterranean, according to reports.

England is said by the London Times to have between 500,000 and 600,000 men under arms with the reserves.

Aviators are at work constantly on the frontiers of France and Germany endeavoring to observe the concentrating of the respective armies.

GERMANS YET UNABLE TO CAPTURE FORTS AT LIEGE IN THE ALSATIAN CAMPAIGN

Dispatches Agree That Belgians Are Still In Possession—Much Bravery Shown In Attack

By Associated Press.

London, August 11.—The Paris correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says a dispatch from the Netherlands announces that the Germans occupy Tongres, a town ten miles north of Liege. The place has been abandoned by the Belgians. German engineers are building a second bridge across the river.

Dispatches to the Times from the Hague and to the Telegraph from Maastricht, Holland, sent under yesterday's date, agree that the struggle for the possession of the forts at Liege was going on continuously and giving rise to terrible scenes of bloodshed and heroism. At noon the dispatches say that the Germans were making fierce efforts to silence the forts nearest the city proper, and the defenders were gallantly holding out against almost constant bombardment.

A news dispatch from Brussels says it is officially announced that the German loss in Belgium in the Liege fighting, was 2000 dead, 20,000 wounded and 9,700 prisoners.

BELIEVED GERMAN PLANS TO CROSS BELGIUM WERE FORMULATED 6 WEEKS AGO

By Associated Press.

Brussels, Aug. 11.—The Germans made a desperate attack on Fort Seraign, south of Liege, Sunday night and were repulsed with heavy loss. It is estimated that 800 Germans were killed within an area of half a square mile. A bridge which the Germans were crossing was shattered by the fire from the fort.

The Germans attempted the assault with great courage. Some of the dead were found directly in front of the barbed wire fencing that surrounds the fort. It is reported that Prince William of Litta and his son, who were killed, were

Paris Dispatch Tells Of German Forces Being Driven Back From Occupied Territory

By Associated Press.

Paris, August 11.—A large force of Germans on Sunday night attacked the French advance guard which had pushed forward on Cernay and Muehlhausen. Before this attack the commander of the French troops had quit Muehlhausen and assembled his troops in the rear of the town. He quickly put his forces in a fighting line and stopped the advance of the Germans who, according to French reports, were superior in number. The action of the French were declared to have been brilliant, and it was claimed that they remain masters of northern Alsace.

There have been numerous movements of German troops toward Morhange, twenty miles southeast of Metz in the region of Elamont in Muerthe-Et-Moselle. An attack on Rogersville and Habenville was attempted by the German force, but failed because the French were supported by cannon.

It is officially announced that the French troops around Stincourt in the department of Meure forced the German cavalry to retreat although the latter was supported by artillery.

charging at the head of 100 German soldiers. Their bodies were buried near the fort.

Military authorities here assert that the German cavalry division were designated to make a raid on Brussels, with the object, it was believed of either levying war contributions or seizing the treasury. It was argued that they evidently reckoned on not meeting any Belgian resistance.

As evidence that the German plans to traverse Belgian territory were known to well-informed Germans here it was pointed out that a celebrated chateau in Belgium belonging to a German prince was emptied six weeks ago. All the silver plate and works of art were taken to Germany.

TRICKS PLAYED BY BELGIANS

New Information Bureau Established at London Gives Out Details of Fighting

By Associated Press.
London, Aug. 11.—The new admiralty and war office information bureau established by the government, started work this morning. Its first announcement was as follows: "Two cavalry divisions are in the vicinity of Tongres to the north of Liege. Three German corps are still opposite Liege and other German troops are reported to be entrenching along the line of the River Albert. The large German force is moving through the Duchy of Luxembourg and its advance troops are now at the Belgian frontier. German patrols have been reported near Marche and Arlon.

"Several individual soldiers belonging to German patrols have been captured both in France and Belgium. In all cases they were reported to be short of food, both for men and horses and to have made no resistance. The British consul general, Shanghai reports that no British vessels have been pursued or molested.

Holland's Fears Allayed
"A report from The Hague, Holland, states that public opinion in that country has been allayed since the publication of Great Britain's attitude respecting the neutrality of the Netherlands. It is stated the Germans lost 800 killed before Liege, but this is unconfirmed. A report states that the principal Liege forts still are holding out, although some of the smaller forts have been captured by the Germans.

"The bombardment of the fortifications by the Germans is proceeding without intermission. On one occasion a fort apparently had been silenced but when German infantrymen advanced to attack it a hail of bullets was poured into them so suddenly and effectively that they retired with heavy loss. The German attackers who are constantly being reinforced displayed great courage. It is stated that 120,000 men of the German army are engaged in the attack on Liege. Refugees from that city describe the conditions as terrible. Many houses have been damaged or burned.

Russian Poland Campaign
"The Austro-Hungarian advance from Cracow in Austrian Galicia toward Kielce, in Russian Poland, is reported to be in progress. At the same time are said to be advancing from Rvono up the valley of the River Stry, toward Lemberg, the Galician capital. The Bulgarian government has issued a credit of $10,000,000 for mobilization expenses in addition to a previous credit of $30,000,000 for armament."

CASUALTY LISTS WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED IN FRANCE

By Associated Press.
Paris, Aug. 11.—In order to prevent the German army staff obtaining an inkling of the movement of French troops the French government has forbidden the publication of casualty lists. An special office will be opened in the center of Paris where inquiries made by the families of the soldiers will be answered.

BATTLESHIP'S WRECKAGE ON COAST OF CALIFORNIA

Part Of Cabin Of English Vessel Picked Up—German Man Of War Sighted In Vicinity

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, August 11.—More wreckage from a British war vessel which today is established to have been a man-of-war was cast up by the early flood tide in the neighborhood of the south shore life saving station today. Two white wooden cabin doors were found bearing on bright brass plates, one the legend "navigation officer," and the other, "gunner."

A German man of war with two stacks and three military masts was sighted three miles outside the Golden Gate at ten a. m. today. Taken in connection with the finding of the wreckage of a British warship her presence has significance. She is believed to be either the Leipsic or Nuremberg.

May Be Wreck of English Gunboat

By Associated Press.

Ottawa, August 11.—"The wreckage cast up by the tide at San Francisco is not part of the Rainbow; of that, we are certain," declared the naval office today. It was thought the wreckage might be from the Shearwater or the Algeriane, small British gunboats, as there is considerable wood in both of them.

CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION

Ferguson Announces There Will Be No Compromise With Former Senator

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 11.—Welcoming addresses and responses occupied the first hour or so of the State Democratic convention when it met at noon and nothing had been accomplished up to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The most interesting of the many rumors afloat this morning was that if Senator Bailey found the outlook favorable he would be a candidate for the Senate when the first vacancy would be his opponent.

Ferguson stated this morning that there would be no compromise with Senator Bailey on the resolutions offered by the latter. He said he had prepared a draft of the platform at his home and that Governor Colquitt had agreed to it, although the governor at first did not consider that it was sufficiently complimentary to his administration.

The Lane-McLemore contest for congressman at large was reopened this morning and Lane left today for Austin, stating that he would take court action.

Jerome Shield of San Angelo, was elected sergeant-at-arms of the convention.

It was learned that Senator Bailey will press the resolutions he has prepared, particularly those opposing national woman's suffrage. He will also urge his free raw material plank and his plank opposing large campaign expenditures; the adoption of the latter is considered probable.

It was impossible to ascertain her identity.

"The Eyes of the World"

Harold Bell Wright's sixth consecutive success and the greatest novel he has yet written. The setting is one of Southern California's cities among orange groves and the surrounding mountains. The story is more romantic than "The Shepherd of the Hills." Sibyl Andros, the mountain girl, is the loveliest, sweetest, daintiest heroine Mr. Wright has had. "The Eyes of the World" will have a tremendous influence for cleaner and more purposeful books. All lovers of fiction will be grateful to the author for this powerful blow at the present day evils in art and literature.

More Common Sense Needed In Supplying One's Wardrobe Needs

New York, Aug. 8.—How few women realize the economy of a wisely planned wardrobe. Instead, they allow themselves to purchase each garment in a haphazard manner. This is the cause of more worries, than failures and more heartaches, than women realize. A woman usually receives but little preparation to fit her for managing a home. She takes it for granted that because her mother did it and her grandmother did it, that she, also, will be able to do it—when the time comes! This same lack of forethought extends to a woman's wardrobe. Clothes she must have, and pretty ones, and she buys, regardless of whether or no, a thing is suited to her particular style or figure. Some special occasion arises which requires a gown, lacking in her wardrobe. Thereupon she rushes from shop to shop, finally buying (as her time is limited) something which costs more than she intended. The dress has to be altered; this again depletes her pocket book; and as a finale she realizes that the hastily bought, hastily altered gown did fairly well for the affair for which she bought it, but it is too elaborate for some occasions, too perishable for economy, and last, but not least, that it does not suit her style.

Another, insidious, deceitful and crafty enemy to the proper wardrobe, and to that feeling of well being which is associated with being smartly and suitably gowned, is the unwise use of the bargain-counter. Its temptations are responsible for many an ill-chosen outfit. Money that should be saved for some really good thing is spent on something which is cheap, but has no value in the specific wardrobe. It may be a collar which is worth 50 cents and you get it for 25; but you have no dress with which to wear it; it may be a belt that is not appropriate or a pair of shoes the wrong color, or an array of conspicuous stockings when the frocks and shoes to suit are lacking. Colors, fabrics and accessories are constantly changing, and the temptation of getting something for little or nothing is a feminine characteristic much catered to by the wily storekeeper wishing to get rid of his stock. In other and shorter words, system and thought must be applied to the wardrobe. The few absolutely necessary clothes suited to the occasions which your position in life calls for are all that the well-dressed woman's wardrobe should contain; then, when the styles change, you are not forced to wear out of date frocks. In every gathering of well-dressed women, mingling freely, unconsciously, with eye gratify, among the loveliest styles, is the language of 1890. Not quite so tight to be sure, but with seamed and fitted back, and buttoning snugly down the front. Wide colored poplin is used for the attractive model illustrated, with collars and cuffs of white satin. The back is fitted, but the fronts are unseamed except under the arm. The lower line of the waist is conservatively long, fitting closely over a skirt with a snug-fitting, long tunic. The pleated lower section of this skirt gives ample fullness. To finish the stand-a-way collar is a narrow, black moiré ribbon tie, with flowing ends. The large hat in saffron effect is well suited to the costume with which it is worn, and accents the trimly picturesque effect of the costume. The day-time dresses are often so low-cut that they seem most inconspicuous to those brought up to the idea that décolleté gowns should not be worn until after six o'clock, any more than a man's dress suit should be worn before then. But the ways of arriving at these low neck dresses are like observing the letter of the law. The satin slip is cut very low, but is worn with a long sleeve bodice of lace or marble, thin and transparent, which is cut high enough, however, to cover the neck. Although color is conspicuous in the shirt, stockings and hat of the tennis costume, in the lining of the cape coat, or in the development of the embroidered afternoon dress, there is no more striking costume than the all-white gown worn with a white hat, white shoes, white gloves, and even white veil.

The long straight tunic has taken a prominent place, with the over-waists and long-waists, in taffeta, satin, lace and net. The second illustration shows a late summer dress of white taffeta and Margot lace with craquelin net top. This net is made of the thread in an irregular mesh which remains one of the crackle or old porcelain or Chinese pottery, and is extremely good in the net top faces so extremely fashionable this season. The yoke to this dress is of the Margot lace with the sleeves of the plain craquelin net. A wide pleated flounce of Margot edged craquelin net is attached to a taffeta yoke, and has extended fronts which tie in the back like the sash ends of a child's old-fashioned pinnet. The under skirt is also of taffeta. A sunning little tunic entirely covered with flowers, and having a white, white, standing, saffron upright in the front, gives a touch of imperious charm to the costume. Black or white, and black and white are worn considerably by the smartest dressed women. In fact the late summer proves to have a growing fondness for the magpie colors. Looking up and down Fifth Avenue one sees a dotting of black and white with just enough color thrown in to add spice to an otherwise monotonous of color. Wide crushed girdles, buttoning up the back or front, give the baguette of feet to a dress, and are decidedly the rage. In silk, or in the same cloth as the dress, they are effective. As an addition to an old dress which needs a new touch to bring it up to date they are excellent. A straight wide belt of moiré is an excellent addition to your white frock of crepe or organza. As a last addition to the summer clothes are white silk stockings with sprays of flowers painted on the front, extending up five or six inches from the instep. In wild roses, pink or yellow, these are dainty to wear with white pumps and sheer organza or net dresses. One of the secrets of being well dressed in the hot summer weather is to be always immaculate. With a freshly laundered frock, white shoes and a becoming hat the day may be faced with equanimity whether it brings weal or woe.

GERMANY'S FLEET AWAITING CHANGE TO ATTACK RUSSIA Not Believed Any Naval Engagement Has Taken Place—Russia Concentrating Forces By Associated Press. Stockholm, Aug. 11.—The Swedish steamer Ruberg which arrived here Monday night from Raumo, England reported she had not seen a single warship in the Alend archipelago, nor anywhere else. Her captain was told that the Russian fleet had not met the German fleet at all but was waiting in the inner part of the Gulf of Finland for a suitable opportunity to start an action. The Russian are concentrating their troops at all important points along the Gulf of Finland especially at Helsinki on the north side of the entrance to the Gulf and at Sveaborg and Koping in Russia's considerable force reported to number 100,000 men. A pier half a mile long in the harbor Hango was blown up by mistake. The commander who had been ordered to prepare for the possible destruction of the pier hanged himself upon discovering that he had acted prematurely. The Ruberg had no news from the Baltic. SUFFRAGETTE "DENIAL DAY" SUGGESTIONS POURING IN New York, Aug. 11.—Suggestions for the best way to observe suffrage "denial day" on Saturday, today poured into local headquarters. The same kind of suggestions today were pouring into suffrage headquarters in Chicago, Denver, and coast cities. The idea is for every believer in advocate of suffrage for women in the United States to sacrifice some one thing next Saturday and send the money that would have been spent to suffrage headquarters to be diverted as the sinews of war in the fight for the ballot. A fund of $50,000 is the goal toward which suffrage leaders are working. To the Eastern women who suggest the best and most successful method of observing "denial day" will be given a prize. Instead of suggestions, a score or more of wealthy Eastern suffrage workers and advocates today sent checks totaling several thousands of dollars. Sore On Sore, Other Remedies Won't Cure. A hot-headed boy with a painted dream—
Springtime's promise and life in the bud!
With his youthful brag of death for the flag,
As flags were vamped to lead on blood!
Tis for his kind that the eagles scream!

Two Chancellors wrangling over a patch
Of land, who play on the pride of state.
And a country's need for their lying greed—
But how will they look God in the face
Who fight their battles with never a scratch?

An aged King on a tottering throne
His dead behind him and death before,
With little to choose if he win or lose,
A blank in history, but for war—
Ah, such are the demon's very own!

And the sober-minded who dare not shrink,
Perforce or fearing to seem afraid,
Must harvest the spoil of their barren toil;
The image of God, defiled, betrayed
While the war-fends laughs for his handiwork!

MISSIONARY MEETING AND PLEASANT SURPRISE SUPPER AT M. E. CHURCH

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church held a very pleasant and profitable business and social session at the church Monday afternoon. The members met at 4:30 for the business session and program and later the men came and all united in picnic supper. There were about forty present and the evening was spent in social visiting and in planning future activities. This is a growing organization of the church and such occasions as this is indicative of great good to those participating.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY FOR MRS. ANDERSON SATURDAY

Saturday afternoon the ladies of the First M. E. church accorded one of their members, Mrs. A. E. Anderson a most delightful surprise party, in remembrance of her birthday, which occurred on that date. A short time before the appointed hour the ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. W. A. Buchanan and went from there to the home of the honoree. So secretly had they made their plans that they took Mrs. Anderson quite by storm, the affair being all the more delightful by reason of its being an entire surprise. After the first happy moments of surprise on the party of the honoree were over all settled down to the complete enjoyment of the afternoon. Musical selections by Miss Grace, daughter of the honoree, and others were enjoyed and conversation was a general amusement. The ladies had brought along their refreshments, and ice cream and assorted cake was served to the following: Mesdames C. C. Smith, E. G. Cook, Keyes, Frey, T. C. Thornberry, Hunter, C. E. #### At The Theaters

The Gem.
A two reel Vitaphone comedy, "Too Many Husbands" is showing at the Gem today, heading the bill. Sidney Drew is starred and is supported by a large cast. The situation of the story is not unusual. Arthur Crane pretends to have married his uncle's wife to visit him and to see his wife. In desperation, he borrows his host's wife—a plot most conventional but the results are far more comical than the average. Of course matters are finally straightened out and the story ends happily for all.

The Lamar Alibi.
Hayes and Hayes opened a three days engagement here last night in a shining and singing comedy act. The big, tall fellow and the dainty little girl proved to have an amusing "killing," more pleasing than the usual. The songs on a whole were very good and the skit contained several puns and some back talk that bore no age marks whatever.

Home Run Baker—the hero of the "best world's series"—will give a demonstration of how his mighty bat tumbled the hapless Giants last fall tonight. The baseball star will not appear in flesh and blood, but as the star of Kalem's great two part baseball drama, "Home Run Baker's Double." You needn't be a fan to enjoy this picture because a mighty interesting story in which Baker is the central figure will hold the interest every minute of the time that he picture is on the screen. Home Run Baker saves the life of Marguerite Johnson, daughter of a millionaire, thereby winning her gratitude. Marguerite is an ardent fan. Wallace, a crook, learns of the situation and plans to make capital of it. Wiring a friend, Chick Day, who closely resembles the great baseball star, Wallace gets him to ask Marguerite for a loan. Baker learns of the plot and dashes from the ball ground just after he has smashed out a home run. Arriving at Marguerite's residence to learn that she has been kidnapped, Baker infiltrates the plot. After Wallace and Day conspire to kidnap Marguerite's father who is the head of the new league. What results brings this picture to an exciting climax.

The Majestic.
The eleventh of the Lucille Love series is showing here today. When Lucille escapes from Hugo Aubisque's Mexican ranch, where she was held prisoner, she falls into a veritable hotbed of revolutionary activity. While hiding from a troop of rebel soldiers, she is captured and taken to a Mexican plotting against an American ranchman. Out of sympathy for her countrymen she tries to them and tells them of the danger which threatens. Instantly the cowboys fly to arms and meet the advancing soldiers. In the height of a fierce battle, with shrieking and bombs bursting about her, Lucille is snatched from her horse by a Mexican and carried away from the scene of battle to a strange hacienda, which is used as a base of operations by the Mexican troops in the vicinity.

An instant after Lucille is locked in a prison room she looks out of her window and sees an aviator approaching. In that automobile is Hugo Leontine, and with a sinking heart she realizes that it was through his activity that she is again in his power. In a spirit of hopeless desperation which lends her the strength of a man, the girl wields a heavy sledge in the air and strikes her Mexican guard senseless. In order to perfect her plan of escape, which she so suddenly conceived, she dresses herself in the Mexican clothes. Before she can leave the room, however, a second soldier enters and it is not until she disables him that she makes her escape from the house. Once outside she jumps into Loubeque's automobile and dashes away. In the meantime the Mexican position has been attacked by federals. With soldiers moving in two directions during the progress of battle, Lucille glides the machine toward the American border. She is hotly pursued by a detachment of cavalry, but she outdistances the horsemen and arrives at the American military headquarters in safety. The officers listen to her story and aid her with money and clothes. Now that she has thrown off Loubeque's power, Lucille's first thought is of the papers which she hid in the spy's San Francisco home, and she sets out to get possession of them. While en route to San Francisco by train she is recognized by Thompson, one of Loubeque's principal confederates. Thompson telegraphs Loubeque of the girl's movements and is instructed by Loubeque to allow Lucille to enter his home, but when she is inside to hold her prisoner. Little suspecting that the spy knows of her movements, Lucille disguises herself and enters Loubeque's house to get the papers. She finds the papers, but a moment before she leaves the room in which she is in hiding sinks to the cellar.

The Victoria

"Desert Thieves," a two reel Broncho is showing here today. David Graham, proprietor, learned from Owanono, the Indian girl the secret of the lost gold mine. She showed him nuggets from the place, whispering to him where the mine lay. Graham easily swindled the girl away from her—for the Indian girl loved him and when he went back to his claim he forgot her entirely. One day a woman came to his cabin with a pitiful story—her husband was dying of thirst in the desert and she implored him to go with her to Jim Blake's rescue. A flask of whiskey poured down his throat put her into Joe Blake, but Graham did not realize he had been duped until the blow which had knocked him senseless. When he came to himself the nuggets which he always carried with him were gone. He staggered to his feet. The

The Empress.
The Empress Theatre's feature offering for today is a three reel special, "For the Love of a Man," featuring Helen Hesperia, a Broadway star who has leaped into the limelight for the movies. Miss Hesperia's characterization of the western girl in the above feature is sure to please the most fastidious, the story gives her ample opportunities as it is laid in the South African gold fields, and has thrilling climaxes running the entire three reels. A gold comedy picture will liven up the program to its usual high standard.

CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES

We would venture to advise those who love an argument to let the matter of who started the European war.

In graceful dignified words, Hon. Thomas H. Ball speaks of the result. He is not the first man of ability and popularity to encounter such an experience.

Dwight Leavelle of Dallas went down in defeat as a candidate for reelection of the Legislature.

The curtailing of campaign expenses in the State is necessary and the movement now on foot is likely to bring about the needed change in this direction.

NOT THIS TIME

The diversion hoped for by the heads of the trust syndicate has come to naught, but this time the United States government authorities can pursue their policy of watchful waiting without stopping the arm and hammer legislative process at Washington.

Meanwhile, the administration pushes the trust measures in the congress. There is some indication favorable delay is sought by some legislators, but not one of them dares make an open fight.

Naturally those best entrenched will take advantage of all opportunity for delay. But the great house of Morgan had to topple into the wagon of reform and progress, and even Standard Oil, the mischief hog of them all, strong because of gobbled millions and uninterrupted sway, must soon obey and respect the law of the land.

he boys had been in a pool room up town the same afternoon and had words and blows, but he said he had thought nothing further about it and considered the affair settled until he heard the trouble in front of his house.

Dr. M. G. Walker stated that he knew the deceased, but slightly; he found Delmar on the bed at his home with four severe wounds; one on the left side below the sixth rib about four inches long which had cut one rib directly in two, another about two inches long on the stomach, and still another dangerous cut on the back.

Boy's Mother Testifies

The third witness for the state was the dead boy's mother whose testimony agreed, insofar as the circumstances were concerned, with her husband's.

When asked if she did not beat the defendant across the head with the stick which she admitted she had in her hand, she denied it in no uncertain terms.

The train stopped here twenty minutes, the journey being resumed at noon. Miss Alice S. Axson, Miss Carrie Bee Axson and Randolph Axson, cousins of Mrs. Wilson, joined the president's party here. Absolute quiet reigned in the station while the train stood here. Since the party left Washington very few persons have seen the president. To the latter he expressed appreciation for the sympathy of the people along the route.

CULINARY HINTS.

A cheap cut of lamb taken from the breast which weighs about a pound and a half makes an economical meal.

Put the meat into boiling salted water and simmer for two hours, with an onion and a stalk of celery added to the water. When tender remove the bones and roll, tie with a string and place in the broiler for a few minutes to brown. Serve with peas or lima beans.

Apples cored and the center filled with bananas cut in strips to fit in the opening, sugar and butter added and a little water, bake while baking, makes a very pleasant way of varying the well-known baked apple.

Frozen whipped cream, sweetened and flavored then packed for several hours in ice and salt to freeze, served with bits of preserved ginger or a cherry or two is a delicious dessert.

When serving pumpkin pie for extra occasions, heap on whipped cream which has been flavored richly with cream cheese or grated cheese of good flavor.

Pineapple Fritters.—Beat an egg until light, add a cup of milk, a pinch of salt, a tablespoonful of olive oil and sift in a cupful of flour; mix till smooth and glossy, then let stand in a cool place for an hour. Add a teaspoonful of baking powder and drop in a few pieces of pineapple, when they are well covered drop into smoking hot fat. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

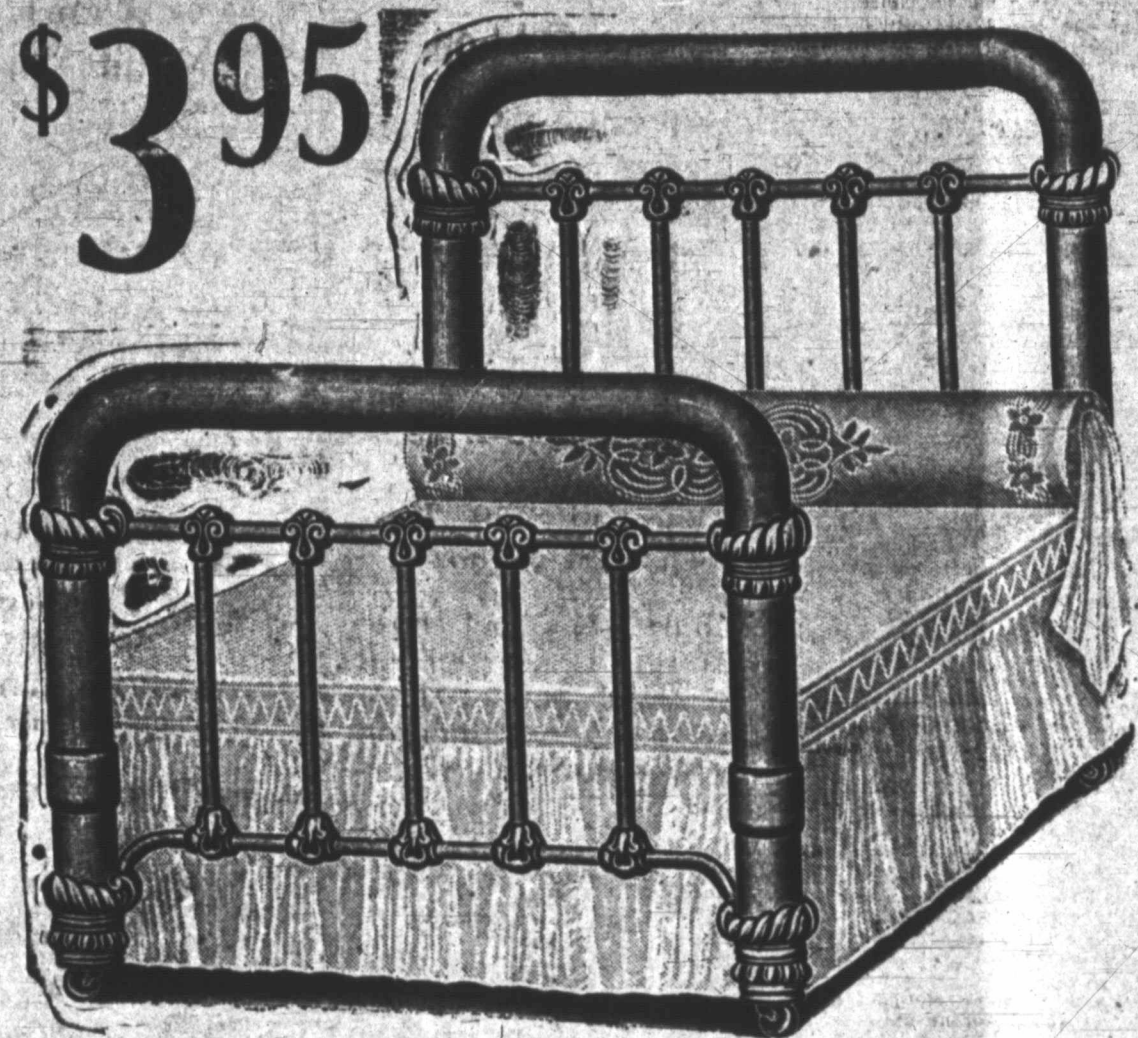

Why not recognize that half the refreshment we have for our food is in the manner of serving and garnishing? The housewife will say she hasn't time for frill on dishes; but often she is the very one who puts too many on her daughter's clothing.

Delicious Mocha Cake.—Cream two tablespoons of butter and add three-fourths of a cup of sugar, one egg yolk, three-quarters of a cup of milk, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla, one teaspoonful of baking powder sifted with one cup of flour, and two squares of grated chocolate. Mix well, fold in the whites of the egg well beaten. Bake in two layers. Beat together a cup of granulated sugar, two tablespoons of butter, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla and two tablespoonfuls of strong coffee. Spread on one layer and cover with the other.

Market Reports

Chicago Futures.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Wheat prices broke quickly today under a rush of selling on the part of commission houses. The fact that no immediate outlet could be seen for exports made buying power rather limited and a tendency to direct attention chiefly to the prospect of supplies accumulating was in evidence. Liverpool dispatches said that local crops were sufficient for present needs. After opening three-quarters to two cents higher, prices here suffered a moderate decline. Rain eased the corn market. Offers of reserves from country sources led also to bearish feeling. The opening, which ranged from one-quarter off to a three-eighths advance, was followed by a decided setback all around. Oats sagged with other grain. At the decline, however, there was considerable buying on resting orders. Wheat closed weak; corn closed unsettled. Prices: Wheat: September, 94 1/2; December, 100 1/2. Corn: September, 73 1/2; December, 69 5/8. Oats: September, 41 3/4; December, 44 7/8.

AMERICAN OFFICER DISCUSSES OUTLOOK

REAR ADMIRAL ALFRED T. MAHAN IS INTERVIEWED ON EUROPEAN SITUATION

ARMAMENT OF GREAT POWERS

Believes Russia is in Much Better Military Shape Than is Generally Conceded

New York, August 11.—Rear Admiral Alfred T. Mahan, U. S. N., retired, a leading authority on the naval affairs of the world, in addition to pointing out in advance of England's declaration of war at England must oppose Germany, gave some interesting details in his forecast of the probable action of the fleets of Europe. Mahan holds the usual view that Italy must join the war within a week's time, not as a partner of the triple alliance, but as an ally of France and Russia. Italy must take this step, he says, and hold the Austrians in check for the salvation of the Balkans which are already threatened by Turkey and sure to be the prey of the Turks unless the Austrian navy can be kept from the Adriatic gulf. The complete interview as given at Juque, N. Y., to the New York Evening Post, follows: "The aggressive insistence of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia, taken with the concession by the latter of all the demands except those too humiliating to national self-respect, indicate that the real cause of the war is other than set forth by the ultimatum. "Knowing from past experiences how the matter must be viewed by Russia, it is incredible that Austria would have ventured on the ultimatum unless assured before hand of the consent of Germany in it. The inference is irresistible that the substance of the ultimatum was the pretext for a war directly determined on as soon as plausible occasion offered.

"The cause of this protermination is to be found in the growing strength of Russia on recovering from her war with Japan. With the known deficiencies of French armaments, which were recently admitted, the moment was auspicious for striking down France and Russia before they regained strength. The motives are to be found in Austria's apprehension of the growing Slav power in the South and that of German concerning Russia on the east.

England's Position. "Great Britain, as the third member of the entente, finds herself in the position of Prussia in 1866, when she permitted Napoleon to strike down Austria unaided and was herself struck down the following year at Sedan. Or that of France in 1869, when she stood by while Prussia crushed Austria, and was herself overwhelmed in 1870.

Germany's procedure is to overwhelm at once by concentrated preparation and impetus momentum, if she fails in this she is less able to sustain prolonged aggression, as was indicated in the Franco-Prussian war during and after the siege of Paris.

"The British fleet which is superior to that of Germany, has the power to prevent all commerce under the German flag, and by blockade, to close all ports in this side of the world by Germany, except those emptying into the Baltic. The British fleet is not strong enough to divide for blockade in both Baltic and North seas. The Rhine, emptying through neutral Holland, can not be blockaded.

"If the Great German rush proves decisive or prolonged, the financial pressure thus in the power of Great Britain may determine the issue or may force the German fleet to fight, in which case the issue will be determined by battle.

If Germany Wins by Land. "If Germany succeeds in downing both France and Russia, she gains a respite by land, which may enable her to build up her sea force equal or superior to that of Great Britain.

"In my judgment, a right appreciation of the situation should determine Great Britain to declare war at once. Otherwise her entente engagements, whatever the letter, will be in spirit violated, and she will earn the entire distrust of all probable future allies.

"Italy likewise owes it to herself to declare war against her recent allies, in co-operation with France, and with Greece, reinforced by the two American battlehips just purchased, she can doubtless maintain the balance of maritime power in the Mediterranean and prevent the Turks giving their aid of support to Germany, keep quiet the Bulgarians, if these are so ill-advised as to purpose a diversion in favor of Austria, and, in brief, consolidate the opposition of the Balkan states to Austria-Hungary, whose ambitions are notoriously inconsistent with those of Italy.

Admiral Mahan elaborated on his statements regarding the probable operation of the British and German fleets. "Undoubtedly, the North Sea will be the theatre of the naval battle," he said. "The German fleet, so far as we know, steamed immediately from Kiel to the North Sea, ready of strike. For a long time it has been the German policy to keep her navy ready and virtually alerted for action, and we may expect any minute, and the best word of a great engagement, and should expect the British fleet to win.

"The Kiel canal will undoubtedly be used in Germany's naval strategy, as affording access to the North and Baltic seas, but very life and the neutral shipping, already taxed to its limit can not bear the additional burdens of supplying Germany.

"The suggestion made that Germany might demonstrate with her fleet in the Baltic is not tenable. The Russian fleet with only eight pre-dreadnaughts and no dreadnaughts and battle cruisers—however much of an absurdity that type may be—is negligible. Germany could achieve nothing with her fleet in the Baltic, for it is a principle of warfare that under modern conditions no nation can afford to waste its navy in operations against fortifications.

Submarines and Aircraft. "As for the questions of the science of naval warfare to be answered in this final test of all theories of war, Rear Admiral Mahan said that the most important, undoubtedly, would be those of the increased efficiency of submarines and torpedoes, and of aircraft.

"And believe me," he said, "the English fleet, which sailed with sea orders, is at present in the North sea, with the purpose of being just out of the effective range of submarines. I do not know definitely, what the effective cruising range of such submarines is, but I would estimate it to be 200 miles. To accomplish that distance they must travel for a long way upon the surface, and so be in sight of the scouts which the British fleet, of course, has posted.

"The question of the use of the increased efficiency of the submarine is assuredly one of the most important to be tested in actual warfare. They had, of course, no opportunity in the Russo-Japanese war, but in the present confined theatre of operations should be seen at their best. I do not share Sir Percy Scott's view of the passing power of the submarine to the complete effacement of the battleship.

"The torpedoes, as used in the Russo-Japanese war were utilized chiefly to lead a ship to ship almost silenced already by gun fire, and for such purposes were effective. But torpedo boats are night craft. They can not be effective in daylight against modern guns. Germany apparently does not place much faith in them.

"But most of these problems of the technical science of warfare are too obscure for the general observer. They are really even too technical for the experts to agree on. As General Sherman said: 'One may demonstrate something in maneuvers, but you really need the element of human fear to be conclusive.'

"The mooted question of the big guns will also be tested. For my own part, I have always believed that the volume of fire was the determining factor. The number of hits, and not single shots is the most important element. I believe, however, all those things we shall soon know, perhaps any moment.

THE CRUCIFIXION OF JESUS WILL BE SHOWN TONIGHT

At the Wichita Theatre today part III of the photo drama of Creation concludes with a wonderful film illustrative of some of the special incidents of the Saviour's life down to His crucifixion. The latter is faithfully portrayed, wonderfully realistic, but devoid of that crudeness which has marked so many of the attempts to represent the crucifixion scene. Indeed, the photo drama of Creation is a fine entertainment, evidently designed for the cultured.

The burial of Jesus and His resurrection are also faithfully portrayed. The pictures are works of art, beautifully colored, hence the effect. The influence left in the mind of the visitor is uplifting, spiritually as well as deeply interesting. All who have witnessed the three plays are amazed and are wondering whether or not part IV will maintain the same high standard. The management declares that it will—that many have pronounced part IV a proper climax to the drama. It is announced as portraying the mission of the Church from Pentecost to the present time and prospectively a thousand years into the future, along the pathway outlined in the Holy Scriptures. Part IV will begin Thursday of this week and will continue every afternoon and evening for two days. The terms are still the same—seats free and no collection.

FALLS FROM TRAIN, CRUSHED TO DEATH

W. Y. CARROLL IS KILLED BY DENVER FREIGHT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

"YOU MAY NEVER SEE ME AGAIN"

Words To Wife Before Leaving Home Indicate He Had Premonition of Doom

When W. Y. Carroll, a Wichita Falls carpenter killed his wife and children good-bye after supper last night telling them that he was going to Texarkana and that they might never see him again, he had little thought how literally his words were to come true. Two hours later Carroll's mangled and lifeless body was picked from the railroad track near the Fort Worth & Denver water tank. He had fallen between two freight cars, and death was almost instantaneous. Both of his legs were crushed completely from his body which was otherwise mutilated.

A brakeman on the train had seen him fall and at once signalled for the engineer to stop the train. Carroll's brother, L. N. Carroll, a switchman employed by the Denver, who was riding to the yard limits with his brother had missed him almost as soon as he fell and when the train stopped felt a premonition of his brother's fate.

The body was carried to E. G. Hill's undertaking establishment and was later removed to Carroll's home at 1202 Scott avenue.

Carroll was forty-three years old and leaves a widow and six children and a father and mother who made their home with him. Another brother, E. N. Carroll also lives here.

ELECTRA BOND ELECTION ORDER MAY BE REVOKED

Not Believed That Proceedings in Connection With It Will Stand Test of Courts

The county commissioners will probably issue an order at the present session revoking their order declaring the result of the road bond election in precinct No. 4. Injunction proceedings were filed yesterday to stop the issuance of bonds under this order. The commissioners believe the proceedings will not stand the test, but do not blame themselves. The petitioners for the election employed an attorney and the court in ordering the election and in the later proceedings followed the instructions of this attorney.

TWO NEW FACTORIES SAID TO BE IN PROSPECT HERE

Details Not Announced But Outlook is Declared Favorable—Directors Meet Today

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce were told by Chairman Frank Kell of the committee on manufacturing this morning about preliminary negotiations looking toward the location of two big manufacturing enterprises here. Neither has advanced to a stage where a public announcement can be made but the directors were so well pleased with what had already been done that they gave the committee authority to proceed along the lines already followed. Mr. Kell told the directors that one of these plants would mean as much as two new railroads.

Authority was given the president to appoint delegates to the Meridian Road meeting at Galveston this month.

OUR NATION'S SORROW

Today the bells toll out the solemn requiem of death. The leading lady of the land has passed "to that undiscovered bourne." Each one's heart is beating with sympathy for the bereaved.

There are some it is true, who are, or who affect to be indifferent to the disposal of their mortal remains, yet, even they who cherish this unconcern respecting themselves, will confess to a sentiment of reverence and affection towards the dust of a departed loved one. They require a sacred burial attended by the rites of religion, and the signs of human sympathy, and they mark the grave by the willow or the rose, the simple headstone, or the grand and polished MEMORIAL.

Why not? There is nothing so great as human SYMPATHY, nothing so enduring as Human LOVE and nothing dearer than the memory of the dead.

We remember them to your satisfaction.
