Farmers Expected to Plow Up Much Wheat

F. W. Reeve has been spending part of the week at his farm engaged in plowing under some of his wheat, which he says cannot make a crop. He proposes to plant the land to pinto beans.

Persons traveling the highway between Friona and Muleshoe report that many farmers along that route are turning their wheat under in preparation for other crops. It is also reported that to the north and west of Friona there will be hundreds of acres of wheat turned under, either in preparation for row crops or to be summer tilled for wheat again this fall.

Judging from these reports the wheat crop in this locality will be short hundreds of acres and thousands of bushels in yield from the acres left standing.

A Family Reunion.

J. O. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Raybon of this place went to Abernathy to spend last Sunday and take part in a family reunion of J. B. Jones and his children, with a huge dinner of all kinds of good things.

The reunion was given in honor of Mr. Jones, who is now in his 80th year, and was given at this time owing to the fact that Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Galloway and children, Katy Lou and Jim Rob, were up from their home at Georgetown.

All of Mr. Jones' daughters were present and all the sons but three, Nat, of Friona who could not attend on account of the illness of Mrs. Jones; and Henry G., who lives in California, and one other who could not be present.

There were 3 relatives, all children or grand children, present to partake of the delicious food, which was spread on one long table and served cafeteria style, each one being his own waiter.

Mr. Jones and the other guests of honor have each lived in Friona at times and have formed a long list of acquaintances and friends here, who remember them kindly.

Some Building Activities.

Friona has not been completely crushed by the financial depression which struck the country about two years ago and halted for a time practically all building activities within its borders.

This fact is being demonstrated by the fact that building operations are again in evidence with the building of the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sheets at the corner of Summitt Avenue and Sixth Street. The new addition to the R. H. Kinsley home, the Fred White home on the corner of Summitt and 11, which is nearing completion, and the beginning of a new home for Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sheets on Summitt Avenue.

Our Thanks.

We thank our many friends for their help and kindness and for the beautiful flowers during the illness and at the death of our baby, Jack Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Sloan H. Osborn.

Visiting in Oklahoma.

Little Buddy Ray Wright and his small sister, Nellie Fay, children of Mrs. Irene Wright, departed this week for an extended visit at various points in Oklahoma, with relatives and friends. Mrs. Wright is chief operator at the local telephone exchange.

Holding Interesting Meeting.

A series of religious meetings with illustrated lectures and sermons have been in progress during the last week and this at the Capitol theatre with Rev. J. F. Anderson of the Adventist church in charge and doing the speaking.

Rev. Anderson is a young man of unusual ability as an orator and having full mastery of his various subjects. A large number has been in regular attendance and those who hear him seem deeply interested.

The meetings will continue until Thursday night, June 2, and his subjects will be treated as follows:

Sunday night: The sin against the Holy Ghost. Monday night, The Angel that washed only one foot. What does it mean to Friona? Tuesday night, The church of Jesus Christ. When was she set up? How can we know her? Wednesday night, In His steps, or what would Jesus do? Thursday night, The Peak Lecture—Is God particular, or will He be easy?

A Good Home Talent Play.

There will be a good home talent play given at the tent theatre by the local Junior Women's Club Wednesday night. These young ladies are well known for their ability in presenting home talent productions and those who visit this play will feel themselves well repaid for their time and money.

Mayness; Ned Blake, his private secretary, Bill Hamlin; Ichabod Buzzer, the old keeper of the lighthouse, O. F. Lange; Sir Arthur Chokey, a British aristocrat, Carl Maurer; Injun Jim, a bad man, Reeve Guyer; Nan, a little roustabout, Mrs. A. C. This meeting began a new study course for the club. The subject for another year will be Civil Government. A very interesting and beneficial talk on Civics was given by Rev. Cecil Matthews, pastor of the Methodist church at Lazbuddie.

After the program a delicious plate luncheon was served to 30 members and visitors.

Say Wheat Prospects Away Below Normal

Two of Friona's leading citizens, Mayor F. W. Reeve and Street Commissioner M. A. Crum, drove from Friona to Adrian and Vega Monday, returning by way of Hereford, viewing wheat crop conditions along the way.

They report the prospect decidedly blue, stating that from ten miles north of Friona on into Adrian and Vega, and from thence to within ten miles of Hereford there will be practically no wheat harvested.

Only an occasional field within that territory from present appearance will be worth the cost of harvesting, which fact will make an item in the average yield of the Panhandle wheat belt for this season, since that same territory has been noted in past years of producing a paying wheat crop if any wheat was grown in this part of the Plains country.

Sunday School Class Has Picnic.

The young people's class of the Messenger Sunday school class went to the breaks in New Mexico on a Sunday school picnic Sunday, March 15.

The day was spent taking pictures and climbing mountains. Those taking part were Jody Boston, Mary Pearl Cowan, Imogene Copeland, Eunita, Estelle, Altus and Quince Williams, Clinton, Vernon and Glenn Hudgons, Lester Myers, Rachel and Anna Terry, Mrs. Terry, Letha Chance, Meridis Wyly and a girl friend from Hereford, Wilson Wyly and Evelyn Green.

Refreshments were served at the noon hour consisting of cake, cooking, sandwiches and potato chips. All report a nice time.

Jack Dean Osborn.

Jack Dean Osborn was the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Sloan Osborn, whose home is five miles west of Friona. He was born March 1, 1932, and passed away at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, May 18; aged two months and seventeen days.

The little one had been ill for several weeks, having been taken with pneumonia, which disease apparently had been conquered and the little patient was seemingly improving when complications set in, resulting in his death.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church in Friona on Thursday, May 19, at 10:00 o'clock a. m., by the pastor, Rev. Lansdown, following which interment was made in the Friona Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn are well known in the community, and the Star joins their large circle of friends in extending sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

Good Rain Southeast Last Week.

P. B. Griffith, whose farm is a few miles southeast of Friona, was in town Saturday afternoon and stated that in his locality they have had plenty of rain.

The rain fell there the early part of last week and so wet the ground that it was barely dry enough to cultivate at that date. Mr. Griffith says crop prospects are very good in his locality.

Homeland Club Report.

The Homeland Farm Women's club met May 19 with Mrs. T. A. O'Brian.

Roll call was answered with a favorite cheese recipe, after which a demonstration on making cheese was given by Mrs. Frank Loflin.

The young man has been in very poor health for several months and at the time mentioned above suffered a slight paralytic stroke which made recovery doubtful. The many friends of the family wish for him a speedy recovery.

Guests at Messenger Home.

George C. Messenger and family, whose farm home is 11 miles northwest of Friona, were guests Sunday evening to a number of neighbors, including the three teachers of the Messenger school.

Wheat Prospects Appear Encouraging for Farmer

The following notations on the wheat situation locally and general, as gleaned from various reliable sources may be of interest to the general public and especially to wheat growers of this locality:

The only bearish news of consequence is the rainy weather over the wheat belt, but it is already a well known fact that the damage already done cannot be repaired.

Then take Russia out of the picture, removing her heavy weight of export wheat, and you have a still more bullish forecast of the future.

You can go a step further and estimate a high probability of the Soviet taking 25,000,000 from our already declining North American surplus.

Step by step wheat is moving from a position of over-production to a position of under-production. This must, by all the laws of trade, result in advancing wheat prices.

The desire of the American people to make good, to win, to triumph over obstacles, and to enjoy again the prosperous days of the past is a very potent factor in bringing back those much desired times of better prices.

Wheat may go lower, but that is uncertain.

Scan the wheat map and you will see that all but a few favored sections have suffered crop damage. Rain may make bearish talk, but they are too late to save Western wheat—the damage has already been done and this will enable wheat to complete a bull move of some dimensions during the year 1932, and may probably come about the middle of the year.

That wheat will become the most popular speculative medium, is becoming apparent every day.

Wheat is too closely connected with human life to suffer the utter depreciation that has been visited upon stocks. At present prices it is as much an investment as a speculation.

The future is bright for wheat because it has undergone its period of readjustment, over production has been forcefully reduced by Nature and by the insolvency of agriculture. It will be a long time before farmers can again over-produce.

The above notations were taken from the National Daily Wheat Market Forecaster.

Locally wheat is badly damaged and there is no discounting that fact, but nevertheless there will be a large amount of wheat marketed here this season, barring weather conditions that do not usually come at this season, such as continuous high and dry winds. Wide-spread and destructive hail storms would also further reduce the yield locally.

A few fields in this territory have been plowed and planted to row crops or cotton, and many of those still standing have been so badly damaged that the yield will barely pay for the harvest.

Other fields in this locality are looking very well and bid fair to make an average yield, especially if favored with a few more good showers of rain before harvest.

Local elevators are making the necessary arrangements for affording ample facilities for handling the crop as rapidly as it may be brought in from the fields, and Friona gives promise of again being the leading wheat market in this part of the Plains country.

Traffic Ordinance Violated Every Day

Does Friona have a traffic ordinance? It surely does. And it provides that no automobile or truck be driven upon any of the streets at a greater rate of speed than 20 miles an hour; that all drivers keep to the right side of the street when driving upon any of the streets, and all cars be parked at an angle of 40 degrees to the curb.

Is this ordinance ever violated? Yea, verily! Should the ordinance be enforced? It would surely do no harm to do so, and may avoid accident and perhaps loss of life, especially as to over rapid driving.

Only a few days ago a large truck was seen driving down Main street at a rate certainly not less than forty miles an hour, the driver keeping in the middle of the street and apparently caring nothing for whom or what might get in his way. It is doubtful if he could have stopped his truck in time to avoid accident had anything appeared in his path, even as much as a block away. The driver apparently cared not for anything that might happen in the way of an accident. He was intent on showing the people just how he could drive. There appeared to be no especial reason for such extreme haste, so far as the public could see.

There was a row of cars parked on each side of the street, thus abbreviating the driving space of the street, and the driver, holding as he did to the middle of the street, could scarcely have passed another vehicle going either way without striking it.

Any law-abiding citizen has as much right to the use of the street as another, and any person has a right to drive upon the streets or to cross them at his pleasure without danger of being run down by some ninny truck or car driver.

The above incident is only one of many that are occurring here almost daily, and our people are indeed fortunate that they have had no serious accidents thus far from the violation of this ordinance by too rapid driving on the streets, and this to say nothing of the serious inconveniences caused to people who come to town, by the flagrant violation of the parking provisions of the ordinance, for it is an annoyance, to say the least, when one parks his car at the proper angle and in the right direction, to have another come in and carelessly stop just in the rear of his car, or park from the wrong direction, thus shutting him off from free outlet to the street, when he desires to move on.

Just to call the attention of our people to the results arising from such violation of laws, all over the country, we are quoting a few statistics relative to the practice: Motor vehicle fatalities are rising again. Last year the reckless, incompetent or irresponsible driver was responsible for almost 35,000 deaths. This ghastly, nationwide massacre is destined to be not only repeated, but made worse in 1932 unless something stops the present trend. During the first two months of the year 4800 people were killed by automobiles as against 4300 in the same period in 1931, or an increase of more than ten per cent. That automobile deaths can be prevented is shown by the records of individual towns. Lowell, Mass., with over 100,000 population, went through the two months period without a single traffic fatality. Fine records were also made by St. Paul, Boston and St. Louis. But their work was offset by those other towns and cities in which safe driving was apparently the exception and not the rule. At the time the statistics were made up there were ten months left to 1932 in which to reduce or increase the accident record. The majority of drivers are competent and courteous—probably less than ten per cent causing accidents. Either these ten per cent must be cured, by the weight of public opinion or the force of law, or they must be prevented from using the streets and highways.

Mr. Walthrop, who has been attending school at Liberal, Kansas, the past term, returned to Friona last week to spend the summer with his parents.

"What's happened to the light?" you exclaim in surprise and consternation when you press a button and nothing happens.

Electric service is so uniformly good, and interruptions so infrequent the public has taken for granted this high service. Forgotten are the days when interruptions were accepted with resignation as being inevitable; the days when candles were always kept on hand "in case".

Back of this high standard of service are long years of research and experiments. With high faith in the future of the electrical industry, a determination to bring that service to the highest possible standard, and at a price that would put it within the reach of the humblest pocket-book, advantage has been taken of every improvement in the art of generating and distributing electrical energy.

Observed by the Observer.

Many interesting things may be seen about town by any one inclined to take notice of his surroundings and the accomplishments of his neighbors.

M. A. Crum has a beautiful strip of greensward along the south side of his business building on Seventh Street, which is made and kept so by his careful attention and frequent clipping and watering. Another pretty spot is that along the front of the Rockwell Bros. & Co. lumber yard and office. Mr. Lange, the manager, planted some nice shade and ornamental trees there and has constructed a neat gravel walk with a nice strip of greensward on either side of it, which adds much to the attractiveness of the premises. It was observed also that many people are so careless of other people's property and of green things growing, that they refuse to walk on the gravel, but tramp along on the middle of the green grass and clover, thus destroying its beauty. One wonders why human nature is so inclined. No one does not like green lawns or swards and chooses to tramp on his own, that is his business, but he has not right to willfully spoil that of his neighbor, who is trying to improve the beauty of the town.

Another thing observed is that Nat Jones has transferred his produce station from the C. W. Dixon building to the rear of the Key grocery where he is pleased to meet all his customers.

A little further down Main street in Block 76, we observed a neat little establishment or shop in Mrs. Shouse's new building, and stepping inside we found Roy Price comfortably seated back of the counter busily engaged in cleaning and repairing watches and spectacles as if his soul's salvation depended upon it. It looked very much like Friona is to have a real jeweler's shop—Roy says so, anyway. Did you notice those dandy posters he had out last week from the Star office? They tell the tale. Then next door is the L. S. lunch room, recently established.

I could not help observing the piles of straw hats shown in some of the shop windows, ranging in size from the diminutive size worn by Oscar Turner, manager of the Capitol theatre, to those with brims almost wide enough to shelter an entire family.

Then there are the pretty prints for dress patterns and the dainty frocks for the ladies—they sure dazzle one's eyes and no one but a blind man could fail to observe these beautiful garments. I sometimes almost wish I were a lady instead of an old man, so that I might be permitted to wear some of those beautiful garments.

There are many other things the observer has observed in the city that are really worth mentioning, but time forbids it at this time.

To Make Tax Statistics.

Hon. John G. Willacy, Texas State Tax Commissioner, is making up a list of tax statistics of the state from the various tax-paying institutions of the state, such as counties, cities, towns, independent school districts, etc., and to this end has called on the mayor of Friona for such report. Just what good it will do anybody is hard to be seen, but nevertheless it will serve as a means of keeping his long list of deputies, clerks, and stenographers busy for a little more of the time.

It may be interesting to the people of Friona to know just what their city has to report and the following was taken from the record of the city tax collector.

The total assessed valuation of the city's real estate, improvements and personal property for 1931 was $433,717. This valuation produced an assessed tax of $6,488.54. Of this total tax there remains to be collected, or in other words a delinquent list of $1,924.36, a little less than 30 per cent of taxes unpaid.

With this almost $2000 of unpaid taxes the city officials could meet all outstanding indebtedness now due, and place the city on a good financial standing for the remainder of the year by so doing. Friona citizens should make every possible effort to pay these delinquent taxes and thus show their loyalty and patriotism to their home town.

Congregational Church Notes.

There was a fair attendance at Sunday school, with an interesting session.

The worship hour was taken up with a regular preaching service, with our superintendent, Rev. L. J. Marsh of Oklahoma City, occupying the pulpit. Rev. Marsh gave one of those excellent up to date sermons for which he has an enviable reputation, followed by another at the evening service. We were pleased to have Rev. Marsh with us.

On the coming Sunday we will be favored with the presence of Rev. H. C. Mardis of Colbran, Colorado, who will preach for us both morning and evening.

Rev. Mardis is a former pastor of the local church and enjoys an enviable popularity and a wide circle of friends in Friona and community with the community at large as well as with the congregation which he served. He is spending his vacation visiting his parents at Muleshoe and is very kindly favoring us with his services on this date.

The ladies of the congregation are preparing a picnic dinner to be served at the church on that day and an invitation is extended to all friends of the church and of Mr. Mardis to attend and hear him preach and enjoy our hospitality.

A memorial program has been prepared for Sunday, but the committee will postpone that until a later date, of which notice will be given later.
