VICTORIOUS GERMANS PUSH FORWARD ON ROAD TO PARIS--RUSSIA ACTIVE IN PRUSSIA

GERMANY RUSHING TROOPS EASTWARD TO MEET CZAR

Russian Advance Is Casting Dark Shadow Across High Hopes Of Kaiser Wilhelm

By Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 29.—A dispatch from Berlin to the German embassy says:

"German forces in East Prussia commanded by Gen. Von Hindenburg have defeated in a three days battle near Gilgenburg and Ortelsburg, the Russian army which was proceeding from the river Narve and which consisted of five army corps and three cavalry divisions. The German forces in pursuit of the defeated army crossed the Russian frontier."

RUSSIANS INVEST KOENIGSBERG AND ALSO OCCUPY ALLENSTEIN

By Associated Press.

Paris, 4:10 p. m., Aug. 29.—The war office gave out the following official announcement.

"The Russian army has completely invested Koenigsberg and occupied Allenstein, both in East Prussia. The Germans continue to retreat."

RUSSIANS HAVE CONTROL OF ENTIRE DISTRICT IN PRUSSIA

By Associated Press.

Rome, via London, 12:18 p. m., Aug. 29.—The Tribune publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg which confirms reports that the Russians have invested the fortress at (name marked out, by censor) where the Germans are shut in. There are now no German armies to interfere with Russia's operations in this region. Previous dispatches would indicate that the name omitted probably is the fortress of Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

GERMANS CLAIM DEFEAT OF FIVE RUSSIAN ARMY CORPS

By Associated Press.

Berlin, by wireless to the Associated Press to Sayville, Long Island, Aug. 29.—News of the defeat of five Russian army corps to the south of Allenstein was made public here today. It was regarded as encouraging and as greatly relieving the situation in East Prussia. It was said to insure the flank of the German position. Allenstein is about sixty miles of Koenigsburg.

FIELD MARSHAL DECLARES ENGLAND IN GRAVE DANGER

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 29.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts addressing a meeting last night for the purpose of obtaining recruits declared the country in great danger. There was no use in mincing words he said. Defeat would mean ruin, shame and slavery.

"Our soldiers are fighting bravely," said Lord Roberts, "but they are lamentably few, and it is the duty of every able-bodied man to see that the army is maintained at its full strength. Women must not stand in the light of their husbands and brother's duty."

MILITARY GOVERNOR OF PARIS ORDERS BUILDINGS RAZED

Ground In Circle Of Paris Forts Will be Cleared To Destroy Cover For Attacking Forces Of Germans—Many Fine Buildings

By Associated Press.

Paris, Aug. 29.—It is officially announced that the military governor has ordered all the residents of the zone within the section of the city's defending forts to evacuate and destroy their houses immediately.

Order Means Destruction Of Property Valued At Many Millions Of Dollars

Washington, Aug. 29.—A circular country 47 square miles square will be swept of building, if the order of the military governor of Paris, that the residents in the "zone of action" of the French capital defending the forts burn their homes in anticipation of a siege is correctly interpreted here.

It is supposed the order refers to the suburban territory just beyond the city's second line of defense composed of 17 connecting forts. These are located in a wide circle about two miles outside the inner wall which surrounds Paris. They lie for the most parts among the famous suburbs of Versailles and Vincennes and sweep every approach to the city.

It is assumed that the governor's order is intended to clear the way in the front of these defenses that no protection will be afforded an advancing enemy.

The order probably applies also to the outer circle of the city's little line of defenses. These are the most modern of the forts. They are built of steel and masonry and known to be equipped with the heaviest guns of the famous French artillery, although details as to their armament have been closely guarded.

While it may be necessary to destroy numerous buildings to open the country to the fire of the guns it is thought the property destruction will not be so great in this quarter.

Something of the magnitude of the defense of Paris is shown by the fact that only an army of half a million men could hope to invest them and cut them off from the outside world. Some of the forts still bear the names under which they resisted the German assaults in 1870, but they have been remodeled and newly equipped many times. Today they are considered by military experts among the strongest fortifications in the world.

The other lines are so placed that each fort has a cross fire over the territory swept directly by the guns of adjoining forts. The result is to make attackers face fire from both flanks as well as the front.

Day's Developments In European War

What little definite war news escaped the censors reflected chiefly the situation in East Prussia where the operations are assuming commanding importance. These reports are conflicting. It was officially announced five Russian army corps have been defeated south of Allenstein which is 60 miles south of Koenigsburg. Newspaper dispatches from St. Petersburg declare that Allenstein has been occupied by the Russians.

From the same source comes the statement that the Russians are drawing a net around Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

Lieut. Marshal Lord Robert declared today that Great Britain would require hundreds of thousands of men for the present conflict.

Berlin has received a report that the German forces are at St. Quentin. If this is true it places the Germans 23 miles south of Cambrai, the scene of the recent German success.

A dispatch from Paris says train service has been suspended between Paris and Boulogne.

According to a Copenhagen report Germany is rushing troops from her west front to reinforce her army and that of Austria in the east.

The British foreign office announces that East Prussia is rapidly being overrun by the Russians.

The French embassy in Washington state that its advices show that the Russians are within 20 miles of Lemberg.

The German ambassador to the United States today denied stories of German cruelty and declared that Zeppelin airships had attacked nothing but fortifications.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry 1,000 strong sailed today for a secret destination.

CROWN PRINCE'S ARMY MOVES TOWARD MUESE

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 29.—An official Berlin dispatch by Marconi wireless says the army led by Crown Prince Frederick William is advancing toward the Muese. The troops under the Crown Prince of Bavaria were attacked from Nancy and the South where the enemy were driven off.

German marines returning from Soutari have joined the Austrian forces engaged against Serbia and stormed in the first line a mountain 1,000 meters high on the banks of the Drina.

MORE AGREE TO MAKE IN-JUNCTION PERMANENT

Special to The Times.

Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—Five more defendant corporations in the suit of the State against the Texas Business Men's Association this afternoon filed answers in the twenty-sixth district court agreeing that the temporary injunction issued against the 38 corporations involved be made permanent. This makes a total of 30.

WEATHER FORECAST

Sunday partly cloudy.

WESTERN CANADA MUST BE READY TO ANSWER CALL

By Associated Press.

Winnipeg, Canada, Aug. 29.—It was announced that orders were received tonight to maintain under arms all available troops from the Great Lakes to the Pacific ocean for immediate active service. The London war office, it was said, notified the Dominion authorities that every available man must be ready to be called out at a moment's notice.

ALLIES WILL MAKE HEROIC STAND IN NORTHERN FRANCE

Every Available Man And Gun Is Being Gathered In Attempt To Stop Germans' Advance On Paris

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 29.—The French and British are gathering every man and gun available in north-western France in an attempt to stop the German advance on the road to Paris.

It also is said General Jopffa, commander in chief of the French army will endeavor to strike at the German right and bring relief to British and French forces which had been placed in a critical situation by the German outflanking movement.

How far the allies have succeeded in getting across the German path is not disclosed, for the outside world is ignorant tonight of what is happening on the battlefield.

A report comes both from Antwerp and Copenhagen that the Germans have commenced a movement back from the west to meet the Russian advance through East Prussia, but it is hardly likely they will make any great demands on the western army until the big battle in which there seems to have been a lull has been definitely decided.

Field Marshal Sir John French, the British commander whose army has been hard pressed, was in communication with the British war office late today and disproved the German official report that the British had been encircled by the Germans.

Today's reports from the German general staff are not more illuminating than merely to say that the Crown Prince's army which occupied Longwy now is advancing toward the Meuse, that a French advance from Nancy had been repulsed and that a third army is advancing through the Vosges. This probably is the army which is said to be making Belfort its objective.

The Russians continue their march through East Prussia and confirmation comes tonight of the statement that they had invested Koenigsberg and had taken Allenstein. It will be a long time, however, before they can directly threaten Berlin, or indeed, before their millions of men can reach the scene of the Austrian frontier, where troops of the Russian emperor are engaged in a general battle on a front of 186 miles between the Vistula River and Lemberg, capital of Galicia.

There is considerable uneasiness over the attitude of Turkey. Athens tonight repeated the report that German naval officers and sailors are on their way to Constantinople.

There has been strong denunciation of the continuance of football, cricket and other games while the British army is fighting and more men are required to re-inforce them and particularly young men wanting matches, while Secretary of War Kitchener is calling for recruits.

GERMAN RAILROADS CARRYING TROOPS TO THE EAST FRONT

By Associated Press.

London, 2:15 p. m., Aug. 29.—A dispatch to the Evening News from Copenhagen says:

"Ordinary railroad transportation in Germany has been suspended for the present because the railroads are engaged in carrying troops from the west front to the hard pressed east front."

ALL CONFUSION AT STATE CAPITOL

APPARENTLY THERE IS NO MOOSE TO LEAD WAY ON WAREHOUSE BILL.

COLQUITT'S HELPLESSNESS

Legislators There Drawing Perdiem and Bailly Invitation Is Not Result.

By John Gould, Staff Correspondent of The Times. Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—Net results of the first week's work by the legislature are negligible.

The House committee has been holding open session on the pending warehouse bill, but is still far from being able to submit a report.

There is an air of confusion and misunderstanding that does not bring any hope of beneficial action and the sentiment is going around that the special session was more for the furtherance of O. B. Colquitt's senatorial aspirations than for any real help to the State.

While apparently sincere efforts are being made in both House and Senate to hammer the pending bills into some sort of shape, there is no little sentiment, particularly in the upper House, against any really new legislation on the warehouse subject at this time and the governor faces the very disagreeable possibility of seeing the special session adjourn without doing what he called it to do.

There is an air of confusion and misunderstanding that does not bring any hope of beneficial action and the sentiment is going around that the special session was more for the furtherance of O. B. Colquitt's senatorial aspirations than for any real help to the State.

CRUISER FEARLESS TOOK PROMINENT PART
By Associated Press.
London, Aug. 29.—British cruisers and destroyers which were engaged off Heligoland have arrived at Harwich, Catham and Sheerness. They had British and German wounded aboard. The Germans were picked up at sea after their ships went down.
A number of the men died before the ships reached port and were buried at sea. Some died while being carried to the hospital.

BRITISH FIRE EFFECTIVE.
British sailors who boarded the German cruiser Mainz after she had been put out of action say the effect of the British fire was terrible. Masts were shot away and turrets battered. The decks were a mass of wreckage and dead and dying soldiers were lying all over the ship. Ninety German prisoners from the Mainz have been landed at Leith. Eight are officers and one is said to be a son of Admiral Turpin, German minister of war. Sixteen of the prisoners were suffering from wounds.

The British light cruiser Fearless took a prominent part in the engagement. She approached within ten miles of the German coast and drew out the German cruisers, which attempted to surround her. At one moment she was engaged single handed with four of them. One had come within 700 yards of the Fearless when she was struck and burst into flames. After they had found the range the German marksmanship was good.

The Fearless' wireless was shot away and she was hit 19 times. Afterward the Fearless stood by the disabled Germans, although she herself was in great danger of being sunk. The arrival of other British cruisers speedily ended the engagement.

The British casualties so far as reported were one killed and twenty injured.

REFUGEE TELLS OF THE FATE OF LOUVAINE

Houses Shot Down And Many Citizens Stood Up Before Firing Squads, He Says.

By Associated Press.
London, Aug. 29.—According to the Oxford correspondent of the Reuters Telegraph Company, Monsignor Coenraet, vice rector of the University of Louvain, was one of the prominent residents shot there by the Germans. All able bodied men of Louvain, according to the correspondent, have been sent by train to Germany to aid in harvesting the crops.
One refugee from Louvain told the correspondent that on the morning of the reprisals several German soldiers were fired upon, it was thought, by Germans through mistake. The Germans, he said, claimed citizens of Louvain fired the shots.
Field guns were then trained on the houses of the city and they were battered to pieces. Six burghers were shot in front of the railway station. The refugee said he witnessed the shooting of seven priests by the Germans.

Nearly all this is now on the way to us. And it means practically all of the extra-grade rubber obtainable abroad. Today we have our own men in Colombo, Singapore and Para. These are the world's chief sources of rubber. So we are pretty well assured of a constant supply, and our pick of the best that's produced.

There exists now a new, compelling reason for buying Goodyear tires. It results from war conditions.

These leading tires—built of extra-grade rubber, in the same way as always—are selling today at June prices. That is true, we believe, of no other tire.

You will find today a very wide difference between most tire prices and Goodyears.

Due to Quick Action
Early in August—when war began—the world's rubber markets seemed closed to us. Rubber prices doubled almost overnight.

Men could see no way to pay for rubber abroad, and no way to bring it in. We, like others—in that panic—were forced to higher prices. But we have since gone back to prices we charged before the war, and this is how we did it—

We had men in London and Singapore when the war broke out. The larger part of the world's rubber supply comes through there. We cabled them to buy up the pick of the rubber. They bought—before the advance—1,500,000 pounds of the finest rubber.

Now Inferior Grades Cost Double

About the only crude rubber available now for many makers is inferior. In ordinary times, the best tire makers refuse it. Much of it had been rejected. But that "off rubber" now sells for much more than we paid for the best.

The results are these: Tire prices in general are far in advance of Goodyears. And many tire makers, short of supplies, will be forced to use second-grade rubber.

Be Careful Now

In Goodyears we pledge you the same-grade tire as always. And that grade won for Goodyears the top place in Tire-dom—the largest sale in the world.

And, for the time being, our prices are the same as before the war. We shall try to keep them there.

We accept no excessive orders, but dealers will be kept supplied. And we charge them, until further notice, only ante-bellum rubber there.

That means that Goodyears—the best tires built—are selling way below other tires.

PANAMA CANAL EMPLOYEES BUILDING OWN HOMES

By Associated Press.
Panama, Aug. 29.—Owing to the great demand for quarters and the congested condition of those owned by the Panama Canal government, Col. G. W. Goethals, governor, has decided to permit many of the employes to build their own homes on the Canal Zone under certain conditions. Since the concentration of a large part of the canal force on the Pacific side of the Isthmus was begun the demand for quarters has been so great that the quartermaster's department has been unable to meet it. The permits for these structures will be granted with the understanding that the builders are not to receive any compensation in the event of the termination of the owner's services with the canal.

The legislature can now proceed to transact some business. After squabbling over the matter for several days, it has finally extended an invitation to Ex-Senator Bailey to address that body. The vote was 51 to 41.

An investment in knowledge is the very best investment that a boy or girl within the scholastic age can make. It is the duty of every parent to give their children a fair and equal chance in life, and in this day and time the man or woman who has at least completed his or her course in the public schools are better equipped in every way to hold positions of trust and importance than those who have failed to take hold and make the best of the opportunities presented to them when they were younger. Our public schools will soon be open again, and every boy and girl of scholastic age should enter.

The day is not far distant until there will be bonded warehouses for cotton in every state in the South that produces cotton. There is no reason why this should not be the case. The wonder is, really, that it had not been done years ago. And when that is the case a receipt for a bale of cotton placed in a bonded warehouse will be counted first-class commercial paper. Moreover, it is hardly likely that any laws that it is possible for the special session of the legislature can help us a great deal out of our present difficulty. The merchants, farmers and business men generally must co-operate together, and if they do this, things will come out all right in the end.

An exchange complains, with just cause, against Japan butting in and taking part in the Christians' great war. This war belongs to the Christian Nations—they started it for their own pleasure, and they should be permitted to shoot and saber without the help or interference of Buddhists, Confucians or Hindus. Hands off, ye heathens; hands off our war. Followers of the meek and lowly Nazarene want to show the heathen world that when it comes to going after blood and human life, they are pastmasters. —Honey Grove Signal.

"Any man can afford to lose an office, but no man can afford to take one tainted with fraud." It was General Grant who made use of that language, but that was a long while ago. Present day methods are eto get the office, regardless of the verdict of the people at the polls, judging from the action of the El Paso convention and the State Democratic committee in the Lane-McLemore contest. Hereafter, the faction or element of the party will only have to cause the returns from a sufficient number of counties delayed until too late to be counted in order to give their favorite the nomination. At least, that is the conclusion one who believes in fair politics is bound to arrive at after reading of the proceedings of the El Paso convention and the Democratic State Executive committee in that contest.

"As premier of Japan," says Count Okuma, "I have stated and I now again state to the people of America and of the world, that Japan has no ulterior motive, no desire to secure more territory, no thought of depriving China or other people of anything they now possess." That's plainly stated. There can be no reasoning from that promise without a violation of confidence. It is fortunate that America has no entangling alliances to force her into war against her will and against her own interests in order to keep faith with a treaty nation. While almost the whole world is involved in war's desolating scourge, America conserves her resources and it matters not how geographical boundaries may be remade she will not lose an inch of territory and she stands to make phenomenal gains in trade expansion in every portion of the world. In her isolated neutrality we have an example of the verification of the poet's observation, that "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."

There need be no worry about the matter of financing the cotton crop of Wichita county. One of our five substantial banks is of the opinion that it is in a position to do that by itself, even if the four others should decline to participate. But all the banks will join hands in rendering all necessary financial aid in the marketing of the crop that will be produced in this county, and not only this, but they are in a position and will most likely render their services to cotton raisers in the adjoining counties, provided the banks in those counties decline, or are not in a position to extend the necessary financial aid. A meeting of the bankers of this city for the purpose of adopting a system by which financial aid can be tendered cotton farmers who wish to hold their cotton for a better price, was held yesterday afternoon, and the details or results of that meeting will be made known later.

HASHAMURI EXPLAINS.

To the Hon. Globe Paper: Dear Sir—Many patriots make big oratory about why Japan but into great war fight, and I take type machine in hand to declaim reply. Answer is easy to those who know land of my nobility ancestors. Nipponese all like Japanese school boy, and long to learning ways of so-called Western civilization. When great and complexion civilization stop shoot mouth to shoot each other with airplanes and other deadly weapons, how shall Nipponese require this important knowledge without taking lessons? Therefore Japan politely declare hostility against Hon. Germany, as popular refrain indict, because everybody is doing it. Banzai and loud explosions. Also, because of treaty pact with Englishman's, which have been large help to Japan because of tea-drinking habits, there was no other way. And so, Hon. Mikado make war declaration of great eloquence as soon as soldier troops and gunships get into dangerous position for Germany. This remonstrate how rapidly oriental mind grasp niceties of famous western civilization and machinery guns. Of course, Japanese education in war school will be in the primary department in shanty orient, where lessons are easy and students feel at home among high explosives, bloodshed and customary decorations. Another explanation of Nipponese intrusion is that sagacious statesmen observe that Hon. Kaiser want Belgium and Paris, Hon. Czar want Poland and Japan, Hon. President seek How to get Japan which Germany lost first, Hon. Great Britain take everything German in sight not in Germany, Hon. Austria, hope to win Serbia and other Balkan volcanoes, and Servia seek Herzegovina and other funny names, Japan should also want something and promptly do. Question: How to get it with neatness and dispatches and rapid fire artillery cannons. Which Japan try to do as soon as her gallant troops and excises are ready, after example of worthy western civilization. Yours respectfully, and hoping Japan wanted? Answer: How to get it. Unless you seek Hon. services as war correspondence, I shall stay in United American States and study war game from first page where one may learn it several different ways. H. T. (With such apologies as are needed to Wallace Irwin.)—Atchison Globe.

THINKS SCHOOL CHILDREN'S EYES SHOUL BE EXAMINED.

Editor Times: I believe we medical men should continue to pound upon the subject until health and educational authorities in this city cause to be issued an order compelling the examination of the eyes of all school children once during each school year. Inspection of school children has been continued long enough and has become sufficiently widespread to justify some rather sweeping generalization. No group of children of any considerable size has been examined without finding numerous defects and disabilities serious enough, not only to effect their school work, but to form a real handicap in their after-school efforts to secure a livelihood. The aggregate amount of discomfort and pain experienced by school children is enough to awaken universal sympathy. The hindrance to school advancement and the consequent waste of effort and of money, are matters of serious concern, but the ignorance and indifference which lies back of it all are matters of great moment and it devolves upon the medical fraternity, as guardians of the public health, to fight the yell of ignorance and indifference and open wide the eyes of the educators of this city to the absolute necessity of proper eyes of our school children; and if they would be a success, not only as students, but in the various walks of life after leaving the school room. In a paper before the American School Hygiene Association, Dr. Ayers, of the Russell Sage Foundation, after giving the figures and percentages of 23,000 school children affected in fifteen schools in Manhattan, has this to say: "We have for the first time figures which conclusively demonstrate that there is a real relation between physical defectiveness and school progress. It is a matter of common observation that the brightest and most studious pupils are afflicted with defective eyesight. There is also a steady increase in defectiveness with the advance of age." This shows that a slight error, if allowed to go uncorrected, will advance under the strain of constant use such as that to which the real studios will subject their eyes. He also says: "The sums of money spent annually in New York City for public education reach high into the millions. It would be a very simple matter to compute how many dollars are wasted each year in the futile attempt to impart instruction to pupils whose mental faculties are dulled through perfectly defects." No argument is necessary to convince those in control of our public schools of the need of systematic annual examination of the eyes of school children, for it is an undisputed fact that healthy eyes are the first essential to the ready requirement of an education. Almost all children are born with healthy eyes, and such conditions as nearsightedness and farsightedness, acute and chronic inflammatory conditions, are due to malnutrition. Neglect or excessive use of the eyes under improper conditions, most which could be detected and corrected if discovered in its incipency. Latent errors, and even manifest errors of a low degree are not usually detected until the child begins school work, and if they are allowed to continue such work without proper glasses the refractive error develops at an alarming degree, and only too often irreparable damage is done before the parents are aware that there is anything wrong. I have no doubt that many children have been punished by parents and teachers for failing to "learn a lesson" or to be promoted, when in reality, the eyes were entirely to blame. Only a few days ago a father brought his son into my office and said he wanted me to tell him if there was anything wrong with the boy's eyes; that he was of the opinion that the boy did not want to go to school, but that the child had claimed he could not see; he wanted his eyes examined before publishing him. Upon examination I found his vision very defective, the boy having nearsightedness to a marked degree. Wise father, this, but we know not how many boys and girls get the punishment, but never the explanation by a specialist. We often hear it marveled at that such a small percentage of our children remain in school and complete the high school course. Would it not be very interesting and instructive to know what percentage of those who fail to complete the course have defective eyesight? DR. J. W. DAVALL TO THE PUBLIC. Dr. Hill Tells About Things In Old State Of Mississippi

Dr. J. W. Hill, who has returned from a visit to Tennessee and Mississippi, in an interview for The Times has this to say in regard to what he saw and heard over beyond the big river: "Of course, the European war was the main theme with everybody I talked with, but there was a good deal said about local, state and national matters here at home. When I first went into Mississippi, about twenty-five days ago, there was considerable alarm, especially among the merchants and bankers, concerning the cotton situation; but when I left there last Monday, everybody seemed to be more hopeful. One old farmer I met in Tupelo asked me what I thought of 'this here mortuary business?' He seemed to think that Woodrow Wilson would 'fix things up so that the farmers could fix matters with the supply man about church matters among his 'credit system' which was in vogue when I was a boy here in Lamar county, Texas, is running in full blast in old Mississippi today. Everything is bought and sold on credit. All the farmer, especially the tenant farmer, boys, together with his prospective crop is mortgaged for his year's supply; and as the principle in all these regions is cotton, one can easily see how when the supply or the price of that staple is threatened 'all hands and the cook' must necessarily get nervous. But matters had assumed a more hopeful aspect when I left, and all classes were in better spirits. As to the war itself, everybody expected King William to get a just and long-needed trouncing when the powers allied got properly mobilized and in action. Nearly everybody seemed to think the war would be practically over by January 1, 1915. "I was struck with the general attitude of the negroes over there to everything. Of course, their social status is as it is with us and with all the Southern people; but their political condition is rather difficult to understand, much less describe. The negro, as a matter of fact, is practically disfranchised, since the law in Mississippi allow's no man to vote who can not read and reasonably construe the constitution of the state and of the nation. This test puts some whites to the bad, of course, but it takes the negroes wholesale. The result is that the colored man has just about ceased to go to the polls at all. The 'interests' have no incentive to purchase and distribute poll tax receipts among the ignorant masses—white and black—as they have in Texas. It is not only a white man's government, but a government by the most intelligent of the white race. The 'white man's burden' is heavy, but he picks it up and, as they say over in Georgia, 'lets it.' "The negroes over in 'Ole Mississippi' are more obliging and polite. They are more numerous than their white neighbors, and in a few cases, in better financial condition than some of the 'pale faces'; but there is the most perfect cordiality, each knowing his own 'place' and keeping it with most religious punctuality. The old, ante-bellum negro has the right-of-way. He

to be desired. I never saw such abundance of the good creatures of this life! Fruits and vegetables of all kinds, and chicken—well, I got out fine fat Plymouth Rocks three days before the meeting closed. This statement may stagger the faith of some; but if any one doubts it, let him go over there and eat nothing but fried chicken and chicken-pie for fifteen days, and he will see how I got enough even of so good a thing as fried chicken—the historical and traditional tid-bit of a Methodist preacher. Think of it! Three fat, half-grown Plymouth Rock frites for fifty cents! But I will ring off. Suffice it to say that, barring the heat, and the trees that hid the towns and landscape, I never made a more pleasant visit to any place or among a more lovely and hospitable people. I hope to meet them beyond the stars."

W. A. Holdredge and family in their touring car encountered very muddy roads between Lawton, Oklahoma, and Burkburnett while motoring over that road yesterday. Several times they were forced to unload from the car and give the motor assistance by applying their shoulders to the rear of the car. During the trip from Burkburnett to this city the roads were still muddier and it had not been for the fact that the tires were inflated, Mr. Holdredge says that they would have probably been stuck somewhere between here and there. The Holdredges have spent the summer in their car, touring Nebraska, Kansas and neighboring states visiting and otherwise making the trip pleasant. They left Saturday morning for their home in Edmond, but Mr. Holdredge doubted their ability to make the journey in the car, because he had been warned that there were still worse roads over which to travel.

A little boy once said to his schoolmates, "I don't make any more mistakes in my music." This little boy had such poor eyesight that he could not read letters three and one-half inches square more than six feet away from him, and yet he had been repeatedly punished by his violin teacher for making mistakes while taking lessons. Just think of it; punished for making mistakes when he could not see his notes plainly!

How did he find out that his eyes were weak? His schoolteacher had been making tests of the sight of her pupils and had discovered that this boy could not see well. She had reported the fact to his parents, who got glasses that made him the happiest boy in the school, saved him many undeserved punishment, and caused him to say, "I don't make any more mistakes in my music."

This boy did not know, nor did his parents know, but that he saw as well as every other boy, and his mistakes were thought to be from carelessness and inattention.

This same boy afterwards became a noted violinist, was educated abroad and played before royalty. His glasses enabled him to see his notes plainly and he made no more mistakes in his reading music.

One's Character

Is determined by the lines of the face, the clothes and the way they keep their places of abode. Beautiful, well kept—homes bespeak thrift and energy; neglected ones, carelessness, idleness and indifference.

WE HAVE NOTICED that those who were careless or indifferent about their homes or business were doubly so when it came to taking care of their dead. Should you want to read character, go to the cemetery. You can tell every class without a microscope. There are a few people in Wichita Falls, beautiful in character, homes beautiful, and the last resting place of their loved ones well cared for. The regular visitor to the cemetery knows them.

COMMONPLACE SERVICE

Comes from the rut that was made by the careless, shambling feet of the merchant who chooses to tread the beaten path of tradition rather than those of progress. The rut in which are buried inspiration, ambition and accomplishment, around which stalks the pale ghost of wasted opportunities beckoning toward the slough of despond. The man who can render only commonplace service has no place in the modern commercial scheme and his path leads to oblivion. It is the wide-awake merchant who can do things "different" who has a chance to court and win success.

We know that the methods of years that are gone won't work today. We know that the service that is not better today than it was yesterday is not satisfactory. We know that on the experience of yesterday we must build the success of today.

GERMANS READY FOR DESPERATE DEFENSE

Every Day's Delay Will Cost Japanese 1,000 in Taking of Tsing Tau Forts, They Say

By Associated Press. Tsing Tau, Hsiao Chow, 12 noon, Aug. 29.—One of the forts here today threw a small shell across the entrance of bay yesterday afternoon at a small party of Japanese or Chinese that had landed on Cape Jaeschka. The landing party departed immediately. Its mission was not known.

Six Japanese warships may be seen daily from the Tsing Tau fortifications cruising back and forth beyond the range of the fort guns. Only men in khaki are permitted to show themselves on the fortifications. White clothing is barred because it is conspicuous.

The Germans are continuing with energy their preparations against attack by land. Mines are being placed and provided with electrical connections to their discharge.

The Germans declare that every day allowed them for preparations means that they will be able to inflict casualties on the Japanese of not less than 1000 men daily. The roads within the leased territory are in excellent condition and motor cars are being used to good advantage.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE OIL FIELDS

H. W. Whitney writes in the Oil and Gas Journal under date of August 24th as follows:

In common with the rest of the country, the Texas Panhandle territory is feeling the effects of the European war, as is evidenced by the slowing up of wildcat drilling, due largely to the financial conditions of the country. Many of the evils which were drilling ahead, backed by the enthusiasm of the people who lived in the vicinity and who were putting up the money, have been forced to temporarily abandon work. However, there are a number of wells which are under way at the present time. Near Amarillo, in Potter county, the Amarillo Oil and Gas company is reorganizing to go on deeper and has increased the capital stock to $20,000. This test is on the Word farm which is located in Section 4 of the E. L. & R. Ry. Co.'s lands, and is now 1,574 feet deep. Near San Angelo, Texas, 300 miles southwest of Wichita Falls, the Christ-Oil company, a San Angelo concern, has leases on about 15,000 acres of land, and has turned same over to Jameson Brothers, who will begin drilling within the next few days, starting the test in such a way as to be able to go to 2,000 feet if necessary. Some Muskogee (Okla.) parties have become interested in making a test near Denton, Texas, and it is understood they are to begin work at an early date. The details of the transaction are at present not available. Some New York parties, W. A. Doyle and others, are starting a test about six miles northwest of Quannah, Texas. It is understood they have a large acreage on which geologists have passed favorably and that arrangements have been made for drilling five holes. At Boldsboro, in Coleman county, about 150 miles southwest of Wichita Falls, a well is to be started within the next few days, the contract having been let to Hugh Sturms and Charlie Mohler of Wichita Falls, who are to ship their tools during the coming week.

In Jack county, Texas, about 50 miles southeast of Wichita Falls, there is considerable activity. Quite a number of shallow sand wells have been drilled in during the last year. Mr. Howard of Birmingham, Ala., has become interested in the Jack county development and has for several weeks past been in Wichita Falls getting in touch with conditions in the Texas Panhandle field, preparatory to interesting some of his associates in his home city in the development of the Texas Panhandle territory. Mr. Howard has already started drilling a test on the Steinhouse farm, in the above county, having moved in a standard rig and good equipment. The well is 100 feet deep.

In Archer county, near Olney, Texas, S. M. J. Benson and others have drilled to the sand in their first test near the old Miller No. 1. No information is now available as to what the results of the drilling were, as considerable mystery surrounds the proposition.

Near Gainesville, in Cook county, D. A. Smith of Houston, Texas, is drilling the first one of a series of three wells which have been arranged for in that vicinity.

In the Moran pool in Shackelford county, the Producers Oil company is spudding in a test on the Webb Shalum farm, No. 1 on the Tarrent Cloud farm, located on Survey No. 13 of the University lands, is drilling ahead at 1,800 feet. The same company is setting the 5 5/8-inch casing at 1,785 feet in the Roach No. 1, located in Block 68, of the University lands.

In Montague county, the Badger Oil company is shut down at 175 feet on the Simmons farm, which is located six miles north of the town of St. Joe.

In Clay county, Smith and Lyndberger have abandoned their test on the Avis tract as dry at a depth of 525 feet. This test was located in the corner of Clay, Wichita and Archer counties and was an important test for that locality. It is also located about five miles south of Wichita Falls.

Fowlkes Station. Notwithstanding that things are somewhat slow as a whole in the Panhandle field, Fowlkes Station and vicinity show considerable activity when all things are considered. The fact that the operations here are carried on by smaller operators makes it of much more interest to the public in general. Quite a number of the Texas towns are represented in this pool, by men who are prominent in their respective communities, and who represent all lines of business, including bankers, doctors, merchants and cowmen. Among the more recent completions is the Easy Mark Oil company's No. 4 on the Powell farm which found 20 feet of sand from 817 to 837 feet, and which showed for a five-barrel pumper. Another completion was Nelson and Forbes No. 4 on the Burnett and Lloyd ranch, which was completed at 475 feet, with 12 feet of pay, and is a six-barrel pumper. On the Cochran tract, the piece of property on which the first wells of the Fowlkes pool were found, there has been work going on, deepening a well that was abandoned a few months ago, at 810 feet and which has been drilled deeper to 1,602 feet, where it is at present shut down, not having any showing and it is questionable as to whether it will be drilled any deeper. The Beaver-Creek Oil company, which is operating on the Waggoner lands, southeast of the railroad station, on Section 13, completed No. 1, which is 200 feet southwest of No. 1, while No. 1 was completed at 920 feet, and it is a fifteen-barrel pumper at that depth. No. 2 is finished in the 850-foot sand and is a fifteen-barrel pumper. The 850-foot sand was found in No. 1, but was barren. Slater and Call have started a well, located one-half mile south of the Beaver Creek Oil company's No. 2 and are now drilling ahead at 800 feet, with the intention of developing a well in which they can utilize both the 850 and 920-foot sand production. The Tenderfoot Oil company, composed of Paduch parties, has a fishing job at a depth of 1,600 feet and up to the present time has not reported any showing of either oil or gas. The well, which was drilled by Jameson et al. on the Fassett ranch, southwest of Fowlkes Station, and which would be considered in the Fowlkes pool, is shut down at 620 feet. The parties interested in this well intend to carry it to a greater depth, as soon as certain business matters shall have been arranged.

Burkburnett Pool. The Corsicana Petroleum company dominates the Burkburnett pool, such work as is being done by the other companies and individuals being somewhat scattered and in small tracts. One of the most recent transactions of interest in this pool was the trade between the Corsicana Petroleum company and the Sun company, on an 80-acre tract of the William Thom land, which lies toward the western border of the Burkburnett pool and about a mile and a half south of the village of Clara. It is understood that the Corsicana Petroleum company took over this 80-acre lease, reimbursing the Sun company for all expenditures incident to the possession of the lease to date, with the understanding that the Sun company is to be carried all the way through on the lease for a quarter interest, free of charge. The recent completion in this immediate vicinity would seem to warrant such a trade as is reported, as a number of these wells have shown an initial production of 80 barrels or better, in a sand found between 1,700 and 1,800 feet. Most of the present activity in this section is close around the 80-acre tract referred to. Johnson and Jameson have built a standard rig over their No. 1 on the Shultz farm and are making preparations to shoot the well. It is located on the west half of a 160-acre tract, lying immediately south of Andy Urban's property. Couch et al., who acquired the 80-acre lease which the Red River Oil company formerly owned on the Harman farm, immediately west of Johnson and Jameson's acreage and on which three wells have been drilled, one of which was shot, have developed a very good production, it being estimated that the three wells are making 40 inches per day in a 100-barrel tank, which is equivalent to 100 barrels per day. It is conceded that W. C. McBride's 80-acre lease on the Chenault tract, which is almost the eastern border of the proven territory in the Burkburnett pool, is the most productive 80 acres in this pool. The property fully drilled has a production of 280 barrels daily. Operations at the present time are quite slow in this locality, there being not more than six rigs at present in operation.

Petrolia Operations. In the Petrolia pool, in Clay county, the most interesting feature was the discovery of oil in a sand found at about 2,000 feet on the Chorn farm, several miles north of the center of the pool. The parties owning this test have been trying to get a packer and shut off the water, which is coming with the oil, but up to the present time have not been successful. The future of this test is as yet unknown and it will remain to be determined as to whether this will be a well or a dry hole. Most of the operations have ceased work in this section, but there are a few outsiders who are drilling tests at present. The gas well drilled by Howell and Markowitz on the Dempsey and McCutcheon land, which proved to be one of the largest gasers in the pool, is at present shut in.

Iowa Park Pool. Andy Urban is drilling ahead at 1,800 feet on the Willard tract, and it is carrying his six-inch pipe. Mr. Urban expects to complete this test within the next few days. This has been an extremely hard hole to drill, as a bed of large boulders was encountered at about 1,400 feet, which fell on the pipe, putting it into bad shape and causing much delay. Griffith and Hart of Houston, Texas, who drilled a rotary hole about three-quarters of a mile southeast of Urban's test on the Willard farm, have been shut down for the past three weeks at a depth of 2,250 feet. It is reported that the owners of this test purpose to commence work right away and carry this hole to 3,000 feet, unless pay is found at a lesser depth. The same parties have been making a test on the Zink land, one and one-half miles south of the town of Iowa Park, and are shut down at 900 feet. It is rumored that they intend drilling this test deeper, probably to 1,500 feet, unless oil or gas is found in a higher formation. Harry Warner et al., who drilled in a 103

Zink test, some six weeks ago, have not commenced any further developments. It is understood that no rigs are running in the Lockridge pool, seven miles southwest of Iowa Park. On the Klunden farm, about four miles southwest of Iowa Park, the Rex Oil company has recently installed a power plant for pumping its lease and made a new location. It will be known as No. 10, and will be located 75 feet east and 50 feet north of No. 9.

Electra Pool. Electra is decidedly quiet, although a number of rigs are now running. The Producers Oil company recently discontinued its night force on all drilling wells, and in consequence a number of men were let out. There are fourteen rigs running in this pool, most of which are running daylight only. Some are deepening wells, some are cleaning out, and a very few are drilling new locations. During the past week there were three completions, with a total production of 200 barrels, as follows: The Corsicana Petroleum company's Red River Hamilton No. 1 was completed at 1,875 feet, with 21 feet of pay, and showed for 150 barrels. The same company drilled No. 44, S. E. Honaker, to a depth of 629 feet, with 17 feet of pay and 16 barrels initial production. The Producers Oil company completed Sheldon No. 4 at 1,833 feet with 15 feet of pay, making 25 barrels per day. The Corsicana Petroleum company has reached the top of the sand in No. 45 on the Allen farm at a depth of 1,800 feet and is drilling at 1,455 feet on the No. 19 on the Brown and Cross farm. The Producers Oil company is drilling at 1,685 feet on No. 72 Waggoner farm and at 1,930 feet on No. 29 Bickley.

PARIS-BOULOGNE TRAFFIC STOPPED

SUSPENSION OF TRAIN SERVICE MAY INDICATE AN IMPENDING BATTLE

400 AMERICANS GO THROUGH

Line Still Open Friday Night According to Report Brought to London Saturday

By Associated Press. Paris, 1 p. m., Aug. 29.—Train service between Paris and Boulogne was suspended today until further notice. It is presumed here that this step was taken because the allied armies are about to engage the Germans on or near the railroad line running into Boulogne.

Americans going from Paris to London are being sent by way of Dieppe.

The line of railroad communication between Paris and Boulogne runs from the French capital a little west of north of Beavais and then continues a little east of north to Amiens. From Amiens the line runs northwest to Abbeville and then in a northerly direction along the coast to Boulogne.

Dieppe is northwest of Paris and sixty miles to the south of Boulogne.

400 AMERICANS FROM SWITZERLAND REACH LONDON

By Associated Press. London, 2:12 p. m., Aug. 29.—A party of 400 Americans from Switzerland reached London today.

They came from Paris via Boulogne. Their arrival is regarded here as evidence against the rumor that the Germans have cut the line of railroad communication between Paris and Boulogne.

Theodore Ollifellow of Buffalo, N. Y., who was one of the party says he left Paris Friday morning expecting to reach London that afternoon but that at Amiens his train was held up for hours by passing troop trains. It eventually pulled into Boulogne from whence a boat was taken early this morning for Folkestone.

The foregoing dispatch was sent from London at 2:12 this afternoon. The announcement from Paris that train service between Paris and Boulogne had been suspended was dated 1 p. m. It is possible that the announcement of suspension of traffic on Paris and Boulogne line had not yet been received.

"PERILS OF PAULINE" AT EMPRESS WEDNESDAY

In the eleventh episode of "The Perils of Pauline" which again features the cast that has made this series famous, Pauline's rascally guardian, is growing desperate as the time of his guardianship passes, and is ready to resort to desperate measures and take great risks to secure Pauline's fortune. Although he has been ready with an alibi in each accident to Pauline, Harry has grown very suspicious and has decided that he will bear watching. Pauline receives an invitation from one of her girl friends to a wedding. A personal note accompanying the invitation mentions the fact that in order to make the wedding conspicuous arrangements have been made with a lion tamer to perform with some of his trained lions. Pauline accepts the invitation. A little later Owen enters the library and reads the letter. Harry sees him read the letter and decides to have him watched. Owen immediately proceeds to the animal camp and makes arrangements with the trainer to accidentally allow a couple of the lions escape when Pauline is standing near the cage. Harry who has been following from a distance sees Owen make these arrangements and decides to prevent Pauline attending the wedding. He fixes it up with his chauffeur so that the automobile will break down, and then arranges with the chauffeur to fake a telephone message to him from the office calling him away on important business. Owen overhears the chauffeur's telephone message and tells Pauline, who is furious, not understanding Harry's reasons. Earlier in the day Harry had been approached by a man who asked for a job, and needing a gardener, Harry had given him the position and had taken Pauline to introduce her to the new gardener.

In this man Pauline recognizes a racing automobile driver whose photograph she had seen in the magazine in connection with an account of an accident in which he had been severely hurt, causing the loss of his memory. After the chauffeur had telephoned Pauline that the car had broken down and it would be impossible to use it that evening, Pauline goes to the gardener and asks him to drive her to the wedding. He disclaims all knowledge of an automobile, but Pauline persuades him to get into the driver's seat. The feel of the driving wheel and the hum of the motor evidently brings back some realization of the past, and he starts with her for the wedding. Pauline being late urges him to drive faster, and finally he evidently imagines that he is again driving a race. The speed at which he drives alarms Pauline and when he will not slow down at her request, she foolishly seizes the driving wheel. This causes him to lose control of the car and leaving the road it plunges down a embankment, throwing both of them out and severely injuring them. Harry on his way home from the office, satisfied that his plans have been successful, recognizes in an automobile which passes him at great speed his gardener and Pauline. He follows them, sees the accident, and arrives in time to have them both taken to the hospital.

GOOD PROGRAM AT AIRDOME PROMIED FOR MONDAY

Jones and Ecklin, comedy singers, dancers and talkers, featuring Peggy Jones the world's greatest peg leg dancer is the act billed for tomorrow. The feature picture is "Value Received," a two part drama of barnstorming days on the frontier. The story follows: Jack Carruthers is a rough ranchman, but the real gentility of his make-up is shown in his tenderness for his mother. One night they start out for town to see the show. Frances de Vere is leading lady of the show and her husband is manager. A coarse brute, he forces her on the stage that night though she is ill. The show is so bad that the cowboys determine to break up the performance. Armed with vegetables they bombard the actors. Frances faints and Jack protects her. Seeing she is ill, he and his mother decided to take her home. When the manager objects Jack not knowing the man is her husband, knocks him down. De Vere remains in town and makes ardent love to Dolores Vasquez, a little Mexican girl. De Vere promises to marry her but finally tells her he is married. She tells her father, a Mexican with the old traditions and he promises revenge.

Meanwhile Frances has recovered her health. She hesitates to tell them she is married to De Vere. Jack loves her and tries to tell her but she draws away, terrified at the new feeling in her heart for him.

MARY PICKFORD AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE MONDAY

The announcement by the Universa Company that they intended to release all of the former Pickford pictures was received with joy and excitement by the fans of the actress. Mary Pickford will see the first of these tomorrow. This picture is entitled "In the Sultan's Garden" and its synopsis is as follows:

Lieut. Robins, young naval officer is smitten with Haydee, the favorite inmate of the Sultan's harem, whom he has seen. Haydee in turn, becomes interested in the handsome young American and manages to write him a note to be delivered to him on his warship lying in the harbor. The note implores Robins to effect her rescue. The adventurous boy attempts it but fails.

Haydee being unusually beautiful a close espionage is kept over her movements. When Robins succeeds in climbing the wall, he is observed and captured by the Sultan's guards. He is confined in a dungeon and sentenced to be executed at daybreak. Haydee is condemned to be sewn up in a sack and cast into the sea as a penalty for her secret love affair.

However, a servant who is fond of Haydee, manages to place a knife in the sack and when the girl is thrown into the sea, she cuts her bonds and swims to a ship. Once aboard, she startles the commander with her story. The commander, having little liking for the sultan sends his troops to effect the escape of the condemned officer. There is a dash and a one sided battle; Robins is freed. But before the soldiers and Robins can escape to sea, the Sultan's forces are reinforced and the battle continues. Finally, the guns of the ship are turned on the natives, and the men gain shelter. On board Robins finds his Oriental sweetheart; his brother officers envy his adventure and attendant result.

"The Incompetent" featuring John Ince will be shown also.

Howard Gardner, an incompetent brokers clerk, marries Mildred for her money, having won her by pretending to hold a responsible office. He opens a brokerage office with his wife's money, speculates and loses; Mildred then begins to realize her husband's incompetence. In order to get close to him and spur him to effort she works as his secretary, but as it lowers a broker's prestige to have his wife working, she poses as his sister. She is introduced to Geo. Hilton, a rich speculator, whose admiration for her brings valuable business. Mildred falls in love with him but conceals it. Mildred, alone in the house one night, receives an unexpected visit from Hilton who persuades her to go for an auto ride. She consents and leaves a note for Howard that she is going out at Hilton's request as she fears to offend him and lose his business. Gardner sees them out riding and is jealous. But Hilton and Mildred return home first. Hilton declares love and is surprised to discover that she is Gardner's wife. Feeling himself tricked, Milton sets to work to break Gardner in a copper deal which is successful.

Irvin S. Cobb, most famous of American humorists and now in Europe covering the war for the Saturday Evening Post, has become the author of Our Mutual Girl scenario. "Immediately he made things happen, and they are going to happen in profusion—exciting, dangerous, funny and absorbing things. On her eighteenth birthday Our Mutual Girl's aunt buys her a $50,000 Tiffany necklace. When Our Mutual Girl gets home and sees her beautiful present she impulsively changes her mind and determines on becoming famous for her collection of jewels. But that night a former police dog, trained by a thief to be a thief, steals Margaret's necklace. Our Mutual Girl believes that the dog is another birthday present from some friend. HOME, SWEET HOME

In every human heart there is a longing for a home, a place of refuge apart from the rest of the world. The ownership of a home inspires a man to new ideas, new hopes, new ambitions. It gives him a proprietorship which increases his self respect, elevates his impulses and spurs his energies to higher aims and greater activities. The sanctity of the home has long been recognized in law, as well as verse. To the wage earner, it paves the way to prosperity as well as contentment and happiness. Home ownership stands as a great principle to be advocated and fostered by every community and city. The law recognizes the home as our castle, and the human heart finds in the home the dearest spot on earth.

Now is the best time you will find to purchase a home in Wichita Falls, and you should call and see our list of properties. We are well posted on values and can be of great service to you in buying bargains.

GERMAN DEFEAT MEANS COSSACKISM

WALTER WELLMAN, WRITING FOR NEW YORK SUN, GIVES HIS VIEWS

FIGHTING CIVILIZATION BATTLE

War Was Forced on the Kaiser and Declared England and France Will Lose

(By Walter Wellman, in New York Sun.)

Germany fighting the battle of civilization in an effort to preserve democratic institutions in Europe and to avert the Cossackism which Napoleon predicted; the Kaiser, far from waging a campaign of aggression, forced into war of self-preservation; England and France stupidly playing into the hands of the power which threatens Europe with a dark age period of autocratic dominance; American public opinion ignorant of the facts in its hasty condemnation of the German emperor; the German people, not only in the Fatherland but in America and everywhere, supporting their government as one man and prepared to make any sacrifices; German triumph, still possible, meaning early disarmament and permanent peace, while German defeats spells generation of worldwide militarism and future wars to rescue Europe from Cossack rule.

Such are the opinions given to the Sun in an interview with Hubert Cillius, president of the New York German-American chamber of commerce.

"In America the people are making the mistake of assuming that Germany has an autocratic rule," said Mr. Cillius; "that is not so. Germany is as democratic an England or the United States. We have there the same play of free public opinion, a free press, political parties, government by party and by parliament. When Americans condemn the Kaiser they really condemn the German people. The Kaiser can not make war all by himself. He has to have the support of the bunderath. Parliament must vote the money."

German people for war.

"It is the German people who are waging this war; public opinion in that country is unanimous; there are no criticisms; there is no grumbling; the nation feels that its existence is at stake. How idle then, for Americans to hold the Kaiser alone responsible. It is the fashion in this country to single out one man and put the blame on him. But in this case, as in many cases, it is a mistake.

*Consider for a moment the conditions before the war. For 44 years

Germany had been at peace. Nearly every other country in the world has been at war in that time, even the United States. Germany has developed such a vast commercial interest all over the world it could not afford to seek a war. In war Germany has everything to lose, nothing to gain. Why should our people seek war under such circumstances?

"Germany wanted nothing from France, nothing whatever. She wanted nothing from England, except to be let alone. She wanted nothing from Russia. All Germany asked of the world was to be left peaceful and free to develop her commerce in which the prosperity of the people was wrapped up.

"If you seek a motive for the war you will have to look to other countries. France wanted to recover Alsace and Lorraine. England has long been jealous of Germany's maritime power and overseas trade; England has in the past crushed all maritime rivals; has used her naval power to stamp out competition, and now history is repeating itself.

"Russia has feared always the Austrian alliance, thinks Germany backs up Austria in barring her progress to Constantinople. Russia has for years intrigued to rouse the Balkan states and seized the pretext of Austria's demand upon Serbia for mobilization. That was the real declaration of war.

War Forced on Germany.

"Russian troops were massing on the eastern frontier. On the west Russia's allies were active. Germany was hemmed in on both sides. The enemies of Germany had created a situation in which peace or war must be quickly decided upon, for if Germany were to dally and delay her adversaries already preparing, would gain enormous advantage. But before mobilizing the Kaiser personally begged the czar to desist from mobilization. The czar refused. To France and England, Germany made all sorts of offers; they were treated with coldness.

"Thus the die was cast; thus Germany was forced into war. And war being inevitable surely it is not for energetic, quick moving Americans to condemn the Kaiser for seeing to it that as he had to strike he struck first and hard.

"We who are of German birth but now American citizens regret that this great war was forced upon the mother country. We regret that the other great democratic nations, England and France, are standing side by side with Russian autocracy. It seems strange to us Americans to checkmate Russia is Germany, and that before Germany is fighting the battle of civilization and of progress against reaction.

"If Germany is crushed in this war Russia becomes the supreme world power, controlling half of Europe and half of Asia. England and France are fighting how to build up this Cossack hegemony; if they succeed it will not be many years before they are looking everywhere for aid in striking down again.

"Make the czar the arbitrator of the affairs of Europe, as the democratic, progressive peoples of England and France are now trying to do, and it will be generations before the bond can be broken and the lost ground can be recovered. There will be only one great continental army, and that will be the army of Russia. Strike down German military power and German prestige and nothing but the Cossack remains in Europe. France and England will not be strong enough to cope with the Frankenstein they have set up.

Russia Welcomed War.

"It is no secret that Russia is threatened with internal revolution. This war, which Russia has provoked, is the way out. Revolution is submerged by the wave of patriotism and the lust for conquest. England and France are being used to pull Russia's chestnuts from the fire.

"We German Americans, who have no other feeling than friendship for the English people, marvel that English policies have maneuvered Britain into such a hopeless quagmire. No matter what the result of the war England is the loser. She loses if Russia triumphs; her ancient and long feared enemy becomes the master of the world. Then, indeed, will Britain need to guard India; then, indeed, will she have reason to fear Russian dominance in China and all the Farther East.

"If Russia wins, England and Germany lose together, but if Germany should triumph, it is still a crushing defeat for Britain. Our sympathies are strongest, of course, for the Fatherland; but we can not help giving a little pity to unfortunate England, risking everything in a hopeless war out of which it is impossible to get out.

"We German Americans feel very strongly that in this great world crisis Germany represents not only the cause of democratic institutions and progressive government but also the principle of early disarmament and rescue of the world from the feudal thralldom of excessive military burden.

"If Germany wins, that will be the end of armament on the European continent. This is Russia's last chance to master the world. If she falls now revolution breaks out and the czar ceases to be a world figure of the first class. If Germany beats France the second time in half a century—the French will give up all hope of recovery of the Eastern provinces and will be willing to join universal disarmament. So, also, with England. Once Germany has driven back the Cossack menace to Europe, the German people will ask for disarmament. That will be the end of modern militarism.

"If any one supposes the German people are infatuated with the war game and the army toy he is mistaken. The only justification for Germany's great military activity and burden of recent years is the events of today—the dire need of waging a war of self preservation. Remove that danger in future by destruction of Russian ambition and Germany's ways and hopes will be all of peace. "Throughout 40 years the German people have been making steady progress toward democratic government. The people of Germany now have more political liberty than ever before. Even the most radical socialists admit that. And during 26 of these years the present Kaiser has been on the throne.

Kaiser Stands for Peace.

"In all these 26 years the Kaiser has never been at war. More than once he has preserved the peace of Europe and would have succeeded in maintaining it now had it not been for the determination of the czar to seize the opportunity to use his ally cats-paws of the west to stop revolution at home and immeasurably strengthen Russia abroad.

"Emperor William's ambition has been to leave behind him a greater, richer, more prosperous, happier Germany. Hence he has opposed war. He has been accused of vanity—it is easy to say such things about any great strong man. But we Germans know that the Kaiser has always considered his greatness was the greatness of Germany. It is also easy to say Germany seeks territorial conquest, wants to rule the world and set up Teutonic empires overseas. But after the war of 1866, in which Germany defeated Austria in a few days, Germany could have taken all the territory she wanted, but took nothing, and Austria has been her friend ever since.

"After the French war Germany, of course, was able to dictate terms, but took only Alsace, formerly German, and a part of Lorraine, simply for protection as buffer provinces. In victory Germany has been so moderate that it is idle to accuse her of landlust.

"The German people saw this war afar off; they are not surprised that it has come. They have known that sooner or later they would be compelled to fight for their existence. Now they are unanimously behind the government. They realize the seriousness of the crisis and are prepared to make every sacrifice necessary.

People Will Sacrifice All.

"Great as the sacrifice is sure to be, it can not be said to be unparalleled. Almost exactly a hundred years ago the German people were fighting for life against another conqueror of the world, this time from the west. German men and German women then literally gave all they had. Women offered up their rings, jewelry, heirlooms; they even gave the hair of their heads to be cut and sold for the treasury of defense.

"Among the Germans here in America there is only one sentiment. We are at one with the people of the Fatherland. We all regret that the war has become necessary, but no one feels that Germany has taken any step for which she should be criticised. Not a word of complaint is heard. The feeling is absolutely unanimous.

"It is the same with ultra conservatives and the most extreme radicals among us. While we recognize the power of the coalition and therefore the danger of the situation, we have faith in the strength of German institutions, in the efficiency and valor of those who are fighting the great battle and in the justice of their cause. We are not disturbed by early reports, sent out by the enemy. We remember that in 1870 it was the same."
