DECISIVE BATTLE BEING FOUGHT EAST OF PARIS IS NOW THE BELIEF

LABOR DAY PARADE BIGGEST EVER HERE

CELEBRATION EASILY OUTSTRIPS ANYTHING OF KIND EVER ATTEMPTED HERE

PARADE PRETTY SPECTACLE

General Holiday and Immense Crowd at Lake Wichita This Afternoon

This is union labor's own day in Wichita Falls. Starting with a record breaking parade this morning and continuing this afternoon with picnics, oratory, baseball, wild west stunts, motorcycle races and other diversions, the celebration easily outstrips all previous efforts of the kind.

Observance of the holiday is by no means limited to members of labor organizations. Business houses, banks, the postoffice and practically every store is closed for the day and seemingly the entire population of Wichita Falls was gathered downtown this morning to witness the parade, the crowd being too large for the sidewalks and overflowing to the streets. It is in all respects the most successful celebration of the kind this city has ever witnessed, with weather almost perfect and conditions ideal.

Many From Out of Town.

Hundreds from out of the city came in by train and automobile to witness the parade and take part in the festivities and Wichita Falls neighbors are enjoying the day with her. The program will conclude with a big ball tonight at the Lake Wichita pavilion.

The parade this morning displayed the full strength of union labor in this city and was by far the longest procession that ever marched here. It required nearly half an hour to pass a given point. At the head rode Chief Marshal Frank Harris, followed by members of the police force and the sheriff's and constable's departments. The police were in full uniform and presented an imposing appearance. The first union in line was that of the laundry workers, only recently organized, and a long double line of young women followed the union banner, the tailors and pressers came next, then the boiler-makers clad in black work shirts and overalls.

Barbers' Float Unique.

The barbers followed, their membership being headed by a unique float. The front part of this float depicted an up to date barbershop, with all modern conveniences and a customer in the chair. The rear part portrayed a barbershop of twenty years ago and the difference was marked. This float attracted much attention and favorable comment. The bartenders followed the barbers and were succeeded by the physical Union's float which bore an immense replica of the union label. The members of the union marched behind the float.

With next in hats, the tinners were next in line and were followed

BOTH HOUSE IN SESSION TODAY

RESOLUTIONS, MEMORIALS, PETITIONS OF VARIOUS SORTS ARE OFFERED.

EMERGENCY WAREHOUSE BILL

Senate Considers House Measure. Buying Cotton With State Funds Is Proposed.

Austin, Sept. 7.—Both branches of the Legislature were in session today. In the House Representative Dove offered a resolution memorializing Congress for the immediate enactment of laws authorizing the secretary of the treasury to deposit funds in banks to loan directly to farmers on non-perishable farm products on the basis of 75 per cent of its value. Also that cotton be valued at 15 cents per pound. The resolution was referred to the federal relations committee.

A resolution to adjourn September 19 was laid on the table subject to call. Representatives Fuller, Templeton, Allison and Burgess were added to the House Judiciary committee.

Representative Woods of Navarro had a letter read from the federal department of agriculture stating the department has no means of furnishing statistics on the probable consumption of cotton in foreign countries.

Representatives Fuller, Burmeister and Humphrey offered a resolution directing the governor to invest $1,000,000 from the contingent expense fund of the second called session of the Legislature to buy cotton at 10 cents per pound. The chair ruled this out of order. The House recessed until four o'clock this afternoon.

The House Judiciary committee today considered two bills providing for the separation of cotton oil mills and cotton gins.

The administration bill was introduced by Representative Cope and the other by Humphrey. Humphrey explained his bill differs from the administration in that it applies to mills and cotton gins operated by individuals as well as corporations.

BUY A BALE MOVEMENT ENDORSED BY SENATE

By Associated Press. The Senate went on record today in favor of the movement now on throughout the country for every person to buy a bale of cotton at ten cents a pound.

The resolution was introduced by Senator Darsch. Senator McNealus opposed the resolution saying it was "sentimental moonshine" and that the cotton growers were up against a "$150,000,000 steal."

A petition was read from Floresville for some kind of a law to stay executions of all debts for six months.

Senator Terrell sent in a petition from cotton weighers asking that the law provide that cotton weighed by them before it is stored in warehouses.

Senator Williams offered a resolution against submission of a recommendation of a moratorium law. It was laid on the table subject to call.

The senate then took up the House emergency warehouse bill. It first considered the amendments assailing constitutionality of that part of the act authorizing the state to lease and control warehouses. Senator Batley offered an amendment to this amendment eliminating the feature authorizing small cities and towns to issue certificates on cotton.

Army Corps Fight in Shifts So That Troops May Rest After Engagement

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Star from Rotterdam says during the first 19 days of the war more than 25,000 trains, bearing 2,000,000 troops for the western theater of war passed over the five bridges across the Rhine at Cologne. Notwithstanding this enormous army reinforcements are still being sent, not only to replace the huge list of killed and wounded but also to carry out the German plan, that so far as possible fresh troops be hurled at men who already have borne the burden of the day.

An American just arrived from Cologne states that a German officer told him the German successes were due entirely to the fact that the troops always had a rest after an engagement. The army corps were being used in shifts.

DECISIVE BATTLE ON

GERMANS EVIDENTLY ATTEMPTING TO DELIVER CRUSHING BLOW

PURPOSE A MYSTERY

Movement to South May Be To Secure Retreat or To Envelop French Army

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 7.—Belief is growing that a great decisive battle is being fought at Verdun, the strong fortress of France on the Meuse near the French frontier. If the fourth German army marching southward cuts off the retreat of the French eastern army which recently has been holding the Germans in check between Poul, a fortified town 147 miles west of Nancy, and Epinal, also strongly fortified and near the Alsace frontier it might repeat the victory of 1870 which drove a French army of 150,000 into Switzerland.

Hopeful critics are speculating on the possibilities that the German swing around to the south may mean an effort to make sure of their retreat through the Meuse district, but more likely it is a scheme to strike a crushing blow against the French center and scatter the French armies to render safe the investment of Paris.

WHAT DOES MOVEMENT MEAN?

The southerly movement of the Germans may effect a junction of the Crown Prince's army and the army of Bavaria, which has been held on the defensive in Lorraine. Thus the Germans would advance from the east and north in a vast movement detained to crush the allies right wing by sheer weight of numbers, just as their left was pushed back during the advance from Belgium.

These preliminary movements indicate that the German general staff realizes that the occupation of Paris is quite worthless so long as the French army remains intact. Corroboration of this theory is contained in a dispatch from Berlin which describes a battle in difficult country near Verdun as the deciding conflict so far as France is concerned.

This dispatch says the opposing forces are almost equally divided but that the French have the advantage of fighting on a defensive position of their own choosing.

EMPEROR WILLIAM ON FIELD.

Another significant factor is the general understanding that Emperor William is inspecting the field of operation in this neighborhood. Reports disagree as to the exact whereabouts of the German emperor but all agree that he is in the vicinity of the France-German border.

The capture of the great French fortresses would be a terrible blow to France while the repulse of the Germans would probably mean that the investment of Paris would have to be abandoned.

Mines in the North Sea are becoming such a menace that it may be closed to navigation during the night time. The admiralty has given notice of the right to extinguish coast lights at any time which would make the work of mine laying by the Germans difficult.

GERMAN PLAN A MYSTERY.

The German plan of campaign is for the moment a mystery. The great sweep through Belgium and the plains of northern France with the constant reaching of the west to turn the left flank of the allies was understandable, even though the allies refused to believe the Germans could move so rapidly and effectively.

Yesterday's bulletin that the German from the north was turning away from Paris and driving toward the south and east appeared to be confirmed, and many support the theory that Germany now intends to strike through the center of the French army leaving Paris partially invested and crush the main French force by co-operation with another German army from Lorraine.

GERMANS WITH BACKS TO PARIS HARASSED FROM REAR

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 7.—A general action is today proceeding to the east of Paris from Nanteuil and Le-Houdouin to Verdun, according to an official communication given out this afternoon.

Nanteuil-le-Haudouin is twenty-five miles northeast of Paris and ten miles southeast of Senlis and about 120 miles from Verdun. Meaux is twenty-two miles east of Paris and twenty-five miles southwest of Epernay. Vitny le Francois on the river Marne is twenty-five miles southwest of Verdun.

Before the official announcement was made newspaper dispatches from both Berlin and London indicated that the engagement was of tremendous importance.

An attack on Nancy was reported yesterday and it is said Emperor William was on the scene. French shells continuously fall in the German rear. Observers say that it is obvious that the Germans could not attack Paris while the French armies are intact, and are continuing their wide turning under hazardous conditions.

Red Cross surgeons and ambulance have been instructed that when they hear firing they are to go in the direction of the sound. Two doctors of the American ambulance corps were the first on the field with a party of ten automobile ambulances yesterday afternoon.

They left the city in the evening following the sound of cannonading, reached the French lines and passed through them until they were within the zone between the armies. They picked up some wounded Arabs who had been pursuing the Germans. Following a trail of smoke from burning houses they met a French patrol who said 250 wounded Germans were in a church close to the German lines and attended by a single German surgeon and two nurses.

The text of the official notice says: "A general action has started on the line through Nanteuil-le-Haudouin, Meaux, Sesanne and Vitry-le-Francois and extending to Verdun. Thanks to the vigorous action of our troops brilliantly supported by the English the Germans have started retreating. The Germans had advanced Saturday and Sunday into the region between Coulommiers and LaFerte-Gaucher.

"In the Austro-Russian theatre of operations twelve divisions of Austrian army in the vicinity of Lemberg have been completely destroyed.

By Associated Press.

Paris, 12:30 p. m., Sept. 7.—In the fighting on the east an dnotheast of Paris today the German forces had their backs toward the capital. French troops are harassing the march. From time to time the Germans turn and engage at their back. French shells fall continuously in the German rear.

By Associated Press.

Paris, 4:35 p. m., Sept. 7.—Judging from reports made public in Paris German troops covering the flank of the main German army encountered an advance detachment of the allies east of the capital today at a point near La Forte Gaucher and were obliged to retire.

prophet had been warned of God not to stay in this place even so long as to eat, but to hasten on his way home. His sense of obedience was strong enough to impel him to hasten away, though the King besought him to tarry. Thus far he had performed well his duty. He had been bold in manner and speech in denouncing the sinful idolatry of the King and had resisted his intimations to stay with him awhile. But strangely and yet naturally he was still to fall before what would seem to be a much lesser temptation. Near the road which he took on his homeward journey lived a man who was also a prophet of God. He and his sons had been moved by the words of this stranger from Judah and they desired him to abide with them. The prophet told them that God's voice had bidden him not to tarry at all, but the deceiver declared that he, too, had heard the voice of God and that it was right for him to stay and refresh himself. He yielded to this temptation after refusing the King, and as a result his life was forfeited. Here is a story of a man who is told in oriental fashion, but it is very true to life. There are principles involved which operate in our lives every day. Let us see if we can discover what some of them are.

"DUTY AND THE VOICE OF GOD"

THIS WAS THEME OF REV. CHAS. CLARK SMITH IN SERMON SUNDAY NIGHT.

A PRACTICAL CONCEPTION

A Wise Thing For Everyone to Avoid Temptation — Enticements Should Be Shunned.

"Duty and the Voice of God" was the theme of Rev. Charles Clark Smith of the First M. E. church last night. "Prove the Spirits Whether They be of God," John 4:1, was his text. He said:

"It is very desirable that we should have as christian people a practical working conception of duty. The matter of duty is a principle from which there is no escape. Unless man is the highest creature of the universe with no power superior to his own, and unless there is no such thing as right or wrong, there can be no escape from the fact of duty. Every deed, great or small, is related to this all pervading principle. Few men seek to do the fact of a superior being. They may differ as to his attributes and manner of work, but generally men admit a superior being, and having admitted such a being as they concede the possibility of a power in whom all right centers. Christian philosophy finds that all right springs from the very nature of God himself. Since God is what He is, right is right, and wrong is wrong. For the thoughtful christian, therefore, every act is related to the fact of duty. But having granted this and discovered its significance, we are confronted with another difficulty which is not one of thought, but of practice. By relating everything, even the smallest acts, to the fact of duty, our conception of duty often becomes commonplace. Just as we deal with God in nature so familiarly that we lose the sense of His presence, so in the matter of duty we reduce it to the commonplace and fail to recognize that we meet face to face with God in every decision of a question of right or wrong. If I should declare with reference to some ordinary event of life that I had met with God and had found His approval upon my conduct I should probably be misunderstood and would be called eccentric, if not a fanatic. We grow so familiar with matters of duty that we leave God almost out of the consideration and fix upon some other source of authority. Often our own likes and dislikes become the determining factor in our conduct. The idea of the voice of God, while not abrogated, is still raised to the realm of the mysterious and is thought of as belonging only to the prophets and the elect, but is not understood to be for everybody and for all occasions. We see no reason why God may not speak to every soul and why every soul should not learn to value that voice, be the matter involved ever so small. The voice of God speaking to man is not a mysterious something; neither is it a commonplace. It is a perfectly normal and divinely instituted method of communication to be reverently entertained. A true sense of duty arising within one's life is nothing other than the voice of God. The devout soul is moved with a conviction of duty and the conviction is so strong that there is evidently some power back of the conviction. We see no person. We hear no audible voice. But no less certainly are we conscious of superior sanction of our motive. This is the criterion of duty and is the divinely instituted way of communicating the infinite will to us.

"The lesson story (I Kings, 13) is interesting as an illustration. This unnamed man of God from Judah was stirred by the wickedness of Jeroboam, King of Israel, and felt himself impelled of God to go up to Jeroboam and to make declarations concerning his conduct. It was a brave thing to do, but God had given him His sense of duty and since he had seen him He also went with him. Jeroboam would have smitten the prophet down, but when he raised his arm to strike God smote the arm with paralysis and thus protected His servant. The King was appalled and appealed to the prophet for help, and when, by the prophet's prayer, the King was healed, he sought to do him a favor. But the nameless

"First. Let us note that it is a wise thing for everyone, no matter how strong, to avoid all unnecessary temptation. When we have a conviction that we are in the path of duty no human intimations should be allowed to divert us from the way. The prophet's hesitancy marks the beginning of his downfall. He was in a time of reaction from an arduous task and was peculiarly susceptible to temptation. When an individual begins to debate with a sense of duty and gives his personal likes to a chance to rise above conviction, he is standing on dangerous ground. We become able after awhile to conform our thought of duty with desire. That is to say we can usually persuade ourselves that what we desire very much to do is our duty to do. Conviction and determination are very necessary to success in any direction.

"Second. Notice that a relatively small temptation is often more powerful than a large one. It would have seemed more probable that the prophet should have followed the King's wish. It would have been something of an honor to have been the guest of the King. Then, too, he might have talked more with the King about his mission and have convinced him more deeply. The prophet could have found many reasons why he should tarry with the King, but he was obedient to the commands in the fact of this large temptation. But how easily he falls when the smaller appeal comes to him. It came from one of his own rank. It was a weaker spirit that had appealed to him this time and our greatest temptations come from kindred spirits. We need to be on our guard as to our friends. The assumption of friendship does not prove that such ones may not lead us astray. That our friends mean well by us does not prove that we should always follow their behests. No one can determine for me my duty. I must determine it for myself and carry my own responsibility. Our friends may stand by, as did this false prophet and say, 'Alas, my brother,' but they can do little more.

"Third. We discover from this story that duty and the voice of God are not widely separated ideas. We don't speak today as did the ancients, but what is involved is the same. We have a conviction of right and we say, 'It is my duty.' The ancients said, 'It is God's voice.' In this light duty becomes serious. It has a moral significance. If we refuse to do our duty a sense of condemnation rests upon us, and if immediate disaster does not await us as was the fate of this man of God still we know that in the path of disobedience there is disaster. To continue to disregard the commands of duty and hence to ignore God's voice is to invite His wrath upon us.

"Fourth. From every day living we learn that to continually disregard duty brings disaster. We develop a lowered moral sense. Just as a child who defies discipline in the home and in the school grows up to have little regard for the laws of his land, so he who continually ignores moral precepts will soon have a deadened moral sense. He will distrust his own convictions and detest that within him which suggests a line of duty at all. He will not wish to be disturbed with convictions of right. He becomes a law unto himself and plainly such a man must meet with disaster.

"What then shall we say as to duty? Certainly that conviction which arises within us is nothing other than the voice of God seeking to lead us in the way which is best for us. To ignore it is to ignore divine wisdom. To ignore it is to put ourselves in antagonism to God. We defy Him when we refuse to do His bidding. Duty is apparently a commonplace word, but we see how it is a most important fact in our lives. It should be raised to its proper place in our thoughts and when God speaks to us we should be willing to listen."

PENNINGTON'S

Popular Merchandise at Popular Prices 812-814 Ohio Avenue

When contemplating the purchase of a coat suit the average buyer keeps four things in mind: the styles, the materials, the colors and the price. Our line for this season seems to us more correct and complete as to these four points that it has ever been before.

The Styles

The styles in this season's suits are many and varied as to the small details but the long coats and shorter skirts gain in popularity as the season advances. The cape suits although not as popular as the longer models are very often called for and are thought very pretty.

The Materials

With broadcloth leading, the range of materials used in coat suits this season and to be seen at this store include Gaberdines, Ripple Cloth, silk and wool poplins, Bedford cloths and serge, any of these are very serviceable and very popular.

The Colors

Black seems to have first call in the higher priced garments but in medium priced and cheaper suits Wisteria and plum come first, closely followed by Russian green, negro brown and several shades of blue. The selection of any of these shades inspires the wearer of being stylishly dressed inasmuch as the shades of materials is concerned.

The Prices

Last but by no means least comes the price. Buyers of long experience searched the eastern markets for coat suits that would fill every requirement of style, material and shade and still enable us to sell them under competitors prices. We know they have been very successful in their efforts and a showing will convince you of the same thing. Our coat suit price range is $12.50 and up to as high as $65.00.

WELLINGTON MEN IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Hon. R. H. Templeton, H. D. Creath, Bill Hunter and John Henard, well known citizens of Wellington, narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile accident, says the Wellington Leader. Mr. Creath was formerly in the banking business at Purkurnett and the other members of the party are well known here. The Leader says:

"The party had been to Canadian interested in a case before the court there. They won their case and with the draft for $5000 as settlement in Mr. Creath's pocket they left Canadian about 9 o'clock in the evening on their return home. At Wheeler they employed Mr. Rippey with his Ford to bring them on to Wellington. They reached Shamrock about 2 o'clock and then started on their last heat for home. When about five miles this side of Shamrock, when running along on a high graded embankment at a rate exceeding the caution limit they run into a place where a culvert had fallen down about three feet as a result of the earth being washed out underneath. The machine was smashed up, all four of the men above named were thrown out with some force and all pretty badly injured.

All of them were so badly injured and stunned that none of them were able to speak a word or make a move for quite awhile. The driver was not thrown from the car and he hurried to the side of the wounded men to see what he could do. Finally they all regained their senses and it was found that Mr. Templeton had one hip badly bruised and the skin pretty well ripped all over his left side. Mr. Creath had a very ugly gash cut in his forehead and other bruises. Bill Hunter had his forehead and one eye pretty badly hurt as well as other bruises and Mr. Henard had one hand painfully wrenched and for a time it was thought some bones broken. Finally a phone call was put in for a new car at Shamrock and on its arrival the party continued their journey home, reaching here about 4 o'clock this morning.

Peroxide blondes and walnut stained brunettes will have to appear in their natural colors if the hostilities in Europe last much longer. Not only has the price of cosmetics advanced from 50 to 100 per cent, but when the present supply in America is exhausted no more can be obtained. All imports of French powders, cosmetics, perfumes and soap have been

Unless some genius can be found that can produce these beauty lotions from American products then the women must rely upon charms other than those purchased in drug stores and beauty shops.

A synopsis of this picture appeared in the Sunday issue. Two Lubin split reel comedy complete the picture bill.

The Lamar Ardems. "Splinter and Smith," exponents of the latest bedroom steps and dances of the tango offer a very acceptable bill tonight. J. Warren Kerrigan is featured in a Victor drama, "Out of the Valley."

Bud Osborne, sheriff is brutal by nature, and as a result of his associations with criminals his outlook is sordid; he has no ideals or faith in men. The only thing good that he owns is a wife and baby.

Jack Lacy is wanted for the killing of a gambler at Cripple Creek. He shot the man in self-defense and escaped because the case against him looked bad. Lacy is now waiting for the arrival of his wife, who is coming West with an emigrant train. Osborne is offered a reward of $1,000 if he will capture Lacy. He needs the money and so arrests Lacy.

While the sheriff and his prisoner are returning to town they are attacked by Indians. Osborne is wounded. Lacy saves him. The Indian uprising is general and the emigrant train in which Mrs. Lacy is traveling is likewise attacked. However, the emigrants successfully repel the Indians.

While Lacy is helping the wounded Osborne along he meets the emigrant train. Lacy's first thought is of his wife and he leaves the sheriff to find her. When Osborne recovers his strength he thinks of his prisoner and of the handsome reward for his capture. He inquires after Lacy and goes to arrest him. Pushing back the flap of the wagon Osborne looks inside.

He sees a young woman on a straw mattress with a baby on her breast and over the woman and baby is bending Lacy, the outlaw. Osborne mounts his horse and rides home to his own family.

The Empress. "A Fight for Love" is a thrilling picture in three reels, depicting the contest between jealous rivals. One other picture is shown.

The Victoria. "The Million Dollar Mystery" which becomes more and more interesting with each successive installment will be seen here today.

Other pictures are "The Sheriff of Bisbee," a two reel Kay Bea. In order to obtain money for an operation on his child, Bud Farone sells whiskey to the Indians. Ed Simms, candidate for sheriff, realizing that his knowledge of Farone's illicit traffic may enable him to be elected, calls a meeting and tells Farone, Farone, Simms, elected sheriff, Blake the former sheriff, hoping to redeem himself, sets out in pursuit of Farone. Farone comes upon Blake while he is asleep and disarms him. He agrees to return to Bisbee. If Blake will give Mrs. Farone $500 of the $1,000 reward, Blake agrees and Farone is taken to jail. Blake furnishes Farone a key to his cell and Farone escapes, when the citizens depose Simms and re-elect Blake. Mrs. Farone gets the money.

The Majestic. Ormi Hawley is featured in a Lubin two reel "Codes of Honor" and Richard C. Travers and Gerda Homes are featured in "At the Foot of the Hills."

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to get to bed. In fact, most of the time, I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

by the carpenters, with work shams and caps indicating their calling. The steam stiers, clad in overalls, were next in order and after them came the painters and paper-hangers, attired in the white overalls and caps they wear at work and carrying rulers. That ended the line of unions.

Fraternities Displays Pleasing.

The second division was headed by a band and was comprised of fraternal floats and advertising floats. The fire department rode at the head of this division. The first fraternity in line was the Yeomen in a mammoth float with the members in the full and fantastic regalia of the order, presenting a striking appearance. A Woodmen of the World float was next, filled with little boys and girls. Then came a goat team and the uniformed drill team of the local camp. The Mystic Circle followed, in a gorgeous float bedecked in the colors of the order and filled with its members. A number of decorated and undecorated automobiles followed, with cowboys, Indians, motorcycles and business floats closing up the line.

Some clever business floats were in evidence. The Noble-Frank Hardware Company had a three wagon display, laden with samples of its wares. The McFall Transfer and Storage Company had all of its teams and wagons in line. The Deluxe Tailoring shop had a novel display, which included a negro sunny pushing a baby in a perambulator; it bore the label "three weeks old; watch it grow." The P. B. M. Company had its delivery auto decorated and on top rode a goat, with the sign "a knocker came to town and we got his goat." The goat, so far from entering into the spirit of the occasion, proceeded to make a meal of the decorations. The Armour Grape Juice agency also had a very attractive and effective display.

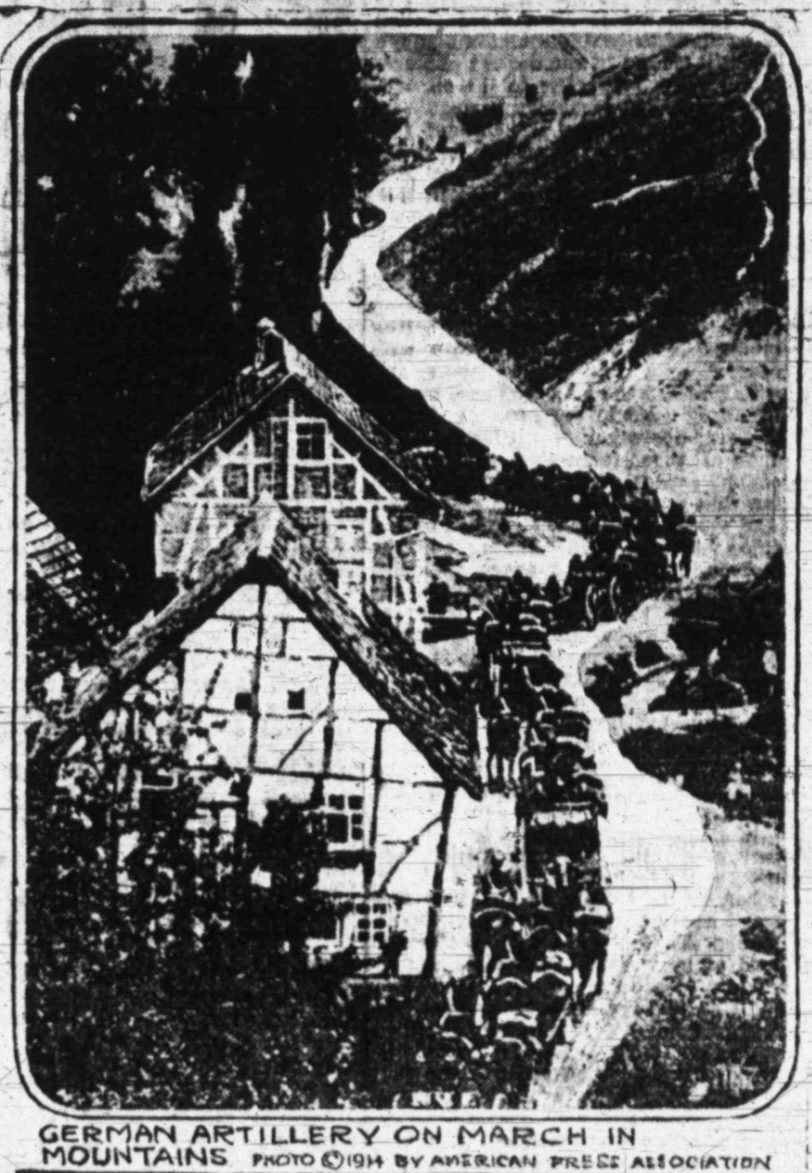

The parade was but an introduction to the main festivities of the day and before the procession had passed street cars loaded with passengers were on their way to the lake.

W. O. W. Awarded Prize.

The committee on parade prizes, consisting of E. J. Harrison, H. G. Robb and J. B. Marlow awarded the first prize for fraternal and business floats to the Woodmen of the World. The committee hesitated long between this float and that of the Yeomen, but finally gave it to the Woodmen because of the point the latter made in the protection of the children, who had a prominent part in the display.

This afternoon the festivities at Lake Wichita are well under way and an immense throng on hand to take part. All the lake attractions are being enjoyed. The branch basketball game was watched with interest, while the baseball game and motorcycle races were a source of entertainment to many. Tonight the pavilion will

BOSTON'S SPURT SEASON'S SENSATION

FROM LAST PLACE TO TIE FOR FIRST IN LITTLE MORE THAN MONTH IS RECORD.

GREAT BILLIARD CONTEST

Hoppe and Inman Will Cross Cues in Series That Calls For 22,000 Points.

By Associated Press.

New York, September 7.—The remarkable spurt of the Boston National League club which carried it from last place to a tie for first position in a little more than a month established a new record in major league. While the Braves never seriously threatened the record of continuous victories they won strings of games ranging from four to seven straight with seldom more than one defeat breaking the sequence and as a result the climb from the National League cellar to tie with the New York Giants for first place on August 24 was extremely sensational.

It is hard to fix the exact date upon which the Braves first showed signs of the rush that was destined to carry them from the bottom to the top of the league in less than six weeks. On Monday July 6, the club was in last place, having won 26 games and lost 49 for a percentage of .394. Philadelphia held seventh place with 467. On that date the Braves started a run of four victories and continued with few defeats until August 24. During this period Boston met every club in the league except Philadelphia, winning 33 games; losing 8 and tying one. While playing at this 805 clip the Braves scored 164 runs, 335 hits, made 64 errors and had 285 runners stranded on the bases. The averages show that but 1.27 errors were made per game and one run scored for every two hits. The best run of victories was made between July 27 and August 4, when nine games in a row were won from Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh. It is also a peculiar coincidence that these same clubs aided by Cincinnati accounted for the eight games lost by the Braves, during the period under consideration.

Nothing like this rally or rush has heretofore been recorded in the annals of the big league. The nearest approach was the dash of the Chicago White Sox in 1906, when under the management of Fieldor Jones the Chicago club by winning nineteen straight games lifted itself from seventh to first place in the American League and later defeated the Chicago National in the world's championship series 4 games to 2. Even this run fell short of the record for the major league figures were set at twenty games by the Providence Club of the National League in 1884 and the minor league record of twenty-eight games made by the Corsicans Club, of the Texas League in 1902.

Billiard contests between experts always attract attention the world over, but followers of the game in the United States and Canada will be afforded an unusual opportunity within the next two months of witnessing the acknowledged professional masters of the English and American styles in an international series of matches, the games in which will be played alternately by Willie Hoppe of New York, the world's champion billiard player will cross cues with Melbourne Inman of England, who is the world's best cue-wielder at the English game of "winning and losing hazard."

The series calls for 22,000 points up, divided equally between the two styles of billiards and three distinct matches will be played. The first of these, consisting of 6,000 points, will be decided in New York, followed by another, under similar conditions, in

May Be October Before Russians Invade Germany

London, Sept. 7.—To depend upon immediate pressure by the Russian armies upon the Germans and particularly upon Berlin is to depend upon a vain thing. Real pressure from Russia can not come before the end of October. There can be no immediate pressure upon Germany from the very nature of the operations to which the Russian armies on the eastern frontier of the war are committed.

The Kaiser will have no reason for several weeks to transfer any of his forces from the west to the east frontier.

This is due to three factors:

1. The great distance involved.
2. The lack of communications or railway lines to the east of the Russian frontier.
3. The presence of considerable opposing forces strong enough not to prevent, but to delay Russia's march westward.

Russia's invasion of Germany will be neither unchecked nor particularly rapid. Two things have happened this week one of which was certainly fortunate for Russia and the other certainly unfortunate.

The unfortunate thing is the defeat suffered by the forces which have been invading East Prussia. This defeat appears to have taken place in front of Osterode. We have the Russian admission of check, and we have the further admission of great numbers having been brought up against two army corps which were caught in isolation.

We ought not to attach undue importance even to an action of this kind, which would have been decisive in any of the smaller wars of the past, but it is a very important thing. It will be retrieved and it will be retrieved by numbers as also, by the intense determination of Russia, but for the moment it makes progress towards the line of the Vistula, Danzig, Graudenz and Thorn impossible, and Russia's sweep through Eastern Prussia towards the lower Vistula has been held up.

The second piece of news, fortunate rather than unfortunate, to Prussia, though not yet conclusive, equally proves with what deliberation the western advance must be undertaken.

It is upon a much larger scale than the check received to the north of Russian Poland in Eastern Prussia, and the field in which it has taken place in Galicia, that is the northern belt of Russian dominions, and the Russian border and the southern part of that western projecting lump of Prussia. Here an Austrian advance has been proceeding during the past

MAY LAUNCH BUY A BALE MOVE HERE

METHOD TAKEN BY OTHER CITIES TO RELIEVE COTTON SITUATION RECEIVES FAVOR.

EVERYBODY TO BUY A BALE

Ten Cents is Price Fixed—Definite Steps May Be Taken Within Few Days.

Although the movement has not yet taken definite form, efforts are being made here to inaugurate the "buy a bale of cotton" plan, which business men in a number of Texas cities have adopted.

This plan consists simply in having as many business men and others as possible buy a bale of cotton at ten cents per pound, the idea being to aid the farmers in disposing of their crop and getting more money in circulation. Several Texas cities have inaugurated this movement, which seems to be meeting with considerable favor.

It is believed that a great many business men here could afford to buy one or more bales each and hold the cotton for a better market, especially considering the fact that the money thus spent will come back, in considerable measure, to the men who buy the cotton. With the market price of cotton rapidly declining, and little demand from the spinners, farmers who have cotton are facing the prospect of seeing the products of their year's labor go for less than enough to pay the expenses of the crop, to say nothing of meeting notes due to merchants and banks. It is to relieve such a situation that the "buy a bale" movement has been inaugurated.

The matter has been informally discussed among local business men, and it is probable that the next few days will see definite steps taken to plan into effect.

Chicago and later on a third match of 10,000 points will be played during a tour of the leading cities in Canada. Each match will be for $1,000 a side and a winning and losing share of the gate receipts. The rules governing the American games will be 18.2 inch balk line; one shot in anchor while the "spot" and "anchor" shots will be barred; all the contests on the big English table. The New York series will begin September 28 and conclude October 2, and the Chicago dates are from October 12 to 17 inclusive. The Canadian dates and places of meeting will be arranged later on.

How much capital is there invested in banks in Wichita county? Get out your pencil and figure it up, including the surplus, and it will be found that there is close to one million dollars, and every dollar is considered worth more than its par value. When you get through figuring on the capital and surplus of the banks, then figure up how much money has gone out of Wichita county for the purchase of automobiles and automobile supplies. The county clerk's office shows that nearly one thousand autos have been registered. They cost originally, perhaps $1,000 on an average. That means about one million dollars, to say nothing of the supplies and extra parts. Yet, there are some of us who are wondering at the scarcity of money.

The cotton market has been in a sea-saw for two weeks, when it was expected that it would only take about one week, or perhaps at most, to recover from what it was called together for. In the meantime, cotton continues to go down in price, falling as low as 75 cents per pound in some markets. The promise is now made that a warehouse bill of some kind will be passed by Saturday. Let us hope, that the prediction may come true. The Legislature has played the political game long enough, and if it cannot do something that is worth while this week, it had better adjourn.

In Denton county the farmers have organized and agreed to pay 50 cents per hundred and no more for cotton pickers. Last year the price was 75 cents per hundred. But the crop is so much heavier this year than last that those who ought to know admit that a cotton-picker can earn more money by picking cotton this year at 50 cents per hundred than he could last year at 75 cents per hundred. The Denton county farmers, however, do not give that as their reason for refusing to pay more than 50 cents per 100 for cotton picking. They contend that low prices offered for cotton is the cause or reason for reducing the price of cotton picking. If they stick to their agreement, however, the chances are that there will be much cotton that will not be picked at all.

The federal government finds that it is necessary to levy a special tax in order to raise about $1,000,000,000 annually to make up the shortage of revenue that comes in as a tariff on foreign made goods, but which has been cut short by the European war. Those of our statesmen who are figuring on the proposition say that about $55,000,000 annually can be provided by levying a special or extra tax on lager beer. That suits us all right. We will not have to pay any of the extra tax if it stops right there. If there is danger of it going further, a lawyer of this city makes the suggestion that some senator or congressman introduce a bill to tax the salaries of all federal officers who draw more than $3,000 annually, including that of their own and the President's. The dear "peepul" should not be made to pack all the burdens of a war in which they are taking no part and don't seem to care which side wins. It would be a nice way for some senator or congressman to show his patriotism, and at the same time bring himself into the limelight.

WITHHOLD JUDGMENT.

(San Antonio Light) A French newspaper, in 1870 commenting on German "atrocities," said of Bismarck: "He is a brutal husband, is always vexing his wife and making her bear the burden of his fiery, wanton, malicious and brutal nature. He forgets his high place and treats her as a Prussian peasant would be; he belabors her with a whip, and we are told that this is by no means uncommon in Germany." The great Bismarck laughed when this was shown him, and made it public himself in Germany. Its reaction was strongly in his favor.

Elderly people who remember the civil war, will recall that there were stories a rife on both sides of the brutalities and atrocities said to have been committed on the other. Especially did each partisan repeat stories of terrible abuse meted out to prisoners of war in the hands of the enemy. The southerner—in the north—as a cruel brute, cracking the whip over the helpless negro and showing no mercy to the Yankee who fell into his hands. The northerner—in the south—was a commercialized and pitiless monster, threatening the homes and women folk of the south for no other reason than vicious hatred.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS TO SAY ABOUT LOANING MONEY ON COTTON.

The First National Bank has received the following letter from the Treasury Department with reference to the issuance of currency: "Among the eligible securities to be used as a basis for the issue of currency, I have decided to accept from national banks, through their respective national currency associations, notes secured by warehouse receipts for cotton or tobacco, and having not more than four months to run, at 75 per cent of their face value. The banks and the assets of all banks belonging to the currency association will be jointly and severally liable to the United States for the redemption of an additional circulation, and a lien will extend to and cover the assets of all banks belonging to the association and to the securities deposited by the banks with the association, pursuant to the provisions of law, but each bank composing such association will be liable only in proportion that its capital and surplus bear to the aggregate capital and surplus of all such banks.

"This plan ought to enable the farmers to pick and market the cotton crop if the bankers, merchants and cotton manufacturers will co-operate with each other and with the farmers, and will avail of the relief offered by the Treasury within reasonable limits. Such co-operation is earnestly urged upon all those interested. The farmer cannot expect as high a price for cotton this year because of the European war, yet he should not be forced to sacrifice his crop. The banker and the merchant should not exact excessive rates of interest and the manufacturers should replenish their stocks as much as possible and pay reasonable prices for the product. If this is done, and it can be done if everyone displays a helpful spirit, a normal condition can be restored, and there ought to be no serious difficulty in taking care of the cotton problem.

"This is a time when the entire country expects that purely selfish interests shall be subordinated to the common good; that undue advantage shall not be taken of the necessities of each other. I am happy to say that this spirit seemed to animate those who attended the so-called cotton conference held at my request in Washington on August 24 and 25.

"It is not my purpose to prescribe the character of warehouses in which cotton and tobacco may be stored. The banks will be relied upon to see that warehouse receipts issued by responsible warehouse men or warehouse companies alone are accepted, and that the cotton and tobacco stored in such warehouses is covered by adequate fire insurance and is protected against injury by the elements."

SANDBAGGING BELGIUM.

The apologists for Germany's war policy, including even such scholars as Professors Kuno Francke and Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard University, have been so busy trying to outdo each other in their efforts to justify the war, that they have forgotten to mention the fact that the neutrality of that little country, Belgium, for all its policy of "blood and iron," his harsh readiness to break eggs to make an omelette, respected that promise during the Franco-Prussian War. Not only did the Germans not invade France by the Belgian coast in 1870, but they kept up the project of bringing back their wounded by the shortest route through the neutral territory. The present outbreak finds Germany doing her best hard fighting against Belgium, not England or France or Russia. The promises and precedents of over eighty years are thrown to the winds and the neutral territory feels the harshest rigors of war. The Germans go even further and demand a $40,000,000 ransom from Brussels, which is the same thing as assaulting a peaceful citizen and then robbing him to pay your expenses. The terrible thing is that these measures are taken at the very start of the struggle, and are, therefore, not the result of dire necessity, but of the coolly and carefully laid plans of the German general staff. These plans must have been known to the Kaiser and must have been approved by him. Germany, therefore, stands before the world as the embodiment of brutal military force, a power to which no promise is sacred. This is insane autocracy no more represents German culture than Croker or Murphy represents American political life. These power-crazed militarists at Berlin have bet everything on winning, and the future must show whether the modern world can tolerate any such at the head of a great government and a great people. This is why public opinion everywhere is against the Germans and why it is justified. A teacher who sees no moral wrong in what Germany has done to Belgium is not our idea of a good guide for youth. The men we have in mind are Professor Francke and Professor Munsterberg of Harvard.—Columbia Weekly.

ber the reports that the Spanish mutilated the bodies of the enemy which followed. Accusations against the enemy are the common accompaniment of all wars. War is what Sherman said it was, and it cannot be fought with kid gloves. Ancient chivalry attempted to make it a polite art, and to modern eyes only succeeded in making it ridiculous. Men cannot kill one another in battle without bloodshed, nor is it to be expected that prisoners seized in the heat of war will always find their lot pleasant. The innocent in the path of an advancing army are bound to have their share of hardship. Bullets do not always go where they are aimed. All the savage hatred ordinarily imprisoned in the breast of civilized man rushes out in time of war. He loses all his self-control, his neighborliness, his sense of his neighbor. Thinking evil, speaking evil and believing evil of the enemy, is as much a concomitant of war as rifles and powder.

There is not a combatant in all the European struggle against whose forces charges of "atrocities" or violations of the rules of war have not already been made. Perhaps some of them are more or less true, but we cannot tell from the evidence. The safest thing is to take all such reports with a due allowance for the excitement and hatred of those who set them going, and wait for the end of the war to learn whether one set of "atrocities" has greater baseness than another.

MEXICAN DROWNED NEAR IOWA PARK IN WICHITA

Riding Log in River When He Fell Off—Body Buried With Queer Rites. A Mexican whose name was not learned met death in the Wichita river late Saturday night near the bridge leading to the Iowa Park oil field, about seven miles west of Wichita Falls. With a companion, the Mexican was riding a log in the river and is thought to have fallen off and drowned before assistance could be given. The body was recovered yesterday morning and was taken in charge by a number of Mexicans from Iowa Park. They put a new suit of clothes on over the clothes the dead man wore, sprinkled the corpse with flour and salt, in accordance with Mexican customs, and buried it near Iowa Park. The grave was then decorated with tin cans and with rocks arranged in artistic designs and was an object of considerable curiosity at Iowa Park.

New York, Sept. 7.—Considerable progress toward relieving conditions created by the European war was made last week. For the first time since the closing of the Stock Exchange the domestic financial situation offered hope for a return to normal.

President Wilson's war tax message to Congress, optimism by the bankers in conferences at Washington and the formation of a banking syndicate to take care of New York City's maturing obligations abroad were auspicious events which heartened the financial community. The decision of the Washington conference to urge the immediate organization of the Federal reserve system also is sure to be hailed with general satisfaction.

BURIAL FUND FOR CONFEDERATE VETERANS ASKED Dallas, Sept. 7.—An appeal was made yesterday afternoon to the Confederate veterans of Dallas to memorialize the State Legislature to create a fund to be used in paying the expenses of burying Confederate, G. A. R. and Spanish war veterans. Captain Hunerberg, a Spanish war veteran, told the Confederate soldiers that many other states had provided such a fund, and he thought it only right that Texas should do likewise. The appeal was made at the regular weekly meeting of Sterling Price Camp, No. 31, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Commander J. M. Cochran appointed T. H. Craddock, J. H. Mathis, W. T. G. Kendall, W. H. Hassell, Dr. S. A. Hayden and A. F. Ansley as a committee to confer with other veterans over the State as to the advisability of the plan suggested by Captain Hunerberg.

War Will Cost Seventy Billions

New York, Sept. 7.—Taking issue with other statisticians more moderate in their estimates, Nikola Tesla, the famous inventor of electrical contrivances, said the total cost of the general war now going on probably will not be less than $70,000,000,000. "The present war may easily involve 20,000,000 combatants," said Mr. Tesla. "I have seen an estimate of a total cost of $50,000,000 a day. This is too low. The number of those disabled through wounds and disease was recently placed at 500,000. This, also, is too moderate. It would be less than 2 1/2 per cent and it must be remembered that in the most recent great war preceding this, the Balkan struggle, their casualties were ten times greater or 25 per cent. "Observe that it is reported Belgium lost $300,000,000 in two weeks fighting while there were no large cities in the path of the Germans. "The difficulty with most statisticians of war losses is that they simply consider the cost of military operations. This is a small fraction of the whole waste. "To measure the losses due to war merely by statistical standards is absurd. An example will make this clear. The strain imposed upon a country in a state of siege is compelling of strict economy. The savings thus affected go to offset the drain of war. Theoretically it is possible for a nation, by living on bread and water and curtailing all expenses, to accumulate enough for not only meeting the cost of military operations but leaving surplus besides. "From the point of view of the statistician such a war, far from being costly, would be the very means of creating wealth. "It is equally unreasonable to define the waste of international conflict as the excess of waste in time of war over that in time of peace. A quantity 'a' may be deducted from a quantity 'b' on the supposition, however, that the quantities are composed of identical units.

"Now, while the same human beings are concerned, both in peace and war, these two states bear no resemblance to each other. In one, reason and sober sense, a feeling of safety and desire to do justice prevail; in the other these beneficial influences are weakened, and folly, fear and greed assert themselves. War changes individuals as well as values. "A true appreciation of the enormous losses which are likely to result from this unprecedented calamity can only be gained by taking into account its effect on all phases and conditions of individual and national existence. Stated in the order of their magnitude these losses may be enumerated as follows: "First, temporary or permanent shrinkage of wealth of nations as distinct from negotiable securities. The total wealth of the countries involved is about three hundred billions of dollars. Assume only a moderate production of 10 per cent and suppose further that the war should last from six to seven months or about two hundred days, as forecast by experts, then the daily shrinkage will amount to $150,000,000. To be sure such reprecipitation of physical possessions is mostly due to ignorance and fatal heartiness of the people, for their properties are there and some are indestructible. But just the same the warring nations will lose credit and purchasing power and will be subjected for an indefinite period to sufferings and privations, all of which must be interpreted as loss of so much money."

HOUSTON'S SHIP CANAL WAS COMPLETED TODAY

In the World of Sports

Both men have been practicing earnestly for some months, each of course paying a great deal of attention to his opponent's style of game, and the matches should afford billiard lovers splendid opportunities for interesting comparisons. Twenty-one years ago, May 29 to June 2, 1893, the late Frank C. Ives, the Michigan cue wonder, who was known as the Napoleon of French and American billiards, played a series of three matches with John Roberts, Jr., the English billiard champion; the first in London, England, the other two in Chicago and New York, at the English style exclusively. Ives won the London match 4,900 to 3,821, mainly through the "anchor" shot with two object balls "choked" in the mouth of a corner pocket. This was a trick which Ives had learned from his tutor at the American game, the late Jake Schaefer of Chicago, and having once secured this "position" Ives could have continued to click off caroms interminably. The English champion was prevented, under the conditions of the match, from playing the "spot" stroke more than once, because he could keep counting from that position almost continuously as Ives did the "anchor" stroke. At Chicago, the following September Ives defeated Roberts again, by a score of 6,000 to 3,000 under similar conditions, but two weeks later they met in New York in a match of 10,000 points up, with the "spot" and "anchor" barred, and under these changed conditions Roberts won after a most interesting week's play by 10,000 to 8,738. During this match Ives surprised Roberts and all the other experts of his deftness and the "rail" nurse in which by diligent practice, he had mastered the art of turning corners and passing the side pockets without pocketing a ball. In one game with Roberts far in the lead, Ives made three runs of 651, 515 and 395, a total of 1561 points at this style of play and the following day made another run of 586. On the final day of the match, although Roberts was 1,041 points in the lead, the English Champion declared that he did not feel that he a safe margin as Ives was likely to run out the game with his wonderful "rail" work but Ives was unable to secure his favorite position that day and Roberts won handily. The conditions of the coming series are unique as each man will have the opportunity of pulling up at his own style should his opponents "home" game become too strong and if Hoppe can develop the "rail" nurse to any degree of efficiency his well known ability at balk line play should give him a splendid chance of winning the larger share of the money prizes. Th passing of the 1914 baseball season is marked today by the completion of a number of the minor league baseball pennant races. Beginning with the Class B leagues and extending through to the class D division leagues in all part of this country and Canada close with Labor Day doubleheaders. Among the most prominent associations which play their final schedule contests are the Central League; Illinois-Indiana-Iowa League; Texas State League; Tri-State League; Canadian and Northern Leagues; Atlantic League; Central Association; K. I. T. League; Nebraska State League; Western Association and Western Canada League. The two major leagues have still one month of play ahead for they are not scheduled to end their flag chasing activities until October 7. Before that date rolls around, every league enrolled in the N. A. P. B. L. except the American, National and Pacific Coast Leagues, will have closed their season. The far western Association boasts the longest period of schedule play for the Pacific Coast league began play on March 31 and continues until October 25. At Garden City, L. I., this week collegian golfers will traverse the links of the local club in quest of the annual award of team and individual championship honors from the Intercollegiate Golf Association. The first three days and probably the early part of Thursday will be devoted to the decision of the team championship tie-lead during the remainder of the tournament a qualifying medal play round followed by rounds of match play will be the order for the individual prize. Eight teams are expected to take part in the first half of the tourney representing Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell, Williams and probably Amherst and Dartmouth. The only championship teams since the Intercollegiate Association was organized. Yale having won twelve times and Harvard six. Yale has held the honor since 1905 with nine consecutive victories. In the first three of these nine contests Princeton was the runner up; Harvard was second for next five seasons and the last year at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, Philadelphia. Williams reached the final stage but was beaten by Yale, six matches to three. Yale also holds the honor of having won the greatest number of individual championships; the New Haven collegians having finished first eight times, while Harvard won six games and Princeton four of the eighteen premier medals awarded.

BAPTIST REVIVAL COMES TO CLOSE

REV. MILLER DELIVERS POWERFUL SERMON FROM PARABLE OF THE EAGLE

GOD STIRRING MEN'S HEARTS

Pastor Interesting Lessons From Bible Story of Natural History of Eagle and Young

As it has been every Sunday night, the house was crowded to its full capacity last night at the final sermon which was preached at the Baptist revival. Announcement was made for the Women's Alliance which meets today at four o'clock at the church. Wednesday at 9:30 the district Baptist convention will meet at Electra and delegates were elected to attend last night. And next Sunday at the evening service the hand of church fellowship will be extended to all recent additions to the church during the revival. The pastor promised a surprise for the congregation at that time.

Last night the speaker's sermon was closely interwoven with a plain simple tale from natural history—the story of an eagle. As a starter he read this paragraph from the Scripture: "And as an eagle stirreth up its nest and flutters over its young, so the Lord alone, did lead him." The speaker said that God deals with men as the eagle with its young—tenderly.

Rev. Miller confessed in the beginning that his sermon was especially for the young folk and the first part of it would be the tale of an eagle's nest.

Condensed, his tale runs about as follows: "The eagle builds its nest high above the earth and low below the top of the mountain on a ledge of rock where no enemy could get to it. Here the speaker said that lots of children would be better off if their parents would take the same precautions in their rearing. Incidentally he directed a few stinging remarks at places that are the enemies to the children as the wild animals are to the eagle.

So great a reputation has Wichita Falls for its saloons, he said, that once a man addressed him "Rev. R. C. Miller, Whiskey Falls, Texas." He said the man who did this was not a Christian, but he was a successful business man and had a profound disgust for the saloon town. "It behoves us to be more careful about the surroundings in which our children are reared," said the pastor.

And an attractive place, the home ought to be so powerful that there would be no temptation for the boys to go to the saloon for diversionment. When such is the case, there will be no occasion for the boys to leave the home, he said.

The pastor said that he lived within a few miles of the home of Jesse James and his equally bold brother, and neither of those gentlemen were as mean as they were pictured in the newspapers which were circulated to the glibly reading public and which were doing the lion's share of leading young boys into devils.

Such literature if it deserves such a name—caused little boys to want to play the part of that eminent desperado, he said.

At the eagle stirreth up its young, so also does God intend to stir the hearts of men," he declared. Further he said that there were many who would not come to church and hear the sermon for fear that they would be stirred up. They did not want to be under the influence of God.

Just the other day a young man fell down before his mother on his knees and began to cry because he was in a business which was not a credit to his name, which brought disgrace instead of a good reputation. Nothing but the power of God would make such a man in such business realize his insignificance, and fellow, declared the man speaking.

Once a man was freezing to death and had set down by the roadside. He felt comfortable. All freezing men do. Along came a friend, reached the condition, tried to get him to move and the old man would not. The friend knew that something must be done, so he got a limb from a tree and gave the freezing man a good whipping. This to make it more clear he told of a crooked man who was an incorrigible sinner as it would be possible to find within a reasonable length of time. The church members had permission to hold prayer meeting in his home. Finally he consented but told them that he would not permit any of his friends to pray for him. And so it was held the next day.

The prayer meeting was the owner of the home who was not present for he said that he had no time for such foolishness and had gone about his work. The next day a different house they prayed for him and continued to go for the rest of the week. And the next Sunday the hardened sinner was at church and another hardened sinner of the same caliber was there too. And toward the last of the sermon both gentlemen got happy and began begging each other like two young people very much in love on a park bench at 10:30 o'clock. Nothing but the power of God and prayer would stir up the hearts of men like that. "God works mysteriously. His hearts to stir," the pastor said.

Another man—young this time—who had never thought one syllable seriously about the Almighty was looking into the barrel of a business-like revolver with serious intentions of blowing out what few brains he had left from his night's dissipation. As he was on the point of pressing the trigger which would have loosened a bullet from the barrel, he dropped the revolver and began shouting, for the spirit of God had entered his heart and right then he had received everlasting life. The next day he got a letter from his mother saying that she knew he had been converted at two o'clock the night before because she had prayed for it from dark and at that hour she had become so happy that she shouted "As the eagle stirreth up its young and flutters over its young, so also does God stir up the heart of man," said Rev. Miller.

But when an eagle is trying to teach its young to fly and the young won't try, the eagle leaves it on the ledge to starve. So also does God leave us when we fail to try to receive his word. My spirit shall not always strive to convert," he said, in ending.

Four persons responded to the invitation extended by the pastor and were Baptized last night in company with all the other additions that were secured during the revival. "Dozens of others held up their hands as an indication that they wanted to be Christians and were given an ardent prayer."

WOODMEN HAPPY OVER WINNING PARADE PRIZE

The members of the Wichita Falls Camp No. 3001, Woodmen of the World, are quite happy over winning first prize in the parade this morning. The prize was a gold medal, a silver medal and a silver cup. The woodmen were in perfect condition, and their military movements added much interest to the parade.

The Wichita Falls Camp 3001, was organized eighteen months ago with thirty members, but its growth has been in pace with the city, and today the order boasts of 225 members. The same drill team will leave on the 16th of this month for Childress, Texas, to compete with the West Texas teams for a $200 prize. The team will be drilled and led by S. E. Simpson and Bob Roark.

NEARLY EVERY ENGLISH FAMILY FEELING WAR

(By Mail From London)

In nearly every British home the mustering of the territorial or militia has caused gloom. When the conscription forces were mobilized food mothers and wives consoled themselves with "Of course, it's only a temporary thing." Lord Kitchener's appeal for another half million men made them realize that the regular army might find the contract a bit above them, and the manner in which the territorial forces were mobilized left little doubt that for all intents and purposes they were regarded as "regulars."

Careful veterans didn't harp too much on the details of mobilization when talking to their wives, but the youngsters, proud of their new importance, gave the game away to anxious mothers. With some four hundred thousand territorials under arms, scarcely an English family is not affected, and when young John, released from barracks a few hours ago, there are heart tremors over details of his equipment.

The scarlet and blue dress uniforms are laid aside in the store cupboard and in place there is the business-like khaki kit used for drill only. The building bandoliers are no novelties, but there are other items that have never before been seen in the homes of citizen soldiers.

"What is that?" asks mother, when John goes over his kit. "Oh, that's the emergency ration," John said proudly pointing to a small package sealed and stamped with the war office "Urgent Instructions." "Only to be used when food supplies have given out, and then only by the orders of an officer," says John, unmindful of mother's uneasy movement.

"Of course, you won't want that," says mother hopefully, turning to the next item. "What's this book for?" "Oh, that's my bank book," must produce it when I want an advance of pay" is the reply.

The women folk look through it only mildly interested until they see the grim "Form of will, with the next of kin" page at the end of the book. The "bank book" is hastily replaced.

"What is that?" That's my cushion," says Johnson.

The cushion is a square packet six inches by five, labeled "emergency bandages" and containing instructions as to the method of binding up dangerous wounds. Another soldier then gives him a round coin, a mother or wife feels a little medallion round the territorial's neck.

"Why, what on earth have you got there, a locket?"

"No, that's my song, identification ticket you know." The little leaden medal tied around the neck with a string is inscribed "John Smith, No. 45, 478, City of London, Regiment C. D. E."

TRIED TO BRIBE HER

By CHARLES PHELPS CUSHING.

Mamie Shager was in one of her gloomy moods. It was a muggy evening that took the luster from her policeman's star and the millinery maitresse from her uniform. There was a smudge of soot on one of her white gloves. She twirled her club until it struck her on the crazy bone. A little farther down the street she splashed into a puddle and spoiled a shoe shine. An obstinate lock of hair kept coming down from under her helmet.

Overcome with a sense of her unfitness to ornament the highways, she began to maneuver into the shelter of every shadow. When a low-hanging branch dashed off her helmet and fully mussed her hair, she decided to journey to the next signal-station by way of the alleys.

For half a block she trudged down one of these alleys where the blackness was almost as unrelieved as in a cave. In the dark she quickly became again what we are accustomed to describe as "manful."

A faint noise, something like the snapping of a piece of kindling wood, caught her ear!

It was followed by the unmistakable tinkle of bits of glass dropping on stone. Mamie paused and listened calmly.

Five minutes later came some more tinkling of glass and the thump of two heels on the pavement. The policeman pressed a button and the burglar was illuminated as if by a sudden spotlight. He scarcely needed to be told to throw up his hands. Mamie dexterously acquired his revolver, his tools and a jingling bundle in a canvas bag.

Then she marched him on down the alley and out in the glare of an arc light. They were at the edge of a little park. The alarm box, toward which the policeman was headed, was in a shelter house straight ahead. When they reached the door of it she commanded:

"Step in!"

She followed him, switching on the electric lights.

"Holy mackerel!" the burglar gasped. "A woman cop! Pinched by a skirt!"

"Put up your wrists!" she ordered. "Not that way! Like this!" She laughed. "You've never been arrested before?"

"Never by a woman," he agreed.

"Cut that stuff," she interrupted testily, "or I'll paste you one over the dome."

"Did any one ever tell you that that uniform sets you off handsomely?"

"No!"

"Well, it does, just the same—though it would make most women look as ugly as a clay bank."

"I'm sure it's very kind of you to say so—"

"I mean it," he insisted. "I wouldn't take the trouble to say so if I didn't honestly admire you."

"Lord! The nerve of the man!" she sighed. "What blame?"

"Blame? Nothing! What am I to do? If you were in my place, and knew you had only a few more minutes of freedom, and you found yourself alone in the park with a handsome young lady, wouldn't you improve the shining moment? The answer is 'Yes!'"

The big blue eyes surveyed him hungrily.

"Bully!" she cried. "I'm plain as a brick wall. Why, I've never even had a proposal!"

"The burglar gasped astonishment.

"How the devil could that be? Unless you wouldn't let them?"

"I'd let them soon enough," she assured him. "Nobody ever wanted to."

The burglar made a fine figure as he drew himself up like a soldier about to salute a superior. But as he tried to straighten his arms the handcuffs jingled. The policeman volunteered to take them off.

"Don't!" he protested. "I deserve them, all right. I don't ask unfair favors."

Her embarrassment was extreme, amounting almost to nervousness.

"I was about to say," he continued, "that you're braver and franker and more handsome than any other woman I ever met. And if you've never had a proposal you're about to hear one now. I'm not a crook. You guessed that right enough when you put the handcuffs on me. I'm an excitement-prone adventurer, making a fool of myself on a bet. A lot of women would like to have me. I don't mind telling you so. If you'll shut up about this little escapade and let me sneak away, I'll give you my written word of honor that I'll marry you. My name—"

Swift and straight the policeman's club descended on his head!

He sank forward limp and gasping. Her cheeks burning with indignation, Mamie turned her back, dashed across the room and rang in an alarm on the Gamewell box.

That done, she knelt on the floor, her eyes brimming with tears, and pillowed the burglar's head on her lap.

"Beast!" she sobbed. "He tried to bribe me!"

HEAVY FINE ASSESSED AGAINST NEGRO IN COURT

A negro accused of being a solicitor for a house of ill fame was fined $100 by Judge Edgar Rye in the city court this morning. Last week the same negro paid a $50 fine on the same charge. Judge Rye is trying to break up this practice and does not believe that those who engage in it can find much profit after paying such fines.

BIG BATTLE BETWEEN RUSSIANS AND AUSTRIANS

If Russians Are Successful the Road to Berlin Will Be Practically Open

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 7.—The Times correspondent at Petrograd dated Saturday says a battle begun that day, if successful, will overthrow the Austrian force and practically open the road to Berlin. He says the outlook is promising but that several days must elapse before the Austrians are finally overthrown.

The enemy comprises at least 30 divisions besides several German corps and will fight with the courage of despair. On the East Prussian front there is news of the appearance of the Third Bavarian division.

LITTLE WHEAT SOLD HERE AT ADVANCED PRICES

Wheat continues at $1.95 a bushel in the local market. Very little wheat has been sold at the advanced prices so far but inquiries that are being received indicate that a considerable quantity will be delivered this week. A good many farmers are holding for still higher prices. One Wichita county woman who has several thousand bushels of wheat declares she will hold it until she gets a dollar and a half for it.

WOODMEN HAPPY OVER WINNING PARADE PRIZE

The members of the Wichita Falls Camp No. 3001, Woodmen of the World, are quite happy over winning first prize in the parade this morning. The prize was a gold medal, a silver medal and a silver cup. The woodmen were in perfect condition, and their military movements added much interest to the parade.

The Wichita Falls Camp 3001, was organized eighteen months ago with thirty members, but its growth has been in pace with the city, and today the order boasts of 225 members. The same drill team will leave on the 16th of this month for Childress, Texas, to compete with the West Texas teams for a $200 prize. The team will be drilled and led by S. E. Simpson and Bob Roark.

DEMAND FOR FERTILIZER INCREASES IN TEXAS

Washington, Sept. 7.—There are 15,931 farms in Texas that use fertilizer, and the annual purchases amount to $596,348 according to a recent report of the United States Census Bureau. The years ago the annual expenditure for fertilizer in this state was $124,716. Fertilizer purchases in Texas have increased 479,647 or 377 per cent during the past decade. Four per cent of the farms of this state use fertilizer, and the average for the United States is 29 per cent.

FALLS TO GERMAN AFTER GALLANT DEFENSE

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 7.—The Express correspondent from Termonde, sixteen miles from Ghent, writing under Saturday's date says: "Termonde fell this afternoon. The little force of 6,000 Belgians made a gallant defense but the enemy was 20,000 strong, and the Belgians were unable to reply effectively to the deadly fire of the German artillery."

"Between Ghent and Bruges there is little sign of the conflict and men and women are working quietly in the fields."

SOMETHING ABOUT TEAS.
The making of tea seems a very simple thing; but how few really good cups of tea do we have served us. The first requisite is a shiningly clean tea pot, preferably a crockery one. Have it scalded with boiling water and add a half teaspoonful of tea for every cup of boiling water; set back and steep or draw for three minutes, then serve. A cup of tea made in this way is a refreshing beverage. Cream and sugar are usually served with tea, or slices of lemon with whole cloves are liked by many. The kind of tea (black or green), which is served depends upon the individual taste. Black tea is a milder beverage and contains less tannin than the green. The distinction between black and green tea is due to different methods of preparation, as they both come from the same plant.
The peculiar stimulating properties which tea possesses as well as its flavor depend upon the season of the year when the leaves are picked, the age of the leaf, the variety of the plant and the care in preparation. The aroma of tea is often artificially increased by the addition of orange, flowers, jasmine or roses. Tea of young leaves, packed closely, are smaller leaves, and a spoonful makes a stronger beverage than that of coarser leaf.
The water used to make tea is another important feature. It is said the water makes all the difference between the delightful cup of English tea and the kind we have served on this side of the water. We must not give the water too much of the credit, for care in making is another important factor to be considered. Tea is mildly stimulating to the nervous system, and helps to increase the vital functions of some of the organs. It has been called a food saver, as less food seems to be needed when tea is taken.
Thompson in his Dietetics says in a recent report tea is mentioned as a contributing factor to insanity in Ireland. "Undoubtedly the method of preparation and the excessive use of this article of diet, now so general among our poorer population, tends to the production of dyspepsia, which in turn leads to states of mental depression favorable to the production of various forms of neurotic disturbance."

BRITISH CRUISER STRANDED ESCAPING FROM BOSPHORUS

ANOTHER WOMAN LAWYER IN TEXAS

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 7.—Fort Worth now boasts a woman lawyer in the person of Mrs. B. E. Baker, the first female ever admitted to the bar in Tarrant county. When the last Federal Census of Texas was taken, Houston and Waco were the only two Texas cities that had women attorneys. Each city had one. In the entire State there were only three female lawyers at that time.

Ladies First

You have heard this expression many, many times. Not alone since the Titanic's fatal accident, but ever since you can remember. It is the ladies that start the largest per cent of the clinic improvements. Ladies for the parks, for the children's playgrounds, for our churches and schools and for our own cemeteries. The last named would be sadly neglected indeed if it were not for the good women of this country. About one man in twenty cares anything about their beauty or upkeep. On the other hand a very small per cent of the plots are neglected if left to our good women. We are anxious to help you continue this good work.
