THE ALLIES GATHERING STRENGTH ATTACK ON PARIS SEEMS FAILURE

VAST ARMIES BEING MASSED TO CRUSH THE GERMANS

After Triumphant March To Very Gates Of Paris Germans May Be Overwhelmed

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 9.—The fall of Maubeuge, a strong French fortress near the Belgian frontier is announced at German headquarters. Forty thousand prisoners including generals and 400 guns were captured.

From Russia by a roundabout way comes the news of another reported Russian victory at Rawa also known as Rawarusska in Galicia.

From Paris comes official announcement that the French and British are still pushing back the German right wing. No further official light has been thrown on what is the greatest battle of war now being fought east from Paris from Montmirail to Verdun and from Verdun to Nancy. In the Vosges and in Alsace the situation is unchanged.

Three million men are said to be engaged.

A dispatch from Paris indicated a belief there that the German offense has been definitely checked.

It is indicated that Roumania may soon throw her 200,000 soldiers into the conflict, probably on the side of Russia and the allies.

Advices from the Hague say a state of siege has been proclaimed in a great number of towns on the Holland coast.

Official confirmation of the report that Russian troops are in France is lacking.

For the first time since hostilities began the British officials report says operations are "very satisfactory." Heretofore this expression has never been used in any British report. This fact coupled with the French official announcement is the cause of great optimism here.

Observers here claim if the allies attack on the German Center and left of the center is successful a wedge will be driven into the German lines making the German right position extremely dangerous.

In the center a battle is raging with alternate advances and retreats.

Lord Kitchener's unknown factor (heretofore held to be a great secret and which has so changed the situation at the front) is now known to be the arrival of forces from India. Two divisions of infantry and a brigade of cavalry constitute these forces. A dozen Indian Potentates have been selected to accompany this expeditionary force. If the Indian forces are constituted as the British home army, the Indian contingent has added about 60,000 men to the allied army and about 130 pieces of artillery.

An English correspondent who has reached Milan from Vienna described Austria as bankrupt and its people panic stricken. Bosnia, he says, is in open revolt. This situation he says is due to the failure of the Austrians to check the Russian advance.

Russia is reported as assuming the offensive in East Prussia and a news dispatch from Berlin says all eyes are now turned eastward where the

OUT OF BREATH AND AMMUNITION

GERMAN ARMY APPEARS TO HAVE BEEN TOO EAGER TO GET TO PARIS

THIS MAY EXPLAIN MOVE

French Experts Believe German's Only Hope In Army To the Northeast

By Associated Press. Paris, 6:55 a. m., Sept. 9.—The German progress seems to have been rapid and too eager to get to the gates of Paris for they arrived out of breath and apparently out of ammunition, which may explain why they did not pursue their original plan. All prisoners of whom 300 or more arrived here yesterday seem fagged and harassed and their spirits seemed to be anything but that expected of conquerors who had reached the capital in ten days from the frontier.

Whether the Germans hoped to gain time by a tangent movement away from Paris or as some military experts believe, aimed to affect a junction with the crown prince's army which was to come from Longwy, the developments of the last few days indicate they have failed.

The German army already weakened by days of constant fighting is not prepared, in the opinion of experts for such a big enterprise as the siege of Paris even if it retrieves its fortunes in the battle now in progress.

The only hope of the Germans therefore lies in the army on the northeast frontier and this hope seems now too long deferred.

GORDON HIGHLANDERS SURPRISED AND SLAIN

Private Who Escaped Tells of Catastrophe to Famous English Regiment

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 9.—A dispatch to the daily Mail from Private Black of the Gordon Highlanders describing how the regiment was surprised and its colonel, W. E. Gordon, killed. Black says that after the battle of Mons in which the Gordon's suffered severely they were at 11 o'clock Tuesday night ordered to retire and prepare for a long march. They slipped quietly out of the trenches. At about two o'clock in the morning they were fired on from the field. Word was passed that it was a French picket and they supposed they were retiring on the French line. Private Black said the colonel called a halt and went into the field and tried to make them understand we were English. "While we were waiting," he said, "the Germans got all around us. The colonel returned and stood in front of us. Presently the Germans began to shoot and I dropped down to shelter and a comrade dropped dead on top of me. Some tried to move on but that was impossible as the Germans were in three yards of us and shot every man who rose. I lay there until morning. Then I saw the colonel lying dead apart from the others and bodies lying all around."

ADMINISTRATION BILL IN CONFERENCE

MEASURE FINALLY REACHED THE FREE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE TODAY.

NO DATE FOR ADJOURNMENT

Senate Refuses to Divorce Itself From Per Diem and Pleasures of Capital.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Sept. 9.—The administration's bonded warehouse bill today finally reached the free conference committee. The House committee is: Calvin Hill, Wortham, Rowell and Tillotson. The Senate committee: Warren, Willey, Hudspeth, Collins, Carter. It is said this conference committee is friendly to the administration bill. The Senate fixed this afternoon at 2 o'clock to act on the vacation appointments of the governor. When the House met Representative Dove moved non-concurrence to the Senate amendments of the House emergency warehouse bill. Representative Fuller moved that the House consider an amendment to the Senate amendments. After a long debate the Fuller motion which was a substitute was defeated 74 to 31. Then the Dove motion not to concur was adopted five yeas.

Two new members were sworn in today. They are J. M. Kennedy from Falls county and M. C. Houx of Limestone county. Both succeeded retiring members who have been appointed to postmasterships.

RESOLUTION AGAINST MORATORIUM ADOPTED

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Sept. 9.—The Senate today adopted by an almost unanimous vote Senator Willey's resolution declaring against the submission or enactment of a moratorium law. Senator Willey said such a law would defeat its own aim by ruining the credit of the farmers.

The Senate refused to set a date for sine die adjournment. This was done on motion of Senator McNealus. He said he did not think the legislature should adjourn without enacting a bill for divorcement of cotton gins and oil mills; that he believed this measure was as important as a warehouse law.

ALGERIAN RIFLEMEN IN GALLANT ASSAULT

With Fixed Bayonets They Storm German Position Driving Infantrymen From Trenches

By Associated Press. Paris, Sept. 9.—A feature of Monday's battle was an assault by the Algerian riflemen. At a critical moment it became necessary to carry a certain position and after the artillery had prepared the way, 2000 Algerians with fixed bayonets charged the position under a heavy fire. They never stopped until they reached the trenches where they killed many infantrymen. Following the Algerians, infantry and artillery entered the wedge into the German lines and forced a retreat.

Texas Yield Of 4 1-2 Million Bales Is Now Indicated

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 8.—In issuing its final crop forecast for this year, the Texas Industrial congress says that in spite of the two months of continuous rains during the planting season—and two months of drought in 1914 with as large a yield of field crops as has probably ever been harvested. A great crop of wheat and oats was damaged in some counties by rain at the pollinating stage and by rust later on, and some damage occurred during the August rains. However, this damage is more than made up by the price. The early crop was cut down more or less by the drought, but the late planted crop with the help of the August rains, promises a large yield. Reports from over the state in regard to the cotton crop are surprising in view of the outlook at the end of July. The drought has been broken by very general, heavy rains, which have given the plant new life and brought it rapidly to the ripening stage. Practically every county in the state has reported its first bale, and in Nueces county 7,400 bales had been ginned by August 20. A month ago, the congress estimated that there would be approximately four million bales, but as a result of extremely favorable conditions in August, and much of the cotton having been planted late, the outlook is now for probably 4 1/2 million bales, provided there are no widespread, continuous, heavy rains in September and we have a large frost. There is a very general complaint of ravages from the army worm and other insect pests. The boll weevil, however, seems to have been pretty thoroughly checked by the midsummer drought, and it is too late now for a general material damage from this source. The cotton farmer should immediately run a furrow around his cotton fields and poison heavily the outer rows and ends of rows. Holes should be dug in the furrows with post augers and kerosene poured in the holes when the worms begin to appear. The man who waits until the worms are in his field will pay for his remissness by loss.

The change in the situation as regards the cotton yield is chiefly due to indicated heavy productions in the western half of the state. These counties have, as a rule, produced from ten to twenty per cent of the crop; this year, the production of all of them will be much increased and in some of them multiplied by ten. The production in the eastern half, although now promising well, is not unusual. It should be remembered that the semi-arid section of Texas has lost its claim to any approach to aridity this year. With a great crop of cotton, estimated by some as high as five million bales, we are now brought to the question of disposing of it. The European war has caused much alarm; but it came on fortunately before the cotton began to press for sale, and level headed work has gone far to take the danger out of the situation. Briefly stated, the continued solvency of the South, depending on the marketing of her crop, is indicated—that currency issues will be made upon notes backed by warehouse receipts for cotton up to 75 per cent of its value. The federal government wants to help and can help, and the cotton growers want to be helped; the only thing standing in the way is the fact that there are comparatively few warehouses in Texas. It is, therefore, up to the business men and farmers to put up warehouses. The building of warehouses is now beginning. There are 320 cities, towns and villages in the State (13th census), into which this crop of four or five million bales will come pouring within the next three months. The cotton must absolutely be safely warehoused in order to procure issues of emergency currency of each community that fails by neglect to take advantage of the opportunity might as well make up its mind to pay the price in losses and distress, and any actual sales of distressed cotton wherever made in any section of the state will cause a general ruin in all sections. There are probably 200 warehouses under way at this writing, and there should be 2,000. So far, we have heard of none south of Temple, where thousands of bales are being picked and ginned every day. Everything depends on Texas being aroused in time. The question is, will she? Will the business men of the State realize the magnitude, as well as the importance of this matter and back a campaign on an adequate scale? The congress is extremely concerned and somewhat fearful of the result, because it knows that the people as a whole are hard to move from their accustomed practices.

The conditions that have brought such a change in the cotton production of the western half of the State have also made a bumper first crop of the grain, sorghums, kafir corn, milo maize and feterita, and assured the harvesting of a second crop. In several counties, especially in the Concho county, some damage has been caused by the harvested heads having sprouted in the fields, but this loss is localized and small, comparatively speaking. Roughly, we may expect a grain sorghum yield this year double that of last year, of which there is probably a thousand times as much feterita. Whatever the deficit on corn, it will be made up by the increased yield of grain, sorghums, etc., which is evenly spread through all the counties from Dallas down to Cameron and from El Paso to the black land. Texas will have to feed this year to grow live stock in competition with other States. The favorable conditions of rainfall also promise heavy yields of

Wild Stories Stir German Populace Almost to Distraction

By Associated Press.
The Hague, Aug. 21.—(By mail)—It is learned on good authority that the publication of sensational stories which appeared in German newspapers during the first days of the war, such as the report of a French physician trying to infect a well in Alsace with typhoid bacilli, were secured by the German army officials with a view of heating the people to watchfulness. Stories like that of the infected well were widely published. Lakes all over the country were being poisoned. Russian automobiles were carrying a great quantity of gold were trying to cross Germany from France. The whole country was swarming with spies.

The effect that these stories had, for they were generally believed, led to the shooting of many innocent persons, including one German army captain and great interruptions to the progress of high army personages on important missions. The chief of police in Stuttgart issued the following official statement to his men, showing the effect of these sensational stories.

"The populace is beginning to become crazy. The streets are full of old women of both sexes who conduct themselves in an unworthy manner. Everyone sees in his neighbor a French or Russian spy and considers it his duty to beat him, together with the policeman who tries to protect him, or at least, to cause a tremendous crowd to collect and hand the supposed spy over to the police. Clouds are mistaken for aviators, stars for airships, bicycle pumps for bombs. Telephone and telegraph wires in the middle of the city are believed to have been cut, bridges blown up, spies shot and the water supply poisoned. It is impossible to predict what form these extravagances will assume when the situation becomes really more earnest. As a matter of fact, not a single suspicious thing has thus far occurred in Stuttgart."
"The police should continue cool. Be men, and not old women, do not let yourself be duped, but keep your eyes open, as it is your duty to do."

At The Theaters

The Majestic.
 In "The Eagle's Mate," a vitally gripping drama of the mountain country, abounding in honest, exquisite and poignant thrills, written by Anna Alice Chaplin, Mary Pickford portrays the delightfully fascinating character of little Anemone, a dainty slip of beauty, adorably girlish, tantalizingly wilful, gloriously feminine. From her peaceful little valley home, Anemone rises to great heights, and in the stress of that mounting, realizes the earnest self-sacrifice for love, that later results in the full accomplishment of her womanhood.

The Mornes of Virginia are a lawless mountain clan, a strong, fierce folk, scornful of any law save that writ large in their own hearts. They dwell on a nearly inaccessible peak, called the Eagle's Eyrie, and because of their crazy abode and their fierce natures, are called the "Eagles." Lancer, son of the leader, has been sent to college by Anemone's aunt, Mrs. Breckenridge, who is a Mornes herself, though Anemone, her petted and cherished niece, is ignorant of this fact, as are the rest of the townspeople. Lancer's father is arrested for moonshining and Lancer shakes off the shackles of civilization and leads the clan to the rescue of his father, joining the Mornes in their lawless life in the Eyrie. Fisher Mornes, the brutal and uncouth cousin of Lancer, falls in love with Anemone and being repulsed by her, abducts her and carries her off to the Eagle's Eyrie. Lancer and Anemone have met and have felt an irresistible attraction for each other. When Anemone finds Lancer at the Eyrie, she begs him to save her and send her back to the valley. But with the wild daring of his clan, Lancer tells her he intends to have her for himself, fights Fisher for her and conquers. Anemone marries Lancer to save her aunt from paying the immense ransom Fisher would exact for her return, but tells Lancer she hates him—and finally convinces him that she does. In anger, Lancer replies that he will never speak a word of love to her until she asks him to, and they live in the Eyrie as strangers. Fisher shoots Lancer and lays the crime on Anemone. The wounded Lancer demands that Anemone be returned in safety to her aunt, declaring she is innocent. Anemone learns that the sheriff is leading a posse up to the Eyrie to attack the Mornes, who have been betrayed by the traitor, Fisher, and she returns to lead the clan against the representative of the law, for she has learned to love Lancer and now longs to be herself considered an "Eagle." She reaches the clan in time to warn them, and the baffled posse returns. Anemone's aunt, at the crucial moment loyal to the Mornes, comes to the Eyrie, shows them through the action of the traitor, Fisher, the folly of outlawry and its inevitable end. Lancer, now the acknowledged leader, through the sweet influence of the noble little Anemone, recognizes the truth of his aunt's words. The Mornes promise no longer to rebel against their state. Lancer and his bride begin their honeymoon in the Eyrie and Anemone is at last truly happy as the Eagle's mate.

The Lamar Airdome.
 Spitzer and Smith, exponents of the art of society dancing are presenting an act that meets with much favor from local audiences at the Lamar Airdome. They do the tango in a very acceptable manner and show a variety of steps adaptable to ballroom dancing that are novel. Tonight's picture is an allegory, "The Love Mysterious." It is somewhat on the order of "Everywoman," the morality play of last season. Cleo Madison takes the part of woman. The spirit of good, her first and true love is played by George Larkin, while Frank Solman plays the part of the spirit of evil. The picture tells the story of the temptations of woman by all the vices of the world, and her final reclamation through simple faith and her return to good. The settings of the picture are marvelous and the play itself has a wonderfully gripping appeal.

The Gem.
 Arthur Johnson and the charming Lubin leading lady, Lottie Briscoe, are featured in a two part drama, "The Shadow of Tragedy." "How He Lost His Trouser" and "Mandy's Chicken Dinner" are two Lubin split reel comedies. A picture of special interest is the two part special drama, "His Last Appeal."

Clark Gordon who served time for forging a signature, was released from the penitentiary—a changed man—knowing the dangers that surround a "fall bird," he leaves the place and goes to a far city. He secures work in the stock and bond establishment of Bell and Taylor—the former member of the firm being particularly friendly and his sponsor in business. Taylor is a tricky individual and seriously involves the firm by selling absolute worthless securities. An invalid, Mad Muller, who invests his all in these mythical properties, reading of the firm's collapse, comes to remonstrate with Taylor. The conversation between the two men becomes so heated, that Muller strikes Taylor upon the head with a seal and kills him and then flees. Bell, in the next office, hears the heavy fall and rushes into the room. At the beginning of the quarrel, Gordon fearing trouble rushed out to get the police, leaving Muller and Taylor alone. When he returns with the police, they find Bell on the scene and immediately arrest him, accusing him of the crime on circumstantial evidence and he is convicted and sentenced on this charge to be hanged. Gordon learns from the confession of the real murderer, a dying man, that his friend is innocent, and as the governor is away from home, in

 H. F. Redin, Avenue A, Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "My back bothered me for two or three years and the spells often came on without warning. I was so lame across the small of my back that I could hardly bend. My kidneys became disordered and the kidney secretions were too frequent in passing, causing me annoyance. I finally got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me and I have not felt a sign of the trouble since. We always use Doan's Kidney Pills when we need a kidney medicine and we know that they will act quickly in bringing relief. You are at liberty to continue publishing my former endorsement."
