SURVIVORS REACH HARWICH HOSPITAL

LOSS OF LIFE IN SINKING OF THREE BRITISH CRUISERS BELIEVED HEAVY

THRILLING STORIES TOLD

Cruisers Torpedoed in Rapid Succession and Cruisers All Sank Quickly

By Associated Press.
Harwich, Eng., Sept. 23.—The great naval hospital here is filled today with men from the British navy, survivors of the three cruisers sunk yesterday by German submarines. According to stories told by the survivors loss of life was heaviest on the Aboukir. This vessel was not expecting attack and many of her crew were below when she was torpedoed. The Cressy and the Hogue had brought most of their crews on deck.

Midshipman's Story.
One midshipman no bigger than a grammar school boy related that he was on board the Cressy, the last of the British cruisers to go down. The three vessels had been scouting, he said. A slight mist over the water obscured the view. Suddenly, the Aboukir was seen to keel over heavily. All hands on the Cressy were called and she stood by to render assistance. The Hogue also coming in arrived first. Just as she reached the Aboukir she seemed to be lifted clear of the water. By this time the Aboukir had gone down and the water around her was filled with wreckage and swimming men. Just as the Hogue came up the Cressy caught a glimpse of a submarine and immediately fired at it. The shot it was believed hit. "A moment later," said the young midshipman, "our decks rippled beneath our feet but the good old tub recovered her balance and would have stayed up if we had not been torpedoed a second time. She rolled over so slowly that we had plenty of time to jump well clear of the ship before she disappeared beneath the water. There it was swim for your life. I was picked up by the cruiser Lowestoft. All signs of our flotilla of cruiser had disappeared."

Attacked at 7 O'clock.
Several survivors here are naval college students who had not even attained the rank of midshipman. A lieutenant who was aboard the Aboukir showed his watch which stopped at 15 minutes past 7. Many of the survivors were in cold water for some time and are suffering severely from the results of their exposure.

Those who are allowed to get up from their cots made humorous observations on the appearance of their comrades. "They made no mention of missing comrades and discussed their fate unwillingly. Much of this reticence was due to the strict orders of the admiralty.

Here and there some survivor stopped his restless pacing to bend over the little chance they had to revenge themselves on the German submarine. But the general impression is that two submarines were sunk. Surviving officers here agree that the total number of men saved from the three cruisers must have been about 1,000.

Steamer Captain's Account.
From the steamer Titan which put into Rotterdam with her rescued crew, this story by Captain Berkhout:

"The fight took place at about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning when I saw a German submarine tearing away at great speed. Far away on the horizon I saw the three cruisers and after a while I saw that one of them had gone. I did not pay any particular attention to its disappearance but next when I turned to look for them I noticed that another had disappeared. There was some smoke. At once I dashed in their direction. Arriving there I lowered two boats to rescue the men who filled the water. I picked up 11 and three officers. All were naked for they had thrown off their clothes. It was about 10 o'clock when I picked them up.

"While I was on the way to rescue the remaining cruiser rolled over and sank. When I arrived I found the Lowestoft had reached there before me and her boats were pulling naked men out of the water. Many were clinging to wreckage. One boat was absolutely full of men and other men were struggling all around but nearly exhausted."

Imperiled Three Times.
One midshipman was on board the first cruiser sunk. When she settled he jumped and swam clear of the vortex. He was picked up by another cruiser and soon she was sunk and again he had to jump into the water. A third cruiser rescued him but he had not been long on board when it, too, was sunk. Again he got clear and clung to a piece of wreckage from which he was rescued.

WESTERN WING OF ALLIES ADVANCES

ANNOUNCEMENT AT PARIS SAYS ALLIES HAVE REPULSED GERMANS AT EAST

LITTLE CHANGE IN CENTER

Germans Appear To Have Evacuated Positions in Vosges and in Lorraine

By Associated Press.
Paris, Sept. 23.—According to an official announcement issued this afternoon, the allies, after severe fighting, advanced in the western wing. They also repulsed German attacks on their eastern wing. The official communication follows: "First—On our left on the right bank of the Oise we have advanced in the region of Lassigny where there have been violent encounters with the enemy. On the left bank of the Oise to the north of the river Aisne the situation is unchanged.

"Second—On the center between Rheims and the river Meuse there has been no change of importance. In the Woivre district north-east of Verdun and in the direction of Dompiers the enemy undertook a violent attack which was, however, repulsed. In the southern part of the Woivre district the enemy holds a line from Richecourt to Selchetroy to Lironville from which he has not issued.

"Third—On our right wing in Lorraine and in the Vosges the Germans have evacuated Nomeny and Arzacourt and have shown little activity.

WAR CHANGES ENGLISH VIEW OF TUNNEL UNDER CHANNEL

London, Sept. 19.—(By mail)—The clash of war among the nations of Europe has not modified the views of the supporters of the Channel tunnel scheme whose desire to build a tunnel from Dover to Calais has been blocked for years by the military authorities on the ground that it would destroy England's insularity.

Several Peers and members of Parliament who have for long shown an interest in the scheme declare that instead of proving of assistance to the enemy, a channel tunnel would have been supreme assistance in transporting the British army.

They declare they will continue the advocacy of the tunnel at the end of the war. The precautions suggested to prevent the tunnel being made use of for an invasion of England include the flooding of a dip in the tunnel, commanding exits with guns that could not be silenced from the sea, and an electric button that might touch off an explosion to destroy a part of the tunnel if necessary.

CRONNE TAKEN BY THE ALLIES

CORRESPONDENT OF DAILY MAIL SAYS ALLIES HAVE TURNED GERMAN RIGHT

BAYONET CHARGE WAS MADE

Important Position Taken By French Only After Fighting of Separate Nature

By Associated Press.
London, Sept. 23.—The Daily Mail correspondent under date of Sunday from an unnamed place sends a report that the German right has been turned between Cronne and St. Quentin. He tells also of the arrival of wounded who bring stories that there are nine miles of dead in the trenches between those places. He continues: "Cronne was evacuated by the Germans four days ago. They occupied a strong position with hills behind and marshes in front. The French received orders to take the town, the reason being that if the Germans were driven from here they would be enveloped by the outspreading French wings. At first the trenches were combed by artillery fire but the Germans stood firmly and their guns on the heights were doing execution among the French. It was then decided to bayonet the position. Across the marshes the half light before dawn, the French infantry swept with bayonets ready. They succeeded badly but never wavered until they reached the trenches, and there was a fierce deadly struggle breast to breast. The French had the advantage of dash and vigor and they stabbed and stabbed until their arms ached. Their losses were heavy but that of the Germans was heavier and they never let up until they had driven the Germans back. The French were reinforced and pursued the Germans hotly into the suburbs of the town. There was savage fighting in the streets but yard by yard the Germans were pushed back until they were forced to abandon the town. I hear that they are now making an effort to retake Cronne."

TWELFTH DAY OF BATTLE OF AISNE IS UNDECIDED

BRITISH BELIEVE TAKING OF JAROSLAW BY RUSSIANS IMPORTANT VICTORY

By Associated Press.
London, 1:40 p. m., Sept. 23.—The fall of Jaroslau the Austrian fortified position in Galicia is regarded here as the most decisive stroke from the continental battlefields in the past 24 hours. Russian occupation of this important railroad center is considered as likely to have a far greater effect in the French theatre of war than anything reported from France for several days past.

The Russian army which took Jaroslau by storm is in hot pursuit of the Austrians who are reported retreating on Cracow. As Przemysl is now isolated it seems probable the Russians will be content to mask this fortress while they push on to Cracow to join all their forces there in preparation for a march for Breslau.

Further north the Russians, according to Petrograd dispatches have resumed the offensive against the Germans in East Prussia and are reported again preparing to attack Koenigsberg, ancestral home of the kings of Prussia.

The twelfth day of fighting finds the battle in France still undecided. The Germans, according to British opinion obviously hold the advantage in heavy artillery and favored positions which would render any frontal attempt to dislodge them an almost superhuman task. Therefore importance is attached to the new movement of the allies in working to the westward with a view of outflanking Gen. von Kluck's forces and threatening his communication. Already the German flank is reported to have been turned but official confirmation is lacking. Reports here declare the Germans have prepared entrenchments along the river Sambre for use if they are compelled to retire.

The loss of three British cruisers, vessels of a type not used for several years and brought out of reserve for special uses is counted as of small importance by British naval men, but what hurts is the loss of officers and men. The Aboukir seems to have been the heaviest sufferer.

Four aviators returned safely while the fifth landed in Belgium.

Nish, Serbia, Sept. 23.—The following official announcement was made here today: "After a nine days' struggle the Austrian army both wings of which have been beaten completely, is in full retreat along the whole front from Liubovia to Losnitza. The Servians are pursuing them vigorously. Servian troops continue their invasion of Bosnia.

By Associated Press.
Berlin, via wireless to Sayville, Long Island, Sept. 23.—Reports to the German admiralty show the German submarine Hugh IX, singlehandedly accomplished the destruction yesterday of the three British cruisers in the North Sea. This submarine was built in 1910, had three 18-inch torpedo tubes and two three-inch guns. Her speed submerged was eight knots and her surface speed eighteen knots.

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

Where Are You?
Where are you, my beloved, Oh where?
Night falls upon the lonely way I tread,
And shadows gather larly overhead,
And sometimes almost, almost I despair.

I miss the splendor of the autumn days,
The crimson beauty of the falline leaf,
The golden plenty of the garnered sheaf,
The mystic wonder of the purple haze.

The friends that throng about me leel and true,
The smiling guests I welcome once seem,
Like kindly shadows in a troubled dream,
And I am lonely all life long for you.

I can not see the guiding beacon light,
That leads to peace and rest upon the height,
Where are you, my beloved, Oh where?
—Edith E. Lessing.

An announcement of plan for the initial cargo from Galveston to Japan was made by L. H. Ziegler, ocean freight broker representing large interior Japanese exporters.

The cargo of cotton will consist of 12,000 bales, now being assembled; and it is certain, according to Mr. Ziegler, that the cotton will be ready to go on the date announced—October 3.

Four steamships, Mr. Ziegler announced, have also been booked by him to follow the Penrith Castle to Japan, the loadings to be made during the months of October and December.

The vessel to take the first shipment from Galveston through the canal to the Far East, and probably the first cargo from America through the canal to the Far East, is now in port, lying at Pier 36. She belongs to the South Atlantic, Gulf & Orient Steamship Line and is here to Fowler & Large, agents. Her tonnage is 2,337 and her master is Captain Horne.

The Penrith Castle, according to Mr. Ziegler, should make the trip from Galveston through the Panama Canal to Japan in forty-two days. The Suez Canal was the former direct route to the Orient, this route requiring from sixty-two to sixty-five days for the trip.

BRITISH WOMEN EAGER TO FILL PLACES OF MEN

London, Sept. 10.—(By mail)—Remarkable testimony to the eagerness with which women want to fill the places of men who have been called away from England to fight for their country is given by the women's emergency corps, under the leadership of the Duchess of Marlborough has compiled a register of upwards of 15,000 names of women who desire to be of service.

"How diverse the jobs they seek," says Mrs. Flora Annie Steel, in writing of the work of the women's emergency corps, "may be guessed by the entries of over 100 occupations—some of whom speak less than four languages and some of them eleven—of more than 200 expert horse-women ready at a few hours' notice to serve at home or abroad, and who are quite capable of managing or working in remount camps. Many of these, having shot and camped all over the world, are eminently suited for rough work. There are 150 expert motorcycleists eager for post or despatch work, and endless stalwart young women for such jobs as omnibus conducting, milk delivering, gardening and the farm work that is generally done by lads of nineteen or twenty.

"Of course, behind and beyond these more or less freak volunteers comes the great army of nurses, domestic workers, clerical agents, and the numberless well educated intelligent women who are fully capable of shop and general business work. Naturally enough, qualified doctors, nurses and dispensers are drafted out as soon as they come in. Cooks and domestic servants follow suit; but every day's register points to the fact that we have here a mighty agent for the national good.

"And so the women's emergency corps feels itself justified in making an offer to the war office, the government, and the country, and prepared to name a paid substitute for any man who enlists; such substitute to guarantee to leave the job on the man's return and to take over the man's belongings as a personal charge; that is to say, while not binding herself to give pecuniary assistance, she will see to it that allowances are duly paid, that relief in special circumstances is given; and generally, so far as it lies, stand as a good and true wife, stand as a good and true mother.

"This is a big offer; it is one which naturally will require adjustment to each individual case; but it is one which holds enormous advantages, enormous possibilities."

"Jim Reagan's Last Ride," a two part Broncho and "Empire Day at the Bahamas" are today's pictures. Tomorrow will be shown the famous six part Hellance drama, "Home, Sweet Home."

"Home, Sweet Home" is a life drama, a series of plays which play—showing the birth of the famous song "Home, Sweet Home," a portion of the life of its author, John Howard Payne, and the effects of the song on the lives, actions and morals of many people. Its cast embraced the entire acting personnel of the Hellance companies, including Blanche Sweet, Henry Althoff, Max Marsh, Robert Harron, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Donald Crisp, Ralph Lewis, Earle Foxe, Owen Moore, Edward and John Dillon, Courtenay Foote, Irene Hunt, Miriam Cooper, Mary Aiken, Fay Tincher, Teddy Sampson, Mrs. Crowell, W. E. Lawrence, P. A. Turner, Jack Pickford, Spottiswood Aitken, W. H. Long and George Seigmund.

The Majestic.

William Wadsworth, Elsie McLeod and Arthur Houseman are featured in a laugh provoking picture, "Something to a Door." The picture carries a moral too, "Don't borrow an overcoat." "219 vs. 213," a railroad picture and "When the Cook Fell Ill" complete today's program.

"Patsy, the cook of the 'Flying U' ranch is passionately fond of canned corn. Every time he goes to town to buy supplies for the camp, cases of corn head the list. Patsy may forget at times to order a special brand of tobacco for the boys, or some of the trimmings that go to make a camp dinner more acceptable but he never fails to order the canned corn. Yesterday, for breakfast, dinner and supper, the big kettle of canned corn forms the principal article of diet. The boys being good fellows stand this for a long time until they feel that they cannot accept corn as the main article of diet any longer. Then the revolt and refuse to be served from Patsy's huge kettle any more. Patsy is sensitive and his feelings are hurt, but his appetite for canned corn is still unimpaired. After the boys walk out on him and scorn the breakfast of canned corn, Patsy retires to the cook tent with the kettle and sorges himself to repelion from its contents. The boys are sore and hungry, but they leave the camp for the range to perform their regular days work. As the boys disappear in the distance Patsy is taken with terrific cramps. He has a horrible suspicion that he has been poisoned. His examination of the empty corn cans suggests ptomaine poison. The camp is deserted and the boys will not return all day. At dusk in the evening Patsy spends hours of agony and realizes that he has had too much of a good thing. After a day of suffering, the boys return to the camp. No dinner in sight. Patsy is discovered groaning in pain. They realize his desperate condition. They are glad that Patsy has had a lesson, but do not want him to die. One of the boys ride off to town to get a doctor, while the rest prepare the supper. After many adventures with the doctor who is in no condition to travel, he brings the doctor to camp. In the meantime, a good samaritan, a stranger with a big whiskey bottle, has doctored Patsy with liberal doses of liquor, so that the doctor's services are not required. All decide to climb on the water wagon.

The Empress.

This afternoon and tonight Jack Runner, who is making a trip to all the state capitals in the United States on horseback will lecture at the Empress and show a three part film, "The Great Diamond Robbery," a dramatized story of the great Chicago diamond robbery two years ago, when Mrs. Potter Palmer's $100,000 diamond necklace was stolen by Frank Yager. Featured in the picture are Dot Farley, who plays the part of Mrs. Palmer, Frank Yager, the thief, John P. Carlisle, president of the bank in which the robbery occurred, Paul Thompson, Ray Comstock and Hugh Vandevaugh, the detectives who brought the thieves to justice. The first reel shows the life of Vandevaugh, the detective, known as Nick Carter in the picture. The second reel shows interior and exterior views of Bob Spencer's gambling house, in which the plans for the robbery were made, interior and exterior views of the bank, President Carlisle and the depositing of the necklace by Mrs. Potter Palmer. The formation of the plot to steal the necklace and the actual theft is also in this second reel. The third reel shows the chase by the detective. Vandevaugh is captured by the robbers and held prisoner for eleven days. His escape and the final capture of the criminals completes the picture. Yager, who committed the robbery in New Jersey twenty years ago in the Joliet prison. In addition

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework.

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

producer, Edwin Wallock takes the part of the missionary, who during an attack on the party made by savages, is shot and loses his mind, becoming the wild man of the jungle. His family have received notice of a legacy falling to him and supposing him dead, leave for England, after being rescued from the attacking natives by a friendly tribe. Years later the daughter falls in love with Capt. Jones, an African explorer. From a photograph of the wild man, Edith recognizes her father and a earlier expedition is set out. The remainder of the picture is intensely interesting and the jungle scenes are wonderfully real.

The first animal scene in the picture is when little Edith and her companion, a tiny black boy, the son of the native chief, Wamba, are shown playing with a baby elephant. The little girl clambers over the elephant as though it were a Newfoundland dog, and they have great times together. The next jungle scenes in the picture are two huge, ravenous lions, which are disturbed when Robert Wayne staggers back to the wagon camp and finds it in ashes. A shot from his rifle dispatches the two ferocious beasts, and they spring away—a scene which is almost unparalleled in moving pictures, occurs in the second reel when Capt. Jones, an English hunter, shoots and kills two lions. The lions are actually killed directly before the eyes of those who look at the picture. A den of leopards shows a number of these ravenous beasts snarling and savagely resenting the advances of intruders.

Governor-to-be Ferguson, who is a banker as well as a farmer, is going to dispose of a part of his cotton crop at prevailing prices, which, according to a news dispatch from Temple, is about 8 1/2 cents. He also gives it as his opinion that the spinners should be permitted to acquire a part of the present cotton crop at the prevailing prices, and thinks if they can do this they will join in the movement to boost the price. Now, all tenant cotton farmers who believe that cotton spinners will ever under any circumstances join in a movement to boost the price of cotton will please stand on their heads.

The champion "Ivory" of the cotton situation appears to have been pulled Tuesday by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, which, in executive session, adopted a resolution calling on farmers to sell their cotton and pay their debts. If a farmer could sell his cotton at a profit at eight cents, there might be some semblance of philosophy in the Fort Worth organization's resolution. Under the circumstances, any farmer who sells any bale that he does not absolutely have to dispose of is doing an injustice to everybody, himself included. It would be nice for those of us who are not farmers if we could shove the whole ugly burden onto the farmers' shoulders, even assuming that we wouldn't be hurt ourselves in the long run; but the situation isn't the farmer's fault any more than it is ours. Whenever commercial organizations get together behind closed doors to handle things, something that doesn't bode much good for folks in general is pretty apt to result.

Developments of the last few weeks fall to give much hope for a speedy conclusion of the European war. These developments make it appear that the armies of both sides are better on the defensive than on the offensive. The German sweep through Belgium and France to the outskirts of Paris was brought to a sudden check by the allies' defensive. Then commenced a German retreat similar to that of the allies, but when the defensive positions were reached north of the Aisne the German line was reformed and for twelve days now it has withstood the fierce assaults of the allies. The allies' assaults have been as unavailing against the Germans on the Aisne as were the German assaults against the positions of the allies on the Marne. Even if the German fight is turned and the German army forced to retreat the retreat will not mean disaster. The Germans will retreat to the line of the German defense: running north and south through Metz and it is not likely that the allies will have better success in attacking these positions than the Germans in their assaults upon Verdun. The Russians are now occupied with an attack upon Austrian fortified positions at Cracow and Przemyel, which are more than likely to keep them occupied for weeks. In the meantime the Germans are active in Russian Poland and there is little prospect that the Russians can march to Berlin with any expedition. As viewed by a non-military observer, the war scenes promise soon to shift to the German frontiers where the fighting is likely to be prolonged and ineffective. In the meantime there may be movements for peace in the belligerent countries. President Wilson holds himself in readiness to hear proposals at any time.

The extra-session of the Texas Legislature will adjourn today. Governor O. B. Colquitt will convene another extra session Wednesday. This is "digging" the taxpayers, but the politicians don't care much for the people. It seems, Governor Colquitt wants his twenty million dollar bank, backed by the children's school money, carried. The State is now in the "hole" millions of dollars, and let us not turn the politicians loose on the sacred school funds.—McKinney Courier-Gazette.

County Clerk E. P. Walsh wishes The Times to state for the benefit of those who own and operate automobiles that there is a movement on foot to prosecute those who violate the registration law, and feeling that there are many owners who are not familiar with the requirements of the law, he asks that The Times publish it and by doing so be the means of saving someone annoyance and expense. Article 814 Penal Code, reads as follows:

All owners of automobiles or motor vehicles shall, before using such vehicles or machines upon the public roads, streets or driveways, register with the County Clerk of the county in which he resides, his name, which name shall be registered by the county clerk in consecutive order, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall be numbered in the order of their registration, etc. Article 820, same code, fixes the penalty violation at a fine not less than $5 and not more than $100. It is imperative that the name and number appear together in said registration. Any owner using an automobile with a number that appears in said registration book opposite some other name not his own, is, in my judgment as well as the other authorities of this county, violating the provisions of said law. It is the duty of every owner of such vehicles to see to it that the number he uses and his own name show up in said registration book in the only legal way.

A few days ago The Times had something to say regarding the charge brought by Commissioner of Agriculture Kone against owners and managers of cotton oil mills throughout the State, in which this official blamed the cotton oil mills for the low price of cottonseed. The Times, in its comment, said that if what the Commissioner said was true, then an investigation of the cotton oil mills was in order. Since that time, however, The Times has done a little investigation on its own account in a local way, and the result of its inquiries convinces The Times that the cotton oil mills are making less profit off of the cotton seed oil products at this time than they were when the market price of cotton seed was just about twice what it now is. Commissioner Kone, it appears, has also felt that he should look more thoroughly into such a serious matter, and after looking has made the discovery that he was badly mistaken when he charged that the cotton oil mills were responsible for the low price of cottonseed, and he has done what he could to right the matter. One and perhaps the principal reason for the low price of cotton seed is the fact that a wonderful crop of feed-stuffs has been produced in Texas, and when that is the case the market for cottonseed hulls and cottonseed cake is dull. Those who have stock to feed first make use of what feed-stuffs they raise and have on hand before they resort to buying cottonseed cake, meal and hulls to feed on. Some stock farmers in this section of the State have hay and feed-stuffs on hand that were put up last year, in addition to the abundant crops raised this year, and nearly every farmer has more feed than he will be able to use.

A REPLY TO REV. MILLER.

Editor of The Times— Dear Sir: I have a clipping now before me, taken from your valued paper which shows a one Mr. Miller's explosion against some book agents in the city who were, he says, "trying to sell Pastor Russell's books." It seems that the effort upon the part of these agents to sell these books bore upon the mind of our dear Mr. Miller to the extent that he had to make an explosion, not so much upon the agents, but upon the books and the author of them by warning the public that these books are condemned as bad by many of the leading ministers of all denominations, and further insists that those who are contracted for these books should not permit them to be left at their house until they could get the opinion of some one who knows something of the character of these books. He then cites the ministers of the gospel, such as Mr. Miller, of course, for this opinion. Would it not have been just as reasonable to have asked the Bereans of old who were investigating to go to the High Priests who set themselves up as judges of the people, for their opinion concerning the characters of the teachings of Christ before such could be left of their homes? Is not the opinion of Mr. Miller the same as with the High Priests of old? Away with it! Crucify! Crucify! If Mr. Miller, together with the gospel ministers be set up for opinion for the people and they use the same fool spirit used by the High Priests of old, would not the result be the same as of old. A crucifixion and slaughter of all who oppose, if they were delegated with the power. Mr. Miller winds up with his long list of numbered articles by hurling a stone of slander at Pastor Russell, which he nor his noted Halderman of New York (whom he cites as author of their numerical list) can prove. Our dear Mr. Miller, like many others who have the spirit to throw stones, has the court records in his possession which prove the immorality of Pastor Russell's course, but they do not publish these records as freely as they do the slander of their own venom. (The correspondent here diverges into a lengthy discussion of redemptive sacrifice too long for reproduction here after which he concludes as follows:.) Therefore, if Mr. Miller and his Catholic Priest cannot see the scriptural teaching in the foregoing, he could not see a fair explanation of the rest of the articles mentioned in his treatise from thirteen to twenty-four, some of which Pastor Russell does not teach. His wind up is only a thrust and a slur against the pastor's good name and work, and not for good. I will give Mr. Miller or any one else to prove, in any court of justice in the United States, $1,000 anything

FARMERS HOLD COTTON FOR ADVANCE IN PRICE

Very Little is Being Sold at the Prevailing Market Quotations. The farmers of Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma are holding tightly to their cotton, judging from the amount of the staple being shipped at present. The movement, which is usually beginning to be quite brisk at this time of the year, is next to nothing at all at present—and the hold your cotton propaganda seems to have taken firm hold in this section. The few cotton buyers who are making the rounds are able to pick up a few bales here and there, mostly from those who are in urgent need of money and cannot dispose of their bales to the buy a bale clubs. Business is so light, however, that the buyers are keeping very few men at work.

TRANSPORTATION PLANS WORKED OUT SPLENDIDLY

England Sent Big Expeditionary Force into France Almost Without a Hitch. Southampton, Sept. 4.—(By mail) The dispatch of troops from Southampton continues, but the movements are now kept less secret than during the passage of the first expeditionary forces. The record then made provided an excellent test of the facilities here for handling such a great movement of troops. Although the expeditionary force was dispatched from several points Southampton handled the bulk of the 150,000 to 200,000 men who were sent to the continent during two weeks time. The docks at this place afford more than one and a half miles of water front, with railway lines so close to the ship's docks that it is but a moment's work to transfer trainloads of men, horses and equipment from the railway to the steamships. The precision with which the transfer was made was so marked that an entire train was frequently unloaded in three minutes, and it was not uncommon for twenty trains to enter the docks and complete their task of unloading within a single hour. The plan had been worked out by the war office two years before. The small cars used for transporting horses, accommodating only seven or eight animals, proved a great factor in the speedy transfers. Each horse had a separate compartment, and the sides of the cars dropped down in such a manner that the animals stepped out without the slightest confusion. Some Americans—who witnessed this movement remarked that the cars were far more practical for this sort of work than the large freight cars used in America, into which a number of horses were crowded. Scores of hospital cars still line the dock tracks here ready for the reception of sick and injured returning from the continent. Red Cross signs are displayed and surgeons and nurses are in the cars with everything ready for the wounded. The hospital trains are made up of converted passenger coaches and sleeping cars. All have the small compartments common to English railway coaches with doors opening at the sides. Litters are provided which will enter these small side doors and consequently it is much easier to place the seriously injured in berths than it would be if it were necessary to carry them through the end doors common to American sleeping cars and along narrow aisles or hallways. Baggage cars have also been converted into hospital cars where patients can be placed who need attention of a sort which can be ren-

H. E. Midkiff and family, in company with Thomas Clark, stopped over in the city a while this morning while returning to their home in Galveston from a summer spent in Colorado. They stayed in Colorado so late, said Mr. Clark, that it was no longer just a cool place to spend the summer; it is now a cold place that makes one think of going south to spend the winter. After having their gasoline tank filled, they took up their journey, intending to make it to their destination by the first of next week.

Not all of the danger that is eminent in connection with the army and navy is faced by those on the firing line; for the stay-at-home and recruiting officers sometimes face danger that would make a hardened soldier faint. The other day a button was washed and her spirit angry into the local recruiting station here and informed the officer in charge that she hated him hotly, because he had enlisted her "man" in the navy and sent him to Norfolk, Va. Further the enraged lady told him that it was her intention to worship him. The very next expression on her face and the way she stamped the floor with her foot betokened anger of the first magnitude from which results tragedies and murder trials, so the officer hastened to summon his coherence of speech and say something soothing. Finally the woman agreed to hear his side of the story. Her "man," she was told, would be a regular man when he came out of the navy, and not just a kid with no profession. The good woman was comforted and asked the officer to be sure and send him back to her in Parkhurst when he was discharged from the navy. The relieved officer gladly promised and she went on her way.

Moose Lodge Meeting Tonight.
A special meeting of the Moose lodge will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the lodge hall for the purpose of reorganization. All members in good standing or those in arrears, not more than one quarter are urged to be present, as the matter is of supreme importance. Plans have been made to place the lodge on a sound financial and social basis, and to push the work of the order in Wichita Falls on a higher and better plane than has heretofore been obtained. The grand principles of Moosehood will overcome any mismanagement of the local lodge, and from the loyal spirit of the present membership one of the best lodges in the city can be built up if each member will do his part. Start that work by coming to the meeting tonight. A social smoker will follow the business meeting.

The traction company is putting in a switch on Lamar street near the corner of Tenth, which it is expected will improve the "long" switch, which the Southland line patrons have been subjected to since the company will probably put in a new switch on Ninth street near the corner of Brook. The additional switch from Thirteenth street has proved a great convenience, it self being necessary for cars to wait more than a minute.

A young man and a young woman, apparently very much interested in each other's conversation, started across Indiana at the corner of Eighth this morning. An automobile driver who wasn't too particular about his business whizzed around the corner, missing the couple by several inches; they did not look up. Another car, honking merrily, skinned by them on the other side, the chauffeur almost hitting the curb in dodging them. They did not notice, but kept on across the street and down the side, looking into each other's eyes as they walked.

MRS. REA CHARGED ASSAULT TO MURDER

GRAND JURY PROMPTLY INDICTS WOMAN WHO ATTEMPTED TO KILL

WOMAN IN COURT BEFORE

On More Than One Occasion She Threatened Judge Swayne Publicly

The Fort Worth Record contains the following account of the attempt to assassinate Judge Swayne yesterday: Standing within twelve feet of her intended victim, Mrs. Mary Rea, widow, aged about 55 years, Tuesday morning suddenly pulled a .38-caliber Colt revolver from the bosom of her dress and fired six shots in rapid succession at James W. Swayne, judge of the Seventeenth district court. Noting but the catlike quickness and ready presence of mind of Durwood McDonald, Mrs. Rea's attorney, saved Judge Swayne. As Mrs. Rea excited her right arm McDonald seized her wrist and deflected the course of the first bullet to an angle of 45 degrees above Swayne's head. He then twisted her wrist upward and forced her down the aisle toward the door while she emptied the remaining five chambers of the revolver in to the ceiling of the court room. Judge Swayne took temporary refuge behind the jury box, in which he had been sitting, and Deputy Sheriffs Fitch and Hutcheson disarmed Mrs. Rea and escorted her to the county jail. Members of the grand jury, in session on the floor above, hurried to the scene and an hour after the near-tragedy Mrs. Rea had been indicted on two counts, one for assault to murder and the other for carrying a pistol.

In Climax To Case. The attempted shooting was the climax to a long string of court troubles involving Mrs. Rea and culminating Tuesday in a judgment by Judge Swayne removing the disabilities of authority of Roy M. Rea, her 19-year-old son, which procedure Mrs. Rea had consistently opposed in the past but agreed to Tuesday morning. Several weeks ago Mrs. Rea told Judge Swayne over the telephone that if he granted the petition of her son, "You

The application for removal of minority disabilities was filed by her son several weeks ago, but Judge Swayne did not act upon it finally until Tuesday. Mrs. Rea and her attorney appeared just before 11 o'clock and Judge Swayne took up the case. After a conference with McDonald it was announced that Mrs. Rea had withdrawn her objection and the judge then announced his judgment orally from the jury box, where he was sitting at the time. Mrs. Rea was not in the court room, but she came in a moment afterward and Mr. McDonald asked Judge Swayne to repeat the judgment for her benefit. Judge Swayne stated he had decided to remove the disabilities of Roy, but would fix it so he could not dispose of or mortgage the property inherited from his father until he became of age.

"That I will fix you," replied Mrs. Rea, or some words to that effect, and she jerked the revolver from her bosom. It is the belief of court officials that she had the weapon in a small handbag which she brought into the court room and had some one sitting in the hall just before the judge's name was rendered and transferred it to her person.

Swayne Discusses Case. In discussing the matter Tuesday afternoon, Judge Swayne said: "Mrs. Rea has had a lot of trouble in my court practically ever since I have been on the bench. Four or five years ago she brought suit before me against the Rebekah lodge for $50,000 damages on account of having been suspended by the lodge. I told her that it was not the business of the courts to go into the troubles of lodge, and she took it to Judge Simmons, then on the Sixty-seventh district bench. Judge Simmons told her the same thing, and she transferred the case to the Forty-eighth district, before Judge Buck, who took the same stand. She accused me at the time of having influenced the other judges to look at it my way.

Shortly afterward her husband brought suit for divorce in my court. Both sides appointed commissioners to divide the property and the divorce was granted. "Some one told her after the divorce was granted that she had not been served according to law when he divorce was granted, although she had appeared in court in person, and she made a lot of trouble over that, claiming that the judgment as to the division of the property was not legal. She piled trash in front of Rea's rent houses and otherwise annoyed him until he brought an injunction suit before me restraining her from such acts, which I granted.

me for an injunction restraining her former husband from having an operation performed on the leg to remove a sixth toe on one of his feet, which I refused.

The next appearance of Mrs. Rea in my court was when a local railroad company had her ejected from a small piece of land between its tracks, which she had leased for a nominal sum per year for several years. She had been told that if she paid taxes on the land and occupied it for ten years it was hers, and she resisted the efforts of the company to dispossess her and use the land for other purposes.

"During the Sneed trial Mrs. Rea came into the court room and abused me in public, and I had her removed from the room. She was finally taken over to the county jail and searched, where an empty revolver was found on her person. I fined her $100 and gave her three days in jail on that occasion, but remitted the fine conditioned upon her good behavior.

Son Threatens Judge. "Shortly afterward her son approached me on the street one day and threatened me, while she was sitting in a buggy close by. I told him that if either one of them went too far I would serve her with papers in the $100 fine and jail sentence hanging over her and force her to serve out her sentence. This resulted finally in my having the papers made out, and she spent thirty days in the county jail.

"She has strongly opposed the removal of her son's disabilities up to the time of the judgment this morning, but her counsel agreed to the order. I had understood that she might make trouble and had sent to the sheriff's office for deputies, but after the agreement was made I thought the danger had passed.

Roy M. Rea, her son, has recently married and desired to handle his separate property himself. He inherited several small rent houses from his father, who died about two years ago, and has an income from that source.

The county attorney's office stated Tuesday afternoon that in all probability Mrs. Rea would be brought up for trial on the charge of assault to murder next Friday in Judge Brown's court.

Cannedy has been serving in the capacity of a missionary, preaching both at the mission here and holding services in adjoining towns, but the church has so progressed as to demand his services all the time and is also practically self supporting.

Angry Bull Killed Eighteen Germans French Paper Says

Paris, Sept. 22.—The Petit Parisien printed the story of a bull which it says killed 18 Germans. It appears that when the peasants in the neighborhood of Sozanne were warned of the approach of the Germans they opened the cattle pens to drive the animals to a point of safety.

One enormous bull, it was said, became enraged at the sound of cannon fire, broke away and charged toward the direction of the artillery. The Germans at first believed it some trick of the French. At the first dash the bull gored six artillerymen. Their companions opened fire upon the enraged animal which, however, gored a dozen more before it sank to the ground.

ATTORNEY GENERAL APPROVES COUNTY HOSPITAL BONDS

Wichita county's hospital bonds to the amount of $25,000 have been approved by the attorney general's department at Austin, according to advice received by County Judge Felder today. The approval does the county little good at this time, as the firm which had agreed to purchase the bonds backed down on its trade. It required five months to secure the approval of the securities and during that period the European war began, causing demoralization of the bond market. The bonds will be held until there is some improvement, which will probably be a year, at least.

MONTENEGRINS PREPARE TO SHELL CATTARO

Rome, Sept. 23.—Dispatches from Cattaro say that the Montenegrins within this week expect to mount to long range guns to shell Cattaro and the Austrians warships thus allowing the Anglo-French fleet to attack that position.

QUALITY VS. QUANTITY

When one buys quality in anything you don't expect something for nothing, as in almost every case it is dear at any price. Especially in my business does this rule apply.

A smooth tongued artist will tell you a lot of misleading things, because he don't know that he will return to face your dissatisfaction. We know that we are to live with you and meet you every day. Isn't this enough common sense to satisfy you that we must do our full duty and give value for the amount received?

Our quality is for your satisfaction and success. If you are satisfied we must succeed.

The FIT

Is the feature of the suit. The ill-fitting suit may be the very climax of the textile workers' art in the matter of material. It may be the best fabric it is possible to produce, but if it does not fit, the man looks like a scarecrow. It has been said that the clothes do not make the man; No, they don't, but they can unmake him. Some tailors can take the finest material and make a suit that would make Chesterfield look like a deformity. Our suits are of the best material, and when we lay the tape the suit fits.

SALARY REDUCTIONS

Introduces Bill to Cut Pay of Federal Employees From Two to Twelve Per Cent

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Reduction of salaries of government officials including senators and representatives, army and naval officers and of the President and cabinet members was proposed in a bill in the Senate by Senator Sheppard of Texas as a means of meeting the "enormous strain" put upon the federal treasury by the war in Europe.

The reduction would vary from two per cent on salaries over $1200 to 12 per cent on salaries of over $7,000 and would be in effect for one year.

Lease Bill Passes Senate

The administration bill for a federal system of leasing public lands containing deposits of oil, coal, phosphates, potassium and sodium passed the House today. It is designed to open the mineral resources on the public domain with a royalty to the government and restrict the maximum area to each lease to 2,560 acres. The bill is pending in the senate.

Conditions in Mexico

Paul Fluler who recently returned from a mission to Mexico as President Wilson's representative told the President that he did not believe there was any serious danger to foreigners in Mexico and that progress was being made rapidly in pacifying the country. He did not believe there was a break between General Villa and General Obregon.

HUSBAND WELL BUT FAR TOO LOQUACIOUS

Paris, Sept. 23.—(By mail)—An instance of the censor's pitiless treatment of letters from the soldiers at the front to their wives and sweethearts in Paris, is the case of a wife who received the following note from the censor as a substitute for the long letter her husband had written: "Madam," he said, "your husband is well but is far too loquacious."
