

COLQUITT TELLS MORE ABOUT BANK

DECLARES IT ENTIRELY CONSTITUTIONAL AND PERFECTLY SAFE

WOULD PREVENT PANICS

Governor Willing To Guarantee School Fund Investments Would Not 5 Per Cent

By Associated Press. Austin, Sept. 29.—In a supplemental message which he transmitted to the legislature today, the Governor clearly outlined the basis of his proposed central bank of Texas bill.

The Governor says the plan not only is constitutional, but is a safe investment for the school fund; that the bonds and securities of the permanent school fund are not now earning more than four per cent, while if invested in the bank he will guarantee that they will earn not less than five per cent.

The Governor seems to have abandoned the plan of utilizing the $50,000,000 of land notes belonging to the school fund. He pointed out that it was only necessary to utilize the $18,000,000 of bonds now to the credit of the permanent school fund. The Governor devoted considerable space to the bank panic of 1907. He said that while Texas had $100,000,000 on deposit in the reserve bank, it was impossible to get the money to move the crop in Texas and other cotton States. The bank of Texas, he said, would prevent the recurrence of such a situation in Texas. According to the figures of the Governor there would be available $14,450,000 in cash to commence operations of the bank.

SENATOR JOHNSON HERE EN ROUTE TO AUSTIN

State Senator W. A. Johnson of Memphis, Texas, passed through the city on this afternoon's southbound en route to Austin to resume his duties in the legislature after ten days' absence. Senator Johnson said that he was not yet committed whether for or against the state bank bill, but that he believed the principle a good one if the details can be worked out along safe and satisfactory lines. He wants to see the school fund properly safeguarded at all events, he declares.

Cotton picking is now in full blast in Hall county, the senator said, and anyone who wants to pick cotton need have no fear of being turned down. Hall county expects to raise 40,000 bales this year and pickers are badly needed at present, said Senator Johnson.

TWO GERMAN ARMY CORPS FOUGHT AT JAROSLAW

SHELLING OF MALINES CONTINUED ALL NIGHT

THREE FORTS AT ANTWERP HAVE BEEN BOMBARDED

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 29.—An official communication is given out by the Belgian government concerning the bombardment of Malines and other points near Antwerp. It says: "After bombarding Malines, fourteen miles southeast of Antwerp the Germans under cover of night re-entered the unoccupied town but now have resumed their marching."

"The Germans have directed the fire of their heavy artillery against the forts Wavre, St. Catherine and Waelhem about ten miles from Antwerp but with a result not justifying their great expenditure of ammunition. Our forts bombarded the German positions between the Dende and the Willebroek canals west of Waelhem. The offensive movements of this enemy was promptly checked. The forts inflicted serious losses on the enemy and compelled them to retire."

CONVENT DAMAGED BY BOMBS FROM ZEPPELIN

The speech was received by the Boers with cheers and a resolution of confidence in General Botha was adopted.

EUROPEAN SITUATION PREVENTS ITALY'S INTERFERENCE

By Associated Press. Rome, via London, Sept. 29.—"In view of the grave situation now existing throughout Europe," says the Tribuna today, "Italy does not consider that the offer of the Crown of Albania to a son of Abdul Hamid, ex-ultan of Turkey is of sufficient importance to justify intervention."

CLAIM ALLIES HAVE HELD THEIR GRIP

BELIEVED IN LONDON HOMERIC STRUGGLE CANNOT LAST MUCH LONGER

BERLIN SAYS NO CHANGE

Generally Admitted Russians Have Crossed Carpathians Into Hungary

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 29.—The eighteen days of the battle of Aisne thus far has brought no decisive results but all indications continue to point to the approaching end of the Homeric struggle. Hand to hand fighting which is now raging cannot be long continued without a decisive result.

Meanwhile the fog, which the French official report yesterday announced had prevented operations in the Woevre district, covers metaphorically the rest of the long battle line.

All that the public is permitted to know from the allies' side is that so far that the British and French armies have held their grip on their positions and have consistently thrust back the masses of Germans who have bravely and incessantly hurled upon them in an effort to break through the human barrier.

In Berlin it is asserted there has been no change in the situation and the claim that the allies and the scales have turned slightly in their favor is stoutly denied.

The losses of the opposing armies in the last few days have been colossal. Gibe no longer are heard at the activities of the Zeppelins which now seem omnipresent.

It now seems to be officially admitted that the Russians have secured a good foothold on Hungarian soil and have crossed the frontier in considerable numbers. In the plains in front of them the Muscovites will find their most difficult barrier in the River Theiss which is flanked by marshes. It is believed there are no fords on the plains but possibly fortifications have been placed in position on the river.

JAPANESE DRIVE GERMANS BACK

KAISERS FORCES NOW REPORTED ON THEIR LAST LINE OF DEFENSE

JAPS OCCUPY HEIGHTS

Germans Retire Before Superior Forces and Losses Are Believed Light

By Associated Press. Peking, China, Sept. 29.—The Germans in Cha Chow have retired to the Walderslee line of defense before an overwhelming force of the enemy. Tsing Tzu now is completely invested. The German losses were small. This information is contained in a dispatch received here from a German source at Tsing Tzu, which evidently is a wireless communication from Tsing Tzu. It advises that the Japanese armored cruiser squadron bombarded the forts.

Japanese official reports corroborated the foregoing. They declared that the Germans are now back of their main line of defense five miles from Tsing Tzu and that Japanese troops now occupy heights commanding these positions. Three German warships inside of Tsing Tzu harbor and Japanese aeroplanes participated in the fighting.

SEPTEMBER WEATHER RECORDS WERE BROKEN

FRENCH CLAIM ALLIES PROGRESS IN THE CENTER

Repulse Attacks of Germans By Day and Night Along River Somme

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 29.—"On our left wing on the river Somme," the French official statement issued this afternoon says "the Germans attempted numerous attacks which the allies repulsed everywhere."

The text of the statement is as follows: "First—On our left wing to the north of the Somme and between the Somme and Oise the enemy both by day and by night delivered several attacks which, however, were repulsed. To the north of the Aisne there has been no change."

"Second—On the center on Champagne and to the east of the Argonne the enemy has restricted his activities. Between the Argonne and Muese there has been slight progress on the part of our troops who are confronted by strongly organized positions. On the Heights of the Muese in the Woevre district and on our right wing in Lorraine and the Vosges there has been no notable modification in the situation."

"Generally speaking our line runs from the east to the west through the region of Pont-A-Mousson, Apremont and the Muese, through the region of St. Mihiel along the heights to the north of Stade and through a portion of the heights of the Muese to the southeast of Verdun. Between Verdun and Rheims the general front is indicated by a line passing through the region of Varrers to the north of Souain and the Roman roadway which runs into Rheims, the outposts of Rheims, the road from Rheims to Berry Au Bac and the heights known as the 'Chemin des Danes.' On the right bank of the Aisne this line then draws near to the Aisne and continues into the region of Soissons. Between Soissons and the forts of L'Laigle it runs over the first plateau of the right bank of the Aisne. Between the Oise and the Somme it runs along front from Bevicour (which belongs to us) to Lassigny (occupied by the enemy) to Roye (which belong to us) to Chaulnes. To the north of the Somme the line continues along the plateau between Albert and Colmbles."

"We again took many prisoners during yesterday belonging principally to the seventh active corps and the seventh reserve corps of the army and also to the Tenth, Twelfth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth German army corps."

ABLONA IS REPORTED OCCUPIED BY ITALY

By Associated Press. Rome, Sept. 29.—Rumors were circulated here today that the occupation of Ablona in Albania on the Adriatic by the Italians was imminent. Some of the reports even had it that the occupation already had occurred as an answer to the abnormal conditions prevailing in Albania.

TRY TO CHECK DROP IN PRICES OF RICE

Beesumont, Texas, Sept. 29.—Efforts are under way by rice men in this section to check a drop in rice prices. The cause of the decrease is said to have been importation from Siam and Bangon of rice at about a dollar per barrel less than the price of the domestic product. The European war does not appear to have had any important connection thus far with rice prices.

BRITISH CRUISERS ARRIVE AT CHILEAN PORT

By Associated Press. Punta Arenas, Chile, Sept. 29.—The British cruiser, Good Hope, Monmouth and Glasgow, under command of Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock, arrived here today.

INVASION OF HUNGARY SAID TO BE ADMITTED

By Associated Press. London, Sept. 29.—An official communication issued at Budapest, according to a Rome dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company, admits that the Russians have succeeded in crossing the Bulgarian frontier at several points in the Ung district, in spite of the fact that reinforcements have been sent against them. Ung is a county in Northern Hungary.

ASK PRESIDENT'S AID FOR COTTON GROWERS

Conference of Cotton Situation Develops No Specific Plan of Action

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 29.—The conference of the Southern governors and congressmen called to consider the predicament of planters through the closing of the cotton markets because of the war, ended its labors without having determined upon any specific plan of action. Resolutions were adopted, however, pledging the state executives and congressmen to work for the curtailment of the 1915 crops either through state or federal agencies. The resolution urged that the state banks be admitted to the privileges of emergency currency and pledged Southern congressmen to seek financial aid for the growers. The resolutions do not bind the growers to call special sessions of their legislatures.

No specific plan of federal financial aid was recommended.

The conference appointed a committee comprising Senator Robinson of Arkansas and Representative Lever of South Carolina and Representative Hardwick of Georgia to submit the resolution to President Wilson. They will ask his aid in obtaining the repeal of the clause that prohibits State banks from participating in emergency currency issue.

JAPANESE TROOPS DESTROY RAILROAD BRIDGE

By Associated Press. Wei Hsing, Shantung, China, Sept. 29.—Japanese troops today blew up and destroyed the railroad bridge at Tau Ho, six miles west of here. The sound of the explosion could be heard in this city.

RUSSIANS IN HUNGARY; 150,000 GERMANS READY FOR SIEGE OF ANTWERP

The terrific battle now in its 18th day in the Aisne district to the north of Paris continues to rage but its violence is generally held to portend a decisive result in the near future. Furious hand to hand fighting is going on and the losses of both allies and the German army are enormous.

Several times the Germans hurled the masses of their troops against the Allies' left wing but every time they were repulsed, according to the official statement of the French war department this afternoon.

In the center, it is asserted, a heavy cannonade is going on while between the Argonne forest and the river Muese the allies have made some progress.

The German general staff, Berlin advises say, declare that the situation on the French soil has not changed and it is emphatically denied that the battle at any point of the line has been favorable to the allies.

According to an announcement at Petrograd the Russians crossing the Carpathian mountains have entered Hungary and are driving back the Austrian reinforcements sent against them. The invaders went across the mountains into the Unga district which is about 180 miles northeast of Budapest.

Germans estimated to number 150,000 are reported to be preparing for the siege of the Belgian fortress of Antwerp. Austrian siege guns have been brought up to take the place of the large German guns which are now being used in the battle of Aisne.

A Belgian official communication states that Germany's heavy artillery fire directed at two forts ten miles from Antwerp ceased when the forts replied.

The activity of the Zeppelins stretched over a wide area. Six bombs were hurled. One damaged a convent and another German airship created a panic at Bilaystock, sixty miles across the Russian frontier.

The Japanese are drawing a military cordon closer around Kia Chow. An official Japanese statement today announced that the Japanese are driving the Germans toward Tsing Tau.

Russia has suspended the payment of specie payments for another month.

NINE COUNTIES GO DRY IN KENTUCKY ELECTIONS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—Prohibition forces won nine out of the twelve local option elections held in Kentucky. In every one of the counties there was a hard fight put up after a long and bitter campaign, but the rural vote proved too great for the cities to overcome. A week ago three counties voted on the question and the "wets" were victorious in all three instances, but the "drys" enjoyed an inning yesterday. The three counties to vote wet were Fayette, Henderson and Anderson.

All three of these counties have distilleries in their boundaries. In Fayette, where two separate elections were held, one for the city and the other for the county the wets rolled up a majority of 3,462 over the dries. In Anderson county the wets won with only sixty-four votes to spare.

National interest was centered in the fight of the prohibition forces, as it was thought that the Kentuckians believed more strongly in allowing saloons than any other State in the Nation. Both wets and dries had speakers of national reputation to speak in the counties in which the elections were held, and after the election last week the wets believed that they would carry seven out of the twelve counties, but the rural district voted heavily for prohibition which resulted in counties overhauling the vote of the cities in this election. The county was taken as a unit instead of the cities and counties separately. In two places, Winchester and Lexington, the courts held that the cities were separate units. Much surprise was manifested over

SHERIFF ISSUES ORDER

District Becoming Too Disorderly and Sheriff Proposes To Close Up Houses

Members of the sheriff's department last night served notice upon the habitués of Mulberry Row that their resorts must be closed and vacated by tonight and that those who do not obey will be arrested and prosecuted. It was said today that there was little evidence of preparation to comply with the order in the district and the usual arrests and fines are expected to follow in short order.

The order came from Sheriff Randolph himself, who retires from office in November after four years' tenure. Usually it is the county attorney's office which takes the lead when such raids are projected, but in this case the sheriff's department is taking the initiative.

Since the proprietresses of the resorts were required to move, some months ago, from the immediate vicinity of the railroad tracks to the territory several hundred yards further west, there has been little molestation by the officers who seemed to take the view that the evils could be better controlled in this way than by causing the women to scatter over the city, which is a usual result of prosecutions.

When asked why the move was made at this time, the sheriff answered that "things were getting a little too strong down there."

The law provides a minimum penalty of $200 fine and twenty days in jail for conviction of the proprietresses, with vagrancy fines for the habitués. The sheriff's department draws down three dollars for each arrest made and if the cases are contested, additional fees are derived from serving subpoenas and performing other services.

MANUFACTURERS ARE BUYING COTTON HERE

That the buy a bale movement is receiving considerable encouragement from the manufacturing concerns of the north and east is demonstrated in the numerous orders from various firms authorizing their customers in the south and especially in Texas, to purchase one or more bales at 10 cents. Wichita Falls has been extremely fortunate in this respect and quite a number of bales have been paid for at the 10 cent rate with the money of the manufacturers of the east.

A short time ago Mr. Barnard of the P. B. M. Company, who is ever ready to contribute in any way possible to the interests of Wichita Falls and of the surrounding country, wrote to a number of the manufacturers with whom his deals asking them to join in the buy a bale movement and already favorable responses are being received and others are expected. Three firms have authorized the P. B. M. Company to buy a bale at 10 cents, one of which, the Alfred Benjamin-Washington Company writes as follows:

"New York, Sept. 24. P. B. M. Co., Wichita Falls, Tex. Gentlemen: We are in receipt of your letter of the 19th with reference to buying a bale of cotton in your city and will cheerfully co-operate with you to the extent of one bale and you will kindly purchase for us one bale of cotton at 10 cents per pound. Yours for a big clothing business."

"ALFRED BENJAMIN-WASHINGTON COMPANY."

The spirit manifested by such institutions is indeed commendable and will no doubt aid largely in relieving in a measure the depression caused by the paralyzed condition of the cotton market.

Much credit is due such enterprising firms as the P. B. M. Company for the interest manifested in calling the matter to the attention of these men, and in this respect Wichita Falls has perhaps made the best showing of any town in the State of like size or even larger.

LOCAL MAN INVENTS NEW GAS HEATER

J. C. ZIEGLER IS PLACING NEW TYPE OF STOVE ON THE MARKET

AN AUTOMATIC AIR MIXER

And a Down Draft Contrivance Are Features of the New Stove

Gas heaters of an improved type have recently been added to the line of articles manufactured in Wichita Falls, through the ingenuity and enterprise of J. C. Ziegler of this city. The heaters have recently appeared on the market and are selling rapidly.

Two inventions are combined in the heater, the first being an automatic air mixer and the second a down draft contrivance. Most air mixers on gas stoves have to be adjusted according to the pressure of the gas but that on the Ziegler heater adjusts itself to all pressures without any adjustment being necessary. This air mixer sends a combination of gas and air in equal parts, into the upper part of the heater.

The heater consists of two steel cylinders, one inside the other, the mixture of air and gas comes up through a pipe in the inside cylinder to the burner, which is at the top of the stove; there it is ignited and the draft pipe, which is at the bottom of the stove, draws the flame down between the two cylinders, heating both in a very short time. In most heaters, the heat radiates from the top of the heater toward the ceiling; in the Ziegler type it radiates downward, heating the floor first. It is claimed for the heater that twenty-five per cent less gas is needed than in any other.

All of the stove except some of the fixtures is made by Mr. Ziegler in this city. His first large sale was made to the Brin-Dolan Furniture Company, which took 100 stoves and was given the local agency. This store has already disposed of eighteen of the stoves.

The heat given off by the heater, even with smaller consumption of gas, is such that one can hardly remain within six or seven feet of the burner.

Chicago Grain Futures.
By Associated Press.
Chicago, Sept. 29.—Wheat advanced sharply today in consequence of the rapid closing of the Dardanelles. Commission houses almost unanimously took the buying side and found offerings light. The start, which ranged from seven-eighths to five-eighths higher, was followed by a decline and another advance. Corn hardened a little with wheat. After opening one-eighth off to a slight advance. Assertions that the government of Greece was purchasing oats on a large scale made that cereal active. Wheat closed weak. Corn, closed steady. Closing prices: Wheat—September, $1.08 1/2; December, $1.09; May, $1.15 3/4. Corn—December, 62 7/8; May, 70 7/8. Oats—December, 47 7/8; May 51.

Dallas, Sept. 29.—Spot cotton, 7 1/8. Sales, 5,667 bales.

There was some improvement in the local cotton situation today and midling was quoted at 7 to 7 1/4 cents, a substantial advance over yesterday.

SHADOWS OF THE PAST

Both unpleasant and otherwise, sometimes impress themselves on our minds so forcibly that we are driven to do things we would never do under normal conditions. This will be shown you in the great three-reel Vitagraph Broadway Star Feature at the Majestic Theatre tonight. Never has the Vitagraph Company assembled a stronger cast of players for one production—Anita Stewart, Julia Swayne Gordon, Rose Tapley, Harry Morey, E. K. Lincoln, Roger Lytton—all join hands to make the picture one grand success. How well they succeed was shown by the long run at the Vitagraph Theatre in New York. See it yourself and you will agree that it is a wonderfully constructed photo drama. 19 11 c

In most heaters, the heat radiates from the top of the heater toward the ceiling; in the Ziegler type it radiates downward, heating the floor first. It is claimed for the heater that twenty-five per cent less gas is needed than in any other.

All of the stove except some of the fixtures is made by Mr. Ziegler in this city. His first large sale was made to the Brin-Dolan Furniture Company, which took 100 stoves and was given the local agency. This store has already disposed of eighteen of the stoves.

The heat given off by the heater, even with smaller consumption of gas, is such that one can hardly remain within six or seven feet of the burner.

ALLIES SEA LOSSES ARE LESS THAN THE GERMANS

London, Sept. 29.—Twelve British ships with an aggregate tonnage of 59,331 have been sunk on the high seas by German cruisers up to Sept. 28, according to an admiralty report issued yesterday afternoon. Eight other British ships whose tonnage aggregated 2,979 have been sunk by German mines in the North Sea and twenty-four fishing craft with a tonnage of 4,334 have been captured or sunk by the Germans in the same waters.

British ships detained at German ports number seventy-four with a total tonnage of 170,960.

On the credit side the admiralty gives 108 German ships with a total tonnage of 200,000 detained in British ports since the outbreak of the war.

Eighty-eight German ships of an aggregate tonnage of 338,000 have been captured since hostilities began. The report shows also 168 German ships with an aggregate tonnage of 283,000 detained or captured by the allies. Fifteen ships with a tonnage of 247,000 were detained in American ports, while fourteen others with a tonnage of 72,000 remain in the Suez Canal.

NO DOUBT!

He—Oh, life in a garden, love, with you.
And roses and lilies and 4-o'clocks,
And violets and pansies blue,
And tall, gay hollyhocks.
That, love, is the life for me!
She—But somehow, sweet, 'twould fairer seem,
If, somehow, mid poises sweet,
With all that riot of love's young dream,
We two could find something to eat!
Then, love, 'tis the life for me.

"PEACE" STAMPS BEING PLACED ON MAILING MATTER

An appeal in the interests of universal peace is contained on stickers to be used on the backs of letters, parcels and other mailing matter such as the Red Cross seal has been issued and will no doubt soon be in general use throughout the country. The stamp carries this appeal, "America's Appeal. In the name of One God and Universal Humanity Let This War End War." Club women over the state are using this stamp on all of their correspondence as a means to voice their sentiments of the slaughter now in progress in Europe.

B. W. A. MEETS IN REGULAR SESSION MONDAY

The Woman's Alliance of the First Baptist church held their regular meeting Monday afternoon. The lesson was led by the pastor, R. C. Miller, followed by the usual discussion and study hour.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS MONDAY

The Missionary Society of the First church met Monday afternoon in the church parlors, Mrs. J. L. Mears, president, presiding. Mrs. E. A. Fowler led the devotional exercises, speaking on the subject of "Fruitfulness." The plans for the year's work were explained by Miss Haynes, and the year book, "The Child in the Midst," was outlined in brief. A reading by Mrs. J. W. Akin and solo by Mrs. O. E. Maer were much enjoyed. A social hour followed the completion of the program, during which time refreshments were served by the year book committee.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN AID MEETS WITH MRS. PITMAN

The Ladies Aid of the Central Presbyterian Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. S. Pitman, 2406 Ninth street. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Oldham read the devotionals, reading from the fourteenth chapter of Romans. After a very earnest prayer by Mrs. Reed the following answered to roll call with verses on duty: Mesdames Wilson, Reed, Oldham, White, Kerr, Jamison, Pitman and Miss Mattie Pitman was the guest of the afternoon. Under the order of new business the ladies decided to abandon the serving of refreshments at the meetings with the exception of foreign mission day. The question of serving lunch on circus day was discussed at length and sandwiches, coffee, pie and cake was agreed upon. The lesson was led by the hostess, Mrs. Pitman and the comments on "The King's Business" the new book of the year proved exceedingly instructive and helpful. The society will meet next week with Mrs. White.

ALL DAY MEETING OF THE LADIES OF M. E. SOUTH

The ladies of the M. E. Church South enjoyed the first all day meeting since in the spring Monday. The spacious parlors of the church were well filled and the morning was spent in needlework and crocheting. At noon the usual appetizing luncheon was spread and the ladies were visited by Messrs. Bland, W. T. Harris and W. W. Silk who announced themselves as "purg food inspectors." After a thorough inspection the tables were passed upon very favorably. Dr. Hill was also present. In the afternoon a program was carried out Mrs. Fleming led the devotionals taking as her subject the call of Isaiah. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. G. H. Carpenter and instrumental music by Miss Laura Martin. The address of the afternoon was made by Miss Helen Hickman, the returned missionary, who spoke at length in a very interesting manner of her work and the needs of Brazil. Her talk was splendid and very much enjoyed. A business meeting was held on the completion of the program and delegates and alternates to the district meeting to be held in Alford the second week in next month were elected, these being Mesdames Sander, Silk, Shelton, Jackson, Waggoner and Dan Hardy.

MRS. A. H. BRITAIN HOSTESS AT INFORMAL TEA

Monday afternoon Mrs. A. H. Britain entertained very delightfully with an informal tea, in the nature of a going away party for her mother, Mrs. Mattie Bell who left Tuesday morning for a visit in Mississippi. All were devotees of the Kensington arts for some time, fancy work being engaged in. Assisted by Mrs. Ben Bell, Mrs. Britain dispensed fragrant cups of tea with delicious sandwiches. Those enjoying this unusually pleasant affair were: Mesdames J. M. Bell, Dent, Hartsock, Kell, Carrigan, Adickes, Anderson, Jackson, Freear, Eugene Sherrod, Richolt, Darnell and Ben Bell.

The members of the Falls Grove, Woodmen Circle No. 1447 are cordially invited to meet with Mrs. C. S. Mallett, 1106 Indiana avenue Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, honoring Mrs. Lizzie B. Stover of Shreveport, deputy state supreme guardian of Louisiana, who is the guest of Mrs. Mallett. She will remain here only a few days longer, as business demands her return to her home state.

The Just So Club will meet with Miss Hazel Jones, 2210 Ninth Saturday afternoon. All members are invited to attend and new members are given an especially invitation.

Mrs. L. A. McNeil, little Miss Katharine Louise—McNeil and Miss Icie White leave tomorrow for Dallas, where they will make their home.

Attention Club Women.
A meeting of the club women of Wichita Falls is called to meet with Mrs. W. M. McGregor at 10 o'clock Thursday morning for the purpose of discussing the high cost of living. Mrs. Henry B. Fall, state president of the T. F. W. C. has requested this meeting, believing that this question is a woman's problem and asking for ways and means of counteracting the excessive high prices, her message appears in Monday's Dallas News. A large attendance is requested.

MRS. S. H. BURNSIDE, President First District T. F. W. C.

A call similar to the foregoing has been issued by Mrs. Burnside to the clubs throughout this first district and the same general call has been issued over the state. Mrs. Fall is confident that the club women can by concerted action do much to relieve the high prices now existent.

R. Jones.

The affirmative will be upheld by W. B. Markley and Bruce Fuller and the negative will be conducted by W. C. Perkins and A. S. Hursh.

SEVEN IDEAS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

When it is necessary to boil a cracked egg add a little vinegar to the water. This will prevent the white from boiling out.
If you have difficulty in cleaning the candle grease from metal candlesticks try setting the candlesticks in a hot oven for a few minutes. This will melt the grease. Of course care must be taken not to leave them in too long or the candlesticks will melt as well as the grease.
If you wet a spoon before using it to serve jelly you will find the jelly will not stick to it and the serving is more easily accomplished.
To clean fly specks from varnished wood, wipe with a soft cloth dipped in equal parts of skimmed milk and water.
To pick up little pieces of broken glass, wet a woolen cloth; lay it on the floor where the fragments are and pat it. The little particles will adhere to the damp cloth.
The skin of new potatoes is more easily removed by rubbing with a stiff little brush than by scraping with a knife.
If curtain rods or poles are rubbed with hard soap before being put up, the curtains will slip on them easily.

WEEKLY MEETING WICHITA FALLS TRADES COUNCIL

The Grocery Clerks and the Retail Dry Goods Clerks Unions signed up last night's weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Trades and Labor Council. Frank Harris of the Rail-way Carmen presided at last night's meeting of the Council.
The laundry situation and grievances of members of the union were discussed. A grievance committee comprising G. A. Kaufman, W. C. Russell and F. H. Denison was appointed on the Tailors' grievance. A mass meeting of union men was called at the court house tonight to discuss the laundry situation.
The attendance at last night's meeting is believed to have been larger than at any meeting thus far held.

DR. PARKER'S TWO SERMONS

And How He Got the Morning Congregation Back to His Church at Night.

A characteristic story of Dr. Parker was told by a minister who had it from an old minister who was much interested in Joseph Parker's early work as a local preacher, says the British Weekly. One Saturday he met Parker and asked him whether he had an engagement for Sunday. "Yes," was the reply.

"Are your sermons ready, Joseph?" asked the minister.
"I have the morning sermon," was the reply, "but I am not sure about the evening."

"Well, Joseph, what is your text for the morning and how do you treat it?" Parker went over his text and the outline of his sermon.

"But, Joseph," said the minister, "that is very clever, but it is not the real meaning of the text. If you will look at the commentaries you will see that you are wrong."
Parker thanked him and went his way. On the Monday the minister again met his friend.

"Well, Joseph, how did you get on yesterday?"

"Very well," was the reply.
"How did you manage?"
"Well," he said, "in the morning I preached my sermon and explained the text in my way, and at the close I said: 'This is how I understand it. But learned men understand it differently, and I will tell you in the evening how the learned men understand it.' They all came back in the evening, and Joseph had a happy day."

ABLE TO EAT A FEW TRIFLES

Star's Appetite Had Not Completely Failed, Judging by the Dinner She Ordered.

The theatrical manager leaned wearily against the desk in the office of the hotel.
"Well, how goes it?" said the clerk.
The manager shrugged his shoulders without replying.
"Good business?"

The manager evaded the question. "I'm afraid we may have to close before the season's over. My star's sick. When she comes to the theater at night she's hardly able to get through her work. She says she can't eat anything."

Just then the telephone bell rang. The clerk turned to answer it. After listening for a moment he said: "Wait till I get a pencil. I've got to write that down."

As he wrote he repeated: "Mock turtle soup, soft shell crabs, porterhouse steak, half a chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, string beans, tomato salad, ice cream, strawberries and coffee. Whew!" Then he shouted into the phone: "How many is that dinner for? One? Whew!"
Then he turned to the manager. "That's your star's dinner," he said quietly.

Directory of Minerals.

Every city has a directory of its inhabitants. If you do not know a person's name but do know that he is a paperhanger, the classified business directory will locate him for you. A directory of the useful minerals in the United States, on much the same plan, has just been published by the United States Geological Survey. If you want to know where any one of the 400 useful minerals occurs, this directory gives the list of localities in each state where your mineral will be found. This publication should be useful to many classes of people in many ways. If someone wants to sell you stock in a Texas oil company the report will tell you in what counties in Texas oil is produced and in what other counties it may eventually be found. If your wife wears a blood-stone lavalliere, the report gives you the only locality in the United States where that stone is known to occur. If you want to manufacture plaster of paris or need lime for your back pasture, this report will tell you where to find the gypsum and gives the location of your nearest limekiln.

For Those Who Wish to Reduce.

Do you always take every opportunity to walk when you can? If it is a matter of several blocks, do you take a car when it is possible? Take every opportunity to walk, but walk as if you really enjoyed it; put some energy into this exercise. Really make it an exercise. Do not eat more than one starchy food at a meal, drink plenty of water, but between meals, and, above all, eat enough to allay hunger, but stop there; do not continue as if you were never going to get another meal instead of one quite as heavy in another four or five hours. Another thing, sleep with plenty of fresh air circulating in your sleeping room and if you are very stout do with just sufficient sleep, and above all omit the nap in the middle of the day.

Shrewd Butcher.

A certain English butcher, who sold about 30 cooked legs of pork per week, said his loss was formerly 40 per cent and now only 22 per cent in the electric oven, or a clear saving of 18 per cent. After deducting the cost of the current at two cents per unit, his saving amounted to 50 cents per leg of pork, or $15 per week extra profit. On being told that he had only saved water, he answered: "Perhaps so; but you see, my customers pay me 28 cents per pound for it!"

The two extra sessions of the legislature will cost the State something in the neighborhood of $128,000, and yet the State is too poor to appropriate sufficient funds to remove the insane from Texas jails to the insane asylums, or rather the asylums the State already has are filled to their capacity and the State has not sufficient funds to construct others.

Mexican names are so difficult to pronounce that when the reader of the newspaper strikes them he usually spells them out without trying to pronounce them, but this General Ben Hill who is taking a prominent part in the Villa-Carranza new revolution is a name familiar enough to all Americans. They are only wondering why or how he, being a Mexican, came to have such a sensible name.

Wheat, cotton and corn are the very foundations of the prosperity of this American government, and while it is the generally accepted theory that the people must support the government, there are times—like the present, for instance—when the government should use its great and powerful resources to help the people. The people have done their part. It is within the power of the government to render them aid and assistance in the marketing of their crops at a fair price. From the way it looks to this paper, the National government seems willing enough to render this aid, but is finding it a difficult matter to reach those who are most in need of it through the agencies it has selected. It was plainly the intention of the National government that the emergency currency it permitted to be issued should be used exclusively for crop-moving purposes, but it has come to the notice of the National government that little of it is being put to the use it was intended. In other words, the National government seems to be a victim of misplaced confidence, and the good money at a reasonable rate of interest that the producers of the country expected is not likely to materialize.

A young fellow whom we've known since he was a youngster was figuratively "patting himself on the back" the other day over the fact that he had not spent all his wages and that he had enough on hand to go through the winter, even if he didn't get a place. "My house has laid me off now indefinitely," he said, "and I'm certainly glad I didn't go wild and spend all my wages last summer as I got them." The appearances were then, as he and everybody else thought, that he had a permanent place. So he would have but for the unforeseen conditions that have arisen since. But this youngster—and he admits it was largely due to conditions and not through any foresightedness—put enough of his money in the bank to carry him several months. Lectures on savings are generally platitudinous, oftentimes bromidic, and seldom are the young impressed by the advice of older men or the fable of the ant. But this youngster has learned a lesson for himself and from his own experience.

which, after all, is about the only sure teacher. And the lesson he learned will, in after life, be worth infinitely more than the few hundred dollars he accidentally saved against a rainy day. Denton Record and Chronicle.

COTTON MARKET IN WICHITA FALLS IN 1907.

From the files of The Times September 28, 1907, the following is reproduced concerning the cotton market: "Yesterday afternoon cotton in the line sold in the Wichita Falls market as high as 11.52 1/2. This morning the Wigham gin passed the 200 bale mark for this season, and the Farmers Union gin, which started up several days ago, had ginned over fifty bales. At the Farmers Union gin fully seventy-five bales are stored and piled on the ground waiting to be ginned."

VILLA REDIVIVUS.

The bandit, General Villa, is opposed to a return to the ways of peace, and is reported to have again taken the field in a revolution against his former superior officer, Carranza. His business for many years has been the plunder of helpless people and the looting of towns and haciendas, and this industry has been so safe and profitable to him that he wants to keep it up. The American people want to keep out of Mexico, and they endorse the position taken by President Wilson; but there is an end to their patience, and if this scoundrel does not behave himself he may goad this government into taking action in the interest of civilization and public tranquility. No trust can be reposed in Villa, if, indeed, it can be reposed in any Mexican, but if our soldiers have to return to Vera Cruz they will not remain there in idleness, nor will they leave the country at the behest of an incorrigible bandit. The military authorities, including General Funston, who is on the ground, were of the opinion that President Wilson was acting in too precipitate a manner in withdrawing the troops so soon. In the goodness of his heart and in the hope of instilling feelings of patriotism in the Mexican people, he permitted sentiment to govern him in the matter. If he finds that he has been betrayed and imposed upon, public indignation in this country will be inflamed, and the people can not be restrained from taking measures to discipline the professional revolutionist, whose only principle is plunder and spoliation. And yet it may be well to allow the warring factions in Mexico to eat each other up and then leave the splendid empire to be administered by the United States of America, on the invitation of the various remnants that will be left in that country, after the self have torn each other to pieces.—Memphis News-Scimitar.

DEMAND FOR HORSES.

The Oklahoma Live Stock News says dealers are buying up horses. We quote: "A net-work of buyers representing Stock lands, horser and mule companies, has been thrown over the Southwest for the purpose of gathering all possible animals which meet with the specifications of European orders. The warring nations, especially England, France and Germany, have been scouring this country and Canada for horses fit to be used in cavalry and other army service. Hundreds of head are being shipped here daily, it being necessary to build new holding pens at the rear of the Exchange building. W. T. Hales and Davis and Younger have buyers at all points in the state with instructions to send in all kinds of horses that meet with specifications. In height, they must be from 15 to 15 1/2 hands high, weighing 950 to 1,150 pounds, and ages from five to eight years preferred. They must be fat. In the North a hitch somewhere along the line seems to have delayed inspection of horses bought on British account, and in that line things have not been moving as smoothly as they probably will later. In the war division prices remain at a wide range. Not so many years ago a medical authority gave the opinion that a man was of little account after he was forty-five years old. A crisis in the world's history is disproving that theory. Nearly all the men who are directing the great armies that are struggling to determine the fate of nations are men of advanced years. Most of them have reached an age when they long since would have been retired from the United States army. Some of them had been retired from the European armies, but when the crisis arose they were recalled by anxious peoples to take command. General Von Kluck, the ablest strategic and most skillful leader of the German army, who led his army within sight of Paris and who was only prevented from striking the allies a crushing blow by the failure of other German armies to keep up with his advance, is between 68 and 69 years old. General Von Hindenburg, who smote the Russians in East Prussia a staggering blow and did it with a vastly inferior force, is 67. General Jullius Von Moltke, chief of the general staff at Berlin, whose fighting machine, the German army, is the wonder of the world and is conceded by all to be the most marvelous organization ever formed in history, is 66. General Von Hausen and General Von Buelow, in command of German armies that are fighting grimly and valiently, are each 69. General Joffre, the master strategist of the allies, in command of the forces that hurled back the German horde after it reached the gates of Paris, is 70. General Pau, who carries an armless sleeve and who has been the right hand of his superior, is also near 70. General Gallieni, the man whom France called to the defense of Paris when it was believed the capital was about to be attacked, is also near seventy. General Soukonnineff, Russian minister of war and organizer of the vast army which is now sweeping down upon Germany in a rapidity that has astounded the world, is 68. Lord Kitchener, commander in chief of the British army, is past the age when he would have been retired in the U. S. army. Other generals in all the armies are men of advanced years. They are on the field in the thick of the fight. They are there because their experience has best fitted them for the tasks. The war has brought the old men into their own. An old head is better than a hot one.

WAR KEENLY FELT IN PERU AND NORTHERN CHILI

Panama, Sept. 29.—Travelers reaching here from the west coast of South America report that the effects of the European war are keenly felt in Peru and Northern Chili. Mining in the great nitrate fields is practically suspended owing to the loss of the usual European markets, and since that nitrate region is practically a desert, incapable of supporting any other industry, the miners face starvation or migration as their alternatives. The large import and export houses such as at Lima and Callao are doing very little business. Scarcity of gold or other suitable circulating medium has been a difficulty in Peru and apparently it has been impossible for the government to agree upon an adequate relief measure that would bring better conditions. As a result exchanges have increased in value and it has been found necessary to declare a partial moratorium which has been extended from time to time. In all of the west coast ports of consequence here are idle German steamers which previous to the European conflict played an important part in the commerce of South America. British steamers which have shared with the German companies the carrying trade of Western South America, still are calling regularly at these ports, but owing to the lack of business are carrying very little freight and few passengers. GERMANY HAS LOST EXTENSIVE TERRITORY

New York, Sept. 29.—Germany has lost territory more than half the size of the Empire's area in Europe since the war began by the capture of her colonies. The only German colony against which military operations have not been reported is Kamerun, which borders the Gulf of Guinea, in West Africa. The territory is partly surrounded by British, French and Belgian possessions and has a population of only 1,700 Germans in its 191 square miles. Its deadly climate for whites may be the reason why it has been uncolonized. The German colonies now occupied partly or wholly by the allies are: Kaiser Wilhelm's Land, area 70,000 square miles; Togoland, area 33,700 square miles; Samoa Islands, 1,000 square miles, and Bismarck Archipelago, area 20,000 square miles, a total of 124,700 square miles. The European area of the German Empire is 208,780 square miles. Colonies three and a half times this size are now being invaded or shortly will be.

DENIES FRENCH WARSHIP SUNK BY AUSTRIAN FORTS Washington, Sept. 29.—Official denial of the sinking of a French warship by the Austrian forts at Cattaro was made today by the French admiralty through the French embassy here which gave out the following statement:

"The French secretary for the navy has made known that this news is entirely false and that there is nothing to justify it. Up to September 28 no French warship has been touched by an Austrian projectile." The embassy here attributes the report to a dispatch published in a Cologne paper.

GRADED BEGGARS OF MEXICO

Ten-Cent Mendicant Maid, Himself Proudly Above His Brothers Who Struggled for Coppers.

In his book on Mexico, Mr. W. E. Carson discourses amusingly on the beggars he met. On one occasion he proffered a five-cent piece to a doleful, but picturesque street musician.

"To my astonishment, he politely declined my humble offering. 'Señor,' said he, in choice Spanish, with some emotion, 'you must pardon me for being unable to accept your gift, but I am a ten-cent beggar, senior (un mendigo de diez centavos), and never accept a smaller gratuity.'

"Drawing himself up with an air of pride, he continued, 'I shall be honored to sing for your entertainment; a song of old Spain or one of our noble Mexican airs, but always for a fee of ten cents, never for less, for I am a ten-cent beggar, senior, poor as I am.'

"It was impossible to resist this touching protest, so with an apology I handed the courtly-vagrant his proper fee, which he acknowledged with a thousand thanks (Mil gracias, senior) and a graceful bow. At the other end of the car the mob of beggars were scrambling for copper coins thrown to them by my fellow-passengers. The melancholy minstrel glanced at them, shrugged his shoulders and waved his hand deprecatingly.

"Ah, señor," he observed, 'those poor people, they have to work hard for their bread; good folk, worthy folk, well deserving of your charity, but they give you a very bad impression of Mexico. Pray, senior, do not class them with poor musicians like myself.'

THEIR SILLY TALK

By JULIA TRUITT BISHOP.

Howard Marsh, author and journalist, acknowledged that he was about to undertake a foolish quest, and that most of his friends would accuse him of having something lacking in his mental machinery if they should happen to hear of it. He acknowledged it to Trask, the city editor, who was silent and phlegmatic and rather a dull-fellow on the whole, to his way of thinking, though he rather liked to talk to him at times because he listened so well. He acknowledged it again to little Miss Barbara Scott, who had passed the hey-day of young girlhood, one would say, and whom Marsh found to be a nice little old maid enough, and quiet, as old maids ought to be.

Trask had gone on smoking very calmly, after his disclosure, and it was only after a long pause that he had remarked dryly:

"So you are going down into the backwoods to find a genius? And she doesn't want to be found? How will you know her when you find her?"

But it was to Miss Barbara that he said, without reserve:

"You know, Miss Barbara—you won't mind my sitting here in the gallery, will you?—well, I am quite sure I would know her the very minute I saw her or heard her voice. Absurd, isn't it?—to have fallen in love with—without a mind, one might say. But from the time I read 'The Cross of Fire' I knew that I must find the author. And everything she has written since has appealed to me in such a way—there is such tenderness, such insight—something so elusive, as though one had caught a glimpse of a Dryad in the woods—and I simply are the 'Oread' who wrote 'The Cross of Fire'." The shy woodland spirit who had so carefully hidden herself away could not have her secret uncovered to the light of day in such a manner as that—but no matter—he would know. He would see her face to face very soon—perhaps tomorrow—and when he looked into her eyes and heard her speak he would know.

After that Miss Barbara heard the story from day to day. He always came in as she worked over the exercises late in the evening—there seemed to be never an end to those exercises—or sometimes it was later, and he found her resting in the gallery under the balcony chimes.

"I am more sure of her every day," he said once. "Have you ever noticed what a soft voice she has?—an awfully sweet voice, Miss Barbara. And she is of just that shy, reserved kind—a true woodland spirit. Miss Sarah is quiet, too—but I don't think it can be Miss Sarah, do you, Miss Barbara? It is almost sure to be one or the other of them—I am positive of that—and it doesn't seem to me that Miss Sarah is possible."

"If Miss Sarah were beautiful there would be two possibilities," said Miss Barbara with a little smile; "and that would lead to a great deal of irresolution and complicate your decision."

He flushed uneasily.

"But the other one is beautiful," he said. "And I am sure she is the one."

At the end of the week he was given to silence, and instead of sitting in the gallery and talking with Miss Barbara he was prone to walk up and down the white path in the moonlight. He had reached the point where speech was difficult. Many nights had passed before he paused at the step and looked up at Miss Barbara, sitting in the shadow.

"Are you going to tell me that you have found her?" she asked, without turning her head.

"Yes—I have found her," he said, with a few words in his voice. "That is—I have found—Eve. I suppose I must have come here for that."

"And she is—the lady of your dreams?" asked Miss Barbara after a little pause.

"She may be," he said. "I don't know. I have forgotten the dreams. The only thing I remember is that I am in love with the most beautiful woman I have ever known."

"What more could one ask?" said Miss Barbara. A heap of little papers slipped from her lap as she moved, and he stooped to help her gather them up. "It is nothing but the children's exercises," she murmured. "I have been sitting there—dreaming—you didn't know that I ever dreamed, did you—and forgot to put them away?"

It was more than six months afterward that Howard Marsh looked in one day upon Trask, sitting in his little den of an office, where the papers were piled high up on every chair. Marsh was just returned from his wedding journey in lands afar, and was a little pale, for he had found the beautiful Eve was at times hard to entertain.

"Glad to see you," said Trask, with a new light in his cold eyes, that took all their coldness away. "Just back from your bridal tour? We didn't take any—but we are very happy, just the same."

"You? You? Are you married?" asked Marsh incredulously.

"Yes—hadn't you heard? 'Oread,' you know—why, of course you know her—Miss Barbara Scott—comes around to the house—you and Mrs. Marsh—and renew old acquaintance. By the way, it was that silly talk of yours that put me in the notion to find 'Oread' for myself—knew her the minute I saw her. Much obliged to you, I'm sure."

But Howard Marsh had tumbled the papers off his chair and was sitting there, laughing—a laugh that somehow was lacking in most of the elements of mirth.

Ever Counted Your Buttons?

Have you ever counted your buttons? And thought of the people who make them? As I sit and write I confess that there are seventy-three on my clothes, most of them superfluous. Why should my waistcoat have six buttons, by coat—never buttoned—eight? Why should my intimate clothes demand buttons—and button-holes? They are the protest against buttons.

There are men and women in the world who are against the perfect simplicity of life which should be without buttons. If you had time it would be easy to devise a costume without buttons and the corresponding holes—very difficult of acquisition in this whirl of clothes, shirts and buttons. But if all of us renounced buttons in favor of string (a quite easy renunciation) think of the despair of those who make millions of buttons from diamonds to—the other refuse of the earth.—London Chronicle.

Highly Humorous Comparison. Strickland W. Gillilan tells of a hotel waitress who was reading a book and laughing heartily. An impatient person leaned over her shoulder and exclaimed: "Girl, what on earth are you laughing at? That's the dictionary you're reading." "Yes, I know; but it's so much funnier and newer than the line of 'smart talk' the fresh guys give me at the table that I'm liable to die laughing at it some time."—Kansas City Star.

An Expert. Grace Darling—is Harry Singletos a good skater?

"Dolly Deering—Perfectly lovely! He had to hug me six or seven times to keep me from falling.—Puck.

"So You Are Going Down Into the Backwoods to Find a Genius?"

am going to find her, you know. It was beastly mean in the publisher not to give me her name, but I did find out that she lived in this part of the world—strange that she writes under that name—Oread—isn't it? Well, I am going to stay out here and look into every face in the country until I find her. You may laugh—I fancy I saw you smiling—but I think I shall know her."

He had told Miss Barbara the same story several times since he came to the Glen and secured board with Miss Barbara's mother. Miss Barbara sighed a little, and was thinking more, doubtless, of the next day's work in the little brown school house over the hill than of his quest for the Oread whom he would be sure to know.

The next day he came back with fishing rod and empty basket, but with alert step and jubilant eye.

"I have caught a glimpse of—the new Miss Bledsoe," he said, "the one who has been away from home. Her name is Eve, isn't it? I have seen Miss Sarah often, and have half-way believed that she might have written 'The Cross of Fire'—she is a cultivated girl, you know, and the house is filled with books. It really must be one or the other of the Bledsoes—they are almost the only ones—the other people I have seen here are quite incapable of it. But Sarah is so—well, she is a very plain girl, you know—not what you would call a beauty at all. And this other one is beautiful—I have heard so from several, and I saw that she was something—quite extraordinary, you know."

Miss Barbara had looked up from the little heap of exercises she was correcting for the next day and now she bent over them again.

"Eve is beautiful," she said, half-absently. "It is a pleasure merely to sit and look at her."

"I could see that—even in a glimpse," he said, eagerly. "Say, wouldn't it be something wonderful if all that beauty were combined with—such talent? Fancy having Oread with all that brown hair with the gold in it, and such a face! I seem to feel that my quest is ended here, Miss Barbara.—Somehow I have a kind of instinct that—that I need not go any further."

The only drawback to Mr. Marsh's happiness lay in the fact that he could not well go to the beautiful Miss Bledsoe and say: "I know that you

HIGH SCHOOL TRYING TO SECURE GAME FRIDAY Scrimmages Held Daily—Scrubs Scored On Regulars Monday Afternoon Efforts are being made to arrange a football game Friday or Saturday of this week between the high school eleven and some out-of-town team. As yet no game has been definitely arranged. The management is trying to get games with some of the strongest teams of North Texas, including Dallas and Fort Worth. The team is being hammered into shape by Coach Keuhne and now appears to be a well balanced organization. The back field is looking especially good, with Mathis, Trotter, Taylor and Bell in the lineup. Ward and Dugan on the ends are also showing up nicely. Scrimmages are held daily with the second team. The "scrubs" scored on the first team yesterday. Davis of the second team retrieving a fumble and getting away with it.

O. V. (Lefty) Mullins, formerly with the Drillers and with the Dallas team in the Texas League for the past two seasons, passed through the city today en route to his home in Oklahoma. Mullins has had a fairly successful season, winning sixteen games and losing thirteen games, and hitting the ball at a .265 clip. He does not know whether he has been drafted for next season as the names of those drafted are not being made public until contracts are signed; this is on account of the Federal League which sends its agents after a player as soon as he is drafted, in an effort to get him to jump before he signs up. Mullins said that Walter Brown, formerly center fielder for the local team has been drafted by the Washington Americans. Mullins left this afternoon for his home.

GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY'S WAR PRIMER

Craonne—The scene of Napoleon's last victory before the end of the First Empire was laid in the village of Craonne, France, in the hills a little more than half way on a straight line from Reims to Laon. The battle took place on the 7th of March, 1814, after Blucher had combined a force of 100,000 men at Laon. The Emperor fell upon the advanced guard of his forces at Craonne and drove it back upon Laon, where a battle took place two days later. Napoleon was here defeated and with only 30,000 at his back he was compelled to renounce all ideas of a further offensive and he retired to Reims. The town has changed but little in 100 years, having scarcely more than 1,000 inhabitants. It overlooks the valley of the Aisne, as it threads its way through the high hills to the northwest of Reims.

Tergnier—A point of strategic importance, a little to the north of a line from Noyon to Laon, France, much coveted by reason of its location on the northern bank of the Oise and on the Canal Crozat, which joins the Oise and the Somme, and principally is the junction of the double-tracked railroad running to the north. From Tergnier are direct lines to Noyon, Laon, St. Quentin, Amiens and many other points in the battle zone. Tergnier's population of about 5,000 is interested principally in large railway workshops located there. The town is 27 miles northwest of the Craonne battle fields.

St. Gobain—In northern France, ten miles west of Laon and 17 miles east of Noyon, in the heart of one of the most densely wooded districts of that part of the country lies St. Gobain, which proudly lays claim to the distinction that it manufactures the largest mirrors in the world. No town in France is more thoroughly French, and none has suffered less from the successive Parisian earthquakes of the past century. The French government owns large tracts of land around and beyond St. Gobain, through which Agrippa opened a great Roman way connecting Rome with the British Channel. The town's 4,000 inhabitants owe their being to its glass company. One of the most curious features of St. Gobain is a subterranean lake about 1300 square yards in area.

Anixy—A small French town, eight miles southwest of Laon, and ten miles northeast of Soissons, which seems to have been a fortress of the Emperor Valentinian in the 4th century, and to have been pillaged by the Vandals in the 5th. The Revolution laid violent hands upon the town. Its buildings were demolished or defaced, its old trees were cut down and its fine old church, Ste. Genevieve, was turned into a meeting hall for the electors, who, after putting on the sacerdotal vestments, marched about the church carrying the dais, beat the crosses and carved stalls to pieces, smashed the poor box and stole what was worth stealing. They sold the stone slabs from the graves and established a saltpetre factory in the church.

Vic Sur Seille—A small town in Lorraine, 16 miles north of east of Nancy, whose principal possessions are the ruins of an old castle and some dilapidated saltworks. The latter were abandoned when a rock salt mine was discovered at Dieuze. From Vic to the west the country is a vast unenclosed, arable plain, uninhabited, save in the towns or villages, with scarcely one hamlet or farmhouse on the roadside.

Herve and Battice—Two small villages in Belgium, a mile and a half apart, the latter seven miles from the German border, and the former 15 miles east of Liege. They are situated amid most picturesque scenery, in a country dotted with busy manufacturing and pretty country houses. The making of glassware and lace is engaged in to a limited extent. The rock penetrated by most of the rail-ways tunnels in this district is of a bluish limestone, frequently veined with quartz and often used for building purposes.

Antivari—A Montenegrin seaport on a strip of country running between the Adriatic Sea and the Sutorian range of mountains, with a population of about 3,500. As few hundred yards it is inaccessible, hidden among olive groves. The tip of Antivari, with Pestan, its port, is distant about one hour's drive through a barren and forbidden country, shut in by mountains. The town is but 23 miles south-east of Austrian Cattaro. Fishing and olive oil-refining are the principal industries.

Sauk—A district of Galicia, Austria, on the border of Hungary. The Carpathian mountains form the southern frontier and the San River runs through the district from south to north. It has a level surface, and many salt mines. Its capital of the same name, is on the left bank of the San, 30 miles southeast of Przemyel, and 62 miles southwest of Tarnow. It has a population of about 25,000 and is the seat of an important cattle market.

Ivangorod—On the right bank of the Vistula, in Russian Poland, is the fortified town of Ivangorod, which forms with Warsaw, Novo Georgievsk and Brest Litovsk, the Polish quadrilateral. It is 54 miles by rail southeast of Warsaw, at the confluence of the Vistepz with the Vistula. The town is defended by nine forts on the right bank and by three on the left bank of the Vistula. The works are about two miles in extent. The town's industries are few, its activities depending almost solely upon garrisons stationed there.

At The Theaters

The Lydia Margaret. This popular playhouse opened for the winter season last night with interstate vaudeville. The bill was very pleasing, especially the musical Fredricks, who play all sorts of instruments and produce melodies of most pleasing quality in profusion. Bonietta Brothers and Moro hold the comedy part of the bill and certainly did their part. These two first acts were very pleasing, and if they are representative of the new circuit some good bills may be expected for the coming season.

Jim Webb, Senator. A three-part special, in the picture for tonight King Baggot is featured in this tale of political intrigue and trickery.

The Majestic. A three-reel Vitagraph. "The Shadow of the Past," featuring E. K. Lincoln, Anita Stewart, Rogers Lytton, Harry Morey, Rose Tapley and Julia Swayne Gordon. With such a cast, every performer a star, and such a director something of a star himself, almost any fairly good story is bound to be a success and this one comprehensively title, "The Shadow of the Past," is no exception. It is highly interesting at times, and it is remarkable for a beautiful restaurant ensemble and a realistic collision between a train and a motor car. It is without flaw. Miss Stewart, Miss Tapley, Miss Gordon, Lytton, Morey and Lincoln responding in full to their opportunities. There is a lot of charity in a photograph of humanizing tendency, one picturing man in his struggle to rise above hereditary impulse and break from the restraints of artificial circumstances. Here comes a real man, Brandon, his wife and Antoinette, released from prison, into which they were tricked by a scheming politician. It is too easy for human credulity. One falls into a position which enables him to wear immaculate dress suits, and the girl becomes secretary to a gubernatorial candidate, not only without an effort, but with an income, that enables her to dress in elaborate evening gowns. It is not shown that they made any effort to attain their positions of trust, so we are left to presume that they are individuals of extraordinary intelligence. "Fables of the Busy Business and the Droppers-In," George Ade comedy, featuring Wallace Berry. The Busy Business Boy lands at his desk like the Early Bird with the intention of tearing off a week or two of correspondence in an hour or so. But the Napoleon influence rears not with the Most with the Punny Buzzie, the Fruit Vendor, the Insurance Agent with the flowing vocabulary, and last but not least, the Rubie. After two busy hours one letter is started. It is a gay life and about noon Mr. Busy Business is making fine headway. The Rubie is the last straw. He demands to be shown the gay white lights and to revel in the ecstasy of chop suey. The Busy Business Boy gives up the ghost, and with the Rubie in tow, starts out on the cocktail route. It is a busy finish. Moral: Work is a snap, but intermission plays hob with the nervous.

The Empress. "The Day of Reckoning," a three part special, with one other reel to complete the program make up the pictures for today. Tomorrow Pearl White and Crane Wilbur will be seen in the thirteenth of "The Perils of Pauline."

The Victoria. "Our Mutual Girl" No. 30 is seen today. This is the beginning of the series of scenarios written by Irvin S. Cobb and is the beginning of a mysterious robbery which baffles all detectives for some time. Margaret's jewels are stolen, and around this plot Mr. Cobb has written a most interesting play, "Stronger Than Death" is a two-reel Thanhauser, featuring Harry Benham and Mignon Anderson.

The Gem. "The President's Special" is a two reel railroad story and a synopsis is as follows:

John Farley and his wife were in very comfortable circumstances. They owned their own little farm and as a result, were able to live very nicely. Margaret, the daughter, was a social man, John's income as a railroad switchman, and to put money in the bank for her. The one great drawback to the farm, was the fact that it was so far from the town in which John worked. Tired out from his long day's work, John was frequently nearly exhausted, when he had finished the long walk home. As a surprise to her husband, Mrs. Farley one day took the money she had saved up and bought a second-hand automobile. After that, John Farley always rode it, and from his work.

One day a note was brought to Farley telling him that Flood the other operator, was sick and unable to do his duty. Farley sent word to his wife that he would not be able to come home and settled down for an additional eight hours at his station. Just as Mrs. Farley came down to bring her husband his dinner, a message came over the wire directing Farley to sidetrack train No. 49 in order to make way for the president's special. Before she left, Farley happened to mention to his wife that No. 49 had been chartered for a picnic party.

After his wife had gone, the over-worked Farley fell asleep. He was awakened by the roar of a passing train—No. 49. It was too late to do anything and the agonized man realized that nothing could prevent a terrible catastrophe. Mrs. Farley, at home, saw the passing train, noticed the children waving flags and in a moment of utter horror, realized what had happened. There was only one thing to do: Jumping into the automobile she raced after the flying train. A long road lay alongside of the railroad track and down this, she tore, the little automobile straining every fibre to overhaul its gigantic rival.

A WORD ABOUT CROCHET AND EMBROIDERY THREADS

As most of you are aware the majority of our Crochet and Embroidery threads are imported and it is impossible to supply these. This throws all American mills at a disadvantage to fill orders that have been turned to American made thread. They are also very scarce, in fact the mills are only able to turn out just a small per cent of their orders. We were lucky enough to receive a small shipment Saturday of these threads in white and colors and advise you to supply your needs at once on these goods.

Meanwhile John, out of his senses with the horror of it all, paced up and down the switch tower, picturing the terrible scene which must result when the two fast trains met each other in head on collision. But the miracle happened. Nellie reached a crossing before the excursion train, and forced it to stop. Acting on her frenzied commands, the engineers backed the train down to the siding just in time. The president's special tore by and Nellie rushed in to carry a message of incredulous joy to the crazed man inside the switch tower.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WOMEN READERS OF THIS PAPER

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing down feelings, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over worked women. Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp Root, the Great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive a sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase the regular fifty cent and one dollar size bottles at all drug stores. (Advt)

TOO MANY SALOONS, LANE WON'T ISSUE MORE LICENSE

Austin, Sept. 29.—It was said here today that Comptroller Lane does not propose to grant any more saloon licenses if possible during the remainder of his term of office, and that he will make a special examination before granting a single application. The Comptroller claims there now are more saloons in Texas than there should be, in accordance with the law which fixes the number of saloons on a basis of the scholastic population.

Galveston, Sept. 29.—The British steamship, Harrington Court, is expected to sail from here today for Portland, Oregon, via the Panama Canal. Local shipping men claim the trip, which will be made in ballast, will show the advantage of Galveston's situation for distributing vessels over both coasts of the United States.

BOTH SIDES ARE TELLING LIES

IS A WAR OF FALSE CHARGES MADE BY EACH SIDE AGAINST OTHER

ATROCITIES ARE NOT PROVEN

Both Sides, However, Honestly Believe Other Guilty of Unspeaking Crimes

(By Herbert Corey in the Kansas City Star)

Both sides have been lying about each other in this war. It may be added that both sides seem to have been lying in all good faith. Each has really believed all it has said of the other. The indictments each has found are set forth:

The English have said that the German have mutilated women and outraged girls. Have shot down little children. Have hamstringed wounded men and cut the tendons of their wrists. Have poisoned wells, provisions and forage. Have battered down wounded men with the butts of their guns. Have fired upon their own wounded men, as in the case alleged at the fight in Helgoland Bight, when Germans were struggling in the water.

Have fired houses in which men and women and children were penned.

Have tortured men and women to extort money or information. London Doesn't Hear German Charges. Nothing has been printed here of the charges brought by the Germans. But from an American recently returned from Germany I learned that equally sweeping charges of devilish inhumanity have been brought by the Germans against the English and the French. There, it has been alleged, and is believed by a large part of the German populace, that the allies have:

Done all the things charged against the Germans by the English and in addition have mutilated bodies of German dead upon the field of battle. It is charged that the French, while in Alsace, waged a war of extermination against the German settlers there. Neither age nor sex was spared.

The English seem to have had rather better groundwork for belief than the Germans. There is no room for doubt that the German has violated international law. He has dropped bombs from aeroplanes upon unfortified towns, he has exacted ransom from helpless cities and has sown neutral waters with mines. Granting that in isolated cases he had been guilty of fiendish cruelty, as charged; there is no proof that this inhumanity toward individuals has been a part of the German policy, any more than a similarly barbarous disregard of every principle of decenty has been a part of the English campaign. It is obviously true that the Germans have been utterly ruthless in their treatment—of the inhabitants of the country they have ravished. Hundreds—perhaps thousands—of Belgian and French non-combatants have been shot.

No Proof of Outrages.

But there is a long cry between that and conduct which would disgrace a Crow squaw. No proof has been adduced of the outrages with which they have been charged, any more than of the wanton savagery they have alleged against the English and French—for mere allegation is not proof. After making what inquiry is possible here I have come to the conclusion that these tales have, in large part, arisen in the hysteria of individuals—an entirely natural and comprehensible hysteria—and have been forwarded by the war offices of both countries for their own purposes. Here is a case in point. I talked with a correspondent who interviewed officers and men who had been engaged in the fight at Helgoland.

"The war office," I said, "in its official statement has charged that German officers on board undamaged ships were seen firing at the Germans, wounded and unwounded, who were struggling in the water after the sinking of their ships. What do you know about it?"

"I heard no such history," he said, "I did hear that one German cruiser fired on a British destroyer which before the conclusion of the action had lowered boats to pick up German wounded."

The action of the Britons was in the highest degree praiseworthy. Only brave and cool headed men could have done such a thing. It is also comprehensible that in the excitement of a losing fight the Germans may have continued their fire upon the English boats, either in the belief that the English boats were being lowered because the English destroyer had been damaged, or sheerly in the savage rage of the moment.

Prisoners Expected to Be Shot.

Here is another incident of the same fight. German prisoners had been taken on board the destroyer Druid. They were lined up on the deck. They turned and shook hands with each other. Two—brothers—kissed each other. Then they studied the British commander.

"We are ready," they said.

"For what?" he asked.

"To be shot," said they simply.

They implicitly believed that the English had captured them only to put them to death. They fully believed that the English slaughtered their prisoners as fast as they were captured. They had been told so by people who had seen the prisoners killed—long ranks of them.

"We were told your officers killed the prisoners with their revolvers," said they, "by shooting them through the head."

When they learned the truth they begged permission to shake hands with the commander of the Druid. One of them made this illuminating comment:

"Many of us," said he, "have been in England. At first it was hard to believe that the English would do this—any more than we Germans would."

My American friend who has just returned from Berlin said a few many fully believe the stories of inhuman atrocities which have been charged against the allies.

Berlin Hears of Inhuman Crimes.

"We were told," said he, "with a circumstantiality that almost enforced belief of the carcasses of Alsace Germans being dressed like those of bees and hung before their own shops. The names of women who had been violated and killed were given with all the horrible circumstances of the tragedies. We were told that wounded men were abused and killed, and that the dead bodies on the battlefield were abominably mistreated.

Before French surgeons dare to perform an operation on one of their own men, they first do an identical operation on a German prisoner. Then he is left to die."

It is enough to admit that this war is being fought with a savagery that which the world has been a stranger or late years, and that the death roll when that is finally made public, will be absolutely appalling. It is known that the Germans, fighting in the enemy's country, have laid it waste as a desert, and that they have ruthlessly crashed through the straw barrier of international law. But it will be well to confine belief to this until better proof than mere affirmation is given the charges of utter barbarism that have been so freely brought.

STATEMENT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

VON BETHMAUN HOLLOWEG'S FORMAL STATEMENT HAS REACHED HERE

BITTER AGAINST ENGLAND

English Policy Does Not Know Moral Scruples and Hesitates at No Calmness

(By Mail.)

New York, Sept. 25.—Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Chancellor, early in September made a formal statement to the Associated Press. The existence of the statement was known, but it failed to reach America by either mail or cable, and its text has become available through a copy of the North German Gazette, just received here. The Chancellor's statement follows:

"General Headquarters, Sept. 2.—I do not know what is thought of this war in America. I assume there have been published in America the telegrams exchanged between the German Emperor, the Emperor of Russia and the King of England, containing the history of the events that preceded the outbreak of the war and which bears irrefutable testimony of how the Emperor until the last moment strove hard to preserve the peace.

"These efforts had to be futile, as Russia under all circumstances had resolved upon war, and as England, which for decades had encouraged the anti-German nationalism in Russia and France did not avail herself of the splendid opportunity offered her to prove her often emphasized love of peace, otherwise the war between Germany and France and England could have been averted.

"When once the archives are opened the world will learn how often Germany extended to England her friendly hand, but England did not desire the friendship of Germany. Jealous of the development of Germany and feeling that by German efficiency and German industry she has been surpassed in some fields she had the desire to crush Germany by brute force, as she in former times subdued Spain, Holland and France. She believed the moment had arrived and therefore the entry of German troops into Belgium gave her a welcome pretext to take part in the war.

"Germany, however, was forced to enter Belgium because she had to forestall the planned French advance and Belgium only awaited the advance to join the French. That only a pretext was involved as far as England is concerned is proven by the fact that already on the afternoon of August 2, that is, prior to the violation of Belgium neutrality by Germany, Sir Edward Grey assured the French ambassador unconditionally of the help of England in case the German fleet attacked the French coast.

"Moral scruple, however, the English policy does not know. And thus the English people who always posed as the protagonists of Freedom and Right has allied itself with Russia, the representative of the most terrible barbarism, a country that knows no spiritual or no religious freedom, that tramples upon the freedom of peoples as well as of individuals. Already England is beginning to recognize that she has made a big mistake in her calculations, and that Germany will master her enemies. She is therefore trying by the pettiest means to injure Germany as much as possible in her commerce and colonies, by instigating Japan, regardless of the consequences to the cultural community of the white race, to a pillaging expedition against Kiaochow and leading the negroes in Africa to fight against the Germans in the colonies.

"Having strangled the news service of Germany to the whole world and having opened the campaign against us with a falsehood, England will tell your countrymen that the German troops burned down Belgian villages and cities, but will pass over in silence the fact that Belgian girls gouged out the eyes of the defenseless wounded. Officials of Belgian cities have invited our officers to dinner and shot and killed them across the table. Contrary to all international law, the whole civilian population of Belgium was called out and after having at first shown friendliness, carried on in the rear of our troops a terrible warfare with concealed weapons.

"Belgian women cut the throats of soldiers whom they had quartered in their homes while they were sleeping. England also will say nothing of the dum dum bullets which are being used by the English and French despite all conventions and their hypocritical proclamations of humanity, which can be seen here in their original packing as they were found on French and English prisoners of war.

"The Emperor has authorized me to say all this and to state that he has full confidence in the sense of justice of the American people which will not allow itself to be deceived through the war of falsehood which our enemies are conducting against us."

"The statement of the Chancellor concludes as follows: "Every one who has lived in Germany since the outbreak of the war has been able to witness the great moral uprisings of all Germans who, pressed hard on all sides, cheerfully laid the field for the defense of their rights and their existence; every one knows that this people is not capable of any unnecessary cruelty or of any brutality. We will win, thanks to the great moral strength which our just cause gives to its troops, and in the end the greatest falsehood will be able to obscure our victories as little as they do our rights."

COLQUITT TELLS MORE ABOUT BANK

DECLARES IT ENTIRELY CONSTITUTIONAL AND PERFECTLY SAFE

WOULD PREVENT PANICS

Governor Willing To Guarantee School Fund Investments Would Not 5 Per Cent

By Associated Press.
Austin, Sept. 29.—In a supplemental message which he transmitted to the legislature today, the Governor clearly outlined the basis of his proposed central bank of Texas bill.

The Governor says the plan not only is constitutional, but is a safe investment for the school fund; that the bonds and securities of the permanent school fund are not now earning more than four per cent, while if invested in the bank he will guarantee that they will earn not less than five per cent.

The Governor seems to have abandoned the plan of utilizing the $50,000,000 of land notes belonging to the school fund. He pointed out that it was only necessary to utilize the $13,000,000 of bonds now to the credit of the permanent school fund. The Governor devoted considerable space to the bank panic of 1907. He said that while Texas had $100,000,000 on deposit in the reserve bank, it was impossible to get the money to move the crop in Texas and other cotton States. The bank of Texas, he said, would prevent the surrender of such a situation in Texas. According to the figures of the Governor there would be available $14,450,000 in cash to commence operations of the bank.

SENATOR JOHNSON HERE EN ROUTE TO AUSTIN

State Senator W. A. Johnson of Memphis, Texas, passed through the city on this afternoon's southbound en route to Austin to resume his duties in the legislature after ten days' absence. Senator Johnson said that he was not yet committed whether for or against the state bank bill, but that he believed the principle a good one if the details can be worked out along safe and satisfactory lines; he wants to see the school fund thoroughly safeguarded at all events.

Cotton picking is now in full blast in Hall county, the senator said, and anyone who wants to pick cotton need have no fear of being turned down. Hall county expects to raise 40,000 bales this year and pickers are badly needed at present, said Senator Johnson.

NEWLY REGISTERED U. S. STEAMER MEETS DISASTER

By Associated Press.
Sassau, Bahamas Island, Sept. 29.—The American steamer, Foxton Hall, was burned off Watlings Island, September 23. The members of her crew with the exception of two men who are missing have arrived here.

The steamer Foxton Hall was among the first vessels to take out an American registry since the outbreak of the war. She was originally a British steamer.

Rotterdam, via London, Sept. 29.—The activity today along the Belgian frontier indicated that the Germans are planning for a siege of Antwerp within a few days. More than 25,000 men, German naval reserves, have been brought from Kiel and Hamburg to Brussels and are being held in readiness to serve on an improvised German fleet should Antwerp and Ostend be taken.

THREE FORTS AT ANTWERP HAVE BEEN BOMBARDED

By Associated Press.
Washington, Sept. 29.—An official communication is given out by the Belgian government concerning the bombardment of Malines and other points near Antwerp. It says:

"After bombarding Malines, fourteen miles southeast of Antwerp the German under cover of night re-entered the unoccupied town but now have resumed their marching.

"The Germans have directed the fire of their heavy artillery against the forts Wavre, St. Catherine and Waelheim about ten miles from Antwerp but with a result not justifying their great expenditure of ammunition. Our forts bombarded the German positions between the Dende and the Willbroek canal west of Waelheim. The offensive movement of the enemy was promptly checked. The forts inflicted serious losses on the enemy and compelled them to retire.

CLAIM ALLIES HAVE HELD THEIR GRIP

BERLIN SAYS NO CHANGE

Generally Admitted Russians Have Crossed Carpathians Into Hungary

By Associated Press.
London, Sept. 29.—The eighteen days of the battle of Aisne thus far has brought no decisive results but all indications continue to point to the approaching end of the Homeric struggle. Hand to hand fighting which is now raging cannot be long continued without a decisive result.

Meanwhile the fog which the French official report yesterday announced had prevented operations in the Woivre district, covers metaphorically the rest of the long battle line.

All that the public is permitted to know from the allies' side is that so far that the British and French armies have held their grip on their positions and have resolutely thrust back the masses of Germans who have bravely and incessantly hurled upon them in an effort to break through the human barrier.

In Berlin it is asserted there has been no change in the situation and the claim that the allies and the scales have turned slightly in their favor is stoutly denied.

The losses of the opposing armies in the last few days have been colossal. Gibbs no longer are heard at the activities of the Zeppelins which now seem omni present.

It now seems to be officially admitted that the Russians have secured a good foothold on Hungarian soil and have crossed the frontier in considerable numbers. In the plains in front of the Muscovites will find their most difficult barrier in the River Theise which is flanked by marshes. It is believed there are no forts on the plains but possibly fortifications have been placed in position on the river.

JAPS OCCUPY HEIGHTS

Germans Retire Before Superior Forces and Losses Are Believed Light

By Associated Press.
Peking, China, Sept. 29.—The Germans in Cha Chow have retired to the Walderssee line of defense before an overwhelming force of the enemy. Tsing Tzu now is completely invested. The German losses were small. This information is contained in a dispatch received here from a German source at Tsi Nan, Shantung, which evidently is a wireless communication from Tsing Tzu. It advises that the Japanese armored cruiser squadron bombarded the forts.

Japanese official reports corroborated the foregoing. They declared that the Germans are now back of their main line of defense five miles from Tsing Tzu and that Japanese troops now occupy heights commanding these positions. Three German warships inside of Tsing Tzu harbor and Japanese aeroplanes participated in the fighting.

TRY TO CHECK DROP IN PRICES OF RICE

Beaumont, Texas, Sept. 29.—Efforts are under way by rice men in this section to check a drop in rice prices. The cause of the decrease is said to have been importation from Siam and Rangon of rice at about a dollar per barrel less than the price of the domestic product. The European war does not appear to have had any important connection thus far with rice prices.

FRENCH CLAIM ALLIES PROGRESS IN THE CENTER

Repulse Attacks of Germans By Day and Night Along River Somme

By Associated Press.
Paris, Sept. 29.—"On our left wing on the river Somme," the French official statement issued this afternoon says "the Germans attempted numerous attacks which the allies repulsed everywhere."

The text of the statement is as follows:

"First—On our left wing to the north of the Somme and between the Somme and Oise the enemy both by day and by night delivered several attacks which, however, were repulsed. To the north of the Aisne there has been no change.

"Second—On the center on Champagne and to the east of the Argonne the enemy has restricted his activities. Between the Argonne and Muese there has been slight progress on the part of our troops who are confronted by strongly organized positions. On the Heights of the Muese in the Woivre district and on our right wing in Lorraine and the Vosges there has been no notable modification in the situation.

"Generally speaking our line runs from the east to the west through the region of Pont-A-Mousson, Apremont and the Muese, through the region of St. Mihiel along the heights to the north of Stade and through a portion of the heights of the Muese to the southeast of Verdun. Between Verdun and Rheims the general front is indicated by a line passing through the region of Varrers to the north of Souain and the Roman roadway which runs into Rheims, the outposts of Rheims, the road from Rheims to Berry Au Bac and the heights known as the 'Chemin des Danes.' On the right bank of the Aisne this line then draws near to the Aisne and continues into the region of Soissons. Between Soissons and the forts of L'Laigle it runs over the first plateau of the right bank of the Aisne. Between the Oise and the Somme it runs along front from Bevicour (which belongs to us) to Lassigny (occupied by the enemy) to Roye (which belong to us) to Chaulnes. To the north of the Somme the line continues along the plateau between Albert and Colmbes.

"We again took many prisoners during yesterday belonging principally to the seventh active corps and the seventh reserve corps of the army and also to the Tenth, Twelfth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth German army corps.

RUSSIANS IN HUNGARY; 150,000 GERMANS READY FOR SIEGE OF ANTWERP

The terrific battle now in its 18th day in the Aisne district to the north of Paris continues to rage but its violence is generally held to portend a decisive result in the near future. Furious hand to hand fighting is going on and the losses of both allies and the German army are enormous.

Several times the Germans hurled the masses of their troops against the Allies' left wing but every time they were repulsed, according to the official statement of the French war department this afternoon.

In the center, it is asserted, a heavy cannonade is going on while between the Argonne forest and the river Muese the allies have made some progress.

The German general staff, Berlin advises say, declare that the situation on the French soil has not changed and it is emphatically denied that the battle at any point of the line has been favorable to the allies.

According to an announcement at Petrograd the Russians crossing the Carpathian mountains have entered Hungary and are driving back the Austrian reinforcements sent against them. The invaders went across the mountains into the Unga district which is about 180 miles northeast of Budapest.

Germans estimated to number 150,000 are reported to be preparing for the siege of the Belgian fortress of Antwerp. Austrian siege guns have been brought up to take the place of the large German guns which are now being used in the battle of Aisne.

A Belgian official communication states that Germany's heavy artillery fire directed at two forts ten miles from Antwerp ceased when the forts replied.

The activity of the Zeppelins stretched over a wide area. Six bombs were hurled. One damaged a convent and another German airship created a panic at Bilaystock, sixty miles across the Russian frontier.

The Japanese are drawing a military cordon closer around Kia Chow. An official Japanese statement today announced that the Japanese are driving the Germans toward Tsing Tau.

Russia has suspended the payment of specie payments for another month.

NINE COUNTIES GO DRY IN KENTUCKY ELECTIONS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—Prohibition forces won nine out of the twelve local option elections held in Kentucky. In every one of the counties there was a hard fight put up after a long and bitter campaign, but the rural vote proved too great for the cities to overcome. A week ago three counties voted on the question and the "wets" were victorious in all three instances, but the "dry" enjoyed an inning yesterday. The three counties to vote wet were Fayette, Henderson and Anderson.

All three of these counties have distilleries in their boundaries. In Fayette, where two separate elections were held, one for the city and the other for the county the wets rolled up a majority of 3,462 over the drys in Anderson county the wets won with only sixty-four votes to spare.

National interest was centered in the fight of the prohibition forces, as it was thought that the Kentuckians believed more strongly in allowing saloons than any other State in the Nation. Both wets and drys had speakers of national reputation to speak in the counties in which the elections were held, and after the election last week the wets believed that they would carry seven out of the twelve counties, but the rural district voted heavily for prohibition which resulted in counties overshadowing the vote of the cities in this election. The county was taken as a unit instead of the cities and counties separately. In two places, Winchester and Lexington, the courts held that the cities were separate units. There were eighty-three persons aboard the Tacoma.

TAX-ASSESSORS HAVE ONLY TWO MORE DAYS

Austin, Sept. 29.—Tax assessors of the various counties in Texas who have not yet turned in to the comptroller's department their tax rolls for 1914 have only two more days in which to do so, October 1 being the last day upon which they must be returned. The data contained in these rolls is used in the compilation of the comptroller's annual report.

The comptroller sent out notices to delinquent tax assessors during the latter part of last week and at that time only 120 out of the 249 organized counties in the state had been heard from.

BAWDY HOUSES ORDERED TO CLOSE

INMATES OF ALL HOUSES FOUND OPEN TONIGHT WILL BE ARRESTED

SHERIFF ISSUES ORDER

District Becoming Too Disorderly and Sheriff Proposes To Close Up Houses

Members of the sheriff's department last night served notice upon the habitués of Mulberry Row that their resorts must be closed and vacated by tonight and that those who do not obey will be arrested and prosecuted. It was said today that there was little evidence of preparation to comply with the order in the district and the usual arrests and fines are expected to follow in short order.

The order came from Sheriff Randolph himself, who retires from office in November after four years' tenure. Usually it is the county attorney's office which takes the lead when such raids are projected, but in this case the sheriff's department is taking the initiative.

Since the proprietors of the resorts were required to move some months ago, from the immediate vicinity of the railroad tracks to the territory several hundred yards further west, there has been little molestation by the officers who seemed to take the view that the evils could be better controlled in this way than by causing the women to scatter over the city, which is a usual result of prosecutions.

When asked why the move was made at this time, the sheriff answered that "things were getting a little too strong down there."

The law provides a minimum penalty of $200 fine and twenty days in jail for conviction of the proprietors, with vagrancy fines for the habitués. The sheriff's department draws down three dollars for each arrest made and if the cases are contested, additional fees are derived from serving subpoenas and performing other services.

MANUFACTURERS ARE BUYING COTTON HERE

That the buy a bale movement is receiving considerable encouragement from the manufacturing concerns of the north and east is demonstrated in the numerous orders from various firms authorizing their customers in the south to purchase in Texas, to purchase one or more bales at 10 cents. Wichita Falls has been extremely fortunate in this respect and quite a number of bales have been paid for at the 10 cent rate with the money of the manufacturers of the east.

A short time ago Mr. Barnard of the P. B. M. Company, who is ever ready to contribute in any way possible to the interests of Wichita Falls and of the surrounding country, wrote to a number of the manufacturers with whom he deals asking them to join in the buy a bale movement and already favorable responses are being received and others are expected. Three firms have authorized the P. B. M. Company to buy a bale at 10 cents, one of which, the Alfred Benjamin-Washington Company writes as follows:

"New York, Sept. 24. P. B. M. Co., Wichita Falls, Tex. Gentlemen: We are in receipt of your letter of the 19th with reference to buying a bale of cotton in your city and will cheerfully co-operate with you to the extent of one bale and you will kindly purchase for us one bale of cotton at 10 cents per pound. Yours for a big clothing business."

"ALFRED BENJAMIN-WASHINGTON COMPANY."
The spirit manifested by such institutions is indeed commendable and will no doubt aid largely in relieving in a measure the depression caused by the paralyzed condition of the cotton market.

Much credit is due such enterprising firms as the P. B. M. Company for the interest manifested in calling the matter to the attention of these men, and in this respect Wichita Falls has perhaps made the best showing of any town in the State of like size or even larger.

LOCAL MAN INVENTS NEW GAS HEATER

J. C. ZIEGLER IS PLACING NEW TYPE OF STOVE ON THE MARKET

AN AUTOMATIC AIR MIXER

And a Down Draft Contrivance Are Features of the New Stove

Gas heaters of an improved type have recently been added to the list of articles manufactured in Wichita Falls, through the ingenuity and enterprize of J. C. Ziegler of this city. The heaters have recently appeared on the market and are selling rapidly.

Two inventions are combined in the heater, the first being an automatic air mixer and the second a down draft contrivance. Most air mixers on gas stoves have to be adjusted according to the pressure of the gas but that on the Ziegler heater adjusts itself to all pressures without any adjustment being necessary. This air mixer sends a combination of gas and air in equal parts, into the upper part of the heater.

The heater consists of two steel cylinders, one inside the other, the mixture of air and gas comes up through a pipe in the inside cylinder to the burner, which is at the top of the stove; there it is ignited and the draft pipe, which is at the bottom of the stove, draws the flame down between the two cylinders, heating both in a very short time. In most heaters, the heat radiates from the top of the heater toward the ceiling; in the Ziegler type it radiates downward, heating the floor first. It is claimed for the heater that twenty-five per cent less gas is needed than in any other.

All of the stove except some of the fixtures is made by Mr. Ziegler in this city. His first large sale was made to the Brin-Dolman Furniture Company, which took 100 stoves and was given the local agency. This stove has already disposed of eighteen of the stoves.

The heat given off by the heater, even with smaller consumption of gas, is such that one can hardly remain within six or seven feet of the burner.

ALLIES SEA LOSSES ARE LESS THAN THE GERMANS

London, Sept. 29.—Twelve British ships with an aggregate tonnage of 59,331 have been sunk on the high seas by German cruisers up to Sept. 28, according to an admiralty report issued yesterday afternoon. Eight other British ships whose tonnage aggregates 2,979, have been sunk by German mines in the North Sea and twenty-four fishing craft with a tonnage of 4,334 have been captured or sunk by the Germans in the same waters.

British ships detained at German ports number seventy-four with a total tonnage of 170,000.

On the credit side the admiralty gives 102 German ships with a total tonnage of 200,000 detained in British ports since the outbreak of the war.

Eighty-eight German ships of an aggregate tonnage of 338,000 have been captured since hostilities began. The report shows also 168 German ships with an aggregate tonnage of 233,000 detained or captured by the allies. Fifteen ships with a tonnage of 247,000 were detained in American ports, while fourteen others with a tonnage of 72,000 remain in the Suez Canal.

"PEACE" STAMPS BEING PLACED ON MAILING MATTER

An appeal in the interests of universal peace is contained on stickers to be used on the backs of letters, parcels and other mailing matter—such as the Red Cross seal has been issued and will no doubt soon be in general use throughout the country. The stamp carries the appeal, "America's Appeal. In the name of one God and Universal Humanity Let This War-End War." Club women over the state are using this stamp on all of their correspondence as a means to voice their sentiments of the slaughter now in progress in Europe.

B. W. A. MEETS IN REGULAR SESSION MONDAY

The Women's Alliance of the First Baptist church held their regular meeting Monday afternoon. The lesson was led by the pastor, R. C. Miller, followed by the usual discussion and study hour.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS MONDAY

The Missionary Society of the First church met Monday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. J. L. Meare, president, presided. Mrs. E. A. Fowler led the devotional exercises, speaking on the subject of "Fruitfulness." The plans for the year's work were explained by Miss Haynes, and the year book, "The Child in the Midst," was outlined in brief. A reading by Mrs. J. W. Akin and solo by Mrs. O. E. Maer were much enjoyed. A social hour followed the completion of the program, during which time refreshments were served by the year book committee.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN AID MEETS WITH MRS. PITMAN

The Ladies Aid of the Central Presbyterian Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. S. Pitman, 2406 Ninth street. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Oldham read the devotionals, reading from the fourteenth chapter of Romans. After a very earnest prayer by Mrs. Reed the following answered to roll call with verses on duty: Mesdames Wilson, Reed, Oldham, White, Kerr, Jamison, Pitman and Miss Mattie Pitman was the guest of the afternoon. Under the order of new business the ladies decided to abandon the serving of refreshments at the meetings with the exception of foreign mission day. The question of serving lunch on circus day was discussed at length and sandwiches, coffee, pie and cake was agreed upon. The lesson was led by the hostess, Mrs. Pitman and the comments on "The King's Business" the new book of the year proved exceedingly instructive and helpful. The society will meet next week with Mrs. White.

ALL DAY MEETING OF THE LADIES OF M. E. SOUTH

The ladies of the M. E. Church South, enjoyed the first all day meeting since in the spring Monday. The spacious parlors of the church were well filled and the morning was spent in needlework and crocheting. At noon the usual appetizing luncheon was spread and the ladies were visited by Messrs. Bland, W. T. Harris and W. W. Silk who announced themselves as "purg food inspectors." After a thorough inspection the eatables were passed upon very favorably. Dr. Hill was also present. In the afternoon a program was carried out. Mrs. Fleming led the devotionals taking as her subject the call of Isaiah. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. G. H. Carpenter and instrumental music by Miss Laura Martin. The address of the afternoon was made by Miss Helen Hickman, the returned missionary, who spoke at length in a very interesting manner of her work and the needs of Brazil. Her talk was splendid and very much enjoyed. A business meeting was held on the completion of the program and delegates and alternates to the district meeting to be held in Alford the second week in next month were elected, these being Mesdames Snider, Silk, Shelton, Jackson, Waggoner and Dan Hardy.

MRS. A. H. BRITAIN HOSTESS AT INFORMAL TEA

Monday afternoon Mrs. A. H. Britain entertained very delightfully with an informal tea, in the nature of a going away party for her mother, Mrs. Mattie Bell who left Tuesday morning for a visit in Mississippi. All were devotees of the Kensington arts for some time, fancy work being engaged in. Assisted by Mrs. Ben Bell, Mrs. Britain dispensed fragrant cups of tea with delicious sandwiches. Those enjoying this unusually pleasant affair were: Mesdames J. M. Bell, Dent, Hartsock, Kell, Carrigan, Addicks, Anderson, Jackson, Fresar, Eugene Sherrod, Richolt, Darnell and Ben Bell.

The members of the Falls Grove, Woodmen Circle No. 1447 are cordially invited to meet with Mrs. C. S. Mallett, 1196 Indiana avenue Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, honoring Mrs. Lizzie B. Stover of Shreveport, deputy state supreme guardian of Louisiana, who is the guest of Mrs. Mallett. She will remain here only a few days longer, as business demands her return to her home state.

The Just So Club will meet with Miss Hazel Jones, 3210 Ninth Saturday afternoon. All members are invited to attend and new members are given an especially invitation.

Mrs. L. A. McNeil, little Miss Kath, Louise McNeil and Miss Icie White leave tomorrow for Dallas, where they will make their home.

Attention Club Women.
A meeting of the club women of Wichita Falls is called to meet with Mrs. W. M. McGreor at 10 o'clock Thursday morning for the purpose of discussing the high cost of living. Mrs. Henry B. Fall, state president of the T. W. C. has requested this meeting, believing that this question is a woman's problem and asking for ways and means of counteracting the excessive high prices, her message appears in Monday's Dallas News. A large attendance is requested.
MRS. S. H. BURNSIDE, President First District T. W. C.
A call similar to the foregoing has been issued by Mrs. Burnside to the clubs throughout this first district and the same general call has been issued over the state. Mrs. Fall is confident that the club women can by concerted action do much to relieve the high prices now existent.

R. Jones.
The debate promises to furnish much entertainment. The subject is: "Resolved, That Government Ownership of Railroads Would Be Better for the People than the Present System of Management." The affirmative will be upheld by W. B. Markley and Bruce Fuller and the negative will be conducted by W. C. Perkins and A. S. Hersh.

SEVEN IDEAS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

When it is necessary to boil a cracked egg add a little vinegar to the water. This will prevent the white from boiling out.
If you have difficulty in cleaning the candle grease from metal candlesticks try setting the candlesticks in a hot oven for a few minutes. This will melt the grease. Of course care must be taken not to leave them too long or the candlesticks will melt as well as the grease.
If you wet a spoon before using it to serve jelly you will find the jelly will not stick to it, and the serving is more easily accomplished.
To clean fly specks from varnished wood, wipe with a soft cloth dipped in equal parts of skimmed milk and water.
To pick up little pieces of broken glass, wet a wad of cloth; lay it on the floor where the fragments are and pat it. The little particles will adhere to the damp cloth.
The skin of new potatoes is more easily removed by rubbing with a stiff little-brush than by scraping with a knife.
If curtain rods or poles are rubbed with hard soap before being put up, the curtains will slip on them easily.

WEEKLY MEETING WICHITA FALLS TRADES COUNCIL

The Grocery Clerks and the Retail Dry Goods Clerks Unions each reported several new stores signed up at last night's weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Trades and Labor Council. Frank Harris of the Railway Carmen presided at last night's meeting of the Council.
The laundry situation and grievances of members of the union were discussed. A grievance committee comprising C. A. Kaufman, W. C. Russell and F. H. Denison was appointed on the Tailors' grievance. A mass meeting of union men was called at the court house tonight to discuss the laundry situation.
The attendance at last night's meeting is believed to have been larger than at any meeting thus far held.

DR. PARKER'S TWO SERMONS

And How He Got the Morning Congregation Back to His Church at Night.

A characteristic story of Dr. Parker was told by a minister who had it from an old minister who was much interested in Joseph Parker's early work as a local preacher, says the British Weekly. One Saturday he met Parker and asked him whether he had an engagement for Sunday. "Yes," was the reply.

"Are your sermons ready, Joseph?" asked the minister.
"I have the morning sermon," was the reply, "but I am not sure about the evening."

"Well, Joseph, what is your text for the morning and how do you treat it?" Parker went over his text and the outline of his sermon.

"But, Joseph," said the minister, "that is very clever, but it is not the real meaning of the text. If you will look at the commentaries you will see that you are wrong."

Parker thanked him and went his way. On the Monday the minister again met his friend.

"Well, Joseph, how did you get on yesterday?"
"Very well," was the reply.
"How did you manage?"

"Well," he said, "in the morning I preached my sermon and explained the text in my way, and at the close I said: 'This is how I understand it. But learned men understand it differently, and I will tell you in the evening how the learned men understand it.'"
They all came back in the evening, and Joseph had a happy day.

ABLE TO EAT A FEW TRIFLES

Star's Appetite Had Not Completely Failed, Judging by the Dinner She Ordered.

The theatrical manager leaned wearily against the desk in the office of the hotel.

"Well, how goes it?" said the clerk. The manager shrugged his shoulders without replying.

"Good business?"
The manager evaded the question. "I'm afraid we may have to close before the season's over. My star's sick. When she comes to the theater at night she's hardly able to get through her work. She says she can't eat anything."

Just then the telephone bell rang. The clerk turned to answer it. After listening for a moment he said: "Wait till I get a pencil. I've got to write that down."

As he wrote he repeated: "Mock turtle soup, soft shell crabs, porterhouse steak, half a chicken, mashed potatoes, peas, string beans, tomato salad, ice cream, strawberries and coffee. Whew!" Then he shouted into the phone: "How many is that dinner for? One? Whew!"

Then he turned to the manager. "That's your star's dinner," he said quietly.

Directory of Minerals.
Every city has a directory of its inhabitants. If you do not know a person's name but do know that he is a paperhanger, the classified business directory will locate him for you.

A directory of the useful minerals in the United States, on much the same plan, has just been published by the United States Geological Survey. If you want to know where any one of the 400 useful minerals occurs, this directory gives the list of localities in each state where your mineral will be found. This publication should be useful to many classes of people in many ways. If someone wants to sell you stock in a Texas oil company the report will tell you in what counties in Texas oil is produced and in what other counties it may eventually be found. If your wife wears a bloodstone lavalliere, the report gives you the only locality in the United States where that stone is known to occur. If you want to manufacture plaster of paris or need lime for your back pasture, this report will tell you where to find the gypsum and gives the location of your nearest limekiln.

For Those Who Wish to Reduce.

Do you always take every opportunity to walk when you can? If it is a matter of several blocks, do you take a car when it is possible? Take every opportunity to walk, but walk as if you really enjoyed it; put some energy into this exercise. Really make it an exercise. Do not eat more than one starchy food at a meal, drink plenty of water, but between meals, and, above all, eat enough to allay hunger, but stop there; do not continue as if you were never going to get another meal instead of one quite as heavy in another four or five hours. Another thing, sleep with plenty of fresh air circulating in your sleeping room and if you are very stout do with just sufficient sleep, and above all omit the nap in the middle of the day.

Shrewd Butcher.

A certain English butcher, who sold about 30 cooked legs of pork per week, said his loss was formerly 40 per cent and now only 22 per cent in the electric oven, or a clear saving of 18 per cent. After deducting the cost of the current at two cents per unit, his saving amounted to 50 cents per leg of pork, or $15 per week extra profit. On being told that he had only saved water, he answered: "Perhaps so; but, you see, my customers pay me 28 cents per pound for it!"

The two extra sessions of the legislature will cost the State something in the neighborhood of $138,000, and yet the State is too poor to appropriate sufficient funds to remove the insane from Texas jails to the insane asylums, or rather the asylums the State already has are filled to their capacity and the State has not sufficient funds to construct others.

Mexican names are so difficult to pronounce that when the reader of the newspaper strikes them he usually spells them out without trying to pronounce them, but this General Ben Hill who is taking a prominent part in the Villa-Carranza new revolution is a name familiar enough to all Americans. They are only wondering why or how he, being a Mexican, came to have such a sensible name.

Wheat, cotton and corn are the very foundations of the prosperity of this American government, and while it is the generally accepted theory that the people must support the government, there are times—like the present, for instance—when the government should use its great and powerful resources to help the people. The people have done their part. It is within the power of the government to render them aid and assistance in the marketing of their crops at a fair price.

DEMAND FOR HORSES.

The Oklahoma Live Stock News says dealers are buying up horses. We quote: A network of buyers representing the Stock Yards horse and mule companies, has been thrown over the Southwest for the purpose of gathering all possible animals which meet with the specifications of European orders. The warring nations, especially England, France and Germany, have been scouring this country and Canada for horses fit to be used in cavalry and other army service. Hundreds of head are being shipped here daily, it being necessary to build new holding pens at the rear of the Exchange building. W. T. Hales and Davis and Younger have buyers at all points in the state with instructions to send in all kinds of horses that meet with specifications. In height, they must be from 15 to 15 1/2 hands high, weighing 950 to 1,150 pounds, and ages from five to eight years preferred. They must be fat. In the North a hitch somewhere along the line seems to have delayed inspection of horses bought of British account, and in that line things have not been moving as smoothly as they probably will later. In the warrior division prices remain at a wide range.

A young fellow whom we've known since he was a youngster was figuratively "pitting himself on the back" the other day over the fact that he had not spent all his wages and that he had enough on hand to go through the winter, even if he didn't get a place. "My house has laid me off now indefinitely," he said, "and I'm certainly glad I didn't go wild and spend all my wages last summer as I got them." The appearances were then, as he and everybody else thought, that he had a permanent place. So he would have but for the unforeseen conditions that have arisen since. But this youngster—and he admits it was largely due to conditions and not through any foresightedness—put enough of his money in the bank to carry him several months. Lectures on savings are generally platitudinous, oftentimes bromidic, and seldom are the young impressed by the advice of older men or the fable of the ant. But this youngster has learned a lesson for himself and from his own experience.

which, after all, is about the only sure teacher. And the lesson he learned will, in after life, be worth infinitely more than the few hundred dollars he accidentally saved against a rainy day. —Denton Record and Chronicle.

COTTON MARKET IN WICHITA FALLS IN 1907.

From the files of The Times September 28, 1907, the following is reproduced concerning the cotton market: "Yesterday afternoon cotton in the tin sold in the Wichita Falls market as high as 11.92 1/2. This morning the Wigham gin passed the 200 bale mark for this season, and the Farmers Union gin, which started up several days ago, had ginned over fifty bales. At the Farmers Union gin fully seventy-five bales are stored, and piled on the ground waiting to be ginned."

VILLA REDIVIVUS.

The bandit, General Villa, is supposed to a return to the ways of peace, and is reported to have again taken the field in a revolution against his former superior officer, Carranza. His business for many years has been the plunder of helpless people and the looting of towns and haciendas, and this industry has been so safe and profitable to him that he wants to keep it up. The American people want to keep out of Mexico, and they endorse the position taken by President Wilson; but there is an end to their patience, and if this scoundrel does not behave himself, he may find the interest of civilization and public tranquility. No trust can be reposed in Villa, if, indeed, it can be reposed in any Mexican, but if our soldiers have to return to Vera Cruz they will not remain there in idleness, nor will they leave the country at the behest of an incorrigible bandit. The military authorities, including General Funston, who is on the ground, were of the opinion that President Wilson was acting in too precipitate a manner in withdrawing the troops so soon. In the goodness of his heart and in the hope of instilling feelings of patriotism in the Mexican people, he permitted sentiment to govern him in the matter. If he finds that he has been betrayed and imposed upon, public indignation in this country will be inflamed, and the people can not be restrained from taking measures to discipline the professional revolutionist, whose only principle is plunder and spoliation. And yet it may be well to allow the warring factions in Mexico to eat each other up and then leave that splendid empire to be administered by the United States of America, on the invitation of the various remnants that will be left in that country, after the selfish have torn each other to pieces. —Memphis News-Scholar.

WAR KEENLY FELT IN PERU AND NORTHERN CHILI

Panama, Sept. 29.—Travelers reaching here from the west coast of South America report that the effects of the European war are keenly felt in Peru and Northern Chili. Mining in the great nitrate fields is practically suspended owing to the loss of the usual European markets, and since that nitrate region is practically a desert, incapable of supporting any other industry, the miners face starvation or migration as their alternatives. The large import and export houses such as at Lima and Callac are doing very little business. Scarcity of gold or other suitable circulating medium has been a difficulty in Peru and apparently it has been impossible for the government to agree upon an adequate relief measure that would bring better conditions. As a result exchanges have increased in value and it has been found necessary to declare a partial moratorium which has been extended from time to time. In all of the west coast ports of consequence here are idle German steamers which previous to the European conflict played an important part in the commerce of South America. British steamers which have shared with the German companies the carrying trade of Western South America, still are calling regularly at these ports, but owing to the lack of business are carrying very little freight and few passengers. The only Germany colony against which military operations have not been reported is Kamerun, which borders the Gulf of Guinea, in West Africa. The territory is partly surrounded by British, French and Belgian possessions and has a population of only 1,700 Germans in its 191 square miles. Its deadly climate for whites may be the reason why it has been uncolonized. The German colonies now occupied partly or wholly by the allies are: Kaiser Wilhelm's Land, area 70,000 square miles; Togoland, area 33,700 square miles; Samoa Islands, 1,000 square miles, and Bismarck Archipelago, area 20,000 square miles, a

GERMANY HAS LOST EXTENSIVE TERRITORY

New York, Sept. 25.—Germany has lost territory more than half the size of the Empire's area in Europe since the war began by the capture of her colonies. The territory is partly surrounded by British, French and Belgian possessions and has a population of only 1,700 Germans in its 191 square miles. The European area of the German Empire is 208,780 square miles. Colonies three and a half times this size are now being invaded or shortly will be.

DENIES FRENCH WARSHIP SUNK BY AUSTRIAN FORTS

Washington, Sept. 29.—Official denial of the sinking of a French warship by the Austrian forts at Cattaro was made today by the French admiralty through the French embassy here which gave out the following statement: "The French secretary for the navy has made known that this news is entirely false and that there is nothing to justify it. Up to September 28 no French warship has been touched by an Austrian projectile." The embassy here attributes the report to a dispatch published in a Cologne paper.

glist and most skillful leader of the German army, who led his army within sight of Paris and who was only prevented from striking the allies a crushing blow by the failure of other German armies to keep up with his advance, is between 65 and 69 years old. General Von Hindenburg, who smote the Russians in East Prussia a staggering blow and did it with a vastly inferior force, is 67. General Julius Von Moltke, chief of the general staff at Berlin, whose fighting machine, the German army, is the wonder of the world and is conceded by all to be the most marvelous organization ever formed in history, is 66. General Von Hausen and General Von Buelow, in command of German armies that are fighting grimly and valiantly, are each 69. General Joffre, the master strategist of the allies, in command of the forces that hurled back the German horde after it reached the gates of Paris, is 70. General Pau, who carries an armless sleeve and who has been the right hand of his superior, is also near 70. General Gallieni, the man whom France called to the defense of Paris when it was believed the capital was about to be attacked, is also near seventy. General Soukominoff, Russian minister of war and organizer of the vast army which is now sweeping down upon Germany in a rapidity that has astounded the world, is 68. Lord Kitchener, commander in chief of the British army, is past the age when he would have been retired in the U. S. army. Other generals in all the armies are men of advanced years. They are on the field in the thick of the fight. They are there because their experience has best fitted them for the tasks. The war has brought the old men into their own. An old head is better than a hot one.

The people have done their part. It is within the power of the government to render them aid and assistance in the marketing of their crops at a fair price. From the way it looks to this paper, the National government seems willing enough to render this aid, but is finding it a difficult matter to reach those who are most in need of it through the agencies it has selected. It was plainly the intention of the National government that the emergency currency it permitted to be issued should be used exclusively for crop-moving purposes, but it has come to the notice of the National government that little of it is being put to the use it was intended. In other words, the National government seems to be a victim of misplaced confidence, and the good money at a reasonable rate of interest that the producers of the country expected is not likely to materialize.

GRADED BEGGARS OF MEXICO

Ten-Cent Mendicant Held Himself Proudly Above His Brothers Who Struggled for Coppers.

In his book on Mexico, Mr. W. E. Carson discourses amusingly on the beggars he met. On one occasion he professed a special place to a delightful but picturesque street musician.

"To my astonishment, he politely declined my humble offering. 'Senor,' said he, in choice Spanish, with some emotion, 'you must pardon me for being unable to accept your gift, but I am a ten-cent beggar, senior (un mendigo de diez centavos), and never accept a smaller gratuity.'

"Drawing himself up with an air of pride, he continued, 'I shall be honored to sing for your entertainment; a song of old Spain or one of our noble Mexican airs, but always for a fee of ten cents, never for less, for I am a ten-cent beggar, senior, poor as I am.'

THEIR SILLY TALK

By JULIA TRUITT BISHOP.

Howard Marsh, author and journalist, acknowledged that he was about to undertake a foolish quest, and that most of his friends would accuse him of having something lacking in his mental machinery if they should happen to hear of it.

Trask had gone on smoking very calmly, after his disclosure, and it was only after a long pause that he had remarked dryly: "So you are going down into the backwoods to find a genius? And she doesn't want to be found? How will you know her when you find her?"

"So You Are Going Down into the Backwoods to Find a Genius?"

am going to find her, you know. It was beastly mean in the publisher not to give me her name, but I did find out that she lived in this part of the world—strange that she writes under that name—Oread—isn't it? Well, I am going to stay out here and look into every face in the country until I find her. You may laugh—I fancy I saw you smiling—but I think I shall know her."

He had told Miss Barbara the same story several times since he came to the Glen and secured board with Miss Barbara's mother. Miss Barbara sighed a little, and was thinking more, doubtless, of the next day's work in the little brown school house over the hill than of his quest for the Oread whom he would be sure to know.

The next day he came back with fishing rod and empty basket, but with alert step and jubilant eye. "I have caught a glimpse of the new Miss Bledsoe," he said. "The one who has been away from home. Her name is Eve, isn't it? I have seen Miss Sarah often, and have half-way believed that she might have written 'The Cross of Fire'—she is a cultivated girl, you know, and the house is filled with books. It really must be one or the other of the Bledsoes—they are almost the only ones—the other people I have seen here are quite incapable of it. But Sarah is so—well, she is a very plain girl, you know—not what you would call a beauty at all. And this other one is beautiful—I have heard so from several, and I saw that she was something—quite extraordinary, you know."

Miss Barbara had looked up from the little heap of exercises she was correcting for the next day and now she bent over them again.

"Eve is beautiful," she said, half-absently. "It is a pleasure merely to sit and look at her."

"I could see that—even in a glimpse," he said eagerly. "Say, wouldn't it be something wonderful if all that beauty were combined with—with such talent? Fancy having Oread with all that brown hair with the gold in it and such a face? I seem to feel that my quest is ended here, Miss Barbara. Somehow I have a kind of instinct that—that I need not go any farther."

The only drawback to Mr. Marsh's happiness lay in the fact that he could not well go to the beautiful Miss Bledsoe and say: "I know that you are the 'Oread' who wrote 'The Cross of Fire.' The shy woodland spirit who had so carefully hidden herself away could not have her secret uncovered to the light of day in such a manner as that—but no matter—he would know. He would see her face to face very soon—perhaps tomorrow—and when he looked into her eyes and heard her speak he would know.

After that Miss Barbara heard the story from day to day. He always came in as she worked over the exercises late in the evening—there seemed to be never an end to those exercises—so sometimes it was later, and he found her resting in the gallery under the balmum vines.

"I am more sure of her every day," he said once. "Have you ever noticed what a soft voice she has?—an awful sweet voice, Miss Barbara. And she is of just that shy, reserved kind—a true woodland spirit. Miss Sarah is quiet, too—but I don't think it can be Miss Sarah, do you, Miss Barbara? It is almost sure to be one or the other of them—I am positive of that—and it doesn't seem to me that Miss Sarah is possible."

"If Miss Sarah were beautiful there would be two possibilities," said Miss Barbara with a little smile; "and that would lead to a great deal of irresolution and complicate your decision."

He flushed uneasily. "But the other one is beautiful," he said. "And I am sure she is the one." At the end of the week he was given to silence, and instead of sitting in the gallery and talking with Miss Barbara he was prone to walk up and down the white path in the moonlight. He had reached the point where speech was difficult. Many nights had passed before he paused at the step and looked up at Miss Barbara, sitting in the shadow.

"Are you going to tell me that you have found her?" she asked, without turning her head. "Yes—I have found her," he said, with a new quality in his voice. "That is—I have found—Eve. I suppose I must have come here for that."

"And she is—the lady of your dreams?" asked Miss Barbara after a little pause. "She may be," he said. "I don't know. I have forgotten the dream. The only thing I remember is that I am in love with the most beautiful woman I have ever known."

"What more could one ask?" said Miss Barbara. A heap of little papers slipped from her lap as she moved, and he stooped to help her gather them up. "It is nothing but the children's exercises," she murmured. "I have been sitting there—dreaming—you didn't know that I ever dreamed, did you—and forgot to put them away?"

It was more than six months afterward that Howard Marsh looked in one day upon Trask, sitting in his little den of an office, where the papers were piled high up on every chair. Marsh was just returned from his wedding journey in lands afar, and was a little pale, for he had found the beautiful Eve was at times hard to entertain.

"Glad to see you," said Trask, with a new light in his cold eyes, that took all their coldness away. "Just back from your bridal tour? We didn't take any—but we are very happy, just the same."

"You? You? Are you married?" asked Marsh incredulously. "Yes—hadn't you heard? 'Oread,' you know—why, of course you know her—Miss Barbara Scott—comes around to the house—you and Mrs. Marsh—and renew old acquaintance. By the way, it was that silly talk of yours that put me in the notion to find 'Oread' for myself—knew her the minute I saw her. Much obliged to you I'm sure."

But Howard Marsh had tumbled the papers off a chair and was sitting there, laughing—a laugh that somehow was lacking in most of the elements of mirth.

Ever Counted Your Buttons? Have you ever counted your buttons? And thought of the people who make them? As I sit and write I confess that there are seventy-three on my clothes, most of them superfluous. Why should my waistcoat have six buttons, by coat—never buttoned—eight? Why should my intimate clothes demand buttons—and button-holes? They are the protest against buttons.

There are men and women in the world who are against the perfect simplicity of life which should be without buttons. If you had time it would be easy to devise a costume without buttons and the corresponding holes—very difficult of acquisition in this world of clothes, shirts and buttons. But if all of us renounced buttons in favor of string (a quite easy renunciation), think of the despair of those who make millions of buttons from diamonds to—the other refuse of the earth.—London Chronicle.

Highly Humorous Comparison. Strickland W. Gillian tells of a hotel waitress who was reading a book and laughing heartily. An impatient person leaned over her shoulder and exclaimed: "Girl, what on earth are you laughing at? That's the dictionary you're reading." "Yes, I know; but it's so much funnier and newer than the line of 'smart talk' the fresh guys give me at the table that I'm liable to die laughing at it some time."—Kansas City Star.

An Expert. Grace Darling—is Harry Singleton a good skater? Dolly Deering—Perfectly lovely! He had to hug me six or seven times to keep me from falling.—Puck.

STARS AND STRIPES. Curtiss airplane plant will move to Europe. Rather an unusual flight. It is reported the navy refused men with flat feet. May be only a misunderstanding. The fur ankle is said to be nice, soft and warm. It should prove a great attraction to the moth. Don't let your mind wander. Make a note and come back to the subject. HIGH SCHOOL TRYING TO SECURE GAME FRIDAY. Scrimmages Held Daily—Scrubs Scored On Regulars Monday Afternoon. Efforts are being made to arrange a football game Friday or Saturday of this week between the high school eleven and some out-of-town team. As yet no game has been definitely arranged. The management is trying to get games with some of the strongest teams of North Texas, including Dallas and Fort Worth. The team is being hammered into shape by Coach Keuhne and now appears to be a well balanced organization. The back field is looking especially good, with Mathis, Trotter, Taylor and Bell in the lineup. Ward and Dugan on the ends are also showing up nicely. Scrimmages are held daily with the second team. The "scrubs" scored on the first team yesterday. Davis of the second team retrieving a fumble and getting away with it. LEFTY MULLINS HERE TODAY EN ROUTE HOME

O. V. (Lefty) Mullins, formerly with the Drillers and with the Dallas team in the Texas League for the past two seasons, passed through the city today en route to his home in Oklahoma. Mullins has had a fairly successful season, winning sixteen games and losing thirteen games, and hitting the ball at a .265 clip. He does not know whether he has been drafted for next season as the names of those drafted are not being made public until contracts are signed; this is on account of the Federal League which sends its agents after a player as soon as he is drafted, in an effort to get him to jump before he signs up. Mullins said that Walter Brown, formerly center fielder for the local team has been drafted by the Washington Americans. Mullins left this afternoon for his home.

One of our customers said the other day, "I don't see why we haven't attended to this work long ago; we should have, but—well, any way we didn't intend to neglect it." How is the public, or those who have the best interests of the cemetery at heart, or even your friends and loved ones to know but that you didn't care? Needs are more convincing than excuses. What Great Men Think of Real Estate Investments in a Growing City Like Wichita Falls

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN "Real estate is the best investment. More money is made from the rise of real estate value than all other classes combined." GROVER CLEVELAND "No investment on earth is so safe, so sure, so certain to enrich its owner as undeveloped realty. I always advise my friends to place their savings in real estate near a growing city. There is no such savings bank anywhere." THEODORE ROOSEVELT "Every person who invests in well selected real estate in a growing section of a prosperous community adopts the surest and safest method of becoming independent, for real estate is the basis of all wealth." ANDREW CARNEGIE "Few large fortunes can now be made except from one source—the rise in value of real estate. The wise man of today invests his money in Real Estate. Let us show you where to make some good investments at bargain prices."

WOULD GIVE KIEL CANAL TO DENMARK

LORD BERESFORD SAYS THIS OUGHT TO BE DONE IF ALLIES WIN

REPARATION FOR BELGIUM

This He Says Will Be First Thought of Allies After Germans Are Whipped

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) Leeds, Sept. 15.—Lord Charles Beresford in addressing a recent mass meeting for the purpose of stimulating recruiting here said: "The Kiel Canal must be handed over to Denmark, so it will be useful for the peaceful pursuits of the world."

The remark has caused widespread comment and has become a part of the discussion of the probable results of the war if the allies should win.

When the Kiel Canal was opened in 1895 the Emperor of Germany, with representatives of the leading European powers as his guests, said: "Germany will range the world inaugurated today on the side of those accomplished in the service of peace." It was regarded as significant that upon the enlargement of the canal last June, the occasion was not one of international celebration, although Emperor William attended and led a great fleet of German warships through the canal—which now figures so extensively in the naval operations as a significant refuge for the German fleet.

German strategists insist that the Kiel canal doubles the power of the German fleet, and it gives another entrance from the North Sea to the Baltic and forces an enemy to scatter its strength in order to bottle up the German warships. Tight enormous sidings have been provided within the enlarged canal in which ships may pass.

These are so great they are said to be capable of sheltering all the ships of the German navy.

English strategists assert that the value of the canal has been discounted considerably by the developments of the present war, and declare that it has, if anything, rendered the German fleet more immobile than it might otherwise have been.

It was Lord Beresford's contention that Denmark would never be safe so long as Germany held this important waterway across the Danish peninsula and he hoped to see the day when it, together with Schleswig-Holstein would be restored to Denmark.

Enumerating other obligations which he said would fall upon the allies if they defeated Germany, he said the first duty would be to Belgium, which would have to be amply rewarded for the wrongs it had suffered. He said he would have "the great Krupp plant destroyed and all German forts."

A BARGAIN. I have a 100-acre tract of land lying four miles from town on a public thoroughfare; 30 acres in cultivation practically all tillable, and you can not buy a acre of land on either side for less than $40.00. For a quick turn I am offering this at $30.00; one-half cash will handle this; balance easy. This is a bargain; let me show it to you. THOS. H. ## The School Savings Department Will be Opened the First Monday in October

There was so much interest manifested the short time it run last year, by the children, that the teachers and the bank feel amply repaid for their extra trouble and expense, in trying to teach the children, as we think one of the most important lessons to be learned—THAT OF SAVING—AND WHAT SYSTEMATIC SAVING WILL DO.

This department was introduced and run less than three months last year and at the close of school there were 388 children depositing with their teachers and had a total deposit of $1092.42. This we consider a very fine showing.

For further information as to prizes, etc., call the bank or your teacher.

ENGLISHMEN BUSY REMARKING THE MAP

SOME STATESMEN HAVE EUROPEAN TERRITORY REDIS-TRIBUTED

SETTING CAPTIVES FREE

This is Term Churchill Uses in Describing All New Alignments

London, Sept. 14.—(By mail)—After the war, then what? Englishmen do a man expect Germany to be crushed in the present contest and are busily engaged in discussing events which might follow a declaration of peace.

In a recent recruiting speech Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, warned England against making the error Germany made in 1870, when she had France lying prostrate at her feet. He said: "Let us, whatever we do, fight for and work towards great and sound principles for the European system. And the first of those principles which we should keep before us is the principle of nationalities—that is to say, not the conquest or subjugation of any great community or of any strong race of men, but the setting free of those races which have been subjugated and conquered; and if doubt arises about disputed areas of territory we should try to settle their ultimate destination in the reconstruction of Europe which must follow from this war with a fair regard to the wishes and feelings of the peoples who live in them."

Mr. Churchill's expression of the opinion that Europe's map will be thoroughly remade is merely an echo of the talk of men of all classes. In the windows of many shops are signs "Keep trade in the usual channels while the map of Europe is being remade." Lecturers, preachers and editors are constantly discussing the probable redistribution of European territory.

Doubtless Germans and Austrians are also planning for the division of territory that they expect to acquire through the war and are arranging a wholly different apportionment from that contemplated by the allies. Following the suggestion of Winston Churchill many Englishmen, publicists and journalists are already turning Alsace-Lorraine back to France and Schleswig-Holstein to Denmark, while German Poland is regarded as territory which should have its own government. But the English are not taking Russian Poland away from Russia and joining it with the section of Germany from which it was divorced so unwillingly.

Some difference of opinion exists among Englishmen as to what might be done with Trieste and the territory Austria look from Italy. The mere proximity of Italy is regarded by some Britons as an action which should be well rewarded, considering Italy's membership in the Triple Alliance with which it refused to act. Bosnia would be turned over to Serbia in reward of its stand with the allies. Herzegovina would be given to Montenegro and Transylvania to Rumania.

The possible entrance of Turkey into the struggle adds much interest to the work of the map makers. Threats from other Balkan states that they would fight Turkey in case it lent support to Germany and Austria give variety to the complications. Greece, Bulgaria and Rumania would doubtless come in for generous slices of Mohammedan territory were the Porte to cast its lot with Germany, according to the British view. And Russia might come in for liberal helping of Asiatic Turkey, extending the change in maps well beyond the European lines, and probably giving Russia much freer outlet to the Mediterranean.

Discussing the re-establishment of old nations further, Winston Churchill said: "That is achieved which, if it is achieved, will justify the exertions of the war and will make some amends to the world for the loss and suffering, the agony of suffering, which it has wrought and entailed, and which will give to those who come after us not only the pride which we hope they will feel in remembering the martial achievements of the present age of Britain, but which will give them also a better and fairer world to live in, and a Europe free from the causes of hatred and unrest which have poisoned the comity of nations and ruptured the peace of Christendom."

COMPLAINT AGAINST SCOUT ORGANIZER

YOUTH WHO CAME HERE AND STARTED ORGANIZING BOY SCOUTS ARRESTED

IS CHARGED WITH SWINDLING

Collected Money For Suits and Gave Check Which Could Not Be Cashed

A complaint charging swindling was filed this morning against a youth giving his name as George Williams, representing himself to be secretary of the Boy Scouts of America. It is alleged that Williams gave a check for four dollars to one of the boys he enlisted in the scout movement here, and that the check was not paid.

Williams, who does not appear to be more than sixteen or seventeen years old, came here several days ago and on Sunday afternoon conducted a meeting at one of the local churches in connection with the scout movement, steps being taken to organize several patrols in this city. The boys were quite enthusiastic about the movement and when Williams offered to buy their suits for them, for four dollars each, several of them gave him the money. Later one of them thought that the money should not have been collected until the suits were delivered and spoke of the matter to Sam Sproles, who is one of the leaders of the scouts here. Mr. Sproles went to Williams and suggested that he return the boy's money, which Williams agreed to do, giving the boy his check for four dollars. It was then after banking hours, but the boy soon ascertained that the check could not be cashed and returned to Mr. Sproles with this information. Mr. Sproles then confronted Williams with the returned check, demanding that he make it good. An invoice of Williams' pockets produced only three pennies. Mr. Sproles sent the boy for an officer and while waiting, Williams is said to have made a short and unsuccessful dash for liberty. He was turned over to the county authorities.

It is said one of the scout boys became suspicious of Williams when he observed the latter stained and yellow teeth. It is one of the rules for scouts that they must keep their teeth clean. The boy thought it strange that a scout commissioner should have unclean teeth and confided his suspicions to his fellow scouts.

MANY UNIVERSITY STUDENTS WORK WAY

T. W. Courie of the University of Texas Young Men's Christian Association says that one may know that close times now exist in Texas simply by seeing the increased number of students who are present in Austin hunting for places where they can work and earn their expenses while studying in the University.

"We have more than two hundred applications on file in our office," said Mr. Courie. "Many of these students will come and fall to find places and will likely have to return home because of lack of means." The University has each year in attendance something like two out of five of its students, who belong to the self supporting class. Last year not less than one thousand boys and girls were in the University, who had either wholly or partially earned the money which they were expending on their education. This year the proportion will naturally increase. One of the local papers is putting on a Take a student movement, in which citizens of Austin are urged to employ students to work for their board and lodging. The opportunity for men of benevolence and means to do good by assisting these worthy students is practically unlimited. The University of Texas could administer with great good a loan fund of not less than fifty thousand dollars each year.

A young man by the name of Powell rode into Austin to attend the University from Roswell, N. M., having traveled the entire distance on a motorcycle. When he got to Austin he had ten dollars in his pocket. He has already found a permanent job, and will have no trouble in making his way through the University. Ted Sager of Abilene, last year came all the way from a point on the Colorado near Abilene by boat, something like four hundred miles. Young Powell traveled 650 miles on his motorcycle. Some years ago a freshman by the name of Smith rode on horseback from about a hundred miles north of Amarillo all the entire distance to Austin, hitched his horse at the base of the trees in front of the main building, and came in and reported at the registrar's window with his credit card all made out. Smith is now a successful business man in the State of Washington. A freshman named Later, this year walked from San Antonio to the University. Later, however, was walking for pleasure. It was not necessary for him to travel this way except for the good of his health. Powell and Smith traveled as they did because it was the cheapest.

BOTH SIDES ARE TELLING LIES

IS A WAR OF FALSE CHARGES MADE BY EACH SIDE AGAINST OTHER

ATROCITIES ARE NOT PROVEN

Both Sides, However, Honestly Believe Other Guilty of Unspeaking Crimes

(By Herbert Corey in the Kansas City Star)

Both sides have been lying about each other in this war. It may be added that both sides seem to have been lying in all good faith. Each has really believed all it has said of the other. The indictments each has found are set forth: The English have said that the German have mutilated women and outraged girls. Have shot down little children. Have hamstringed wounded men and cut the tendons of their wrists. Have poisoned wells, provisions and forage. Have lattered down wounded men with the butts of their guns. Have fired upon their own wounded men, as in the case alleged after the fight in Helgoland Bight, when Germans were struggling in the water. Have fired houses in which men and women and children were penned. Have tortured men and women to extort money or information. London Doesn't Hear German Charges Nothing has been printed here of the charges brought by the Germans. But from an American recently returned from Germany I learned that equally sweeping charges of devilish inhumanity have been brought by the Germans against the English and the French. There, it has been alleged, and is believed by a large part of the German populace, that the allies have: Done all the things charged against the Germans by the English and in addition have mutilated bodies of German dead upon the field of battle. It is charged that the French, while in Alsace, waged a war of extermination against the German settlers there. Neither age nor sex was spared. The English seem to have had rather better groundwork for belief than the Germans. There is no room for doubt that the German has violated international law. He has dropped bombs from aeroplanes upon unfortified towns. He has exacted ransom from helpless cities and has sown neutral waters with mines. Granting that in isolated cases he had been guilty of fiendish cruelty, as charged, there is no proof that this inhumanity toward individuals has been a part of the German policy, any more than a similarly barbarous disregard of every principle of deency has been a part of the English campaign. It is obviously true that the Germans have been utterly ruthless in their treatment of the inhabitants of the country they have ravished. Hundreds—perhaps thousands—of Belgian and French non-combatants have been shot. No Proof of Outrages. But there is a long cry between that which conduct which would disgrace a Crow squaw. No proof has been adduced of the outrages with which they have been charged, any more than of the wanton savagery they have alleged against the English and French—for mere allegation is not proof. After making what inquiry is possible here I have come to the conclusion that these tales have, in large part, arisen in the hysteria of individuals—an entirely natural and comprehensible hysteria—and have been forwarded by the war offices of both countries for their own purposes. Here is a case in point. I talked with a correspondent who interviewed officers and men who had been engaged in the fight at Helgoland. "The war office," I said, "in its official statement has charged that German officers on board undamaged ships were seen firing at the Germans, wounded and unwounded, who were struggling in the water after the sinking of their ships. What do you know about it?" "I heard no such history," he said, "I did hear that one German cruiser fired on a British destroyer which before the conclusion of the action had lowered boats to pick up German wounded."

STATEMENT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

VON BETHMAUN HOLLOWEG'S FORMAL STATEMENT HAS REACHED HERE

BITTER AGAINST ENGLAND

English Policy Does Not Know Moral Scruples and Hesitates at No Calumny

(By Mail.)

New York, Sept. 25.—Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the German Chancellor, early in September made a formal statement to the Associated Press. The existence of the statement was known, but it failed to reach America by either mail or cable, and its text has become available through a copy of the North German Gazette, just received here. The Chancellor's statement follows: "General Headquarters, Sept. 2.—"I do not know what is thought of this war in America. I assume there have been published in America the telegrams exchanged between the German Emperor, the Emperor of Russia and the King of England, containing the history of the events that preceded the outbreak of the war and which bears irrefutable testimony of how the Emperor until the last moment strove hard to preserve the peace. "These efforts had to be futile, as Russia under all circumstances had resolved upon war, and as England, which for decades had encouraged the anti-German nationalism in Russia and France, did not avail herself of the splendid opportunity offered her to prove her often emphasized love of peace, otherwise the war between Germany and France and England could have been averted. "When once the archives are opened the world will learn how often Germany extended to England her friendly hand, but England did not desire the friendship of Germany, in view of the development of Germany and feeling that by German efficiency and German industry she has been surpassed in some fields she had the desire to crush Germany by brute force, as she in former times subdued Spain, Holland and France. She withheld the moment and arrived and therefore the entry of German troops into Belgium gave her a welcome pretext to take part in the war. "Germany, however, was forced to enter Belgium because she had to forestall the planned French advance and Belgium on her advance, she prepared to join the French. That only a pretext was involved as far as England is concerned is proven by the fact that already on the afternoon of August 2, that is, prior to the violation of Belgium neutrality by Germany, Sir Edward Grey assured the French ambassador unconditionally of the help of England in case the German fleet attacked the French coast. "Moral scruple, however, the English policy does not know. And thus the English people who always posed as the protagonists of Freedom and Right have allied itself with Russia, the representative of the most terrible barbarism, a country that knows no spiritual or religious freedom, that tramples upon the freedom of peoples as well as of individuals. Already England is beginning to recognize that she has begun by mistaking in her calculations, and that Germany will master her enemies. She is, therefore trying by the pettiest means to injure Germany as much as possible in her commerce and colonies, by instigating Japan, regardless of the consequences to the cultural community of the white race, to a pillaging expedition against Kiao-Chau and leading the negroes in Africa to fight against the Germans in the colonies. "Having strangled the news service of Germany to the whole world and having opened the campaign against us with a falsehood, England will tell your countrymen in the German troops burned down Belgian villages and cities, but will pass over in silence the fact that Belgian girls gouged out the eyes of the defenseless wounded. Officials of Belgian cities have invited our officers to dinner and shot and killed them across the table. Contrary to all international law, the whole civilian population of Belgium was called out and after having at first shown friendliness, carried on in the rear of our troops a terrible warfare with concealed weapons. "Belgian women cut the throats of soldiers whom they had quartered in their homes while they were sleeping. England also will say nothing of the dum dum bullets which are being used by the English and French despite all conventions and their hypocritical proclamations of humanity, which can be seen here in their criminal packing as they were found on French and English prisoners of war. "The Kaiser has authorized me to say all this and to state that he has full confidence in the sense of justice of the American people which will not allow itself to be deceived through the war of falsehood which our enemies are conducting against us. "The statement of the Chancellor concludes as follows: "Every one who has lived in Germany since the outbreak of the war has been able to witness the great moral uprisings of all Germans who, pressed hard on all sides, cheerfully take the field for the defense of their rights and their existence; every one knows that this people is not capable of any unnecessary cruelty or of any brutality. We will win, thanks to the great moral strength which our just cause gives to its troops, and in the end the greatest falsehood will be able to obscure our victories as little as they do our rights."

Prisoners Expected to Be Shot. Here is another incident of the same fight. German prisoners had been taken on board the destroyer Druid. They were lined up on the deck. They turned and shook hands with each other. Two—brothers—kissed each other. Then they saluted the British commander: "We are ready," they said. "For what?" he asked. "To be shot," said they simply. They implicitly believed that the English had captured them only to put them to death. They fully believed that the English slaughtered their prisoners as fast as they were captured. They had been told so by people who had seen the prisoners killed—long ranks of them. "We were told your officers killed the prisoners with their revolvers," said they, "by shooting them through the head." When they learned the truth they begged permission to shake hands with the commander of the Druid. One of them made this illuminating comment: "Many of us," said he, "have been in England. At first it was hard to believe that the English would do this—any more than we Germans would." My American friend who has just returned from Berlin said that Germany fully believes the stories of inhuman atrocities which have been charged against the allies. Berlin Hears of Inhuman Crimes. "We were told," said he, "with a circumstantiality that almost enforced belief of the carcasses of Alsace Germans being dressed like those of bees and hung before their own shops. The names of women who had been violated and killed were given with all the horrible circumstances of the tragedies. We were told that wounded men were abused and killed, and that the dead bodies on the battlefield were abominably mistreated. "Before French surgeons dare to perform an operation on one of their own men, they first do an identical operation on a German prisoner. Then he is left to die. "It is enough to admit that this war is being fought with a savagery to which the world has been a stranger when that is finally made public, will be absolutely appalling. It is known that the Germans, fighting in the enemy's country, have laid it waste as a desert, and that they have ruthlessly crashed through the straw barrier of international law. But it will be well to confine belief to this until better proof than mere affirmation is given the charges of utter barbarism that have been so freely brought.
