CARTOON CAUSES TROUBLE IN HOUSE

BY CLOSE VOTE RESOLUTION OF CENSURE IS VOTED DOWN

REFLECTION UPON GOVERNOR

Cartoon Caricatures Proposed Bank of Texas—Is Circulated By Representative Morris

By Associated Press.
Austin, Texas, Oct. 7.—The House today refused by a vote of fifty-eight to fifty-six to censure Representative Morris for circulating yesterday in the House a caricature for a design for the proposed Bank of Texas. This cartoon included a scene of convicts stealing away with the proposed bank's funds. The cartoons were distributed when Mr. Morris had finished his address.

Representative Watson said the cartoon was a "vile and scurrilous reflection upon the governor." Representative Spradley said there was nothing in the cartoon to reflect on the governor. Mr. Watson and Mr. Spradley had an argument on the floor; after which Mr. Spradley apologized.

The bank of Texas bill was then taken up, with Representative Tinery speaking in opposition on constitutional grounds.

CONSIDERATION OF BILL BEGINS IN UPPER HOUSE

By Associated Press.
Austin, Texas, Oct. 7.—By agreement the Senate today began considering the Bank of Texas bill with the understanding no vote should be reached today nor would the amendment to strike out the enacting clause be offered today. Speaker Clark offered an amendment that loans be made direct to the farmer on produce at the rate of four per cent and announced he would not support the bill unless this amendment is adopted.

Senate Judiciary committee No. 2 made a favorable report on the West-brook Bradford bill to reduce cotton acreage in Texas. Attorney General Looney had told the legislature that such a bill is constitutional on the ground that the legislature has a right to preserve property value. He cited instances where such laws were enacted during the civil war by other Southern states.

The committee on privileges and elections made a report that in its opinion Senator Morrow had not been expelled as president pro tem of the Senate.

The Clark amendment was defeated by a vote of eleven, the friends of the bill voting against the amendment. This led the opponents of the measure to claim that the defeat of the bill in the Senate is certain. They point out that if the Clark amendment stands the bank of Texas would be required to lend money direct to the farmers while the state banks would have no participation in the matter.

WOMAN'S EXAMINING TRIAL IS HELD THIS AFTERNOON

At the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Helen Raubogger, charged in a complaint with assault to murder it developed in the testimony this afternoon before Justice Howard that the defendant at one time was a private secretary to a governor of Kansas.

The husband himself appearing none the worse for the pistol wound in his shoulder was the first witness placed on the stand. His testimony was practically the same as the story that appeared in The Times Monday. He said that after he had taken the gun from her he had placed it in a trunk and that she had bathed his wound. He said she appeared greatly agitated. He admitted having one time previously been on a spree and that this had greatly disturbed his wife. He was still on the stand at 3 o'clock.

CRISIS SEEMS NEAR IN HEALDTON OIL SITUATION

Armore, Okla., Oct. 7.—The crisis in the Healdton oil fields will be reached within a week from now. The Producers' Association is determined not to accept less than 50c for its oil and the pipe line is equally determined not to pay above 40c. The Producers proposed to the Magnolia Pipe Line that they would accept 40c for their oil contingent upon the balance of 10c being paid if the supreme court sustained the commission in its order prohibiting sales for less than 50c. This proposition was declined by the Magnolia people. Unless the commission voluntarily rescinds its order, it is believed that a complete shutdown is inevitable.

London, Oct. 7.—A German torpedo boat destroyer, cruising off the mouth of the Ems in the North Sea, has been sunk by a mine, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam to Reuters.

Observers on the island heard a sudden explosion and a huge mass of water arose from under the bow of the destroyer. The boat keeled over and disappeared under the waves within three minutes.

The periscopes of two submarines appeared on the scene. Their nationality could not be ascertained, but they probably were Germans.

A German cruiser is reported to have arrived in time to save the crew of the destroyer.

Fontaine is certain that his original estimate of 10,000 cars will not be too high. Threshing is still in progress and will not be completed at some points until March, said Mr. Fontaine. The farmers stacked their grain at harvest time and can await their own pressure before threshing it.

day Morning—Athletics Close Season Today

By Associated Press.
Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—The Boston National League champions were here today preparing for the opening of the world's series Friday against the Athletics. The Athletics had a light practice this morning on the National League grounds. The Athletics worked out at their own park.

The Boston players will get a line on their opponents when they see the contest this afternoon between the Athletics and New York in the final game of the American League today.

Most critics believe Bender will be Connie Mack's pitching selection for the opening game and that he will be opposed by James.

A long line of men and boys was awaiting the opening of the ticket sales at 9 o'clock today. One boy and his brother had occupied the position at the head of the line since Monday morning. Fully ninety per cent of the 2000 persons awaiting tickets are boys many of whom said they were holding their places in the hope of selling them at good prices. It was rumored speculators had employed most of those in line to try to corner the ticket market.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM TO HAVE SURPRISED RUSSIAN TROOPS

By Associated Press.
Vienna, via London, Oct. 7.—The following official statement from the general staff was given out here today:

"October 6.—The sudden advance of German and Austrian forces in Russian Poland seems to have completely surprised the Russians. Although they moved strong forces from Galicia to the north, they were repulsed and driven back across the Vistula by the allies while making an effort to cross the river in the direction of Apacow. Our troops captured a bridge held by the Russians near Sandomir. In Galicia we are advancing in accordance with plans."

Von Kluck, Reinforced, Holds His Own Then Takes Offensive—
End Seems Farther Off

By Associated Press.
London, Oct. 7.—1:10 p. m. The conflict along the rivers of northern France, although now in its twenty-sixth day shows less sign of an early end than it did two days ago. General Von Kluck then appeared dangerously threatened by the allies' enveloping movement. Today, having obtained heavy reinforcements from an unknown source, he apparently is attempting to outflank the British and French lines.

This counter stroke is viewed here as the supreme feature of the situation in the western theater of war and its full significance can be understood only by those who are in the battle. Simultaneously with his newly begun turning movement General Von Kluck has been trying to cut through the center of the allies' extended left at Lassigney. The official French communication says this attempt was foiled, but it is not doubted that the effort will be renewed and in event of success it would compel the French left to retire toward the coast. The fighting described in the official French report in this neighborhood as "more and more violent," must it is believed reach Antwerp and largely influence the fate of that fortress.

The surest way of raising the siege of Antwerp would be the success of the French turning movement on the Oise.

Infantry Charges Cease.
Except on the left of the allied armies, the great French battle-front is a gigantic sniping engagement in which riflemen have been replaced by batteries of heavy artillery masked along the heights of the Aisne and the Meuse. These desultory artillery duels seem to have succeeded the desperate infantry charges with which both sides sought to clear out each others' extended lines during the early battle stages. One result of the present stage of operations has been an appreciable lessening of casualties.

Observers recently at the front declare the allies are well content to play this waiting game. They now outnumber the Germans and for this reason can give their troops rest while the invaders must keep their men constantly in the trenches.

The most important development of the fight in northern France is the reported movement of a German army reported to be 20,000 strong southward through Belgium toward the French border. Berlin military critics recently predicted the allies would meet disaster if they stretched their lines on the left too far and it is believed here the Germans are seeking now to crush this French enveloping movement. Both Germans and Austrians claim to have checked the Russians and gained successes but as usual the Russian statements fail to agree with those of their opponents.

New Peace Movement.
German headquarters in Berlin announce that the Russian advance on the east Prussian border not only was checked but that Germans were victorious at Suwalki. Further south on the Vistula Germans and Austrians are said to have dislodged the Russians from their entrenched positions with heavy Russian losses in prisoners and guns. The Austrians claim success also in Galicia.

On the other hand the Russians are reported steadily advancing westward and southward. A report in London indicated that Russian columns invading Hungary toward Huszt, a town about 150 miles from Budapest, would attempt a junction with Serbian troops reported advancing from Semlin. This seemed hardly likely because of the great distance these two armies are apart. Furthermore today's Austrian reports indicated the Russian troops were retreating from Huszt.

Another whisper of peace has been heard as a result of efforts of the German Peace Association whose president has been at The Hague to bring about an international meeting of pacifists. The meeting is said to have failed because of transportation facilities. The only other political news of importance is a rumor that the French government shortly will return to Paris.

NIGHT ATTACKS BY GERMANS NEW FEATURE OF THE WAR

By Associated Press.
Paris, Oct. 7.—2:08 p. m. The following official communication was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"On our left wing the battle continues with great violence. The opposing forces' front extends into the region between Lens, nine miles northeast of Arras and Labasse, thirteen miles southeast of Lille and are lengthened by masses of cavalry which are in groups as far as Armentieres, nine miles northwest of Lilly and virtually on the Belgian frontier.

"On the front from the Somme to the Meuse there is nothing to report.

"In the Woevre the enemy made a new effort to stop our progress but his attack again failed.

"In Russia the German army, defeated in the battle of Augustowo which lasted from September 25 to October 3, tried to stop the Russian pur-

Berlin, Oct. 7.—(Via Wireless to Sayville).

Despite general expectations of a slight pause in the German advance on Antwerp, it was reported today in government quarters that two more forts had fallen into German hands. They were Fort Kessel and Fort Brockchen respectively east and north of Lierre. They were no longer able to resist the German siege guns. The capitulation of Antwerp according to German military authorities can only be a matter of a couple of days.

SUCCESS OF RIGHT WING CLAIMED BY GERMANS

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Oct. 7, via Wireless to Sayville.—The German general staff in its report today on the situation in the west says the fighting on the German right wing in France has been successful.

The following official communication was given out by headquarters staff of the German army wing the evening of October 6:

"Continuous French flanking movements against our right wing have extended the big battle front until it is now north of Arras. West of Lilly and west of Lens, nine miles northeast of Arras our advance guards are in touch with the enemy's cavalry. No decision has yet been reported in our counter attacks along the line between Arras, Alberta and Roye. The situation between the Oise and the Meuse in the vicinity of Verdun and in Alsace-Lorraine.

"In the eastern theatre of war the Russian advancing against East Prussia through the province of Suwalki have been checked. We have been successful in our attack against the enemy near the town of Suwalki. This movement began yesterday. In Russian Poland our troops on October 4 dislodged a Russian bridge from an entrenched position between Opatow and Ortrowiek. The Russians lost 3000 prisoners and several machine guns. There was an engagement October 5 near Radon between our forces and two divisions and a half of Russian cavalry with some reserves. The enemy was repulsed and driven back on Ivan-gorod."

ENGLAND TO BE INVADED BY FLEET OF ZEPPELINS?

By Associated Press.
London, Oct. 7.—A Daily Express correspondent at the Hague says Germans indicate Count Zeppelin is at Wilhelmshaven, the North Sea point from which the great air raid on the British Islands is expected to start. One paper published an interview with the Count in which he is quoted as saying he has not forgotten England and will prove it soon. It also is reported, the correspondent says, that Count Zeppelin was summoned recently by Emperor William who told the count he relied on him for a great work and offered to make him commander in chief of the German air fleet. The count smilingly refused but said he would accept the title when he returned from England. The Zeppelin forces are working day and night at Wilhelmshaven and another station is being established at Emden.

Even Money Will Prevail in World's Series; Other Games

New York, Oct. 7.—The Braves and Athletics probably will go into the world series at even money in the heavy betting that will be done during the early part of this week. If any odds are given, they probably won't be better than 5 to 4 on the Athletics.

Two weeks ago, when it looked as if the Braves would grab the National League bunting, some folks were daring enough to offer 3 to 1 on the Athletics. But since then the rank and file of fans have been studying the relative merits of the rival teams and they have awakened suddenly to the fact that the Braves, in machine power, are not much inferior to the wonderful Athletics.

They have perused the records of the pitchers who will work in that series and they have found that the great Boston trio ranks with the best that Connie Mack can produce. They have found that the Braves, as a team, have improved wonderfully in hitting, and that in fielding they are superior to the Mackmen.

One other factor they have found in the Athletics favor—and it seems like the big factor. The Braves haven't "cracked." Instead they play during the last month has been even better and stronger than it was through the latter part of July and through August. Instead of tiring the Braves seem to have grown stronger. And with each victory their confidence has increased.

The whirlwind dash of the Braves that began in mid-July hasn't halted and the baseball sharps have come to the conclusion that it will carry through the world series. The dash was the kind that no National League team could stop. It was a dash that swept everything before it, never halting, never hesitating.

There are many who believe that the Braves will duplicate the 1906 feat of the Chicago White Sox. It was in 1906 that the Sox, "hitless wonders of the universe," started from around the bottom in mid-season, much as the Braves have done in this day and age. By a great winning streak during the closing days of the race, they overhauled the leaders and swept under the wire a winner.

Then came the world series with the Cubs. The Cubs led 3 to 1 and 1 to 1 favorites in the betting. The White Sox were figured as almost hopeless propositions. Their pitchers were wearied and worn by the great fight made during the last few weeks of the season. The team as a whole, was hitting only a trifle over the .200 mark. And, as a fielding club, it wasn't regarded as a whirlwind affair.

Back in 1906 the wonderful Cub machine was in its prime. That was the year when it had swept through the National League like a cyclone, winning 116 of the 152 games played, for a percentage of .765—the greatest record turned in by a club in modern baseball. The White Sox won the pennant with a .614 average—151 points under that of the Cubs. The Cubs had Monced Brown, the huge Overall, Ed Ruelbach, Jack Pfeiffer and Carl Lundergren to hurl against the Sox. Johnny Kling was behind the bat. The wonderful infield—Finker, Evers, Chance and Steinfield—had reached perfection. The outfield was composed of Schulte, Seckard and Slago—ranked as the greatest outfield of that period.

These were the men the White Sox had to face. These were the men that were the foes of the overworked, tired American Leaguers. While the Sox were battling to the limit of their endurance day after day right up to the closing of the season, the Cubs, with a huge lead by Sept. 1, simply jogged along to the finish line, resting as they went.

By all the laws of "dope" the Cubs should have beaten the Sox in four straight games—and beaten them without exertion. But they didn't. The White Sox won the series, and they turned the trick with seeming ease. Their overworked pitchers outpitched the superb Cub twirlers, their batters hammered the ball all over the lot, and their fielders turned in better averages than the peerless Cubs.

—And now, skidding back to the present, why isn't there a fine chance of history repeating?

The White Sox of 1906 won, not because they were lucky enough to get the breaks and also for another reason—probably the big reason. The White Sox went into the series full of confidence, gained by their dash through the ranks of the American League. They had turned aside all American League opposition. They had come to believe themselves invincible. And believing so, they fought so. Their attack surprised the Cubs, swept them off their feet, dazed them and beat them.

The Braves have rushed along as did the White Sox. During the two months of the spurt they have come to believe that they are invincible. Their confidence is superb. They never quit, never demoralize. "Time and again the other team got the "jump" on them, but nearly every time the Braves came up from behind and snatched the game out of the fire.

The Braves may go into the world series a bit tired, a bit weary, but they'll go into it feeling certain of victory. They'll play the game until the last man is out in the ninth. They have come to be fighters—real fighters—and with them as foes the Mackmen, the baseball public can look forward to one of the most bitterly contested world series in the baseball's history.

Strange Contrast Is Presented By Mack And George Stallings

(By Frank G. Menke in New York American). What a strange contrast is furnished by a comparison of Connie Mack and George Stallings, the two men who will lead the rival teams into battle for the highest honors in baseball. How different are their temperaments, their ways and their methods!

Connie Mack, gentle, soft voiced and fatherly in his attitude toward his players, never has been known to speak an unkind word to them on or off the ball field. Stallings, a human dynamo, with a tongue like a lash, rarely permits his men to go through a game without cursing them to the full limit of his wonderful vocabulary.

Stallings has the theory that only by driving his players every moment during the game are results accomplished. From the moment that "play ball" rings across the field until the last man is out in the ninth, Stallings continues to apply the lash. When on the field every error that one of his players makes that is of an inexcusable nature brings forth a caustic and immediate reprimand from the great leader of the Boston team.

Stallings applies his verbal abuse to stars and mediocre players alike. He spares none. And the strangest part of it all, Stallings' abuse of his players never has caused them to feel any bitterness toward him, for when the game is over Stallings changes front. He is the pal, the brother of each of his players.

Stallings never rebukes a player twice for the same error. He doesn't dig into the past—doesn't bring up old scores. When he has reprimanded a player once for some blunder it's the end of it. Stallings has spoken his piece—has relieved his feelings and the incident is closed.

Every man on the Boston club has come to love Stallings. And not one of the men on the whole team has escaped a tongue lashing from Stallings—not one has escaped a call down couched in scorching language.

The Boston players understand Stallings. They know that his conduct toward them on the ball field is caused only through his frenzied ambition to win. They have come to take his rebuke without experiencing any bitterness of feeling thereafter.

Stallings is a driver—even a harder driver than McGraw who hold the driving honors until this year. Stallings is after his men every minute. Nothing escapes his eye. If one of his men makes a "blunder" play Stallings meets him as he approaches the bench and that player is certain to get "hifn" without delay.

But Stallings is just as ready with his praise for a good play as he is with abuse for a bad one. If one of his men makes a brilliant catch or smashes out a long hit that aids the "braves" chances for victory, Stallings rushes out from the bench to meet him as he comes in and welcomes him with all the enthusiasm in his system.

Mack, in contrast, is at all times the most inconspicuous man on the Athletics bench. He is ever calm and quiet. No matter how great a praise his players may have made, he never praises them. Mack never has a word of condemnation. And when one or another of his men make some brilliant play, Mack's feelings never run riot. He may greet the player with a smile, a pat on the back or a "fine work, boy," but that usually is the extent of his greeting. No Athletic players ever are greeted with a few bear hugs, a dozen terrific slaps on the back and a lengthy speech of praise as are the Braves when they do some great work.

Mack was born in Brookfield, Mass., in 1862. He began his baseball career with the Meriden, Conn., club in 1884. He played with Hartford, Conn., in 1885 and 1886, with Washington in 1887, 1888 and 1889 and with Buffalo in 1890. From 1891 to 1896 he played with Pittsburg, managing that club from August, 1894 to 1896. From 1897 to 1900 he managed the Milwaukee club in the Western League. In 1901 he went to Philadelphia and organized the Athletics. He has been there since. He owns half of the stock in the club.

Stallings managed the New York Yankees in 1911 and brought them from the bottom well into the first division. But he was deposed—and the club never has amounted to anything since. Stallings took hold of the Braves in 1912. They looked like a hopeless lot of tall end proposition. He landed them in fifth place despite the fact that he was away from them for quite a time owing to illness.

What he has done with 1914 Braves is history.

INDIANAPOLIS FEDERALS VERY CLOSE TO PENNANT

Now Leading With Only Two Games To Play—May Return Here For Spring Training

The Indianapolis team in the Federal League, which trained in Wichita Falls last spring, now bids fair to win the championship of that circuit having a lead of a game and a half over Chicago, with only two games to play. Curiously enough, it was another team which trained here, the Kansas City Federals, that made this possible, for the Packers yesterday won two games from Chicago while Indianapolis, by defeating St. Louis, stepped into the lead.

Although nothing has been done in the matter as yet, it is certain that an effort will be made to bring both the Kansas City and Indianapolis clubs here to train next spring. The Kansas City team has already indicated its desire to return and Indianapolis, after seeing the good effects of training here, is expected to view the matter favorably.

HELPLESS AS BABY Down in Mind Unable to Work, and What Helped Her.

Summit Point, W. Va.—Mrs. Anna Belle Emey, of this place, says: "I suffered for 15 years with a awful pain in my right side, caused from womanly trouble, and doctors lots for it, but without success. I suffered so very much, that I became down in mind, and as helpless as a baby. I was in the worst kind of shape. Was unable to do any work."

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and got relief from the very first dose. By the time I had taken 12 bottles, my health was completely restored. I am now 48 years years old, but feel as good as I did when only 16. Cardui certainly saved me from losing my mind, and I feel it my duty to speak in its favor. I wish I had some power over poor, suffering women, and could make them know the good it would do them."

If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, it will certainly be worth your while to give Cardui a trial. It has been helping weak women for more than 50 years, and will help you, too.

Try Cardui. Your druggist sells it. Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Literature on your case and 64-page 10c "Home Treatment for Women," in plain wrapper. R.S. 121

WILL SEE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES AT PHILADELPHIA

Charles W. Bean of This City Will Witness Opening Contest For Championship

Wichita Falls will be represented at the world's series this year by C. W. Bean of this city. Mr. Bean left recently to place his daughter in a school at Lakewood, New York, and will return by way of Philadelphia where he will witness the two opening games of the series on Friday and Saturday of this week. Whether he will see the games to be played at Boston Mr. Bean had not decided when he left here.

Local fans who have followed the fortunes of the Philadelphia and Boston teams are inclined to believe that the Athletics will win the championship. The wonderful performance of the Boston Nationals, however, in coming from last place to the league leadership in thirty-seven days has won them many friends here and they will have some supporters. Those who are backing their judgment with their funds are not offering any great odds on the Athletics.

BERLIN'S COMMENT ON EVENTS TO DATE

NEWSPAPER PREDICTS FRENCH PEOPLE WILL SOON TIRE OF WAR

THREE CORNERED AGREEMENT

Refers To "Boasts" of French and English Press and Makes Very Sharp Reply

The Hague, Sept. 16.—(By mail)—The present attitude of Germany towards England, France and Russia is described in an editorial of the Berlin Tageblatt of September 14, which after admitting that the German advance in the west has been checked, while considerable victories for the German army have been obtained in the eastern theatre of war, says: "Europe is to be compared to the back of a cornered bear from whose sides the blood is streaming. We hardly speak of those of us who in the German colonies and in Kiaochow are calling for help. We think of them, but do not speak of them."

The English and French newspapers have recently said that the resolution of the powers of the triple entente not to make peace without consulting one another, had made a painful impression in Germany. We hope that this understanding between Messrs. Grey, Poincare and Tswolsky surprised nobody here. Those who think calmly knew this before the first cannon shot was fired. But this formal assurance was merely made to show us the futility of this war and our successes in France.

The indications in the French press are that the declaration was also intended to quiet the French people. "This Anglo-French-Russian Declaration" writes the Petit Parisien "finds a justified echo throughout the allied countries. It will bring the pessimists to silence, who already are shaking their heads and whose fears are an insult to Russian stamina, French endurance and English loyalty." The Petit Journal calls the declaration an answer to the tendency to doubt and to the cowardly and perfidious whispers which during the last few days have made the rounds in the population in favor of a despicable enemy.

The French and Russia. "But we may accept that in a favorable presentation of the French successes along the Marne have again filled the skeptics with hope. There are in France, people, however, who have not been the guests of the Czar who, unlike the Paris papers do not gain by supporting the alliance, whose personal fate does not depend upon that of Russia, and whose brain is clear enough to reason logically to final results. The promise that France is to sacrifice herself to the very last drops for Russia cannot be reassuring to such Frenchmen."

"The Times, in a very beautiful leader, has presented to them the British resolution not to end the war. 'Whatever happens in the west, says this article, 'Russia and we will continue the war—if necessary for twenty years.' It is then pointed out as did Mr. Asquith, that Germany and commerce are in a bad way, a condition which would continue until Germany had surrendered the territories occupied and had paid the indemnities imposed."

"What were the feelings of the French when they read the words of a boaster who talks loudly because he imagines England secure against the suffering of this war? Twenty years is a long time when the army of the enemy occupies the center of the country. No, even the ledges of the pessimism which made itself felt in France, in all the comment made on the situation there is but one in stance that could impress the French. The Petit Parisien asserts that Germany intends to tell the Russian and English, 'We will crush France and will then be ready to make peace with you at the expense of France. But this assertion is false, and the facts will demonstrate how false they are.'

Makes Prediction. "We are at war with France, because, in consequence of an impolitic alliance, and misled by intriguers, it was brought to the side of Russia but we are principally concerned with the reduction of Russia to a direction we see as a limitation and weakening of a giant and the making of guarantees—the moral idea of this great war, and the grand goal for which, if necessary we will continue to fight for twenty years, even in spite of the fact that since the days of Lemberg we do no longer under estimate the magnitude of the task."

"Even those masters of cheap phrases who do not look death in the eye and do our brave soldiers in the field must realize that only the complete victory of the Germans over the Russians can secure the position of Germany's future and that a peace treaty otherwise would be a scrap of paper without value. As we hope and believe, the moment will come when the affair which France has forced upon us against our wishes will end favorably for us and when we will be in position to concentrate our efforts against the Russians. We will see then whether the English and French will still have the inclination to drag on the war in favor of Russia indefinitely. One will then have to ask the French: 'Have interests in Russia in Russia not paid enough? And then also England will be asked—with most appreciable emphasis: Are you willing to risk more for Russia's might and aggrandizement—if necessary for twenty years?'"

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

What's the Use? What's the use of being good? It ain't really any fun.

And there's no one ever knows— 'Cept my conscience, I suppose— All the noble deeds I done, And I feel so like a sham! I don't want to be no gooder Than I am.

What's the use of being good? If they notice it at all They just put me on the head, Or they show me off, instead; And the folks that come to call Say, 'How cute!' and, 'Little lamb!' I don't want to be no gooder Than I am.

What's the use of being good? All the fun's the other way. All the mischief and the noise And the pranks with other boys; All the goodies hid away, And your fingers in the jam! I don't want to be no gooder Than I am.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS BELL AND MR. CLIFFORD ANNOUNCED

Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Old Maids, Miss Carrie Bell to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of one of the Old Maids, Miss Laura Bell. No tint of any thing out of the ordinary was given until late in the afternoon when the guests were invited into the dining room, the usual sewing and social chat making up the afternoon's diversion. When the prettily appointed luncheon table was surveyed, an inkling of the secret to be disclosed was gained, for the center decorative motif was a tiny Sewpie wedding party. Standing under an arch of pink roses, a Sewpie bride and groom, faced a miniature minister, while the fascinating dolls in a smaller size were ribbon bearers, thus completing the wedding party. The luncheon table was festive with bridal tulle and at each place was a card which revealed the secret that the Sewpies were striving to tell. Miss Laura Bell to be married to Mr. N. M. Clifford, Wednesday, October 21, 1914. This was the inspiration of the congregation or the remainder of the afternoon and plans and arrangements were discussed over the dainty luncheon which was served to Misses Eddie Jarver, Jewell Kemp, Agnes Reid, Sathrine Hightman, Carrie Kell, Mrs. Winstons Fain and the honor, Mrs. Laura Bell.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS SESSION OF CIVIC LEAGUE TUESDAY

A number of plans for activities along civic lines were considered by the Civic League, which met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. C. W. Snider. Old business of the preceding season was disposed of satisfactorily and the League then heard an address from Dr. R. T. Bolyn, on the pure food agitation and decided to give him their heartfelt co-operation in the work he is doing by commission of the city. The high cost of living and plans for lowering it, was discussed at length as suggested by the federation president, Mrs. Fall and in this also the Civic League will co-operate with the other club women of the city. A membership contest for this month, was instituted with Mrs. Cravens and Mrs. Cullinan as leaders and the campaign will be closed at the meeting next month which will be held with Mrs. Kemp. At this meeting all members are requested to bring with them one or more new members and it is hoped by this contest to increase the membership to a large extent, so that the League will be enabled to accomplish more in the work which it has set out to do.

One thing we want to know about this "wear-cotton-goods" idea—if we do wear cotton goods, will they keep on calling it wool and charging us wool prices for it?

Will you if Congress does decide to tax moving pictures for war revenue, it will put a double rate on the kind that show Indians wearing patent leather shoes.

There is no doubt about it. A war in which both sides can win a victory in one and the same battle is some war. And yet, that is about the way the European war news reads.

More new automobiles were registered in Wichita county for the month of September than for any previous month, and the number was about double that of September, 1913. If the buying of automobiles is an indication of prosperity, then there is an abundance of it in Wichita county.

While we used to make fun of the Mexican style of war, which seems to be one-eight fighting and seven-eighths talking, we are now ready and willing to acknowledge our error; that sort beats the variety seven ways from Sunday.

Manager Clark Griffith of the Washington Nationals has decided to cut out of his ball team all the cigarette-smoking talent. He attributes the defeat of his club this year to the sole fact that some of the players, on whom he depended to win games, were cigarette fiends.

One very serious objection to the warehouse law is that it moves the office of the warehouse from the town in which it is located to the State central office at Austin, says the Temple Telegram. That is the way the people of Wichita Falls viewed the new warehouse law, and are, therefore, not operating their cotton warehouse under it. They prefer the old law, which does not force the business of warehousing to be located at the State capital.

Just about one year ago newspapers were saying that Tammany was dead as a political organization, but it is not so. The Tammany candidate for governor was nominated by a majority of about 75,000. Like Mr. Bryan, Tammany has been "killed" several times, but each time has come alive again. All of which makes us wonder if the g. o. p. can do likewise.

Now a Ghent dispatch says Prince Adalbert, the Kaiser's third son, has been killed. This completely cleans up the Kaiser's sons. From the war dispatches sixteen or twenty of them have been killed outright; several of them more than once, and fourteen or fifteen have died of their wounds. The most terrible mortality of the war has been in the sons of the Kaiser.—Topeka Capital.

The campaign just closed has been a revelation in the conducting of prohibition campaigns. Not a public speech made on either side and but very little advertising in the press or by circular. No undue excitement created. In fact, a campaign conducted along sane lines, in which the average voter was left alone to vote his sentiments without pressure or prejudice being brought to bear. The sovereign voters of this community have spoken, their sentiments have been recorded, and their will will be carried out. Henceforth, after the allotted time for closing up the business, Mineral Wells will be a dry town, at least for two years.—Mineral Wells Index.

An employe of the M. K. & T. Railway company of Texas has brought suit against that concern for his discharge, setting up the claim that the only reason for his discharge was that he was not a union man. The road answers by alleging that, under its contract with a labor organization, it could do nothing but discharge the man, as its contract with the labor organization mentioned plainly stipulated that none but union men should be employed. This suit will be watched with a great deal of interest, if allowed to go to trial, which, doubtless it will. And if the man wins his suit the company will be forced to pay him wages for time lost while the suit is pending and probably put him back to work. In that event, there will be more trouble for the "Katy."

MADAME THEBES' PROPHECY. The following prophecy by Madame Thebes, the modern Sybil, was published at Paris in her almanac the latter part of 1913. The prophecy was given wide publicity at the time by the periodicals of the continent, notably of France and Italy.

"If 1913 has not been a very happy year for some of the people of the world, not more fortunate for many of them will be the year 1914. 'Misfortune will come to Germany. Fortunate will Germany be if her people see the dawn of 1915. The great and powerful empire is unstable and has its foundations in sand. The Germans of the south and north will line up and sell their hands in a terrible and cruel conflict, which is to take place. The imperial family is threatened; above all, the emperor. No more shall the eagle of victory adorn his arms of standards. In the midst of all this disaster among themselves, there will be a movement and a cry for peace and friendship towards France."

"No better fate is reserved for Austria. That people will learn that the Tarpelin Rock is near the Campidoglio. They will not profit by a favorable movement. Their chance has passed. The Austrian army or authorities talk plainly of fire, blood and revolt. The Hungarians will be more fortunate."

"But Italy, kind at heart, will follow out of triumphal destiny. She will see a new pope and with him shall come great changes, a work more for the common good, pertaining more to the temporal than to the spiritual destinies. Rome will be enlarged, even Rome shall be no longer restricted to her present boundaries. In the supreme hour, international attention will be turned towards Italy."

A BOOSTER FOR WICHITA FALLS. Editor Times: It is indeed with great pleasure that I see the greatest mill and elevator nearing completion. We have already the biggest flour mill in Texas, and this new one, when completed, will be the largest in the South.

During all this wrangle about cotton it's a pleasure to see King Wheat taking his seat on the throne of prosperity, for there never was a retail grocer but what would admit that flour is the backbone of his business. And personally, I have had the pleasure of seeing some of Wichita in nearly every county in Texas.

With new buildings going up down town, and with this new mill and elevator in course of construction and nearing completion, and with work on the dam out near the park, it looks as though old Wichita is pushing to the front fast. Anyway, I moved my family here because it's the fastest growing city I could find, and I realize that a live fish must stay up stream.

I notice that Mr. Kell's proposition to manufacture his flour sacks from cotton instead of jute is being frowed by Northern mills. Let every traveling man who works this territory be loyal to home industries and boost Belle of Wichita, the flour that has made Wichita Falls famous.

W. A. CHATERTON. STANDS FOR EIGHT HOUR DAY, BUT AGAINST NUISANCES.

on-roller skates on the sidewalk in now disturbing the peace and quiet of our citizens that ought to be abated. First among these is the habit of some auto drivers of opening up their mufflers and splitting the ears of innocent bystanders. In most, if not in all of the larger towns, the city council has cut this out; and I trust that at the earliest convenient day our council will take the matter up and stop it.

Another nuisance is the habit of certain boys and girls of whirling along on roller skates on the sidewalk in front of other people's houses. Or to use the sidewalks in front of their own homes for that purpose, but to worry and disturb other people is not within their rights and it ought to be prohibited.

Another matter ought to be considered by our people generally—a matter which, I suppose, our city council has nothing officially to do. I refer to the practice of late shopping. Everybody can buy what they want, as a rule, before 6:30 in the evening; and to do shopping later than this is cruelty to the clerks and an unnecessary expression of selfishness. Eight hours a day is long enough for any man or woman to work; and if our citizens generally will exercise some reason and common sense no one will need to work longer than that, especially in the stores. I speak, of course, from the standpoint of a private citizen, a customer and consumer. Let us be merciful if we would be just.

suit and prepared positions along the line of the Wirballen frontier. At Lyck the Russian troops continue their advance and at several places they have penetrated into East Prussia.

"To sum up the German offensive on the Nieman has been brought to an end by a complete check accompanied by considerable losses."

Captive balloons to observe the movements of the allied armies and powerful searchlights to point out the positions and to blind the offensive during night attacks are being used by Germans in the great battle north and east of Paris. Night combats have become an important element in the action. They frequently are forced by the Germans and as often are repulsed by the allies. They are telling on the stamina of troops on each side already worn out in seemingly unending struggle.

The French public who throughout have shown calm are patiently awaiting a decision. The changing actions along the battle line have caused diversified comment as to their significance. Some critics see in the Germans' latest maneuvers an element of daring in which they risk placing a large space between their troops and base of supplies and the men actually fighting on the front. General Pierre Chersils commenting on the situation, says the material organization of the Germans is powerful and that all French are unanimous in saying that the Germans have had excellent practical instruction and that from a technical point of view they fight with a remarkable method. He says:

"The Germans know how to be patient and to wait. They make themselves invisible and have many a gruesome surprise for the impetuous French. Their machine guns are numerous and sometimes grouped. They have one company of machine guns for each regiment. They are always hidden, often set at the edge of woods so as to have an oblique fire.

"The Germans' first line of march is covered with sheaves of corn or well concealed otherwise. In advance of this are the elite marksmen."

"The general says that nearly all the French officers who lost their lives were killed by these marksmen. He says the German infantry advances only when supported by artillery. He claims, however, that their morale is inferior because they fight only two or four against one and nearly always flee in front of the bayonet.

INNES HABEAS CORPUS HEARING IS POSTPONED

304 Atlantic Street, Oct. 7.—Hearing in the habeas corpus suit brought by Victor Innes and his wife to secure their freedom has been postponed until October 15. An agreement to this effect was made today by Innes' counsel; meanwhile the grand jury is continuing investigation of the death of the Nelson sisters for whose alleged murder Innes and his wife are held.

suit and prepared positions along the line of the Wirballen frontier. At Lyck the Russian troops continue their advance and at several places they have penetrated into East Prussia.

"To sum up the German offensive on the Nieman has been brought to an end by a complete check accompanied by considerable losses."

Captive balloons to observe the movements of the allied armies and powerful searchlights to point out the positions and to blind the offensive during night attacks are being used by Germans in the great battle north and east of Paris. Night combats have become an important element in the action. They frequently are forced by the Germans and as often are repulsed by the allies. They are telling on the stamina of troops on each side already worn out in seemingly unending struggle.

The French public who throughout have shown calm are patiently awaiting a decision. The changing actions along the battle line have caused diversified comment as to their significance. Some critics see in the Germans' latest maneuvers an element of daring in which they risk placing a large space between their troops and base of supplies and the men actually fighting on the front. General Pierre Chersils commenting on the situation, says the material organization of the Germans is powerful and that all French are unanimous in saying that the Germans have had excellent practical instruction and that from a technical point of view they fight with a remarkable method. A. A. Beasley vs. H. H. May and Cecil Thomas, debt. Is the title of a suit filed in the district court today.

While the price of wheat remains stationary at ninety-five cents, the price of flour, wholesale Wichita Falls, has been reduced thirty cents a barrel this week and is now quoted at $5.10. This is seventy cents under the high quotation of the war time prices, which at one time reached $5.80 a barrel.

J. B. Finnigan of Munday, was in the city today in order to secure some cotton pickers to gather the crop there, which he says will make all the way from one-half to three-fourths of a bale to the acre. He had gotten about thirty-five to sign up to go, but at train time at the depot only about twenty-five had shown up. From the ranks of those standing around, he soon recruited enough to fill the gap. Other men, too, were here from Munday and each took back enough pickers for his individual need. Mr. Finnigan, it seems, was sent up here by several others and was after all he could get.

POEM BY WICHITAN SET TO MUSIC AND SUNG HERE

T. A. Bradley Writes "In Kentucky" Which Will Be Published in Near Future

Inasmuch as this city has always been able to produce geniuses in nearly any form conceivable—from the inventor of a trolleyless car to the father of a device capable of reducing the consumption of gasoline in automobile propulsion—not great surprise should attach to the announcement that Wichita Falls harbors a poet, a real poet, and one that has no kinship with the ordinary juggler of limericks or the slinging of doggerel. It is more than likely due to the extreme modesty of T. A. Bradley, the popular local haberdasher, that his poetic facilities have not been discovered beyond the circle of his closest friends. However, his work is not of the experimental sort, but is of the proven type unquestionably. Mr. Bradley's style of text and meter is in some respects very much like that of Riley, the beloved Hoosier poet; his ideas are clear, close to nature and bear in the main upon all those things which are linked with the true, the beautiful and the good. At the suggestion of a number of his admirers, he recently composed a chain of verses in a neat little volume and presented them to his friends with his compliments. Those who have known of his work have expressed the highest praise and approval of his artistic conceptions.

Several days ago a local lyric writer approached Mr. Bradley with the suggestion that one of his poems be selected and set to music. He acquiesced and thus a new song was born in this city. A tentative musical arrangement was given the ballad by the aforesaid composer, and a really beautiful number entitled "In Kentucky" was the result. The song made its debut when the Wichita male quartet introduced it among the vocal offerings of its program at the opening of Harrington's drug store Monday night. And the quartet did the new-born full justice. It is the intention of the authors to publish the ballad in the near future.

PRISONER IS BOUND OVER ON TWO FORGERY CHARGES

John Williams, alias Elmer Schofield was bound over by Justice Jones this morning to await the action of the grand jury in two complaints charging forgery. Williams' bond was placed at $750 in each case. The defendant who said he had been engaged in a "little show business at Fort Worth" gave a detailed story of his transactions with the checks and did not deny that they were forged or that he had cashed them. He said, however, that he did not sign them; that they were signed by a printer and told him that he was a man who had been drinking with this man on the day (Saturday) the checks were cashed.

LAUNDRIES ANNOUNCE READY TO CARE FOR ALL WORK

All of the laundries of the city are now ready to receive work of any character for reasonably prompt delivery, according to announcements of the proprietors today. All are reported running with nearly complete forces.

The strikers continue to collect laundry which is being sent to Electra and declare that they are getting the big end of the laundry work of the city. The Electra laundry is being run night and day to turn out the work. The laundry owners here claim that the work being sent out of town has enabled them to meet the situation caused by the defection of the strikers, which otherwise would have embarrassed them considerably.

ARCHER DISTRICT COURT HAS PRACTICALLY FINISHED

He is survived by a son, Charlie, age 14. The deceased came here about nine months ago from Reading, Pa., and has been employed at the farm since. Before coming to the United States, he was a native of Greece. The funeral services will be held from Hill's chapel tomorrow morning.

AT THE THEATERS

THE TROY HEARTS

The Majestic.
The first installment of the "Troy of Hearts" ended with Judith and Alan in the north woods. Alan injured by Judith. The girl finds that she is in love with him, even though she has pledged to her father that she will accomplish his destruction. Alan falls ill and Judith sends the guide to the nearest village for aid. The guide gets drunk and falls to return so after a time of waiting Judith decides to go for help herself, leaving a white rose, the sign of love on Alan's breast. More complications arise in this second chapter of the "Troy of Hearts" which promises decidedly well for the continued interest of the series. "Romantic Josie," a two reel Vitagraph comedy with Josie Sadler completes the program.

The Victoria.
"McCane Plays Fate," a two part "Thanauser and "Such a Cook," a Keystone, make up today's picture bill. Tomorrow the story of Samson, the strongest man that ever lived will be seen in pictures. Almost every one is familiar with the remarkable story of this hero of Bible times, a story of deeds equal to those of the giants of nursery lore. The picture itself is wonderful for its photography and with Warren Kerrigan playing the leading role is Samson it is sure to be a strong drawing card.

The Lydia Margaret.
Fox and Leonard, dancers, and the singing act will give an engaging tonight, after making a decided hit with local theatre goers. Tonight's pictures include "Out of the Depths," a Rex drama, "Polishing Up," a Sellig comedy and "Andy Learns to Swim," an Edison comedy, featuring Andrew J. Clark, the kid comedian. After a microscopic examination of water, Andy decided that he would use as little as possible both internally and externally. A visit to Coney Island on a hot day changes his mind and he learns to swim. One day he saves a little girl from drowning and joins the ranks of heroes.

The Gem.
"Three Men and a Woman," a two part serial is a story of much interest. A synopsis is as follows: Duncan Cadman, a civil engineer, is much older than his wife, Olive, who is very much of a butterfly. The two quarrel when Duncan, thinking she is ashamed of his lack of society manners, objects to going to a reception with her. She meets John Temple, who is Cadman's direct opposite and is for the moment interested in him. Temple becomes infatuated with Olive and his bold attentions cause many an embarrassing moment for Olive. Cadman misconstrues what he sees of the affair and becomes jealous. Howard Brooks, Cadman's young assistant, is badly injured about the time. Cadman is called South to work on some light-house construction. He brings him to his own home and when he leaves fearing Temple's nearness, places Olive under his protection. Brooks has already fallen in love with his nurse and her pity and sympathy for him and her piety at Cadman's attitude bring about a feeling she thinks is love for Brooks. When a friend from the South writes Brooks to take a trip South in his yacht, he gets Olive to run away with him. Temple has overheard the arrangement and ships with a motley crew as one of the crew. Olive regrets the move when they are out of sight of land and begs to be taken back, but Brooks refuses. That evening fire breaks out and the crew become panic stricken. So does Brooks. Temple and the captain fight the crew but fail. The captain is killed and Temple left for dead. Brooks breaks away from Olive and leaving her in a faint, jumps in mad terror for the lowered boat, but misses it and falls into the sea. Temple rescues Olive after he gets to his feet and throwing over the hatch, leaps overboard with her. On the match there is room for only two and he lights Brooks who tries to come aboard, finally forcing him under and down. Cadman and his men have seen the fire out to sea and go in rescue boats. He finds his wife unconscious in Temple's arms. Temple seems to give him any reason and when they reach land stands up bravely before Cadman, who tells him he is going to kill him. Olive comes in to stop him from killing his dear friend in time to prevent Temple's death and to explain. Cadman offers his hand but it is refused. He leaves and finds Brooks body washed ashore far from the point where his band and wife stand reunited.

The Empress.
"The Rat," a Box Office attraction feature is showing here today. One's attention is caught at the opening of this picture by the characters introduced and the scenes in which we find them. It is a picture of gangsters in some of whose slums border immediately on the sandy beach, footmarked and littered by flotsam and jetsam with docks where a row boat can hide and slatternly shanties where thieves, gangsters and wharf rats can gather for mischief or lie concealed when the police are looking for culprits. There is noticed at once a convincing naturalness in these scenes whose doings also seem quite in keeping and certainly provide a tale that holds attention from the first minute till the close.

The story is not melodrama after the regular pattern. It isn't a love story primarily and while it has villainy and heroism of a kind, they are not over exaggerated enough to be obviously unconvincing. The best things in the offering are the, what may be termed, by-products of the tale, incidents and bits of unexpected business that show an intimate and authoritative knowledge of the life and characters portrayed. Yet the story is planned to hold us in suspense and makes use of the melodramatic form to get the swing needed to carry us along. Roughly outlined it is this: A pretty slum worker passing in her car saves the "Rat" a gangster, from the roughs of another gang. Her father is the district attorney, and has a bit of evidence that will harm another gang. This collection of pretty roughs—pretty, some of them, as one could wish—abducts her to force her father to give up this letter. The "Rat" hears of it and with the help of his comrades is the means of saving her.

GERTRUDE EWING IN "CAMILLE"
AT WICHITA NEXT SATURDAY
Next Saturday's attraction at the Wichita Theatre will be "Camille," with Gertrude Ewing and an excellent cast, an elaborate scenic investiture and beautiful costuming. No novel or play has ever attained the world-wide fame and success that "Camille" has. The finest star in Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's crown as the world knows, is her Marguerite Gautier, which she made famous in Paris, London and America, on her sensational, immensely costly tours which have carried her all over the frontiers and made her the most famous woman in the world. Olga Nethersole and Clara Morris also gained international renown in "Camille."

The popularity of the story increases with the years. "Camille" is no fantastic romance; it is taken from life. A human document. The true story of a lovely, lovely young woman, who lived, who adored and who died. Marguerite Gautier who was not an imaginary person. In life she was Marie Duplessis and was the reigning beauty of Paris. While most authors depend upon their imagination for material for a story, the younger Dumas relates the incidents from his own early life.

"Camille" is a play with a soul, packed with action, vivid lighting, in which great scenes crowd close up on each other. Can one ever praise too much that wonderful last scene, its pathos and passion, its fire and tenderness, its infinitely piteous beauty. It is the supreme dramatic masterpiece of the ages.

"MUTT AND JEFF" COMING
HERE ON OCTOBER 23
The best evidence a theatre manager can offer his patrons as to the actual merits of an attraction that he is offering for your approval, is undisputed facts concerning its success elsewhere. What is said here concerning the success of Gus Fisher's production of "Bud Fisher's great cartoon play, "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico," coming to the Wichita Theatre on October 23 can easily be verified in the news columns of almost any newspaper. More than five hundred newspapers throughout the country are running the clever Fisher cartoon daily. That newspaper is paying a big bonus for the privilege of getting the Fisher cartoons because they attract its readers, because they have proven the biggest success since cartooning began. "Mutt and Jeff" is a feature in daily papers. Millions of people open their morning paper at the "funny page" to see what new stunt "Mutt and Jeff" are up to. You can then imagine with what pleasure the people look forward to seeing those two funny fellows in real life, depicted by clever flesh and blood actors who are physically fitted to properly portray every movement that Bud Fisher has conceived to the funny "Mutt and Jeff" has actually created a sensation never before known in theatrical history. In New York City, where the play ran to record business at the Grand Opera House and at the Manhattan Opera house in Chicago where it ran fifteen weeks to actual capacity and in every large or small city in the entire country, and wrung from the most conservative critics the enviable title of being the greatest financial and artistic success in a quarter of a century. You don't want any better evidence than this do you? The big New York Company with all the arguments that won its success will be here. Get seats now.

COSTS MONEY TO SECURE ANIMALS FOR SELLS-FLOTO
One female African rhinoceros (very fine $3,500); two magnificent giraffes, one $2,000; one lion. For you see, animals have their price. They are catalogued just the same as anything else. And something more, the two little giraffes at the head of this paragraph give a bit of an idea just how costly a feature is the menagerie part of a circus such as that of the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill (himself), which is coming to this city to close its season Thursday, October 15. Just for instance, when Lucia Zora of the Sells-Floto Circus comes forth with her herds of performing elephants, she is directing the efforts of $2,000 worth of hide and flesh and bone. Elephants are big—and they are costly.

There are other things which cost, too. In the menagerie of the Sells-Floto Circus and Buffalo Bill is a blood-sweating hippopotamus. And the price tag on him is exactly $500. Even the monkeys can cost as high as $100 to $250 a pair, while lions are worth as high as $2,000. Tigers are 50¢ cheaper. You can buy a perfectly good, well trained, long tailed Bengal tiger for a nice $1,500. Jaguars, which the Sells-Floto-Bill Circus has several, are worth from $100 to $500

FIRELIGHT MEMORIES

Do you remember the once happy faces that lingered round the dear old fireside? Can you call to mind the smiling faces that once greeted you, and with the vision there comes a flood of tender memories. Are you fortunate enough to have those dear ones with you still? Or, have they long since passed away? If so, have you done your full duty in beautifying their last resting place in such a way that you are proud of it? Or, does your mind recall to you the negligence and forgetfulness so common to the human race? "Our hearts are full of good intentions, but our deeds fall to show them."
Why not awake from your memories to deeds of pleasant labor? We will help you to be fully satisfied.

The Dream That Came True

Today, the AnSCO—the realization of dreams since ancient days—is yours to command.

Long, long ago, the world would have exchanged great treasures for this wonderful picture-making invention. But now a modest sum ranging from $2 to $55, makes you its proud possessor.

Fenelon's fable, "Un Voyage Suppose," written in 1690, tells of his heart's desire for an AnSCO. Objects desired to be painted were placed in front of great basins of gold or silver filled with water. The water froze and became a glass mirror on which an ineffaceable image remained.

Another Frenchman, in 1760, Tiphaigne de la Roche, prophesied the advent of the AnSCO. The hero of "Giphantie," in a strange land, is shown the method by which a native genie produced pictures.

And today, the AnSCO, the marvelous Amateur Camera of Professional Quality, is the crystallization of their fondest dreams. You enjoy its reality for so small a sum that it need not be and must not be considered.

Let us provide you with an AnSCO.

WHY WE ROAST COFFEE

We have been engaged in the Grocery Business under one roof, in Wichita Falls just a QUARTER OF A CENTURY. During all that time have made a special study of the coffee end of the business, believing it to be the most important article handled by the Grocery Trade.

We have handled at different times practically every brand of National reputation, and tested them all and were never entirely satisfied with any of them.

Several years ago we rigged up a small roaster and unknown to the public commenced to blend and roast our own coffees. Inside of sixty days our coffee trade had quadrupled and we had outgrown our little plant.

We immediately went East and after investigating all the makes of coffee roasting machinery, purchased the very best plant obtainable, and commenced to advertise the fact that we roasted our own coffees, and our business has increased to such an extent that we decided to dispose of our Grocery business and specialize in FRESH ROASTED COFFEES, Teas, Spices, Extracts and kindred lines including Sugar, Butter and Yard Eggs. Also retaining the Mineral Water Agencies.

Will continue at the old stand (608-10 Ohio Avenue) the balance of the year and on January first, 1915, will open at 824 Indiana Avenue (in the Joline Building) an up-to-date Coffee, Tea and Spice House along the lines indicated.

We roast the very best grades of coffee and truly believe our blends to be superior to others and best of all ROAST FRESH EVERY DAY.

Let us send you a trial pound that you may know the difference.

We handle CRAZY, GIBSON, TIOGA and MANITOU WATERS.

O. W. BEAN & SON, Phone 35
