GOWDY IS THE HERO

Hit for Two Bases and Raced Home When Bush Threw Wild to First

Special to The Times.

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 12.—Twelve innings of hair raising, breath taking baseball this afternoon found Boston one game nearer the world's championship, the "Miracles" defeating Philadelphia by a five to four score. The climax came in the twelfth inning when Bush threw away a bunt after Gowdy had hit for two bases.

It was anybody's game up to the last anxious moments. The ninth inning ended with the score two and two and in their half of the tenth the Athletics broke through with two runs. Boston came back strong, Gowdy promptly cutting the lead to one run with a four sacker and the end of the tenth found the teams neck and neck again.

Bush worked in the box for Philadelphia and was effective throughout. Tyler started for Boston but was yanked in the tenth to permit Devore to bat; James finished the contest for Boston.

From the fourth inning until the end of the game the two teams were tied. Both pitchers were going strong and for inning after inning there was not the slightest advantage. In the tenth Philadelphia forged to the front for one brief moment, only to see the short lead overcome in the twelfth, after Gowdy had written his name high in the heavens with a two bagger. Bush pegged poorly to first on Gilbert's bunt and Gowdy raced home with the winning run. A total of 35,520 people saw the game, which ended amid gathering darkness.

This victory brings Boston very close to the world's championship, it being necessary now for Philadelphia to take the next four games.

FIRST INNING
Philadelphia—Murphy started things off by hitting a double, but was yanked to left field. He went to third on O'Hara's hit to Tyler. O'Hara sent a high fly to Evers at second and the latter in his eagerness muffed the catch. Murphy scored. Collins being safe at first. Tyler raced and struck the mighty Baker out. While Melins was getting his base on balls, Collins cleverly stole. He was not to be caught napping of the bag a moment later. One run, one hit, one error.

Boston—Moran drew two and three, then sent a pop-up to second base. Evers whacked a neat single into left field. Connelly sent a high fly which Baker caught. Evers made a pretty steal to second base, but Whitted struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING
Philadelphia—Walsh went out on a grounder to Tyler. Barry's best was a high foul which Schmidt nabbed. Schang was retired on a hot drive to Evers who made a hair raising catch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Schmidt struck out. Deal sent a pop-up to third and Baker smothered it. Maranville drew a base on balls and a moment later stole second. Gowdy lifted one into the left field stands for a pair of bases, bringing Maranville home. Tyler was an easy out, Barry to Melins. One run, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING
Philadelphia—Bush was retired on a foul to Schmidt at first. Murphy sent a grounder to Evers and was out at first. Oldring went down, Maranville to Schmidt. No runs, no hits, no errors. Tyler seemed to be going strong.

Boston—Moran was thrown out on a grounder to Baker. Evers drew two and three, then grounded out to Bush. Connelly flied out to right field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING
Philadelphia—Collins popped one to Evers and was out. Baker fanned for the second time this afternoon. Melins unworked a two sack drive to left field bleachers. Connelly fell over the railing trying vainly to reach the ball. Walsh singled to left field scoring Melins. Barry was retired Deal to Schmidt. The weather was beginning to get cloudy. One run, two hits, no errors.

Boston—Whitted went out on a grounder to Collins who made a brilliant stop. Schmidt sent a Texas League over second base for a single. Deal advanced him with an infield out. Collins to Melins. Maranville slammed a long fly into the right field stands and Schmidt raced home, followed by Maranville but Empire Hildebrand called it a foul and Schmidt was sent back to second. Maranville returning to bat. He sent a short single to left field, scoring Schmidt. Both Oldring and Walsh tried desperately for the ball, but could not reach it. Considerable time was wasted trying to catch Maranville off first, without success, and presently "Rabbit" stole second, going to third when Schang threw badly to cut a run. Tyler gave Gowdy four wide ones, and he stole second on an attempted double steal, but Maranville was put out at third. One run, two hits, one error.

FIFTH INNING
Philadelphia—Schang flied out to right field. Bush went out, Deal to Schmidt. Murphy wanted for two strikes and three balls, then sent a two bagger into left field, obtaining a track out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Tyler went out on a grounder to Bush. Moran's offering was a grounder to Barry, who threw him out. Evers got his second single of the game, sending a drive into left field. Connelly cut out on a grounder to second to first.

SIXTH INNING
Philadelphia—Collins smote one in to third for a single. Deal made a wonderful one handed stop of the drive, but could not make the throw in time to catch the best runner. Baker hit for a double play, slugging to second to first, retiring both himself and Collins. Melins was an easy out, third to first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Whitted rolled one to Bush and was out at first. Schmidt lifted a high one to left field and Oldring was under it in time. Deal slipped one into left field for a pair of bases. It was close to the foul line, but was safe. Maranville's best was a pop-up to third. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING
Philadelphia—Walsh flied out to third. Barry was an easy out, Tyler to first. A grounder to second retired Schang. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Gowdy was thrown out on a grounder to short, while the Boston fans cheered and stamped, pleading for a score. Tyler struck out Moran made the third out on a grounder to Barry. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING
Philadelphia—Bush rolled one to first base for the first out. Tyler covering the bag, while Schmidt made a fancy stop. Murphy sent a high fly to center and Whitted picked it off. Oldring sent a fly to right field for the third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Evers was an easy out, Bush to Melins. Connelly was retired on a grounder to Barry, and Whitted went out by the same route. No runs, no hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING
Philadelphia—Collins sent a sizzling liner to Maranville who made a great stop, throwing him out. Baker broke into the hit column with a two bagger, slugging the pellet into right field. Melins lifted a fly to left, Baker being held at second. Tyler passed Walsh to get at Barry, and the wisdom of this was demonstrated when the Philadelphia shortstop sent a pop foul to Gowdy. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Schmidt was retired on a grounder and Deal lost the same fancy. Baker's beautiful steal ruined Deal of a single. Maranville sent the same info extra innings with a grounder to Barry. No runs, no hits, no errors.

TENTH INNING
Philadelphia—Schang tormented the crowd by waiting until it was three and two, then singled cleanly into the second garden. Bush struck out. Maranville's best was a roller to Tyler who threw to second to force Schang. The throw was bad and both runners slid a grounder to second base on which he was thrown out. The suspense was terrible when Collins got no strikes and three balls, then he valked filling the base. Baker hit hitting over center field for a single. Schang and Murphy raced across the plate. The official scorer credited Baker with a hit on the play. Melins flied to center. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Boston—Boston fans were begging for action and Hank Gowdy added fuel to the fire. He hit and lured by hitting over center field for a single. Deal advanced him with an infield out. Collins to Melins. ## NACO GARRISON IS AGAIN SHELLED

GOV. HILL DIGGING TRENCHES PARALLEL WITH INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY

SAYS NEUTRALITY VIOLATED

American Troops Fire Upon Yaquis Who Attempt to Cross Onto American Side

By Associated Press.
Naco, Arizona, Oct. 12.—The Carranza garrison at Naco, Sonora, was shelled again today by Gov. Maytorena. Gov. Hill, commanding the garrison, again fired parallel to the boundary line to protect his line from Maytorena's Yaqui Indians who again today worked around to the rear of the garrison along the international boundary.

Hill complained that the American border guard had failed to prevent this violation of American neutrality.

FIRING YESTERDAY BETWEEN MEXICANS AND AMERICANS

Naco, Arizona, Oct. 12.—American and Mexican troops fired at each other Sunday. The negro troops of the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry Regiments opened fire on a detachment of Maytorena's Yaqui Indians and drove them back across the border, where they attempted a flanking movement which invaded American soil.

The international friction here resulted from a night of attack on the Naco, Arizona, trenches by Maytorena's troops early this morning. A frontal assault was ordered by Villa's commander, and the Yaqui Indians, as usual, led the attack. In the darkness they crossed the line, probably my mistake the first time. Those who crossed were promptly returned by the American troops. This angered the Maytorena's forces and many shots fell on the American side during the battle which followed.

Maytorena is Warned

Sunday morning the same tactics were undertaken and Maytorena was again warned and threatened with invasion by the American troops to clear the atmosphere on the border. At 11 o'clock the sniping started and more than 100 bullets fell on the main street here.

In the handling of the sniping by the American artillery, commanded by a German gunner, shrapnel burst and fell on the main streets of the Arizona border town. One struck the American custom house, another fell on a mercantile establishment, and a third struck an occupied residence, but no one was injured. Three Americans are reported to have been slightly wounded by the artillery firing, shrapnel bullets striking them.

Two Americans, Lee Hall and Corporal McAllister, Troop H, Ninth United States Cavalry, were struck by stray bullets. Hall was shot in the head and seriously hurt. McAllister was shot through the hand. Hall and McAllister make the total American victims of Mexican fire to date. Trooper Allison, private in Monday, Trooper Leroy Bradford was seriously wounded Tuesday. The same day an unidentified boy was shot through the hand.

Efforts to stop the sniping again were made today by President Wilson and to Governor Hurt of Arizona.

Seven Yaquis were captured by Hill and executed.

General Hill, commanding the garrison, lost 8 killed and 57 wounded. Maytorena's loss is reported to be 200 killed and many wounded in the night's fighting.

Maytorena's Yaqui Indians attacked General Hill's troops entrenched in Naco shortly before midnight. Hand-to-hand fighting in the trenches resulted. The engagement continued an hour before the Indians finally retired.

It was reported that a band of Indians was pursued east of Naco by General Hill's soldiers.

Five Americans are under arrest on the Mexican side of the line below Nogales, Sonora, charged with high treason by Villa's prefects and held by order of Governor Maytorena. They are T. V. Garraway and J. H. McInery of Tucson, Ariz.; J. Ward of Nogales, Ariz.; and two others whose names are not known.

They are charged with attempting to wreck a troop train which was expected to pass Buena Vista Station on the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico en route from Nogales to Del Rio on the way to reinforce the Villa force before Naco. The advance guard of Pioneers discovered a quantity of dynamite and percussion caps on the railroad at Buena Vista when the main contingent of Maytorena's troops passed there. They were discovered in time to prevent an explosion.

The five Americans are now being held incommunicado in Nogales, Sonora. Their hearing was to have been held in Sweet Saturday, but American Consul Simplicio, intervened in their behalf and the hearing is to be held Monday at the American consulate in Nogales.

Tremendous Effort Will Be Made By English To Beat Back the Germans

By Associated Press.

London, Oct. 12.—Except for a flood of vivid details about the fall of Antwerp the British public has been virtually cut off from the battle in France for the past twelve hours. It is believed, however, that events of tremendous moment are occurring or are impending in the region about Lille, France, where the cavalry of both armies have been in violent contact for a week.

Military critics here agree that unless Dutch neutrality is violated Antwerp will be of no more use in operations against England either as a naval or aerial base than any other Belgian city now in possession of the Germans. They agree, however, that for military purposes in the western theatre of the war the occupation of Antwerp is of supreme importance for Germany as it will release several army corps which have been engaged in its siege. Furthermore the capture of this city will insure their line of communication in case of a retreat from France.

GERMANS NEAR COAST

An official statement from Berlin in noting that on Saturday a German cavalry brigade defeated a French cavalry brigade north of Lille indicated that the extreme limit of the battle is now within twenty miles of the straits of Dover. Petrograd remains silent as to the movements of the Russian army, but hints that secrecy is necessary for the present because important operations are pending.

Late reports indicate that terrific fighting partaking of the nature of siege operations have taken place during the last fortnight around Roye. Inspection of works from which the Germans were driven show they took the fort as possible advantage of the existing rock quarries. Now that the opposing forces are deployed in a comparatively level country shorter periods of vigorous fighting probably will produce more decisive results than while the opposite lines were entrenched.

CHOLERA SPREADS IN AUSTRIA

From Austria comes the report by way of Italy of the spread of cholera. It is reported that the epidemic is spreading rapidly in the vicinity of Trieste.

The news that one of the German bombs yesterday struck the Cathedral of Notre Dame has been communicated to the Vatican at Rome. On being informed of the failure of the attack Pope Benedict is reported to have exclaimed: "Providence has prevented an outrage which would have shocked the world."

It was officially announced later in the day that a Taube aeroplane had been downed at Paris this morning and dropped six bombs—Five French aviators went up to pursue the German aircraft. A new squadron of aircraft has been formed to deal with the German aviators. Another German bomb was dropped at St. Owen, a suburb of Paris, but did not explode. This missile fell within a short distance of a large paint factory where there is a gasoline tank containing 80,000 gallons.

GERMANS NOW TURNING TOWARD OSTEND AND ENGLISH CHANNEL COAST

By Associated Press.

London, Oct. 12.—The news of the German movement between Antwerp and Ostend up to the present is so fragmentary and contradictory as to be almost worthless. The Germans are maintaining their customary secrecy and reports coming from Belgium and Dutch sources of heavy repulses to the Germans with losses suspiciously large are looked at with askance nowadays.

The capture of Ostend, of course, would be worth the possession of many Antwerps to Germany's plans so it may be taken for granted they will not enter the popular seaside resort without the most desperate opposition. Great events therefore depend on the result of the battle now in progress on the line of Lassigny and Lens and to the operations connected therewith and in which the three German army corps released from the siege of Antwerp will try to take part.

The retention of Apremont by the French after fierce fighting during which the place was lost and retaken is regarded as important as the town is well to the northward of Verdun.

There is no confirmation of the report that the civil population of Belfort is quitting the city in fear of bombardment and no news has been received here of any special hostile movements in that quarter.

NATURAL JUDGEMENTS THEME FOR SERMON

Wages of Sin in Lowered Ideals and Rewards of Righteous Living Discussed

The wages of sin in the lowering of ideals and taste and ambition, and the rewards of righteous living in the cultivation of better taste and the stimulation of proper ambitions were discussed by Rev. Chas. Clark Smith Sunday morning at the First Methodist Episcopal church, when he preached on the subject of "Natural Judgments," taking as his text Prov. 11:31. His sermon in part follows:

In the minds of most persons there seems to be an almost ineradicable disposition to associate misfortune with divine retribution. When Christ was on earth they brought a blind man to him and asked, "Who didst thou think he was?" In their minds there was no other alternative. In their thought his blindness was a sure mark of divine displeasure. Christ said, "Neither he nor his parents." That is to say that there was a cause for his affliction which had no connection with a direct punishment for a specific sin. The book of Job, coming doubtless from a rather early day, is built around this idea of direct retribution for sin. It is a protest on the part of a man who had a conviction of his own comparative righteousness as against the opinions of several who held the common conviction that affliction was due to divine punishment for sin. It is quite natural, almost inevitable, that humanity should continually raise this question of immediate punitive discipline direct from the hand of God. It is folly for any man to try to lay down any dogmatic rule concerning it. We can very easily get on to territory that we know nothing about. We can enmesh ourselves in matters that belong particularly to God. But while no one can afford to be dogmatic about it we are still so related to the problem that we can not altogether escape it. We would not say whether God does sometimes interfere in man's sinfulness or whether he does not. There is no limit to that field and we can talk of so many things of which we are totally ignorant. For practical purposes and to meet all our real needs we are obliged to know some things for certain. Until we are illuminated with greater wisdom than has yet shown we had better confine ourselves to what we can understand. The Bible teaches us much and the experiences of the ages also bring forth some suggestions worth while. We can form some opinions without either being dogmatic or assuming too freely to interpret God's dealings with His children.

The wonderful developments in the scientific world have tended to remove God a little farther away from immediate events in human nature. Once every event was associated with a specific divine act. Now we talk of the works of nature and in popular thought nature is something of a God. Rightly construed the advance in science has clarified thought very much and to our advantage. We look upon a marvelous sunset. There is revelation of color and beauty that defies description. Once man looked upon that manifestation as a peculiar expression of God in some way and to such a man it was awe-inspiring. Now we know that such display is a matter largely of atmospheric condition. Certain conditions of moisture and dust and certain angles of reflection produce given results according to natural law. The instructed man beholds and devoutly worships a God whose wisdom ordered those laws and who from eternity had beauty as part of His nature and not an occasional expression of a caprice or whim. The marvelous thing is not that God fed the five thousand by the seashore, but the far greater task of feeding the millions of men by the year throughout what we call natural law. The thing to cause us to marvel and fall down in worship before Him is that it is His nature to desire that we should have all these good things not occasionally, but all the time. Rightly construed, therefore, the development of science has clarified thought very much. The man who best understands God's way of doing things in nature is rather near to God than he who looks on with awe and supposes that God is working a feat of some sort. Pious superstition and ignorant adoration do not bring one near to God as intelligent understanding of His ways. But one can not undertake a full discussion of this subject in one sermon of reasonable length, but must confine himself to just one phase of it. There are some things in life that are incontestable and to which if we will give thought we will also give assent. One of these incontestable propositions is that wrong living works by its own power a disastrous effect upon the life. We speak of this harmony with our subject as a "Natural Judgment." We mean by natural the observable and commonly understood as distinct from the special manifestations of God's power. We will not seek at all to get onto the divine preserves and say whether God ever sends affliction as a direct punishment for sin, or the reverse, whether he sends prosperity directly as a reward for right living. We will not even attempt just now to attempt the physical deterioration of sin, so plain to be seen, to disprove law. We will leave that for another day. What we desire today is to indicate some mental and spiritual effects that come naturally upon one who lives a life of sin, and, by contrast, those that come as a result of a life of righteousness.

The Wages of Sin Christ taught what Paul afterwards embodied in words that, "The wages of sin is death." We most usually think of this as death in the hereafter as distinguished from the now. But the wages of sin is death in the soul which is sinning in the now as well as in the hereafter and the soul which has sin in it is a dying soul. The man with consumption is a dying man and only as he can counteract the disease will he live. That which is working in him is physical death. Just as surely the sinning soul has the elements of death working in him. Unrighteousness than has its rewards, along lines of very natural laws. Of course God is the author of these laws and to speak of them as natural is not to rob them of their divinity, but to use an expression with which we are familiar. They do not imply any special administration of His power.

Among the most obvious of the fruits of unrighteousness are lowered tastes and ambitions. Directly and indirectly sin is responsible for the degradation and lowering of taste. In the world it is not uncommon to find one who has been reared in decency and refinement living with seeming content in filth and degradation. You ask in amazement, how can this be? The answer is, sin. Directly or indirectly this lowering of ideals is due to sin. With the lowering of taste and ambition comes loss of self-respect and loss of reputation, and a general letting go of self. Sometimes you are watching the life of some individual and it seems suddenly to let go and collapse. When you look into the life however you find that sin has been eating at the heart and the collapse is only a final step in the process. First, there is loss of self-respect and reputation and then the sudden letting go. Moral dissatisfaction, remorse and finally a deadened moral sense are sure to follow until the one time upward looking man is almost hopelessly in the grip of sin. He has ceased to struggle up. He has resigned himself to his condition and is content to let it go and collapse. Nothing appeals to him. He is dead in trespasses and sin. This is a natural condition. God has not acted particularly in his case. God has not departed from him nor ceased to love him, but by neglect and abuse of his natural faculties he has brought himself to that condition. God can not help it either in this life or in the hereafter. He is dead because he has committed moral suicide. This is the working out of what we may call a "Natural Judgment." It is development of certain qualities of soul already within us. Being what we are such developments are possible and follow inevitably from a life of sin.

Rewards of Righteousness To emphasize the fact of the natural rewards of unrighteousness consider the direct opposite, the rewards of righteousness. To live right is to cultivate ones better tastes and to stimulate proper ambitions. The great message of Christianity is right living, and wherever the power of Christianity has been felt there has been a decided upward trend to civilization. What is true of nations is true of homes and of individuals. There is much domestic infelicity in the world. What is the cause? There are numerous names given to the one condition but reduced to the lowest term it is sin. Go into a home where degradation reigns and carry them the message of Christ. The occupants of that place called a home except the message and clean up their lives accordingly. At once they will clean up their homes and take on a new life and if sin has had any effect upon the vitality often there will be almost phenomenal changes. This shows plainly the difference in direction between sin and righteousness. Righteousness points upward, sin downward. Righteousness is a man's self respect and eventually the respect of others for him. His reputation is built up and becomes a very valuable asset to him. Any man who lives well for a reasonable period will succeed in being a man of good reputation. Such a man has a reputation that is valuable to him and also a quiet confidence and looks at life from another angle than the man who is living in sin.

Joy of Righteous Life Life is something of a game. If you will study the mental moods of the playground and notice what influence victory gives over players as contrasted with defeat you will observe a principle vital in actual life. It takes an enthusiasm to victory. It is easier to play when you are winning. It takes a seasoned athlete to rise to his best when defeat is assured. Mental attitudes affect his ability to play. The life of righteousness is a winning life and one has the joy of living victoriously. He has the joy of living the life of inspiration. He has not only gained some victories but he aspires to gain others. He sees new goals before him and feels that he is destined to win those. His winning habit has become contagious. The righteous man has the joy of living the life of service. It is a common testimony that unselfish services brings one the highest joy of earth. Anticipation plays a decided part in the righteous life. It is fundamental in human life that right living brings a reward. The Bible aside, men instinctively feel that there is something good in store for him who lives well. These are natural mental attitudes following right living or wrong living as the case may be. Can any one doubt their influence on self? There is all the difference of direction between downward and upward separating the righteous life and the unrighteous. The man who has the right attitude in the righteous life, he has provisionally smitten him but because he has traveled a downward path. The man who has lived well on his feet, not because God has favored him but because he has kept the upward path. There is now charged up to God as special providence that is a natural result of the downward or upward path that we have chosen. God is in the natural law which effects us but differently than had he especially ordered our joyousness or affliction.

The joys of righteous living are unquestionably deeper than any passing satisfaction which unrighteousness may bring. The rewards of righteousness are worth while because of their abiding character and because they open up our lives to appreciate constantly more and more of life's good. The reward of unrighteousness is worth avoiding. Sin is self-destruction of ones finer and better qualities. Goodness is its own continual reward. The policy of following bodily impulses stands condemned by natural law and the witness to the upward trend of the reward of righteousness is enough to impel any thoughtful man to live for the good which right living brings in this immediate day.

FRENCH HURL 'SILENT DEATH' UPON GERMANS

Boasted "Great Secret" Is Shell That Smothers Men and Leaves No Marks. (Herbert Temple in Houston Chronicle) London, Oct. 9.—At the outset of the titanic European war, French writers, commenting on the probable fate of the Germans, had much to say of the "great secret" of France as a factor in the struggle. Time and again stories emanating from Paris mention the "great secret" and the "mystery" by which their country was to strike down the German hosts. Not once has there been given an inkling of the nature of the "great secret" but a London correspondent, writing from Dieppe, after a visit to the battlefields along the Marne, believes that he has found it in the three inch field guns used by the French, which, according to the stories, paralyze the Germans as they stand, killing them apparently without wounding them and leaving them much as were left the victims of the great volcanic tragedies of Herculaneum and Pompeii. The writer says: "A visit to the field of the battle of the Marne shows the devastating power of the French three inch field gun to be something of which we hitherto had not dreamed. "Entire sections and companies of German troops have been struck as if by simultaneous thunderbolts, reminding one of nothing so much as the wholesale extinction of the populations of Herculaneum and Pompeii. "Sounds Mysterious. "Such an account sounds mysterious. Were the Germans killed where they stood by violent and overpowering poisonous fumes? Is that the "great secret"? Continuing, the correspondent says: "On the borders of one of the forests a company of Prussian infantry at bivouac is laid out as if it was surprised by the fire. Two sentries are still grasping their rifles and a little way off a messenger lies by himself. "Further on an officer lies a few yards from his men, who are stretched out with loosened belts and lying in their blankets. Two of them still hold playing cards in their hands. "Those sleeping, and those who were awake when they died evidently were swept out of life together without apparently having had time to move. "The same thing is noticeable on other battlefields in France, say various writers, but not one of them has made any attempt to explain the matter. Evidently when the French talked about their "great secret" they had in mind something worth talking about. Is the mysterious "withering death" of their three inch field guns the secret? Apparently the results and the comments of observers would indicate as much.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH

The Germans, according to all accounts, have been killed in some way other than by bullets or fragments of shells. They have been smothered to death, evidently, by powerful confusion or have been asphyxiated by powerful deadly gas. Recording further instances of apparently mysterious deaths among the Germans, the correspondent says: "Even more extraordinary is another group of 60 dead lying about a small laystack as if in sleep, their rifles stacked and their knapsacks arranged in orderly heaps. "In the outer ring the path of the shells can be traced in a direct line by heaps of bodies, but the particular shell that killed these 60 struck them in front, from behind and at the sides with the same sudden death, and yet none of them bears any outward wound. They are stretched face downward or staring up at the sky, seemingly paralyzed by the mere force of the explosion. "The same mysterious results were seen in many of the trenches, where Germans were piled in rows. The German army to the east and north of Rheims was stated to be strongly entrenched in deep cuttings, with bomb proof shelters and rest houses underground, and very similar ones were found at Dieppe, behind the Oureq. One of these was a mile and a quarter long, with tunnels in all directions, yet it was filled with dead. "Hasten Beyond Range. "Along the whole length of the battle line, according to all the stories of French artillerymen, Germans never were able to stand before the fire of the French guns whenever it found them out, but latterly as soon as a French battery opened a hasty retreat was quickly followed by heavy bombardment by big caliber German artillery far out of range. "That the Germans are beginning to feel discouraged is gathered from letters seized and statements made by officer prisoners. An officer of the Prussian guard says: "My regiment started with 60 officers and only five are left out of more than 2000 men. The regiment is a mere relic."

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES WILL BE UNOPPOSED

No Other Party Has Filed Nominations For County Offices at General Election. The Democratic nominees for county offices will be unopposed by other parties, so far as can be ascertained here, no nominations having been filed by either the Republican, Progressive or Socialist parties. Copies of the governor's election proclamation, for November 3 have been received and posted here. In addition to the public officials to be elected, the State will vote upon three proposed amendments to the constitution; one provides for the initiative and referendum in public affairs, another puts members of the legislature on a salary basis and a third authorizes counties along the coast to issue bonds for building seawalls. "The amendment fixing legislators' pay gives them a salary of $1200 for the first year of their term, no matter how long they are in session. If they are called in extra session in the second year of their term, they are to receive five dollars per day. "CHILD INJURED AT NEWCASTLE BY DYNAMITE GAP. Florence, the eleven year old daughter of A. W. Jordan, had the misfortune Thursday to lose three of her fingers and both thumbs by the explosion of a dynamite cap. She found the cap and thinking it had been used, was striking it with a knife when it exploded, with the above results.—Newcastle Register.

MRS. FALL WRITES OF THE DUTY OF WOMEN IN CRISIS

Dear Friends of the Federation: My first message to you is one of gratitude for your prompt and enthusiastic response to the call and the house-keeping and home makers for a meeting to be held the first days of October at 10 o'clock, to discuss the high cost of living, and regulating conditions as nearly as possible.

The home is the starting point, and when we set our household in order, we have started right. Let us show the same initiative, courage and resourcefulness that our forefathers did when they helped to establish our great republic.

May I urge upon the club women to respond to the call of the national president, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, who has asked that women help to create a demand for cotton goods? The call was made for the 6th, 7th and 8th of October. This does not mean that we must stop at the end of the three days in our purchases, but continue in the use of cotton goods, as far as practical.

It is useless to explain to the intelligent mind that the use of cotton does not mean that women must wrap themselves in cotton goods exclusively to discard silks forever and a day; nor does it mean that we shall become faddists—but it does mean for us to grasp the situation, and understand what the general use of cotton goods will mean to the South, if women help create a demand for cotton fabrics.

TERRIBLE EFFECTS OF HOWITZERS FIRE

Berlin, Sept. 22.—(By mail)—What the effect of the German field howitzers fire can be when directed upon troops in close formation, is described in the letter of a German officer, which, published in the Cologne Gazette of September 20th reads in part as follows: "On August 22 at 8 o'clock in the evening just as we were about to go into quarters a light developed suddenly. Before we knew what had happened we were in the thick of it. It was a quick victory. The French were badly thrashed. That night we slept in a ditch along the highway with the starchy sky for a blanket. The cold was mean."

"On the following day matters proceeded. The French were retreating on the road to Sedan. Following them we saw terrible scenes. This was especially true of a stretch or straight road running through a forest. Here two French field artillery regiments had been annihilated. The pieces stood in the road in marching order; the horses—six to each piece—lay dead in the traces as if struck by lightning. Near them were scattered the dead officers and men.

"There were 28 pieces of artillery and all their crews dead. The thing happened in ten minutes and a Captain Wilhelm is responsible for this fine piece of work. He surprised the French with his field howitzers at a range of 300 meters. The captain

H. S. FOOTBALL TEAM WAS SIMPLY OUTCLASS'D

Seasoned Vernon Players Were Too Much For Locals—Quannah Plays Here Friday

The high school football team returned yesterday from its digastrous trip to Vernon and will prepare this week for next Friday's game with Quannah high school. Henrietta was to have been played Friday, but the team there has disbanded for the season. Quannah has a strong eleven and an interesting game is expected here.

The locals were simply outclassed at Vernon, they say. The team there has been playing together for three years, is heavy and exceptionally well trained, pulling off a brilliant variety of plays with a speed that the Wichitans could not cope with. The work of the officials left a bad taste in the Wichitans' mouth and they expect to make a better showing when the Vernon team tomes here for a return game.

was shot in the chest, but he could tell us the story. One of the French officers, who happened to be a short distance away from the artillery, and who was wounded, told us that the experience was enough to rob anybody of his senses. "I will never forget the awful picture. For two kilometers nothing but pieces of artillery, corpses and the cadavers of horses."

The $150,000,000 Cotton Loan Plan, started in St. Louis a few days ago, is meeting with approval throughout the cotton States, and most of the banks of the South are subscribing to the fund.

Forty years ago the cry was: "Locate the cotton factory on the edge of the cotton field." But the advice was unheeded. The result is that there are but comparatively few cotton factories in the South.

The Constitution of the United States expressly prohibits the passage by any State of any law impairing the obligation of contracts. The purchase of forty acres of cotton land, under the law of Texas at the time of the transaction, was an implied contract by which the purchaser acquired the right to cultivate all the forty acres in cotton if he saw fit to do so.

We wonder if it can be true, as the despatch says, that Governor Colquitt to the legislature of Texas a law restricting the cultivation of the cotton lands of that state to twenty acres for each grower; and that bills have already been introduced making a criminal offense for any grower to grow more than twenty acres of cotton next season, the penalty being a fine up to $5,000 or imprisonment up to five years or both.

BRAVE MEN, ANCIENT-MODERN.

Every age has had its heroic soldiers. The phalanx of Alexander, the Spartans at Thermopylae, the Legion of Caesar, the Old Guard of Napoleon that "dies but never surrenders," the Light Brigade at Balaklava, the Scots-Grays and the Highlanders at Waterloo, the Alamo, which surpassed Thermopylae, and Pickett's charge at Gettysburg—each in turn have thrilled their times and taken their places among the immortals of history.

There will be four proposed amendments to the constitution to be submitted to the voters of Texas at the regular election on November 3rd, and the most important of the four is that which proposes to pay members of our legislature $1,200 for the year in which each regular session shall be held, payable in equal installments on the twentieth days of January, April, July and October of the year in which the regular session is held, and five dollars for each day of every special session held in the year next succeeding that in which regular sessions are held.

It is impossible for the civilians in peaceful homes to realize how much less to understand, how the soldiers on either side who fight through a living inferno every day go out without blinking to fight through the same inferno tomorrow.

What is it that sustains these citizens—half-civilian, half-soldier—these merchants and tradesmen, these scientists and scholars, these artisans and agriculturists of Europe?

Is it a higher intelligence that destroys the fear of death? Is it a more comprehending patriotism that makes it easy to die for one's country? Is it the greater consciousness of daily living that makes less terrible the thought of dying and resting—anywhere—in trench or grave?

Some philosophy must explain the daily phenomenon of the matchless, uncompensated steadiness with which these composite millions day by day hurl themselves upon bayonet and cannon.

CENSORSHIP IS RIGID

Today's reports indicate that the German cavalry advance is less than thirty miles from Ostend. Their strength is unknown, it is possible that British reinforcements which were unable to reach Antwerp will participate in the defense of Ostend.

CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF PANIC AT ANTWERP

40,000 Terror Stricken People Crowded Wharves in Effort to Board Boats

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 12.—The Daily Chronicle's Antwerp correspondent gives a picture of the panic in the Belgian town and flight of the populace to safety. "Before the bombardment had been long in operation," the correspondent says, "Antwerp's civil population fell into panic. Immense crowds gathered along the quays and in the railroad stations in their efforts to leave the city. Early Thursday morning more than 40,000 had assembled on the quays attempting to take boats bound for Flushing, Rotterdam and other Dutch ports. There were no vessels of any considerable carrying capacity and as no one had made arrangements for a systematic embarkation a wild struggle resulted among the people. The boats were not provided with regular passenger gangways and were boarded by crossing narrow planks. On these the panic-stricken crowds rushed, the strong elbowing the weak out of the way. It was marvellous that there was not a terrible death list resulting from the struggle. Many persons were forced into the water, but their rescue generally was prompt. As far as is known only two women were drowned, one woman suffering from fractured skull sustained in a fall from a plank."

CZAR'S CAMPAIGN TO REACH CRISIS IN NEXT FORTNIGHT

(New York Sun) Jaroslav fell about September 21. In the next few days the world heard of the steady progress of the Russian advance in Galicia toward Cracow. A week ago it was before Tarnobrzeg, which city and behind the Donajec River the Austrians stood in entrenchments, fifty miles east of Cracow. Despite early reports that Coszacks had reached Cracow, it is now clear that at Tarnobrzeg Austrian lines are still holding—that the Russian army of Galicia has been brought to a full stop, while Przemyśl, in its rear, remains unharmed; indeed, Russian reports concede recent sorties.

2648 BALES GINNED AT OLNEY UP TO THURSDAY

We made inquiry at all of the gins this morning as to the amount of cotton ginned, also at the cotton yard as to the number of bales received, and following are the figures: Anderson ginned 1,155 bales; Olney Gin Co. 856; Webb Gin Co. 537; total ginned 2,648. The cotton yard has received just 2,465 bales up to date, while as a rule the yard runs from 1,500 to 2,000 bales ahead of the gins at this time of the year. It is thus seen that lots of the farmers are carrying their cotton home and holding for a higher price. The three gins here have ginned an average of 145 bales per day for the past week, and last Saturday they broke all former records by ginning a total of 189 bales.—Olney Enterprise.

LITTLE RAIN, MUCH WIND WAS WEATHER OFFERING

High Gale Blew Nearly All Sunday Night But No Serious Damage Reported

A little rain and much wind struck Wichita Falls late Sunday night, bringing a sharp change in weather after several days of unseasonably high temperatures. The rain amounted to only .15 inch, according to the government gauge.

Rain fell also along the Denver to the north of this city and down the Wichita Valley as far as Monday, but was very light at all points reporting.

At Greece the roof of the grain elevator was blown off, bringing two Wichita Valley telegraph wires down with it, but the damage was soon repaired.

Locally the damage was confined to the blowing down of several trees. Considerable cotton doubtless has been blown out but the extent of the damage had not been estimated.

Cotton was worth only a little more than six cents in the local market today, there being no demand whatever apparently. The buyers were in hiding and it was a difficult matter to sell cotton at any price.
More cotton is now going into the warehouse receipts having been issued for about 700 bales. Farmers to-day are bringing in reports of damage by last night's windstorm which blow out much of the opened cotton.

RAIN OF SHELLS ON RHEIMS UNCEASING

Germans Keep Up Constant Fire and Occasionally Drop Bombs in City

(By Beach Thomas, correspondent of the New York Sun.) In all the long line of battle across France no place is more deeply sunk in misery than Rheims, which after twenty-eight days is still bombarded daily, upon which German aeroplanes drop an occasional bomb, although at very rare intervals. Shells have fallen into the town every day. Some days many shells fall and some days they are few, but a midday shell or two is seldom omitted.

People are living and dying in vast underground cellars. When they emerge they run the risk of destruction. Three days ago a family of six came out to see their home. Only the baby, six months old, was taken back alive.

The German guns are fired upon a great distance to the east, but they have the range of the town. They did not omit even the cemetery. The bombardment of that place was done with such success that the dead were unburied and coffins tossed to the surface.

A German airman the other day attempted to drop a bomb on people crowding around the post office. Happily he underestimated the distance by thirty yards.

At night the city is pitch dark. The light and water supply, so far as defied, the German engineers. The city is slowly emptying of all people who have any resources. They fill the trains to Paris. Women and children, dog tired and dazed with misfortune, exchange lamentations along the crowded corridors and in the packed compartments.

The Unfortunate War means increased demand for our farm products. "Back to the Land" is one of the popular slogans of the day. Land as the basis of all wealth makes the soundest basis for investment. The only security that is not affected by the fluctuations and uncertainties of business and industrial conditions is real estate. WAR'S NEEDS are not men and munitions alone, but the products of the world's farms—which insures stability of values. Foreign wars cannot take the land away nor seriously affect its value. INVEST when, in farming lands that produce standard crops needed the world over. We can sell you a farm and take in some of your city property as part payment. ONE CARTRIDGE FITS ALL BRITISH RIFLES London, Sept. 25.—(By mail)—The British troops at the front use two kinds of rifles and two kinds of bullets, but only one kind of cartridge. This is an advantage the American army lacked in the Spanish war, when the marines, the regular army and the state volunteers used rifles of different calibres, necessitating three separate kinds of ammunition. The standard arm of the British regulars is the short Lee Enfield. It is a short barreled rifle evolved after the Boer war with a view to a weapon that may be used by infantry and cavalry alike. Its predecessor with a longer barrel is in the hands of the territorial troops. The calibre of both types is .303 and the cartridge is loaded with cordite. The magazine capacity is ten shells in clips. Germany in 1905 adopted the pointed bullet, which has been copied by all the other powers. But England has still a large stock of the old round nosed form. Of the two types, the sharp nosed has the advantage in swiftness, longer range and flatter trajectory. Its muzzle velocity is 2,440 feet a second as against the 2,000 feet of the round nosed. With the German Mauser the initial velocity of 2,800 is still obtained when the sharp bullet is issued, but there is still a supply of the older type of (German ammunition sent to the field. The Mauser bullet has a diameter of .311 and the missile is somewhat heavier than the English. Belgium is armed with the Mauser

9,000 TEUTONS ARE CAPTIVES IN ENGLAND British Officials Believe They Have Destroyed German Espionage System London October 12.—The Official News Bureau has issued the following: "Steps have been taken to deal with German espionage. It was clearly ascertained five or six years ago that the Germans were making great efforts to establish a system of espionage in this country. In order to trace and thwart these efforts a special in- and thwart these efforts a special in- the Admiralty and War Office. This department, acting in close co-operation with the metropolitan police department, was able from 1911 to 1914 to discover the ramifications of the German secret service in England. "Despite the enemy's enormous efforts and lavish expenditure little valuable information reached it. All the agents who were known to be engaged in this traffic were marked and kept under observation. "On August 4 twenty known spies were arrested under instructions from the Home Secretary. In addition 200 suspects were watched and a majority of them were interned soon after the breaking out of the war. "It is believed that this action broke up the spy organization which was established before the war and which has not been reestablished. A rigorous search was made of the houses and clubs of Germans and Austrians, but no stores of arms, bombs or instruments of destruction were found. All Germans and Austrians who were deemed likely to be dangerous have been arrested. Nine thousand Germans and Austrians of military age are now prisoners of war."
