RIOTING IN MEXICO CITY; MUCH DISORDER PREVAILS

Ammunition Stores Are Raided— Police Rendered Powerless—Be- lieved Situation Under Control

By Associated Press.
Mexico City, Nov. 25.—Serious disorder occurred in the capital last night when a mob gathered in front of the national palace. Later they marched to stores where arms and ammunition were kept, battered down the doors and sacked the places. There was much shooting, but the casualties are few.

The police were powerless as the few who remained to guard the city were stripped of their arms by the mob.

Later in the evening the mob which had been constantly growing, broke up into smaller bodies and began looting the pawn shops and other establishments in various parts of the city. The trouble began at six o'clock in the evening and at a late hour still continued. All street car traffic was stopped except the Red Cross service which was taking care of dead and wounded brought in from the fighting around Tacubays.

At eight o'clock bodies of civilians and former federal soldiers formed. They paraded the principal streets and marched to police headquarters and the Brazilian legation where they were armed. It is hoped that this force eventually may be able to control the situation.

ZAPATA FORCES NOW IN CAPITAL ACCORDING TO WASHINGTON ADVICES

By Associated Press.
Washington, Nov. 25.—General Blanco left Mexico at three o'clock yesterday morning and the forces of Zapata immediately took possession of city. Blanco after repeated assurances to the diplomatic corps that he would not evacuate the city, withdrew and immediately the Zapata forces began their entry. These facts were reported today in official telegrams received by the state department.

Although communication with Mexico City is difficult officials here were able to get in touch with their representatives in the capital and no disturbances have been officially reported.

Blanco took away with him all railroad stock that could be used in transporting troops. Most of the wires connecting the capital with the outside world have been cut. General Villa's forces are reported a few miles north of Mexico City and officials here think a joint occupation of the capital with Zapata forces is likely as there is said to be a complete understanding between the two factions.

The forces of Villa according to official telegrams are closing in on Tampico from San Luis Potosi and already have reached the oil fields in the vicinity of Tampico. The Villa advance guard has given assurances that the foreign oil interests will be protected. Recent reports from the state department agents in touch with Zapata officials here to believe the southern chief would maintain order in the city.

LETTER DESCRIBES SUBMARINE ATTACK

CONDITIONS INSIDE UNDERSEA FIGHTERS ARE TOLD BY SAILOR

HARD TO SPEAK OR BREATHE

Orders Are Given By Means of Electric Signals Controlled By Officer

By Associated Press.
The Hague, Nov. 25.—A letter telling of an attack by the German submarine U-26 upon an unmentioned British warship is published by the Zeit. After describing reaching the zone of the British warship the letter says:

"A young lieutenant is posted at the periscope and looks for the enemy. The sailors take their position near the torpedo. The interior of the boat is lighted with two small electric bulbs. They make the darkness visible but give no light. Everywhere is a stale smell of oil. It is impossible to speak to each other because of noise of the engines and the water. The heat is oppressive. From time to time the officer looks at his watch or his compass, both of which he carries on his wrist. Intensely the men all watch the signboard on the wall. The storm raging on the service is making itself felt in the depths.

"We think of the men on board a warship. If his time comes he can go down with a last look at the sun and the blue sky; we see nothing, hear nothing. If the boat is to go down we will suffocate in the darkness under water.

Suddenly we all jump and forget heat, bad air and discomforts. In small lighted letters the sign board says 'attention.' The officer is commanding holds the lever which will release the first torpedo. The sailors make ready to launch the second as soon as the first is launched. A few seconds pass; we must be very near the enemy.

"Suddenly the first sign disappears. Half a second later the red glowing letters say 'fire.' With a jerk the lever releases the torpedo. A short metallic click, the noise of water rushing into the empty tube and all is over. The second torpedo is at once pushed into the tube; a few seconds later and the interior of the submarine looks as before the attack began.

"But what of the first torpedo? Did it reach its goal? Instinctively we all keep count: 100 meters, 200 meters, 300, 400. Under water no sound penetrates. We hear only the noise of our engines. We wait. Suddenly we are all thrown together by the jerky motions of the boat. We are on our way home. The attack has been successful."

ARKANSAS FOREST FIRES ARE CHECKED

By Associated Press.
Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 25.—Fires which have been burning on three sides of Little Rock at a distance of two to ten miles of the city subsided today and with no wind to spread them in the direction of the city, apprehension which first was felt yesterday has been allayed. Some smoke in the city still is very heavy. Nose and throat specialists report a rush of business as a result of irritation caused by the acrid smoke.

From Northwest Chicot and Southwest Drew counties came the most definite reports of fire losses. Near Dermott it is reported miles of cane brakes have been burned, working great loss to hundreds of farmers who depend upon cane as a forage crop for stock.

It was impossible to estimate the loss but it is said the farmers will be hard hit. Many farmers are digging trenches around their farms in the hope of stopping the spread through the grass.

LA FOLLETTE TELLS OF NATION'S DANGERS

WISCONSIN SENATOR ADDRESSES
LARGE CROWD HERE TUES-DAY NIGHT

PROBLEMS THAT TRUSTS BRING

Tells of Growth of Monopoly in Recent Years—Tariff and Other Legislation Discussed

Political problems of the day with an intimate review of national politics of the last twenty years, with special emphasis on the trust question, were discussed by Senator Robert M. La Follette at the Wichita Theatre last night. Senator La Follette spoke for more than two hours and held the interest of his audience to the last. He was introduced by Hon. A. H. Garrigan who told briefly of Senator La Follette's distinguished public services and characterized him as one of the most courageous men in America, too big to be called a partisan.

The speaker devoted most of his address to the growth of the trusts and the problems that they presented. He placed the blame for their existence today on the Roosevelt administration, declaring that if Roosevelt had used the Sherman anti-trust act as was his duty to do the trusts would have been destroyed. There were 160 trusts, he said, when Roosevelt went into office; when he went out there were 8,000. When he went into office, the speaker said, the capitalization of the trusts was $400,000,000; at the end of his term it was $1,400,000,000, of which about 70 per cent was water. Payment of interest on this watered capitalization, the speaker declared, was the chief cause of the high cost of living.

He defended the principle of a protective tariff, but denounced the Dingley and the Payne-Aldrich tariffs. He said he had voted for the Underwood tariff bill as being a great deal better than the bill it succeeded. He believed the Underwood tariff gave a reasonable amount of protection on most articles with a few exceptions. He said he believed the bill was not fair to the agricultural classes of the country. His declaration that there should be as much tariff on farm products as manufactured products received considerable applause. One man applauded when he said he favored a tax on raw sugar. He had given praise and placed censure on the administration.

"The currency bill," he said, "was the gravest mistake of the administration. It legalized the money power; it placed the finances of the country under its control by law."

The income tax bill and the Clayton bill were praised. He expected that the progressive forces within the Republican party would nominate the presidential candidate of that party in 1916 and that Wilson as the Democratic candidate there wouldn't be any need of much worry about the future. At another time he declared that the results of the recent election called for "the bravest work and most fearless fighting liberty-loving people have had in fifteen years."

Senator La Follette started his address by quoting from Washington and Jefferson's views on "Representative Government" his theme.

Reviews Political History.
"For a period of 50 years following the drafting of the constitution of the United States," he said, "all business was conducted along fair and legitimate lines. Corporations were first organized along representative lines similar to the plan of government. Equality was then the basic principle of the government and competition, supply and demand that of business."

"Soon after the formation of the corporations," he said, "something happened. This new institution of business had to have legislation. The old system did not require it. Representatives were sent to the seat of government to secure the desired laws. That was all right, but it didn't stop there. The legislation that was necessary to the things new business methods required, were added things that were not needed. Special privileges were asked for. Maybe these representatives of business were met half way by the so-called representatives of the people. Anyway, the legislators became tainted—enough of them to corrupt the entire lump.

"In an evil hour, this new business machine conceived the idea of setting aside the natural laws that had previously controlled business. Competition was destroyed, and the great American market was controlled. Prices were placed up to the very limit of the purchasing power of the people.

"Then there came another move. The combinations were combined. Today, a little more than a half dozen men control the railroads; only a few more control the entire business of the country."

"This condition," he declared, "will have to be remedied. If not, it will destroy the very government itself. But skill will have to be exercised in applying the knife that cuts away the unhealthy growth. A rough rider or a bull moose can't do it.

DESTRUCTION OF SUEZ CANAL IS THREATENED

English Warships In Waterway In Danger Of Being Bottled Up; Turks Rout Defenders

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Nov. 25.—The British Indian troops along the Suez canal have been repulsed according to a report from Milan and the Turks are advancing with heavy batteries to destroy the constructive works of the canal and bottle up the British warships now in the waterway.

NO CONFIRMATION YET OF REPORTED RUSSIAN VICTORY

New And Important Attack In Flanders Thought Near—Allies Protest To U. S. About Colombia

By Associated Press.
London, Nov. 25.—Great Britain and France have appealed to the United States to exert its good offices to compel Colombia to observe more strictly the requirements of neutrality. Otherwise the allies it was announced in the House of Commons today will be compelled in self defense to take whatever measures may be found necessary for the protection of their interests.

Russian reports the last two days of an important victory are at variance with an official statement issued today from Berlin. There was no indication in today's German statement that decisive results had been attained. It said a counter-offensive move between the Vistula and Watra had failed. It also said all Russian attacks were repulsed in East Prussia and against Cracow and the Galician frontier. Private dispatches from Petrograd say the Russians have made an important forward move on the Czenstchowa-Cracow line. The Russians declare they are still on the offensive on the mail battle ground between the Vistula and Watra and that heavy losses have been inflicted on the retreating enemy.

Portugal's decision to send the military forces to the aid of the allies when such action is necessary has been received with enthusiasm throughout the country. There were no indications when this move would be made.

The destruction of Germany's naval base at Zeebrugge by shell fire from British and French warships together with Germany's preparations for renewed attempts to go through the allied line to the coast were the most significant news coming to hand today from the western arena. It is now felt that there is little danger of an overseas raid. Additional news dispatches make it apparent that the damage at Zeebrugge was far more extensive than at first supposed.

Some reports received in London say the Germans already have started an attack in Flanders more intense and formidable than any hitherto undertaken. It is apparent that the Germans have been carefully preparing this move. It is said the invaders have gone ahead with their plans openly, keeping secret only the point of attack. Military observers think the next onslaught will be particularly menacing because the Germans profiting by the mistakes previously made will keep far enough from the coast to avoid the naval guns and will not waste their energy by advancing at several points at the same time but will concentrate all their efforts on one spot where they hope to break through by the weight of numbers.

Having shattered the German Guard when it essayed the feat, however, the allies say they have every reason to face the present situation with confidence. London expects the next few days will see the most deadly encounters of the war. Heavy fighting continues in the Argonne, the out-

The Lydia Margaret.
The three Millards and Anania Hendricks, who will make up the vaudeville bill at the Lydia Margaret, will close their engagement tonight. Both of the acts are clever and provide a good half hour of amusement. Today's pictures include "The Excavator," a Kalem two-part drama, full of heart interest and pathos, and "Carmen's Wash Day," a charming Sterling juvenile comedy.

The Empress.
Pearl White and Crane Wilbur, two of the most popular of the movie actors playing in any series, are to be seen again today in "The Perils of Pauline." A bull terrier plays an important part in this "peril," which is the third from the last. Winnifred Greenwood and Ed Coxon are seen in "Daphnia," a two-part American, and the program is completed by a Key-stone comedy.

The Majestic.
The ninth of the "Troy o' Hearts" series is showing today; also "At the Risk of His Life," a Selig melodrama, featuring Bessie Epton. A George Ade comedy, "The Girl Who Got Busy," completes the program. Serda Holmes and Richard Travers are featured. Clara was no longer a Spring Chick, and when she passed the Thirty Mark, she began to worry for fear that she could never hope in a Bread Earner, so she got busy. There was one chap in particular who looked awfully good to her, but the younger girls and on the pretext of visiting her, almost to keep Clara out of his way. Finally Clara got rid of her competitors in the Man Hunt when they all went to a summer resort. She was surrounded by suitors, and Mr. Gibbs was very much in evidence. The afternoon that followed was a repetition of the first day, while the girls up at the lake were making a fuss over some little Freshman. When they returned they found Clara wearing a $400 Rock, presented to her by Friend Gibbs. Moral: Woman is never dangerous until she attacks single-handed.

The Gem.
"The Double Life," a two-part drama is featured here today.
Cora Tracey, proprietor of a gambling resort in the city, has one touch of softness in her nature—her love for Alice, her young daughter, who she keeps in the country, in ignorance of her real life. Cora visits her secretly, and is bullied by her partner, Hollister, to tell where she goes. Alice meets David Ritchie, a country boy, and they become attached to each other. Hollister traces Cora and forces himself upon mother and daughter. Cora objects to Hollister's admiration for Alice. David arrives in the city to purchase his mother a present and is deceived by Cora. He is flogged and ejected by Hollister and Cora. Hollister later motors out to see Alice and on the pretext of visiting her mother he takes her to the city. David sees the departure, recognizes Hollister and follows to protect Alice. Hollister takes the girl to a private room and telephones Cora, asking if he may marry Alice. Cora scornfully rebuffs the idea, and Hollister, enraged, embraces Alice, who screams, and Hollister drags her to the telephone, forcing her head close to the transmitter. At the other end of the wire Cora hears her daughter's cries. Alice releases herself and hurls the telephone in Hollister's face. She implores him to take her to her mother. Hollister resolves to play his trump card. He hurries Alice to the gambling house. David attempts to bar their entrance. Alice recognizes her mother as the proprietor. She rushes to her and they embrace. Cora is begging Alice not to cast her off when the policemen, informed by David, raid the place. Hollister switches off the lights and hurries Alice through an underground passage. Cora misses the two and fears the worst. She starts in pursuit, followed by David. Cora overtakes Hollister and attacks him. Hollister is choking her to death, heedless of Alice's screams, when the policemen and David tear Cora from him. Hollister is arrested, as is Cora. Alice flings herself into her mother's arms. "Cora makes her supreme sacrifice. 'I lied to you—there is no tie between us. At dawn David and Alice, back in the country, point to the rising sun as an omen of their future."
"The Loyalty of Jumbo," a Selig animal picture, featuring Baby Lillian Wade and the Selig jungle animals, is also on the program.

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

The Greatest Gift.
I thank thee that the sight of sunlit lands
And dipping hills, the breath of evening grass—
That wet, dark rocks and flowers in my hands
Can give me daily gladness as I pass.
I thank thee that I love the things of earth;
Ripe fruits and laughter, lying down to sleep,
The shine of the lighted towns, the graver worth
Of beating human hearts that laugh and weep.
I thank thee that as yet I need not know,
Yet need not fear the mystery of the end;
But more than all through all these should go—
Dear Lord, this on my knees! I thank Thee for my friend.

Recipe for Walnut Dressing
(By Mrs. O. E. Johnson, Fort Worth)
Two cups of shelled walnuts, chop the kernels very fine; then add them to a dressing made of one quart stale bread crumbs, four tablespoonful butter, salt and pepper to taste and yolks of two eggs beaten lightly. Fill the turkey a little more than half full; sew up the vents; cover with a paste made of butter and flour and place in a moderately hot oven to roast. If an uncovered dripping pan is used, place the giblets in with the turkey, then fill the pan full of boiling water; use this to baste the turkey every fifteen minutes until it begins to cook; then baste every ten minutes.

D. 1914, at a regular quarterly term of our said Court, we have compared and examined the quarterly report of T. W. McHARRIS, Treasurer of Wichita County, Texas, for the quarter beginning on the 1st day of August, A. D. 1914, and ending on the 31st day of October, A. D. 1914, and finding the same correct have caused an order to be entered upon the minutes of the Commissioners' Court of Wichita County, stating the approval of said Treasurer's Report by our said Court, which said order recites separately the amount received and paid out of each fund by said County Treasurer since his last report to this Court, and for and during the time covered by his present report, and the balance of each fund remaining in said Treasurer's hands on the 31st day of October, A. D. 1914, and have ordered the proper credits to be made in the accounts of the said County Treasurer, in accordance with said order as required by Article 367, Chapter 3, Title XXV, of the Revised Statutes of Texas, as amended by an act of the Twenty-fifth Legislature of Texas, at its regular session, approved March 20, 1897. And we, and each of us, further certify that we have actually and fully inspected and counted all the actual cash and assets in hands of the said Treasurer belonging to Wichita County at the close of the examination of said Treasurer's Report, on this, the 13th day of November, A. D. 1914, and find the same to be as follows, to-wit:

HAD ENOUGH OF NEW YORK

Dressmaker From Indiana Formed Mighty Poor Opinion of the Great Metropolis.

She was a middle aged person from the rural districts and evidenced health in her appearance and perfect digestion in her breakfast, which consisted of ham and eggs with catchup on them. The catchup made even the waitress wince. Her trouble was entirely of the mind, but it was acute. "What I want to know," she said to the waitress, according to a New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star, "is how there's so many people in New York when most of 'em, so far as I see, could get away if they wanted to. I come here to see th' fashions, actin' on the advice of friends, though I run a dressmakin' establishment 20 years in Vevey, Indiana, without never comin' to New York an' ain't never comin' again. If I ever took back th' fashions I seen here to Vevey, I'd lose every customer I've got an' probably git put out o' the church. New York ain't nothin' but a regular swindle anyway, from end to end an' from before breakfast to lockin' up time. I was supposed to git a quiet room in a convenient neighborhood. When I got there it was over a shoottin' gallery, an' th' things that neighborhood was convenient fur ain't nothin' for you an' me to speak of. I moved quick an' they wouldn't give me back the deposit I sent when I wrote to engage th' room. But I ain't gonna undertake to tell ye about all th' little things like that that happened to me. That's New York. But I want to tell ye one thing: When I git back to Vevey—and I'm a-goin' today—I'm gonna put a sign right in my window that people that want New York fashions kin go to New York an' git 'em. Vevey's good enough for me."

BAD EFFECT OF SMOKY AIR

Neither Animals Nor Vegetation Flourish in the Vicinity of Large Manufacturing Plants.

Whether live stock is likely to suffer from living in the neighborhood of railroad yards, industrial plants and large manufacturing centers, was the question that the Leeds (Eng.) university—proposed to Yorkshire farmers, and the answers showed the affirmative not only for animals but also for concerns grass and other plants. It appears that the growth of young stock is kept back under such conditions, and in the case of old stock or horses these are seen to require much more care and food than those which live in a pure air. Such effects on animals are due partly to the direct action of the vitiated air when taken into the lungs and on the other hand by the very poor quality of grass that grows here, as it cannot develop under good conditions. Sheep raising is found to be specially difficult in these places, even impossible. Near Leeds, this had to be discontinued, for the wool was of very poor quality, besides being full of impurities of various kinds. Thus it appears that the same general rules apply to animals as to human beings under such circumstances.—Scientific American.

Japan's Paper Underclothing.

The Japanese are now making underclothing of finely crimped or grained paper, the New York Weekly states. After the paper has been cut to a pattern, the different parts are sewn together and hemmed, and the places where the buttonholes are to be formed are strengthened with calico or linen. The paper is very strong and at the same time very flexible. After a garment has been worn a few hours it will interfere with the perspiration of the body no more than do garments made of cotton fabric. The paper is not sized, nor is it impermeable. After becoming wet the paper is difficult to tear. When an endeavor is made to tear it by hand it presents almost as much resistance as the thick skin used for making gloves.

Fault in Education.

One regrettable fact about the advanced education of many young persons is that they have been alienated from their homes and families and the "old-fashioned" ways of the latter. The tragedy of this cult which school and college have created between students and their parents is known only to the mothers and fathers who have endured it. Usually, also, the explanation is that the children have not won to even the beginnings of wisdom, else they would value the real worth of the parents whose greatness of loyalty and service and sacrifice is beyond the power of the schools to bestow. Any education which makes a boy ashamed of his mother and father is a bad education.

Napoleon's Pen-Wiper.

According to the biographers of Napoleon, his breeches were always of white cashmere. It often happened that two hours after leaving his chamber the breeches were spotted with ink by reason of the Corsican's habit of wiping his pen on them and of shaking ink all around him. It was a favorite trick of his to strike his pen against the edge of a table and, of course, the breeches suffered. Furthermore, it appears that, however the great man dressed in the morning, that was his dress for the whole day, since he would not change his toilet until nightfall. The inside of his boots was lined with white fustian.

IS EJECTED FROM TRAIN, SUES RAILROAD FOR $3000

Jack Kelly Takes Prompt Action When He Is Put Off After Quarrel With Auditor

At 5:15 yesterday morning Jack E. Kelly, oil man of this city, was ejected from a Wichita Falls and North-western passenger train near Devol, Oklahoma. Before five o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Kelly had filed suit against the railway company in the district court here for $3000 damages, charging gross and wanton negligence.

In his complaint Mr. Kelly says that at about 4 a. m. yesterday from the company's agent at Wichita Falls he bought a ticket to Frederick, Oklahoma. A WAY OUT

A Resident of Wichita Falls Shows the Way. There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache: Liniment and plasters may relieve it. But they seldom reach the cause. Backache is cause to suspect the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys. Wichita Falls people back them up. Read a case of it. Mrs. W. M. Langford, 309 Lee St. Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "At Times my back was so painful that I could not sleep. I had pains in my sides and when I got up in the morning I was more tired than when I went to bed. My kidneys were weak. Doan's Kidney Pills promptly relieved all the pains and strengthened my kidneys. Since then I have taken a box of Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally and they have kept my kidneys in good working order."

STATE TEACHERS MEET AT SAN ANTONIO TOMORROW

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, Nov. 25.—That there may be a large attendance at the annual convention of Texas State Teachers' Association, which convenes at San Antonio tomorrow, Prof. W. F. Doughty has recommended to city and county school superintendents and school boards that they declare a holiday from this afternoon until next Monday. He points out that tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day, is a legal holiday and there is, of course, no school Saturday, consequently only one day—Friday—would be lost. If this plan is carried out it will give teachers three days in which to attend the San Antonio convention and be back at their schools the following Monday. Prof. Doughty expects between 4,000 and 5,000 teachers at the convention which lasts three days.

Cutting the Corners. To save steps is all right. Buying Cheap Clothes. To save money is all wrong. There's a big difference between Buying and Being Sold! You'd laugh at the clothes they wear in Berlin, you'd revolt at the wrinkly styles of London, Paris or Petrograd, nor would you take to the styles of Rome, Madrid or Vienna. (They're all right in their pace.) So Are Cheap Clothes. But cheap clothes are not what you are looking for. You want Exact Fit and Tailored Grace Combined with Style and Good Material.

Christmas Problem Solved

Mrs. Smith in despair thinks of many people whom she must remember. She well knows Mr. Smith's attitude concerning bills for expensive presents. Having made a list of names she goes shopping and with poor results. She comes home at night and lies down worn out. After a series of fitful dreams, a brilliant idea presents itself and the very next day she carries it out and does not wait till the Christmas rush is on. She goes immediately to the studio of Beatty and Havis and has Mr. Havis make several negatives of herself. When she sees the proofs they are all so good and life-like that she has no trouble in making a selection for they were the best. When she goes to see that night it was with the happy thought that her greatest yearly problem had been solved. When Mr. Smith sees the bill he is so pleased with her remarkable economy that he spends the evening in a beautiful present for her, and each friend to whom she sends one of her pictures will respond in kind. "TREY O'HEARTS" TODAY You know where

IF OUR

City Cemetery were left to a lot of old grumps and grouches it would make a fairly good dumping ground for city debris, and I am thinking if it were not for the persistent effort of a few good citizens, we would not be able to point with pride to this silent place. Even with our best efforts there are a lot of citizens who are droning on the busy ones, and the only way they can locate their graves is by the location of some one's monument that they know is near. Isn't it sad the only thing some contribute towards such sacred grounds is complaints and fault finding. Such contributions distinguish character, but they don't beautify our BURIAL GROUNDS. Should you wake up and need us, we would be glad to serve you.

With the Wild Igorrotes

IGORROTE CHIEFS

ANY one who visits the Igorrotes of northern Luzon has the rare pleasure of being transported back into a prehistoric age. He is able to see many customs and practices in actual use which have long since vanished from western countries.

Among the Benaguets the marriage ceremony is celebrated by smearing the blood of the sacrificial animals on the faces of the members of the two families. This ceremony is performed by some old woman who has been asked to act as high priestess for the happy occasion.

The Igorrotes are a manly and sturdy people. They are courageous, frank and open hearted. They look you squarely in the eye and have none of the cunning, scheming looks which are so often found among oriental peoples.

When an Igorrote dies the family of the decedent set the corpse up in a chair and drape over it the funeral blanket. Then they build a fire under the corpse and smoke it until it is mummified. If the deceased is the father of the house they place his favorite pipe in his mouth and set food before him daily.

Have Their Own Courts.

Every village and town has its own court, or board of arbitration, composed of the old men of the village. Any one who has a grievance can come to this court and secure a hearing.

When the time for burial arrives the children speak to the corpse and say: "Dear father, we will place you in the position in which you were born and carry you to your resting place."

Prof. A. Keith has made a careful study of certain portraits of the poets Shakespeare and Burns and has compared them with prehistoric skulls found in England.

He finds that the two national poets are representative of two of the most divergent of European stocks.

If the term "Celt" is used in the same sense as it is employed on the continent of Europe, then Shakespeare must be called a Celt—a descendant of the round-headed people who invaded England in the bronze age.

Burns is from the western fringe, equally called Celtic, but which is pre-Celtic. He comes of the long-headed stock which inhabited England before the bronze age—probably before the neolithic age dawned.

Possibly the extraordinary difference in the working of their brains is to be explained by the diversity of their racial origin.

Splendid Work of Red Cross. Twelve millions of dollars have been dispensed in charity by the American Red Cross in the last nine years. In this period, beginning in 1905, when the Red Cross was reincorporated, there have been more than seventy-five disasters caused by earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, fires, floods, mine explosions and wars in this and other countries.

The oil fields of Apscheron are situated to the south of the Caucasus Mountains, and are separated from Asia Minor by a rough mountainous country with almost no avenues of communications between them.

ALL BELONG TO ARYAN RACE

Many Peoples of the Present Day Trace Their Origin to That Group of Humanity.

All the people who speak English, German, Russian, French, Spanish, Italian, Welsh, Erse or Irish, Scotch of Gaelic, and some of the Asiatic languages, trace their origin back to the old Aryan race, says an exchange. It used to be thought that the Aryans came from some point in Asia several thousands of years ago. But now certain people claim that their home was in the southern steppes of Russia; and that the Indian and Persian branch went toward the east, the Slavs and Teutons into the German forests, and the Greeks toward Greece; while the forefathers of the Celts and Romans followed the Danube river into Italy and Gaul.

It is a curious thought, that seems to have occurred to no one, that many of the Aryan peoples are coming together again in the United States, for the first time since their separation thousands of years back. It will take centuries for their amalgamation in what has been called the "melting pot;" but doubtless the homogenous people thus descended will be the greatest people in the world.

ECONOMY IN NEW PROCESS

Small Brass Pieces Are Now Compressed in Steel Molds, Instead of by Old Method.

In some of the modern European electric construction works, molding machines turn out millions of small brass pieces such as the industry requires. Compression of brass pieces in steel molds has now supplanted the old method of casting, for turning out such pieces in brass or bronze. Formerly a sand mold had to be made for each piece, but now a single steel mold serves for thousands of pieces. In this process are used brass bars whose section is chosen after experience so as to be best adapted for shape and size of the finished piece, then a section is cut off the bar to length, and the piece is heated to redness in a furnace, then molded at high pressure in the steel mold.

Audiences With Sovereigns.

The right of subjects laboring under a grievance to claim a personal audience with their sovereign is fully recognized in a far less democratic country than ours. Ever since his accession the Emperor Francis Joseph was accustomed to set apart one day a week on which he personally received petitions. Although care was taken to exclude those seeking to gain admission on purely frivolous pretenses, there was but little formality on those days.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight.

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year. Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and help build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.

Write to: Chattanooga Medicine Co., Ladies' Aid Society, Dept. Cardui, Chattanooga, Tenn. For Brochure and Instructions on your card and through book, "The Woman's Friend," sent to please wrapper, 10c.

LIKE AN ANGRY SEA

German Onslaught in France Described by Briton

Kaiser's Infantry, a Great Mass of Human Machine Guns, Sweeps on With Overwhelming, Irresistible Force

By WILLIAM MAXWELL

International News Service Correspondent in France.—I am permitted to give some interesting extracts from a story of the war, so far as it has gone, culled from the diary of a British infantry officer who received his baptism of fire at Mons.

"I have often been told," writes the officer, "that shell fire is not so dangerous as it sounds, but axioms of this kind do not console one under a hail of shrapnel, bullets, and steel shrapnel. I had a sickening sensation in the stomach. We hung on until the enemy's infantry came in sight—gray masses of men advancing rapidly and firing rifles from their hips. Then so many machine guns pumping out lead.

"We let them enter one of the main avenues, and then opened fire with what effect we were too busy to notice.

"I was in my first time under fire, and any one who tells me he has no strange emotions at such a moment must be a liar.

"Thrice the German masses flung themselves against us. Thrice we hurled them back with heavy losses.

"We held on for an hour, till they got their guns on our flank, and then we were obliged to retire, but they had got such a shock that they let us get clear."

Later the officer writing of operations around Maubeuge states:

"The Germans were making desperate effort to work around and drive us into Maubeuge, but after Namur we were shy of any fortified towns, and determined that Maubeuge should not be our Sedan. To avoid this turning movement and escape being bottled up within useless stone walls, we retreated—always on the right flank.

"Between Daudry and Le Cateau we had a hell of a time. The enemy swept down on us like a tempestuous sea, wave after wave. They were at least ten to one, and the more we killed the more they seemed to grow.

"Our artillery did splendid work. Never shall I admire men more than those silent gunners who kept pounding away under a murderous hail of shell and bullets, often without infantry in front of them. Their calm valor was a revelation and an example.

"That whole day was one long nightmare. The terrible storm broke over us, and the roar of thunder and flash of lightning added to the horrors of a retreat along a road where lead splattered the earth like raindrops.

"Infantry and transport were mixed up in wild confusion. How any one comes through it alive is a miracle.

"General Smith-Dorrien and his army corps saved us. Throwing themselves across the path of the Germans, they pinned them to the ground. We could not see, but we could hear and feel the bloody barrier they raised between us and death, and a thrill ran through our ragged lines.

"At last we got to cover and made a stand. We caught some of the enemy coming out of a wood. We piled up their dead with unflinching fire, and we started to take some prisoners.

"Then we drove on again, always to the rear. How different were our feelings a few days before, when we had marched singing over those roads, welcomed by smiling, hospitable peasants and townfolk, who now watched us with blanched faces and with fear in their eyes.

"During the night some French cavalry moved over to our left and relieved the pressure for a time, but in the morning the whole of our line was again attacked with fury and our front was a mass of bursting shells. The onslaught was irresistible. Our lines collapsed under the terrible hail of steel and shrapnel, but close to the town our retreat was splendidly covered by cavalry and artillery.

"A division of cavalry rode forward to check the enemy, and behind them the guns bounded like things of life. It looked like a forlorn hope. Their officers shook hands, feeling they were going to certain death, yet they said not a word and never faltered a moment. I would have given words to have been in the glorious charge they made.

"While the cavalry and guns galloped out to face a fearful odds we continued our retreat to Malincourt, southwest of Le Cateau, shells bursting all the way 800 yards on our right, and thence to Beaufort, north of St. Quentin. It was a awful march, for we were terribly exhausted. Men dozed while they walked and officers slept in the saddle.

Ended March in Ragtime.

"We left Beaufort at four o'clock in the morning. A few hours' sleep worked wonders, for though their feet were bleeding and they were still without rations, the men sang ragtime while they were marching.

Pas de Calais is typical of all industrial France. The department contains 2,606 square miles and supports more than a million people. Its channel coast is thickly settled with villages of fisher folk, many of the French herring and mackerel sold in this country by dealers in fine groceries coming from there. The greater part of the French coal output comes from fields in this department. In that particular it is the Pennsylvania of France and like Pennsylvania has its great Pittsburg iron foundries. Much beet sugar is manufactured and brewing and paper making are two other important industries. Most interesting of all, however, is the machine made lace industry of Calais which is chiefly a lace town. Nearly everyone there earns his or her living in some branch of this industry, designing the lace sorts, tending the almost human machines which weave the complex patterns as handily and as well as could be done by hand, finishing, dyeing, carding and selling the output to buyers from all corners of the world. After taking rank as a tourist port and as the nearest foreign port to England, Calais is known to the world as the center of manufacture for the Calais woven laces.

From the tower of the Church of Notre Dame, at Boulogne, one may, in fair weather, view the white cliffs of the English coast. The town of Arras, now the scene of the main German attack, is situated in the southeastern corner of the department, at the junction of two important railway lines and has had a long history. In the fourth century it was famous for its woolen cloth and in the Middle Ages its tapestries had a right reputation, many of them going preserved to England.

Government of Baku.—A little peninsula jutting out into the Caspian Sea which is one of the centers of the petroleum industry of the world. It is called Apsheron and belongs to the Russian Empire. For hundreds of miles up and down the water, departing from Apsheron, the coastal lines of the Caspian Sea are almost sternly self-repressed, meeting in the oil region to form the farthest eastern projection of the west Caspian coast. The peninsula is dry and monotonous, distinguished for three things—its oil, its sand wastes and its wind storms.
