Civilian Army Of 400,000 Men Planned By Ex-President Roosevelt

New York, March 3.—Plans for the formation of a reserve army of 400,000 trained men to prepare the Nation for war were formally announced at Governor's Island.

The new organization will be known as the American Legion. It will be composed of men who have seen service on land and sea for the Nation, as well as those whose special training as engineers, aviators, railroad men, telegraphers, chauffeurs, etc., will make them of peculiar value in any emergency that may arise.

While not specifically backed by the United States Government, this practical move to put the Nation in a state of preparedness is launched from Governor's Island, headquarters of the Department of the East, United States Army, and has the strong endorsement of Major General Wood, commanding the department, whose aide de camp, Captain Gordon Johnstone, is one of the active organizers of the legion. The offices of the legion will also be located on Governor's Island.

On the executive committee and board of honorary advisers, the personnel of which is to be announced as soon as the charter has been secured, will be included former President Roosevelt and other men of National prominence, among them several ex-Secretaries of War and the Navy, former United States Senators, ex-Governors, college presidents, etc.

In accepting the position of chairman of the honorary board of advisers, Colonel Roosevelt has pledged himself and his four sons to immediate membership in the legion, which involves immediate active service on the outbreak of hostilities.

Announcing the formation of the legion, a patriotic organization for National defense, the statement issued from Governor's Island says:

"Can't Be Sure of Peace
"No one can be sure this country will not be dragged into war. Therefore it is only common sense to provide against that ugly possibility. A man may be pretty sure his home will not burn, but he insures it, just the same.

"Those who still believe we are prepared for war can not be convinced by argument, since they have not been convinced by cold facts recently made public," says the announcement. "The rest of us who accept the cold facts must act without their help."

Discussing the formal plan Captain Johnstone said:

"Every year there are discharged from the service 200,000 men after the regular 3-year enlistment period about twenty thousand men. From the navy 20,000 marine corps there are probably fifteen thousand or more yearly turned back into civil life. The plan is simply to keep track of these men—which the Government does not now do—by forming them into a patriotic organization pledged to service in time of need. To these it is proposed to add all the men of special training that can be secured, bound also by a similar pledge. Under the plan, as can readily be seen, there will soon be indexed, according to their training, fitness and experience, an army of several hundred thousand men, who can be turned over to the Government at a moment's notice. Involved in the plan, also are details for card indexing the number and location of all the motor cars, aeroplanes and other equipment with men to operate them, in every part of the United States. We simply propose to put into practice the advance details for speedy mobilization which is practiced by all the governments of Europe, but which our Government has never adopted.

"Under the application of the plan we shall be able on the outbreak of hostilities to turn over to the Government an army of 300,000 or 400,000 men, well trained and disciplined, with valuable equipment for instant use.

Fine Fighting Forces
"The value of such a force in reserve has been illustrated in the present war in Europe. The first men sent out by England were cut to pieces literally in the early campaign in France. But following right behind them came reserves which had been formed just as we propose to form this one, and these, about seventy thousand of them, proved to be the finest fighting force England has put into the field."

Presenting the details of the plan issued from Governor's Island says:

"The line of the legion will be composed exclusively of men who have had army or navy service or who can handle a high power rifle and are seasoned in that line of soldiering."

MANY RESIDENTS OF STANISLAU PUT TO DEATH

By Associated Press.

Limberg, Galicia, March 3.—When the Austrians recaptured the town of Stanislaw in Galicia they condemned like 300 civilians according to trustworthy information brought to Limberg. Among the executed were two Polish restaurant proprietors and a number of railroad laborers. All had been warned by the Russian authorities, the Russians having been in possession of Stanislaw, to leave there prior to the coming of the Austrians, but the men refused, relying on their Austrian citizenship for protection. The Austrians are said to have come into Stanislaw with prepared lists of citizens upon whom they had decided to inflict punishment for alleged offenses against the State. Hundreds of prisoners including Poles and Turks are arriving daily in Limberg from the south.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continually.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

"If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

"PEG O' MY HEART" IS TO BE HERE MARCH 11

"Peg O' My Heart" which comes to the Wichita Theatre on March 11 with Marion Dentler as Peg, is the kind of play which should be encouraged in the theatre. If societies were formed to further such plays instead of the so-called social educational plays which are more or less popular with society just now, enjoyment would be greatly enhanced and humanity would be made much happier. The philosophy of "Peg" is just as deep, just as true and every bit as pertinent as may be found in any of the vice plays and its educational value is much greater. The people who could be taught by dramatization of the underworld never go to the theatre, whereas no one who sees "Peg O' My Heart" can help being benefitted.

FOOTBALL PLAYER SUCCEUMS TO INJURIES

At The Theaters

The Lydia Margaret.
The bills closing today embraces two most excellent vaudeville acts. Anita Frinco in her act de luxe makes several quick changes, changing from various characters in a few minutes time, the change being made in full view of the audience. A number of interesting character studies are included in her act. George Frodo, a German comedian and musician, arrived to have one of the most popular offerings seen here in some time. Today's picture program includes a two part Kalem, "The Scorpion's Sting" featuring Harry Millard and Althea Hollister and a comedy, "The Magic Mirror."

The Majestic.
"The Master Key" No. 8, "The Champion Bear Slayer," a Selig comedy and a George Ade comedy, "The Fable of the City Grafter and the Unprotected Rubes" makes up today's program.

The Empress.
"Mignon" the California Feature Film production is proving a big success every where it is shown. After being shown at the Columbia Theatre, Portland, Ore., the manager sent the following wire to the Seattle branch of the World Film Corporation:
"Just finished the Mignon recital given under the auspices of the Oregon Chapter Guild of Organists and your picture 'Mignon' made a big hit. Everybody was enthusiastic and knew Mischelela success assured. We had approximately one thousand representative people present, including the family of Mayor Albee and others of prominence."
This Beatriz Mischelela film is the attraction billed for this theatre today.

The Gem.
William Stowell and Edwin Wallock with Miss Warner of the Selig company are featured in a drama, "In the Line of Duty." A synopsis follows:
Helen Brant, society editor on a newspaper, is engaged to marry Robert Carter, who practices in secret the vocation of a clever jewel thief. Carter stations Mickey Turner, an accomplice, outside a house where he is attending a society function and he passes through the window to Mickey a diamond pendant which he has stolen from Miss Lamont, a guest. Mickey hastens away from the house and collides with Helen Brant, who has been assigned to "write up" the function for the newspaper. Mickey drops his pocketbook and Helen picks it up.
Helen examines the pocketbook which she found the night before and discovers pawn-tickets which lead her to trace the owner of the pocketbook to Mickey. In following up her clue, she finds Carter and Mickey at a guilty conference. Her conscience dominates her love for Carter and she exposes him to the police.

CARE OF THE EYES.

Health As Well as Beauty Demands That Eyes Get Attention

The woman who takes care of herself should give as much attention to her eyes as she does to her skin and to her hair. In the first place, after driving or being in the dust of the city or country she should wash or bathe her eyes with tepid water. This removes the irritating dust or small particles. After reading or before going to bed she should bathe the eyes with salt water or lipid water to which is added a pinch of salt and using an eye-cup, will be surprised at the difference in the sparkle of the eyes. If inflamed they should be bathed several times a day. The dull, sunken eyes, the hollow circles and the hollow complexion of many women is due, however, to the complaints and diseases peculiar to women. The best thing I know for this is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, because it is a temperance tonic, being made of roots and herbs with pure glycerine. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and banishes pain. Dr. Pierce publishes the ingredients on the wrapper so it is not a secret and it has seen many women cured by it and not only that, but the dull sunken eyes, the sunken cheeks and bust, have taken on a sparkle and healthful appearance. Thousands of women have testified to having been cured of womanly diseases by the prescription. It speedily causes all womanly troubles to disappear, compels the organs to properly perform their natural functions, corrects displacements, overcomes irregularities, removes pain and misery at certain times and brings back health and strength to nervous, irritable and exhausted women.

It banishes pain, headache, backache, low spirits, hot flashes, dragging down sensations, worry and sleeplessness surely and without loss of time.

Keep the bowels healthy by using Dr. Pierce's pellets. They don't gripe. (Adv't)

Satisfied Patrons

Are a valuable asset to any business. Our patrons had reason to expect in our Wednesday specials something far above the average in giving them

Clara Kimball Young in "Lola," Vivian Martin in the "Wishing Ring," Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," Robert Warwick in "The Dollar Mark."

We believe we have fully satisfied the large houses that have seen these big productions. Tomorrow however we have a feature that even surpasses any of the above, both in dramatic action and beautiful scenery.

Beatrice Michelena in Mignon

The Queen theatre in Dallas naturally selected the best production, in their minds, on the calendar to celebrate their grand opening after installing a $20,000 pipe organ. They had plenty of time and opportunity to get one of the very best, and that was "MIGNON," which they run three consecutive days to record breaking crowds, turned people away each day that they could not accommodate, must have merit to make such record where competition is as strong as it is in Dallas.

You will not make any mistake in seeing this Picture today for the small sum of only 10c and 15c

EXCITEMENT AT THRALL RECALLS TIMES AT ELECTRA

New Field Looks Very Attractive To Operators—Many From This Section Watching

W. J. Sheldon of Electra, was here Tuesday on his return after a trip to the new oil field being developed at Thrall near Taylor, Texas. Mr. Sheldon acquired a tract of 100 acres at the edge of Thrall, which he will plot and sell in town lots. He says the excitement is greater at Thrall than at Electra in the early days of the field there. Although only one well has been brought in with a large production there have been a number of shallow wells there for several years and all the big companies are taking big leases in the field. The well drilled in about two weeks ago had an initial production of 100 barrels and the oil was found at a depth of only 300 feet making the field look very attractive to operators.

Mr. Sheldon reports that a large number of operators who have been interested at Electra are already in the new field together with many from Oklahoma and South Texas.

The Comforter

Silent is the house. I sit in the fire-light and knit. At my feet soft gray wool. Two gray kittens gently pull— Pulling back my thoughts as well From that distant, red-dimmed hall, And hot tears the stitchless blur As I knit a comforter.

"Comforter" they call it—yes, Such it is for my distress, For it gives my restless hands Blessed work. God understands How the women yearn to be Doing something ceaselessly— Anything but just to wait idly for a clicking gate!

So I knit this long gray thing Which some fearless lad will fling Round him in the key blast, With the shrill whistling past; "Comforter" it may be then, Like a mother's touch again, And at last, not gray, but red, Be a pillow for the dead!

W. S. STONE IN ANSWER TO RAILROADS' CONTENTIONS

Denies Claim That Advance Cannot Be Afforded—Willing To Submit Figures

By Associated Press. Chicago, March 3.—Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, has submitted to the board of arbitration which is hearing the western railroad wage raise, a statement in rebuttal to the testimony of the railroad managers, in which he charged that the instance of fictitious securities had absorbed past, present and future revenue gains of the western railroads. He declared: "There is no hope for the railroad employees to secure an equitable participation in the fruits of their work so long as the present financial control and administration of the railroads is unregulated."

He pointed out that the employees' associations found economic justice for their demand for increased wages in the productive efficiency of their work, but that the constant contention of the railroads in reply to this argument was that revenue gains arising from increased productive efficiency were absorbed by increased operating charges and additional capital investments, which have been incurred in the attempt to develop greater efficiency in operation, and because of public demand as to safety and quality of service.

Due to Other Causes

"It is now our purpose to disclose that any decline in operating or net income has not been due to the causes set forth by the railroads," said he. Statistics already read into the testimony by experts employed by the brotherhood had shown remarkable gains in railroad revenue and the amount available for the increased compensation of labor.

"We shall show," he continued, "that the constant tendency has been for those in financial control of the railroads to absorb revenue gains arising from increased productive efficiency by the issuance of fictitious securities; that the productive efficiency of the men working today, the operating officials as well as the employees, had already been hypothesized and capitalized before we were born; that measures have already been taken by the issuance of fictitious securities to absorb the increased work and productive efficiency of our children and our children's children; and that there is no hope for the engineers and firemen and other classes of railroad employes to secure an equitable participation in the fruits of their work, so long as the present financial control and administration of the railroads is unregulated. In other words, that any advances which the employees have been able to obtain in wages or earnings have been of no financial significance as compared with the indefensible absorption of operating gains by the financial management of Western railroads."

"Finally, we shall show that if gains from past productive efficiency had been properly conserved and administered, enormous advances could be granted to all classes of railroad employes, both organized and unorganized, without prejudice to the interests of the owners of the property, and the financial status of Western railroads today from the investor's standpoint would be all that could be desired."

Four Points Submitted

"The points we shall submit in this connection are:

"First. That the proceeds from the magnificent grants of land by the Federal and State governments to assist in the building of western railroads, were not properly used, but their value, as well as the increased business arising from the development of western territory, was capitalized by the flotation of fictitious securities.

"Second. That the direct financial control of the western railroads, and the potential control of the economic welfare of their employes now rests with a small group of bankers and financial institutions, which make railroad presidents, and which, by their methods of administration of the railroads, have absorbed present and future revenue gains by employees by the issuance of fictitious securities; in other words, employes and operating officials are the victims of financial administration.

"Third. We shall show from the publicly expressed opinions of eminent financiers and financial experts that the present inequality in the distribution of the output of the industry is wrong.

"Fourth. We shall conclude by showing that despite the financial excesses of railroads in the past, that they are still financially able to pay reasonable and fair increases in wages."

All active members and patronesses of the Musicians Club are requested to attend the meeting of the club Thursday to secure invitations to be mailed for the coming concert.

EX-STUDENTS FORM ASSOCIATION HERE

TEXAS EXES' HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET AND EFFECT ORGANIZATION

OPPOSE SACKETT RESOLUTION

University Yells and Songs Are Given and Number of Speeches Delivered

Organization of the Northwest Texas Ex-Students Association was effected Tuesday night when the "Texas Exes" of this and neighboring cities held their annual independence banquet. The association will include a number of Northwest Texas counties, with Wichita Falls as headquarters and Dr. Everett Jones of this city was elected president.

One of the first acts of the association was to voice its opposition to the Sackett resolution which was adopted in the House of Representatives at Austin yesterday. This resolution, in its present form, is considered very unfair to the University and very partial to A. & M. College and the association, acting through a special committee, will work to defeat it in the Senate.

A very excellent report was served by the aid society of the First Presbyterian Church and 40 axes, ranging from '03 to '14, were in attendance. Bad weather prevented the attendance of a number, especially from out of the city, the muddy roads making automobile trips impossible.

Noise-Makers in Evidence.

The occasion was made especially noisy by the giving of University yells and songs, led by Judge Harvey Harris. "Hallelujah" and "Hullabaloo" rang out as in days of yore and "The Eyes of Texas" was sung. It has been the "hymn before section" at the University for many years and goes like this:

"The eyes of Texas are upon you. All that live long day. The eyes of Texas are upon you. You cannot get away. Do not think you can escape them, From night till early morn. The eyes of Texas are upon you. Till Gabriel blows his horn. And there was a very pathetic little song, beginning:

"Don't send my boy to Baylor. A dying mother said: Don't send my boy to T. C. U. I'd rather see him dead."

Officers Are Elected.

Permanent organization was effected by the election of Dr. Everett Jones as president; Miss Anne Carrigan, vice president, and Jerome S. Stone, secretary-treasurer; the annual dues were fixed at $2, which will defray the expenses of the banquet, postage, etc. Dr. Jones, Orville Bullington and Judge Harvey Harris were constituted a legislative committee to set forth the wishes of the association with regards to proceedings at Austin.

Mr. Bullington presided as toast master and those who responded were Martin Alday of Burkburnett, Dr. Q. B. Lee, Judge Harvey Harris, Miss Anne Carrigan, Wiley M. Fuller, J. P. Marra, E. P. Haney and Miss Ethnor Pancoast of Henrietta.

The Sackett Resolution.

Representative Haney explained the Sackett resolution, told of the fight that was being made upon it and of the effect it would have upon the University if finally enacted. As he described the measure would very seriously injure the University. There was an extended discussion of the measure by those present and the legislative committee was named to do what seemed necessary in the premises.

MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS—DOCTORS GUESS WRONG AGAIN

About five years ago I wrote to you that I had been a terrible sufferer from kidney and bladder troubles, and that my physician informed me that my left kidney was in such condition that there was no hope for my recovery. I was advised to try you Swamp Root as a last resort and after taking your fifty cent size bottle I passed a gravel stone which weighed ten grains. I afterwards forwarded you this gravel stone. I have had no return of any trouble since that time and cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful preparation Swamp Root, which cures after physical fails. Very truly yours,

F. H. HORNE, Route 3, Box 20, Roseboro, N. C. Personally appeared before me, this 31st day of July, 1909, F. H. Horne who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

JAMES HALL, Notary Public. Letter to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Prove What Swamp Root Will Do For You

You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling about the kidney and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Wichita Daily Times. At a meeting of the labor council Monday night a committee was appointed to circulate a petition praying the city council to appoint a man to inspect gas, water and light meters.

Organized labor in this city claim a membership of nearly 1800. More than half of them are qualified voters, and therefore it has determined to take a part in the next municipal election at which three members of the city council are to be elected.

The announcement did not come as a surprise to those who were "in the know". Mr. Banks is a boyhood schoolmate of Postmaster General Burleson and as far back as September, 1913, some as Denton people knew that the postmaster general had a friend here whom he wanted to name for the place and intended to name unless something changed his mind.

A. L. Banks has been named as Denton's new postmaster. Commenting on the appointment the Denton Record and Chronicle says:

The announcement did not come as a surprise to those who were "in the know". Mr. Banks is a boyhood schoolmate of Postmaster General Burleson and as far back as September, 1913, some as Denton people knew that the postmaster general had a friend here whom he wanted to name for the place and intended to name unless something changed his mind.

TWO YEARS OF WILSON. Today marks the end of the second year of Woodrow Wilson's administration as president. The word remarkable is inadequate in recording the achievements of those two years and superlative terms are required in describing what has been accomplished.

measure alone had been perfected and placed in the law of the land in two years. It would have been sufficient praise of Wilson to record it. And yet in addition there were the tariff revision, the Clayton anti-trust act and the canal tolls repeal each in itself a noteworthy and admirable piece of legislation.

Not everyone, of course, will agree that these enactments are admirable and there are some who would attach quite a contrary adjective; but the evidence is forthcoming, if it is not already given, that the country as a whole approves.

There would have been more than human to escape criticism and he has had his full share. His course in the Mexican situation was a particular cause of unkind comment. Between war with Mexico on one hand and an attitude of abject compliance on the other, the craft of state was steered.

It is remarkable, also, to be able to note the fact that only one important demand which he made of Congress has not met with compliance; that was the ship purchase bill, and The Times believes that events will yet demonstrate the wisdom of that demand and put to shame the Republicans who defeated it and the Democrats who reneged.

NAPOLION'S HAPPIEST DAY. On the evening of February 25, 1815, just a century ago, Napoleon Bonaparte stepped into the garden of his residence upon the island of Elba and made a sign to his mother to follow him. He said to her: "I am leaving Elba tomorrow for Paris; what do you think of it?"

Some conditions were in his favor. The people had learned that the return of the Bourbons was not what a blessing. A revulsion of sentiment was under way. NEW OIL REFINING METHOD DISCLOSED

EXPECTED TO INCREASE GASOLINE OUTPUT 200 PER CENT

MILITAR VALUE DISCOVERED

Residuum of Petroleum Found to Be of Use in Making of Smokeless Powder

Washington, March 3.—Two discoveries, both of vast importance to American industries and one regarded also as a priceless military asset, were announced today by Secretary of the Interior Lane.

One is expected to enable oil refiners to increase their output of gasoline by 200 per cent. The other makes the production from crude petroleum of dykes and high explosives and especially smokeless powder, for which in the past the United States and the rest of the world has depended almost exclusively upon Germany.

Process, Free to Public. Now the Federal Government through the efforts of Dr. Rittman proposes to make free for the use of all the people of this country who wish it, a process that is confidently expected to increase their yields of gasoline from crude petroleum fully 200 per cent and perhaps more such as having repeatedly been obtained in the laboratory.

Two years ago the automobile industry, fearful that the supply of gasoline might not be adequate for its rapidly expanding business, offered through the International Association of Recognized Automobile Clubs a prize of $100,000 for a substitute for gasoline that would cost less than gasoline.

Intestible Value. I am led to believe that it will not only be of intestine value to the refiners commanding but limited capital as well as those of wealth, but also to the hundreds of thousands of users of gasoline.

Mark Thistlewhite, private secretary to Vice-president Marshall, ran across a 30-page hand-written letter from a crank in the official mail one morning. After reading three pages of it he decided, with a grin, to brighten his chief's day by setting him wade through the document, and accordingly laid it on top of the pile of letters on his private desk.

Vice-president Marshall came in with a cheery greeting and passed into his private office. There was silence of almost a minute, then the buzzer sounded. "Mark," he exclaimed, as the secretary appeared, "when I keep a dog, do you suppose I'm going to do my own barking."

A DOMESTIC TREASURE

By ISABELLA D. DALRYMPLE

Mrs. Lyman sat at the breakfast table in her 50-cent calico wrapper, which was clean but unattractive, and listened rather wearily to her adored husband's conversation.

In her youth she had been called a beauty, but 12 years of unselfish pampering of her family, together with a constant struggle to 'get ahead' upon a limited allowance, had merged her charms into workaday obscurity. She had become nothing more than a housekeeper who was 'careful and troubled about many things.'

Mr. Lyman did not suspect that he was not a model family man. He had grown accustomed to seeing his wife work from morning until night, keeping their home in immaculate order, making dainty clothing for the children, and cooking meals to please his fastidious taste.

On this particular morning, he was discussing pretty Mrs. Hickson, the wife of his new partner.

"She is really the most delightful woman I have met in many a day," he said, with candid enthusiasm. "She is so bright and up-to-date and young-looking; I was surprised to learn that she is the own mother of Hickson's fifteen-year-old daughter. I supposed she was a second wife."

"I heard Mrs. Hickson say she had always boarded since her marriage," quietly remarked Mrs. Lyman. "Of course she has lots of time to take pains with herself. I guess she doesn't do much but play bridge and flirt."

"That is very ungenerous, Bess," said Lyman reprovingly. "Mrs. Hickson is a lady of exquisite taste, and you should not be scandalized because she is not inclined to be a back-talker. I don't wonder that Hickson is proud of her."

"I don't think she is as pretty as mamma," loyally declared little Bert Lyman, whose youthful mind grasped the inference that his idolized mother was suffering from indirect criticism.

Mr. Lyman laughed. "There was a time, son, when your mamma was a daisy in looks, but that was before she settled down and had two expensive youngsters to take care of."

"And a popular society man," added Mrs. Lyman, with a shadowy smile.

Lyman did not appear to catch any sarcasm in his wife's mild observation.

"Well, I must go downtown," he said, glancing at his watch. "A man can't linger forever in the bosom of his family. By the way, Bess, I wish you would see that my evening clothes are all right. I'm going to an Elks' reception tonight. There will be a dance afterward, and that calls for stiff tops."

"Are you going, mamma?" asked Vera, the small daughter of the house of Lyman.

"No, dear, I hadn't thought of going anywhere."

Lyman looked up in careless wonder. "Oh, of course, if you wish, Bess. I didn't think to ask you, because you never care for such affairs."

Mrs. Lyman gave her customary answer to her husband's indifferent invitation.

"I think I should prefer to stay with the children." She did not mention the fact that all her party gowns were several years behind the fashion.

"I thought so," said Lyman, accompanying the remark with a light conjugal kiss. "Those muffins were tip-top, and the beefsteak broiled to the queen's taste. Nobody can beat you, Bess, in the culinary department, even if you don't shine in social functions."

After the children had departed for school, and the morning's work had been done, with the inefficient aid of the diminutive colored maid-of-all-work, Mrs. Lyman went to her room. Seating herself before her dressing table, she gazed critically at her reflection in the mirror.

"I am altogether too domestic," she commented audibly. "I think I'll trudge up a little, even if I go without a new parlor carpet and lace curtains in the sitting room."

During the following week, Mrs. Lyman went on several secret pilgrimages downtown, and heroically practiced mysterious exercises in the seclusion of her room.

When Mr. Lyman announced his intention of taking a trip to Chicago on business, which might detain him a few days, he did not notice that his wife backed his suitcase with unusual cheerfulness, nor did he think it strange that she made him promise to wire her when to expect him back.

Chance sometimes assists plotters, and Mrs. Lyman's plan to amuse her legs long were aided, beyond her expectations, by his accidentally meeting, on his way home, a traveling man who was an old acquaintance.

They chatted as many reminiscences and jokes as possible into the two hours they spent together on the train, but still their fund of anecdotes was not exhausted.

"As you are going to make my town," said Lyman, "why can't you put up at my house? I can promise you a good dinner, and tonight I'll take you to the club, and show you a jolly bunch of boys."

"I wouldn't like to drop into your family circle inopportunely," objected the friend politely, really yearning for a home meal.

"Oh, that's all right," said Lyman reassuringly. "My wife is the good sort, and makes everybody welcome. She will treat you to cooking that will suit in your mouth, though she may regret you in a calico dress, just as she comes from a kitchen. Sometimes I wish she had a little more style, but she is a domestic treasure. I'll bet she can make a dollar so far as other women of the present generation.

When the train pulled into the station, the two gentlemen hurried out upon the long platform, chatting jovially.

Suddenly Lyman caught a glimpse of a trim, graceful woman in a mouth-fallor-made black suit, with her blonde hair fetchingly marcelled beneath a heavily plumed hat.

"There is a swell woman," exclaimed Lyman. "I can't fancy her in a calico wrapper."

The lady under inspection turned her head in a way that gave Lyman a full view of her face. Instantly his eyes bulged with astonishment.

"She looks as Bess used to," he muttered faintly. "It can't be possible. It is, by Jove."

Mrs. Lyman's perfect costume impressed her with self-confidence, and nothing could have been prettier than her manner of greeting her puzzled spouse.

"Why, Bess, I—I'm surprised," he stammered, fairly limp from bewilderment.

"You act as though you had encountered a ghost," was the laughing retort.

Lyman collected his wits sufficiently to introduce his friend, who pitched him on the sly and whispered: "You're a rare hambug—Home body! Calico wrappers! Good Lord! Tell that to some other scoundrel."

Lyman had hardly recovered his composure when they reached home.

Mrs. Lyman led the trio, and was cordial in seconding her husband's hospitality, remarking ingeniously: "I am afraid you will find things rather muddled. I have been out all the afternoon, and left the children playing circus."

Lyman scarcely recognized his home, in which disorder reigned for the first time, and he was almost speechless with mortification and disappointment when they sat down to a dinner of tough fried steak, mushy mashed potatoes and soggy bread, supplemented by a thin lemon pie from a bakery.

The mystified husband felt that he must be dreaming. Mrs. Lyman seemed sweetly unconcerned, and in no way disturbed by the unappetizing repeat, or by the blundering service of her awkward maid.

Never had her conversation been so engaging. The visitor thought his host had developed into a bad practical joker, and wondered if he would be able to get a satisfactory lunch at the club.

Lyman finally began to get angry. After the wretched meal was finished, but not eaten, he contrived to draw his wife aside, and whispered:

"What under heaven do you mean, Bess, in getting up such a dinner—for company, too?"

"I didn't get the dinner," said Bess innocently.

"I should say not," grumbled Lyman; "but why didn't you?"

"For two reasons," replied Mrs. Lyman, not a whit abashed. "I am tired of being merely a queen of the culinary art, and I'm going to try to be as young and agreeable as Mrs. Hickson. It would be great fun to be taken for your second wife."

"I have decided that it doesn't pay to spend so much of my allowance upon the table. It shows more in up-to-date clothes."

"Hereafter I shall be ready to attend parties with you. Of course, you will not mind a few extra bills. I know you must have often been ashamed of me—I have been such a crump—but it is never too late to mend."

Found the Cause.

"Do you know," said the dry goods drummer, "I don't blame the doctors a bit. I have my way of earning a living and they have theirs."

"But what about doctors?" was asked.

"Oh, I was in a town in Indiana last week and one day I felt shivers go up my back. I went to a doctor and he said I was in for the grip. Then hot flashes came and I went to another M. D. He said it was a case of typhoid and wanted me to go to the hospital at once. Felt a bit better, but went to a third, and he said it might be a case of bubonic plague, or spinal meningitis. He was way off, however."

"But did anything really ail you?"

"Yes, you see, I was very speedy."

"I did. I brought my wife power to bear, you see. Yes, something ailed me."

"I was in love with a mighty good-looking girl and I found out that she was a cross widow and had no chance to get a divorce under five years."

London's Wander Street.

Fleet street was formerly the wonder place of London, where all that was novel, bizarre and marvelous was exhibited by enterprising showmen.

Ben Jonson alludes to "a new notion of the city of Nineveh, with Jonah and the whale, at Fleet bridge," and at the Eagle and Child was exhibited a collection of freaks and monstrosities that set the whole town agape. In 1710, too, was advertised as on exhibition at Fleet bridge, "two strange, wonderful and remarkable monstrous creatures, an old fish dromedary, seven feet high and ten feet long, lately arrived from Tartary, with her young one, being the greatest wonder, rarity and novelty ever seen in the three kingdoms."

FARM TENANT BILL DEBATED IN HOUSE

Cackett Resolution Passes. Yesterday afternoon, by the overwhelming vote of 166 to 19, the lower house adopted the substitute for the Cackett resolution providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment separating the Agricultural and Mechanical colleges from the University of Texas. The vote came as a big surprise even to the proponents of the measure, and it was generally forecast tonight that its emphatic character will insure its passage by the senate.

college are authorized, with the concurrence of the governor to issue and sell bonds for permanent improvements. The land set aside for support of the university and branches is divided as follows: Six hundred thousand acres to go to the Agricultural and Mechanical college 150,000 acres to go to the Prairie View Normal, and all the remainder to become the permanent fund of the University of Texas. The resolution also provides that the land may be sold at such times and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. The constitutional prohibition against the legislature appropriating money for permanent improvements is removed.

measures offered this session and wasted many times that time in jarring attempts to pass others of less importance. Late in the afternoon Bailey of Dewitt, got up the bill providing that employees of railroads and other corporations have the privilege of selecting the surety company in which their bonds shall be written and with few amendments it was passed finally by viva voce vote. This bill will affect a vast number of bonded employees all over the state.

ment law was passed finally. Clark introduced a bill increasing fees to be charged to applicants for license to practice medicine. EVERY SUNDAY—When the weather is favorable, our cemetery is filled with visitors, who are drawn there by the ties of love and remembrance, and around whose heart's memory has twined the tender wreaths of forget-me-nots. They have engraved upon the tables of love, all that was good, forgotten, all faults, all mistakes, all shortcomings.

We see them stop at the grave where love has erected an appropriate MEMORIAL, and read with glad hearts the inscription thereon, we see fall the tear of regret for those dear unremembered ones, whose living relatives are too poor, or whose carelessness and indifference has caused them to forget. Life is not all dollars and doughnuts, neither is death the end. The cost of a monument is insignificant and no excuse for the average citizen, and more than compensates the one who erects it. Cleaning and Pressing Fine fabrics is my specialty. This is the kind of work that we have made the reputation of this shop on. Work that people could not afford to trust ordinary shops. It pays to be careful when you send a fifty dollar suit to be cleaned and pressed. A fine garment costs too much money to risk Tom, Dick and Harry to be cleaned. We are in the tailoring business to give you service and earn the money you pay us. To do these things we must know how to do what you want done. We take off our hat to nobody in the tailoring game. We know all that is known about the business. We don't promise to do impossible things but if it can be done we can do it.
