Shipping records give no American steamer Oldston. There is a Swedish vessel named the Consul Oldston which sailed from Savannah. The Consul Oldston was disabled at sea and towed into Barbadoes February 5. No report has been received that she has since put to sea.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE AT LOWEST POINT IN HISTORY

New York is Rapidly Becoming the Financial Capital of the World

By Associated Press.
New York, March 23.—A break in foreign exchange quotations today between New York and London brought rates to the lowest point within the memory of the oldest brokers. The decline was followed by the announcement of the transfer of a million and a quarter dollars in gold from England to Ottawa, Canada. The present situation results from the heavy purchases of war supplies and provisions by the European belligerents from America. It is understood that London is negotiating to establish a permanent credit in New York subject to twenty-four hours notice.

SENSATION SPRUNG IN TRIAL TODAY

PLAINTIFF IN DAMAGE SUIT SAYS TRAP WAS SET TO CATCH ATTORNEY

SAYS SHE IS A DETECTIVE

Testifies She Told Attorney She Wasn't Injured—Attorney En- ters Strong Denial

Calmly announcing to the judge and jury that she was a detective brought here for the purpose of "showing up damage suit lawyers" Mrs. C. T. Prescott gave the 7th district court this morning one of the most decided shocks a local court has received. Her disclosure came when she was put on the stand by plaintiff in the case of Prescott vs. Wichita Falls Traction Company. The suit was based upon injuries supposed to have been received by Mrs. Prescott last July. W. F. Weeks represented her in the proceedings.
When court adjourned for dinner, Mr. Weeks and C. T. Prescott, husband of the witness, engaged in a physical combat in the court house. Mrs. Prescott's disclosure came after several minutes of questioning by Attorney Weeks, bringing out the details of the accident in which she was supposed to have been injured. The supposed accident occurred when the car stopped at Twelfth and Lamar and it was alleged in the plaintiff's petition that her back was seriously injured and $10,000 damages was asked.
Says Told Lawyer Not Hurt.
After announcing the purpose which actuated her in the disclosure, Mrs. Prescott gave the details of what she said happened in the course of preparation for the suit. Practically all her allegations were denied by Mr. Weeks. She stated, among other things, that she had told Mr. Weeks that she was not injured and that he had told her to be careful about saying she wasn't hurt. Mr. Weeks denied making any such statement. There were other charges of a similar nature by the witness.
The woman's husband, C. T. Prescott, was here last July and stopped at the Eldora Hotel, where he was interviewed by a representative of The Times, to whom he represented himself as a member of a moving picture company. Mr. Prescott stated today that he had been in the moving picture business and that the interview was a truthful one although given to the reporter as part of the game.
When Surprise Came.
Mrs. Prescott, who is a young, intelligent looking woman appeared quite nervous when she took the stand, but gave her answers to the preliminary questions quickly. Most of the attorneys and spectators in the court room about the time she proceeded with apparent smoothness, until the witness replied, in answer to a question from Attorney Weeks, that she had not been injured. Then it was that she announced herself.
The disclosure was a severe tax on the composure of those who were in the court room, but Mr. Weeks quickly recovered himself and began to question the witness. In her eagerness to tell her side of it, Mrs. Prescott would reply without waiting for him to finish questions. The firmness with which she stated what she had found were met with equally firm denials from the attorney and Judge Nicholson several times cautioned both attorney and witness.
On one occasion the witness rose in her seat and facing the jury, raised her right hand and swore to the truth of her assertions. Equally impressive was the declaration of Mr. Weeks that "he hoped God would strike him dead" if he had acted wrongly.
Testimony at Variance.
The attorney and witness were widely at issue on many points. Mrs. Prescott declared that Mr. Weeks "came to Mr. Prescott and herself to make the case without consultation on their part." Mr. Weeks says that he was sent for to take the case.
At one point in her testimony, Mrs. Prescott said that she had prayed for Mr. Weeks after she saw that he was going ahead with the case.
The case with which the plans were laid was evidenced by the fact that on one occasion when Mr. Weeks saw Mrs. Prescott at her hotel to discuss the case, Messrs. Mytinger and Thomas were in a closet in the room and heard what was said. It was on this occasion, Mrs. Prescott declared, that she told the attorney that she was not hurt.
Correspondence introduced.
Some correspondence between the plaintiffs and the attorney, after the former had gone to San Antonio, was introduced, but revealed nothing to implicate Mr. Weeks. Mr. Prescott wrote several letters, suggesting in rather direct terms that physicians in San Antonio could be found who would swear to anything that was wanted about the condition of Mrs. Prescott. Mr. Weeks' letters in reply were introduced, showing that he told the plaintiffs he wanted the testimony of only reliable and competent physicians.
One of the letters from Mr. Prescott, written early in January, conveyed the detective's wishes for a Happy New Year.
Mrs. Prescott in her testimony reviewed in considerable detail the conversations between Mr. Weeks and

JAPAN NOTE NOT ON MINOR POINTS

PRESIDENT WILSON CHARACTER- IZES TOKIO DISPATCH AS UNFOUNDED

NO REPLY YET RECEIVED

Fear of Friction Felt in China Over Arrival Additional Japanese Troops

By Associated Press.
Washington, March 23.—President Wilson declared today that the only definite thing that could be said at this time on the Japanese-Chinese negotiations was that the United States had addressed an inquiry to Japan regarding her demands on China. The president declined to discuss the scope of the inquiry.
When asked however, if the Tokio dispatches were correct in reporting that the Americans had inquired only about minor points, the president made it clear that he did not consider the points of a minor character. Another dispatch from Tokio saying that the United States had approved Japan's explanation was brought to the president's attention. He referred to it as unfounded pointing out that the United States had not approved or disapproved of anything and had in fact not received Japan's reply.
EXEMPTION FROM CHINA'S LAWS FOR JAPS ASKED
By Associated Press.
Peking, China, March 23.—Conferees regarding the demands made by Japan upon China will be continued at the Japanese legation because of the physician's explanation. The Japanese recently hurt in a fall from a horse. At several recent sessions the proposals by Japan that the Japanese immigrants in Mongolia and Manchuria should not be subject to Chinese laws was discussed. This proposal is said to have been stubbornly opposed by the Chinese representatives.
Some fears are entertained by foreigners and Chinese as well that the arrival of additional Japanese troops in Manchuria and Shantung may cause friction. According to reports 600 Japanese troops with eight field pieces have arrived at Shinan while other detachments will be stationed at points along the Shantung railway.

GERMAN SHIP MAY BE FORFEITED TO U.S.

PROCEEDINGS UNDER NEUTRALITY RESOLUTION AGAINST THE ODENWALD

CABINET MEETING HELD TODAY

Only Question Whether Action Will Be Against Owners or Ship's Captain

By Associated Press.
Washington, March 23.—Proceedings under the neutrality resolutions passed during the closing days of the last congress will be brought against the captain or owners of the Hamburg-American steamship, Odenwald, halted by shots across her bow when she attempted to leave San Juan, Porto Rico, on Sunday. This was made known today at the White House.
Attorney General Gregory said as he went to the cabinet meeting he did not know whether action would be brought against the captain or the owners of the vessel, but he was positive such action would be taken. Forfeiture of the vessel to the United States is one of the penalties which may be imposed.

LOSS OF PRZEMYSL IS NOT MINIMIZED

GERMAN PRESS ADMIT THAT FORTRESS OF STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE

SORTIE BY ITS DEFENDERS

Garrison Given Provisions For Five Days and Not To Re- turn

By Associated Press.
Petrograd, March 23.—The events that preceded the final desperate sortie of the beleaguered garrison in the Austrian fortress of Przemysl designed to break through the Russian lines are described in an official dispatch, which says:
"During the last days before the final sortie the garrison received increased rations. Each soldier was given biscuits to last five days, warm new clothing and new boots. Officers were instructed to explain to the troops that if they returned to the garrison an ignominious fate awaited them and, in consequence, they must break through the Russian lines at all hazards. An easterly direction was chosen for the sortie because it led to the district where the Russians had large stores of arms and ammunition. More than 20,000 men were ordered to take part in the sortie but several units refused to move despite the urgings of their officers. Only the 23 divisions and four Hussars took an active part. They were promptly and decisively defeated.
In this connection it is pointed out that the Russian force was not large and that the great sortie was defeated by practically the same number of territorial troops and reserves. The total number of the garrison exceeded Russian expectations.
LOSS OF PRZEMYSL NOT
MINIMIZED AT BERLIN
By Associated Press.
Berlin, March 23.—The press of the German capital utilizes every tribune in the defenders of Przemysl, whom it is declared, only hunger could subdue. At the same time there is no disposition to minimize the importance of the loss.
The Lokal Anzeiger says:
"We have no disposition to minimize the loss our brave allies have suffered. Przemysl is a strategic and great fortress. It showed its strength in its defense. We mourn with our allies the loss of its brave garrison, whose glories can never be destroyed."

Interest is growing in the contest and we believe that through these contests we can do much for prohibition. We expect to keep the good work going."

MAN HELD BABY AS HE APPROACHED ENEMY

Seeing an acquaintance with whom he had had some trouble and whom he thought was going to attack him, a man yesterday afternoon grabbed his baby from its go-cart and held it in his arms while he approached the other man. No trouble resulted, but whether this was due to the effective- ness of the baby as a shield was not learned. The police sent the father who was somewhat the worse for drink to his home. The trouble had its origin in a picture show where the acquaintance is said to have engaged in a flirta- tion with the man's wife. When the wife corresponded and the discovery of one of his letters to the trou- ble, it is said.

TICK ERADICATION IN MANY COUNTIES

MATTER UP IN CLAY, ARCHER, BAYLOR, YOUNG AND OTHER COUNTIES.

EFFECT OF ERADICATION

Federal Inspector in Letter To W. C. Young Sets Forth Some Advantages

That the movement for tick eradication is general throughout the counties in this section of the state is indicated in a letter from L. J. Allen, inspector in charge at Fort Worth, to W. C. Young of Archer county who is taking an active part in the campaign in that county. Mr. Allen's letter, which it is believed will apply to conditions here follows: Fort Worth, Texas, March 11, 1915.—Mr. W. C. Young, Dear Sir: In response to your letter of the 27th ultimo, you are respectfully advised that an election has been ordered in Throckmorton county for March 22 and in Nolan county and Shackelford counties March 17. In Baylor a petition has been signed, so I am reliably informed, by about 550 voters out of a possible number of 1150. There are what seems to be entirely reliable reports that sentiment in Clay county seems to be nearly unanimously in favor of eradication. Practically the same conditions is stated to exist in Wichita county; however, I have not heard much from there.

You ask if the election carries whether it will interfere to any extent with the movement of cattle from one pasture to another within the county. It will not interfere in any manner whatever with the movement of cattle which are being regularly dipped for tick eradication. It naturally follows that if one in a community fails to dip regularly and permits the ticks to mature on the cattle, that he would not be permitted to move his cattle to or across ranches where the work is being systematically carried out. The movement of cattle to transportation lines is not affected in any one dipping. You ask if steers fattened on cake and grass may be shipped out of the county to the Fort Worth or other markets for slaughter. If tick eradication is taken up this summer in Archer county, there will be no reason for its interfering with the movement of cattle to transportation lines for shipment before, say, about July 15, or possibly somewhat later, even though such cattle had not been dipped providing it would not be necessary to drive these cattle through pastures, the owners of which had commenced to dip for eradication. After the cattle had thus received the transportation lines, they could be shipped to Fort Worth or any other market as southern cattle. In this connection I will state I would not advise the dipping to be necessarily commenced before July 15 for systematic tick eradication. Some will find it to their interests to commence the dipping at an earlier date to prevent a loss from Texas fever, which has been a factor of considerable importance in counties situated as in Archer county. You say "can stocker cattle be shipped above the line (present) under the same conditions that we now ship above the line." They can and with this additional privilege. That any cattle which are apparently free from ticks during the process of tick eradication may be dipped once under Bureau or State supervision and shipped interstate or intrastate, as the case may be, as non-infectious cattle, whereas at the present time the Bureau does not engage to furnish supervision of dipping for interstate movement from your county for the simple reason there is no occasion for maintaining inspectors there. Further, after tick eradication has made reasonable progress, cattle of all premises or pastures which have been determined to be free from ticks by repeated inspections or which have been cleaned up under supervision, may be moved interstate or intrastate without any dipping whatever, providing they may reach the quarantine line or transportation line without exposure to infection enroute. You ask "can stocker cattle be shipped to Fort Worth or other points below the line as heretofore." In this connection I will state it would not be wise to ship stocker cattle from a county after it had been free from ticks to the Fort Worth or any other market below the quarantine line for the reason that buyers below the line would not want cattle from a tick free territory. Neither would you wish to ship stockers or feeders below the line for the very sufficient reason that you would have a much better market above the line. During the period in which the county was being cleaned up, of course, it would be all right to ship stockers and feeders to Fort Worth or any other market below the line. If such cattle are being dipped regularly after the work had commenced, there would be no embargo on their movement to the transportation line and so shipped.

Very respectfully, J. ALLEN, Inspector in Charge.

PETITIONS ARE FILED FOR THREE CANDIDATES

Saturday Will Be Last Day On Which Petitions May Be Filed For City Election

Petitions for candidates for aldermen at the city election to be held April 6 must be filed with the city secretary by next Saturday, that being the last day upon which the charter permits the filing of the petitions.

Three petitions, being those for the aldermanic candidates nominated at the labor mass meetings, have already been filed, presenting the names of C. C. Willard, A. C. Wilson and S. T. Taylor. Each of the petitions had the same signatures, there being the names of 52 qualified voters attached; several signatures were found to be not qualified, but only 50 were required. The checking of the petitions entails considerable work this year, as the names must be compared with the county poll lists, there being no city poll tax. There are five county precincts in which voters reside and it is necessary for City Secretary McCarty to go over all of these in checking the lists. For this reason he asks that the petitions reach him as soon as possible.

In the petitions filed, the names submitted are: C. C. Willard, contractor, 1928 Eighth street; S. T. Taylor, carpenter, 2008 Eighth street; A. C. Wilson, telegraph operator, 1413 Fourteenth street. As there are three places to be filled, the same voters could sign each of the three petitions but their signatures would not be valid on a fourth petition. The signatures are: Roy Neblett, Otto Williams, Mike Benson, R. K. Lane, G. L. Green, Frank O. Brown, W. H. Veal, O. C. Moody, C. R. Jones, George Bock, S. C. Mousley, W. J. Smith, C. W. Johnson, F. H. Denison, W. C. Russell, H. P. Hays, George Bartle, T. W. Scott, Bernard Martin, James P. Stephens, W. Wheeler, E. H. Smith, J. H. Reed, H. C. Pinkston, F. T. White, W. G. Gillon, W. J. Heffner, J. Kambove The Longest Railroad In the World

From Cape Town and from Cairo, for years the engineers have been pushing through desert, jungle and forest, over rivers and across lakes, the longest railroad in the world. The dream of the late Cecil Rhodes, this road is by this time almost completed. About a year and a half ago the line was pushed from Cape Town northward 2250 miles in the Belgian Congo. At that time the terminus was Kambove, the little African village shown in the illustration. The first train arriving at Kambove was illuminated with TEXACO ILLUMINATING OIL the Red-Star-Green-T brand made in Texas and known all over the world for its quality. That quality and service distinguish all the Texaco Products sold in your town. Our agent is ready to serve you. Call on him. The goods are worth while. Dead As the Sierras. His footprints have faded. Where berries are red. And madrons are rankest—The hunter is dead!

The grizzly may pass. By his half-open door. May pass and may reappear. On his path, as of yore.

The panther may crouch. In the leaves on his limb. May scream and may scream. It is nothing to him.

Pine, bearded and beated. Like columns of stone. And tall as a pine. As a pine overgrown.

His campfire gone. What else can be done. Than let him sleep on. Till the light of the sun?

Aye, tombless. What of it? Marble is dust. Gold and repellant. And iron is rust.

U. C. T. INDOOR PICNIC QUITE A SUCCESS

The United Commercial Travelers and the Auxiliary to the U. C. T. held a most successful and enjoyable indoor picnic Saturday evening at the U. C. T. club rooms. The entertainment was devised as a means of arousing interest in the U. C. T. convention to be held here in May and this coming event was the subject of much discussion. The social features of the evening were highly enjoyed, a number choosing to take advantage of the perfect floor and the orchestra music. A sumptuous spread included the program of amusement. There were about one hundred and fifty present, including a number of out of town U. C. T. members and the families of the local members. From every standpoint the affair was a huge success, far surpassing all previous entertainments. Both the U. C. T. and the Auxiliary are increasing their membership rapidly and interest in the work is proportionate. They are planning an elaborate entertainment on the occasion of the May convention.

FACTS CONCERNING THE ALAMO HEROES MONUMENT

The Alamo Heroes monument when completed will be the tallest building in the world and will cost $2,000,000 which represents the payment of fifty cents by each inhabitant of Texas. At the base of the monument will be located the art gallery and museum, a magnificent lobby and large room for the meetings of educational and society meetings. On the exterior of the base will be heroic statues of Travis, Bowie, Bosham and Crockett with other heroes of the fighting days of Texas. There will be also giant flags, the six flags which have floated over Texas in her wonderful history, on each side of the base of the monument. A room will be reserved for each county in the State, where the literature pertaining to this county and its resources and possibilities, and the country honor roll of the men and women who have by their donations made this monument possible will be placed. At the top of the monument will be located giant telescopes and a wireless station and the most powerful searchlight ever constructed with over one million candlepower. Mrs. F. N. Boswell, who is in charge of this work is now in the city and will soon make some definite announcement as to the monument fund campaign in this county.

FIRE DEPARTMENT WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION SOON

Will Show How Quickly Coupling to Fire Hydrants Can Be Made

Plans for a fire department demonstration at which the equipment for making quick couplings would be shown are being made by Fire Chief McClure, who will probably arrange it for one evening this week, possibly Thursday. He is anxious for the public to become familiar with this part of the department's work. The chief also hopes to arrange for a more complete demonstration of the department's work by having the public witness the answering of a call; the members of the department would show the speed with which they can leave their beds, dress and make their getaway. The chief believes such demonstrations would give the public a better idea of the efficiency of the department.

TEXAS HIGHWAYS BEING IMPROVED

ROUTE MAY BE COMPLETED TO LAREDO WITHIN NEXT YEAR

D. E. COLP WRITES LETTER

Congratulates D. P. Talley and Other of Work Being Done

A man will soon be able to get in his automobile at Laredo and go all the way to Dallas over good highways, according to D. E. Colp of San Antonio, secretary of the Texas Good Roads Association and president of the Texas division of the Meridian Highway Association. Mr. Colp mentions this fact in a letter to D. P. Talley of this city on the subject of marking the Meridian and Colorado to Gulf Highways, a work in which Mr. Talley has taken a leading part. The letter follows:

Mr. D. E. Talley, Wichita Falls, Texas. Dear Sir: I am just in receipt of carbon copy of your letter, dated March 16th to A. W. Reed, secretary, Memphis, and I wish to say that I heartily agree with your ideas of marking the Colorado to Gulf Highway and also agree with you in the Meridian Road part of it.

It seems to me that the Colorado to Gulf should be given a little more prominence between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, while of course, I am only interested in this project in so far as the general welfare of the people of Texas is concerned, but at all times I like to see every organization in every community treated fairly and squarely on all propositions and unless the signs that already exist on this division are sufficient, I would say for the good of the Colorado to Gulf Association that they should have the signs wherever it is convenient and if they have not room for the regulation width, half that size would answer.

I am very glad indeed that you have taken such an active part in this work and I have been trying to get our people on the Meridian part south of Fort Worth interested in a similar campaign as soon as the weather and roads will permit.

I suppose you knew that there was to be done a series of road between Fort Worth and Laredo on the Meridian Road to be financed. The balance has already been provided for and the work going on in each county and with fairly good weather, people will be able to start at Laredo, Fair on pipe. There remains only seven miles to be financed between San Antonio and Dallas. That is in Hill county and the Commercial Club there assured us that that would be taken care of this summer if it had to be done by private subscriptions.

I expect to organize a road marking campaign in about sixty days of the Meridian Road, including the Galveston and Corpus Christi divisions. The people between Waco and Galveston are getting busy, Brazos county having voted $450,000; Falls county voted on $500,000 the 14th of this month; Robinson county has about completed her part and we hope to get Waller county financed within a short time.

At any time that I can be of any assistance on any good roads project in Texas, I want to feel free to call on me. Very truly yours,
D. E. COLP, Secretary.

The system of painting bands on poles for guiding tourist travel has been carried out in the north and northwest for four years and has proven to be the most effective means of accurately guiding the tourist. Each highway in the same section of country uses different colors for this purpose so as to avoid confusion. Wichita Falls has the distinction of being the first in Texas to so mark its highways, thus leading in this as it does in most worthy public affairs (except in hard surfaced roads) and promise is now given that the Meridian Road and Colorado to Gulf Highway will both be so marked all the way to Canada in the next two months. After that printed road instructions will not be necessary, further than a card explaining how to follow the stripes.

STOMACH PUMP SAVED WOMAN WHO SWALLOWED ACID

Whether this was due to the effectiveness of a woman on Lee street, who Sunday afternoon swallowed a quart of carbolic acid and today she was pronounced out of danger by Dr. Meredith, who was summoned. She of one of his letters led to the trounce bottle of the poison, severely burning her lips and face. The stomach pump was used and there is now every reason to believe she will recover.

The drinking of the poison followed a quarrel between the woman and her husband and when the latter failed to return home after being away for some hours the wife sought to end her life.

ED HOWARD, Manager

Greenville is reported to have more than twenty miles of paved streets. Wichita Falls is a good many miles short of that amount of paving, but then we are coming along thank you.

The disclosures several years ago in Union county, Ohio and those being made at the trials of Mayor Roberts of Terre Haute, Indiana, and a number of other defendants now in progress in the federal court at Indianapolis showing wholesale corruption of the electorate makes us glad that we live in the cotton belt instead of the corn belt. It would appear from the reports of the trial that the citizen of Terre Haute who did not get at least a half a dozen votes registered on the voting machine did not make much of a figure when the ballots were counted.

Though the proposition to submit the question of suffrage for women failed by a very narrow margin in the thirty-fourth legislature, there is little doubt but that it will bob up again at the special session to be called in April. As this paper views the matter, the legislature had just as well have the matter submitted to the people of the State and get rid of it. Eleven States have already granted suffrage to women and judging by the vote in the legislature, which only lacked three of having the necessary two-thirds, a large majority of the people of this State are willing to have the matter submitted.

Perhaps not half the women will vote when given an opportunity, but there have been elections held in the State at which not more than one-half the men who were qualified voters took the trouble to vote. As for the question of Statewide prohibition, it will make but little difference. It has been this newspaper's observation that there are just about as many women who, if given the opportunity, would vote the anti ticket, as there are women who are enthusiastic pros. That is a tolerably broad assertion to make, but the great majority of women, more especially in the South and West, vote with their husbands, fathers and brothers, and perhaps it is right and proper for them to do that.

QUID PRO QUO. The president of the United States is authorized to order retaliatory measures against any country where tariffs are injurious to American trade. The shape that British orders have taken to injure our commerce may not cause this point specifically, but as they lack precedent and are contrary to international law, a proper reply would be that all ports of the United States are forbidden to any merchant vessel flying the English or French flag. Great Britain could not object to this as she has already set the example for such a action, and it would quickly bring her statements to their senses—Old City Derrick.

was at the same time 48, Sherman was 43 and Sheridan was 32-years old. When Stonewall Jackson was killed in that same year he was but 39 and when McClellan was placed in command of the Union forces in 1861 he was only 35 years old.

These ages are interesting because they are in such striking contrast with the advanced years of the men who are in command of the armies now battling in Europe. On the German side General von Emmich, the captor of Liege, is 66 and General von Kluck is 68. General von Hauen, who recently gave up the command of the Saxon army, is 68; General von Heeringen is 64; General von Elnem, 61, and General von Bueow 68.

General von Moltke, chief of the German general staff, is 66, and General von Hindenburg, who is in command in East Prussia, is 67. Nearly all these officers took part in the Franco-Prussian war in 1870. On the allied side Earl Kitchener is 62, Smith-Dorrien is 66 and Sir John French is 62.

The three French generals, Paul,offre and Gallieni, are all approaching 70.

From this statement of years it is easy to infer that modern warfare demands in general a mature judgment and experience rather than the superabundant energy and high personal courage that were supposed to be the distinguishing marks of the old time warrior.

SENATOR REED PAYS GLOWING TRIBUTE TO THE JEWS.

From the Jewish Review and Observer, Cincinnati, Ohio, the Times extracts the following:

While the question of supporting or overriding President Wilson's veto bill was under consideration in congress, Hon. James A. Reed, senator from Missouri, delivered a powerful address on the subject on February 11, in the Senate of the United States, in the course of which he paid the following tribute to the Jews:

Shall we consider the Jew? Seek the source of the century-old wrongs he has endured and you will enter the caverns of ignorance where dwell the serpent of superstition and its pestilential offspring, persecution.

The Jew has been, and in some places still is, an outcast simply and only because he has steadfastly refused to abandon the God of his fathers.

For this 3,000 years ago were his urdens in Egypt made greater than he could bear. For this were his cities burned, the walls of his capital razed, his temples destroyed, his altars desecrated, his people slaughtered; for this was he carried into captivity by Syrian and Babylonian troops, his land reduced to a desert sown with the bones of murdered millions. Yet, in spite of all, for fifteen hundred years the Jew clung to the horns of his altars, cherished his temple, and revered his God.

For fifteen centuries the world was enveloped in the night of bigotry, ignorance, and terror—a night illumined by a single torch of truth, held aloft by the hand of the Jew.

The Jew alone during all that period of terror, vice, tyranny, despair and loathsome idolatry taught the doctrine of one Supreme God. He alone followed a code of laws which embraced every principle essential to liberty, morality and religion. His laws and his religion were to those of the other nations of the earth as is that of indescribable glory shining through the clouds of a storm- rent sky upon a sea of blood.

Then came the dawn of Christianity but its glory fell first upon the land of the Jew. The God-mother was a Jewess. The twelve disciples were Hebrew fishermen who spread their nets along the shores of the sea of Galilee.

From this race we get our religion, from its sacred writings our morals. It preserved the greater part of our knowledge of ancient history. The sublimest examples of sacred poetry and the tenderest expression of exalted devotion fell from the pens of inspired Jews.

Observe the work of the Jew before the Christian era and you do destroy the old Bible and the Ten Commandments. Strike out the work of the Jew of the Christian era and you obliterate the New Testament.

Your religion, the fundamentals of your laws, your ideas of virtue, your precepts of morality—all these you get from the Jew. From the lips of the son of a Jewess came the sublime command, "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

If you say some of the Jews crucified the Savior, I answer it was also Jews who followed Him to Calvary. It was a Jew who drew the nails from the cross. It was Jews who reverently bore the body to the sepulcher. It was Jews who awaited the glory of the resurrection. It was Jews to whom He appeared; with whom He walked and talked.

It was these same Jews who went into all the world teaching His word. They were beaten; they were imprisoned; they were led to wild beasts by those who sought to save. They gave their lives to the propagation of Christianity. The race has ever since been persecuted by those whom a part of the race converted.

But as civilization has progressed, and as the light of reason has penetrated the night of ignorance, a Jew has emerged from the jungles of barbarism and approached the sunlit plains of civilization, persecution of the Jew has lapsed or ceased. Only Russia and one or two others of the tardy nations continue the diabolic practice. Let us not ignore the aid of assistants or parties to the infernal policy.

If you were to name the 10 greatest statesmen of the century, you would be compelled to include the elder Disraeli an English Jew.

If you were to name the 10 greatest judges, you would include in the list a Jew, Rehn Daniel Isaacs, lord chief justice of England.

If you were to think of great lawyers of the century, your mind would call up the name of Juda P. Benjamin, attorney general of the Confederacy, and remember him as a Jew.

If you were asked to name the foremost actress of the world, you would instantly think of Sarah Bernhardt, a French Jewess.

If you were asked to call the name of a master of music, you would remember Anton Rubinstein, a Jew.

If you were to pursue your inquiry, you would find that in law, medicine, literature, science, philanthropy, art, and business the Jew has held his own with competitors of every race.

Let me quote the words of Joaquin Miller:

Who taught you tender Bible tales Of honey lands, of milk and wine? Of happy, peaceful Palestine Of Jordan's holy harvest vales? Who gave the patient Christ, I say, Who gave your Christian creed? Yes; Yes; Who gave your very God to you? Your Jew! Your Jew! Your hated Jew!

There are still rumors that ex-Senator Bailey will be a candidate for the senatorship to succeed Senator Culberson, and it is said his friends are expecting that an invitation will be extended the distinguished ex-senator to address the legislature at the special session to be called in April, at which time it is expected he will make formal announcement of his candidacy. Senator Culberson's friends persist in saying that he will be a candidate to succeed himself.

The fact that there are as many as a half dozen aspirants for the position he now holds does not seem to worry Culberson in the least.

PLANTING TREES FOR SHADE

By J. W. GRIFFIN.

In selecting a list of trees to plant for shade on your lawn or along the avenue, make a note of the character of the soil and plant accordingly.

If you are contemplating a home in the lowlands, where it is damp and where fogs hang on the better part of the morning, "cut it out," sell out, get out, do anything to get out, and go up higher if possible.

Leave the swampy lands to the fogs and mosquitoes and the fever.

Make a note of the trees that grow on the hillsides and those that grow on the hilltops. Pick out those that hold their foliage longest, also those whose foliage is healthiest and most dense.

Some advocate spring and some fall planting of fruit and forest trees. I have it that the following gives good results:

Where the trees to be set out are larger than two or three-year-old trees, I dig a hole four feet wide each way and two feet deep some time during the late fall or early winter.

The top soil is thrown on one side, the subsoil on the other.

The combined actions of the rain, freezing and thawing, produce a good effect on the soil thrown out, and up on the sides of the hole.

The trees to be set out are procured during the fall and are heeled in a protected place and are ready at any time they are wanted. A few days of sunshine and windy weather in early spring, put the mounds of earth, beside the holes, in fine shape to put in around the trees.

The trees may be set out two or three weeks before the surrounding soil will do to cultivate.

First, straw manure is tramped six inches deep in the bottom of the holes, then about six inches of the top soil is thrown in, leaving a little mound in the center of the hole upon which the center or taproot should rest.

The finer, or side roots, are spread out around the little mound, more of the top soil is thrown in and packed tightly around the roots, filling up all air spaces and holding them in proper place.

Next, some rotten straw, not manure, is thrown in, then the rest of the soil is tramped well around the trees. I do not use any manure next to the roots of trees. The manure is scattered around the trees, the rain takes the fertility down to the roots and the solid matter, while rotting, serves as a mulch.

The above method, if closely followed, will take a tree through the first summer, which is the most critical part of the life of a tree.

Get them started right. The way is easy. A bad start causes much trouble and delay.

SOME FLOWER NOTES

The azaleas bloom late in winter.

In the south plant sweet peas and trim roses.

Make out your lists for seeds and plants early.

Plants that are not growing need no fertilizers.

Take no chances in fighting insects; fight to exterminate.

Do not shower plants on cloudy days and keep out of the sun when wet.

A Fine Lot of White Spruce.

PLANT EVERGREENS EARLY

The best time to plant evergreens is early in the spring just when the new season's growth is starting. It is a mistake to plant too early; but if the planting is delayed until June, the trees are not apt to do well unless frequently watered and mulched during the summer months.

Some planting is done in August but we do not believe an inexperienced person can make his trees grow when planted so late.

Nurseries frequently put out their evergreens in July and August but more from necessity than choice, because they are too busy during the spring months to do required work. When evergreens are planted late they should be thoroughly watered and a dust mulch maintained around the roots until winter sets in.

It is difficult to tell by the looks of the trees whether they survive during the late summer months or not, as very often they retain their verdure some time after they are dead.

In the spring, however, trees that die turn brown within two or three weeks. The better time to plant evergreens, is, in our opinion, in the spring, and we see no reason why fall planting should be resorted to unless through necessity. A. T. S.

BILL DAIDY'S CHAPTER

By ROBERT F. HOFFMAN.

It is a feature of the glad, free life of this republic that every man is entitled to an opinion on everything under the sun, and, within wide limits, is entitled to the unrestricted expression of that opinion.

Bill Daidy is one of those who believe there is good in the large exercise of that privilege, although of late years he has added caution to candor.

In the old days he came in off his engine, loaded with the usual accumulation of griefs over the shortcomings of the roundhouse, which are apt to loom large in the long watches of the night run.

He gradually grew the habit of closing his regular harangue to the roundhouse foreman with a sort of peroration which summed up the real or imaginary derelictions of everybody connected with the road, from call-boy to president.

In an effort to break the flow of Bill's rough eloquence the roundhouse foreman, unwittingly set Bill's feet upon the path that led upward—downward, Bill laughingly insists sometimes.

"Bill, why in thunder don't you write a book?" said the long-suffering foreman, when Bill had become more than usually aggressive in his none too gentle imprecations. "You are sure wasting your talent on an engine."

Bill glared for a moment before he was able to let down the pressure of road management which he had mentally assumed, and then, as the recollection of a purchase he had recently made for his growing son flashed across his mind, he gave way to a slow grin and said:

"Blamed if I don't believe that's a good idea, Ballard. Maybe I'll just go you a chapter, when my boy gets fit with his machine."

So, Daidy, in his evenings at home, took to rehearsing his daily griefs to the boy, who laboriously hammered them out of the typewriter into grotesques of composition and the printer's art.

Daidy "dictated" and "revised," "killed copy" and "edited," although he did not know it in those terms, and after many days what he had grown to call "The Chapter" was finished, decked out with border lines that fairly exhausted the resources of the boy and the eighty-odd characters of the machine.

Bill gloated over it for a week of nights, and then liked it so well he decided to have it all done over again, in order that he might not only supply Ballard, but also send carbon copies of it surreptitiously to the superintendent of motive power, the division superintendent, and—holy holies—the general manager.

The superintendent of motive power duly received his copy, threw it in the waste basket, and remarked casually, "Bill!"

He liked Bill, but not Bill's too free exhortations.

The division superintendent read his copy and, laughing, pigeonholed it for future use in letting down the pressure of the superintendent of motive power when next they should lock horns over engine failures.

The general manager took up his copy from its personal cover and read it from start to finish, as follows:

Chapter One.

If this don't fit your case, you get a clearance card right here. The board is out for others.

When you build an engine and want the most results and don't care what kind, fix yourself with a lot of discouraged draftsmen, and, for chief, get a good wrangler that talks into his whiskers and don't decide much.

Tell them fellows, at the start, that you put them into that cheese-box office to stay, and they can't break out onto the road to see an engine do business, noways.

Don't say any of them too much. They are working on paper, and you can easily fix the engine after we get it.

Hire a lot of master mechanics that know all about sawmills. There ain't none around here, but you can see them running in the woods if you take a ride with me. They will be ready to lay up your new engine when it comes out.

Fix up boiler steel specifications that you know are O. K., and then let the purchasing agent bluff you into taking something better but cheaper; he can prove it. That will sure give a lift, once in a while, to some of us fellows—that's a little slow about circulating in the scenery, and it will make things brisk in the boiler shop. Them fellows need work. They are too strong to rest nights.

Use hammered engine frames. If I was a track man I'd like to be able to put my hand on a busted weld and say, "Them's it," after the engine jumped the track and got pulled out of a borrow-pit. The dispatcher won't care, if she don't block the track. It makes work for the blacksmiths.

Fix your spring-rigging so, when it breaks, the equalizer will hit, point down, in the track. Gives the engine a better start when she jumps. She will go farther and everything had ought to be made to go as far as it can.

Track-pedestal binder-bolts should set low enough to rip up a frosty plank crossing. It gives the engines a good name as goes. One nut's enough. Two stay on too well.

Put your driving-box wedge-bolts in a safe deposit box behind the driving men of some parts; part wood and part-leather, with brass trimmings—which I am

Yours truly,
WILLIAM DAIDY, Engineer.

When a man has enough strength of character to get his head above the common level, however grotesquely he may at first appear, there is usually something in him worth observing. If he has balance and staying powers he may get his feet upon the solid, and a leader has been discovered.

Somewhat in this fashion the general manager reasoned as he read Bill's chapter. He called his secretary, and by careful question and reply it was soon established that neither of them knew who William Daidy was nor what of William's chapter was fact and what fancy.

Therefore, the general manager made a brief investigation, put some pointed questions to the superintendent of motive power, who fumed a little, but electrified the master mechanic (as witness his short and simple inquiry of Bill), and thus Bill's little seeds began to grow apace.

Changes were made. Plans were devised and revised until new engine bore signs of improvement. These things were discussed on the home road, and the news of them went broadcast over many roads.

Bill's ideas bore the test of service, and flourished like the proverbial green bay tree, until finally they came before the "First Intelligence," the "Great Arcanum," or "Court of Last Resort" of the railroad mechanical world, and were called good. No longer bearing the name of "William Daidy, Engineer," it is true, but labeled with the names of many men, for that is the way of the world, and the destiny of all things that are good enough to prove good.

Bill never got beyond "Chapter One" of Ballard's "book." There was no need. But having demonstrated that he was "a man of parts," it was thought advantageous to transpire him to the ranks of those he had smitten. Thus, Bill became a road foreman of engines—and more.

wheels. Somebody might get at them with a wrench, on the road. Wedge-bolts had ought to be smelted or heard from when the journals screech; not seen.

If anybody thinks he wants to slack a wedge-bolt, let that man shoot the jamb-nuts off with a gun. That's what guns is for, and they'd ought to be carried in the tool kit.

The roundhouse gang's too good for the job. New engines don't run hot soon enough to suit yours truly. Put a crew of hoboes in there and tell them they got to save oil and ram the cellar-packing down in with a pin-bar. They will do it. The habbit and stuff you drop over the division makes good ballast.

Wall in your cellar-bolts, so if a fellow gets them out, digging habbit out of the cellar, on a fast run, he can't get them in again inside of fifteen minutes apiece. The dispatcher won't care—ask him—and the engineer daresn't. It's all he can do to talk his way out of a lay-off.

Don't you worry about front-ends. If the engine looks good to you, but don't steam no more than a teakettle with the bottom out, let the trainmaster put on a helper once in a while. Three or five years from now somebody else will have your job anyhow, and he'll set most of your front-end furniture out on the scrap pile while he cleans house, and forget to put it back again. That will help some.

If you find there's rooms to rent in the front end after you get it done, and the heater men show up again without the incubator, fill her up with their stuff. It's hang for us fellows, but it helps hold the front trucks down when you're going some.

Send your feed and air pipes as sharp and as often as you can. It shows that nobody was looking and they freeze up quicker.

Look out for your engine cab. Fix it so that if a fellow goes to the front door he can't get back again to the throttle without getting orders from the dispatcher, showing that the main line of the cab is clear.

The boy allows we are working too many nights at this. He wants a change. We are. So don't bother about fire-boxes and ash-pans. When the president sends word that he "couldn't see the right way on his last trip for smoke," send him to me, and I'll tell him he was on the wrong end of the train. It was all clear ahead of the engine.

That'll make him know that we are

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

- (1) Cream of Tartar, derived from grapes.
- (2) Alum, a mineral acid, and
- (3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities as exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white powder. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

At The Theaters

The Lydia Margaret. Kella and Hafner have one of the best acts ever seen in this theatre and as a musical offering it is far above anything heard here for some time.

Young Lord Stranleigh is on his yacht trying to get to a mine that he had purchased in South Africa, ahead of a ship that had been sent there by the mining directors of the company who had the intention of robbing Stranleigh of a cargo of ore.

Stranleigh, learning of this, made up his mind to escape from the trap in which he was ordered to wait for the vessel outside when it came on with the stolen ore.

The Empress. The inimitable Mabel and Patsy are here again, appearing in "Mabel and Patsy's Wash Day."

Tucson, professional gun man, is loved by Rhita, a pretty girl of the dance hall type. She adores their baby whom Tucson looks upon as a nuisance.

Miners Make Good Soldiers. Lord Kitchener, it appears, has in the course of his services become deeply impressed with the value of the Northumbrian miner as a military asset.

Ancient Weapons of War. The ancient catapult, of which the Austrians tried a modern version at Belgrade, was, strictly speaking, an engine that threw darts—a sort of machine-gun.

Sorrows of the War. They tell a story about Mme. Schumann-Heink's engagement in Philadelphia recently that shows how the war in Europe brings trouble to many people far from it.

Help Widowed Mothers. Twenty-two states now help women who have lost their husbands to support their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones are the parents of a nine pound baby boy who arrived yesterday afternoon.

At the Lydia Margaret Theatre tonight, Chas. and Anna Glocker in a decided novelty juggling act.
