WHITE MAN AGAIN HOLDS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

WILLARD KNOCKS OUT JOHNSON

"BIG DINGE" TAKES COUNT IN 25TH ROUND OF HARD BATTLE

COWBOY'S GREAT SHOWING

After Bad Start He Gains Confidence and Has Negro at Mercy in Closing Rounds

Havana, Cuba, April 5.—Jack Johnson's fight with Jess Willard in the 25th round of a grueling pugilistic contest took from him the championship belt and made Jess Willard, Kansas cowboy, the acknowledged premier heavyweight boxer of the world.

When the end came, the crowd, frantic with delight, charged into the ring and for a moment it appeared that the negro would be roughly handled. Cuban militia at once interfered in his behalf and cleared the spectators from the ring. The crowd gave vent to a tremendous demonstration over Willard's victory.

Willard was a beaten man, apparently when the fight was half over. Then his hardness and training began to tell and as round after round passed it became apparent that he was wearing the negro down. In the first ten rounds Willard took a tremendous amount of punishment but stood it well. There was never any brilliant fighting but a grim contest of hard pugilistic slugging. As the 20th round was passed the pace was telling heavily on Johnson and as he seemed to get slower, Willard's speed increased. In the 25th round came the finish.

Johnson started with a feint and landed a left on Willard's jaw, following with repeated uppercuts with his right to Willard's jaw. The white man appeared quite nervous. Willard poked two lefts to the black's body and the negro responded with a right to Willard's body.

Johnson had trouble in blocking Willard's leads, drawing him out of position with feints and scoring a right and left to the white's jaw. Willard came back with a stiff right blow to the negro's body. Johnson hooked a left to the stomach, following with three lefts to the body. Willard laughed. Johnson then rushed the challenger to the ropes with a tattoo of lefts to the face.

Both fighters laughed when Willard after considerable feinting, missed a right swing. Johnson rushed the fighting and scored a left on the body and a right to the jaw, then a left on the body. "Is that the way you do it?" asked Willard.

ROUND FOUR.

Willard lunged ineffectually and the big black laughed at the white man's clumsiness. There was much feinting. Johnson landed a left to the ribs and swung his right and left to the body. Willard's body was a target. He drew first blood from Willard's lip. Willard replied with a left to Johnson's nose.

ROUND FIVE.

Johnson poked a left and right to Willard's face. The referee ordered the fighters to break a clinch. The negro smashed a hard one to Willard's ribs and drove three blows to the cowboy's stomach. The champion rushed Willard to the ropes, scoring punches to the head and body. Willard was badly distressed. The challenger was rattled and boxed like an amateur.

ROUND SIX.

The negro was calm and rushed Willard to the ropes with a fusillade of lefts. On the break Johnson landed a smash to the giant's jaw. The negro rubbed Willard's cut lip at every opportunity. The negro landed three crushing blows to Willard's unprotected body. At the bell, Johnson was hammering hard at Willard's body. The cowboy's left cheek was cut.

ROUND SEVEN.

Johnson is using every artifice to force the fighting. He rushed Willard to the ropes slugging with both hands repeatedly. Willard's long left temporarily blinded the negro's left eye. Johnson came back with a series of swings to Willard's body. It has been a clean fight so far.

ROUND EIGHT.

Willard was gaining confidence and tried to force the fight. Johnson accepted his challenge, the pugilists battered each other across the ring, the negro having the better of it. Willard landed on Johnson's mouth, the Johnson uppercut Willard over the heart. Willard bounced off the ropes and landed a left to the jaw.

ROUND NINE.

Johnson is getting wild. He rushes wildly and is visibly tired. He clinched at every opportunity. Willard sent a long right to the body. Willard blocks two lefts to the jaw. Johnson swings wildly and missed a blow to the head. It was Willard's round.

ROUND TEN.

Johnson was slow in coming from his corner. Willard scored two lefts to the face. Jess was blocking better as his nervousness wore off. Johnson swung a left to Willard's ribs and sent half a dozen blows to Willard's body and jaw. The negro knocked Willard to the ropes with right and left swings to the stomach. A hard right chop staggered Willard.

ROUND ELEVEN.

The crowd derided Johnson who was fighting and answering their sallies at the same time. Willard drove a left to the negro's mouth and took a right hook to the body in return. Johnson smashed the cowboy with a left to the jaw. Jess blocked several swings. Johnson then tried to rattle Willard by talking. The latter angrily replied in kind; Johnson tapped the giant's shoulder at the end of the bell. It was a slow round.

ROUND TWELVE.

The negro opened with a left to the body and right to the jaw. In a clinch he smashed Willard three with his left. Johnson drove a right to the body and a left to the head. The negro apparently had no more on Willard. Willard's ear and cheek were bleeding. He walked spryly to his corner.

ROUND THIRTEEN.

ROUND FOURTEEN.

The round opened with Willard rushing an smashing a right uppercut. The challenger was the aggressor and tried to force the fighting. Johnson slammed Willard on the mouth with his left. Jess only laughed. The negro is beginning to miss his leads. Willard drove a hard right to Johnson's ear and the negro smashed a hard left to the body at the bell.

ROUND FIFTEEN.

The crowd kidded Johnson, who rushed Willard to the ropes and scored five hard swings, remarking: "What a grand old man." Willard grinned at the remark and also at the blows accompanying it. The bell found both pugilists fighting in the center of the ring.

ROUND SIXTEEN.

Johnson missed a left to the head and they clinched. The challenger blocked the negro's rush. Amid much fighting Johnson said: "Willard is a good kid" and then rushed Jess to the ropes, scoring two hard punches to the body. The negro drove terrific swings to Willard's side. The challenger was a trifle unsteady going to his corner.

ROUND SEVENTEEN.

Johnson hooked a left to his opponent's jaw and a right uppercut to the same place. Willard landed a right to Johnson's body and a left to the head. Willard again scored a right to the body and blocked the negro's return. Jack drove Willard to the corner and landed two swings to the head. Johnson again hooked a right to the body and followed it with two punches to the head.

ROUND EIGHTEEN.

After playing a tattoo on Willard's chest and stomach, the negro drove Willard to his corner, where the negro smashed him twice on the jaw. Willard's leads were easily picked off by the champion. After several tries, Jess landed a straight left to Johnson's face and a right swing to the jaw. At the bell Johnson landed a punch to the body and another to the jaw.

ROUND NINETEEN.

Both pugilists slowed up a bit. Willard is now aggressor. Johnson stood in the middle of the ring and blocked Willard's blows. During the first minute not a single hard punch was landed, the negro then started rally landing two lefts to the body and a right to the jaw.

ROUND TWENTY.

Willard opened the round with two light blows to the face. The negro laughed and said: "Lead again kid." Willard did and smiled also. The crowd yelled, "Hurrh, we want to see the race." Willard stabbed and pawed the air until he landed a swing on the negro's jaw. The black man immediately cut loose and they battled across the ring. The crowd went frantic when Willard drove a hard right and left to the negro's body with the bell.

ROUND TWENTY-ONE.

ROUND TWENTY-TWO.

The fight degenerated into a slow springing and clinching battle. Neither appeared particularly tired or injured. Willard tried setting the pace. In a clinch he battered the negro's body with rights and lefts. Johnson only grinned. Willard continued working for the negro's stomach. Jack grinned at the shrieking crowd. Nevertheless Johnson is showing the effects of the pace.

ROUND TWENTY-THREE.

Willard rushed into a clinch, Johnson held on until ordered to break. Willard shot two lefts to the negro's face. They clinched again and

TOMORROW WILL BE ELECTION DAY

THREE CANDIDATES TO BE CHOSEN OUT OF A FIELD OF SIX

GOOD VOTE IS INDICATED

"Labor" Campaign Committee Active But Others Have Made No Canvass

The Candidates
A. C. Wilson, J. L. Lea, Jr., S. T. Taylor, J. W. Bradley, C. C. Willard, J. F. Reed.

Today marks the close of the aldermanic election campaign and tomorrow the question goes to the voters. While the "administration ticket" is not working at all, the other side is quite busy and has been waging a systematic campaign in an effort to bring the full labor vote out for the labor ticket.

A change in precincts affecting a considerable number of voters, becomes effective tomorrow. Heretofore Indiana avenue has been the dividing line between the court house and city hall precincts. Tomorrow Lamar avenue will be the dividing line, and all voters residing along the river, will vote at the city hall box; the voters in the rest of the city will cast their ballots at the court house box.

At the court house, T. J. Hickman will be presiding judge, J. A. Burton assistant judge, E. S. White and George Simmons, clerks; at the city hall, J. B. Pitts is presiding judge, Henry Ammon, assistant, J. J. Manly and J. M. Borer, clerks.

Although most of the general campaigning has taken the form of newspaper articles, the labor campaign committee has made a very systematic canvass of the city and is hopeful of polling practically all the labor strength to the labor ticket. The negro side has displayed very little activity and the candidates themselves have worked not at all.

New York, April 5.—Otto Zinn, a restaurant keeper, a porter and a cook were killed early today in the cellar of the restaurant. The Villa arrests at Friederichshafen and criticized them on several scores. The count said that the full powers of the Zeppelins had not been employed. He also said there was too much of a disposition on the part of those who handled them to wait for favorable weather and not to venture their use to meet military requirements despite the weather. He also pointed out that the range of the operations was not wide enough. He believed an attack on London and the lower Thames had been delayed on this account. The count also reproved his captains for retreating from hostile aviators.

ARREST OF JOHNSON EXPECTED AT HAVANA

Secret Service Men at Ringside Ready For Developments at End of Fight

Chicago, April 5.—United States District Attorney Clayne announced today that the government had stationed men at the ringside of the fight in Havana. He declined to go into details concerning their purpose. "Sensational developments may be announced later in the day," he said, "but at present all I can say is that secret service men have been stationed at the ringside and will watch every move that Johnson makes after his fight. Their action will be given largely circumstances."

It was also learned that Johnson, who is under conviction on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act, has been trailed by federal agents today in his confinement principally to a new outside the three mile limit in Cuba or approach the shore line of the United States would be taken into custody and hurried before federal court here.

HAVANA SKIES OVERCAST AT DAYBREAK TODAY

Johnson's Only Anxiety Over When He Would Receive $30,000 Named in Contract

Chicago, April 5.—The day of the world's heavyweight championship battle between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard broke with overcast skies and decidedly cool wind blowing from the sea. The sun rose behind a bank of clouds but as the day advanced blue patches of sky appeared.

Havana was stirred by the event and dawn found the city awake to the full importance of the unusual occurrence. The downtown fight headquarters were crowded with ticket buyers and the morning saw the arrival of wealthy Cubans from all parts of the island.

Johnson prepares coolly to defend his title, his only anxiety being over the moment when Jack Curley, the promoter of the fight, would arrive at his headquarters with the $30,000 cash named in the negro's contract signed at Paris. This very important event had been set for eleven o'clock. Johnson chatted and laughed as if he had not a care in the world. This confidence and self-possession is reported to be one of the champion's assets, especially against a man of nervous temperament.

Willard retired early last night and said that he had a refreshing night's sleep. He said he was glad, the day of the fight had come as he had been in training nine weeks, having first started to train when the fight was arranged to be held at Juarez, Mexico, March 9th.

It has been learned that he called together, one day last week, his engineers and captains not only of the dirigibles but of all German aircraft at Friederichshafen and criticized them on several scores. The count said that the full powers of the Zeppelins had not been employed. He also said there was too much of a disposition on the part of those who handled them to wait for favorable weather and not to venture their use to meet military requirements despite the weather. He also pointed out that the range of the operations was not wide enough. He believed an attack on London and the lower Thames had been delayed on this account. GREECE AND BULGARIA ARE MASSING TROOPS

MOVING BAND OF BURGARS REPORTED TO HAVE GROSSED GREEK FRONTIER

AUSTRIA ADMITS RETREAT

Both Vienna and London Look To Carpathians As Point For Decision Soon

London, April 5.—The moving band of Bulgars driven out of Serbia has penetrated Greece at three points, according to a Salonika dispatch. The English press sees in this episode a development that may mean a flare up in the smoldering Balkans. An advance reaching London by way of Rome today however asserts that Bulgaria has agreed to give full satisfaction to Serbia. The incident however is expected to draw from Bulgaria a definite statement as to the policy she proposes to pursue. All of the Balkan nations are awaiting the outcome. Meanwhile Greece is massing troops along the Bulgarian frontier. Bulgarian reservists have received orders to join their colors. The allies attribute the incidents of the Bulgarian invasion to German machinations. Vienna joins with London in looking to the Carpathians as the quarter from which to expect a decision soon. London seems to be confident that the Russians will break through the Carpathian passes and overrun the rich Hungarian plains. The Austrians appear to be throwing every available man into the fight at this point so that a hard struggle can be expected.

Notwithstanding official denials it is said in Rome that Turkey and possibly Austria are considering the initiative of a peace mission should not be taken too seriously.

Beyond the mere admission that the Austrian forces in Basked have been compelled to retreat Vienna has given no indication of the status of affairs in that section. There is every indication that Hungary is threatened seriously with an invasion.

SELLING THEM OUT

By H. M. EGBERT.

When Allan Gray walked out of the office of Smith's Weekly, after having applied successfully in response to an advertisement for an assistant, he thought that his future was assured. Twenty-four just out of college, with all the enthusiasm of a young man facing the struggle of life, he appealed to Smith, although for different reasons than those which Smith outlined.

"We're here to fight corruption in Bender," said the middle-aged editor and proprietor, thumping his fist down on the table. "And we're going to clean up the rottenest town in the whole state. That is my purpose, and that's what we are going to do—together, Mr. Gray."

There was a girl in Allan Gray's life. Her name was Mildred and she was twenty-two. She was earning a living in the metropolis two hundred miles away. Each of them was putting by money toward the day—the great day when Allan would be able to earn an income for both of them.

At the end of his first month of service Gray's salary was raised from fifteen dollars to twenty-five. Smith was rapidly handing over to him the charge of the Weekly. The young man's stinging editorials in particular aroused the editor's approbation.

"Give it 'em, boy!" said Smith. "Well done, young man! I see I made no mistake in taking you." With more sophistication, Allan might have suspected that something was wrong. Actually, he was delighted. He detailed the entire situation to his sweetheart in his twice-week letters.

"It's this way, dear," he wrote. "We are putting hot shot into old Gregory, who has been boss of Bender for the last twenty years and has everyone in his power. We are exposing his graft in connection with the street franchises, the departments of the city government. We are advocating the form of government by commission. And by heck! as Smith says, we are going to win."

Certainly the appearance of the new weekly created a prodigious sensation in a town of 100,000 inhabitants. Together Smith and Allan assailed the boss with horsewhips of invective. What had he got for the franchise traction? Why was a convict manager of the waterworks department?

"I've Got a Lunch Appointment."

Who got the contract for the roads, and why? On the day, following the appearance of the first issue a deputation of local merchants made their appearance and announced that Smith need look for no advertisements from them. Smith was not counting on advertisements. He laughed them out of his office. When the circulation ran up to 30,000 he guffawed. Smith's Weekly was a success beyond all doubt. Everyone bought it, from Boss Gregory to the high school boys.

At the end of three months Allan was writing nearly all the editorials, under Smith's guidance. The older man confessed that the youngster could beat him at his own game. Then Allan wrote gleefully to Mildred:

"The time is coming, dear. After the approaching elections we shall have a new government. Then business will flow our way. Gregory and his satellites will be consigned to the outer darkness, I shall be raised again, and we will be married! Think of that! Married!"

Four weeks before the elections, to his amazement the young fellow was waited on by a deputation of citizens at his boarding-house. They wanted him to run for the office of sheriff, paying $2,500 yearly.

"But I don't know anything about the work!" exclaimed the boy, dejected.

"I'm afraid, Mr. Gray, there is very little chance of your election," said the chief of the deputation candidly. "The sheriff's post has always gone to a Gregory man. You know, Tom Vincent has an enormous following of voters. He has had the position ten years now. Well, there must be a turn-over—there must. And you may get in. Let us put you on the ticket."

Gray accepted and told Mr. Smith enthusiastically next morning. To his surprise his employer was not overenthusiastic. To his greater surprise, that day Smith told him to "go slow" instead of to "ginger up."

"We mustn't overdo it," he explained lamely. "We don't want to create a reaction."

While Allan stared at him, speechless in surprise, Smith put on his coat and hat.

"I've got a lunch appointment," he said. "See here, young man, are you as stupid as you appear to be?"

"He got no further, for at that moment he was struck down with apoplexy. An ambulance was called and the doctor took the man away to the hospital."

"He'll probably get well," he said. "But—it will be some time before he can use his pen or do any work again."

Allan, left alone in the office, did not know what to do. Therefore, he started to do his work exactly as though the unexpected had not happened. He was hard on a biting editorial when the shadow of a man in a silk hat fell across his desk and caused him to start round.

Behind him, immaculately dressed, his heavy jaw set in a sneering smile, stood Gregory himself.

"Well, sir!" said Allan, rising. "This is bad news about Mr. Smith," said the boss.

"I should hardly expect you to take it that way, sir," suggested Allan. The old boss took a chair at his side. "So you are the young man that has been holding me up before the public gaze as a second-rate!" he said.

"I am, sir," answered Allan, "and I believe conscientiously that—"

The boss laid a hand on his arm. "Now, if I had a young man like you with me," he said, "what wouldn't I be able to do?"

"I can't be bought, Mr. Gregory," said Allan.

"I don't need to buy you, my boy," answered the other. "At least, I don't think I do. But Smith can't talk, and what's the good of owning him?"

"I don't understand—" Allan began. "I know you don't," answered the other. "I never thought you did from the beginning. Your editorials had the ring of truth; his didn't. Well, then, my friend—Jim Smith started this paper to get bought out. Understand that? I wouldn't buy at his price. I didn't believe he could hurt me. He could. I was wrong for once in my life. When I came up to his terms he went higher. So we played taster till four weeks before election day. Yesterday we agreed on terms. And—this is my paper."

Allan listened in horror, and gradually he began to understand many things that had been mysteries to him. No wonder Smith had encouraged him to write more stinging invective—till that same morning.

"You will show me the agreement," suggested Allan.

"Mr. Gray," said the boss, "I never bluff. It wasn't signed by Mr. Smith. He was to have signed in my office today, after lunch."

"Then," said Allan calmly, "I shall run the paper alone. I shall be true to what I believed my employer's principles to be."

"Wait a minute," said Gregory, pulling a letter out of his pocket. "Read this—not so close, young man. Do you think this letter, offering to accept my terms, would read well in the newspapers? And this, you see, is signed."

Yes, that was Smith's signature. Allan sank back helplessly in his chair. He could say nothing more.

"Now, my young friend," Gregory continued, "how much influence do you suppose will remain to Smith's Weekly when this letter is published and you are jointly involved with our friend in what you would call a shameless conspiracy?"

"None," admitted Allan.

"Then," said the boss, "will you suspend publication or drag a dying man's name down to infamy to gain a reputation for sincerity in which no one will believe?"

Allan thought hard. Then, "I will suspend for that letter," he answered.

"Now you're talking sense," answered the boss. And he placed the letter in Allan's hands. He knew that he had not misjudged his man.

There was a good deal of quiet talk about Smith during the period preceding the elections. The story of his dishonesty became gradually known. But nobody ever suspected the integrity of Allan Gray.

50,000 TONS PROVISIONS SOLD BY PRIZE COURTS

By Associated Press. London, April 5.—Fifty thousand tons of provisions sent to English prize courts since the opening of the war have been sold within the last week and the money for the cargoes is in the hands of the court officials.

Most of the cargoes belonged to American firms. Wheat, flour and all sorts of provisions were included. Tired of the delay in getting a hearing on their cases, agents of the owners of most of the cargoes welcome the sale, providing the money is paid promptly.

The provisions were consigned to firms in Holland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Germany and most of them were shipped early in the war to firms which the British suspected were German agents but the cases never came up for court decision. The supplies were bought, for the most part, on a much lower market than the present. Naturally the owners have suffered great loss through the delay, but the sale prices were well above the cost and would enable American shippers to break even if speedy settlements are made.

Under the international regulations controlling foodstuffs, the regulations generally accepted by both England and the United States, food is not contraband unless destined for the use of a hostile force. It would have been extremely difficult to prove to the satisfaction of any court that most of the food consignments held in England were of enemy destination, much less that they were for use of the German army. Apparently the English government did not care to undertake such a task. At one time it was suggested that all detained foodstuffs should be sold to the American commission for the relief of Belgium. But the English board of trade would not consent to

FREEDOM OF PRESS NOT TO BE ABRIDGED IN TEXAS
By Associated Press. Austin, Tex., April 5.—Freedom of the press is not to be abridged while James E. Ferguson is governor of Texas. This was made clear when he disapproved a bill passed by the last legislature which sought to regulate the printing of campaign literature. The bill would have placed the burden on the printers or publishers of newspapers of requiring from persons offering matter to be printed to give their names and addresses.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS

This is an age of revolution. It is in the air. Every day brings forth some revolutionary change in government or industry that is gradually changing the whole course of human events, and each change calls for a greater one that must take place on the morrow.

In a recent issue, The Times speaks of this revolution and calls attention to the fact that, owing to the cheaper service the motor lines are able to give, they are crippling the electric and steam railways. This is doubtless true but it was only a few generations ago that all transportation was carried on by teamsters with dray wagons and stage coaches, and when it is remembered that the coming of the railroads, so cheapened transportation that it not only crippled but destroyed the profitable business of the teamsters, do you think the railroads and electric lines have much room to fret? It might also be argued that the parcel post has crippled the express companies, as we know it has, but is that any reason for restricting the parcel post system? The old must give way to the new and the greatest good to the greatest number should receive the first consideration.

It is true, as The Times points out, these motor lines are taking advantage of the public roads and streets to carry on their business and, The Times further suggests that perhaps in time our law makers may see fit to collect a toll from those who use the roads. That, I think, is a doubtful theory, for this is an age of progress and the toll gate is a relic of the past. The people destroyed and abandoned that system once as being unprogressive and a nuisance and is likely that they will ever adopt a similar system again?

is toward public ownership and is it not likely that in time the public will own and operate these motor lines and thus systematize, reduce the cost, and greatly increase the service now rendered the public? We hear a great deal of talk about government ownership of railroads but it costs a lot of money to buy a railroad while on the other hand, the public already owns its roads and streets and the cost of buying motor trucks and motor buses is not very great. With comparatively small cost the government could establish a system of motor lines throughout the country that would make one of the greatest revolutions in industry and commerce of the age. Of course the public roads need repair, so do the railroads, and it is much cheaper to build public roads than to repair old railroads. The government has the capital, the machinery and the idle men, willing and anxious to work, why then should it not begin a movement and work of this kind?

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

How Income Tax Law Hits Members of Congress

WASHINGTON—There isn't the slightest doubt that if the last congress had it all to do over again it would nullify a provision in the income tax law allowing senators and representatives to deduct their election expenses from their income tax returns. Members of congress have awakened to the fact that they must allow the sergeants-at-arms of both houses to deduct the income tax in advance from congressional salaries without taking campaign expenses into consideration. Thus there are several congressmen who have paid out large amounts to be re-elected who must still pay income taxes on the money they spent.

The income tax division of the internal revenue bureau will not give help; it has ruled that campaign expenses are personal, and are, therefore, returnable as a part of net income and subject to the tax.

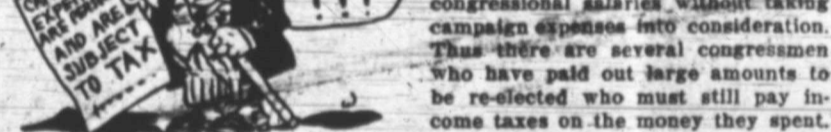

This decision, it is said at the treasury, might be altered if congressmen appealed to the secretary of the treasury and could show a basis for an interpretation of the law more favorable to their desires and pocketbooks.

Congressmen, it is explained, have hesitated to take this course for two reasons; first, because such an argument has been difficult to invent, and second, because it might prove embarrassing to any congressman adopting such a course. The treasury department officials hint that a decision favorable to congressmen might also put the secretary of the treasury in a bad light.

It remains now for some congressman bolder than his fellows to introduce an amendment to the income tax law allowing campaign expenses to be deducted from net congressional incomes. In the house, it is learned, those responsible for the income tax law have steadily opposed any such change.

"In reply to your verbal inquiry," says the nearly stereotyped reply of the income tax division to the many applicants for information, "you are advised that the expenses incurred by a member of congress in conducting a campaign for re-election are regarded by this office as purely personal in character, and, therefore, not deductible in a return of your income under the provisions of the income tax law."

The treasury will not divulge the names of the thrifty legislators who have telephoned and written letters on this subject, but it is a matter of wide comment and gossip at the capitol; so the treasury ruling has been spread about from one congressman to another.

"STOP THIEF" AT THE MAJESTIC TUESDAY

Two kleptomaniacs and two real crooks and a double wedding are responsible for all the fun in "Stop Thief," George Kleine's latest photoplay. The film is founded on the Co-han & Harris farce by Carlyle Moore, which had such a long and successful run throughout America a short while ago.

One of the kleptomaniacs is the millionaire father of two charming girls whose double wedding occurs on the night a new maid is engaged. To the great misfortune of the well-laid wedding plans, the maid has promised her sweetheart, a real crook of the light-fingered variety, that she will assist him do one last job before they are married. Incidentally one of the purposes of this last job is to acquire a few wedding presents, which would not otherwise be forthcoming, to grace the nuptials.

All sorts of weird and mysterious things begin to happen. With two real crooks and two kleptomaniacs the double wedding bids fair to wind up in the police station. It's all settled amicably, however, with the aid of a battalion of police and benevolent minister who ends a riotous evening with a triple wedding.

The cast features all of the original principals of the stage play with Mary Ryan and Harry Montague playing the light-fingered maid and her sweetheart.

"Stop Thief" visits the Majestic Tuesday.

Denver tank east of the city. Death was due to natural causes, Justice Howard decided. The negro had been in the vicinity for several days sleeping on an old straw stack and his actions had led those in the neighborhood to consider him crazy. Yesterday he was seen to stagger and fall and was dying when help reached him. Death ensued shortly after. There was nothing on his person by which to identify him. He was buried by the county.

He Swallows Toothbrush. James Shaffington of the Providence school committee has a fine set of teeth of which he is very proud. The other morning he was polishing his ivory, and, in the course of his rubbing, his grip on the handle of the brush slipped and the brush went down Jim's throat, too far for him to recover it. Realizing the gravity of the situation, Shaffington had a hurry call sent to the Rhode Island hospital, and there the doctors lost no time in operating upon him. The brush was removed from his stomach and in the afternoon the patient was reported as doing well. Providence Dispatch to Philadelphia Record.

The Whisperers of Paris. True, every day is like Sunday now in Paris. The church bells of Paris! Day and night calling across the muted city from Montmartre to Montparnasse! No more blundering studying and whispering about the Byzantine and Gothic styles in the stillness of those dim, venerable churches; for the whisperers now are the women of Paris, kneeling before the Virgin, praying each for a loved one out at the front in the trenches—Estelle Loggia in the Century Magazine.

1000 MARK SET FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL

ATTENDANCE EASTER DAY AT M. E. CHURCH SOUTH SUNDAY SCHOOL 756

1849 IN THREE SCHOOLS

Baptist Sunday School Had 678 and Christian 415—All Schools Growing

A new high record for Sunday school attendance was established yesterday when a total of 756 were present at the M. E. South Sunday School. This is the second time lately the record has been broken as the first Baptist Sunday school established a new high figure of 650 on the previous Sunday. Yesterday the Baptists had 678 in attendance, breaking their own record, and being in turn surpassed by the M. E. South school. There were 415 at the Christian Sunday school yesterday, making a total of 1849 at the three largest Sunday schools in the city.

The Baptist Sunday school during March established a new record for average attendance for the month, having an average of 580 each Sunday. The M. E. South Sunday School has set 1000 as its mark for its rally day Sunday school which will be in May. C. W. Snider, cashier of the City National Bank, superintendent of the M. E. South Sunday school, while W. L. Robertson, assistant cashier, is superintendent of the Baptists. Bank officials are contemplating the erection of barbed wire entanglements in the lobby between these officials if the rivalry continues.

The Robatch Mineral Water.
Acts directly on the digestive organs of the stomach, strengthening the kidneys and keeps the blood in fine condition. Good circulation is the only cure for constipation, rheumatism and the only way the system has to throw off germs that cause typhoid, smallpox and other loathsome diseases. Four years in the water business in Wichita Falls has taught us precaution during epidemics of loathsome diseases. We are not strangers in Wichita Falls. We have been here fifteen years and are here to stay. We have always met our obligations. We are equipped to furnish our trade with a clean, wholesome vessel and the best water in the state. Fall in line and share good health with us. Special attention given to five gallon phone orders. Our wagon leaves the well at 7 a. m. and 2 p. m. Phone 9001-ring 14. G. J. Robatch, Proprietor.

OUR BUSINESS IS GOOD

And I am proud of the class of business that comes to my shop. I have always strived to please my customers with the best in work and service, and there is a satisfaction in knowing that I have succeeded. My customers are proof that the best is none too good for a customer. The customers of a business are usually on a par with the business itself. Good work and good service brings good customers, while cheap, undependable service brings customers who do not appreciate the best. If you want the best, let us have your business, as that is the only kind of service we have. Don't send your work to the cheap shop.

WHEN YOU STOP TO THINK

Have you really done all you could towards beautifying that cemetery plot of yours? We know it is the habit to neglect those things, and count a death in the family as an added burden to be thrown off as lightly as possible. Don't you think you owe it to the community in which you live to assist those who are striving with all their might to make our BURIAL GROUNDS half way beautiful. The good ladies of the Cemetery Association have labored long and unceasingly, without so much as "thank you" from good influential citizens, who have never looked at their plot since that last sad day when some one was buried. Are you a real live wire, or just a plain make believe? Go out and look the situation over, that neglected plot on the hill will answer this question for you.
