FRY TRIAL EXPECTED TO START TOMORROW

Young County Witnesses and Citizens Already Arriving For the Trial

One of the most notable murder trials ever staged in this city will begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in the 7th district court before Judge E. W. Fry. The case is that of E. W. Fry, Pete Fry, Rufus Todd and John Lischke, under indictment for murder in connection with the death of Deputy Sheriff E. T. (Tom) Cherryholmes of Young county in February.

Cherryholmes died as the result of wounds received when defending the court house early in the morning of February 24. The arrests of the four men followed.

The men were soon indicted and their cases called for trial, when the venue was changed to Wichita county; they have been in jail here for nearly a month.

Advance Guard Here.
Owing to the prominence of Judge Fry and the events leading up to the tragedy, there is marked interest in the case. About 60 young county citizens are coming up to attend the trial. The advance guard of these reached the city today.

The selection of a jury is expected to take all day Wednesday, and a special venire of 90 men has been summoned. It is not expected that the taking of testimony will begin before Thursday.

The forgery charge against Judge Fry will also be tried here. This charge grew out of the cashing of county warrants by the judge when he was in office, and involved a total of about $25,000. He was arrested while serving in the legislature at Austin and when brought back to Graham to give bond, sentiment was very strongly on his side and half the town turned out to greet him at the station.

Cherryholmes Popular.
E. T. Cherryholmes, the officer whose death resulted in the murder charge, was a very popular official, having lived in Young county many years. After the shooting he is said to have gone to a telephone near the court house and called up his wife, or in the county.

"They've got me," he said, "take care of the children." Before many hours he was dead.

Just how the crowd is going to be accommodated is a problem. The old district court room has been cut into two sections, so as to provide a meeting place for the new district court and this leaves a comparatively small space for the holding of the trial. In view of the large crowd that is expected to attend, there will probably be many who are unable to gain admission.

Mrs. E. W. Fry arrived in the city last night from Graham and visited her husband at the county jail this morning. Her mother is here with her. Mrs. Fry is a witness for the defense in the case.

ANOTHER DARING EXPLOIT ATTRIBUTED TO PEGOND
By Associated Press.
Paris, April 6.—Another daring exploit has been added to the long list of the successes of Pegond, the famous French aviator. Pegond recently saw a German taube approaching. He set flight and attacked the taube near Meauville. He sent it to the earth with a few well directed shots. Pegond then landed beside the taube and took prisoners the German observer and pilot who were unhurt.

THREE MASKED MEN ROB POSTOFFICE AT HAMBY

Compel Son of Postmaster to Open Safe and Leave Him Bound on Floor

By Associated Press.
Abilene, Texas, April 6.—Three masked men secured $300 in money and stamps from a store at Hamby, eight miles northeast of here early today, $300 which were postoffice funds and $100 belonging to W. M. G. Mackechny, owner of the store. The masked men at the point of revolvers, forced Mackechny's son to open the store and with pistols made him open the safe. They then bound him and left him on the floor.

W. M. Mackechny is a brother of Dr. L. Mackechny and John Mackechny of this city. He was expected here on a visit with his brothers and another this afternoon and may have been en route here when the robbery took place.

SOIL CALLS ENERGIES OF AUSTRIAN PEOPLE

Next to War, Agriculture is Chief Pursuit of Emperor Joseph's Subjects

By Associated Press.
Vienna, April 6.—Next to war, agriculture is the chief pursuit of the Austrian people. "If we can only obtain sufficient labor," says the government, "the next harvest is secured." Consequently everything possible is now being done to provide for the spring work on the land. Tens of thousands of boys and girls have been released from attendance at school; married women and girls are being pressed into service, and adult male workers are as eagerly sought after as are recruits for the armies in the field.

By a special decree the Austrian ministry of education has directed that in the country districts all children in the three higher grades, that is, of twelve, thirteen and fourteen years of age, are to be excused from school, in order that they may work in the fields or at home. The school authorities are instructed to organize this child labor in a systematic manner, so that the best results may be obtained by employing them in districts where help is most needed. They will be formed into groups in a sort of military manner, the elder boys acting as under officers. It is thought that this will encourage the children in working, besides inspiring them with patriotic sentiments.

Practically all country children have been brought up to work on the land, and there are endless ways in which they can be useful, from picking cat-earrillers of the fruit trees to guiding a plough and a yoke of oxen. Farmers declare that the modern plough is so lightly built that a sturdy boy of twelve years can quite easily work it. Then as to the girls the little ones can look after the babies at home, while the bigger ones cook and iron, and carry meals to the workers in the field.

So many peasants have been called to the army that there is very little adult male labor left in the rural districts. And the few men who are there show no great inclination to go to work, and so far have steadily refused to enter into the usual contracts for harvest work hoping by waiting to get considerably higher wages. The land owners are furious and threaten that the government will compel them to work when the time comes. And as a matter of fact the state has already empowered local authorities to force able-bodied men of all classes to work in the fields in case of necessity, for wages at the current rate in the district.

In addition to securing all the labor possible, the government is doing its best to encourage the use of machinery on the farms. The ministry of agriculture has already agreed to subsidize seed sowing machines with a grant of twenty dollars each, and will do the same with harvesting machines when the crops are ready.

The field work of last fall is said to have been very satisfactorily performed, and now it is hoped that by all these expedients the problem of the spring work will also be solved, so that in the end the next harvest will not fall far below the average.

Bread has gone up considerably and costs now from four to six cents a pound. The quality is miserable, as it contains only fifty per cent of flour, the remainder being a mixture of corn, barley and potato meals.

Petroleum is quoted at eighty cents a gallon, as compared with twenty-six cents last July; and soft coal has risen in the past week to $10 a ton. Both these and especially coal, are often difficult to obtain at any price, owing to the lack of transportation.

FRENCH ATTACKING FIERCELY ON WEST

GERMAN OFFICIALS REPORT SHOWS GREAT ACTIVITY BY THEIR ENEMY

REPORTS ARE CONFLICTING

Germans Claim all French Efforts Failures—French Report Tells of Successes

By Associated Press.
Berlin, April 6.—German official statement: "In the western theatre of war since yesterday the French have become particularly active between the Meuse and the Moselle, employing strong forces and a large amount of artillery. The attack to the northwest and southeast of Verdun and also Allie-Apremont, Fliry and north-west of Pont-Au-Mousson were repulsed. Northeast and east of Verdun their attacks did not develop on account of our fire. Southeast of Verdun they were repulsed. On the eastern edge of the Meuse heights the enemy succeeded in gaining some of our outpost positions but was driven out again during the night. The battle of neighborhood of Nally-Apremont continued throughout the night without any success to our opponents. In the neighborhood of Fliry the fighting was very bitter; several French attacks were repulsed. West of the forest of Le Petris a strong French attack north of the high road between Fliry and Pont-Au-Mousson resulted in failure. Notwithstanding the very heavy losses which our opponents have suffered it is evident from the recent dispositions of their forces they will continue their attacks, the purpose of all their efforts in Champagne having become clear.

"In the eastern theatre of war Russian attacks to the east and south of Augustow were unsuccessful. Otherwise the situation remains unchanged."

FRENCH OFFENSIVE ALONG WHOLE FRONT

By Associated Press.
Paris, April 6.—French official: "The French continue all day the whole front. To the south-west of Verdun we gained a footing in one of the enemy's works. In the wood of Alilly, southwest of St. Mihiel, our gain of three successive lines of trenches already announced, was marked also by the capture of prisoners, a machine gun and a bomb thrower. We made progress in the wood Beulue. We have maintained our possession of the positions captured to the northeast of Regneville, already announced."

By Associated Press.

GERMAN TROOPS BEING RUSHED INTO AUSTRIA

Men Being Transferred From Flanders—Also Austrian Troops From the Tyrol

By Associated Press.
Paris, April 6.—A dispatch from a Geneva news agency says that Swiss traffic with Germany has been greatly interfered with during the past few days because the German lines are fully occupied with the transportation of troops from Flanders to Austria by way of Munich. These troops will probably be employed in Hungary in an attempt to check the Russian invasion. It is also said that large bodies of Austrian troops have been moved from the Tyrol near the Italian border.

NEW PHASE OF WAR HAS BEEN INITIATED

LOOPHOLE FOR JOHN BULL

Some British Papers Believe English Will Attempt Actual Blockade of Germany

By Associated Press.
London, April 6.—According to the belief of the German military observers a new phase in the western campaign has been initiated by the French in the section of the front between the Meuse and the Moselle. The official statement from Berlin today says the French employed strong forces with heavy artillery. The fighting was especially spirited in the vicinity of Verdun and Pont-Au-Mousson. Berlin expects a continuation of these attacks.

The torpedoing of the Italian steamer Ligulardi, reported last night is believed in Genoa to have occurred off the coast of Spain indicating a considerable increase in the range of the large submarines such as Germany now has.

The Italian steamer, Pinoli, is overdue at Cardiff about a month and it is feared that she also has been torpedoed.

VON DER GOLZ WANTS MORE ACTION AGAINST SERBIA

Operations Necessary to Open Communications and for Moral Effect

By Associated Press.
Paris, April 6.—The real purpose of the visit made by General Von Der Goltz, German military advisor to Turkey, to Emperor William at Berlin was to convince the emperor of the necessity of new and more strategic operations against Serbia. Such an attack is considered essential by the German officer in order to establish a line of communications and for its moral effect on the other Balkan nations.

There has been no untoward change in the situation in regard to Italy's neutrality, but information is obtained that the negotiations are being pushed with increasing vigor and there is yet hope that war can be avoided.

Label Taken Off Ballot
Emblem of Typographical Union Appearing on Ballot Believed Not Legal

At 3 o'clock this afternoon 556 votes had been cast in the aldermanic election, 481 at the county house box and 75 at the city hall box. Voting was heavy in the early hours and is expected to pick up again before the polls close at 7 o'clock tonight.

The Times office will be open after the polls close tonight and all wishing to learn the result may obtain same by calling or telephoning No. 157.

The union label appeared on the bottom of the official ballots and before long the question of its right to be there was raised; the judges were instructed to clip off the section of the ballot containing the label. The law provides that nothing shall appear on the ballot except what is authorized and there is no authority for placing the union label on the ballot. However, it is not thought that the ballots which were cast with the label on them will be invalidated.

BRITISH LAY NETS FOR SUBMARINES

GERMAN UNDER SEA CRAFT REPORTED ENTANGLED OFF DOVER

SOMETHING LIKE GILL NETS

Nets Hung on Malleable Iron Frames and Sunk When Struck

By Associated Press.
Paris, April 6.—A German submarine has become securely entangled in a net especially constructed for the purpose and placed off Dover according to the Petit Journal's Dunkirk correspondent, who adds that the English naval authorities expect to capture the submarine when it is forced to come to the surface.

Miles of submarine traps, it is said, have been laid at the entrances of English harbors and at other strategic points around the British Isles to capture German submarines. They are hung on malleable iron frames ten feet square. The frames are then joined together to a depth of thirty feet, suspended by immense boys. If a submarine, which is a blind thing when submerged, strikes one of these frames the lower frame buckles upwards catching the propeller, thus the craft is in the position of a fish floundering in a net and its capture is certain. It was reported that three submarines had been caught in this manner in the first ten days of the blockade, but this report was not confirmed.

HAVANA ACCLAIMS NEW WORLD'S CHAMPION

Public Reception Will Be Given Willard Who Leaves Havana Wednesday

By Associated Press.
Havana, April 6.—Havana today was rapidly resuming its normal life after the excitement incidental to the passing of the world's heavyweight championship from Jack Johnson to Jess Willard in the 26 round contest between them yesterday. Tonight the citizens of Havana are planning to give the new champion a public reception and will present him with a gold watch.

The mystery of Johnson's disappearance immediately after the fight has been explained.—He went to the race track to watch the counting of the gate money although he had no interest in the proceeds, and to keep away from visitors. There is no reason to believe that the receipts exceeded $125,000. The absence of the negro from his house last night led to wild rumors that he was in a hospital in a serious condition and that he had been taken into custody by federal officers.

The plans for departure of both Willard and Johnson have been made known. Willard will sail Wednesday for Key West on his way north. Johnson with his wife and a few followers will leave the latter part of the week for the French island of Martinique.

BIG CROWD HEARS BULLETINS

Johnson Says He Will Go Back to France and Run a Pig Farm

A crowd estimated at not less than 500 gathered in front of the Times building yesterday to hear the bulletins by rounds from the Willard-Johnson fight. The reading of the 22nd round had not been completed when the flash came over the wire that Willard was the winner in the 26th round. As the fight had progressed the rounds had been set into type and two heads had been set, one for Johnson and one for Willard. When the flash came the "Willard" head was dropped into the waiting form and within a few seconds an "extra" was on the street.

More than eleven hundred copies of the extra and additional copies of Times were sold and more could have been had had the editions not been exhausted. Telephone inquiries about the fight were received from Olney, Newcastle, Henrietta, Vernon, Seymour, Bartlett, Okla. and other points throughout this section.

How Johnson Took Count

The detailed report of the 26th round follows: Johnson rose slowly from his chair and Willard met him more than six inches of the way across the ring. Willard stabbed for a long left into the negro's face, sending his head bobbing back. Before the champion could recover his position Willard swung a smashing right, which landed full on Johnson's stomach. Johnson was flung against the ropes by the force of the blow and he clinched on the rebound. The cowboy tried to tear loose but the negro held grimly with eyes closed and legs shaking. Just before the referee broke them Johnson looked over Willard's shoulder toward the box where his wife had been, his eyes showing a dazed, tired, puzzled expression.

As soon as Welsh had broken the clinch Jess rushed again, forcing the negro into Willard's corner, where the finish came. Johnson was slow in guarding and his strong youthful opponent hooked a swinging left to the body. The falling champion's legs quivered and again the towering giant felled for the body. Johnson dropped his guard and Willard won the title with a quick hard swing to the exact point of the jaw.

The negro's knees folded up under him and he sank slowly to the floor and began to count. Up and down swung the referee's hand but Johnson never moved. His eyes were glassy, only the whites being visible. At the count of "ten" Welsh turned and held up Willard's hand and a new champion replaced Johnson, who was still stretched on the floor of the ring. Time of round 1:28.

Pig Farm For Johnson

A Havana dispatch says: Tomorrow Johnson, his wife and little group of friends will sail for Martinique, there to await passage back to France, where Johnson proposes to settle down and lead the life of a farmer, raising pigs and chickens. There is no doubt that he is through with the ring.

Willard, who is being acclaimed as the new champion, is going back to the United States to win the forthcoming title when Johnson got $20,000 before the fight started. Willard is taking only a small share of the net receipts. Just what his share is is not known.

Is Without Parallel

Yesterday's fight probably has no parallel in the history of ring battles. For twenty rounds Johnson punched and pounded Willard at will, but blows grew perceptibly less powerful as the fight progressed until at last he seemed unable or unwilling to go on. Johnson stopped leading and for three or four rounds the battle between the two huge men was little more than a series of postures. So it was until the twenty-fifth round when Willard got one of his widely swinging windmill right hand smashes to Johnson's heart. This was the beginning of the end.

When the round closed Johnson sent word to his wife that he was all in and told her to start for home. She was on the way out and was passing the ring in the twenty-six round when a stinging left to the body and a cyclonic right to the jaw caused Johnson to crumple to the floor of the ring. Where he lay partly outside the ropes until the referee counted ten and held up Willard's hand in token of victory.

There is much discussion and probably will be for a long time among followers of the fighting game, as to whether Johnson was really knocked out. In the sense of being smashed into unconsciousness, he certainly was. The consensus of opinion is that Johnson expected and knew that there was no possibility of his winning; so when knocked down he chose to take the count rather than rise and stand further punishment.

Johnson rises quickly. Johnson often has said that fighting is a business and he would not foolishly submit to repeated knockdowns when he found he had met his master. A second or two after Jack Welsh, the referee, had counted ten Johnson quickly got up. It was well that he did so, for a moment later a rush of spectators to the fighting platform all but smothered the pugilists.

cheered and broke into wild discussion.

Willard was out of his dressing room in a few minutes and in an automobile on his way back to Havana. He was escorted half way to the city from the Mariano race track, where the fight was held, by a troop of Cuban cavalry. Crowds lined the streets and narrow roadways and the new white champion was loudly cheered. He was decidedly the favorite of the crowd all through the fight and tonight is the hero of the island.

Automobiles returning to the city from the fight flew white flags and thus the news spread far and wide that the white challenger had beaten the negro champion. As Willard came along the crowds in the streets waved flags and line handkerchiefs tied to sticks. At one point a group of negroes, who apparently had heard that Johnson was the victor, waved black flags at the white champion.

Is Modest Champion
Willard probably is the most modest champion who ever stepped out of a prize ring, taking his victory as philosophically as he had looked forward to the fight. Neither he nor Johnson showed much evidence of having been engaged in a heavyweight championship battle. The new champion's lip, right ear and left cheek showed slight cuts, but at no time was there more than a drop or two of blood in evidence.

In this respect the fight was in great contrast to the Johnson-Jeffries fight at Reno five years ago, when Jeffries was cut to pieces and blood splashed over the spectators at the ringside. Evidently thinking that the condition might prevail again today, Johnson objected to the presence of a white woman in the newspaper seats outside the ropes, and she was relegated to a place out of possible range.

On the contrary, no fight between heavyweights that has gone to a finish was cleaner or less brutal. Johnson's left eye was partly closed in the early rounds, but not sufficiently to interfere with his fighting. His lip also was cut, and his famous golden smile flashed from a very red setting. The end of the fight came with a suddenness that dazed the spectators. It followed two or three rounds of almost complete idleness on the part of the contestants and the crowd settled down to a long wait for a struggle, believing that it would go the full limit of the forty-five rounds without either being able to register a knockout.

Flashes of Speed
The early rounds were filled with flashes of Johnson's former wonderful speed when he would rain rights and lefts to Willard's body and face, delivering ten blows to one from the big white challenger. Through all this time Willard, strictly on the defensive on many occasions, Johnson played with him once, standing with guard down and letting Willard swing at him only to dodge and laugh at the awkwardness of his opponent. In many respects the fight resulted just as many had predicted. Willard and his friends particularly prophesying that if the battle lasted twenty rounds Johnson would not win. This was based partly on the belief that Willard could stand all the punishment Johnson could inflict, and partly on the doubt as to Johnson's condition and his ability at his age to fight a long battle against the odds of superior height, weight, reach and youth.

CREATION OF A "GERMAN VOGUE" BEING URGED

Berlin, April 6.—German modistes and milliners are taking advantage of the war and the consequent shortage of French clothes and fashions to further the agitation that is now general for the creation of a "German vogue" in hats, dresses and other articles of wearing apparel.

Berlin is being urged as the future "fashion center" in place of Paris, and German women are asked to wear only such clothes as have been made in Germany, by Germans of German materials. Even the men are to be appealed to to influence their wives and daughters in the right direction.

The Westminister Guild met Monday afternoon in regular session at the First Presbyterian church. Plans were made for the indoor picnic to be given for the young people of the church, the date being changed to Thursday, April 15, on account of the high school play to be given next Friday evening. Committees were appointed in connection with this entertainment. The lesson, "Martin Luther and the Reformation" was taken up with Miss Jewell Kemp as leader. Biblical references suggested by the study book were read by Miss Beavers and Miss Ritchie gave an interesting sketch of the origin of the King James version of the Bible and told of the various revisions made since that time. Mrs. Orville Bullington gave a sketch of the life of Martin Luther and the customary round table followed the lesson. Monday being the afternoon set aside for calling, a number of the members visited the new members of the Guild and the congregation.

BIG AUDIENCE APPLAUDS "THE MICROBE OF LOVE"

Amateur Production of More Than Ordinary Merit Found Much Favor

An amateur performance of more than ordinary merit was presented at the Wichita Theatre Monday night when "The Microbe of Love" was staged by a number of young people under the auspices of Circle No. 3 of the M. E. Church, South. The performance was under the direction of Miss Goldie Green of Dallas. The play itself is a rather fanciful comedy and was well presented, some of the volunteer actors and actresses displaying considerable talent. No one forgot his lines and nearly everyone spoke loud enough.

There were several specialties in and between the acts and the opening number was a patriotic feature in which more than 200 little girls and boys took part, with Baby Orr as soloist. The performance appeared to find much favor with the audience and was heartily applauded.

Twilight League Will Open Season April 19

The Twilight League baseball season will open April 19 for a series of 14 games, with four teams as contenders. This was decided Monday at a meeting of the managers of the teams interested. Four teams will comprise the league, the Tigers, the Irish Lads, the Rams and a team from the telephone company. It is planned to erect a backstop and some seats at the old ball park east of the city and to provide other conveniences for players and spectators. The first season, lasting six weeks, will probably be followed by another. Each team is limited to sixteen men, whose names must be filed by April 16 and no additional players may be taken on until the first season ends.

WICHITA PUBLISHING CO., ED HOWARD, Manager

It was just four minutes after The Times had received the Associated Press flash announcing the result of the Willard-Johnson prize fight yesterday afternoon until the press was started on its morning run.

It is well to state that the fight announcing the result came before the four last rounds were clicked off on the wire.

But it was the result of the fight that the great throng of people bleating traffic in front of The Times waited. They were satisfied to wait for the regular 4:30 edition for the details.

Therefore, The Times gave them the result of the fight in the shortest time possible.

Outraged, before the European war were selling at about $150 each, but now the reports from the sections of the world where ostrich farming is made a regular business is to the effect that the birds are selling as low as $5 per head.

In Africa it is said the farms are turning their domesticated birds loose because of the small demand for feathers in the United States and Europe.

Perhaps the change in style has also had a bearing on the ostrich feather market, as that kind of plumage is not near so popular as in former years.

Usually, where only two or three candidates were to be elected little interest was taken. But this time it was different. Issues were involved and an unusual large vote is being recorded.

Of course, The Times can not forecast accurately what the result will be, but from all indications at the noon hour it was apparent that what is known as the labor ticket is not as popular even with members of local labor unions as was supposed.

If The Times is not very badly misinformed the administration ticket is getting just about as much support from union men as the so-called and much heralded labor ticket. But election like verdicts of a jury, are uncertain.

If there is a full vote or anything like it, The Times feels confident that the three candidates for aldermen who represent the interest of all the people and not the special interests of any one class of our citizens, will be elected by a vote of about 2 to 1.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

The Civil War in the United States was terminated on April 9, 1865, just fifty years ago, observes the War Times-Herald which continues:

On that day, in the little village of Appomattox, Va., the Union General Grant, the former President of the United States, and the leaders of the opposing forces took place. The meeting which resulted in the ending of the war is thus described by Horace Porter, a Union general:

"It was then about half past one of Sunday, the 9th of April. We entered, and found General Grant sitting at a marble topped table in the center of the room, and Lee sitting beside a small oval table near the front window, in the corner opposite to the door by which we entered and facing General Grant. Colonel Marshall, his military secretary was standing at his left. We walked in softly and ranged ourselves quiet about the sides of the room, very much as the people enter a sick chamber when they expect to find their patient dangerously ill. Some found seats on the sofa and the few chairs which constituted the furniture, but most of the party stood.

The contrast between the two commanders was striking and could not fail to attract marked attention as they sat ten feet apart, facing each other. General Grant, then nearly forty-three years of age, was five feet eight inches in height, with shoulders slightly stooped. His hair and full beard were not brown, without a trace of gray in them. He had on a single breasted blouse, made of dark blue flannel, unbuttoned in front, and showing a waistcoat underneath. He wore an ordinary pair of top boots, with his trousers inside, and was without spurs. The boots and portions of his clothes were spattered with mud. He had had on a pair of thread gloves, of a dark yellow color, which he had taken off on entering the room. His felt "sugar hat" stiff brimmed hat was thrown on the table beside him. He had no sword, and a pair of shoulder straps were slung over his shoulders to designate his rank. In fact, aside from these, his uniform was that of a private soldier.

Lee, on the other hand, was fully six feet in height and quite erect or one of his age. For he was Grant's senior by sixteen years. His hair and all beard were a silver gray and quite thick, except that the hair had become a little thin in front. He wore a new uniform of Confederate gray, buttoned up at the throat, and at his side he carried a long sword of exceedingly fine workmanship, the hilt tufted with jewels. It was said to be the sword that had been presented to him by the State of Virginia. The top hilt was comparatively new, and seemed to have on them some ornamental stitching of red silk. Like his uniform, they were immaculate and but little traveled.

On the boots were handsome spurs with large rowels. A felt hat, which in color matched pretty closely that of his uniform, and a pair of long black riding gaiters lay beside him on the table. We asked Colonel Marshall afterward how it was that both he and his chief wore such fine gaiters and looked so much as if they had turned out to go to church, while with us our gaiters scarcely rose to the dignity even of the shabby gaiter.

I straightened us out regarding the contrast by explaining that when their headquarters wagons had been pressed so closely by our cavalry a few days before, and it was found they would have to destroy all their baggage, except the clothes they carried on their backs, each one, naturally, selected the newest suit he had, and sought to appropriate the good of "extractions" by a sacrifice of his second best.

After briefly discussing the conditions, General Lee suggested that the arms be put in writing. Grant called for his order book, opened it on the table and proceeded to do so.

While writing, he noticed the handsome sword that Lee possessed, and is afterwards said that this set him to thinking that it would be an unnecessary humiliation to require the officers to surrender their swords and a rest hardship to deprive them of their personal baggage and horses, which caused him to add this sentence:

"This will not embrace the side arms of the officers nor their private baggage."

The terms as submitted by General Grant were:

"Gen. R. E. Lee, commanding C. S. Army, in accordance with the substance of my letter to you of the 13th instant, I propose to receive the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia on the following terms, to-wit: Rolls of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate, one copy to be given to an officer to be designated by me, the other to be retained by such officers as you may designate. The officers to give their individual paroles not to take up arms against the government of the United States until properly exchanged, and each company or regimental commander to sign a like parole for all the men of their commands. The arms, artillery and public property to be parked and stacked, and turned over to the officers appointed by me to receive them. This will not embrace the side arms of the officers, nor their private orders or baggage. This done, each man will be allowed to return to his home, not to be disturbed by the United States authorities so long as they observe their paroles and the laws in force where they may reside. Very respectfully,

"U. S. GRANT."

General Lee directed that a letter of acceptance of the terms be drawn up, and this was signed, after which a few impersonal remarks and the Confederates, with their imperishable record, glorious for all time, was only memory.

A PUZZLE, ALL RIGHT.

It is being predicted by well informed diplomats in Peking that Japan and China will be at war before the month of April is very old. What effect this would have on the European war is problematical, but that it would have little immediate direct result is likely.

China is not contiguous to any of the nations at war save Russia and the Indian possessions of Great Britain and France, all of whom are in alliance at present with Japan, to such degree at any rate that they would not actively interfere in China's behalf. That the Chinese have taken rapid strides in the art of war during the past four years is admitted and their ability to fight under com-

A picnic had been promised the winners, but as the boys made such a good showing both boys and girls will be given an outing at an early date.

The Easter songs and recitations delighted a large audience. The membership of the church is about 400, and there was 418 in the Sunday school. Next Sunday they expect 500 to attend. This Sunday school has probably the record for attendance of any in the city, having had 896 in a contest with a neighboring city a few years ago. The largest attendance they have ever had in the new church was 522.

ADVICE ON PACKING ARTICLES TO KEEP FREE OF MOTHS

Washington, April 6.—The various substances used to keep away moths, such as tobacco, camphor, naphthalene, cones or balls, tarred paper, and cedar chips have no effect if the eggs are already present in the clothes, and entomology specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture therefore recommend a thorough shaking and brushing of all articles likely to attract moths, before they are laid away for the summer. The brushing of garments is especially important in order to remove eggs which may have escaped notice. If the clothes are quite free from eggs or larvae when laid away, the odor from the various repellents already mentioned or from cedar chests and washbasins will serve to keep moths away. This odor, however, lessens with age, so that the protection it affords is greatly decreased after a few years. For this reason when furs and other valuable garments are wrapped in tarred paper or placed in sacks of tarred paper the containers should be renewed every year or two.

In general moths are likely to affect only articles which are put away and left undisturbed for some little time. Apartments and closets that are frequently aired and swept are not apt to be seriously affected. In fact airing and sunlight are probably the best as well as the oldest remedies. Where circumstances demand that articles be put away, however, a convenient and effective device is to place them in large paste board boxes such as tailors use and gum a strip of wrapping paper around the edge so as to seal-up the box completely and leave no cracks. If the garments have been thoroughly cleaned before being placed in these boxes, no additional protection is necessary and there is none of the objectionable odor which is characteristic of so many moth repellents. (SEE 6070)

The valuable articles the safest plan is to place them in cold storage. Recent experiments have shown that the larvae of the clothes moth will resist for long time low temperatures if these are uniform; but that the alternation of low and high temperatures quickly results in death. It is recommended therefore that storage companies submit their goods to two or three changes, varying the temperature from 10 degrees F. to 40 or 50 degrees Fahrenheit. After this preliminary treatment, they should be kept permanently at about 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Any lower temperature is a needless expense.

WILDCAT OPERATIONS OVER NORTH TEXAS

The Fuel Oil Journal in its April issue contains the following summary of wildcat operations in North Texas: Throckmorton County.—The test on the Swenson ranch in the northwestern part of the county is drilling about 1,750 feet.

Coleman County.—D. F. Johnson and others of Brownwood have resumed work on the old Munsell test about 2 1/2 miles northeast of Bangs. Upon failure to find the Bangs gas sand, this test was temporarily abandoned at about 1,400 feet. They intend drilling several hundred feet deeper.

Hardeman County.—W. A. Doyle, Abernathy, et al. are reported about 1,100 feet deep in a test which is being drilled north of Acme, a town on the Fort Worth and Denver Ry., four miles west of Quanah, which owes its existence to a large cement and plaster mill. Some shallow oil was found in water wells in this vicinity several years ago, which has been the inducement for drilling several deep tests.

Childress County.—The Consolidated Oil Co. of Dallas has taken over the old Cooper test about three miles east of Childress and proposes to drill it to 1,500 feet. This hole was drilled to about 550 feet over two years ago and abandoned. A new derrick has been erected and the machinery is being ready to resume drilling. In this test a gas blowout was reported from a depth of about 800 feet.

Montague County.—The Sadger Oil Co., operators of Oklahoma City parties in the drilling north of St. Jo, is drilling on the M., K. & T. railroad in the eastern part of the county. The depth is about 900 feet.

Haskell County.—F. J. Clemenger and associates of Houston were forced to suspend drilling with rotary tools in their Tulsa test on account of the hard rock encountered. They have moved in a cable rig and hope soon to be ready to drill again.

Tom Green County.—The San Angelo people are drilling on the Harris ranch north of San Angelo have been shut down for some time—at about 1,800 feet, but there talk that drilling is to be resumed in the near future.

Grayson County.—Heavy machinery has been installed on a test on Red Branch, north of Whitesboro, for a deep test. Present depth about 500 feet.

Cooke County.—The Dexter Oil & Gas Co. near Red river, northeast of Gainesville, when last heard from was reported about 1,200 feet deep. Here also shallow oil is the cause for development.

What to do for a Bad Headache

People often ask what to do for a headache. Step in any drug store and you will find the man at the fountain to give you a little of Micks Capudine in a glass of water. This is so successful because it removes the cause of the headache, whether from heat, cold, or nervousness. You can also get it in 10c, 25c and 50c bottles to take home. It is a habit and very pleasant to take. There's no sense in going around with a terrible headache when it can be relieved so easily.

STEPHEN AND STORIES

By DOROTHY BLACKMORE.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Sally gazed contemplatively at the little set of chintz-covered drawers that she had indulged in by way of celebrating the occasion of having sold another story. It was Sally's treat to herself to purchase something for the equipment of her writing table upon each glorious arrival of a check.

"I can write from morning until sundown now," she told herself happily. "I must sell another story before I can get the waste basket to match." She pondered for a moment. "I think I will rewrite 'The Test.' That ought to sell—it's a good plot."

Sally looked high and she looked low for "The Test." She took out every drawer, looked through her file and her scrap books, but the manuscript remained in its hiding place. Suddenly she remembered that she had sold an old file case.

The next morning she dressed herself with her habitual care and went forth in search of the lost story.

She gazed open-eyed at the clerk who told her that a certain set of drawers had been sold.

"Is there any chance of my finding out to whom they went? It is most important," Sally said, with her friendly smile.

Another ten minutes passed and Sally went worth. The address given was down in the lower Twenties and Sally found herself ringing the bell of a small flat.

A most delightful girl answered the ring and opened the door wide that Sally might enter.

"Yes, we found the story," the girl was saying, as Sally followed her into a room that was homelike and cozy, and in which a good-looking young fellow lolled comfortably while he scanned the pages of Sally's own manuscript. Sally's eyes opened wide and a flush darted into her cheeks.

"Davie," Madge Cartwright said, "this is Sally Seaward. Miss Seaward, my brother, David Cartwright. Miss Seaward has come in search of her story," Madge added, and offered Sally a chair.

"Now for the story," he said with his boyish laugh that Sally was beginning to wait for. There had not been so much of laughter in Sally's struggles that she could afford to let slip one golden hour. She rejoiced that her manuscript had wedged itself into the chintz drawers, and that she was sitting beside David Cartwright while he outlined the plot of an exceedingly good story.

"I will write it," Sally told him while Madge's voice came from the direction of the kitchen humming a little snatch of song, "and if it brings a big check, you must promise that we three will have a dinner together." Madge had entered with a fragrant tray of tea and hot crumpets. "Did you hear that, Miss Cartwright?" Sally questioned.

"If the story brings a big check," she said, "I will agree to anything, but it would be so sorry to have dinner here—you may get a chicken and singings if you like, but couldn't we cook it here? It is so much sower than restaurants." She glanced eagerly at Sally and Sally smiled back at her. Friendship linked the eyes of the two girls, and David looked on with a peculiarly introspective expression.

"And I will get seats for the theater," he added. "Is it a go?"

Sally looked from Madge to David, and if there was a throb in her throat no one was the wiser. She put a hand into each of theirs and clasped them warmly. The hand that David held trembled and his own closed about it.

"We will be the best of friends, I know," Madge said, quickly.

"We are going to be more than friends," David said—but he did not say it aloud.

Madge knew as she went homeward that she would become a great writer, that her table had grown doubly dear to her, and that the little chest of chintz drawers would always be fragrant with love and happiness and all that goes to make life a wonderful thing. Perhaps she kissed the things that had given her happiness, or perhaps she only ran all fingers expressively over them. But Sally smiled.

Three of a Kind. It was company field training. The captain saw a young soldier trying to cook his breakfast with a badly made fire. Going to him he showed him how to make a quick cooking fire, saying:

"Look at the time you are wasting. When I was on the coast I often had to hunt my breakfast. I used to go about two miles in the jungle, shoot my food, skin or pluck it, then cook and eat it, and return to the camp under the half hour. Then he unwisely added: "Of course, you have heard of the west coast?"

"Yes, sir," replied the young soldier, "and also of Ananias and Baron Munchausen."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Like Sunday Dinners. "Robert had always visited his aunt on Sunday. One week, say she asked him to stay for dinner. She prepared just what she had—no dessert. When the meal was finished the aunt noticed Robert was expecting something.

HARD TIMES IN THE '60S

People Learned to Practice Economy in the Period Following the Civil War.

The mother who had five little children to look after during the hard times that followed the Civil war, was talking about the high prices which the European conflict is causing. "People will weather it in some way," she said. "We did in the Civil war days, and prices aren't anything now to what they were then. "How did we do it? Why, in every possible way. I remember I utilized salt bags to make underclothes for my girls. The salt bags in those days were of stouter, better material than they are today, and, as I'd always been thrifty and saved 'em all, they came in pretty handy, I can tell you. The girls were not fond of sitting down when they had their salt-bag undergarments on, for they said there were so many seams that it hurt to sit down. "I made white skirts for them all—three of them—out of my own white skirts. They were pretty full in those days. I found I could get along with one, and the rest I cut over for the girls. "The boys wore 'hard-time suits,' made of the cheapest, almost shoddy material, and they looked just as cheap and shabby as they were. But the boys didn't mind—it made no difference whether they minded or not, it was all most people could afford. "We women wore calico dresses a lot. We didn't need a 'wear a cotton gown' crusade to get us started in that direction. There was no other direction for us to go. "But somehow no one seemed to whine or complain much. We were all in the same boat, and we laughed and made the best of it."

Patriotic. A school teacher recently gave his pupils a lecture on patriotism. He pointed out the high motives which moved the Territorials to leave their homes and fight for their country.

The schoolteacher noticed that one boy did not pay attention to the instruction, and as a test question he asked him: "What motives took the Territorials to the war?" The boy was puzzled for a moment, then, remembering the public sentiment to the local regiment at the railway station, he replied: "Locomotives, sir."—London Tit-Bits.

Must Accompany Regiments. It is not generally known that clergy who have accepted British army chaplaincies in time of peace cannot refuse to accompany their regiments when on active service, however strong the claims of their parishes may be. The bishop of London has been criticized for his readiness to leave his diocese for six weeks to accompany the London Rifle brigade wherever they may be sent, but he really has no choice in the matter, having accepted the chaplaincy. If he refused he would be liable to arrest and trial by court-martial.

Looks That Way. Bill—There is a factory up in our town which has had over two hundred marriages among its employees this year. Jill—It must be a "spoon" factory.

A Difference. Friend (gazing at new house)—So this is your last house? Butler (sadly)—Yes, last, but not leased!—Pearson's Weekly.

Heavy Light Sleeper. Bill—It has been stated that an elephant sleeps only five hours each day. Jill—And yet they say it is much sleep which makes one heavy.

WHEN YOU STOP TO THINK

Have you really done all you could towards beautifying that cemetery plot of yours? We know it is the habit to neglect those things, and count a death in the family as an added burden to be thrown off as lightly as possible. Don't you think you owe it to the community in which you live to assist those who are striving with all their might to make our BURIAL GROUNDS half way beautiful. The good ladies of the Cemetery Association have labored long and unceasingly, without so much as "thank you" from good influential citizens, who have never looked at their plot since that last sad day when some one was buried. Are you a real live wire, or just a plain make believe? Go out and look the situation over, that neglected plot on the hill will answer this question for you.

Decoration Day May 30th. Are you ready?
