BOTH CLAIM ADVANTAGE

ONLY DEFINITE FACT IS BATTLE WILL GO HIGHLY IMPORTANT

LOSSES VERY HEAVY

Believed That Attack at That Point Presages General British Offensive Is On

By Associated Press. London, April 20.—Although the German claims on one hand and the French and British on the other are diametrically opposed in the matter of the outcome of the battle of Hill No. 60 southeast of Ypres and the near northern extremity of the British line, the facts at hand indicate that this engagement was one of the most important along the British front since the battle of Nueve Chaprèl and that it perhaps presages the general British activity in Flanders.

The losses in this fighting have not been announced but judging from dispatches reaching London they have been considerable on both sides.

The Germans declare that the British used shells containing asphyxiating gases. The British reply is that the Germans first used this means of warfare, so if the British now are using it they are following the German example.

The Russians continue to hold their firm grip on the main chain of the Carpathians but news of any decisive action from this region has not been received.

RESPONSE TO RECRUITING APPEAL VERY SATISFACTORY

By Associated Press. London, April 20.—Secretary of War Kitchener is very much gratified at the response of the nation to the recruiting appeal, Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George told the House of Commons this afternoon.

ROCK ISLAND THROWN INTO RECEIVERSHIP

Unable to Meet Obligations of More Than Five Millions Maturing Before May 1

By Associated Press. Chicago, April 20.—The Chicago Rock Island Railroad Co. was placed in the hands of receivers here today. The company admitted the inability to meet more than $5,000,000 maturing before May 1 in short term notes and other obligations. H. U. Mudge, president of the company, and J. Dickinson, former secretary, were named as receivers. Answering the petition of H. C. Ridgeway, vice president of the company said the receivership was the best means of protecting creditors, stockholders and collateral interests.

Market Reports

Chicago Grain Futures
By Associated Press. Chicago, April 20.—An unusual accumulation of small sell orders in May delivery brought a lightning-like overthrow of prices today for that option of wheat. As soon, however, as the little rush of selling had spent itself the May market quickly recovered. In a general way the chief bullish influence was vague peace talk and improved reports concerning the crop outlook in southern Illinois. After opening unchanged to 74 to 1-4 lower prices steadily declined with wheat. Opening prices which varied from 1-4 to 3-8 lower to a shade advance were followed by a moderate setback. The sag in other grains lowered oat prices. Wheat closed unsettled; corn closed firm. The close for the leading months: Wheat, May 1.50 2-4; July 1.35; Sept. 1.21. Corn, May 77 3-4; July 75 7-8; Sept. 80 1-8. Oats, May 37 1-4; July, 56 2-4; Sept. 54 1-2.

Kansas City Cash Grain
By Associated Press. Kansas City, April 20.—Wheat No. 2 hard 1.54 1-2 to 1.55 1-2; No. 2 red, 1.54. Corn No. 2 mixed 77 1-4. Oats No. 2 white, 56 1-4 to 57.

Fort Worth Live Stock
By Associated Press. Fort Worth, April 20.—Cattle receipts 3500, steady, beefs, $6.25 to $8.00. Hog receipts 1500, steady, bulk, $7.45 to $7.55. Sheep receipts 666, steady, lambs, $8.00 to $10.00.

New York Cotton Futures
By Associated Press. New York, April 20.—Spots opened at a decline of 7 to 9 points today and continued good weather in the South and relatively easy markets strengthened reactionary sentiment, but offerings were well taken on a scale down and after showing a net loss of 7 to 12 points prices steadied up 2 or 3 points. A flurry of Wall street liquidation depressed prices in the early afternoon. The close was firm. May 18.25; July 18.45; Oct. 18.81; Dec. 18.95; Jan. 11.91.

COL. ROOSEVELT ON WITNESS STAND

TESTIFIES IN OWN BEHALF IN SUIT FOR LIBEL BY BARNES

CALLED MORALS ARBITER

His Attorney Says Colonel Meant Nothing Personal When He Called Barnes Names

By Associated Press. Syracuse, N. Y., April 20.—Theodore Roosevelt today went on the witness stand to defend himself in the suit for libel filed against him by William Barnes of Albany. When the Colonel's name was called he arose from his seat at the table and smilingly walked around to the witness chair. In answer to a question from his attorney he said that he was the man who made the statement complained of.

"I am 55 years old and have a wife and six children."

In reply to question by opposing counsel he told in a clear voice the story of his early life and then sketched his political career. His role of his appointment on the civil service commission and to the office of police commissioner of New York City. He then told of organizing with General Wood the Rough Riders regiment to participate in the war with Spain.

Barnes' counsel had rested their suit just previously after they had offered evidence to prove the publication of the alleged libelous statements.

William M. Ivins for Mr. Barnes pictured the former president as having been the nation's greatest arbiter of morals and said he now was in court with an opportunity to prove the alleged libelous things he had said about Mr. Barnes on various occasions. William Benches then, for the defense, described the Colonel as the champion for good and honest government, and said that he had been prompted to make the statement by the belief that there was rotteness in the state government. He re-iterated that Mr. Roosevelt meant nothing personal against Mr. Barnes or Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall who was also named in his statement.

Mr. Barnes' counsel placed only one witness on the stand, John McGrath, Mr. Roosevelt's private secretary, who testified that he gave to the newspapers for Mr. Roosevelt a copy of the statement alleged to have been libelous.

MUST RECORD REPORTS WITHOUT EXTRA PAY

By Associated Press. Austin, April 20.—It was held today by the attorney general's department in a ruling that the county clerk is required to record the annual reports filed in his office by corporations operating the street railways, electric light and power plants, gas plants, water and sewerage plants, and that the law makes no provision for the payment of a recording fee, further that the ex-officio duties of this county officer.

BRITISH BOERS CAPTURE IMPORTANT GERMAN TOWN

Keetmanshop is an important railroad junction and gives Gen. Botha, the Boer leader command of the railroad to Windhoek.

SWABODA NOT TO BE TRIED ON ARSON CHARGE

Paris, April 20.—The authorities have decided to drop the charge of setting fire to a steamer La Tonraine which was preferred against the man known as Raymond Swaboda, says the Petit Parisien. Captain Bouchard who investigated the case is said to have expressed the opinion that there is not sufficient evidence against Swaboda to warrant his trial on this charge. He still faces an accusation of espionage. Swaboda admitted at his preliminary hearing that his real name was Rolf Schwid.

DEMONSTRATION FOR FORMER GREEK PREMIER

By Associated Press. London, April 20.—An Alexandria dispatch to Reuters Telegraph Co. says that former Greek Premier Venizelos arrived there today and was greeted by a wildly enthusiastic crowd. He was welcomed officially by Prince Foad, a brother of Prince Hussein, the Sultan of Egypt, together with British and French officials.

No preliminary announcement was made of the intention of Mons. Venizelos, to visit Alexandria. An Athens dispatch on Sunday said the former premier had stated that he proposed to spend a fortnight on the island of Samos after which he would leave for America. The former premier took as an insult the recent denial by the king of certain statements which the former premier had made regarding his foreign policy. The premier and cabinet favored the intervention of Greece in the war on the side of the allies and resigned in a body.

AN AGRICULTURAL FAIR IS PLANNED

COMMITTEE NAMED TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL AT MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

CONDITIONS VERY PROPITIOUS

Liberal Premium List For Livestock and Agricultural Exhibits Favored

Plans for an agricultural and live stock fair in Wichita Falls some time this year were formulated Tuesday morning at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors, and the matter was turned over to the fair committee which was asked to push the matter vigorously. It is planned, although none of the details have yet been worked out, to have Wichita, Clay and Archer counties eligible to compete for prizes, and to make the premiums sufficiently attractive to bring many exhibits here.

It is likely that the work will be placed in charge of some employee especially for that purpose, with a view to making it a permanent annual affair. Next year, the plan is to form a stock company to put the fair on a permanent basis. When the matter was brought up this morning, attention was called to the fact that practically all the other towns in Northwest Texas are holding successful fairs every year and that if Wichita Falls is ever to have one, no better year for starting it would ever come than 1915.

Committee to Meet

A meeting of the fair committee was called for this afternoon at four o'clock to consider the matter. Messrs. Blair, Noble and Kemp were added to this committee, which includes F. P. St. Clair, M. J. Gardner, John C. Kay, H. B. Hines, J. T. Young, J. B. Marlow and D. M. Hardy.

Two propositions for new manufacturing industries were submitted to the directors at the meeting, both being referred to the manufacturing committee, of which a meeting was called for this afternoon. One proposition is for a road machinery plant, the other for a concern which will make advertising novelties.

The question of making some recommendation to the city council with reference to permitting drays to stand on Electric street was discussed at some length, but no action was taken.

An echo of some of the comment at the recent meeting, at which $50 was appropriated to entertain the medical convention was heard when a committee which had visited a number of the physicians reported that only one new member had been secured and that several of the physicians seemed displeased at the comment made by some of the directors on the small number of doctors who are members of the Chamber of Commerce. Some of the directors said that while it was to be regretted that anything had happened to offend the doctors, they felt that the Chamber of Commerce was certainly entitled to the support of more than seven out of 35 physicians in the city.

Directors present were: Messrs. Huff, Kemp, Reid, Leopold, Kay, Art. Hues, Smith, Pennington, Bridwell Hardy, Gardner, Blair, Noble and O'Reilly.

BANK HOLD UP CHARGED

TO 16-YEAR OLD YOUTH

Complaint Filed Against Boy in Connection With Electric Bank Robbery

Oscar Phillips, a hairless youth of not quite seventeen years, has been arrested in connection with the robbery at Electric Saturday night in which A. N. Treese, cashier of the First National Bank of Electric, was robbed of $100. The youth was brought here this morning for a conference with the county attorney and will be released on bond to await action by the grand jury.

That a boy of his tender age should have executed such a daring exploit is considered unusual by the officers. He is said to have given all the details of the affair to the officers. His arrest is said to have been the result of "snitching" by another youth who was to have helped him conduct the robbery but who failed to arrive. The other boy is said to have reported to the officers after he failed to receive his share of the money; this, however, was not confirmed.

The boy's father accompanied him here with the officers this morning and was ready to give ample assurance of the boy's proper conduct in the future and the boy himself was apparently ready to mend his ways. A complaint charging him with robbery has been filed before the Justice of the Peace at Electric.

BRITISH SINK THEIR OWN SUBMARINE E-15

Boat Which Ran Aground on Turkish Shore Destroyed to Keep It From Enemy

By Associated Press. London, April 20.—The British admiralty today announced officially that the British submarine E-15 has been destroyed in the Dardanelles by British picket boats. The text of the admiralty announcement follows:

"The submarine E-15, which was grounded at Ketchik Point last Saturday appears to have been in danger of falling into the enemy's hands in a servicable condition. Great efforts were made by the Turks to secure her. Attempts to destroy her by long range fire of British battleships failed. During the night of the 18th two picket boats attacked the submarine. The boats were subjected to a very heavy fire estimated at 200 rounds from Fort Mace and other batteries. The submarine was sunk by a number of small guns at short range. Notwithstanding this the submarine was torpedoed and rendered useless. One picket boat was sunk but her crew was saved by the other boat and she was only slightly damaged. Vice Admiral Borebeck speaks in the highest terms of all who took part in the affair."

A dispatch from Constantinople by way of Berlin Sunday said the British submarine E-15 had run ashore, she was shelled by a Turkish battery, some of her crew killed or wounded and others taken prisoners by the Turks.

WICHITAN MAKING STRIKE IN NEW THRALL FIELD

W. E. Norton Reported to Have Made Fortunate Investments in the New Field

Dr. E. P. Bass who came in from Taylor last night where he is drilling some wells reports that W. E. Norton of this city is making a big stake in the new oil field at Thrall. Mr. Norton, he says, has been one of the most fortunate speculators in the field and is now many thousands of dollars to the good. Mr. Bass reports that independent operators are running up the leases so high that the big companies have not yet secured a foothold in the field. Leases are selling at exorbitant figures, he says, citing an acre tract which brought a cash bonus of $5,000 and three-eighths royalty.

There are now about fifteen producing wells in the field, all bunched on a space not over six hundred yards square. A good oil sand, however, has been found in a test drilled about a quarter of a mile from this bunch of wells giving rise to the expectation that the field will extend over considerable territory. Bill Chorn, who went down to Taylor with Mr. Bass, remained there. Mr. Bass himself will return to that place tonight.

JUSTICE JONES WON'T FINE WOMEN OF FLATS

Notifies Peace Officers Not to Bring Women of Reservation into His Court

Peace officers in this county may arrest the female habitués of the reservation and hale them into court on vagrancy charges, but when they do, they cannot bring them before Justice of the Peace J. P. Jones. Mr. Jones has served notice on the officers to that effect, declaring that he will try no more of these women in his court. He said that he did not want the fees of office that came from such sources.

There are, of course, other courts in which the cases may be prosecuted, but Mr. Jones has decided to have no more to do with it. He considers that in accepting the fees for trying such cases, he puts himself on the same basis as the male habitués of the district who are supported by the women and who "eat the bread of infamy and take the wage of shame."

The custom of fining these women is a general one, and has been followed in this county for years as well as in most Texas counties where the evil exists to any extent. It is generally winked at, being entirely without the law. When a woman is fined $10.00 on a vagrancy charge, the peace officer receives $2, the county attorney's office $5, the county $1, and the judge who presides gets $1.50.

DANISH BUTTER TRADE HARD HIT

A PRODUCT ESPECIALLY MADE FOR EXPORTERS WHO HAD LESS DEMAND

DANISH BUTTER BEST MADE

Proof Against All Climates and Will Remain Fresh and Sweet for Weeks

Washington, April 20.—How the great Danish butter trade has suffered from the present war and why little Denmark is the world's biggest butter exporter is shown in the following statement, prepared by the National Geographic Society: "One of the many strands in the wonderfully complex web of world commerce that has felt the severest strain of war is the Danish butter trade. Danish butter, Russian caviar, French champagne, Norwegian sardines, and Strasburg pate de foie gras are articles standing alone among their several kinds—special luxuries that find their way only to the favored. The butter of Denmark has been famous around the world, and heretofore it sold everywhere that people were to be found with wealth enough to develop special tastes. The war has largely interfered with this rich industry."

Butter for Epidemics "Denmark's butter brought the highest price in fancy markets, and it was considered superior to that of any other nation. It was used by the epicures in North and South America, South Africa, in the East and West Indies, in Egypt, India, and throughout Europe. Good Danish butter sold at $1.00 a pound, in tins of one, two and three pounds. Cows in other lands seem just as sleek and the grass grows elsewhere just as succulent, but, despite these general advantages, no other country has been able to make a butter that will stand the changes of climate so well, or that tastes so crisp and sweet.

Dairymen in Holland, Sweden and Siberia have done their utmost to produce a butter that could rival with the make of the Danes without success. The best butters of these countries are worth less than half as much. Scientific dairy operators in Germany also failed to duplicate it. Even from the milk of the cows of the United States, animals favored beyond most others, it has been found impossible to produce a grade of butter that can compete with the Danish article.

"Danish butter is produced in all climates. Butter, when shipped through the hot zones, melts and remains in a liquid state as long as it is exposed to the tropic heat. Danish butter goes through this test, melts with the heat and hardens with the cold, and still retains the wholesome sweetness of its flavor, while other butter loses its sweetness and flavor under these changes.

No Secret About It "The Danes do not explain the superiority of their product. They do not say there is no secret in their process of butter manufacture, but, nevertheless, they are reticent about taking strangers through their great packing establishments. The Danish commission houses, however, say that they pack from small dairies all over the country, some of their material coming from as far away as Finland. This raw butter, so they say, is taken and mixed carefully at their central packing stations, and is worked over again in order to free it from every particle of milk. The packers insist that the raw butter which they buy must be prepared only from sterilized milk and cream, and that it must be prepared in scientifically clean surroundings.

"After these packers have re-worked the butter, they color it uniformly with the juice of the ordinary garden beet, and pack it in hermetically sealed tins. They maintain that they use no preservatives or chemicals what soever. Nevertheless their butter has consistently held the advantage, and until the war's outbreak, it formed the basis of one of Denmark's most thriving and widest known articles of export.

CASE OF MARGARET ONE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Jones while counting of her stitches in the necktie she was crocheting, suddenly paused and glanced out the window.

"It's a shame," she exclaimed to the other women, "that Margaret doesn't get married. She is, getting on toward twenty-five or twenty-six, and actually if you ever see her with a man it's a surprise!" "Yes," eagerly assented Mrs. Brophy, hastening to the window and looking out carefully from behind the curtain. "I've often said so to my husband. There she is—pretty, with attractive manners and capable. Why, she'd make any man a good wife—a wife he could be proud of! I just can't understand it! What are the men thinking of to let her grow into a regular old maid?"

"But that's the way the world's growing!" commented Mrs. Grimson, plaintively. "You see it everywhere. The men don't want wives to take care of, and the women are too particular about the men!" "Yes, that's just it!" declared Mrs. Burnham. "Girls are too high and mighty! Why, they wait a whole establishment to begin with, and the poor men are frightened to death! If these girls would make up their minds to take the men, who ask them, for better or worse, not forgetting the poorer with the richer, they'd all be married happily in no time."

"But they'll get gray headed and unattractive and set in their ways. I can notice Margaret getting rather set—haven't you noticed it? But they'll realize too late! And, perhaps, they'll be a lesson to the coming generation!" Just then Mrs. Roth entered, much excited. "What do you suppose?" she exclaimed, breathlessly. "I've just met Margaret on the corner and she's got a diamond ring! She didn't want to talk about it, but I found out that she's known him a long time, and they're going to be married soon! I tried to get something out of her about him, but all I could learn is that he's a young city man, whom she met at school. Actually, I'm dumfounded!" she collapsed into a seat and sighed deeply as she proceeded to arrange her sewing.

"Well, did you ever!" was Mrs. Brophy's brief comment. Mrs. Jones shook her head. "Poor girl!" she murmured. "There she is, earning her own living and making good money, too, and going to give it all up for the sake of some man she probably hardly knows!" "Yes, but it's like girls!" exclaimed Mrs. Burnham, impatiently. "They're willing to take it with anyone, just to get married. She'll find it's a very different thing, leaving around a house all day and taking care of children, from the easy life she's been leading. She thinks she's going to live amid roses from the time she gets married—but she'll wake up! It's rather sad, isn't it?" And she gazed dreamily out the window.

Mrs. Gray sat silent, meditating. "Think of giving up the freedom of girlhood!" she finally said. "She'll miss her parties and dances, her freedom to go and come as she pleases, and her right to buy what she wants with the money she's earned herself. It's different from what it was when girls were dependent on their fathers and marriage meant only the change of the person who attended to money matters. To give up one's independence for the sake of a man—especially a man one barely knows—is positively foolish!" Margaret always seemed such a nice, sensible girl, too. Mrs. Gray thought. "Isn't it strange how crazy girls are to get married!" declared Mrs. Roth. "They don't realize when they're well off until it's too late! And you can't tell them anything! They're just forced to gain their own experience—and repent too late!" "There she goes!" exclaimed Mrs. Gray. And they all hastened to the window.

"She looks a little worried, don't you think?" remarked Mrs. Jones. "It's a shame! There's not a man good enough for a girl like Margaret!" declared Mrs. Burnham. "Oh, she's coming in here!" "They all hurried to the door. "Oh, Margaret, congratulations! Congratulations!" "We've suspected it right along." "When is it going to be?" "Who's the lucky man, these years of business, it'll be such a relief!" And Margaret was ushered in, blushing happily.—Chicago Daily News.

Ready for Further Orders. Captain Lawson was owner and pilot of the New Orleans. "The Mississippi broke its banks. There were miles of rushing waters, says the National Monthly. Only an experienced eye could tell the channel. Captain Lawson had been at the wheel for 24 hours. He was exhausted from loss of sleep. Ratus, a colored pilot aboard, was called to the captain. "Do you see that north star?" asked the captain. "Yes, boss." "Well, hold this boat on that star." "Yes, boss."

When the captain awoke an hour later his boat was drifting in and out among the trees. The captain was indignant. "I thought I told you to hold this boat on the north star!" he cried. "Yes, boss, we done passed dat star long ago."

VICTOR MAN HERE ON DEMONSTRATION WORK

Visiting Leading Educational Centers of United States For His Company

William H. Nolan, representing the educational department of the Victor Talking Machine Company, has been in the city for several days in the interest of this extensive work. Mr. Nolan is visiting the more important educational centers of the United States and it speaks well for the reputation of Wichita Falls that this city was included on his route, which is mapped out by the company.

Mr. Nolan's duties include a visit to the different schools to demonstrate the value of the Victrola in emphasizing the various lines of study on the principle that the Victor in the school correlates music with the entire curriculum. He gave a demonstration at the high school today at the chapel hour, and also visited other schools during his stay in the city. Miss Jessie May, music director, will have charge of further educational work here along this line.

Mr. Nolan while in Wichita Falls, made his headquarters at Mack Taylor's Drug Store, one of the largest distributing firms for the Victor and records in the State.

Holiday hours will be observed at the postoffice, with the general delivery window open from nine to ten in the morning, one collection and one delivery. The rural carriers will go out. The banks will also be closed for the day.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE WILL OPEN SEASON TODAY

Lads and Telephones Will Meet on Old Ball Grounds at 8:15 P. M.

The opening of the Twilight League season is scheduled for this evening at 8:15 on the old ball grounds east of the city at the end of Seventh Street, with the Lads and Telephones as the opposing clubs. Tomorrow the Tigers and Rams are scheduled to clash, but on account of the game at the City Park between the City National Bank and postoffice teams, the Twilight game will probably not be played until 11 p. m.

The Twilight League season consists of 24 games, four to be played each week. Two other teams have sought admission to the league, but were decided to have the first season with only four clubs; it is hoped when the first season ends to start another with six clubs.

The Twilight League was organized last year and furnished entertainment for a large number of fans. An admission fee of ten cents is charged for the games to defray necessary expenses.

SUPER SALOON ESTABLISHED BY ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTES

London.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The "Despard Arms," the super-saloon founded by the famous suffragette leader, Mrs. Despard with a view to luring young men and young women away from places smugly known as "liquor," has been opened to the public in one of the laboring districts.

The model public-house is situated upstairs, inasmuch as the stairway is not an obstacle to customers partaking of tea and scones. It does not resemble very closely the original, for the floor, the row of beer handles and the collection of colored bottles are lacking. As a super-saloon, it makes no concessions of this kind, but has a smooth floor, small tables covered with white oilcloth, on which set yeasts of daffodils, white prints from the old masters ornament the walls. A piano occupies a corner of the room where music as well as certain approved games are allowed. Amateur cooks bring in cooked delicacies for sale at a nominal price, for although alcoholic liquors are tabooed, there is no injunction against a patron eating all he can pay for.

So far, the Despard Arms has not hurt the business of the neighboring public houses in the least. The ordinary workman feels lost and ill at ease in such surroundings, and if the young suffragettes did not bring their young men with them, there would be no business.

Miss Madeline Travers, who appears in the role of the temperamental queen in "Three Weeks," is regarded as one of the most attractive of the country's younger stars. Her gowns worn in the play are said to be the most lovely that money could buy. She makes frequent changes for the different acts and this feature alone is worthy of special note in this one of the most beautiful of modern photo-dramas.

We have decided to offer any article you may desire from our immense stock of diamonds, watches, jewelry, cut glass or silverware, at prices as low as you could buy for if you paid all cash. Table with 3 columns: Value $1 to $15, $15 to $30, $30 to $50. Rows list weeks from First week to Twentieth week with corresponding values.

You can reverse the payments, paying the highest amount the first week and reducing the amount every week thereafter, or you can make any payment any week, just as you choose. You can also take any article out after you have made the first payment. All payments stop as soon as the article selected has been paid for. Articles of a higher value may be bought on the same plan by making the payments in larger proportion.

You can start any day, and if for any reason you are unable to keep up the payments, you may select any article of the aloe of the amount you had previously paid in.

Between Namur and Liege. What lovelier home could gentle fancy choose? Is this the stream, whose cities, heights and plains, War's favorite playground, are with crimson stains, Familiar as the morn with peary dew? The morn that now, long the silver Meuse, Spreading her peaceful ensigns, calls the swain; To tend their silent boats and ringing walks, Or strip the bough whose mellow fruit bestrewns The ripening corn beneath it. As mine eyes Turn from the fortified and threatening hill, How sweet the prospect of you watery glade, With its ray rocks clustering in penjeive shade That, shaped like old monastic towers, rise From the smooth meadow ground, serene and still. —William Wordsworth.

"GETS-IT" a Sure-Shot For All Corns

Use Two Drops—and They Vanish. When corns make you almost die with your boot on, when you try to walk on the edge of your shoes to try to get away from your corns,

"Marked Everywhere: Time to Step on My Corn! Use 'GETS-IT' and You'll Have No Corns to Be Stepped On."

you're way behind time if you have not used "GETS-IT". It's the corn cure of the century, the new way, the sure, painless, simple way. It makes a fellow really feel foolish after he's used too cutting knives, corn biting ointments, toe banding bandages, blood bringing razors, knives, files, scissors, labbers and what not, when he uses just two drops of "GETS-IT" and sees his corn vanish. The difference is divine. Just try it. You won't wince when you put on your shoes in the morning. "GETS-IT" is sure "gets" any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR THE YOUTH OF GERMANY

Printed Circulars Instruct Youth How Food May Be Saved By Them

Berlin.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The schools are undertaking their part toward educating the people in economical living. Boys attending Berlin schools are now bringing home a printed circular to be hung up in their homes, showing in detail how food can be saved and best used. The sort of Ten Commandments for war-times. It bears the caption: "A rallying cry to Germany's Youth," and has as its motto: "Let us all be fighters in the cause." The Ten Commandments are as follows: 1. Everybody must save, for only if everybody save will Germany's supplies hold out.

- 2. Waste no food, not even the most unimportant.
3. Take time for eating, and chew thoroughly.
4. Avoid all eating between meals.
5. Eat rye instead of wheat bread and be economical with bread.
6. Be economical with butter, and eat cheese, fruit sauces, and marmalade instead of butter.
7. Eat abundantly of fresh vegetables so as to save meat, fats and bread.
8. At tables call for potatoes in the skins.
9. Buy chocolate, and sweets and send to the soldiers at the front—we can gladly dispense with these things.
10. In all that you do, remember that you can contribute your modest share toward helping create the new Fatherland that we are all hoping for. Practice self-economy and work.

Various remarks are added to these commandments, of which the following is a specimen: "Be careful to eat everything from your plate; otherwise much is wasted. Thus 20 grammes of fat is wanted for each person in Berlin every day in washing the dishes. If these 20 grammes were saved they would amount for the whole population to 175,000 pounds of fat a day for Greater Berlin."

At The Theaters

The Lydia Margaret. It has been many a week since there has been such an extraordinary bill of vaudeville showing here as that which opened at the Lydia Margaret yesterday. The Mozart offering "Showed In" is the last word in elaborate vaudeville creations and the novel snow shoe dances, the creations of this clever couple, drew much applause. The settings of the act are realistic winter scenes and the costumes fit in. The comedy work and voices of the team are good. Louchia, also on the bill, gave the audience a rare musical treat with his xylophone act. A xylophone is not uncommon in vaudeville but an artist who can get as much melody from the queer construction is uncommon. Louchia's act was enjoyed. Today's pictures include a comedy reel, "Rough and Romantic" and a two part drama, "Saved By Telephone" with Edna Payne, Norbert Myles and R. H. Stanley in the leads. This picture is unusual in theme and setting.

The Majestic. "A Fool There Was" a most remarkable picture, was enjoyed by a capacity house yesterday at the Majestic and will be repeated today. The photography is above the average and the beautiful settings enhance the story that is remarkable. The poem of Kipling, "The Vampire" based on Burne-Jones painting, is a familiar one and the theme, a world old one, is nevertheless interesting. Theda Bara made an exceedingly bewitching "rag, a bon and a bank of hair" and there is possibly no other actress living who could create the role of "the woman who did not care" that would inspire audiences with the disgust which was also admiration which Miss Bara does. "The Fool" was ably portrayed by Edward Jones and the other characters were portrayed by actors and actresses of note.

The Gem. A picture of much historical value is "Life of Abraham Lincoln," a two-part Edison with Frank McQuinn and Nellie Grant featured. There is not an American living who does not revere the story of the life of Abraham Lincoln, the martyr president, considered by the majority of writers and men nationally prominent as the greatest American. A stirring tragedy flavored with just enough pathos to make it palatable, is the life of this great man, history-maker and humorist. The sympathy and passions that are stirred up within us by reading of Lincoln are accentuated to an almost inconceivable degree by the witnessing of the adaptation on the screen. Lincoln's every mannerism, trait and eccentricity are pictured and while looking at it anyone with a drop of American blood in his veins, is carried along by the current of innate patriotism and swallowed up at the confidence of the many emotions. There is humor, tragedy, pathos, tense dramatic action, and affection in this two-reel masterpiece.

From the scene in front of the log cabin to the assassination at Ford's Theatre in Washington, one is gripped. Nothing has been left undone to make this a consummate review of Lincoln's life and special attention has been paid to his peculiarities, the eccentricities of a genius of genius. The scenes which picture his life at Washington are especially well staged in short, the two reels are above criticism by the small boy who is at present eagerly reading of Lincoln's early life or the best informed historian.

The Empress

"The World Upside Down" is a pleasing drama with Margaret Lovag, the youthful actress and the Fairbanks who are seen in "1900 Reward." The program is completed by a comedy with Eddie Dillon, Fay Tincher and Bob Browning in the lead roles. "A Wild Exchange" is the latter picture, a synopsis of which follows: Fred Moore and Ned Bates have swapped all overcoat just alike. For the next Moore has a jealous wife and Bates an engagement ring, which he intends to present to Miss Clara Morrison, and means Clara to take her to the altar. She gives him her gloves to hold and he puts them in his overcoat. He has forgotten the ring and they stop at the office for it. Ned slips the solitaire into his pocket, and then, it being a warm day, takes off the coat and throws it over his arm. As he passes the door, Moore calls Ned into his office to sign a legal paper. The latter throws down his coat. Moore's overcoat is hanging across a chair. In hurrying off, Ned exchanges the overcoat. After the theater, Ned and Clara discover that the ring and the gloves are not in the overcoat. They notify the police. Moore comes home late that night, after a gay evening at the club. In the morning he discovers a pair of white gloves dancing from a pocket of his overcoat. There is an unhappy scene at the breakfast table and Moore rushes off to the office without his coat. He drops into Ned's office and absent-mindedly helps himself to the identical overcoat. Mr. Moore threatens divorce over the phone. A call from Clara, who recognizes her gloves, only rouses the lady's jealousy the more. Meanwhile Ned and the detective whom he has put on trial of the lost overcoat, arrive at Moore's house. Moore has returned and is trying in vain to explain. Then the two men find the two coats, just alike—and a light breaks upon four distracted minds.

not be brought to realize all at once that Wilson is different from other Presidents, and as a consequence they are losing no opportunity whatever that presents itself to jab the President and his administration when they can do so under cover. DRINK.

Editor The Times: No man can forge ahead if he drinks. No man can reach the high point of endeavor if he visits taverns or meets his associates among that class of men. No man can attain efficiency in any line of work if his brain is clouded by drink. He will be shunned by men and woman and justly so, who stand for the refinement and purity of the race, and who are the railroads and manufacturing houses, and all men at the head of any business whatsoever, demanding that their employees drink alone whether on duty or not.

Three-fourths of all crime, misery, poverty and unhappiness in the home is traced to the saloons. Employer and employe could solve all their difficulties were it not for the saloon. The home would be more cheerful and happy. Women and children could not be starved and half clothed, for many a Saturday night's pay roll goes to the saloon. Hundreds of other good uplifting results would follow: men's brains would be cooled, and many would begin to think and reason.

when such a day comes and we have a national prohibition we shall have a better citizenship and calmer, leader-headed, happier-hearted men to do the business of the country. But it will not come if men and women sit idly by and only talk about it, and hope for it. We must act and organize and work as one for the uplifting and salvation of future generations. Save our boys and girls. An any man who has a child be kind to his obligation and the care of the little life God has given into his keeping. Let everyone of us do our duty and the time to commence to clean up is NOW.

Last week I attended a meeting of the W. C. T. U. and though not a member myself, I was very forcibly impressed with what the little band of women are doing. And oh, what a uphill task they have had, yet we see the white spots on our map to the women who wear the little bow of white ribbon. I say, God bless them and pray that the men of the world will join them in their struggle and give them every aid in their work. The press should join hands with such a movement for they have unlimited power in any community. Let them keep up this agitation. Invite editors from all kinds take favorable action by offering their support, and force these corrupt influences to seek other fields. See what a different town you will have, and what wonderful results you will accomplish. Many a saloon keeper has found out it would be best for him and his family to get into other business, has asked the step, made a man of himself and found life itself better. Let us influence them to do so. The saloons must go and National prohibition is inevitable for men and women stand for purity and progress, will not tolerate the existing conditions. C. E. K.

CHANGING FASHIONS.

The girls have grown weary of dresses so tight that bystanders leery aid they were a fright. Their skirts were so scanty I often have wept, when sister and auntie around me have stepped. None could be more helpless in pinions of steel, yet patient and helpless they stood the ordeal. For women will suffer in silence and smile; they think it would be tougher to be out of style. No women have accepted or frolicked for years, their garments so hampered the lovable limbs. But fashions are changing, and now the wide gown, they say, will be ranging all over the town. Our ladies and Annes may dig from the heart the gowns of their grannies and rot with the best. Their legs—beg our pardon! their limbs, I should say—will have a whole garden in which they may play. The fashion's improving rapidly this year; like circus tents moving the girls will appear. And when we behold them in gowns and hoops the silks that enfold them in tassels and loops, we'll cry, "Holy Moses! is fashion gone mad? The surety discloses the crassest fad!"

J. C. Ziegler, of the Ziegler Stove Co., has returned from a trip to various northern points where he made contracts for materials for his company. At Quincy, Ill., he made a contract for immediate delivery of castings for three thousand stoves, and these are expected to arrive some time within the next month. The company also expects to put a force of salesmen at work very soon to cover the territory where gas stoves are used.

NORWEGIAN LEGISLATION OF SOCIALISTIC NATURE

Universal Suffrage Results in Enactment of Many Radical Laws

By Associated Press. Christiania—Since Norway has given every adult woman and man the right to vote, legislation is declared to have taken a remarkably socialistic turn, although the socialist party, except in special industrial centers, does not count a majority of the voters. In Parliament the radicals are in majority, and in connection with the socialistic factors, they have such an overwhelming force that the conservatives have no ray at all. The present legislation is characteristic of Norwegian socialistic theories, which, in many respects, are quite different from those in other countries. For instance, the legislature, with a large majority, has passed a law by which illegitimate children are to be placed in the same class as legitimate children, in relation to the father. The slogan is "same rights for illegitimate children as for legitimate children." One section provides that illegitimate offspring shall have full right to take the name of the father; another gives them equal rights in the matter of inheritance.

Upon a man's death, for instance, an illegitimate son, perhaps born long before the man was married, can break into the bereaved family and according to the new law, take the dead man's name and demand his share of estate. At the same time, if a man who has an illegitimate child wants to take the child into his family, the child's mother may prevent it, if it is her wish. Opponents of the new law have contended that it will tempt immoral women to look for rich fathers for illegitimate offspring. The proponents of the law assert that the "old fashioned" legal matrimony must be replaced by the full love connections between "soul affiliates." In all reformatory bills before the legislature the socialistic ones are leading. One bill proposes to make away with all private schools and colleges, since the laboring man cannot afford to send his children into these schools. The civil service high school education has been required, but recent legislation decided that it would not hereafter be required in the government mail service.

PEOPLE OF DENMARK WANT STRICTEST NEUTRALITY

Stockholm.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The Swedish author Harold Waegner, who has been traveling through Denmark for the newspaper Aftenbladet, reports that "all the responsible Danes whom I have met impress me seriously with their belief that the only possible policy for Denmark is strict neutrality." He explains: "The people of Denmark have always been happy and have lived in harmony. They were energetic and well-educated, with a splendid culture. They no longer dream of avenging the year 1864. "The most that could happen, they say to each other, would be to get Schleswig-Holstein back again. But taken as a whole, the land conquered by Germany in 1864 is now indisputably German. Kell, for instance, is now a thoroughly German town. "Denmark's political interests do not incline towards any of the belligerents. She prefers to throw in her lot with the northern kingdoms."

HOLLAND IS WELL PREPARED FOR WAR

ARMY OF 250,000 MEN AND EXCELLENT LITTLE FLEET IN READINESS

WATER ALSO LINE OF DEFENSE

Amsterdam, Holland.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Holland is keeping in training a formidable army and a small but efficient fleet not to be despised when taken in conjunction with her powerful coast defenses to be prepared for the eventuality of having to defend herself in case she is threatened from any side during the great European war.

The nation to a man is fully aware of the fact that its armed forces may at any moment be called upon to strike a blow to maintain its neutrality and the statesmen forming the government know that this necessity may arise with terrible suddenness. The Dutch land forces, in times of peace almost insignificant in numbers as compared with the millions of men composing the continental armies of the great powers, have since their mobilization at the beginning of the war been augmented by the calling up of reserves until they now total over 250,000 men. Altogether seventeen yearly classes of troops, averaging about 15,000 men for each year from 1899 to 1915, inclusive, have been called to the colors. Seven of the classes, composed of the younger men, belong to the militia. Since August the men have been constantly exercised and they have now reached a condition of preparedness and fitness such as never has been known in the Dutch army.

The army at present is organized comprises first the field army of approximately 90,000 men; second the troops forming the city garrisons wherever they might be most required. The field army which would bear the burden of resisting any attack on Dutch territory, is not divided into army corps but is formed into four divisions, each composed of forces of all arms—cavalry, infantry, artillery, engineers and transport—and these occupy strategic points. The garrison troops occupy the larger cities and forts and would not be called on to take the field. The surplus army is distributed all over the country in training depots, where the men are continuously drilled in field work, digging trenches, erecting wire entanglements, shooting and carrying out long route marches.

Should the field army be defeated in its encounters with an invader, it would retire behind the first line of water defense, after resisting long enough for the foundation to become effective. In the unlikely event of the enemy overcoming the difficulties of the flooded country in this first zone, the field army would retire behind the second water line enclosing the larger cities, which it would then defend with the assistance of the landwehr and landstorm already there.

Water as Defense. Frederick the Great in discussing the invasion of Holland is recorded as having said: "It is no use my attempting to march my six foot soldiers into a country covered with seven feet of water." This difficulty still exists and makes it a stupendous undertaking for any army to attempt the conquest of Holland from the land side. As to its naval defenses, Holland makes no pretensions to be among the first class powers. The bluejackets rank among the best in the world and they have the traditions of centuries behind them, but the vessels which they man are small and would have very little chance in an encounter with the heavy ships of the bigger nations. The most powerful of the Dutch vessels, the Zeven Provinciën, displaces only 5,500 tons and there are five others of about 3,700 tons each, all of them with a speed

Dallas business men, touring Texas in behalf of Dallas trade and scheduled to arrive here at 5:15 this afternoon have, by arrangement with the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company and connecting line companies, provided so that they may be in almost constant touch by telephone with their offices and homes while traveling. At every point where the train schedule calls for a stop of forty minutes or more instructions was issued several days ago to have the wires ready for connection with the fully equipped intercommunicating telephone system in use on special cars. Operators are assigned to the work of passing calls as offered. Those on the train may also be called from any point as the train schedule indicates their whereabouts. Here Manager H. D. Phillips made full preparation, wires leading to the switchboard in the local exchange being connected at the nearest pole for immediate use. At the central office all necessary instructions were issued by which this extraordinary service might receive necessary attention. General Commercial Superintendent, P. K. Baker, travels with the Dallas business men, representing the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company. Under his direction a special map showing the route of the trade excursion was prepared and printed in the folder descriptive of the tour. This diagram shows the special telephone connections as they were determined in advance to give this extraordinary service so necessary in a business and social way to those who planned to leave their offices and homes to remain a week on the road.

TAR AND FEATHERS

By GEORGE MUNSON.

(Copyright, 1914, by W. G. Chapman.) Griggs was a traveling man. Draw a picture of the type that this description calls up in your own mind and you have Griggs. Forty-five, or a little less, stout, jolly, with a perpetual smile and a noisy way, and an addiction to noisy clothes; that is Griggs.

He passed through Evesham twice a year and stayed, of course, at the Phoenix, where he used to swap yarns with the rest of us in the evening. People liked Griggs pretty well, but he wasn't exactly the kind of man they would have preferred for a neighbor.

He had a wife somewhere along his route, but none of us had ever seen her. We learned of the fact only from a word that he casually let drop one day.

Miss Amy Bellairs was the beauty of Evesham. Her father, Squire Bellairs, was one of the few men who, belonging to the old type, had adjusted himself to the conditions of the present.

Well, if Griggs was interested in a maid, it wasn't anyone's business, and it wasn't up to us to interfere. You can imagine the upshot, if there is one thing that enravens Evesham more than another it is a married man paying attentions to an unmarried woman—or a married one, for that matter, unless she happens to be his wife. Of late Griggs seemed to have been making Evesham his headquarters more than his business warranted.

The sisterhood didn't speak to Martha—they ostracized her. They didn't speak to the squire, for he was not a sympathetic man. They attacked where they thought the best chances of success lay—at Miss Amy.

A deputation visited the squire's daughter and laid the facts before her. "Ladies," said Miss Amy quietly, "in my opinion you have come on an spiteful errand. It is no business of mine to inquire into the character of my maid's callers and I won't do it."

So the sisterhood retired baffled. They didn't dare to be insolent to Miss Amy and they knew she wouldn't care for anything they might do to annoy her. So they held a consultation in Miss Jones's house.

"What I says is," said little Miss Blossom, the confectioner, "we've got to strike at the man. It's men who bring harm to us poor women."

Inasmuch as no man had ever brought any harm to Miss Blossom, who was wifened, dried up and sixty, this does not seem to have been first-hand evidence, but her suggestion was acclaimed with great enthusiasm.

"What'll we do to him?" inquired Miss Jones.

"A thick coat of tar and a few feathers—chicken feathers," answered Miss Blossom.

The sisterhood kept very quiet after that, but they kept their eyes on Griggs. It was about four weeks later that he stepped off the train on Evesham platform, with his perpetual smile and jolly air. He hadn't done so before a female scout was hurrying uptown with the news.

Griggs had a good dinner at the Phoenix and then, feeling at peace with himself and all the world, he started uptown toward the squire's kitchen—the squire was away at the time—and they saw their opportunity, too.

It must have been an hour later that Miss Jones and Miss Blossom crept up to the kitchen door to reconnoiter. Behind them came a cohort of nearly a dozen infuriated ladies, two of whom carried the tar-pot, while the rest carried mostly feather pillows, ripped up at one end.

"Ladies," said Miss Blossom, "it isn't usual to tar and feather over the coast, is it?"

This idea had not occurred to anybody, but Miss Blossom was equal to the occasion.

"Over his head," she said, and with that the infuriated band burst open the door to find Griggs with his arms about—whom do you suppose? Martha Bayliss? No, sir, the squire's daughter, Miss Amy Bellairs herself.

Well, you can imagine the silence of petrified astonishment. Nobody remembered the tar-pot. Nobody would have dared to tar Griggs—in Miss Amy's presence. But they didn't forget their tongues.

"So now we understand," said Miss Blossom, "what the attraction here was."

"An also why you didn't think it was no business of yours to interfere," sneered Miss Jones.

"But of course we understand now," said Miss Blossom, "and we came to save a poor innocent girl from being imposed upon by a scoundrel, not a designing woman of the world."

Griggs rose to the occasion splendidly. He stepped out, bristling, in front of the sisterhood.

"I'll have you know," he shouted, "that this lady is my wife, and has been this past six months, you—"

Shocked by the word, he used the sisterhood dissolved and bolted.

Of course the news came out next day, but Griggs must have stood up to the squire as well as he stood up to the sisterhood, to judge from the fact that he stays there now, when he visits Evesham, which is pretty often, instead of at the Phoenix.

And the moral I draw is that you can never account for a woman's taste. Mrs. Griggs is as happy as a queen, and the old squire says he's going to make the boy a financial emperor when he grows up.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS NEW FIRE STATION

MESSRS. HABERN AND HICKMAN WILL BE PLACED IN CHARGE THERE

NEW COUNCILMAN SWORN IN

Reed Chosen Mayor Pro-Tem New Fire Plug Ordered at Brook and Trueheart

The new fire station at 1920 Tenth street was accepted by the city council at its meeting Monday night and will be occupied very shortly by the department, with Messrs. Habern and Hickman in charge. Other incidents of the council meeting were the swearing in of the aldermen elected recently, and the selection of Dr. J. F. Reed as mayor pro tem.

The meeting was adjourned on Thursday when the regular session was postponed. The returns of the recent aldermanic election were canvassed and Messrs. Reed and Lea were sworn in, Mayor Britain administering the oath of office. The committee assignments for the year were announced, Messrs. Reed and Bradley retaining their old places and Mr. Lea taking the places formerly held by Mr. Young.

A new fire plug was ordered placed at the corner of Brook and Trueheart streets. It was voted that the council retain its membership in the Bureau of Municipal Research.

An ordinance prohibiting damaging of trees and plants in the city parks was passed finally, providing a maximum fine of $200. This action was taken upon reports of vandalism in one of the parks recently. An order was adopted for the new form of assessment rolls in use by the city. A sewer was ordered placed in the alley blocks 188 and 116 near the river.

WOULD EXTEND PROHIBITION TO PRIVATE CLUBS

Glasgow, Scotland.—(Correspondence Associate Press)—Several of the labor delegations which urged upon Chancellor Lloyd George the advisability of total prohibition of alcoholic liquors during the war, made a particular point of the fact that any such prohibition, to be effective, must apply to private clubs as well as to saloons and hotels.

While this was urged partly on the ground that such prohibition should operate equally upon all classes, it was also observed that in many towns it would be futile to close the bars and leave the clubs open. Glasgow is the most striking example of this, for the workmen's clubs here are very numerous and they practically all serve liquor. These clubs, in fact, have completely defeated the object of recent legislation for the early closing of saloons in Great Britain. Early closing and Sunday closing in Glasgow merely transfer the drinking from the saloons to the clubs.

The membership fees to these workmen's clubs are generally nominal, and in many cases are dispensed with entirely through the presentation of a form of receipt for money which has never been paid. The law requires that only members may be allowed admittance to a club serving liquor, but the enforcement in Glasgow is very lax, and a newspaper investigator last Sunday obtained admittance to a large number of clubs, although he was not a member of any. In several of them he found upwards of 150 persons seated around the tables.

LOCAL ATTORNEY KNEW DONN ROBERTS

J. R. OGLE ONCE VOTED FOR ROBERTS AND OTHERS CONVICTED FOR ELECTION FRAUDS

ROBERTS LIKEABLE FELLOW

Was Civil Engineer and Ran for Mayor on a Progressive Platform

Mayor Donn M. Roberts, who with others convicted in the Terre Haute election frauds, was taken to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, yesterday, a Wichita Falls attorney, said Mr. Ogle. "It is very doubtful whether any Wichita Falls citizen has been more interested in the election frauds of the Terre Haute citizens at Indianapolis than have," said Mr. Ogle. "This is brought about by reason that I grew almost to manhood in that county, though I had been away for many years until the past few years when I expected while going to law school to make that my home after I got out, and to take up the practice of law there. So while going to school, I considered that my home, and made it my home during the off seasons.

"I became personally acquainted with Mayor Donn M. Roberts, though he was not mayor at the time I met him. I know a great many of the large number who were recently convicted. Roberts being the democratic nominee, and I being a true democrat, it is not strange since I had a vote coming that I should vote for him as well as a large number of the others who were sentenced, for Roberts appeared to be a very nice sort of a man for that important office. At the time he was elected it was the fall previous to the one which the trial has been concerned, so do not feel that I am responsible for so many of the corrupt ones taken into office.

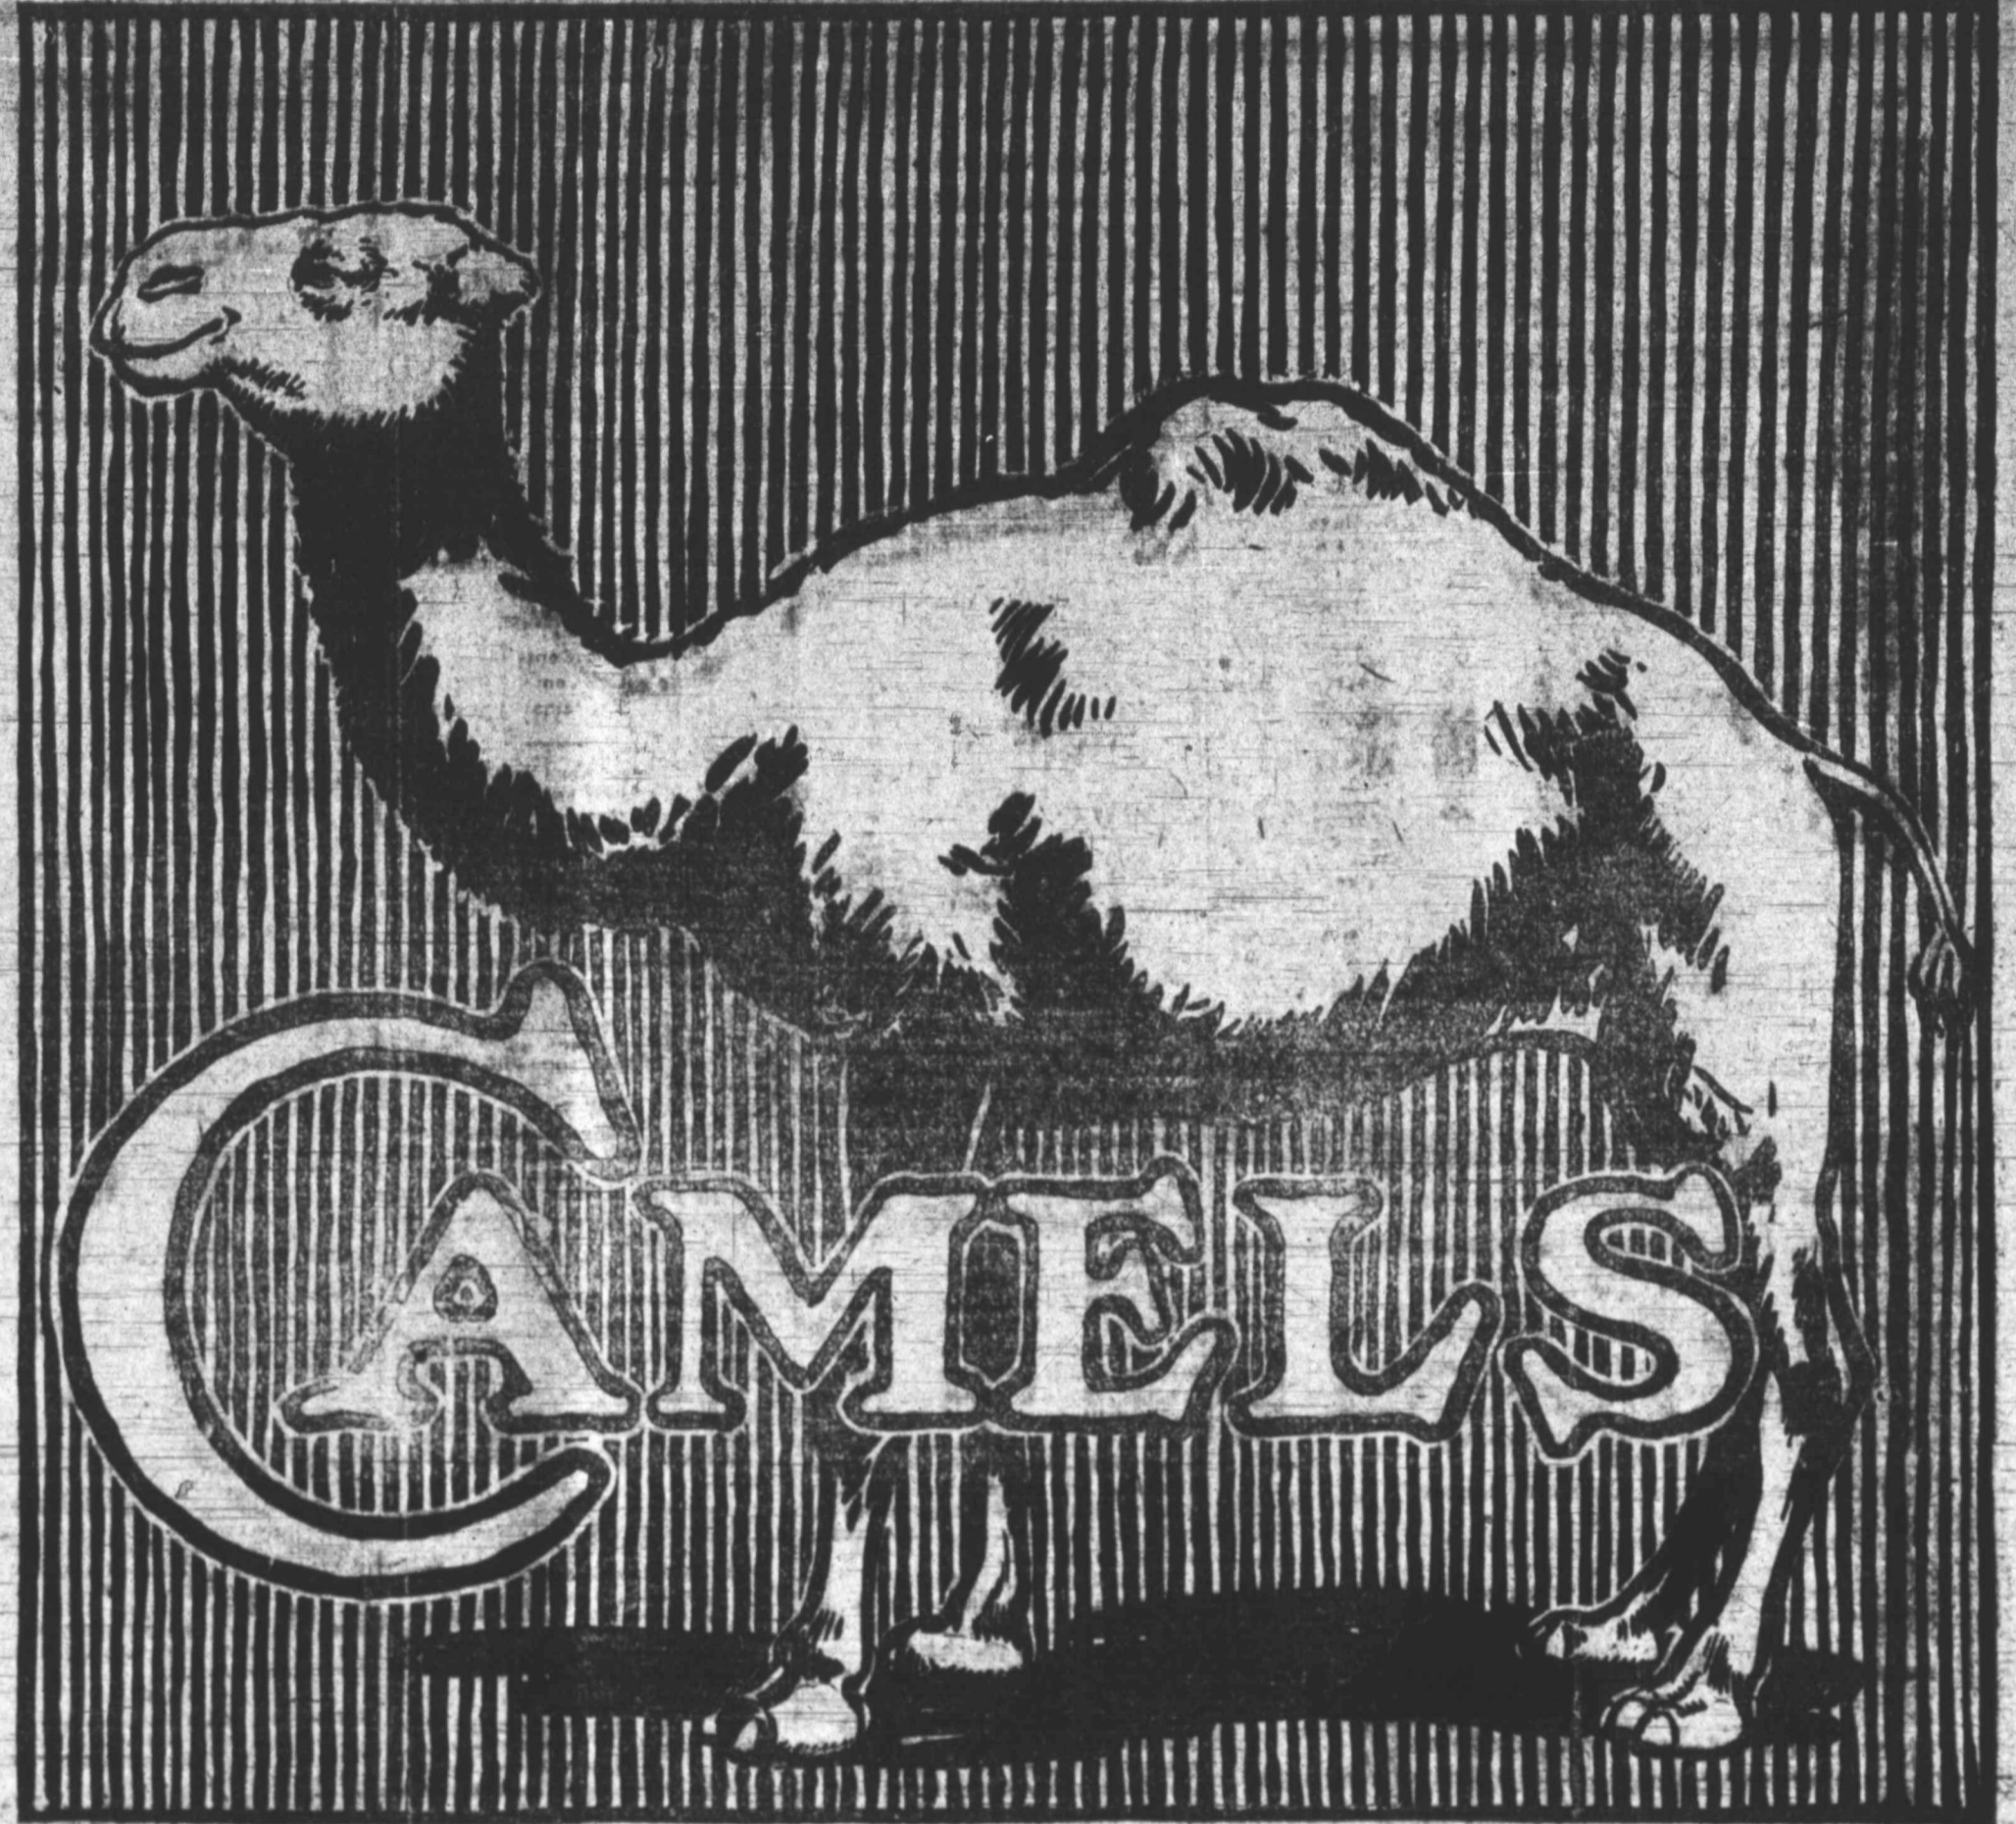

"Roberts was indicted after the election in which he was elected mayor for similar conditions, but as it was not an election in which any one was running for congress of United States, so the United States was not a party, and it was a case tried in the county, the trial lasted five weeks, it appeared to many that the evidence was so strong against him that he could not help being convicted, but he with very able counsel was acquitted of the charges. So can be easily seen that his has not been a bed of roses.

"Terre Haute is a nice little city of about 75,000 inhabitants at this time, and like many other places is usually controlled by political rings, all any community needs to have, such as a good leader and they will not lack for followers. I hardly realized that Roberts had such a machine, as it was just in its infancy I suppose at the time he was elected, as there had been no democrats named of some standing headed by the late John E. Lamb who was the most favorable man at one time mentioned for the post administrator to Mexico at the time Lind was sent down, and who was an ex-congressman. It was only natural that Roberts should have many supporters who did not like to follow such machine like tactics.

"While it is very true that no man should be judged from a political standpoint by those who supported him, yet I will say that there is no question but what Roberts had a world of power and influence behind both he and his machine in the man who owns and is at the head of the Terre Haute Brewing Co., the largest in the state. This same man I might add does a great deal for the poor by giving hundreds and possibly thousands of tons of coal to the poor every winter and likewise a great amount of ice to them in the summer. I might say at this time that I have been told by those very close to Mayor Roberts that he has never used tobacco nor tasted liquor in his life. I was also informed by those that should have known that he was and intended to run in the next gubernatorial race.

"Mr. Roberts was a civil engineer, one of the principal platforms that he ran on was more paved streets and an attractive city, and as most cities have much room for improvement along that line, it was a very good plank upon which to run.

"I have been especially interested to know who and how they will fill the many vacant offices, it has also been a surprise to me to not see the name of the prosecuting attorney's name mentioned in late, as he was mentioned often at the time of the arrests, and it has appeared to me all along that he was the right head man of Roberts. I have felt more concerned with that office by reason that the Republican nominee was Wm. E. Horley, a classmate of mine at Law School and was the ex-sheriff of the county of Wyo, and the nominee for Mayor on the Republican ticket only a few years ago. I recently received a letter from Mr. Horley in which he told me that he was counted out by a very small vote, and how as many votes were cast in some precincts as there were people.

ENGLISH DON'T REALIZE SERIOUSNESS OF WAR

Workingmen Apparently Look Upon It As No More Important than Colonial Expedition

London.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—"We Belgians and French, who are now suffering most cruelly from German aggression, are grieved and astonished to find that in the eyes of a large part of the trade unionists of Great Britain the war now raging does not seem much more important than a colonial expedition. In many places, indeed, the working men act exactly as if England were not engaged, as we are, in a struggle for life or death."

In these words M. Emile Vandervelde, the Belgian minister of state and leader of the socialist party in his own country, sums up his case against British socialists in an open letter to the Daily Citizen, Hyndman, the leader of the social democratic party in England, had assured M. Georges Clemenceau, the French socialist, that the vast majority of British workers and socialists strongly believed in the war. Vandervelde quotes Hyndman's statement, adding: "I have even been told that in certain factories of arms and ammunition where there are Belgians and English, the English advise the Belgians not to exert their full strength so as to avoid intensive exploitation of their powers of labor. Such action is legitimate in time of peace. If perpetrated now, it is obviously because the workers of England do not sciently realize the gravity of the situation."

INDEPENDENT BALL TEAM BEING ORGANIZED HERE

Loeb-Liebold Independents Will Contain Several Former Professional Players

An independent baseball team which will represent Wichita Falls in contests with neighboring towns is being organized here, to be known as the Loeb-Liebold Independents. E. C. Robbins, a former professional player who was an umpire in the Texas-Oklahoma League last season will be in command of the team. Bill Guthrie and Art Naylor, both former Texas-Oklahoma League stars, will be in the outfield and Askew, who was in the Georgia-Alabama League last year, will be in the infield, with York of the Houston City League, Robbins and Huxey, formerly of the Oklahoma-Kansas League team. Several other local players will probably play.

ONE POUND WORTH 2 OF CORN

Cottonseed Meal Contains From 36 to 45 Per Cent of Protein

Washington, April 20.—Five times as many farmers as at present, should be using cottonseed meal.

Cottonseed meal contains from 36 to 45 per cent protein and is therefore one of the most concentrated feedstuffs upon the market.

There is, however, a distinct limit to the quantity of the meal that animals can use economically.

The Need For Coffee

It may be broadly stated that no normal person is ever harmed by the natural and moderate use of coffee. To the contrary, such use is healthful and beneficial, at any and all seasons.

But there are many who cannot drink milk, the most perfect natural food. There are others who cannot digest strawberries, or enjoy peaches or eat oysters and so on, the list covering everything from soup to stuts. But all of these things are still sold in the markets and enjoyed by the millions.

Just so with coffee. And coffee is often blamed, when some other element, or physical condition, is the real source of trouble or discomfort. In material climates coffee is invaluable, and in the debilitating tropics it is a life saver. The bracing morning cup, served immediately upon awakening, is justified by the benefits conferred. And in the cold fogs and rain of northern latitudes, on ship or shore, a strong hot cup of coffee before breasting the storm is a health protecting influence and invigorator.

That coffee gives one an increased capacity for work, both mental and muscular, is clearly demonstrated in the experience of all who drink it. No doctor is needed to tell you that you feel better, stronger, more ambitious and hopeful, and are really able to accomplish more, because of the appetizing and bracing morning cup. The after dinner cup, after a hearty meal, soothes and rests and adds to the feeling of comfort and satisfaction.
