DECIDED EXPENSE WOULD BE TOO GREAT ATTEMPT IT THIS YEAR

CONFERENCE WITH MERCHANTS

Committee Named By Chamber of Commerce To Discuss Several Matters

No fair will be held in Wichita Falls this year. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors this morning, a recommendation of the fair committee to this effect was adopted.

The committee decided that the expense of holding a fair such as was planned was too great to attempt it this year, especially when the prospects for attendance and patronage are less favorable than they were.

A committee from the Retail Merchants' Association appeared before the directors this morning to discuss some matters which have been the subject of several meetings of the merchants, especially the bringing of additional trade to Wichita Falls.

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR GIBSON NOT DISCOURAGED

Austin, May 27.—"Shall we have an insurance company money trust in Texas?" This is one of the important issues to be determined in the next campaign, announced Governor Ferguson, shortly after the defeat of the measure Tuesday afternoon and as a result of the failure of this measure.

"I regret that the bill did not pass. I am not sore or discouraged. The people will speak in due time and the politicians will run to cover. One of the issues to be decided in the next campaign will be: 'Shall we have an insurance money trust in Texas?'"

EXPERT SAYS TESTIMONY AT FRANK TRIAL WRONG

Atlanta, May 27.—The belief that Leo M. Frank had nothing to do with the "murder notes" which played such an important part in the famous trial is expressed in a report submitted to Governor Slaton and the Georgia prison commission by Albert Osborne, a handwriting expert of New York.

Osborne, in his report, declares his firm conviction that James Conley, the negro who testified that he wrote the notes at Frank's dictation, did not have "intelligent assistance" in preparing the documents. Conley, who was chief witness against Frank, now is serving a sentence of one year in prison.

In his original report to Solicitor Dorsay, Osborne stated that the notes might have been written at the suggestion or with the assistance of Frank. Subsequent study, he declared, had convinced him this was incorrect.

ITALIAN TROOPS CROSS THE ISONZO

STRONG ADVANCE GUARD HAS ARRIVED BEFORE THE TOWN OF MONFALCONE

FIGHTING AROUND PLOKEN

Austrian Wounded are Now Arriving at Trieste—Traevil Pass is Contested

Geneva, Switzerland, May 27.—A strong Italian advance guard today crossed the Isonzo river after a sharp fight with an Austrian force and arrived before the town of Monfalcone which is 30 miles from the Austrian support of Trieste.

The Italians also attacked at several points along the 40 miles of the Carpathian frontier. A battle between the Italians and Austrians is raging around Ploken and west of the Traevil pass in Austria.

Both the Austrian and the Italian aviation services are very active along the frontier. Many machines have been gathered at Venice to protect that city.

Several regiments of Bavarian Alpine troops yesterday crossed the Brenner pass which is 4,485 feet high between Salsburg and Innsbruck.

BRITISH BATTLESHIP TRIUMPH IS SUNK

London, May 27.—The British battleship Triumph has been sunk in the Dardanelles. This official announcement was made last night.

The disaster to the Triumph is described in a brief statement by the admiralty, which says that while operating in support of the Australian and New Zealand forces on the shore of the Gallipoli peninsula yesterday the Triumph was torpedoed by a submarine and sank shortly afterward.

The majority of the officers and men, including the captain and commander, are reported saved. The submarine was destroyed by destroyers and patrolling small craft until dark.

The battleship Triumph was built at Barrow in 1902 for the Chilean government, but was purchased by Great Britain in 1903. Since the present war broke out the Triumph has been in operation in both the eastern and European waters.

After the fall of Tsing Tau the Triumph returned to European waters and began operations with the allied fleet against the Dardanelles. In the latter part of April the Triumph bombarded the Turkish trenches on the western end of the Gallipoli peninsula and afterward went into the Dardanelles to search the trench from a different angle.

The vessel carried four 10-inch, fourteen 7.5-inch guns and fourteen 14-pounders and four 6-pounders. In addition she carried two 18-inch torpedo tubes. The Triumph was 436 feet long and had a speed of about twenty knots.

NEGRO CITIZEN DIED FROM HEART FAILURE

Joe Wise, one of the best known colored residents of Wichita Falls, died last night at his home at 309 Park street, from heart trouble.

He was 46 years of age and had been a resident of Wichita Falls about thirty years. His conduct was such as to win the esteem and friendship of all who knew him both white and black.

For some time he operated a pool room in the negro section. Previously he had been employed at various saloons and had always conducted himself soberly and industriously. He leaves a widow.

The body has been embalmed and will be held until Sunday afternoon when the funeral service will be held and burial will follow in that part of Riverside cemetery set apart for colored persons.

LOSS OF LIFE AND DAMAGE IN STORMS

EASTERN OKLAHOMA AND WESTERN ARKANSAS SWEEP BY STORMS

SIX DEAD AT TALLEHNA

Four Reported Killed at Antlers—Arkansas River Flooding Rich Bottom Lands

Fort Smith, Ark., May 27.—Six persons are reported dead, two, at Tallahena, Okla., and four at Cherokee, Okla., as the result of the storms which last night and early today swept western Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma.

Reports from Antlers, Okla., assert that more than 60 persons were injured at Tallahena. Wire and rail communication with the stricken district today was almost entirely cut off.

A cloudburst was reported at Poteau, Okla., but the extent of the damage had not been learned today. Reports of distress have been received from Stigler, Okla., which was struck by a tornado Saturday and which, because of continued rains and washouts has been unable to secure outside aid.

TEXAS BANKERS TO FINANCE COTTON CROP

Waco, May 27.—At the annual meeting of the Texas Bankers Association in this city recently resolutions were unanimously adopted condemning the past methods of marketing cotton in Texas and pledging the financial and moral support of the membership of the organization in perfecting a system of successfully marketing future cotton crops of Texas.

The resolution advocates the organization of bankers, farmers and other business men in every county in the state for the purpose of carrying on educational work in order to bring about an intelligent plan of selling the staple.

The meeting was attended by bankers from practically every county in the state and the membership went on record as favoring the present warehouse law and pronounced the law a bonded, negotiable and safe instrument. The resolution as adopted should at all times be based on the price of production and upon the law of supply and demand.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY ISSUES STATEMENT ON RAID

London, May 27.—The secretary of the admiralty has issued a statement on the South End raid which says that two women were killed. The statement says:

"Late last night a Zeppelin visited the English coast and bombs were dropped on South End. The casualties were two women killed and one child badly injured. Aeroplanes and seaplanes pursued the enemy which escaped."

South End, a municipal borough and popular seaside resort at the mouth of the Thames forty miles east of London has been the target of Zeppelin raiders in the last few months. On no previous occasion however has the damages been serious.

SIX FOOT RISE ON LITTLE WICHITA

PROBABLE THAT RAILROAD TRACKS NORTH OF HENRIETTA WILL BE COVERED

CROP DAMAGE LOCALIZED

Hail Damage Especially Heavy in Mankins Community—Lake Wichita Falling

Destruction of crops by hail appears to have been the chief damage wrought by the storm of Wednesday; the expected rise in Lake Wichita and Holiday creek has not materialized, but a six foot rise is reported to be sweeping down the Little Wichita toward Henrietta.

Hail damage was very severe to the southward, particularly in the vicinity of Mankins, Archer county. Prospects there had been the best in years, but some fields were practically stripped of grain; one farmer who had erected a 12,000 bushel granary in expectation of a thirty bushel per acre crop, will plow the field under and plant feed, it is said, and others in the section also suffered severely.

LAKE WICHITA FALLING

Lake Wichita rose slightly during the night but was falling again this morning, indicating that the rain was not as heavy on the headwaters of Holiday creek as at first thought. The Wichita river also rose during this morning, with the water still six or seven feet below April's high water mark.

The Burnett street bridge across the Wichita river has been closed to traffic as a result of caving along the approaches, due, it is said by officials of the Scotland Realty Company more to natural conditions than to the effect of the high water. This is the second bridge across the river in this county to be closed to traffic within the past few weeks.

A situation that is eventually going to bring serious results exists along the river front; the water there has been steadily eating its way to the southward and unless it is checked, each additional rise will increase the danger of a real overflow, such as old timers declare actually took place here many years ago.

KILLING TOOK PLACE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Samuel Rosenthal, San Antonio Business Man Shot By Mrs. E. J. M. Hopkins

San Antonio, May 27.—Samuel Rosenthal, a local business man was shot and instantly killed here today. Mrs. E. J. M. Hopkins, aged 54 years, was placed under arrest, charged with the murder. The killing occurred at a public auction sale and four shots were fired from a revolver, two entering Rosenthal's body. A panic ensued. The tragedy, it is said, grows out of a contest over a will here about a year ago.

EASTERN BANKERS WILL HELP FINANCE TEXAS COTTON

Dallas, May 27.—If proper warehousing facilities are provided for the housing of Texas cotton, St. Louis bankers will furnish sufficient money to finance a large part of the 1915 crop according to President R. S. Hawes of the Missouri Bankers Association who has been in Texas attending the Texas Bankers Convention at Waco.

Mr. Hawes also stated that business conditions in St. Louis were a barometer of conditions in Texas. "You know, he said, 'our business depends very largely upon what you people here in Texas are doing. When business is good in Texas it is good in St. Louis. That is why we are interested in the Texas cotton crop and if the Texas farmers arrive at some plan whereby they can properly house their cotton, St. Louis bankers will have no hesitancy in sending money to Texas.'"

DAM AT COUNTRY CLUB LAKE BROKE THIS MORNING

About thirty-five or forty feet of the Marlow and Stone country club lake at the western end of the city went out last night losing a wall of water down the narrow valley from the twenty acre lake.

A man riding in on horseback reported last night that the dam had sprung a leak. Mr. Marlow and Mr. Stone gathered a gang of laborers and went out to the dam with sacks. They succeeded in stopping two leaks that had developed but at about 3 o'clock this morning water began to seep through the dam at its center and a few minutes later a whole section of the dam went out at once. Some of the workmen barely had time to get away before the water rushed over the places where they had been working.

The lake had been almost filled by yesterday's heavy rains the water standing within five or six feet of the spillway overflow. At places it was 25 or 40 feet deep in the lake.

The dam will be repaired at once and it is not likely that it will break again if the excessive rains do not fall in the near future.

AEROPLANE FLEET ATTACKS FACTORY

18 FRENCH AIRSHIPS EACH CARRYING 110 POUNDS EXPLOSIVES BOMBARD TOWN

ANOTHER ZEPPELIN RAID MADE ON SOUTH END

50 GERMAN SOLDIERS REPORTED KILLED BY BOMB

Amsterdam, May 27.—Fifty German soldiers who were passengers in a street car at Ostend were killed by a bomb dropped from an allied aeroplane according to a dispatch from that city to the 'Amsterdam Telegraph' describing a series of air raids made by the allied aviators. The railroad station, shipping and numerous houses have been damaged.

WASHOUT ON TRACTION LINE TO LAKE WICHITA

Passengers to Lake Wichita are being transferred beyond the factory district across a section of the track which suffered in yesterday's rain. A small draw across which there is a bridge became a regular river during the rain and a large part of the fill under the rails was washed out. The damage is being repaired today. This fill was badly cut in last Saturday's rain and yesterday's precipitation wrought additional damage.

WAS WOLF, BUT ONLY POOR TEENTY WEENY BABY PET WOLF

The other evening a visitor, presumably from a dry town, got considerably elated as a result of imbibing too generously of the cup that cheers. He started down the street making the welkin ring with regular whoops.

"Whoopee! I'm a wolf," he shouted, "I'm a wolf. Hooray, whoopee!" An officer strolling by walked up to him and tapped him on the shoulder.

"What kind of a wolf are you friend," the officer asked. The terror of the platoon took the officer in from his helmet to his toes. "I'm just a poor little, teenty, weeny, baby pet wolf; that's all," he recanted and sought safety in flight.

NOTHING DEFINITE ON TORPEDOING OF NEBRASKAN

Not Known Whether Torpedo Or Mine Did Damage—Flag May Have Been Down

By Associated Press.

Washington, May 27.—Messages received by the state department today from Ambassador Page and Consul Skinner at London and Consul Frost at Queenstown failed to say whether the Nebraskan had been torpedoed or struck by a mine.

One dispatch says the Nebraskan's American flag had been hauled down five minutes before she was struck, although her name was painted on her side in letters six feet high. The American naval attaché at Liverpool has been sent to Queensland to examine the vessel.

20 HOUR RULE IS INVOKED IN HOUSE

UNLESS SUSPENDED OPERATION OF RULE WILL KILL MANY MEASURES

Austin, May 27.—Speaker Woods today ruled in the house that the twenty hour rule which prohibits the consideration of bills within that period of final adjournment was in operation since ten o'clock this morning. This caused a decided stir in the House as it means the death of a large number of measures which have passed to engrossment.

Representative Towell offered a resolution for the suspension of the House rule fixing the twenty hour limit. Representative Blaylock and others offered for consideration a resolution for the appointment of a joint committee from the House and the Senate to amend the joint rules prohibiting consideration of measures within 20 hours of final adjournment. The resolution was under debate when the House recessed at noon until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The Holland-American line intends to forward all the passengers who wish to go to Rotterdam on the steamer Rotterdam which is scheduled to sail Tuesday.

DARDANELLE ATTACKS CONTINUE VIGOROUSLY

Reinforcements Being Brought Up By Allies and Turkish Positions Repeatedly Shelled

Paris, May 27.—A Havas dispatch from Athens dated May 26 says that the actions of the allies against the Turkish positions in the Dardanelles is continuing vigorously. Reinforcements are being brought up constantly. The Turks appear to be terrorized by the continued attacks indicated by the absolute determination of the allies to force the straits. From time to time the British and French artillery throws a veritable hail of shells into the Turkish positions.

TESTING TEXAS ROAD MATERIALS, UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS BUREAU OF ECONOMIC GEOLOGY

Millions of dollars per year are voted for road building in Texas, and increasing millions will be voted as the state becomes wealthier and more populous. The proper spending of this money is an enormous problem. The University of Texas is contributing to the solution by training young men in engineering and the installation of a first-class roads material testing laboratory, where over a thousand samples of Texas road material have been tested in the last few months and recommendations made concerning each sample.

Above is a scene in the roads testing laboratory, at the University of Texas, in Austin, where the Bureau of Economic Geology is testing various stones and gravels which are found in Texas, with a view to determining their suitability for road construction. The United States Office of Public Roads maintains such a laboratory in Washington, but the University laboratory is as complete an establishment of its kind as can be found in the country. The director of this laboratory hopes to be able to test, analyze, catalogue every material of use in road-building in the state, and publish results of all such investigations for free distribution. County road engineers, commissioners, owners of gravel pits or limestone quarries, or indeed, any one interested in having tests made of available road material can secure a report upon the same by sending samples to the University Bureau of Economic Geology.

WRONG KIND OF LUBRICANT

Choice of Oil for Typewriter Certainly Didn't Indicate High Order of Intelligence.

"You may think I don't have troubles enough in my business like the rest of you," said a man who handles typewriters, "but I'm here to say that I do. They tell us that using a typewriter is a sign of a higher intelligence in the users than plain hand writers possess, but I don't know; I don't know."

"Only yesterday a man who has been using the machine I represent sent word to me to come up and help him because the thing wouldn't work, and he couldn't make it work. I didn't want to go, but I like to accommodate a friend, and I went. When I got there I found the trouble to be a carriage that would not move except under heavy pressure, something no proper machine can stand for. I gave it a shove or two and saw what was wrong. It was gummed to a standstill."

"Lord, man," I said, "what do you oil your machine with? Axle grease?" "Oh, no," he answered, as innocent as a little child. "Oh, no, I use salad oil."

"Now, what do you think of that? What do you think of the intelligence that cannot discriminate between a salad and a typewriter? And me having to go clean over to the backwoods to tell what the matter was!"

NOT SABBATH FOR THE RABBI

Miracle Had to Be Performed to Keep Him From Breaking Law, and He Did It.

A gabbe, the special messenger of a miracle-performing rabbi, so the story is told, came to a village and all the idlers gathered around him. The conversation fell upon the subject of miracles. "I heard of a wonderful rabbi," said one of the villagers, "who performed great miracles. One day he was out walking, when clouds gathered, and before he could find shelter he commenced to rain. The rabbi did not have an umbrella with him, and not wishing to get drenched he uttered a command. And to the right of him and to the left of him it rained, in back of him and in front of him it rained, but where the rabbi walked it did not rain."

The villagers were greatly impressed, but the gabbe made little of the matter.

"That's nothing compared to what my rabbi did one day," he said. "He went out driving in a carriage one afternoon, and darkness overtook him before he reached home. As it is a sin to ride on the Sabbath, the rabbi for a moment was perplexed what to do. Then he uttered a command. And to the right of him and to the left of him it was Sabbath, in front of him and in back of him it was Sabbath, but where the rabbi rode it was not Sabbath!"

Nature of Genius.

Men may, he says, with Cincinnatus, prefer plowing to war and statecraft, but they are not able to follow their bent. They are possessed of an insatiable desire to be at work in whatever their line may be. Those who conquer nations and found empires are not moved by ambition. They are moved by the enormous force of vitality which struggles within them and must find a way out. Cicero was more intellectually nimble than Caesar. Ben Jonson had more learning than Shakespeare. Babeuf's intentions were better than Bonaparte's (he lost his head for them). Sir Harry Vane was a far more logical revolutionary than Oliver Cromwell. What was there in the four great men I have named which brought them to the front? Had they any gift in common, setting them apart from other men? Yes, one, and one only. Not deep insight, not high moral purpose, not desire for fame. They did not become supermen by studying for the position, not by taking thought and laying careful plans. They came to the front without appearing to make any effort to get there—because they were more alive than other men.—T. P.'s Weekly.

The Noisy Aeroplane.

An English writer raises a question that has been altogether too generally overlooked in designing aircraft. He says: "Whether regarded as a military machine of one used for pleasure, it is evident that from every point of view an aeroplane has everything to gain from possessing a well-sited engine, and nothing to lose except the fraction of power wasted in the exhaust."

Nor is there any reason why an aeroplane motor of the stationary type should not be as effectively silenced as that of the modern motor car. There is no improvement which would render aviation more immediately popular.

Unkindness.

If we will remember unkindness, it is well to begin with our own. Those we have received are not usually one-sided, and the bitter words whose memory stings were seldom entirely without provocation. This, at least, is true: If, on examining our animosities and resentments, we find ourselves wholly blameless, it will at once become easy to forgive. The person hardest to pardon is the one whom we have wronged, and the breach most difficult to heal is the one where we are unwilling to face the consciousness that half the guilt was our own.

How Gold Dust actually works for you

The active principle of Gold Dust is a valuable antiseptic cleansing agent.

It actually works. It gets into the corners and crevices where fingers and washcloths can't reach. It permeates and dissolves dirt, grease and grime everywhere and it cleans and brightens everything.

Gold Dust does all this—does this actual work—because it is made for that purpose.

Millions of women all over the country use Gold Dust three times a day in washing dishes. They use it also for scrubbing floors, washing windows, etc.

But they do not realize all the uses of Gold Dust. Gold Dust is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

Gold Dust cleans metal work, nickel, enameled ware, etc., without scratching or marring the surface—leaving it sanitariously clean, bright and new-looking.

The use of Gold Dust is an economy. There can be no waste when you use the exact small quantity required for each specific purpose. It is at once taken up by hot or cold water, forming the perfect cleansing solution.

No soap or other cleansing help is needed. Gold Dust does it all, and Gold Dust does its work far better than anything else can.

Use Gold Dust not only for washing dishes, but for washing bathtubs and bathroom fixtures, cleaning oil mops, cleaning and freshening linoleum and oilcloth, cleaning and brightening pots, pans and cooking utensils, giving luster to glassware—for every cleaning and brightening purpose.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Gold Dust is as inexpensive as it is indispensable.

DIFFICULTIES WITH OVERSEA TRUST CO. OF NETHERLANDS

The Hague, Netherlands.—The Hague is, and has been for some time, a rendezvous for American lawyers and business men engaged in trying to seek better terms for the exportation of American products to Holland. The negotiations are with the Netherlands Overseas Trust Company, a combination of American exporters and manufacturers of sufficient strength to be able to bargain with the Netherlands Overseas Trust, as individual efforts have so far been fruitless.

Since its formation the Netherlands Overseas Trust Company "N. O. T." as it is popularly called, has had a very remarkable growth of very real interest to American exporters and importers. Representing Holland and with the Dutch colonies, the articles of incorporation of the organization gave it sweeping powers, its declared object being "lending assistance in the broadest sense in behalf of Dutch merchants and Dutch exporters so as to insure an uninterrupted supply from-over-sea-complexes of such articles as have been declared by belligerent powers to be liable to absolute or conditional contraband, or which might be declared such in the future; the running of any business for our own account, absolutely excluded." As almost anything might be declared contraband in the future, the powers thus conferred are almost limitless.

The duration of the corporate existence of the company was fixed in November, 1911. Representation of every shipping concern of any consequence in the Netherlands was provided on the board of directors, each of the following houses having at least one man in the directorate of the trust: Amsterdamsche, The Dutch Indian Trading Bank, the Bank of Amsterdam, B. W. Blijdenstein and Co., the Holland Steamship Co., the Dutch Steamship Co., the Royal Dutch Steamship Co., the Royal Dutch Steamship Co., West India Mail Service and the Royal Dutch Lloyd, Rotterdam; The Rotterdammer Bankvereniging, R. Mees and Son, Willem Rys and Son, the Rotterdam Lloyd Steamship Co., and the Holland America Line; The Hague: Willem H. Muller and Co.

The provision of the articles of incorporation, that the Netherlands Overseas Trust is to do no business for its own profit as a corporation, has been strictly adhered to. But it cannot be denied that what it has done to facilitate trade with the Netherlands in these difficult times has been of immense and of increasing profit to these banks and shipping companies represented on the directorate of the trust. For the practical workings of the trust have been so decided precisely what can and what cannot be shipped to and from the Netherlands, by its virtual mercy of deciding what the Netherlands Overseas Trust will and what it will not accept on consignment, or respond for when exported. As the trust is virtually the only shipping agency in Holland given any definite standing by the allied powers, the dif-facilities attending shipments to Holland otherwise than through the trust are so great as to amount almost to a prohibition.

The result of this is clear. If the Netherlands Overseas Trust will receive a certain American product, and if its manufacturers and exporters will conform absolutely to the rules of shipment laid down by the trust, the product enters Holland under the most favorable conditions at present possible. If the product in question is not so shipped, it may never reach Holland at all. This situation gives the N. O. T. complete effective control of virtually everything shipped to Holland.

Certain American shippers have tried to secure some slight modification of the terms of shipment and bonding prescribed by the Overseas Trust. They have sent representatives to The Hague for that purpose. But as these men have represented only isolated American shippers of manufacturers, they have accomplished nothing. The N. O. T. says to them: "Gentlemen, if you don't like our regulations for bonding or our terms of shipment, don't ship. Somebody else in your line will accept our terms and Holland will not be deprived of what you have to send us. These are the conditions upon which your product may enter the Netherlands through the Netherlands Overseas Trust. Take them or leave them." And as American exporters to Holland have not been wise enough to form a combination strong enough to combat this attitude the conditions laid down by the trust have to be met by the American shipper.

HEART TROUBLE

WOULD like to see Dr. Allen at once, if you will," Hollander said pleasantly. "Not never mind the name. Just a patient."

As the maid withdrew Hollander glanced about the room. Everywhere were medical books and technical magazines. A grinning skull and a yellowed femur reposed on the mantelpiece, and on a neighboring table was a sealed jar containing a human brain. Hollander granted his disgust. He was loathe to associate Cecilia Allen with these things. The idea of women invading the professions—especially such women as Cecilia—was extremely distasteful to his mind. He rose, and crossing the room, stood before a framed diploma, reading its Latin phrases, which announced with all the ponderous dignity of steel engraving and crinkled parchment, that Cecilia Madison Allen was a full-fledged M. D.

Standing thus, with his back to the door, he did not see Cecilia enter the room.

"Good afternoon," she said, in her best professional manner.

Hollander turned.

"Hello, Cecilia," he said with cheerful informality.

"Oh, it's only you," she said.

"Well," he said in challenge, "can't I have troubles as well as anyone else? Haven't I as much right as the next man to summon medical aid?"

Cecilia regarded him doubtfully.

"Did you really come for medical advice?" she asked.

"I really did," he asserted gravely. "Can't sleep. Worry all the time. Lost my good nature and feel broken up generally."

"Indigestion," she declared. "Aren't you smoking too much?"

"Your diagnosis is all wrong," said he. "The trouble is with my heart."

"Indeed!" she said, frowning slightly.

"Even so," he affirmed. "And what is more, it's a bad case."

Cecilia's frown deepened.

"You'd better consult a specialist," she advised.

"You're the only one who would understand the case," he said. "Do you suppose I want to go to a specialist and tell him I'm troubled with an obstinate case of unrequited affection?"

"So that's it," she said wearily.

"Yes, that's it," he returned. "I know of only two methods of treatment—matrimony or cold poison."

"I don't approve of either," she said. "I don't fancy the cold poison myself," he admitted.

"You didn't come here to propose again, did you?" she asked coldly.

"I came here to ask you honestly if you're satisfied with this sort of thing: if you really and truly are making a success of it?" said he.

Cecilia glared at him.

"You're very brave," she said sardonically.

"I know it," said he, "but with all my nonsense I'm in earnest for once. I want to be sure, above all things, that you are happy and contented. If your profession is more than anything else in the world to you, I want you to make the biggest kind of a success of it. That is why I came," he ended quietly.

Cecilia toyed with a paper-weight, but said nothing.

"I've waited patiently and hoped impatiently," he went on, "but now I'm becoming convinced you really mean what you say about your life work. I want to satisfy myself, today that you're thoroughly sincere, and if you are, I won't trouble you further. I'll take myself off and mope it out alone."

"My profession means very much to me," she mused thoughtfully.

"More than anything else in the world?" he asked eagerly.

"More than most anything else," she said.

"More than anything?" he persisted.

"Does it mean more than a home—such a home as I can give you?"

"At that juncture the bell rang and the maid tapped on the door."

"Someone to see you, Dr. Allen," she said.

Cecilia excused herself and took her caller into the little office at the rear of the consultation-room. After a time she came back. Her face was red and her professional repose seemed somewhat disturbed.

"Cured him so soon?" Hollander laughed.

"He's incurable," she said shortly.

"What's his ailment?" Hollander inquired.

"Chronic cupidity," she said. "It was the rent collector."

Hollander turned to her quickly.

"Look here, Cecilia," he said, "you don't mean—"

She nodded miserably.

"I've had just one patient—and that a charity patient—since I've been here," she confessed. "I'm strapped—broke—insolvent," she ended tragically.

"Is the profession worth all this struggle?" said Hollander.

"No," she said hotly. "It isn't. I'm tired of it all, and, Ted, I want to get home—if I'm not too late in applying—Hollander caught her in his arms.

"I'll give you a life job of cure: that heart trouble," he declared justly.

STRAIN ON MIND AND BODY

Few of the Great Conquerors Who Figure in History Were Beyond Middle Age.

"Too old at forty" is a phrase the truth of which has been in many ways confirmed. Napoleon said that a man ages quickly on battlefields. Speaking of one of his generals, he said at Austerlitz that Ordener was worn out, adding, "One has a short time for war. I am good for another six years, and then I shall have to stop."

"Strangely enough," says Lord Rosebery in "The Last Phase," "his judgment was exactly verified. Six years and a month from Austerlitz (which was fought on December 2d, 1805) would have brought him to 1812, to the Russian campaign, which, if he had observed his own rule, he would have avoided."

When his "star" was eclipsed forever at Waterloo he was but forty-six years of age, but he had been a broken man in body, and to an increasing extent in mental power, long before. Wellington fought his last battle at forty-six. Ney at forty-five, Nelson at forty-seven; Alexander the great was only thirty-three when death ended his career of conquest. Hannibal was in his forty-sixth year when he was finally defeated at Zama by Scipio.

Churchgoing Colliers.

The article in a recent number of the Companion about the shepherd dogs that accompany their masters to church in some parts of Scotland has reminded a contributor of another collier story.

In a district of Sutherland, where the population is very scanty, the congregations are often made up one-half of dogs, each human worshiper having his canine companion. These dogs sit out the Gaelic services with commendable patience until toward the end of the last psalm, when there is a universal stretching and yawning, and all prepare to scamper out, barking in a most excited manner while the benediction is being said.

The congregation of one of these churches determined that the services should close more decorously, and took steps accordingly. When a strange clergyman came there to officiate, he found the people all sitting when he was about to pronounce the benediction. He paused, expecting them to rise, until an old shepherd, looking up to the pulpit, said: "Say awa', sir; we're astitin' to cheat the dowgs."—Youth's Companion.

The Kitchen.

A kitchen is a place where the cook receives visitors, reads her mail, stores foodstuffs and otherwise disposes of herself between trains. Kitchens were at one time presided over by poor relatives; now they are used as one-night stands.

Every kitchen has a stove and a sink. A stove is a receptacle where you burn fuel and food, and a sink is a watering place visited by your number between cooks.

Kitchens are also supplied with utensils, some of which you will still find in fairly good condition at the end of the week—if it happens to be your lucky week.—Life.

Zeppelins or Spiders?

A story is told of a young French woman who observed with punctiliousness the wartime precautions ordered by the police.

She kept the shutters closed at nightfall and the curtains pulled down, so that not a speck of light would escape from her apartments. But one night, when reading the newspaper, she said that she had reached the limit.

The newspapers all said that if the Zeppelins came all persons must go into the cellars. She told her friends she would not go down into the cellar.

"I do not care a fig for the Zeppelins," she said. "It is no use asking me. I will not go down into the cellar."

"But why?" asked her friend. "Because," she replied, "I am afraid of spiders."

"Tommy's" Were Jilted.

A strange romance of the battlefield is mentioned by Sergt. T. Bayley:

"A man of the Gordon listed five years ago," he says, "because the Greenock girl he wanted preferred another chap who was earning a few more shillings a week more. One day when wounded he noticed another British soldier belonging to a Scottish regiment whose face seemed familiar. He crawled over and found it was the chap for whom he had been thrown over. He bore no ill-will, and started talking, when he found that this chap in turn had been thrown over for another man, who also was jilted and was actually serving in the same regiment as the first man, though they didn't know each other."

Service of Aircraft.

It cannot be said on the evidence so far furnished by the war that the striking power of aircraft—as distinguished from their use for reconnaissance—has as yet been absolutely vindicated, except perhaps as a means of attacking definite points unassailable by other means, such as ammunition stores and airship sheds in the heart of the enemy country. On the other hand, it would seem that against aeroplanes as distinguished from airships the present methods of attack from the earth are almost negligible.—London News and Leader.

English Sparrows Are Still Considered Aliens

In the recent bird census conducted under the supervision and inspiration of the department of agriculture with the aid of bird-lovers and enthusiasts throughout the United States no consideration was paid to that bird which in popular parlance is called the English sparrow. It might seem that enough generations of this bird have come into being and have passed away in the United States to have it looked upon as naturalized, but still people interested in birds continue to look upon this species of the sparrow as aliens. In the census enumeration the numerous sparrows marked as native species were taken into account. It may be that one reason for the evident slight to the English sparrow was because of the difficulty of making a census of him and her or them.

The estimate reached by the department of agriculture was that our native field bird population is something over two billions, exclusive of sparrows, or about one thousand to the square mile of land not planted to crops. The most numerous of these birds were the robins, estimated as averaging fifty pairs to the square mile east of the Mississippi river. The highest average of field birds, seven pairs to the acre, was reported in the suburban area of the District of Columbia, and the lowest estimate was one pair for every three acres in Montana, the forest birds being much less numerous than the birds which dwell in open lands.

The history of the English sparrow in Washington goes back to 1872, in which year, under the supervision of Col. O. E. Babcock, in charge of public buildings and grounds, about one hundred pairs of these birds were purchased and set free in the parks of Washington.

VON BUELOW BELIEVES ITALIAN PEOPLE MISLED

Amsterdam, May 26.—Prince Von Buelow, former German ambassador to Italy, when interviewed on his way from Rome to Berlin, spoke kindly of the Italian people. He considered they had been misled regarding their country's entrance into the war.

The prince displayed considerable feeling against the Italian government, but said the acts of the government and the people should not be confused.

"The time may come," he said, "when moderation may facilitate a rapprochement."

Gasoline Talk

Everybody sells gasoline at the same price; therefore the gasoline that produces the results is the gasoline you buy. More miles, fewer gallons, a clean carburetor, less trouble, and more satisfaction is our claim for Wichita gasoline, why? Higher gravity, more perfectly refined, free from carbon, pure liquid gas. JAPANESE OUTLAWS HAVE JOINED CHINESE BRIGANDS

By Associated Press
Peking.—According to Japanese reports from Tsingtau, a number of Japanese have become outlaws and joined the brigand bands of Chinese who are operating in the Province of Shantung. Japanese troops are hunting them down.

After the occupation of Tsingtau by the Japanese army, large numbers of Japanese crossed over from their own country to the newly occupied districts. So extensive was the immigration that, according to Consular reports, even rickshaw coolies came over to Tsingtau in order to compete with the Chinese coolies at this profitable occupation.

The number of Japanese, who came to Tsingtau has been roughly estimated at ten thousand, apart from soldiers and officials. They came with the hope of making money readily, and many of them were undoubtedly disappointed, because many of the Germans who were not made prisoners took leave of their former settlement. Likewise many of the better class of Chinese, being in dread of the Japanese, also departed. Trade and commerce in consequence fell off badly, and many of the Japanese immigrants did not find ready occupation for which they had hoped. This is probably the reason that some of them entered the more lucrative occupation of brigandage.

POPE TO PRAY MORE FREQUENTLY FOR PEACE

Rome, May 27.—"Our prayers will go out more frequently and more fervently to those who have in their hands the fate of nations" is the declaration made by Pope Benedict to Cardinal Ganugelli published in the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ. The pontiff recalls his first encyclical in which he urged the belligerent nations to make peace but points out that his voice was unheeded "until the terrible conflagration has extended to our beloved Italy."

The First Swallow
The gorse is yellow on the heath, Low twittering underneath the thicket. The oaks are budding, and, beneath, The silver wreath of May.

The welcome guest of settled Spring, The swallow, too, has come at last; Just at sunset, when thrushes sing, I saw her dash, with rapid wing, And hailed her as she past.

Come, summer visitant, attach To my reed roof your nest of clay, And let my ear your music catch, Low twittering underneath the thatch—At the gray-dawn of day.

The girls spent the afternoon with fancywork, no hint being given of the nature of the affair until the service of refreshments. On each plate was a cluster of pink buds and nestled among the flowers a card was found which read, "Eleanor Ruth Heath, Stanley Fye Weidman, June 15." ### TUESDAY BRIDGE LUNCHEON CLOSING THE SEASON

A delightful one o'clock luncheon at the Westland Tuesday marked the close of season for the Tuesday Bridge Club. On this occasion the six low score players were hostess to the club, these luncheons being a semi-annual feature of the club, which does not play for prizes. Covers were laid for twelve at one large table which was centered with a large gilt basket, filled with pink rambler roses. ### Mishap—Misuse The Only Clouds That Ever Dim The Glory of Fortified Tires

Goodyear tires, like other tires, meet with ill-luck at times. No doubt some men are judging them by some such rare exception.

To them we say this: Remember that men have tested nearly five million Goodyear tires. The tests have covered 15 years. Long ago those tests placed Goodyears at the top, and they've kept there ever since.

Last year men bought about one Goodyear tire for every car in use. Doesn't that show that men in general have proved these tires the best?

In Five Ways

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five exclusive features. We spend on them millions of dollars to reduce your tire upkeep and trouble.

One combats rim-cuts, one blowouts, one loose treads. One makes the tire secure. And one combats punctures and skidding by our double-thick All-Weather tread.

In those ways, at least, Fortified Tires excel all others.

Lower Prices

Now these super-tires offer still greater value. On Feb. 1st we made another big price reduction. That's the third in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

We do you a kindness when we urge you to try them.

They mean to you the utmost in a tire. They mean content. Any dealer will supply you.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES FOR ITALIANS TO STRIVE

"Military Expert" Believes Italian Army Will Be Deciding Factor in European War

Predictions of battles worthy of Caesar's army are predicted by "A Military Expert" in a Washington dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. He says:

"Italy's army is prepared up to the minute. Its navy is in equally good condition.

"For my part I have not made up my mind just how they will strike. There are so many opportunities. I believe a quarter of a million men will be enough to guard the Austrian frontier as a certain Austria will attempt no invasion of Italy. This leaves 750,000 men to be used wherever they will be of the most service to the allies.

Three Blows are Possible
"I would not be surprised at any of the three moves. First—The sending of the men to the eastern end of the German line in France for an attempt at a turning movement there. Second—Their transportation across the Adriatic under the protection of the Italian navy for a joint invasion of Austria with Serbia. Third—Their dispatch to the Dardanelles to aid the allied forces in their effort to take Constantinople.

"However they may be used, Italy has now 1,000,000 men ready to strike. Undoubtedly they will strike along lines laid down before declaration of war. And in addition to these Italy has at least 2,000,000 reserve which will be ready for action before Kitchener can get his new British army of 300,000 into the field.

"In every branch of the military science Italy is prepared. The only question is: How will Italy dispose of its forces?"

Strata of Great Value

"Although the allies have been vigorously criticized for their attempt to force the Dardanelles, once they control the route into the Black sea Germany and Austria might as well give up. Russia now is short of munitions and other supplies for its army. Russia, with the Dardanelles open, can equip her countless millions and send an avalanche of men over the Carpathians into Austria. Russia can fill the swamps of east Prussia with soldiers and then march over them for further battles with the Teutons on their own ground.

"Undoubtedly the Italian forces will be so employed as to cause the German-Austrian leaders the most concerned and the most trouble. Whether this will be through reinforcements of the allies in France or by attacking Austria or the Dardanelles awaits to be seen. It may be by all three routes.

JAPANESE VIEWS ON WHAT MAN WANTS IN HIS WIFE

By Associated Press.

Tokio.—The growing interest in Japan in the woman question, which was enhanced by the participation of women as canvassers for their husbands in the recent election campaign, has been further manifested in a call for proverbs issued by a Tokio daily, the Yozodzu. The newspaper asked for epigrams "What a man would wish of his wife," believing this one of the burning questions of the day when so much is said in Japan about the sphere of woman.

The journal concludes from the character of the many thousands of replies that the position of Japanese women is still that of "good wives and wise mothers" and of retiring, thrifty careers in home and kitchen.

On the other hand it expresses the opinion that as men desire women to remain in that sphere their own status must be inactive and narrow, making them unworthy, as undesirous, of a different kind of womanfolk. Hence the next contest will be: "Men as seen by women."

The prizes for proverbs on ideals for womanhood were as follows:

First prize:
A good wife lays the foundation of a bronze statue.

Second prize:
To buy gold rings is to hasten the selling of iron pans.

Third prize:
Even Queen Victoria was a wife before her husband.

Soft cotton makes gunpowder.

The wife that complains of poverty is the maker of poverty.

Nature planted a beard on man and engraved dimples on woman.

No wife is too good for her husband.

When the wife is gentle indoors, the husband can be firm out-of-doors.

Jealousy is like an injection needle—if it goes too far, harm ensues, while too little of it does no good.

Your economy is a great by-product to increase the net income.

The home with an insincere wife is more precarious than a flying machine with an injured propeller.

One end of vanity passes into prison.

The heaviest load for the husband is the wife's vanity.

Luxury is a bomb that destroys the home.

Wife out, creditors in.

Be the mother of a great man rather than the wife of a Prime Minister.

To talk happiness with an untrue wife is like admiring the moon with a blind man.

IMMENSE TRADE BALANCE IN FAVOR OF UNITED STATES

Washington, May 27.—Secretary Redfield Tuesday told the Cabinet that America's favorable trade balance from Aug. 1 until May 26 will exceed $900,000,000, beating all records.

For April complete, the balance was $122,894,082.

For the ten months ending April 30 it was $851,258,319.

SWIFTER CRUISERS WIN BATTLE

The advance forces came in contact soon after daylight on the 20th.

Within a few hours about half the blue scouts had been put out of action, the most effective work against them being done by the enemy's battle cruisers, whose high speed and long range enabled them to pick off the slower and weaker blue cruisers almost at will, at the same time eluding the supporting dreadnoughts.

Admiral Fletcher withdrew to the northward, using his remaining scouts to guard the area from which he believed the red fleet would pass if it contemplated landing on the New England coast. This was as a matter of fact Admiral Beatty's plan,

Studebaker proves its superiority

And it's SUPERIORITY that you can see for yourself—with your own eyes, if you'll just take the opportunity to go over the Studebaker chassis in detail.

Some manufacturers, you know, who make both a Four and a Six, put the GOOD design into the more expensive SIX. But you take this Studebaker FOUR and stand it side by side with any other car, and study it just on QUALITY. And inch by inch, note the Studebaker superiorities.

First of all, look at that Studebaker-Wagner Electric System. Simple—light—balanced almost to every detail of the whole system EASY to get at. Has been used on 100,000 Studebakers with unflinching success.

And then, note how simply and cleanly that Studebaker Motor is built—and how ACCESSIBLE it is. Carburetor sits high on side of the motor. Valves are easily gotten at. And you can make any inspection or adjustment simply by raising the hood. Built to develop plenty of POWER, too—but to make every last drop of gasoline pull.

And just in passing, look at the Studebaker Steering Gear. Irreversible type, you know, that keeps the road-shocks away from the steering-wheel and makes driving EASIER—and safer. Adjustable for wear too. Many cars use the old, reversible type that cost less.

Then, note that simple Studebaker Clutch. It's a cone clutch, you know—leather-faced, SOFT-gripping. No jerking when you throw it in. And it's so easy to get at for inspection or oiling.

Then, note that ALL the wiring is enclosed in flexible steel conduits that protect them from moisture and oil and grease and damage from tools. Makes wiring trouble-proof.

Observe the Willard Storage Battery that Studebaker uses. Best that's made—3-cell type. Placed so as to be EASY to see and get at for filling. That's Studebaker attention to details.

And that Studebaker Brake Equalizer—that's mighty important. Many cars omit it—too costly. But it makes the cars SAFER—stops skidding—saves tires. And the only other one like this is on a $5,000 car.

Notice, too, that the transmission is in unit with the Rear Axle. Increases the manufacturing cost—but insures perfect alignment, smoothes any vibration of the gears and gets more even distribution of weight. Makes the whole car ride and drive more easily.

And note that Studebaker uses TWO radius rods and a torque arm. Many cars drive thro' the springs. But that necessitates stiffer springs. Makes the car HARD-riding. While the TWO radius rods and the torque arm that Studebaker uses leaves the springs free just for smothering the jolts and jars. Makes the car marvellously EASY-riding.

And then, of course, that FULL-floating Rear Axle will interest you. For, with one exception, every other FOUR uses the earlier type. But Studebaker uses this FULL-floating axle even tho' it's more costly, because it's so much SAFER and easier to get at. Carries the weight of the car on the axle housing and has TWO Timken Bearings in each hub to take up the side-thrusts. Axle shaft only has ONE duty—to turn the wheels. Shaft can be removed, too, in less than two minutes. Note, too, that axle housing. Other cars use malleable castings—THIS is a much stronger and much LIGHTER steel stamping with folded edges.

And so you can go over this Studebaker inch by inch and find scores of SUPERIORITIES. For Studebaker has built this FOUR to live up to the PROMISE of that name of Studebaker. Every last detail has to represent the latest achievement in engineering and the highest quality in manufacturing. We don't want you to buy the car unless you are satisfied that it does, too. But we KNOW that when you stand it side by side with any other car, you'll find that just on merit it's a better buy. And it costs you from $90 to $225 less at the start—and less right along in upkeep. See it today.

FLEET OF THE ENEMY DEFEATS U. S. FLEET

Maneuvers Off North Atlantic Coast Show That Invading Force Could Be Landed

Washington, May 27.—The possibility of an enemy establishing a military base on American territory was demonstrated by the victory of the attacking fleet participating in the naval maneuvers in the Atlantic.

The war game problem which has just been played off the Atlantic coast had for its purpose the training of the officers of the fleet. The problem on the part of the Atlantic fleet was, in brief, to prevent a more powerful fleet than our own from establishing a base at some point between Eastport, Maine, and Cape Hatteras, from which to invade the country. Admiral Fletcher's plan of defense was excellent but was not successful, owing to weather conditions and the marked superiority of the enemy in scouts.

The attacking red fleet under Rear Admiral Beatty approached at a distance of several hundred miles by a line of fast scouts, spaced at intervals and covering a front of nearly 500 miles; behind this line came a line of battle cruisers and armored cruisers. These red scouts and cruisers had the problem not only of locating the blue fleet but also of preventing any concentration of ships from the blue fleet from attacking the red transports following behind the main red fleet. These transports were to effect a foothold on the coast.

Swifter Cruisers Win Battle.

The advance forces came in contact soon after daylight on the 20th. Within a few hours about half the blue scouts had been put out of action, the most effective work against them being done by the enemy's battle cruisers, whose high speed and long range enabled them to pick off the slower and weaker blue cruisers almost at will, at the same time eluding the supporting dreadnoughts.

Admiral Fletcher withdrew to the northward, using his remaining scouts to guard the area from which he believed the red fleet would pass if it contemplated landing on the New England coast. This was as a matter of fact Admiral Beatty's plan, although Admiral Fletcher had not actually located the red fleet. The blue fleet succeeded in protecting this region and forcing Admiral Beatty to seek an opening to the southward.

Outflanks Defending Fleet.

In the meantime Admiral Beatty was holding his main force well out to sea and following up every move of the defending fleet with his scouts.

Thus one fleet was able to make every move with knowledge of the enemy's whereabouts while the other was in the dark. When convinced no opening was to be expected along the New England coast, Admiral Beatty passed around the flank of the defending forces, starting out about noon of the 24th for the Chesapeake. During the night of the 24th Admiral Fletcher moved southward from Cape Cod, where he had remained for three days. News of this move almost immediately reached Admiral Beatty, who was at that time heading for Cape Henry, over 100 miles ahead of the blue fleet.

At noon on the 25th Admiral Beatty turned back with most of his heavy ships to meet the blue fleet, his transports in the meantime continuing south with a strong escort. As the force with which he thus threatened the blue fleet was decidedly more powerful than that which Admiral Fletcher could bring against it and as the submarines of the defending force were not near enough to take part in the engagement, the admiral decided that Admiral Beatty's fleet could without difficulty seize a base on or near the Chesapeake, that the red force had been successful in its object and that the strategical maneuvers were at an end.

LIBAU IMPORTANT RUSSIAN SEAPORT

CITY REPORTED CAPTURED BY GERMANS PROMISED TO BECOME RUSSIAN BREMEN

IS MANUFACTURING CENTER

Great Navy Yards There and Factories For Making Explosives and Other Supplies

Washington, May 27.—Libau, recently reported captured by the German invaders of the Russian Baltic Provinces, where the Russian Kiel or Brooklyn navy yards are located, is one of the important naval and commercial ports of the Tsar's Kingdom, and a city whose rapid growth during the last few years has given an earnest of the remarkable future in store for the mighty Muscovite Empire. It forms the subject of the study in war geography issued today by the National Geographic Society. The sketch of this prosperous port, as yet little known to Americans, reads:

"Libau is one of the first of Russia's naval bases, a strongly fortified port and a well-supplied arsenal. The Russian government completed the extensive and powerful defensive works that enclose the port during 1893-1906. The naval harbor is north of the commercial harbor, though the fortifications were planned to include both harbors. The port is prepared to build, equip and commission naval fleets.

"Russians know and have a pride in Libau for its military strength and for its commercial enterprise and progress. It is the metropolis of Courland, and, with its fleets enjoying free passage of the Baltic Sea, Libau has promise to become a Russian Bremen, or, even, a Russian Hamburg. It is the home port of many Atlantic and coast liners, and its fine breakwater, spacious harbor, and up-to-date docking facilities give it splendid advantages in its competition with the other ports of Russia.

Exports $30,000,000 Annually

"The annual exports of Libau total as high as $30,000,000, while its imports have soared to well beyond $10,000,000. The leading articles of export are oats, wheat, rye, butter, eggs, spirits, flax, linseed, oil-cake, pork, timber, horses and petroleum. A great part of the vast golden tonnage of butter from Siberia and the nearer interior that takes its way into Great Britain, France and Germany during times of peace went through Libau. Libau's imports are mainly manufactured goods, and modern Russia, demanding the conveniences and sanitary necessities of the Western world, has been bringing stores of these things in through Libau.

"Millions of dollars have been expended there has been laid the foundations for the city, and, just before the outbreak of the war, the government had under consideration plans for the expending many millions more for extensive improvements. The railway connections of Libau are good, Moscow, Petrograd, Orel and Kharkov being bound to the port by adequate railways.

Large Modern Factories

"Side by side with the commercial strength that the city has developed, there has been laid the foundations for a great industry. The establishment of an important naval station here has done much to encourage the industrial advance. Libau possesses large modern factories for the manufacture of explosives, machinery, belts, cables and iron products. It has other important factories for the production of colors, furniture, matches, agricultural machinery, tin-plate, tobacco products, as well as soap-works, saw-mills, and linoleum factories and flour-mills.

"In appearance Libau is new and it is also solidly successful. It is built of stone, with fine gardens, and laid out in wide streets. The town is angular, of Anglo-Saxon and German in character rather than Slav. Too, there are few evidences of the characteristic Slavonic in its architecture. The steep gables, the square and diligently-proportioned lines of the German buildings are everywhere visible, there being little of the benefit of the Slavonic builder, of the upturned onion-shaped towers and other mazes of Slavic complexities of Slavonic architectural composition.

Other Races Predominate

"As in the case of other Baltic cities Libau is, merely a stepdaughter of Russia, not a blood descendant. Its population of some 70,000 is German, Jewish, Lithuanian, with just a small sprinkling of Russian administrators. Before the war, the streets signs of the city were in German, Russian and Lettish.

"Canals, jammed with shipping, added life to the city before the war. Libau has been popular as a fashionable seaside resort among the Russians, and many Germans from the following in increasing numbers here each summer in the wake of their Russian neighbors. The city was held by the order of the Brethren of the Sword for a long time. In 1701, it was captured by Charles XII of Sweden, and passed to Russia with Courland in 1755.

The Gem.

"Was Through Merit" an Edison drama, "When the Tide Turned" and a two part Vitagraph, "A Wireless Rescue" make up today's program at the Gem. Dorothy Kelly and James Morrison are featured in the latter picture, a short story of which is given.

Filled with a desire to get square with the railroad, Engineer Burke discharged for drunkenness, tries to incite some of the other engineers to go on strike. Meeting with poor success, he and his gang then try to get Welch, the operator and towerman at the bridge across Clear River, to quit, but he refuses. Angry words are passed and a fight is narrowly averted. Doubly enraged, Burke swears to be revenged on both the railroad and Welch. Several days later he and his gang attack Welch blind him and throw him into the lower part of the tower. Then Burke, glancing at the clock, sees that the Flyer is due in five minutes, yanks over a lever which opens the bridge draw,

A synopsis follows:

George Carter, on his way to visit his sister, Mrs. Smith, rescues Mabel Dinsmore from the attentions of a ruffian on the train. Mabel finding that they alight at the same station thanks him, but insists that they part as strangers. Mabel takes a back to her sister's, Mrs. Brown, who happens next door to Mrs. Smith. When George arrives he finds that his sister's housemaid has left and they are giving a dinner party that evening. Sister Smith is hysterical and George volunteers to cook, but finds it beyond his power. In the yard next door Mabel is hanging out some handkerchiefs and George, taking her for the Brown's maid, implores her to come in and help with the cooking. Mabel in turn does not recognize her protector of the train episode and timidly goes over to the Smith kitchen. Mrs. Brown is one of the guests and inviting George to call upon them, detects signs of interest between the two young people. Next day she works up another visit; Mabel is in the kitchen and receives George rather coolly until by accident he falls over the coal scuttle. He pretends that he has injured his right foot. Mabel goes for liniment and bandages and when she returns she notes that George has changed his position and that the left foot is the injured one, she attempts to bandage it and is captured. Finally she yields and they go to a clinch just as the Browns and Smiths enter. Of course Mabel is embarrassed, but George insists on another clinch.

GERMANS MAY STARVE ENGLAND SAYS HAGGARD

London, May 27.—Sir Henry Rider Haggard, the novelist and farmer, writes to the London Times suggesting that a minister of food supplies be appointed to deal with the problem growing out of the scarcity and dearth of meat and other edibles, which is largely due to England's dependence on imported food supplies.

"If the war continues two years, or even another year, there will be great trouble in Great Britain, where the population is not accustomed to economize, food having always been so cheap; indeed, owing to the abundance of public money in circulation more than usual being spent upon what we eat and drink."

"Fourteen years ago I wrote that to me, in the face of a continued decrease of our agricultural output, these figures were simply terrifying and was convinced that the risk of starvation, which might strike our country in the event of a European war was no mere specter of the alarmist. I believe the agricultural output has further decreased since then. The European war has come and with it a new factor, namely, the submarine."

"If Germany can fulfill her threats and largely increase the number of these vessels it is obvious we still are in danger, if not of starvation, at least of great scarcity to which other circumstances will contribute."

"I therefore suggest that steps be taken without delay to mitigate this formidable possibility. A new minister should be appointed forthwith with powers to deal with these special problems now when the government is being remodeled."

"Newspaper comment:

The Wichita Daily Times says:

A few days ago there was a bank failure at Amarillo. It was a state guarantee bank, however, and the depositors will not lose one cent. The state guarantee fund has in it $961,000 and the closing of the Amarillo bank will take from it the sum of $59,000 with which to pay the protected depositors. The more we see of this law the better we like it. Every depositor who trusts his hard-earned money to a bank should be protected to the limit; and that is what has been done in every instance where a bank operating under this law has failed or closed its doors.

And the El Paso Times says:
