KING OF ITALY LEADS HIS ARMY AT THE FRONT

Action Arouses Enthusiasm in Most Democratic Kingdom in the World.

IS MUCH LIKE ROOSEVELT

Was Sickly Child and Brought Himself to Hardy Manhood by Spartan Methods—Is Man of Almost Universal Knowledge and Interested in Much.

Rome.—Victor Emmanuel III is monarch of the most democratic kingdom in the world. When the plain people of Italy finally forced the nation into war for the unredempted Italian lands of Austria, their democratic king decided to share his soldiers' hardships. His action in taking the field and turning the scepter temporarily over to his uncle, the duke of Genoa, has been received here with the wildest enthusiasm and the house of Savoy was never more popular than today.

Their monarch just suits Italians. He is more like an American president than a European king. Italy for the most part is intensely republican, with a leaning to socialism. It is greatly tinged with American thought due to the close connection brought about by the return of emigrants from the new world.

His majesty is also republican, with a drift toward socialism. He has made three leading socialist senators and has shown in various ways his determination to solidify his people by exhibiting his tolerance of this most radical section of his subjects.

He also requested that his name be included in the list of electors. He insists that he be considered an ordinary citizen and he never misses recording his ballot at the polls after the fashion of President Wilson.

In some ways the king resembles Theodore Roosevelt. He was a sickly child, like the colonel, and brought himself to a hardy manhood by Spartan methods. He is a man of almost universal knowledge, interested in everything, much like the Oyster Bay leader. He possesses great energy.

His Part in War. What will the king do in the war? His part, like the kaiser's, undoubtedly will consist in going from one part of the battle line to the other encouraging his troops. But Victor Emmanuel possesses too good sense to interfere with his general staffs in the actual planning of the campaigns.

He is a gallant horseman and this is a source of gratification to the Italians, for their cavalry is not surpassed anywhere in the world. The Italian army officers generally bring back the important prizes in every horse show they enter.

In person Victor Emmanuel is thoroughly Italian. His short, powerful figure, sweeping mustaches and cast of countenance are of a general type often observed throughout Italy. He is fairer than most of his people, however, and blue-eyed.

Certainly King Victor Emmanuel is the right man in the right place—the King Italy needs in this supreme moment," said the poet Gabriele d'Annunzio recently, after an interview with the monarch.

"It would be impossible to imagine a better informed man," he continued. "On hearing him speak one might almost receive the impression at one moment that he was in Paris conversing with a statesman thoroughly conversant with the subject from the French viewpoint; at others in Berlin, talking with a minister of the German emperor, or in London, in Vienna or Petrograd. The Balkans and Eastern Mediterranean are so familiar to him that he might have lived there all his life.

"His lucidity of mind is astounding, and only surpassed by his unpretentious manner, which puts one completely at ease. There is amazement that this ruler, in addition to fulfilling the duties of state, could absorb so much knowledge and possess such a clear and certain perception of foreign countries, interest and men."

Was Sickly Child. When the king was a child he suffered so badly from rickets that he could not walk upstairs and had to be carried. Rarely has a sicklier crown prince been seen. King Humbert placed him under a stern military tutor, Colonel Osio, who put the little prince through a most rigorous course. He slept always in a cold room and took a cold bath at daybreak. Then came a frugal breakfast. Lessons followed, with special emphasis on those he disliked most. Before the morning was over the prince was in the saddle. No matter how bad the weather, he rode daily. Often he returned to the palace soaked to the skin from a violent rainstorm.

He disliked music, a predilection which he retains. When he was ten years old he remarked to his piano teacher, Signora Cerasoli:

"Don't you think that 20 trumpets are more effective than that piano of yours?"

In his military studies he made rapid progress. He submitted to all Colonel Osio's harshness without a murmur.

He often relates as one of the pleasantest memories of his life, his impressions when King Humbert first entrusted to him the command of a company on foot, at the annual review of the Roman garrison.

"The excitement interfered so greatly with my power of sight," he once said, "that the only people I recognized in the cheering crowd were my fustian and my professor of mathematics."

Then a few years later he received the command of the army corps at Naples. Frivolous and light-headed Neapolitan society looked forward to a worldly-minded prince and rejoiced; but it soon discovered its mistake.

The prince, scornful pleasure, devoted himself exclusively to his profession, and left his barracks only to go straight back to the Capodimonte palace, where he spent his spare time in perfecting himself in the study of military tactics.

Steps into the Gap. Then, on July 29, 1900, his father was assassinated at Monza by the anarchist Bresci. The son stepped into the gap immediately. When the prime minister suggested that a proclamation should be addressed to the people and gave a copy to the king, Victor Emmanuel told the minister that he had already written the proclamation himself.

When the body of King Humbert was brought to Rome it was found impossible to disinter Victor Emmanuel from passing through the whole city on foot and following the beloved corpse even to the tomb in the Pantheon.

This illustrated another trait of the king's character, a desire to escape the guards who surround and protect him.

"To get away all I have to do is to borrow a motor car," he once said. "The queen and myself had a splendid day out in the country by ourselves the other day. I noticed that Ira Nelson Morris, the United States commissioner of the Panama-Pacific exposition, owned a very good flat car. I asked him to lend it to me for a day, and the queen and I went out to Castel Porziano and had lunch there. No body recognized us, not even the police, who had a holiday."

The king and queen lead a very simple and informal life for the most part. There is scarcely more ceremony than in the White House. The king does not spend much on his table. The Italians often complain that his wines are an injustice to the country. What he saves on his collar the king probably spends on charity, for he is the leader in every good cause.

As an illustration of his actions in an emergency an incident of the Calabria earthquake of 1905 may be cited. When the news of this disaster arrived, the king was holding a grand ball in his castle at Raconigi. Without an instant's hesitation he flung a cloak over his uniform, hurried off to the scene of action and tirelessly helped in rescuing his hapless subjects. So freely did he expose himself that someone ventured to remonstrate with him.

"Why run these unnecessary risks?" urged the courtier.

"It is my trade," answered the king grimly.

BONES ARE NAILED TOGETHER

Silver Plated Spikes on a Fractured Hip Makes Limb as Good as Ever Before.

Fond du Lac, Wis.—George Mulholland, South Byron, who was taken to the hospital six weeks ago suffering from a fractured hip, will leave the institution with his limb in as good condition as it was before.

In the reduction of the fracture the surgeons performed a rare operation the first of its kind in Fond du Lac county. Two tenuous spikes, silver plated, were nailed through the hip bone to bring the broken parts together. The bones have now knit and Mr. Mulholland is able to walk about as well as ever before.

A "Bully True" Yarn.

East Palestine, O.—Joseph Knight who lives on the Burt farm, south of here, says that in all good faith, he gave one hen on the farm fifteen eggs to hatch. She accepted the trust and Tuesday, when the fifteen eggs burst open there were eleven chicks and Mr. Knight is a truthful man—four kittens.

Christy Mathewson

Famous Baseball Pitcher, says:

"Tuxedo gets to me in a natural, pleasant way. It's what I call good, honest, companionable tobacco—the kind to stick to."

Tuxedo Keeps You In Good Trim

Christy Mathewson, lovingly known as "The Old Master," is probably the greatest pitcher baseball has ever known. This wonderful athlete is noted for his clear-headed common sense, his quick wits, perfect physical condition, and absolute control over his nerves. His use and endorsement of Tuxedo prove that this inspiring and healthful tobacco is helpful to mind and body.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

just sort of oozes its gentle way into your life and suddenly you realize its powers for good—because it puts peace in your mind and a happy taste in your mouth. Tuxedo's flavor is so enticingly mild and delicately fragrant it will not irritate the most sensitive throat.

All the bite and sting have been removed by the famous "Tuxedo Process." This exclusive process of refining the very best Kentucky Burley tobacco has been widely imitated, but without success.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

At The Theaters

The Lamar Airdome.

Tonight marks a change in the vaudeville bill at the Airdome. Dixie Joe, "The Old Time American Girl" in a comedy musical act that's different and Adolph and Raymond, said to have a novelty equilibrium act that abounds in comedy make up the vaudeville bill with J. Warren Kerrigan in a two part drama, "For Cash" and a H.H.H. Ritchie comedy in the picture program to complete a most interesting show.

The Empress.

Jack Barrymore, Harold Lockwood and Helen Freeman are featured in a Paramount feature today at the Empress.

The prominent star, John Barrymore who attained phenomenal popularity throughout the world as an irresistible screen comedian, in the Famous Players Film Company's comedy triangle, "An American Citizen" and "The Man from Mexico," surpasses both his former screen successes in the five part film adaptation of Leo Dittrichstein's funny farce, "Are You a Mason?" This subject was selected as the vehicle for Mr. Barrymore's return to the screen because it represents, more than any other comedy of similar reputation, the type of dramatic humor best adapted to the inimitable talents of this star.

"Are You a Mason?" Mr. Barrymore portrays the character of Frank Perry, a dashing young married man of exuberant spirits and vivid imagination. When his wife announces that her chief desire in life is to have him become a Mason, Perry grasps the opportunity it affords for staying out several nights, explaining his numerous absences from home by the logical statement that he is spending his evenings at the Masonic Lodge, undergoing the ordeals of initiation. One night his wife, delightedly announces that her father, grand master of the Masons, is coming to visit them. Perry's agonized efforts to keep his father-in-law from discovering his deception, and the fearful tangles in which he becomes involved thereby, culminating in a situation which is one of the funniest climaxes ever conceived, furnish the humor of the farce, which is further heightened by the fact that the "grand master" has also deceived his family, is not a Mason, and is constantly manufacturing other deceptions to safeguard his first falsehood.

38TH ANNUAL SHOOT OF SPORTSMEN'S ASSOCIATION

By Associated Press. Temple, Texas, June 21.—The thirty-eighth annual shoot of the Texas Sportsmen's Association was to begin here today under the auspices of the Temple Gun Club, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the State. The shoot is open to all amateurs and all shots are from a distance of sixteen yards. Many handsome prizes have been offered.

COFFEE WEAPON AGAINST INTOXICANTS IN ENGLAND

"Peoples Palaces" Where Coffee Will Be Served American Style Are to Be Opened

London.—Coffee, as it is made and sold in America, and in some continental countries, will be the beverage on which the National People's Palace Association will chiefly depend in the campaign it has started against alcoholic liquors in the United Kingdom.

"Such coffee," said a member of the managing committee, "pure and strong, with or without milk, is practically unobtainable in this country, either through the ordinary catering trade or in refreshment rooms, hotels or public houses, yet it is a cheap, wholesome and satisfying stimulant which can be easily sold over the bar counter at a penny a cup."

Since the House of Commons refused to sanction Lloyd George's proposed root and branch methods of dealing with the liquor question which has become such a vital one for this country, a great impetus has been given to various movements for combating the lure of the public house by providing counter attractions from which all intoxicants will be barred. Chief among these is the National People's Palace Association which has received the benediction of both Lloyd George and Bonar Law. According to its program it will not be long before every munition worker will have a temperance beverage at his elbow if he wants it. It proposes to establish temperance canteens in all armament factories and has already started several on the Tyne. And in every town of importance it plans to open one or more "palaces" as they are grandiloquently termed, but which will be virtually non-alcoholic houses. They will provide light refreshments at very moderate prices, coffee, which is to be their specialty tea and various "soft drinks." Music will also be furnished without extra charge and facilities for playing dominoes, checkers and other harmless games.

"We do not advocate a pauperizing policy," said one of the leaders of the movement. "The working classes have a great earning power and require fair dealing, not charity. The association is therefore to be worked on a commercial basis, giving the workers full value for their money, but also earning for their shareholders a fair return for their investment."

MASONRY INSPECTION LAW OFFERS GOOD PICKING

Austin, Texas, June 21.—Virtually every county and municipality in Texas is affected by the act passed at the regular session of the thirty-fourth legislature, which became effective yesterday, providing for state inspection of county and municipal buildings. The carrying out of provisions of the law was placed under the supervision of the state inspector of masonry, the law requiring that he designate inspectors to examine plans and specifications for every building hereafter constructed by either county or municipality, when the building costs $25,000 or more. The law also specifies that one per cent of the contract price of such buildings shall be paid into the state treasury to defray expenses of inspection. Friends of the new law claim it will guarantee more stable buildings and virtually prevent loss of life from possible faulty construction.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING TAKES PLACE SUNDAY

Sunday evening witnessed a very pretty home wedding, when the marriage of Miss Mamie Frances Hull to Mr. Welch Morgan was celebrated at 6:30 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hull, 1404 Travis. Simplicity marked all details of the ceremony which was attended only by the immediate families of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends, including girlhood friends of the bride. Roses and ferns formed a pretty arch between the parlor and dining room and the conventional bridal colors of pink and white were given preference in the wedding accessories. Unattended the bride and groom came down the stairs as the wedding hour struck to the strains of Lohegrin's Bridal Chorus, with Miss Boss Maxwell at the piano. The officiating minister, Rev. R. C. Miller of the First Baptist Church of which both bride and groom are esteemed members, awaited them under the nuptial arch and here pronounced the solemn words that made them man and wife. The bride wore a lovely frock of white lace and net, exquisitely fashioned and the groom was attired in the conventional black. Following the ceremony a light refreshment course was served.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hull, long time residents of this section, and is a girl of much charm and many accomplishments, a graduate of the local high school class of 1912. The groom has made his home here for several years and is in the employ of D. B. King, the grocer. He enjoys an unusually high standing among all who know him and the popularity of both young people was evidenced in the many gifts and customary congratulatory messages. They will start to housekeeping immediately and will be at home to their friends at Eighth and Denver.

KITCHEN SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT SATURDAY

As a pleasing token of remembrance on a happy occasion the girls of the Philathea Class of the First Baptist Sunday school gave a kitchen shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Blanche Lawler for Miss Mamie Hull who Sunday became the bride of Mr. Welch Morgan. White enamel and aluminum ware formed the gifts. Refreshing fruit punch and cake was served.

The following announcements were received too late for publication in the Sunday calendar:

The Ladies Auxiliary to O. B. C. will meet Tuesday at 2:30 in the Odd Fellows Hall.

The Ladies of the Maccabees will meet in regular review Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the old Odd Fellows Hall.

Regular meeting of the Rebekahs Saturday night in Odd Fellows Hall at 8 p. m.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it.

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlasting tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

THE DARDANELLES

A VILLAGE ON THE DARDANELLES

THE Dardanelles, known in classic times as the Hellespont, is the golden key to the door of Asia. The strait, which connects the Sea of Marmora with the Aegean sea, is approximately forty-five miles long and varies in width from four miles to a mile and a quarter at Dardanelles, its narrowest point. It was just at this part of the strait that, according to the ancient verses ascribed to Musaeus, the servant of the muses, a legendary poet supposed to have lived about the fifth century, the enamored Leander, residing in Abydos, the Asiatic town, wooed and won the beautiful Hero, one of the priestesses of Venus, at Sestos, exactly opposite on the European side.

Gallipoli, the ancient seaport, a vi-layet of Edirneh, Turkey, on the peninsula of Gallipoli, is, next to the city of Dardanelles, the most important town on the strait. It was known in classical times as Callipolis, and in the middle ages, it is said, was a large commercial center and valued highly as constituting the "Key to the Hellespont."

The town of Dardanelles is situated on a flat point opposite the European fort of Tchanak Kalest, which guards the entrance to the strait from the Aegean sea. Two famous forts known as castles defend the Dardanelles, the one in Asia, Tchanak Kalest, or Rarh-enware Castle of Ania, on the site of the ancient city of Abydos, and its mate opposite known as Khilidi Bahar, "the lock of the sea," which is built on the sides of a steep projecting cliff. Its castle, however, is of less importance than its neighbor.

The Turks have a romantic story of their own regarding Abydos, now known as Dardanelles. It seems that a firm resistance was offered to the Ottomans who besieged it under the command of Orchan, the son of Sultan Othman. The city at last was forced to yield, owing to the treachery of the governor's daughter, who had fallen in love with a handsome young Turk. Her treachery alone occasioned the fall of the town, which to this day has remained one of the most prized strongholds of the Turks.

In the town the sight of a foreigner and the sound of the English tongue is a matter of much comment, even in the best of times. Just after the so-called bombardment of the Dardanelles reported to have taken place by an Italian warship during the war over Tripoli, the writer had the unique experience of being one of the eleven foolhardy passengers on the first Austrian Lloyd steamer from the port of Piraeus, Greece, willing to take the risk of attempting to pass through the Dardanelles.

A Hazardous Journey. At the Aegean end of the strait, after a long wait and much uncertainty as to whether the steamer would be permitted to make the hazardous journey through the Dardanelles, known to be thickly sown with mines, a little grimy Turkish tug took the long line of shipping in tow, which had for some time been awaiting a convoy to proceed on its journey to Constantinople, or the ports on the Black sea, a journey interrupted by the false reports of an Italian bombardment, which very fortunately, as it happened, had not actually taken place.

The passengers were filled with trepidation and fear as they anxiously watched the little snorting tug laboriously twist and turn in an amazingly intricate and tortuous course, first close to shore, and then by a sharp turn, making apparently for the opposite side of the famous channel. It was a wonderful sight to see the little craft ahead, each of the others following as closely as they could the stern of the preceding vessel, imitating most faithfully the antics of the small Turkish fish convoy, lest it be blown up by missing but one of the labyrinthian twists and turns, and to look back and see the five ships behind, as diligently playing the same game of follow the leader, while on each side of the narrow waterway an almost continuous line of fortifications, hidden breastworks, brilliant batteries and until near at hand, cleverly concealed armaments, proved how thorough were the preparations for war.

On arriving at the little wooden dock at the port of Dardanelles in one of the huge Turkish fatboats which come out from the shore to take off passengers, and freight from the steamer, the tourist's passport is demanded, even before he is permitted to alight on the dock, if being dragged up bodily by two villainous looking bandits who stand on the dock, seconded by two equally ferocious appearing gentlemen in the swaying and heaving boat some six or seven feet below, who expedite matters by none too gentle pokes and shoves, may be designated by any such mild appellation. Meet Scowling Looks. Once upon the dock the tourist is conscious that it is a long, long way to the steamer, which lies some distance out from the shore, as the confused babble of tongues greets the ear and the scowling looks cast upon the visitor make him well aware that he has left civilization and safety behind him in his characteristic American desire to "take in the whole show," as it is usually described. It is almost with a sense of relief that an individual is seen approaching. He bows obsequiously and glibly exclaims: "I spik Engleeseh; I guide."

At once his services are gladly secured, but unfortunately it is soon evident his knowledge of the English language is limited to the few phrases with which he introduced himself, and his French, the traveler finds, is as execrable as his own. However, when one is in Turkey, and in Asiatic Turkey at that, it is the part of wisdom to take things as they come without making any unnecessary commotion. The glances cast upon the "giours" are usually far from friendly or reassuring, and the visitor to Dardanelles becomes soon convinced of the foolishness of his action in insisting upon going ashore in the face of the just warning from the captain and officers of the steamer, who frankly advised him to remain on board, as it was pleasanter and safer to view Dardanelles from the deck of the steamer. But once ashore it is impossible to leave for even if the voyager was able to request to be taken back to the steamer it would not be wise to do so. Consequently the best thing to do is to appear to enjoy the sights of Dardanelles immensely, and show as great appreciation as possible for the marvellously hideous earthenware manufactured in Tchanak Kalest and sold in the dark, little Turkish shops of the town. As every visitor to Turkey well knows, the sultan's subjects manufacture almost nothing, for which no regret is felt, when the awful spectacles made at Dardanelles are seen. Like a Greek Town. The better part of Dardanelles has much the appearance of a small Greek town. The hotels, shops and open-air cafes all have signs printed in Greek, and the principal street is known as "The Street of the Greek Church." Ox teams are often encountered lumbering slowly along, and there are numerous many carts of the same fierce mongrel type which formerly infested Constantinople. They are half starved and snap menacingly at strangers, so a promenade in Dardanelles is rather too exciting for comfort. The streets are filled with children, some of whom look like miniature men and women, tiny puppets in baggy green silk trousers or in full-fledged, gorgeously colored silk dresses, the sons and daughters of the well-to-do Turkish officials, but the far greater number are forlorn little creatures, ragged and dirty, who look not only neglected but half famished. A warning blast from the steamer tells the voyager it is time to return. A hasty return is made to the dock, but the official with the traveler's precious passport is nowhere to be seen. At last, after what seems an endless delay, the gentleman is found, and when, after a diligent search through innumerable papers, he finally discovers the missing document the smiling gentleman is gladly given a generous gratuity for all his trouble by the anxious traveler, who gives one long sigh of relief when once more safely aboard the steamer.

Scotch Bill of Fare. Several readers write to say that surely the English holidaymakers in Scotland who protest against the Scotch bills of fare at the boarding houses and hotels are unreasonable. "If one goes to Paris," writes one correspondent, "one rather enjoys eating the food of the place and accepting its feeding, hours and methods. It is a welcome change to have only coffee and rolls at the hour when Brixton and Balham are gorging themselves with thawed eggs from Siberia and bacon that is all gristle; and there verte is a great idea, also a big improvement on the brandy-and-soda interlude in the city before one patches the train that takes one toward home and dinner."—London Chronicle.

The Wichita State Bank. The Guaranty Fund Bank.

SOLICITS YOUR BUSINESS AND OFFERS SAFETY FIRST.

SAFETY FIRST is our principle and the GUARANTY FUND LAW your protection—it means that your money deposited in this bank is absolutely safeguarded.

It is one of the best things we have to offer together with COURTEOUS TREATMENT and every accommodation consistent with conservative banking.

Below is a newspaper clipping showing how this GUARANTY FUND LAW WORKS and how you are protected.

We will soon be the only bank in town operating under this Guaranty Fund Law.

Newspaper comment: The Wichita Daily Times says: A few days ago there was a bank failure at Amarillo. It was a state guarantee bank, however, and the depositors will not lose one cent. The state guaranty fund has in it $961,000 and the closing of the Amarillo bank will take from it the sum of $39,000 with which to pay the protected depositors. The more we see of this law the better we like it. Every depositor who trusts his hard-earned money to a bank should be protected to the limit, and that is what has been done in every instance where a bank operating under this law has failed or closed its doors.

And the El Paso Times says: According to a statement made by Receiver Arnold, depositors of the defunct Arizona Bank and Trust Company will receive 75 per cent when its affairs are finally wound up. The first dividend of 50 per cent will be paid on May 4, it is said.

The patrons of the Texas bank will get their money promptly. The patrons of the Arizona bank will only get 75 per cent and will have to wait for that.

The fact that President Wilson called on ex-Secretary Bryan just before the latter left Washington, and that the two great Democratic leaders showed every evidence of being warm friends, has doubtless been very disappointing to the Bryan haters.

Leo M. Frank, convicted of the murder of little Mary Phagan, at Atlanta, Ga., and who was to have been executed for that awful crime tomorrow, has had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment by the Governor of Georgia. The principal witness against Frank was a negro, confessed accomplice, who was given a short penitentiary sentence for the part he played in the bloody affair. Frank has maintained from the very beginning that he was innocent and there is sufficient circumstantial evidence to create a very grave doubt in the minds of millions of people as to whether he committed the crime or not, and for that reason there are millions of people, residents of every state of the Union, who have besieged the Georgia Governor with letters, telegrams and petitions asking that he commute the sentence of Frank. He has acted on their advice, and probably against the advice and feeling of a great majority of the people of his own state. But in acting as he has, he shows that rather than allow a man to forfeit his life for a crime there is at least a doubt as to who committed it, he is willing to retire from his office at the end of his term. Frank may be guilty, but if so his guilt has not been proven beyond the shadow of a doubt. In commuting his sentence the governor of Georgia, has shown that he is a man full worthy the great honor the people of that state have conferred on him.

The evidence in the rashly-conceived lawsuit that the Riggs National bank of Washington, a Standard Oil institution, brought against Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams disclosed that under republican administration it was not uncommon for treasury officials, including even the secretary himself, to borrow money from the bank. Folks who may have been inclined to doubt the oft-made charge that business and government, under republican administrations, were in close alliance are respectfully referred to this disclosure, sworn to in court.—The Commoner.

MR. FLUSCHÉ'S VIEWS ON BRYAN'S RESIGNATION AND OTHER MATTERS.

In compliance with his request we herewith publish the following communication from Emil Flusche of Electra, without comment further than to state that The Times meant nothing personal to Mr. Flusche in its reference to the "Old-fashioned German-American" and to Bryan's son-in-law and the Kaiser's mother and such other expressions which Mr. Flusche has evidently taken as a personal challenge.

His communication follows:
 Electra, Texas.
 Editor Wichita Daily Times:
 As you seem anxious to learn my views in regard to Bryan's resignation, I take occasion to write you a few lines. It seems to me that Mr. Bryan, by taking the stand he did for arbitrage and the avoidance of an unnecessary and unjust war with Germany has atoned for many of his former mistakes and will go down in history as a truly great man and patriot. That the great mass of silent workers of the American people are standing behind him is certain. It would be interesting to learn who is it that wants such a war and for what reason? The Times has been for a while a regular jingo paper and a disgrace to the whole country. Why did you not acquaint your readers with the opinions and statements made by the Vice-President of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Congressman Hobson, Senators Stone, Borah, Bailey and Works? It is a pity that the editor of the jingo papers cannot be put in the trenches of the front so they would enjoy all the war they want. You have been teasing me with Bryan's son-in-law being an Englishman and Emperor William's mother having been an Englishwoman, but you did not tell your readers that Mr. Wilson's grandfather was an Englishman. You have tried your best to belittle and slur the Germans and the German-Americans. There are not eight but over eighteen millions of them in this country, all loyal American citizens, who never made any rebellion against the Union and that is more than many of the loudest supporters of Mr. Wilson can say of themselves. Why should the Anglo-American press censure the Germans for taking a different view of the situation when the prime minister differs so much with the President's view and according to reports from all over the country is endorsed by the people? It seems to me the Declaration of Independence (from England) should be read daily in the public newspaper offices. There are too many losing sight of it entirely and acting as if the United States were an appendix to Canada! The case of the Lusitania disaster is simply this: The Lusitania was an English auxiliary cruiser carrying a great deal of contraband of war. Germany gave ample warning to the American passengers who ought to have known that the Germans do not make empty threats but are usually good for their word. As Prof. Yandell Henderson of the Yale University, in a speech at New Haven, Conn., aptly said: "The United States are fattening themselves by blood-money by selling arms and ammunition to the allies, while they hypocritically protest against cruelty. The United States are taking an entirely unfair position against Germany. The sinking of the Lusitania saved more (valuable) lives than it destroyed, as the ammunition that this 'passenger' ship had on board would have killed thousands of German soldiers. All those in favor of fair play should work unceasingly against prejudice and defamation, for justice and neutrality. If the wave of British jingoism was not arrested the United States would finally be involved in war which would bring no honor nor profit but only losses, his country and as you said, 'old men, women and children of Germany with food and fire thus supporting England in its cruel intention to starve the civil population of Germany. Now, what is more cruel to sink a hundred inconsiderate, who sit down on a powder barrel or to starve sixty million of non-combatants? That England does not succeed in this hellish purpose is not her fault (or rather merit). It seems to me the same forces and influences that got Italy into this war against the will of the great mass of the people are at work in this country and as you said, 'foolish war for Italy. But England is hard pressed for outside help and English money and Freemasonry did the trick in Italy, threatening revolution and civil war.

I am sorry to learn that the Baptist convention at Houston have not reformed any since the last convention held in Kansas City last year. You will remember that under their typical resolution: "We view with alarm" they publicly stated that Colonel Butt, who perished on the Titanic, was the bearer of a letter from the Pope to the American Catholics, forbidding them to vote for Wilson for President. Of course, any man not entirely crazy, knew this to be impossible, as the Titanic disaster occurred three months before Mr. Wilson was nominated. The Pope never mixes in politics and no Catholic would heed such an order. You will remember that ex-President Taft, a close friend of the late Colonel Butt, declared this story an unmitigated lie and fabrication out of whole cloth and expressed his great indignation and disgust with such proceedings of an assembly which makes claim to be Christian and gives false witness against their neighbors and against a (real) gentleman who cannot defend himself. I have been looking for a public reaction and apology from this year's convention. But your report was silent on that point and so it seems they stand before the world as unreformed public defamers. I had written Mr. Taft's refutation for publication several times and you refused to publish it. I trust you will publish these lines without comment as an act of reparation and justice.

EMIL FLUSCHÉ.

CHAZARO'S REPLY TO WILSON.

Houston Post.
 If the reply of Francisco Lagosa Chazaro, president of the Villa Zapata convention, to the note of President Wilson to the Mexican factions represents in reality the position of General Villa, it is plain that the chauvinism of Carranza is not much greater than that of his rivals.
 When it was stated recently that General Villa had replied in a friendly tone to the president, and had made overtures to Carranza looking to a compromise of their differences, there was at least the shadow of a hope that eventually the factions might endeavor to bring about peace.
 Carranza's failure to respond to Villa and the Chazaro reply indicate that Mexico is simply drifting to the point where intervention will become imperative.
 That is what the Post said from the moment our government inaugurated the policy of watchful waiting would be the ultimate solution of the Mexican problem and the only solution.
 General Huerta, now in exile in this country, gave a temperate and illuminating interview on the Mexican situation in last Sunday's issue of the New York World. General Huerta declared that of Mexico's 15,000,000 population, only the armed 100,000 were averse to peace. Many of these he declared were bandits and murderers and in his opinion they would have to be annihilated before the downtrodden millions could obtain either peace or justice.

 While Huerta believes that the man will eventually come forth in Mexico who can and will perform this task, and that outside interference will be resented, conditions in Mexico are such that this country can not ignore them. But for the war in Europe, the United States would have been compelled long ago to take definite action, or suffer intervention from abroad, and there is no reason to doubt now that we are veering rapidly to the point where matters can not be longer postponed.
 This country can not sit idly by and see the helpless millions of peons starve and die and not accommodate its conduct to the benefit of the chaotic element who would continue the present strife indefinitely while the country drifts to complete ruin. Besides, we have our own lengthening list of grievances against the United States. These are going to react sooner or later, as President Wilson well knows. In a political sense, Mexico is becoming a nuisance and from the standpoint of humanity we can not undertake to relieve the starving millions there without dealing with the fruitful causes of existing conditions.
 We have never believed that the factional leaders of Mexico would be amenable to reason, and nothing is more certain than that the haughty tone of defiance which characterizes the answers of Carranza and Chazaro will not deter this government when it once makes up its mind that there is no alternative but to act.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT ABOUT CENSORSHIP

British White Papers Give Particulars Government's Censorship of the Press and Wires.

London.—Particulars of the British government's methods of censorship over newspaper messages and over commercial cablegrams and postal correspondence, are given in two White Papers, which bear the titles "Memorandum on the Censorship" and "Memorandum on the Press Bureau."
 In the matter of the press censorship it is stated that the methods used in conducting this are based on a voluntary agreement between the newspapers and the admiralty and war office. The work of the press bureau as defined "is to censor all press cables and inland press telegrams." The submission of other press matter is voluntary, but those editors who publish without submission to the censor do so on their own responsibility and are liable to the penalties provided under the defense of the realm act. "The staff of the press bureau," says the memorandum "consists of the director, Sir Stanley Buckmaster, two assistant directors, Sir Frank Bower, and Sir Edward Ward Cook, a secretary and about fifty clerks."
 "The criticism has been made and the belief still persists, that the press censors are responsible only for withholding from publication news which has come to the press from other than official sources, but also for omitting from the official announcements information which the press thinks the public should know. A part from the two instances where the bureau has censored official announcements, the criticism is unsound. The government departments alone are responsible for the scope and content of their communications. They make public and for the rules and directions guiding the press bureau."
 The memorandum describes the censorship as "one of several means adopted with a view to the prevention of military value from reaching the enemy, of acquiring similar information for our own purposes, and of checking the dissemination of information likely to be of use to the enemy or prejudicial to the allies. So far as is consistent with the statement of the above objects, there is as little interference as possible with the transmission of news, and every endeavor is made to safeguard the legitimate interests, private and commercial of British subjects and neutrals."
 "In the course of the present war it has become apparent that in the censorship there lay ready to hand a weapon, the full value of which was perhaps not anticipated prior to the outbreak of the war, and which can be used to restrict commercial and financial transactions intended for the benefit of enemy governments or persons residing in enemy countries."
 The chief cable censor, it is explained, is a senior officer of the general staff at the war office. He controls some 120 cable and wireless stations in various parts of the British Empire. "From 20,000 to 50,000 telegrams pass through the hands of the commercial censors in the United Kingdom every 24 hours," says the memorandum. "The number of censors employed in the censorship of commercial cables is 150 in England and elsewhere in the Empire, about 400. In the United Kingdom they are, with few exceptions, retired naval and military officers."

U. S. DISTRICT COURT REVERSED IN RAILROAD SUIT

By Associated Press.
 Washington, June 21.—The supreme court today reversed the federal district court in New Jersey which dismissed the Sherman anti-trust and commodities clause suit against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company. The government charged that the contract by which the railroad sold the coal company its coal was not a bona fide transaction and violated both the anti-trust law and the commodities clause of the Hepburn rate law. It is the second suit of the government against the railroad under the commodities clause.

LIQUOR AGITATION ALMOST NATIONWIDE

IN NEARLY EVERY STATE IN UNION SOME FORM OF LIQUOR LEGISLATION TAKEN UP

TEXAS WAS AN EXCEPTION

Prohibition Forces Won in Some Efforts and in Others Met Defeat in State Legislatures.

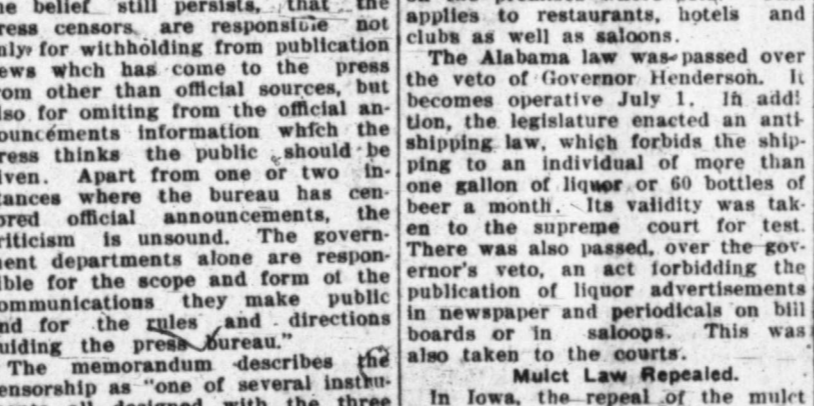

By Associated Press.
 New York, June 21.—A canvass by the Associated Press of legislative activity this year in the state law making bodies of the country, most of which have adjourned for the summer, shows that among the subjects which received notable attention was that of the prohibition of the regulation of the liquor traffic. The legislatures of two states enacted statutory prohibition to become effective this year, and eight voted to submit the question of statewide prohibition to the vote of the people. Of the latter, two established statutory prohibition to become effective in the meantime. Four states where prohibition is already effective passed additional restrictive laws and two of the five states where, under constitutional amendment, prohibition is to go into effect next year, enacted necessary statutes for its enforcement. In six of the so-called "wet" states, statewide prohibitions met defeat. In other instances of local option, transportation and licensing were acted upon.
 Statutory Prohibition.
 The two states where direct prohibition laws were passed are Florida and Alabama. Those whose legislatures voted to submit the question to the people are Idaho, Iowa, Montana, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and the territory of Alaska. In Iowa, the legislative resolution, according to the state constitution, must be passed by the next succeeding legislature, before the people can vote on it, but the state returned to statutory prohibition meanwhile, through the repeal of the so-called "mix law. Idaho was also made "dry" meanwhile through statutory enactment. In Utah the bill was vetoed by the governor after the legislature adjourned. In South Carolina, the vote will be taken at the election this year, in Montana, South Dakota, Vermont and Alaska in 1916; Idaho in 1917.
 It will be thus seen that as a measure of the progress of the cause of prohibition the lines are already in the ranks have this year been reinforced by four and the legislative way cleared for four others, including Alaska, to join. In the latter event nearly half the country will have placed the ban on the liquor traffic.
 The new Florida law goes into effect October 1 and prohibits the sale of alcoholic beverages except in sealed packages of less than one-half pint each, nor can liquor be drunk on the premises where sold. This applies to restaurants, hotels and clubs as well as saloons.
 The Alabama law was passed over the veto of Governor Henderson. It becomes operative July 1. In addition, the legislature enacted an anti-shipment law, which forbids the shipping to an individual of more than one gallon of liquor or 60 bottles of beer a month. Its validity as against the supreme court has not yet been tested. There was also passed, over the governor's veto, an act forbidding the publication of liquor advertisements in newspaper and periodicals on bill boards or in saloons. This was also taken to the courts.
 Mule Law Repealed.
 In Iowa, the repeal of the mule law, under which communities by a majority petition were allowed to have saloons operated under a mule tax, had the effect of returning the state to the statutory prohibition which prevailed prior to the laws enacted twelve years ago. Content neither with this or the passage of the resolution for a constitutional prohibition amendment, the legislature also enacted eleven prohibition enforcement bills.
 In adopting statutory prohibition, pending the constitutional amendment vote, Idaho enacted a provision conceding to be more drastic than any ever attempted in the United States. It makes even ownership of liquor a misdemeanor, and on second offense, a felony.
 The Montana legislature decided to refer the question to the people at the 1916 election, in the form of a statute, after rejecting a proposed constitutional amendment vote. The law would permit the use of wine for sacramental purposes and for medicinal purposes. If approved it will become effective December 21, 1918. In connection with the measure, the legislature enacted early closing and Sunday closing laws for the saloons.
 The general assembly of South Carolina took up a large part of its session in discussing prohibition. Besides drafting a statewide law for submission to a referendum at the election of September 12, 1915, the assembly enacted a statute which makes effective in the state, the provisions of the Webb-Kenyon federal act against the shipment of liquor from "wet" to "dry" territory. South Carolina being now "local option." The statute also forbids the shipment of more than one gallon of alcoholic liquors to any one person in the state during any one month.
 The South Dakota legislature decided to submit a statewide constitutional amendment to the general election in 1916. If carried by a majority of the votes cast, it will become effective July 1, 1917.
 The statewide prohibition measure which the governor of Utah vetoed after the adjournment of the legislature of that state had been passed by large majorities in both houses. The legislature, however, placed on the statute book a law modeled after the Webb-Kenyon law and imposing heavy penalties for the ship-

Mr. Henry, who is now located at Fort Worth, formerly resided here and was representative from this district for one term.

The Majestic. In the Fox film, "From the Valley of the Missing" which is Tuesday's feature at the Majestic, there are many elements which go towards making the picture the remarkable success it is. One of these elements was the employment of natural settings, true to the atmosphere of the story. The venerable Richmond county Jail at Augusta, Ga., was turned over to prisoners, and good will to the company making the Fox production. The aged prison, is coinciding with time, and the associations that have clustered thick about it since 1815, when it was built. During the Civil War it was used as a military prison and the execution of suspected spies frequently took place in the court yard where a grim gallows-tree now rears itself.

The Gem. Richard Travers and Edna Mayo are featured in today's program, the chief picture being "The Lady of the Snows." The handsome Essanay hero and the winsome Miss Mayo consider this picture one of their most pleasing parts played in some time. The locale of the story is in Canada and as the name would indicate the big snows of the winter play an important part in the story.

EVANGELIST NELSON ON CHRISTIAN UNITY

Divided Condition of God's People, He Said, Prolific Cause of Infidelity

A large audience heard Evangelist J. B. Nelson last evening, upon the subject of Christian Unity. When the invitation was extended, two came forward and demanded baptism. Mr. Nelson publicly complimented the Daily Times for the publicity that had been given the meeting and for the unprejudiced and unbiased spirit that had been shown. He said he believed that nearly all of the members were taking The Times, but if they were not he wanted them to begin.

Mr. Nelson told how united Holiness China was in worshipping her idols, which of course was wrong, because God does not approve of worshipping idols. He showed that Christian America was deplorably divided and all such was contrary to the teachings of the Bible.

He told how that, in the 17th chapter of John, Jesus prayed for unity; in the 23d verse of the same chapter unity would cause the world to know, or believe that God had sent him, Christ. There is nothing that has caused more infidelity than the divided condition of God's people. We must be one in prayer, worship and doctrine.

"Now, I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you, but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." 1 Cor. 1:10. The house of Christ had told Paul that the church at Corinth was divided and some claiming to be of Paul, and some of Apollus, some of Cephas and some of Christ. They all should have been Christians and not Paulites, Apollites or Cephasites. The only way for all people to be perfectly united, is for all to take the word of God and do what is said, no more, no less.

"Like priest, like people." We have in the Bible the following expressions: "One fold and one shepherd." "In one the children of God." "All should be one as God and Christ are one." "One body in Christ." "One bread and one body." "Body is one, so is Christ." "All baptized into one body." "God has set all in the body." "All one in Christ." "And one of the same body." "Called in on body." "There is one body." "Many members but one body." "The Church the body, the body, the Church."

The body of church is Christ, so when we get into Christ, we get into the body, the church. We are baptized into Christ, Gal. 3:27. To get into Christ is to get into his reign, under his rule. When we get into Christ we should continue to be governed by his rule and authority. Let the Bible be our creed, rule of faith and practice.

Mr. Nelson closed his sermon by saying "May God hasten the day when there will be no divisions and we all will be one in worship and practice."

Sticking Pins in Nutmegs

That is the expert's way of telling the good ones. The natural oil in the nutmeg is what gives it its flavoring qualities—the more oil there is the greater the nutmeg's value for flavoring.

Stick a pin in a nutmeg that is full of this oil and oil will ooze out of the pin hole when the pin is withdrawn—little or no oil will follow the pin if the nutmeg is a poor one.

You must be certain that besides being pure the ground nutmeg you buy is only nutmeg. Look for it in a way—the oily kind is a smooth, rich brown—the other kind looks more grainy and is speckled with black woody particles.

Your best assurance is to buy a brand that is picked by a company of integrity and reputation, and so packed that some of the flavor is lost through evaporation. Every bit of White Swan Ground Nutmeg is made from nutmegs that have, in the highest degree, passed the pin-sticking test—that are full of the oil that flavors them. That's why White Swan Nutmeg costs a little more, but because it takes a little to give a rich flavor, is so economical to use.

Your grocer sells and recommends White Swan Nutmeg—and other White Swan Goods—ask him.

WAISTLINES RETURN TO THEIR NORMAL PLACE

New York, June 19.—For the first time in three long years, waistlines return to their normal places. A logical review of the past few months discloses two distinct reasons for this change in fashion: first, the full skirt, and second, the corset. It is not surprising that the waistlines tapered about when corsets were trico and the silhouette straight up and down; but now that skirts are voluminous and corsets real stays, nipped in at the sides, the joining of the waist and skirt naturally comes at the smallest part of the form, namely, the waistline, as nature placed it.

It has taken many months to bring about the evolution and—even yet there are those who are loath to give up their stay belts and back to nature corsets. When Josephine in the early season exhibited silk frocks with normal waistlines, many admiring this couturiere's courage; but few recognized the step as a style prediction so soon to be realized. Today smart frocks have trim waists, definitely marked. Whether you are sunbathing at Hopalong, escaping the heat at a beach resort, or passing the early season in town, it is impossible to be oblivious to this one feature, at least, of the mode.

Again and again, fashion repeats herself in the ever prevalent blue in dress. Wherever the New Yorker goes, you see it. If any one thinks she can dodge the clothes issue by packing up and hiking off to the country, the mountains or the shore, she is sadly but surely mistaken. In the Adirondacks you will find all the style of the Aymus. There are the girls with their summer turs, wide sailor hats and Japanese parasols, transported whole from New York, without the veneer of style spoiled or embellished.

At one hotel, three hours by bus from the station, a girl from the metropolis wore a taffeta frock that literally followed letter for letter the Victorian mode. It was made of the perpetual blue taffeta with waist normal, and skirt sectional, formed of seven tiers, each successive tier fuller than the one before, gathered at the top and corded to the section above; the bodice was plain save for an inverted V-shaped vest of organza and a soft organza collar; this was a product of a New York dressmaker, perfect so far as style was concerned.

So incessant is the demand for blue-taffeta for these dresses, that the stores have difficulty in keeping it in stock. The craze is apparent in every department. Hats are of the French sailor type; on these the brim is slightly wider at one side than on the other, and they are worn a trifle tilted. Of blue straw, blue taffeta, or blue French crepe, they are trimmed with wings, a single bead ornament, or gauze flowers, wired in shape. Pumps are shown in navy blue leather, smartly piped in white and even dark blue platinized gaudy styles have been introduced. But these are not as popular as the white silk gloves, finished with the Queen Elizabeth frills, and worn on the outside of the dress; for even blue, to be really chic, must have a dash of white for contrast.

The fad for the popular blue will be restricted, however, by the shortage of dye material in this country. One manufacturer made the statement that we may be thankful to get any color at all if the war continues; and this, no doubt, accounts for the makers of silks trying to force black and white effects for mid-summer and fall. Already we are seeing here and there, in these new normal waistline dresses, smart black and white effects. One silk manufacturer is showing a great variety of Grecian designs in black and white, and black and gold. So unusual and original are the patterns, that they have taken the trouble to have each designed, but manufacturers of inferior materials duplicate the designs. If this house successfully launches these silks on the market, and from their record in past seasons they undoubtedly will, women will soon be wearing frocks with simulated Dicky birds and checker boards the conspicuous theme of the material.

This dyeing and manufacturing question, however, is a chapter by itself. After all, what does it matter whether the dresses with their new found waistlines are white, black or colored, so long as the result is what the French term "chic"? This very thing is brought out in the frocks of the season where all shades of green, blue and tan are used.

There were other white dresses, too, with always the touch of black to give them the proper emphasis. This was introduced sometimes in the hats; for instance, a wide brimmed white Milan, trimmed with white daisies, had a low crown of black silk tulle and the brim edged with black straw. Again, a bag was carried for the distinct purpose of introducing a note of contrast with the dress. Many were of black, shiny motor leather; made in soft gathered shapes with hand straps around the body portion or in oblong wallet style with the strap on the top. Even stockings and pumps were pressed into service to give the desired effect. Perpendicular black and white stripes being best liked in the stockings; the favor in pumps being divided between white buckskin, touched with black leather, and white canvas cut in the same styles as the buck. The sensation of the season, however, are the walking sticks; another equal rights victory. In these, black shiny sticks predominate with skin tint silk covers, reaching from within six inches of the bottom to ten of the top. These covers are in white, checker board, green, blue or in fact, any silk to correspond or contrast with the costume.

And so it goes. Now, that millard's waistline is back to its normal place, she hunts after fancies wherein to express her eccentricities.

TWO THOUSAND HEAR DR. FRIAR'S SERMON ON HELL

Evangelist Says There are Some Men in Wichita Falls Who Would Break Hinges to Get In

Dr. Friar addressed an audience of more than two thousand people Sunday night on "Hell," making an extended study of the sixteenth chapter of the Bible. Hell is designated the ultimate home of un saved spirits, he said. The two characters in this chapter Lazarus and Dives were explained in detail and their different characteristics given. Dives was a man who had all that he could desire. "Why do men go to hell," the speaker asked and answered his question, "there are many reasons. Some do not believe in hell and make no attempt to keep out. Hell is necessary and exists because of the demons made of men for such a place. Heaven exists for the same reason. There is no greater hell on earth for the wicked than to place them in the presence of Godly men and women because their lives will be out of harmony with their surroundings."

"If you want to go to hell," said the speaker, "God is powerless to keep you out. God has pledged Jesus Christ to be between you and hell and the wicked have to go past the bleeding body of Jesus on Calvary. There are some men in this town who are bound for hell and would burst the hinges of their doors to get there. Some people are looking for hell and will find it no matter where you put them. You may not believe in hell but you will believe in it before you have been there fifteen minutes."

Heaven was characterized as a place where perfect harmony existed. One reason why men do not see God was given by Dr. Friar as a lack of love for him. He gave warning to the church members, saying "If you are not pleased with God and contend with him he will disown you. Young man, you are a coward if you refuse to come to God because you are afraid the world will sneer at you. Cut out the gang and cut Jesus Christ."

The horrors of an actual hell were graphically pictured in words that held the large audience. Dr. Friar ending his sermon with a strong appeal to men and women to think seriously of their final destiny. This sermon of Sunday night concluded the second week of the successful co-operative meeting. Services were held at the tent this morning, the evening service being omitted.

WILL STUDY LASSEN

Volcano in California Is Under Close Observation.

Forest Service Co-operates With Geological Survey in Recording Dangerous Peak's Activity as Basis for Scientific Study.

Washington, June 19.—Mt. Lassen, Cal., whose violent eruption of May 19, places it in the first rank of volcanoes now dangerously active, has become the subject of an informal co-operative study by the geological survey and the forest service. At the request of the survey, a telegram has been sent from Washington instructing the officers of the Lassen national forest, in which the peak stands, to continue observations of the volcano's activity and keep a record to be used as a basis for a scientific investigation by J. S. Diller, a government geologist, who will take up the work later.

The observations are being made by forest rangers at the scene and from a fire lookout tower on Brokeoff mountain, a few miles north of the crater, where the forest service last year kept watch on the numerous eruptions which occurred from May to September.

It is not known whether a cloud-burst started the last eruption by precipitating rain down upon the molten lava in the crater, or whether melting of the snow on the peak, with consequent flowing of water into the crater, caused the accumulation of steam which blew a river of mud out of the mountain. Mr. Diller, who made a study of the volcano last year, said that he inclined toward the melted snow theory, adding that the bright glow reported as appearing on the clouds of smoke and steam over the crater is a reflection of the red-hot matter uncovered by the eruption, indicating that the volcano is in a more or less dangerous mood.

The river of mud which was shot out of the north side of the crater and down Hat creek has damaged government and private property, says a wireless to the forest service from San Francisco, destroying bridges which were necessary to permit the entrance of live stock that are grazed on the Lassen forest every year.

Mt. Lassen is regarded as exceptionally interesting from a scientific viewpoint, according to the geological survey, inasmuch as it is the only active volcano in the United States proper very accessible to observers, and appears to be full of dangerous possibilities. There is much that is not known about volcanoes, and Lassen is expected by geologists to furnish a considerable addition to existing information on the subject.

ROYAL MIRACLES DESCRIBED

London.—Among the interesting objects at the Red Cross sale at Christie's was a curious volume containing the true and moving story of the miracles supposed to have been wrought by the "touch" of English sovereigns in general, and of Charles II in particular.

The Merrie Monarch touched 90,798 patients, particulars as to whose cases are all recorded. James II "cured" 250 at one swoop. Queen Anne, it will be remembered, laid sovereign hands upon Dr. Samuel Johnson for scrofula.

Fred Hug Never Hugged. Chicago.—Fred Hug did not live up to his name, according to Mrs. Rosie Hug's bill for divorce in circuit court. Instead of hugging Mrs. Hug, she says, drove her from home May 17, 1911, and has since refused to allow her to return, much less to hug him.

The Quinine That Does Not Affect The Head. Chicago.—The quinine that does not affect the head is a new discovery. It is a new kind of quinine and does not cause nervousness or ringing in the head. Remember the name and look for the signature of H. W. GEORGE, Etc.

use. Nor hereafter can any one in West Virginia give a drink to another except in his own home, home being specified as a permanent place of residence, not a hotel or other public place.

Attempts to revise the prohibition laws of Oklahoma were defeated in Oregon and Colorado.

In Oregon, where prohibition became effective in January next as the result of previous action by the voters on a constitutional amendment, the legislature enacted a law to enforce the amendment. The law prohibits the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in the state and its sale except on physician's prescription for scientific sacramental or mechanical use. It allows a limited amount to be imported by the heads of families.

A law for a similar purpose was enacted in Colorado where a prohibition amendment goes into effect the same date. The Colorado law forbids the buying, selling and giving away of liquor except for medical or sacramental purposes and prohibits common carriers from transporting liquor into the state except for lawful purposes. This includes the transportation to individuals who must sign a receipt that the liquor is for their own use. The law prohibits a search and seizure provision and gives the governor $10,000 yearly for its enforcement.

The legislature of Washington, where prohibition is also effective in January next, ignored Gov. Lister's request for an appropriation of $40,000 to enforce the law.

Defeated in Four States. Statewide prohibition proposals met defeat in Connecticut, Indiana, Michigan, New Mexico, New York and Wyoming. The question was before the general assembly of Connecticut as a proposed constitutional amendment which the legislators declined to send to the next assembly for ratification. The legislature, however, increased the cost of retail liquor licenses 66.23 per cent, and for the first time placed social and fraternal organizations serving liquors to members, under exclusive regulation. In Indiana a statewide measure died in a committee of the lower houses.

In Michigan the question promised to be one of the features of the session, but nothing came of it. A bill was introduced into the senate providing for the submission of a statutory prohibition to the vote of the people at a general election next year, but the prohibition leaders themselves voted against it after the liquor faction had attached certain amendments to it which in the opinion of the drys defeated the purpose of this bill.

While a strong effort was made in the New Mexico legislature to secure action on a constitutional amendment resolution, the issue was not allowed to come to a vote in either house. In New York all measures designed to have a statewide effect on the liquor traffic were killed and in Wyoming the issue was twice before the legislature in proposals for a constitutional amendment and twice defeated.

Both wet and dry measures failed of enactment in Illinois. They were all killed by the house. The temperance measures introduced provided for residence district option, for street enforcement of the anti-liquor laws in prohibition territory and against treating. The wetts did not push their bill providing for home rule in the handling of the liquor problem and their bill repealing the township option law.

Local Option Defeats. In New Jersey and Pennsylvania county option met defeat but was established by Minnesota. The latter state also enacted a "roadhouse" bill prohibiting the issuance of saloon licenses to establishments outside of cities and villages.

The only action taken by the Ohio legislature was the passage of a law making state and county liquor licenses effective instead of appointive, thus "decentralizing" the licensing system. The law was opposed by the so-called "liberal" interests. The Massachusetts law makers passed a bill to prevent the shipment of liquor from license to no license communities, but it was vetoed by the governor. A bill forbidding the use of enclosed booths in restaurants where liquor is sold became a law.

California, a local option state, passed a measure forbidding the sale of liquor to persons with a blood in their veins or white persons associating with them. The legislature defeated, however, a bill creating a mile dry zone around normal schools and universities.

Governor Ferguson of Texas, having been elected on a platform opposing all liquor agitation, the question was left practically untouched in that state. He vetoed the only liquor bill passed. The measure would have reduced the tax on wholesale druggists selling alcohol. In Delaware the anti-shipment law passed in 1913 which prohibited the shipment of liquor into Kent and Sussex counties which were dry, was repealed. The court having decided that the law could not keep out interstate shipments, the result was that dealers outside the state could make shipments into Delaware's dry territory, while dealers in New Castle county, which is license territory, were prohibited. Delaware has only three counties. An attempt to secure the enactment of a more rigid law affecting the two counties failed. Failure also attended an effort to obtain favorable license legislation.

At this writing the Wisconsin legislature was still in session. No prohibition bill was pending in either house, but several restrictive measures were waiting action. In those states that have not been mentioned either no action was taken on the liquor question or the legislatures were not in session.

What kind of roofing shall I buy?

The General says: You can buy a cheap unguaranteed roofing and save a few dollars in initial cost—or you can pay this slight difference and get a roofing guaranteed by the very largest manufacturer of roofing and building papers. The final cost is what counts and you'll find it cheaper in the long run to buy

Certain-teed Roofing

This roofing is the highest quality possible to make and it is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, for 1, 2 or 3 ply respectively. When once laid, Certain-teed must remain intact at least for the period of the guarantee and the guarantee is a definite insurance against all roofing trouble.

Roofing that is cheaper than Certain-teed is cheaper in quality and is not guaranteed by a big mill and best responsibility. If the cheap roof falls down you will have to pay the double expense of laying a new roof all over again. Certain-teed Roofing is for sale by dealers everywhere at reasonable prices.

Pearl Culture.
 An experimental sea farm near Pamban, India, may possibly point the way to still wealthier possibilities, for it is designed for the culture of the pearl-oyster and thereby for the culture of pearls under direct control. Mr. Hornell, who is in charge, is reported to have ascertained important facts with regard to the pearl-oyster, and has drawn up a complete scheme for its culture. Under such a system the dangerous business of diving down to the bottom of the sea to bring up possible pearls from its depths will perhaps be eventually changed for the simpler process of digging up pearl-oysters in the "oyster farm," and pearl-oysters that contain pearls so well-developed under control that they will surpass anything in the way of pearls that has yet been seen.

Forethought.
 "Apart from my passionate devotion, darling," he said, tremulously, "my future prospects, in a business way, are flattering in the extreme. I have just patented a motor-car brake which my friends all say will bring to me not alone fame, but an immense fortune."
 "Mr. Clump," began the girl shyly, "while I confess that you are not wholly indifferent to me, I must have time to think it over before I give you a final answer."
 "How long a time, dear?" he asked eagerly.
 "Until we find out how the motor car brake goes," was the reply.

Every Boys' Library!
Boy Scout Edition

Over twenty-five different titles have been selected by the Library Commission of Boy Scouts of America to constitute the official Boy Scouts Library.

They are all books of a sort that boys like best—sound, and healthy, red-blooded stories that make for manhood. Besides the above we also have on our 50c table for boys and girls, The Rover Boys, Frank Armstrong's Comrades, Dick Hamilton, The Putnam Halla, Motor Boys, Motor Maids, Just Patty, When Patty Went to College; and Amy Bell Marlowe's books for girls, viz: The Oldest of Four, The Girl of Hillcrest Farm, A Little Miss Nobody, The Girl from Sunset Ranch, Wyn's Camping Days.

On our 25c table you will find

Tom Swift's The Out Door Chums, The Out Door Girls, The Moving Picture Girls, The Hobbey Twins, Larry Dexter, The Yellow, Blue, Green, Red and Brown Fairy Book, Menas, Southworth's, Holmes and various others. See our windows.

Sanatogen

Endorsed by Over 21,000 Physicians

"We'll just put him on Sanatogen." What a happy thought prompted that decision! He wasn't his "old self" at all—and try to mask it as he might, his face showed only too well how poorly he felt. And so when a friend—with conviction born of experience—spoke of Sanatogen, they "put him on Sanatogen."

Sanatogen—combining the tissue-building properties of a FOOD with the invigorating qualities of a TONIC—rejuvenated his appetite, improved his digestion, brought rest to his nerves, made good the over-drafts upon his energies—and little by little brought back the old-time vigor and sprightliness and joy of living.

Then simply let us tell you this: Over 21,000 physicians have testified in writing to the value of Sanatogen after having observed its effects in daily practice. So, too, have hundreds of famous men and women whose very names must be convincing—people who know from personal experience the restorative help that Sanatogen gives. It is a verdict that cannot be mistaken.
