By Associated Press:

Berlin, June 28.—The town of Halisz in Galicia on the Dneister river has been occupied by the German troops, according to the announcement given out today by German military headquarters. Besides the occupation of Halisz the statement says that the Dneister has been crossed by the Germans along the entire front.

HUERTA DECLINES TO MAKE STATEMENT

HE GOES TO THE HOME OF HIS DAUGHTER IN EL PASO AFTER BOND IS MADE.

CROWDS GATHER AT HOUSE

Occasional Shouts of "Viva Huerta" Are Heard—Not Boisterous Over His Arrest.

Special to The Times. El Paso, Texas, June 28.—General Huerta today at his daughter's residence said he would make no statement until after his hearing on Thursday. Many persons gathered about his residence and there were occasional shouts of "Viva Huerta." Miguel Lombardo, foreign minister in Villa's cabinet said that yesterday's demonstration before the federal building proved that there was an organized movement among Huerta's adherents here. He said that Huerta's bond was so small that it will not prevent him from crossing the border, if he wished. The bond is $1,000.

Small bodies of unarmed men have been crossing the border in the last few days supposedly with the intention of mobilizing at some point in the south.

El Paso was flooded today with circulars of a printed interview which Huerta gave out in New York calling the Villa faction bandits and leeches and declaring that Carranza was standing on an American platform.

Both Huerta and Orozco are charged with conspiracy to start a revolution against a friendly country.

When Huerta reached Newman an early hour Sunday morning he was met by Pascual Orozco and Major Luis Fuentes, Huerta's son-in-law. Huerta was accompanied by United States cavalrymen commanded by Colonel George Morcan, accompanied by a number of federal border officials. Huerta was told that he was under arrest, but that he would be treated with every courtesy. He readily agreed to a request that he and Orozco accompany the federal officials to El Paso for a conference. After the conference he and Orozco were taken to Fort Bliss and held there until released on bond. After his release Huerta went to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fuentes.

While they were held at the post General Jose Ynez Salazar, another Huerta leader, was reported within forty miles of Juarez with two thousand men and to be awaiting only the orders from his superior, General Huerta, to begin an attack on the border. It was reported that Huerta intended to establish his capital and start a revolution to sweep all Mexico. The Juarez garrison was expected to mutiny and a majority go over to the Huerta movement as dissatisfaction has been fomented there by spies. In a warehouse on the south side of El Paso, millions of rounds of ammunition were discovered and is now being guarded to prevent it from being taken across the border. Approximately 10,000 former federalists and mercenaries were expected to join the movement here and along the border to Ojinaga.

Huerta appeared jovial. He joked with the guards, prattled of American women and their beauty and seemed to enjoy his newest experience immensely.

Market Reports

Local Grain Market. There was no change in the local wheat market today, wheat being quoted at 90 cents and oats at 30. No oats are coming in, and less than a dozen loads of wheat were reported today.

Fort Worth Livestock. Fort Worth, June 28.—Cattle receipts 6,800; the market active and steady to 20 cents lower. Sheep receipts 2,500, the market strong to 10 cents higher. Lambs $8.49.

Kansas City Cash Grain. Kansas City, June 28.—Wheat, No. 2 41.24; No. 2, red, 41.00; 2 Corn, No. 2, mixed 73.73; 1-2c. Oats, No. 2, white, 41.47; 1-2c.

Chicago Grain Futures. Chicago, June 28.—Storages in the harvest region gave an upward swing to the price of wheat. Damages and delay were reported to be serious both in Oklahoma and Kansas. Firmness of Liverpool also counted against the bears. The opening which ranged from 1.8 to 1.4 higher was followed by additional gains, but later the market reacted to a considerable extent. Favorable crop advices caused oats to ease off. Assortations that the Missouri crop had been materially harmed by the rains and the Hessian fly tended afterward to cause a rally to wheat. Meanwhile seaboard demand for old wheat was reported heavy.

Wheat closed steady: July, $1.05 1/2; Sept., $1.02; Dec., $1.05 3/8. Corn, July, 73.12c; Sept., 72.12c; Dec., 64.18c; Oats, July, 43.12c; Sept., 37.14c; Dec., 29.38.

New York Cotton Futures. New York, June 28.—Relatively steady cables, heavy Liverpool spot sales, talk of too much rain in Oklahoma and Arkansas and private reports indicating very little improvement in crop prospects for the month appeared chiefly responsible for an opening advance of 3 to 6 points. Active months sold about 4 to 6 points higher during the early trading. Offerings remained light during the morning and prices worked about 8 to 9 points above Saturday's close on a moderate demand. Another private report issued shortly after midday made the condition of the crop 80.8 as compared with 82.5, the report of the same authority last month, and suggested a decrease of 15 per cent. average. These figures failed to create any active or aggressive demand but helped to steady the market which ruled about 9 to 10 points net higher.

WARNING TO JAPAN FROM UNCLE SAM

TOLD U. S. WOULD NOT RECOGNIZE AGREEMENT IMPAIRING AMERICAN RIGHTS.

The note was handed to the foreign offices of both countries a week after China had acceded to the demands contained in the Japanese ultimatum insisting upon concessions from the former nation.

W. P. CAHILL ACTING AS W.F. & N.W. SUPERINTENDENT

Trainmaster for Katy at Denison Now Filling Mr. Sullivan's Place—Latter Improving.

W. P. Cahill, trainmaster for the Katy at Denison, has assumed the duties of superintendent of the Wichita Falls properties of the Katy in place of R. J. Sullivan, who was injured in a motor car accident. Mr. Cahill was formerly with the Union Pacific at Omaha and has had wide experience. News from Dallas, where Mr. Sullivan was taken after his injury, is that the superintendent is recovering rapidly and that he will probably be able to leave the hospital soon. In spite of his broken ankle, Mr. Sullivan is anxious to return to his duties and would probably have been back on the job by this time had he been permitted. He will probably not return to work until he is entirely recovered. A fracture of skull, a broken wrist and a broken ankle were the injuries he sustained and it was thought for a time that he would not recover.

STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY FAVORS THE TEUTONS

SLAVIC-TEUTONIC CONTESTS BELIEVED NEARING ITS HIGH WATER MARK.

FAVORS THE TEUTONS

Austro-Germans Cross Dneister Along Whole Front—Italians Claim Repulse of Austrians.

London, June 28.—The anniversary today of the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria which turned Europe into an armed camp finds the Teutonic-Slavic contest for racial supremacy nearing what is thought to be its high watermark. The Teutonic armies for the most part still outwardly at least dominating the situation. Teutonic forces have pushed their way across the Dneister along the entire front, the German official statement says, the strong resistance which the Russians have been offering there for some time finally having given away.

Concurrently comes an admission by the Russians that they have withdrawn from 30 miles along the Dnieper front, making it appear that the entire battle front in this territory will be shifted to the eastward. Such a shift would be in line with the expectation of military observers who have been predicting a Russian withdrawal from the Dneister and the realignment of their forces on the River Bug. Petrograd declares that the regrouping of the Russian forces necessitated by the outcome of the Teutonic campaign in Galicia has been completed and that the Austro-Slavic armies are in readiness to resist further Austro-German advances whether in Galicia or in southern Poland.

Of the fighting along the western front the French have little to say. The comparative inactivity there, the allies supporters explained, is due to the Austro-German consolidation of positions already won and to gauge better the general plan of the campaign on part of the Germans and how it will affect the situation in France and Belgium. German accounts of the contrary detail numerous French activities including attacks in the "Labyrinth" in the Argonne, in the Meuse hills and in the Vosges, all the attacks having been repulsed.

An Italian official report tells of an unsuccessful attempt by the Austrians to retake the heights of Zell-enkofel.

Carranza Rushing Troop Trains to Mexico City From Vera Cruz, Reports Say.

Washington, June 28.—Further confirmation of the defeat of the Carranza army advancing on Mexico City brought to Vera Cruz by an American from the capital was received today at the state department. The state department's dispatch from General Carranza said General Carranza was rushing troop trains from Vera Cruz to the capital, that fighting at the hour the courier started still was going on in the outskirts of Mexico City and that a repetition of the "Tragic Ten Days" which preceded the overthrow of Madero was probably added horrors was feared.

GERMANY'S REPLY WILL BE FAVORABLE

NOTE FROM AMBASSADOR GERARD CAUSES MUCH OPTIMISM AT WASHINGTON.

MESSAGE IS NOT DIVULGED

Gerard's Note At Once Communicated to President Wilson at Summer White House.

Washington, June 28.—A favorable reply by Germany to the last American note on submarine warfare is indicated in today's state department advices from Berlin.

The advices came from Ambassador Gerard and were notably the first of a definite character received since the American note reached the German foreign office. The exact nature of the ambassador's message was not divulged for obvious reasons, his dispatch was of sufficient detail to put officials in an optimistic attitude. It was communicated to President Wilson at Cornhill, N. H.

The German officials, Ambassador Gerard reported, are eager to give a favorable answer to the American note but say they cannot make concessions which would impair the effectiveness of their submarines. The Germans are trying to find some method which will safeguard American ships but which will permit operation of submarines against merchantmen. Ambassador Gerard based his report on the effect which the visit of Dr. Anton Meyer Gerhard had produced among German officials. There was no intimation as to what attitude toward liability for loss of American lives on the Lusitania the German government would take.

PRISONER FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO SEIZE GUN

Made Lunge For Officer's Weapon But Floored By Blow of Fellow Officer

A prisoner recently taken into custody by the city police came near making good on a desperate attempt to get away. While he was sitting in the station waiting for county officials to come to get a drink of water, this was granted, and as he arose he made a sudden lunge toward the bicycle desk, upon which lay Motor cycle Officer Smith's pistol. He almost reached it when a blow from Bill Towery, the pound man, toppled him against the window. He was promptly placed in a cell.

BRITISH STEAMER INDRANI TORPEDOED AND SUNK

London, June 28.—The British steamer, Indrani of 3,640 tons gross was sunk Sunday by a German submarine at a point southeast of Tuscar Ireland. The crew was saved.

The steamship Indrani sailed from New York May 28 by way of Bordeaux for Glasgow where she arrived June 19. The Indrani was 36 years old and was built at Liverpool in 1888 and was owned by Donaldson Brothers of Glasgow. Tuscar Rock is an islet off the southeast coast of Dreport in St. George's Channel.

THRILLING AIR DUEL BETWEEN HOSTILE AVIATORS

London, June 28.—A British eyewitness today described an air duel between a British plane and a big German aeroplane, which had double engines and a propeller over a British engine. The German machine circled the British machine at a height a little less than a mile, firing his machine gun at the British plane. When the British observers at two hundred yards distance opened fire on the German the latter's engine stopped, whereupon the German dived to 2,000 feet. He began a slow difficult flight towards the earth. Meanwhile the German guns on the ground had pierced the British machine's petrol tanks setting fire to the tanks and stopping the engine. The flames began to burn the aviator dived toward the British lines. Although the British aviator was badly burned and their propeller burned nearly off they managed to reach ground within British lines and save their machine.

CONE JOHNSON MAY BECOME STATE DEPT. COUNSELOR

Washington, June 28.—A new counselor to the state department to succeed Secretary Lansing in that office probably will not be appointed until after President Wilson's return from his vacation next month. This was indicated at the department in connection with published reports which have said the place either would go to Chandler Harrison, who has been aiding with the department's legal work for some months during the illness of Cone Johnson, the solicitor, or to Johnson, Harrison is a Republican.

HUERTA HAS BEEN WATCHED FOR WEEKS

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE WELL INFORMED CONCERNING ACTIVITIES EX-DICTATOR.

LOOKING FOR HIS BACKERS

Believed Some Prominent American Business Men are Implicated in Newest Mexican Plot.

Washington, June 28.—Inside details of the plot to restore a Huerta regime in Mexico nipped in the bud by the United States began trickling out today through the net of official secrecy. While General Huerta and his chief, Lieutenant Pascual Orozco are under federal detention at El Paso other Mexicans, nearly a score of whom had a part in the plot that is under surveillance by the department of justice.

Secretary Lansing conferred today with Assistant Attorney General Warren and it became apparent that the department of justice intends to sift the case to find out the backers of the new revolution. Where the trail might lead in the United States is only a matter of conjecture. All officials were silent on that feature although there is no secret of the belief that the coup was to have the financial support of some prominent American business interests.

Official information has disclosed that while Huerta was in apparent seclusion on Long Island he offered his services to General Huerta, one of the exiled colonies in New York, and at the same time sent an emissary to Washington to ask if he would be persona grata to this government if he took a part in Mexican affairs. Huerta declined Huerta's offer while Washington sent word to the former dictator that he would be persona non grata, decidedly so. Immediately thereafter the official advices here say Huerta renewed his offers to General Huerta, this time approaching him with a modified proposal of Huerta's participation without Huerta leadership but with the cooperation of his associates. This last offer of Huerta and diplomats with Mexican interests, who have kept a close watch on Huerta's movements, in view of this information officials are puzzled to know how much of an active part Huerta intended to take in a movement on Mexican soils, although they have no doubt at least that he intended to take charge of the case in Mexico.

In that connection it is known that for weeks a party of prominent Mexicans styled by the Carranza and Villa adherents as "Huertistas" and "Cientificos" have been maintaining an active Junta in El Paso in constant communication with General Huerta and other members of the exiled colony in New York, and maintained among themselves the form of a provisional government with a president and members of a cabinet. Advices to Mexicans here have indicated that the junta was planning some definite move.

Secretary Lansing disclosed today that the initiative had been taken by the department of justice. He declined to say if any consideration of American policy was involved but it is known authoritatively that the United States intends that no more revolutionary elements shall be introduced into the Mexican situation and that, as far as possible, there will be vigorous prosecution of all other Mexicans who may be planning to aid in military expeditions from the United States.

Assistant United States Attorney General Warren made it clear that the activities of his department were being directed not alone against Huerta and Orozco, but against all other offenders allied with all Mexican factions who are now under indictment.

Officials of the department of justice expressed surprise that Huerta and Orozco had been released on bail and they ordered that a close watch be kept on them.

Game Was Fast One With a Great Many Pretty Fielding Features—Splendid Pitching.

A 2 to 0 victory for the Independents resulted Sunday afternoon at the lake in the game between the Independents and the Tigers. The game was a fast one, with numerous pretty fielding features. Jones, who pitched for the Tigers, struck out fourteen opposing batsmen. Lowry pitched a splendid game for the Independents, keeping the Tigers hit so well scattered that no scores were registered. The batteries were Jones and Crow for the Tigers, Lowry and Stanfield for the Independents.

FAMOUS ST. CLAIR COUNTY BOND CASE

OFFICIALS OF COUNTY FILE ANSWER IN PROCEEDINGS TO COLLECT ON BONDS

INSTANCE OF HIGH FINANCE

People Voted Bonds as Bonus For Railroad Which Was Never Built—Resist Collection

Kansas City, June 28.—Officials of St. Clair county, Mo., today filed an answer in the famous St. Clair County bond suit. The county issued the bonds in 1874 to promoters who promised to build the Tebo and Neosho railway. In their answer to the suit they declare the present holders of judgment against the county are not the legal holders, that the county is without funds to pay the bonds and that the method of attempting to collect is illegal.

The transactions which led to the court proceedings here today in the St. Clair County Bond Case were part of the "railroad building craze" of the early seventies when financing methods excelling the "wildcat" mining schemes of Colorado and Nevada were common throughout the country. The bonds were issued by St. Clair County in 1871 to promoters who promised to build the Tebo and Neosho railway. The road never reached the county and its citizens today are still striving to escape payment for the indications of their grandfathers.

The promoters sold the bonds to innocent purchasers. The county never reimbursed the purchasers and to do so now, with accumulated interest some of it as high as ten per cent, would be equivalent to selling out the entire county.

The bond holders sued and were given judgments but these too, have never been paid. So every nine years, for nearly forty years, holders of the bonds have sought renewals of these judgments. The latest proceedings of this kind was taken in April, 1914, when petitions were filed in the name of William J. Douglas, claiming $465,065 and Joseph B. J. Barton and Chas. Townsend, claiming $197,570. They represented only part of the claimants.

June 10th of this year a writ of mandamus was made out in secret so that county judges and officials could not avoid service, and was made returnable before the United States district court on June 25th. Service was completed June 15th.

The writ, made out in the name of the United States "to the use" of J. B. Townsend, Jr., and others of Philadelphia, was directed against J. T. Busch, T. J. Holland and W. A. Shryver, newly elected county judges; William J. Mathews, collector; John M. Harper, treasurer, and George Virgil Higgins, county clerk, all of Osceola, Mo. They were directed to show cause why they should not order a tax levy of $100,000 to be applied on the judgment obtained by the Townsend party of bond holders. The judgment of this group totals $338,162.43 and most of it bears 10 per cent interest.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO CASH BAD CHECK FAILS

Negro Who Presented Doubtful Check, "Blew" When Teller Took Check Back to Investigate

Another effort to cash a forged check was detected this morning, but the negro who sought to profit therefrom by escaping and attempted forgeries within the past few weeks and band officials are keeping close watch upon all items.

The negro presented the check which bore the name of M. L. Thompson, in the amount of $12.35 at the teller's window at the City National today. When the teller took the check back to compare the signature the negro "blew" and has not since been seen.

EASTERN AND NORTHERN OKLAHOMA STORM SWEPT

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 28.—Storms which swept northern and eastern Oklahoma Sunday left a trail of uprooted trees, roofless buildings and growing crops beaten prostrate to the ground. The wind in many places attained a violence almost equaling a tornado.

The wind attained a maximum velocity of fifty-five miles an hour at Ponca City, small buildings being blown over and many trees uprooted. Eastern Oklahoma streams are out of their banks, due to the heavy rains of the last few days. The Arkansas river at Tulsa stood at 12.5 feet, while at Muskogee it was reported within four feet of the high mark for this season and rising three inches per hour.

Muskogee street car traffic was tied up for an hour Sunday morning by street floods following a rainfall of 1.3 inches in an hour. Reports received here state that the water overflowed storm sewers worked beneath the asphalt and lifted the pavement three feet in the air.

The European Conflagration Lighted Year Ago Today

One year ago today the Austrian Archduke, Francis Ferdinand and his wife were shot and killed in the little Bosnian town of Sarajevo by Gavrilo Princip. It was the act of a poor student, which ultimately resulted in ten nations going to war. These nations are, on one hand, Great Britain, France, Russia, Serbia, Japan, Belgium, Italy and Montenegro, and, on the other, Germany, Austria and Turkey. The war to date, according to conservative estimates compiled from the best available reports, has caused a loss to the various belligerents of more than six million men, dead, wounded and prisoners, and more than five hundred ships. Of these about 120 were war vessels.

The outstanding results on land are: The greater portion of Belgium is under the control of Germany. Germany has been driven from the Far East. A part of the Dardanelles is in the possession of the allied troops. Portions of France and Russia are in the possession of German troops. A strip of Alsace has been taken from Germany.

On the continent of Africa parts of territorial possessions have been lost by both sides. Various island possessions of Germany have been taken by the forces of the allies. Italian troops are in possession of a strip of Austrian territory. The outstanding results at sea are: German and Austrian merchant shipping has been driven from all the open seas. German and Austrian war vessels having a total displacement of approximately 257,000 tons have been destroyed.

War vessels of the allied nations having a total displacement of approximately 192,000 tons have been sent to the bottom. The greater portions of the German and allied fleets in the North Sea remain intact. Except for communication through Iceland and the Scandinavian nations, Germany is cut off from the rest of the world.

Efforts on the part of the Germans to place the British Isles in a similar predicament has resulted in the sinking by submarines of hundreds of vessels flying the flags of the allied and neutral nations. The sinking in this manner of the Cunard liner Lusitania with the loss of more than one hundred American lives precipitated a request upon the part of the United States that such practices insofar as they might menace Americans, be stopped.

Prinzlip's crime was committed on June 28. An investigation disclosed what was alleged to be proof that the assassin was the tool of a group of Serbians. On July 23, after considerable correspondence and negotiations an ultimatum was sent to Serbia by the Austro-Hungarian government which Serbia declined to meet. A week later a general mobilization of Russian troops along the German border was ordered and the following day Germany declared war on Russia. The news of that event was followed in a few hours by the announcement that a general mobilization had been ordered by the French cabinet.

On August 2 German troops entered Luxembourg and Germany demanded free passage through Belgium to the French frontier. This was refused and two days later Great Britain declared war on Germany, an ultimatum demanding that the neutrality of Belgium be maintained. The ultimatum rejected, German forces attacked Liege. On the same day President Wilson issued a proclamation of neutrality.

The following day saw the declaration by Great Britain of a state of war with Germany, and two days later the Germans entered Liege as the French invaded southern Alsace. These events were quickly followed by an affirmation on the part of Italy for her neutrality, by an Austrian invasion of Serbia and by the sending by Japan of an ultimatum to Germany. This had to do with the German possession of Kiaow Chow of which Tsingtau was the port.

By August 17 the first British expeditionary force had completed its landing in France and on that day there began also a fierce battle on the Jadar between the Austrian and Serbian troops. Victory was with the Serbian arms after five days of fighting and the Austrians were routed. In the meanwhile the battle of Lorraine had opened and the German troops had entered Brussels, the Belgian capital.

A few days later, August 23, the victorious Germans entered Namur and began an attack on Mons, defended principally by the first British expeditionary force. The next day the British troops began a retreat from their position and from then on until September 12 the German troops drove through France under the leadership of General Von Kluck. Zeppelin's bombardment of Antwerp. The French were forced to evacuate Mulhausen; the Germans took and swept over Longwy and reached Senlis, thirty miles from Paris, where the columns swung to the eastward. The French government fled to Bordeaux.

In the meanwhile German and Austrian troops had met the Russians. A victory at Krashik was announced by the Austrian government on August 23 while on August 29 the German army under General Von Hindenburg defeated another Russian force in a battle at Tanneburg, which lasted three days. Louvain was burned by the Germans on the same day that the Japanese blockade of Tsingtau was broken. The blockade was maintained more than two months before Tsingtau surrendered.

Two days after the French government moved to Bordeaux the battle of the Marne was begun, a few hours before Russian troops succeeded in occupying Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. Before the French and British troops, the Germans in France were forced to retreat as far as the Aisne. Events of the next few days included the bombardment of Rheims by the Germans and the sinking by a German submarine of the German cruiser, Aohokir, Creamy and Hogue. On the same day the Russian troops attacked Przemysl and took Jaroslavl. British troops from India were landed from transports at Marseilles on September 26 and were immediately dispatched to the northward. Before their arrival at their destination the Germans had inaugurated a siege of Antwerp, which resulted in the Belgian government moving from that city to Ostend. Two days later the bombardment of Antwerp began. The Belgian government remained at Ostend for about a week and then removed to Havre, France. Forty-eight hours later the Germans captured Ostend. Meanwhile the allied troops occupied Ypres, and a desperate battle had begun on the Ypres river. German assaults upon the allied lines between Ypres and Nieuport continued for a week and then weakened.

The Germans operating in Russia meantime had been defeated after a ten days battle before Warsaw. In Africa revolt and mutiny broke out. These disorders were headed by the Boer leader, General de Wet. General Beyer, Colonel Maritz and others. Colonel Maritz was driven from Cape Colony, General Beyer was killed at Vaal river and General de Wet was captured after he had been in the field for more than a month. Native troops in the African provinces belonging to Germany, Great Britain and France were lined up on the borders of the respective provinces. Fighting was general.

During the latter part of October the British dreadnought Audacious was sunk off the Irish coast, the Russians successfully attacked Loda and Radom, driving off the invading Germans. Turkey joined the war at that juncture by naval operations in the Black Sea. Odessa was attacked.

November opened with a German naval victory over a British squadron off the coast of Chile and the Turkish warships bombarded Sebastopol. Two days later German warships ventured from their anchorage behind the naval base at Heligoland and bombarded the British coast in the vicinity of Scarborough. On November 5, Great Britain and France declared war on Turkey and the forts guarding the entrance to the Dardanelles were bombarded by a fleet of allied English and French warships. On the north the Russians recaptured Jaroslavl after several days of ferocious fighting. German cruisers which had been stationed in foreign waters at the opening of the war had by that time given a good account of themselves. The Emden operating in the Indian Ocean and adjacent waters overtook and sunk more than a score of merchant ships belonging to the nations allied against Germany before she was finally run down and destroyed off Cocos Island. In the Atlantic the Karlsruhe and a number of auxiliary cruisers, performed similar duties along the coast of the bottom more than a score of ships.

On land the armies of the belligerents settled down to hold their positions for the winter months. Activities from November 11 when the German forces captured Dixmude, resulted in Russian defeats at Viatovsk, Lopno and Kutno. The fighting in Flanders progressed at intervals, vigorous actions taking place and thousands of men on both sides being killed or wounded. In the winter, the armies contended themselves principally with holding the positions they had gained. In the Serbian-Austrian campaign there was considerable activity during the early winter months. The Austrians occupied Belgrade, the Serbian capital on December 2 and retained it until December 15, when after the Serbians had captured large forces of Austrians, they were driven back to their own territory.

In East Prussia during the winter there was severe fighting, resulting in the loss of many men, dead, wounded and captured. The German army operating in East Prussia held and dispatched a Russian army of vast proportions, finally driving it back well into its own territory. On the sea, a British squadron signally defeated the German squadron which was victorious off Chile. This engagement was the only one in the Falkland Islands. German cruisers bombarded Hartlepool and Scarborough, and the German armored cruiser Bluecher was sunk in the North Sea by a section of the British fleet operating there. German submarines became especially active during the winter months, sinking many warships and merchantmen.

March opened with an announcement of British reprisal measures against the Germans for the submarine warfare and the development of battle in France. British troops in France again became active, making a notable advance at Neuve Chapelle. By the end of March the Russian troops had penetrated the Dukla Pass and entered Hungary. April saw the beginning of violent assaults upon the German lines by the French east of Verdun and the Meuse. The French stormed the German position at Le Eparges and about the same time it was officially announced that the total of British casualties to that date were 132,347. By the middle of April the Russians had penetrated Hungary to a point twenty miles over the border and the Germans had begun a successful assault upon the allied lines near Ypres. For several weeks the armies struggled back and forth losing thousands of men, gaining ground and being forced to evacuate their positions the next. In Gallia during the first three days of May the German-Austrian forces broke through the Russian lines and forced a retreat. Fifty thousand prisoners, it was recited, were taken.

Around Ypres the British forces lost ground and were finally forced to evacuate an especially strong position they had gained at an elevation designated as Hill No. 60. Almost simultaneously the Russians began a retreat from the Carpathian passes and while this was in progress the Chin army, after Lusitania, bound from New York to Liverpool was sent to the bottom by a torpedo fired by a German submarine. Approximately 1,200 lives were lost in the disaster.

The loss of Americans in the Lusitania and other vessels which were victims of Germany's submarine warfare resulted in President Wilson protesting against a continuance of such tactics. On May 23, Italy declared war on Austria-Hungary after having denounced early in the month the Triple Alliance Treaty. The declaration of war was quickly followed by raids upon the Italian coast cities by Austrian aeroplanes. The Italian army struck across the border into Austria with Triest and Trent as objectives.

During all this time the allied warships in the Dardanelles had been keeping up practically a continuous bombardment of the short forts. Numerous warships of different types were sunk. Transports were hurried to the scene and troops were landed. On June 3 the Austro-German forces re-occupied Przemysl.

At The Theaters

The Lamar Airdome.
Charlan and Rolfe, songs and dances and Kennedy with a novelty act make up the new vaudeville bill opening tonight at the Lamar Airdome with a three part imp special featuring the picture bill, King Baggot is seen in the role of "The Corican Brothers," playing a dual role. This unusual picture was made possible by the use of double exposures and photography and gives Mr. Baggot opportunity for some wonderful dramatic work.

The Majestic.
Tuesday's feature will be "Anna Karenina," a Fox feature with Betty Nansen, the celebrated royal actress in the title part. Count Leo Tolstol wrote many famous books, but of them all his favorite was Anna-Karenina. He frequently remarked that he had put the work of ten years into this wonderful novel, which enjoys a world wide fame. As the book is pictured by William Fox, president of the Fox Film Corporation, it forms an even more powerful arrangement, a modern society than did the original work. With Betty Nansen, the famed tragedienne, in the title role, and the standard of excellence of the William Fox productions even surpassed, it actually outdoes anything yet seen upon the screen.

Tolstol will be ever remembered as the implacable enemy of hypocrisy and sham. He sternly set his face against the opinion of the world, and wrote with a pen dipped in acid, conditions as he knew they existed. Criticism raged about him, but it never ruffled him for a moment. He still held inflexibly to his creed that a great writer must pen the truth unflinchingly regardless of the consequences. Of Anna Karenina, Tolstol said:

"I have done the best I could do in this book. It is my life blood and my masterpiece. I can never equal it. As I penned it, flames leaped before me. I saw Anna and her cruel crucifixion upon the cross of man-made law, and I wrote at white-heat. Whatever Anna Karenina may be she is at least true. She is real. A type of woman who must suffer verily for her nature; for which, after all, she was not to blame. And this is Anna—a woman who suffered grievously through many vicissitudes; but in the end yielded to inevitable fate. It may be sombre but it is at least life—real, raw life and not pretty sentimentalities sweetened with perfume and sugar water."

The Empress.
Every one will want to see "Pretty Mrs. Smith" with the vivacious Fritz Scheff as the pretty lady tonight at the Empress. It will please every woman on account of Fritz Scheff with her unsurpassed wardrobe—towns that have never before been seen in America—the handsome men, the ball room scenes and the gay life she leads. The men may like the picture too, if they can overlook the sorrows that befall their own as shown by the multiplicity of "Mrs. Smith's" husbands. Everybody should rejoice in the story, because it is clean, pure, and wholesome. Fritz Scheff makes you almost think it is necessary. At any rate, you will leave the play house after having seen "Pretty Mrs. Smith," with the feeling that he has been entertained, and that is what the producers aimed for. All of the principals in this play are stars of the legitimate stage, and all favorites in their parts.

THIRTEEN PER CENT OF MEN WOUNDED IN HEAD
Paris.—It is estimated, according to the latest figures, that 13 per cent of the men hit since the inauguration of the war of trenches are wounded in the head. Doctors Deutu and Deuraigne recommend the use of metallic skull caps as a protection. Of 56 soldiers wounded in the head created by Doctor Deuraigne, 42 had no such protection, and 23 of these suffered from fractures and 19 from scalp wounds. The remaining 13 were provided with metallic skull caps and five of these were only slightly wounded.

World-famous Tenor, says

"Tuxedo completely satisfies my tobacco taste. It is mild and has a delicious flavor. Most important of all, from a singer's standpoint, Tuxedo does not irritate my throat."

"Tuxedo Does Not Irritate My Throat"

The non-irritating quality of Tuxedo which Caruso praises is due to the original "Tuxedo Process" by which the tobacco is treated. This process refines the tobacco and absolutely removes all bite and sting.

Many thousands of men think they cannot smoke a pipe, for fear the tobacco might burn or parch their mouths. Tuxedo has done away with any such possibility. You can smoke Tuxedo all day long, without any irritation whatsoever—indeed, with increasing pleasure.

The Wichita State Bank. The Guaranty Fund Bank.

SOLICITS YOUR BUSINESS AND OFFERS SAFETY FIRST.

SAFETY FIRST is our principle and the GUARANTY FUND LAW your protection—it means that your money deposited in this bank is absolutely safeguarded.

It is one of the best things we have to offer together with COURTEOUS TREATMENT and every accommodation consistent with conservative banking.

Below is a newspaper clipping showing how this GUARANTY FUND LAW WORKS and how you are protected.

We will soon be the only bank in town operating under this Guaranty Fund Law.

Newspaper comment: The Wichita Daily Times says: A few days ago there was a bank failure at Amarillo. It was a state guarantee bank, however, and the depositors will not lose one cent. The state guaranty fund has in it $961,000 and the closing of the Amarillo bank will take from it the sum of $59,909 with which to pay the protected depositors. The more we see of this law the better we like it. Every depositor who trusts his hard-earned money to a bank should be protected to the limit, and that is what has been done in every instance where a bank operating under this law has failed or closed its doors.

And the El Paso Times says: According to a statement made by Receiver Arnold, depositors of the defunct Arizona Bank and Trust Company will receive 75 per cent when its affairs are finally wound up. The first dividend of 50 per cent will be paid on May 4, it is said.

The patrons of the Texas bank will get their money promptly. The patrons of the Arizona bank will only get 75 per cent and will have to wait for that.

JOHNSON IS GREATEST SMALL SCORE PITCHER

1 to 0 Victories or Defeats Do Not Figure Often Even in Great Pitchers' Records.

(From the New York Times.) The 1 to 0 contest in baseball can never be displaced in its hold on the average fan as the acme of quality in the game. It is in the closest margin where a ball game can be decided. And, as a general rule, the victors and vanquished are satisfied with the outcome—and especially the victors. The 1 to 0 struggle is a game in which the offensive efforts of the winning side are shunted down to the next thing to nothing, and the offensive spasms of the losers are the next thing past nothing.

The teams of this decade are playing more of these nerve racking contests than the teams of years ago. Records show that fewer "right war" games were played by the teams of other days; for instance, such pitchers as Radbourne, Keefe, Clarkson, Galvin, Morris, Rusie, Kilroy and the noted Ramsey have never worked in more than a dozen of these games. Young, in his 22 seasons in the pitching game only accumulated 22 of these model games. "Cy" was eminently successful in getting the best of his clever opponents in these classic arguments, for he lost only six of them. Young made a record in these games 1903 by pitching three of these games in succession and winning all three with the score ending 1 to 0.

Walter Johnson is the champion pitcher of small score games in the baseball world, with Christy Mathewson a close second. Walter pitched 28 of these games wherein the score stood 1 to 0. Matty has the same number to his credit, but "Big Six" has pitched in twice as many games as Johnson. Matty has been very successful in getting on the big end of these extremely small score games. The opposing pitcher, and his fellows to a man, work their heads off in order to win a tight battle from the famous Walter. With not always a winning team behind him, Johnson managed to pitch 22 of these games in 1903. Edward Walsh pitched 14 of these left-handed battles in 1903, and 10 of these. Each has 22 of these tight-score games in his records and each has won 14 of that number. Dr. White pitched six of his 1 to 0 battles against St. Louis and returned with a winner in all six contests. Ed Walsh, Mordecai Brown, Jack Powell, Rube Waddell and Bill Donovan have participated in 30 games in which the decision was reached by a 1 to 0 score. "Wild Bill" Donovan has been very successful in winning small-score contests. Bill pitched six of them against the Athletics, with a prospective pennant hanging on each one and came out victorious in four. M. Brown broke even his 1 to 0 games, winning and losing 10. Pittsburgh was the team to give the famous three-fingered Brown the hardest arguments, taking four out of seven. Edward Walsh was very successful in winning out in a red-hot contest when under pressure. He was returned a victor 13 times out of the 20 games in which the winners needed to have one lone tally in order to win. Comparatively few pitchers in the major league have participated in a dozen of these 1 to 0 contests; and it will be noticed that it falls to the lot of only the high and mighty to get in 15 or over of them. The following list tells how the big guns of the pitching class fared in these close games:

Pitcher	Games Won	Lost	Pct.
Young	22	16	6
Nichols	15	10	6
Donovan	20	13	7
Walsh	20	13	7
Plank	22	14	8
White	22	14	8
Mathewson	28	17	11
Joss	17	9	8
Johnson	28	14	14
Brown	20	10	10
Waddell	20	10	10

STRATEGY AT MARNE

THE WAY FRENCH GENERAL PREPARED FOR BATTLE IS NOW FULLY DISCLOSED.

HIS ORDERS ARE PUBLISHED

Disposition of Allied Forces and the Movements That Brought Defeat to the Germans.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Paris.—The way in which General Joffre prepared for the battle of the Marne is now fully disclosed for the first time, although more than ten months have elapsed since the French and English succeeded in that battle in checking the German advance toward Paris. The victory of the Marne remains the outstanding success of the Allies' campaign thus far, and the official orders with which General Joffre directed the movement, as they now appear in the Bulletin Des Armees will form an important part in the history of the conflict. Hitherto that history has lacked detail as to the parts which each army was to play.

In addition to the formal orders, a dramatic feature of the preparations is the text of General Joffre's appeal to the devotion of the troops, which, the Bulletin Des Armees says, was taken wrongly for a tactical order. It urged courage upon the soldiers to stand still and be shot rather than retire an inch in face of the German advance.

The documents now published begin with General Joffre's order of August 25, as follows:

"1. The projected offensive manoeuvre not having been possible of execution, the subsequent operations will be regulated so as to reconstitute on our left, by the junction of the 4th and 5th armies of the English forces and new forces taken from the region of the east, a mass capable of resuming the offensive, while the other armies will resist the efforts of the enemy during the time that may be necessary.

"The retiring movement is regulated so as to realize the following disposition of troops preparatory to the offensive.

"In the region of Amiens a new group of forces, constituted by elements transported by railroad (7th corps, 4th division of reserve and perhaps another corps of the active army) grouped from the 27th of August to the 2nd of September. This group will be ready to take the offensive in the general direction of Saint-Pol-Armas or Assas-Bapaume.

"The same general instructions of the 22nd of August fix the zone of march of the armies and prospectives.

"From the 25th of August to the 4th of September the orders for retirement were executed, but the rapidity of the advance of the left wing of the enemy, the time necessary for the British army to be completed and reinforced, certain difficulties in our transports arriving from the evacuation from Paris necessitated the disembarcation of a part of the troops sent from the east to General Maunoury on the 25th of August. The offensive re-ordered by that fact.

"On the 4th of September the reconnaissance of our cavalry, those of the 17th and 18th of the British, the Maunoury army and of the military formations that the right of the German army (Von Kluck's army) directed its advance toward the west (Meaux and Compiègne) and in the direction of Paris.

"By this time the original army of the French left (the 5th army) was ready to face the German columns in front, and it was prolonged toward the northwest by the British army and Maunoury's army directed to the northeast of Paris.

"The disposition sought by the instructions of August 25th for the resumption of the offensive was then realized. The line escaped the projected envelopment and it was their own army, that now assumed an enveloping disposition. The wings found strong support in their contact with Paris on the left and Verdun on the right. At once the general-in-chief decided to begin the attack, and on the evening of September 4th gave the following general order:

"1. The question now is to profit from the situation of the first German army to concentrate on it the efforts of the armies of the allies on the extreme left. Two dispositions will be taken in the day of September 5th, with a view to beginning the attack on the 5th.

"2. The dispositions to be realized for the 5th of September in the evening shall be:

"a. All the forces available of the 6th army to the northeast of Meaux to cross the Ourcq between Liz-sur-Ourcq and May-en-Multien in the general direction of Thateau-Tierry. The elements available of the 1st corps of cavalry which are in proximity shall be placed under the orders of General Maunoury for that operation.

"b. The English army shall be up on the front. Changin-Colomiers facing the east, ready to attack in the general direction of Montmirail.

"c. The 5th army, closing in slightly upon its left will establish themselves upon the general front of Courtenay-Senonne ready to attack in the general direction of south to north, the second corps of cavalry maintaining the junction between the 5th army and the English army.

"d. The 9th army will cover the forces upon the plateau to the north of Besancon.

"3. The offensive shall be taken by these different armies the 6th of September in the morning. (Signed) J. JOFFRE.

"The following morning orders were given to the 4th and 3rd armies operating at the right of the preceding:

"4th Army: Tomorrow morning, September 6th, the armies on our left will attack in front and in flank the first and second German armies. The 4th army, stopping its movement toward the south, will take the enemy combining its movement with that of the 3rd army, which moving to the north of Revinay takes the offensive in the direction of the west.

"3rd Army: The 3rd army will move toward the west to attack the left flank of the enemy's forces who are marching to the west of the Argonne. It will combine its action to that of the 4th army which has orders to face the enemy.

"It was on the morning of September 6th, finally, that the general-in-chief addressed to the armies the proclamation that has been taken wrongly for a tactical order, but which was in reality nothing but an appeal to the devotion of the troops:

"At the moment when a battle upon which the safety of the country depends is to be engaged it is necessary for all to recollect that the moment to look behind has passed. All efforts should be employed to attack and push back the enemy. Troops that can no longer advance should at any cost hold the ground gained and let themselves be killed or the spot rather than retire. Under the present circumstances no weakness can be tolerated."

RAISED FOR THEIR DOWN

Elder Ducks Rigidly Protected by Law Because of the Value of Their Product.

The down of the elder duck is more highly esteemed and brings a higher price than any other down. In Iceland and the Vestmannasjar islands, where the duck nests, it is rigidly protected by law and by public sentiment.

These ducks make their nests of down from their own breasts. They pluck it out with their bills, and form it into a circular mound which has the property of retaining heat to an extraordinary degree. If this down be removed, the duck supplies a second, and even a third lot from the same source.

The elder farms in Iceland are frequently situated on little islands off the coast, covered with low hummocks. To protect the brooding ducks from the elements the Icelanders construct small shelters of rough stones. On these farms, it is said, the ducks become so tame that anyone with whom they are familiar may handle them without frightening them.

Separate buildings on the Icelandic elder farms are devoted to the cleaning of the product. Down clings tenaciously to anything on which it is thrown, a circumstance that is utilized in cleaning it. There are a number of frames of oblong shape, and along these numbers of strings are stretched loosely. The down is cast on these near one end, and a piece of wood is drawn rapidly backward and forward over the strings; but all impurities, such as grass and seaweed, fall to the ground.

The price of down at the farm is about two dollars and fifty cents a pound.—Sunday Magazine.

STILL TURN OUT GUNFLINTS

Thousands Are Annually Exported From England, Mostly to the Tropical Countries.

Down in a Wall Street office stocks were being discussed, the conversation turned on improved war apparatus and then someone said:

"You know I know a man who is still making and selling the old-fashioned gunflint."

There was some comment on this, and then the first speaker said that his friend had a large factory in England for the making of gunflints and exported thousands of them every year.

"They are used in various tropical countries where the natives still use the old flintlock muskets," said the speaker. "Then there are several countries where the British government sees to it that no modern arms reach the hands of the natives. The government permits the sale of the old flintlock for the killing of game, but would at once confiscate any more modern style of firearm. My friend goes ahead year after year making the old gunflints and finding a good sale for them, but I don't think that the present war has caused any increase in the output of his factory."—Wall Street Journal.

Pope an Unimposing Genius.

Those who imagine there is some necessary connection between literary genius and inches will find to explain away the case of Alexander Pope. Pope was exactly four feet six inches high. He was humpedbacked and deformed. According to one of Lord Oxford's servants, he was "so weak as to stand in perpetual need of female attendance; extremely sensible of cold, so that he wore a kind of fur doublet under a skirt of very coarse, warm linen, with fine sleeves. When he rose he was invested in a bodice made of stiff canvas, being hardly able to stand erect till it was laced, and he then put on a flannel waistcoat. One side was contracted. His legs were so slender that he enlarged their bulk with three pairs of stockings, which were drawn on and off by the maid; for he was not able to dress or undress himself."

Huerta was arrested yesterday at El Paso, together with Pascual Orozco and other Mexican revolutionists, and has been sent to Fort Bliss until such time as the United States authorities can investigate his case. The general impression was that Huerta, during his stay here, had devoted his time to framing up a new revolutionary party to enter Mexico and thereby further complicate matters. If that was his intention in going to El Paso, the American government means to put its foot down, hard and strong, on such tactics. What the American government desires most just at the present time is to stop the fighting in Mexico. In order to accomplish that purpose it is almost sure that intervention will have to be resorted to. Huerta was smart enough to see this, and was making an effort to get out while he could, or thought he could.

Several years ago wheat farmers in this part of the country, who did not have grain bins, and who did not want to sell their wheat at threshing time because of low market price or for other reasons, could haul it to an elevator, for storage and sell it when they thought the price right. This permitted them to proceed with their plowing and preparing for another crop, and altogether was a great convenience. Of course, there were storage charges to pay, but they were nominal, and a wheat farmer preferred to have his wheat stored in an elevator rather than build granaries and store it himself. But conditions are changed now. What brought them about The Times does not know. But it does occur to The Times that the wheat farmers of this county and section of the state should take steps to restore the conditions that existed a few years ago. One way of doing that would be the organization of elevator companies for the purpose of storing and handling wheat.

WARNING SIGNALS.

The Times has received from one Gridley Adams, Chicago, a letter which it produces below, together with a number of newspaper clippings giving accounts of automobile accidents, and in nearly every instance they are accidents that have cost the lives of men, women and children, to say nothing of the property damage, are due almost wholly to the carelessness of those who drive automobiles. Now, The Times does not know who Mr. Gridley Adams is, having never heard of him before. He may be the owner or the press agent or the advertising manager of some automobile supply house, and is seeking to get publicity in this way for the particular device his house manufactures, without costing him anything. But he that is it may. What he has to say is good, and he says it in a much better way than we can put it, and it applies to conditions right there in Wichita Falls.

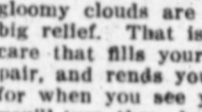

The letter follows:
 Chicago, June 25, 1915.
 The Wichita Times,
 Wichita Falls, Tex.
 Gentlemen:—I wonder if you realize how much truth there is in the attached editorial which I have just torn from my copy of an automobile paper.
 Are they not right in thinking that the authorities in every city ought to start and regulate the use of warning signals, and insist upon the use of a signal that can be heard above the din of city traffic?
 What protection is insurance to me, an automobile owner, after someone has run into me, or I have run over somebody? I have the loudest possible warning signal on my car solely for my own protection. In rainy weather with the curtains up it is absolutely impossible to hear some of the electric buzzers which are on some cars masquerading as horns. And as for rubber bulb horns, they are an absolute farce, and even pedestrians in crossing streets now pay no attention to them, because of the laughing stock made of the honk honk on every vaudeville stage.
 Recently I was party to an automobile accident which cost me a considerable amount, and yet for which I was in no way responsible.
 When riding, other automobiles will pass you and come within a foot or less of your car, all without even sounding their warning. I might see a rat in the road and turn even the very slightest in order to prevent my wheel going into the rut. Not knowing that the other automobilist was to pass me, I would, of course, bring about an accident. He might claim that I should have put my left hand indicating that I was about to turn, when the real trouble was that he should have sounded his warning signal, and had a warning signal loud enough for me to hear it. It is the same with half the car owners when they turn a corner, or are about to pass motorcycles or boys on bicycles. They slide up alongside without giving the boys any idea they are so near, when a good strong blast on their warning signal, while they are yet fifty or seventy-five feet away, would certainly keep the boys posted as to impending danger.

 Half the people who are injured might have saved themselves if automobilists had "only thought to have sounded a loud enough warning in time. I am heartily in sympathy with the society for the prevention of use-less noises, but I certainly protest against any laws that will hinder a man's protecting himself. It seems to me that there should be some provision made by insurance companies for extra protection when your car is damaged by another car that is not equipped with a good loud signal.
 I am enclosing herewith a few clippings which I have cut from the newspapers. I think this is a matter you might take up with the proper legal authorities, and see if something cannot be done for the protection of insured men and women against the thoughtless drivers who slide up behind you, no matter whether you are walking or driving along the road, going just as close as they can, and all without giving you any signal warning of their proximity.
 What they should have is a signal that can be heard above all road noises, and then be compelled to use it. I should like to see that my efforts in this direction have proven of some avail.

Very truly yours,
GRIDLEY ADAMS.

AFTER STORM.

The wind has blown the clouds away, and now we have a perfect day. The sun is sawing wood; we jog along through smiling skies, the sounds of grief no more arise, and every gent seems a most delightful graft when nature once again has laughed, dismissing clouds and gloom; we find new charms in Mother Earth, our faces beam with seemingly mirth, our whiskers are in bloom. That is the use of dreary days, on which we're all inclined to raise a yell of hot-ter grief; they fill us up with hope and dread, so when the feels good. Life gloomy clouds are sped, we'll feel a great relief. That is the use of every care that fills your heart with despair, and sends your system in twain; for when you see your sorrow wane, you'll turn three hundred somersaults, and say life's safe and sane. If there was not a sign of wot in all this verdant vale below, life soon would lose its zest, and you would straightway rear a grief to cuddle to your breast. So sunshine follows after storms, and snow succeeds the weather warm, and we have fog and sleet; all sorts of days are sliding past, and when we size things up at last, we see life can't be beat.

WALT MASON

Several years ago wheat farmers in this part of the country, who did not have grain bins, and who did not want to sell their wheat at threshing time because of low market price or for other reasons, could haul it to an elevator, for storage and sell it when they thought the price right. This permitted them to proceed with their plowing and preparing for another crop, and altogether was a great convenience. Of course, there were storage charges to pay, but they were nominal, and a wheat farmer preferred to have his wheat stored in an elevator rather than build granaries and store it himself. But conditions are changed now. What brought them about The Times does not know. But it does occur to The Times that the wheat farmers of this county and section of the state should take steps to restore the conditions that existed a few years ago. One way of doing that would be the organization of elevator companies for the purpose of storing and handling wheat.

TWO DOLLAR MOVIES.

The expected has happened. Not satisfied with their unprecedented success, managers of the movies now aspire to corner the market, establish a high-priced film trust, and control a circuit of moving picture theatres.
 It was inevitable that the great success of the wonderful picture "The Birth of a Nation," should lead to such an extension, and now a combination has been formed to control a circuit of theatres to charge $2 admission. There is said to be $4,000,000 capital in the plan and it involves a combination of the best producers of big films in the moving picture business.
 The $2 ticket has been the undoing of the legitimate theatre. It has been the direct cause for the drama's unpopularity in recent years. It is not only a price for excessive charges for any form of amusement. It is a day when we look for cheap prices, however well off we may be.
 The moving picture industry owes its success absolutely to the fact that the price of admission has been within reach of all. So long as the photo playhouses charge five, ten or twenty-five cents admission, all good enough. When the price is raised to $1.50 and $2 the doom of the big promoter is written. If a man has to pay a dollar for a photoplay, he will prefer the legitimate theatre. The high-priced picture play will not succeed, and there is no reason why it should.
 Five years ago simple three and five reel picture plays represented the most expensive plays on the market. Today a film costing $25,000 or more is regarded as an economical expenditure. There are being exhibited today for ten cents reels that have cost the producers $50,000 and more. The public does not and will not stop to consider what it costs to produce the picture play, the salary of the players, the complicated mechanical devices used in making the picture. The public thinks only of the cost of admission. The moving picture audience is rarely, if ever, a critical one, and so long as the field is filled with picture playhouses the public will patronize the ones which charge reasonable prices.
 It was predicted some time ago that the film business would become so big that it would fall down because of overexpansion.
 Rivalry is another cause for the present crisis. Each producer expects to beat his rival just a little and his ambition is leading to a loss of money.
 The movie man had better stick to cheap prices and get by.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

After two weeks' delay, work was resumed today on paving operations on Scott avenue and this work will now be pushed to completion. Ground was broken this morning for the paving on Ninth street east of Scott.

Col. Ed M. House of Texas

The return of Col. Ed M. House from a trip to Europe during which he saw Asquith, Lloyd George, Kitchener, Poincare, Delcasse, Von Jagow, Bethman Hollweg and others has revived interest in this remarkable man. One of the most interesting articles about him was that written by Charles Willis Thompson in the New York Times. It says in part: "It seems incredible that any man should be in politics and not want anything. From the time when it became known that he was the president's next friend everybody has been trying to find out what he wanted. He doesn't want anything—not in that sense. It is strange, but it seems to be true, that here is a man of great influence and much strength of character who wants simply to benefit the country."
 He does not seem to be a reformer or a philanthropist; yet, as he once said in one of his rare lapses into speech, it is "not men out measures" that enlist him. Most surely he is not a reactionary. He appears to be a new sort of collector; an amateur of legislation and policies. He has not been active in business for some years; some men collect pictures, or found libraries; here is a millionaire who finds another interest in his leisurely years. In imagining such a man one would think of him as an energetic busybody, putting his fingers into every political pie; but Colonel House is a discriminating connoisseur. If pictures were his hobby he would not spend all his time rushing around art galleries.
 The power that he wields, and has wielded over many men of different characters, is not suggested in his appearance, which is that of a man who no way resembles a collector. Men turn to look after him in the street, nor be at all impressed by a casual meeting. He is unobtrusive, slight, not tall, suave in manner, easy in conversation; there is nothing about him to suggest mystery. He does not at all convey the idea of the silent man in politics, though he is that. He could not impress a crowd, and never tries. His influence is exerted over individuals.

The most striking thing about his methods is that he does not need any place as the center of things to bring about his wonders—in fact, such a place would handicap him. He has made three governors of Texas and managed the second campaign of another, but he has never had any lieutenants or any machine, and has been utterly unknown to most of his who wrought out his designs. The reason is that his power is of the avall direct against a crowd or an organization; it is personal power solely, and is directed against individuals.
 The same power which President Wilson felt in him had been felt in many campaigns by Texas politicians; but most Texas politicians never came in contact with him and never felt it. He seeks not the subordinates, but the few men, or more generally the one man who is at the very center, and brings that man to his way of thinking. So, when he proposed to interest himself in Mr. Wilson's canvass, the man he went to was not the manager of the campaign or any assistant manager, but Mr. Wilson himself. He followed the same course in all his Texas campaigns.
 The four governors whom he is credited with placing in the executive mansion at Austin, were Hogg (for a second term), Culberson, Sayers and Lanham, each of the three being elected to office by the voters of the United States senate by House's means, according to some Texan tradition. The names were always the same, and they have been indicated. It was in 1892, when Colonel House was 34 years old, that he first manifested himself as a political connoisseur, a collector of governors, afterwards of presidents. That, however is hardly fair description; I prefer to use the other one, a connoisseur of policies, of "measures, not men."
 In all these campaigns he never appeared as manager or held any official position, except in one of Lanham's when he was chairman of the executive committee, and because his methods are what they are this office was a handicap and not a help; or rather, it was utterly useless to him. He looked back upon this temporary aberration from his usual method with wonder. "For the life of me I can not see why I took that place," he said.
 When he was running Sayers' campaign that candidate was in peril of defeat, for Hogg, whose influence was great, was hostile. Colonel House exercised that power of his, that power to convince; Hogg wrote a letter commending both Sayers and the other candidate, and Hogg's following understood that the court vote for Sayers was the result of House's power. It is exerted only on individuals—the individual at the center of things.
 When Col. House left Governor Wilson's presence that day in 1911 he was convinced that Mr. Wilson was the man he was looking for, the man to carry out the progressive policies he wanted to see become law. He went back to Texas; he did not go out on the stump and fire the Texas heart for Wilson, nor did he look at the headquarters of the machine and win over the heels. He saw the right people and convinced them, and Texas became the great rock of the Wilson strength.
 There was a hard battle; Harmon's followers believed that all the primaries to carry the Texas vote were actually held. They had enlisted Senator Bailey and thought they couldn't lose; but Bailey was not the center of things, as they discovered on the day of the election. Colonel House had wasted no time convincing Bailey. Texas went to Baltimore and through the stormy days there it was the Iron Brigade of the Wilson forces. However the battle was over, no one who was there will ever forget the cheer which the Wilson forces gave when they saw that whenever Texas was called and Tom Ball's tall figure rose to give his stentorian shout of defiance, "Texas casts her 40 votes for Woodrow Wilson!"
 Later election Col. House journeyed to Miami, Fla., where William J. Bryan was waiting to find out whether his sense of duty would compel him to maintain a political attitude toward the incoming administration.
 Jumping at conclusions is a favorite athletic exercise. When Colonel House went to Europe and talked about the war to the men at the center of things, we numerously jumped at the conclusion that he was "talking peace" and when he denies it, we ceaselessly waive aside his denial. So when he went to Miami, we jumped at the conclusion that he went there to offer the state department to Bryan on a platter. Mr. Wilson denied it, but we waved his denial aside.
 Well, maybe he did go to Miami as a messenger boy, but I do not regard Col. House as a messenger boy, and his character does not fit in with the conception of him as a messenger boy. What he said to Mr. Bryan would certainly be very interesting, and some day we may know it. If we do, I think it will be found that the part played was vastly different from that of a messenger boy. Colonel House has a convincing way with him.
 He and Mr. Bryan, by the way, had been friends ever since 1898, when Mr. Bryan visited Austin, and he has remained a plain citizen. There is no obtainable evidence that he was not for free silver in any of Mr. Bryan's campaigns.
 If this attempt to suggest the secret of Colonel House's power and his influence on the history of our time is at all successful, it may be seen that very great importance may some day be attached to his visit to Europe, even though he did not go there to "talk peace." It is possible, by the way, from what little he says, that this straight thinking man has little use for the well meant attempts to break in on the fighting nations with pretty talk and spray them with rose water. And, even now, there is a hint of it in a dispatch from Berlin which the New York Times published on June 7.

 In that dispatch, which appeared to have been written after a conversation with Colonel House, the Times correspondent said: "The opinion the colonel encountered in Berlin was that Mr. Wilson was a doctrinaire and inflexible, incapable of forceful political action and committed irrevocably to the blunder of refusing to recognize Huerta." And he added: "Without any deliberate attempt to do so, and wholly in the course of casual conversation, the colonel had a chance to give exalted personages and cabinet ministers a view of the president which they did not have before."
 Colonel House has a very convincing way with him.
 This Berlin dispatch summarized some of the things Colonel House told these exalted personages; that "the world's statesmen were gravely deceived if they imagined that Mr. Wilson would be a man of pity in an emergency where vital American interests were at stake"; that "it was a grotesque misconception to think that President Wilson's devotion to peace meant that he would yield in almost any condition rather than fight."
 Is it President Wilson's course in Mexico that is responsible for Germany's inattentive attitude toward the first Lusitania note? Colonel House had a great deal to say about Mexico to the exalted personages, according to this Berlin dispatch.

LAWLER FAMILY FOUND A BURGLAR IN HOUSE
 Jumps From Porch and is Pursued but Escapes—Suspect Arrested But Later Released.
 A burglar who entered the home of L. H. Lawler at 1418 Eleventh street late Sunday was detected by members of the family but made his escape. He secured $1.50 in money and a pocket knife belonging to Mr. Lawler's boy. This morning an arrest was made, but the feet of the suspect did not fit the tracks left by the burglar and he was released.
 The Lawler family had just returned from an automobile ride when the little girl, entering the front door, heard someone upstairs. She called her parents who presently heard noise. The man went through the bath room and out the window to the roof over the back porch, from which he jumped. Mr. Lawler was on the porch at the time, having armed himself with a monkey wrench; he threw this at the intruder but missed, then started in pursuit. The man ran into a grove of trees near the Lutheran church, Mr. Lawler following closely; hearing a fence and seeing he was about to be caught, the man put his hand on his hip pocket and called to Mr. Lawler to stop or he would get into trouble. This threatened Mr. Lawler halted. Others in the neighborhood came running up and the man slipped away.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS CON- DEMN SOCIALIST PEACE MOVE.

Berlin, via London, June 28.—So far as the newspapers discuss the socialist demand for peace under certain conditions they are unanimous in condemning it. The Vossische Zeitung pronounces it incomprehensible and devoid of all logic. It asserts that even the socialist press admits the impossibility of leaving wholly unchanged the territorial status of the countries involved.
 The Kreuz Zeitung thinks it would constitute a grave danger to a country fighting for its very existence to permit the manifesto to stand uncontradicted. The statement that the working classes are opposed to the annexation proposal is denied. The paper asserts that the suggestion that Germany make peace overtures, is to ask Germany to assume the role of a conquered country and that this demand tends to weaken Germany by creating the impression abroad that a considerable part of the people are tired of war, which is false.
 The Tages Zeitung regards the publication of the manifesto as regrettable and asserts that it should have been addressed to the governments of countries fighting Germany.
 An interesting fact in connection with the manifesto is that it was written May 7th, but was withheld until now because of Italy's entrance into the war.

HUERTA TAKEN INTO CUSTODY AT EL PASO.

El Paso, June 28.—General Victoriano Huerta arrived here Sunday. Federal officials, who were accompanied by a squad of American troops, met the Mexican at Newman, N. M., escorted General Huerta to the federal building where he conferred with representatives of the United States department of justice. While not under actual arrest it was declared General Huerta was under virtual detention pending instructions from Washington.
 General Huerta was accompanied by General Pascual Orozco and Major Fuentes, his son-in-law, who met him at Newman.
 Later Generals Huerta and Orozco and other members of the party were taken to Fort Bliss where they will be held temporarily by the military authorities an authorization of agents of the department of justice.
 The transfer to Fort Bliss was made on request of the mayor of El Paso, because of a crowd which gathered about the federal building when the news spread that General Huerta was there.

The Seven Seas.

"The seven seas" is a phrase which greets the eye on many a page. "Sailing the seven seas." "Mistress of the seven seas," etc., are phrases so often encountered that several scholars have sought to trace the origin of the reference. The quest seems not to have resulted satisfactorily, and the matter remains in dispute. One of the interesting features brought out by the controversy is that, as employed many centuries ago, "the seven seas" did not include either the Atlantic or Pacific ocean, but referred to the Arabian sea, the Persian sea, the Red sea, the Caspian sea, the Black sea, the Mediterranean sea and the Adriatic sea.

Alice Joyce Featured At The Gem Today

SCENE FROM "THE FACE OF THE MADONNA"

She was a daughter of the slums, a purse-snatcher and a gangster's widow. He was an artist, gifted, but fast wrecking his life through dissipation. Both were nearing the end of the road when the artist painted the wonderful portrait which—
But here is the story: An hour after Jane had married Tige she found herself a widow. A bullet sped by another gangster had lodged in Tige's heart. They brought his body home. Jane's grief was too deep for tears. All she could do was pray with all her heart and soul that her husband's slayer be delivered into her hands.
At almost the exact moment that Tige was being buried a domestic tragedy was taking place in the Wallace home. Unable to longer endure the demitition heaped upon her by her worthless husband, Mrs. Wallace left her home. Because she had left of her own accord, the artist declined to give her the custody of their infant. Instead Wallace placed the babe in an institution.
Shortly afterward the artist was commissioned to paint a Madonna for the new cathedral. For days he vainly tried to find a suitable model. Then, one day Jane, the gangster's widow, sought to snatch a purse under the very nose of a policeman. Pursued by the officer, the woman sought refuge in the grounds of the institution in which Wallace had placed his baby.
It happened that the infant's nurse had placed her charge down for a moment. Jane saw the child, and, picking it up, pretended to be its nurse. The little warm body nestling to her breast filled the gangster's widow with a new, strange sensation. The hard, hunted look in her eyes gave way to a maternal glow.
This was the moment that fate directed Wallace's footsteps toward the institution. The moment the artist's eyes rested upon Jane he knew that he had found the model he needed. At first Jane declined to pose for the painting, but when Wallace, who had ascertained her ruse, threatened to surrender her to the police Jane changed her mind.
The moment Wallace placed his brush upon the canvas he found his hand inspired. As the painting progressed it seemed to exert a peculiar influence over the artist and his model. It made them realize and become ashamed of the lives they had been leading. The outcome is told in "The Face of the Madonna," Kalem's three act modern drama featuring Alice Joyce and Guy Coombs. Miss Joyce portrays the character of Jane, while Mr. Coombs enacts the role of Wallace.

FRIAR DISPLEASED AT INDIFFERENCE

SAYS HE WILL MAKE DEMONS IN HELL SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE.

VOICES HIS GRIEVANCE

Attacks Sunday School Teacher and Church Members Friendly to Liquor Traffic.

In his sermon of Sunday night Dr. Friar, sounded a more determined note than ever before concerning the purpose of the meeting, saying, "I am going to put on a fight in this town that will take the demons of hell sit up and take notice." The speaker told of a certain clique in this town, a few men, recognized as leaders, who support the liquor traffic and who curse the meeting but who will not come out in the open in their stance against it. "Come out in the open," he said, "and I will put in the gospel knife to the hilt. If I throw a stone at you it will be the stone you gave me when I asked for bread."

His subject was "The Uplifter Christ," his text being taken from "And I, being lifted up, will draw all men to me," Jno. 12:32. The indifference of the church members toward the meeting was the grievance of the evangelist stated in unmistakable words, and he said, "Christ in your lives is the only way by which He can be lifted up. This old town will be rocked from center to circumference when Christ comes into the lives of His people. The hour has struck for the church of Christ to bring this old-world to the feet of Jesus. There is nothing so attractive as the Christ life, so why do you persist in worldly ways."

The speaker was unsparing in his denunciation of the indifferent church members, the ones whom he said are friendly to the whiskey interests and who for the sake of increased revenues rented out their houses for immoral purposes. He told of a conversation held by one of the workers in the meeting with the wife of a former saloon keeper. The woman said that the reason why more people of the town do not line up with the Friar meeting is because he is fighting against the saloons and further said that one man, recognized as a leading church member and a teacher in one of the Sunday schools, a man of mighty influence and in a large measure responsible as an anti-prohibitionist for the lack of co-operation on the part of many was a "fair sample of what the meeting was up against." Mr. Friar further said that a laboring man at one of the shops told him that three or four men of his town by their wealth and influence had saddled the saloons on the shoulders of the working people.

"The hiss of the serpent of hell—in this action, you won't come out in the open and take a stand against this meeting," he shouted, "but you curse it during the week. Come out into the open and I will put the knife of the gospel in to the hilt. If I throw a stone at you it will be the stone you gave me when I asked for bread."

Then addressing himself to those whom he called the Christian people of the community, he continued: "Call an indignation meeting and pour out a sentiment against them, pray them out of the way. Have an all night prayer meeting and break the backbone of the devil in this town."

The method of the enemies of the church and of Christ came in for discussion, Dr. Friar said, "They work not with the iron hand of war, but with the velvet glove, the soft hand of diplomacy."

"Why don't some of you Christians line up in this meeting. When a man gets converted to God I believe that he will make a better showing for Him and for his church than do the servants of the devil. If the Christian people of the town will stand by this meeting we will rout the enemy. I had rather have fifteen people who will side for the right and Christ than a multitude of indifferent ones."

Concluding he set the meeting of this evening as a test, "Don't come out Monday night unless you are a friend of this meeting."

Preceding the sermon a substantial collection was taken up, Rev. F. F. Walters and Rev. R. C. Miller attending to this financial business. Announcements were made of the meeting to be held tonight, with "Mrs. Lot in Modern Society" as the subject. Tuesday evening Dr. Friar will speak to the laboring men especially and delegations from the local factories are expected to be present. Thursday night he will preach to men only.

The immense tabernacle was filled at Sunday night's service and hundreds of people stood about the tent or were seated in automobiles along the street.

Paper Money.
The Chinese anticipated what we might think to be an essentially modern convenience—bank notes and "paper money"—so long ago as 2677 B. C.—4,600 years ago! One such bank note, issued nearly 3,300 years ago, is still preserved in the museum at Petrograd. The Chinese called their notes "flying money," or "convenient money." They bore the name of the bank, date of issue, a number, an official signature, its value in words and figures, and, as an additional precaution against forgery and as a help to the ignorant, a pictorial representation in coins of an amount equal to the face value of the note.—Answers.

Cigar With Wooden Peg.
A cigar manufacturer in Wisconsin equips each cigar with a small wooden shoe peg inserted in the tip and projecting far enough to be easily grasped by the teeth. Instead of biting off the end of the tip the smoker simply takes hold of this peg with his teeth and pulls it out, and in this way opens a good draft through the cigar without loosening or injuring the wrapper.—Popular Mechanics.

In behalf of the fire department Chief McClure wishes to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a check for $100 to the department from the Southwestern Telephone Co.—This is the first check that has been received by the department in several months and in addition to being a generous application it is most timely as it came at a time when the treasury of the department was depleted.

EVERYDAY THE WAR CONTINUES

Two industries are absolutely benefitted. There has never been a time in the history of the country when farming and stock raising was so profitable as it is today and it will be for years to come. High price food stuff makes high price farm lands. High priced cattle makes high price ranch lands. High priced living is driving the people from the cities and towns. There is no safer and profitable business, and lands are bound to enhance in value rapidly. Wichita is the banner county of this state for wheat or stock raising.

BUY A FARM I have some bargains. Can take your property in as part payment. Now is the time to buy. Don't delay—see me today.

but it became generally known among military men that he planned to re-establish his own reputation by showing that the blame for the failure must be attributed to the Archduke Frederick.

"In one case, for example, the General declared to a group of military men, 'I will not be made the scapegoat to an Archduke who ought never to have been entrusted with the supreme command of the Imperial forces, but who ought rather to have been locked up in his palace in Vienna to prevent his meddling in the conduct of the war.'

"This remark, together with others of similar nature reached the ears of the Archduke, and the latter's influence was exercised to bring about the downfall of the general. The climax came when Auffenberg asserted that, having failed to secure a hearing in official circles, he would prove his own innocence and the Archduke's blame-worthiness by writing a book on the war and having it published in Switzerland.

To prevent his flight into Switzerland and the publication of the threatened book, Emperor Francis Joseph himself stepped in and ordered him arrested and placed in solitary confinement until the end of the war. He was committed to prison by Imperial order without the semblance of a trial or investigation, and was not allowed to communicate with the outside world. Questions addressed to the government in the Hungarian House of Deputies were answered with the statement that the government could not at this time deal with a purely military matter in Parliament.

STORY OF FALL OF GEN. AUFFENBERG

FORMER AUSTRIAN COMMANDER VICTIM OF AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE'S ENMITY.

BLAMED WITH FAILURE

When Hearing Denied Him He Threatened to Write Exposure and was Sent to Prison.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Venice.—The story of the fall of General Baron Auffenberg from his position as commander of one of the most powerful of the Austro-Hungarian armies to an inconspicuous cell in the unmanicured prison is one of the most closely guarded secrets in Vienna. Austrian newspapers are not allowed to even mention his name, and inquiries even in the Hungarian House of Deputies have been advised to let the matter drop.

From information which has just reached Venice, it appears that the General was summarily arrested as he was about to leave for Switzerland, and has not since been allowed to communicate even with his family or lawyers. His object in going to Switzerland was the publication of a volume of memoirs, in which he hoped to establish his innocence of mismanaging the Austrian campaign against Serbia by putting the blame upon the shoulders of the Austrian Commander-in-chief, the Archduke Frederick.

Friends Give Story. The following explanation of General Auffenberg's rise and fall comes from personal friends of the general. It is in general agreement with the facts of the case as have been previously established.

"General Auffenberg, as a former Minister of War and one of the great soldiers of the empire, was placed in command of the Austrian army which took the invasion of Serbia at the beginning of the war. This invasion ended disastrously, the Austrians were defeated with tremendous losses and retired back across the frontier in disorder. There was hasty investigation in Vienna, and the investigators reported that General Auffenberg was mainly responsible, owing to his gross mistakes of strategy in planning and carrying out his offense. They recommended that he be suspended from his command.

"But it seemed unwise to the military powers to thus draw public attention to the extent of the disaster in Serbia as it was decided that Auffenberg's retirement should be attributed to ill health brought on by the strenuous exertions of the campaign, and that the title of Baron should be conferred on him to support the impression that after all nothing really serious had happened to the Austrian forces in Serbia. The new Baron was ordered home, and placed on the retired list among officers at the disposition of the Emperor for future military service.

Hearing Denied Him. "The general came home reluctant and mystified, and began some quiet investigations of the situation. As soon as he found out that he was blamed for the failure of the Serbian campaign he demanded that his side of the story should be heard. He got no encouragement in official circles,

No Housework There.

Stephen Grabam says that the Russian peasant woman has little or no housework to do, as there are no beds to make, all the family sleeping on hay in the barns or on coats on the floors. There are no stockings to darn, as they all go barelegged, and no dishes to wash, as they all eat out of one dish and take the meat in their fingers. All the cooking is done in one pot, meat and vegetables being cooked together. Mothers do not bother about their children and practically all the housework they have to do is to sweep out the room once in a while.

Crowded Out.

"I understand you are planning a new house."
"I started to."
"Why did you drop it?"
"I didn't drop it. My wife and the contractor got together and I haven't been able to put in a word since."

THE JULY DANCE RECORDS

One of the best dance lists of the year—and that is high praise, considering the splendid quality of the Victor's 1915 issues. The band records are really magnificent with their broad, full tone, great volume and snappy rhythms, while Mr. McKee's organization has given an excellent account of itself, as usual. Two medley one-steps containing no less than seven popular hits—a medley fox trot, featuring those prime favorites, "Bird of Paradise" and "Good Bye, Virginia"—a potpourri of the hits of "Nobody Home," the latest musical comedy success—and two new McKee records—a waltz which is much in vogue, and one of the liveliest fox trots we have heard with some unusual effects—make up the list.

Victor records for dancing are always the best to be found anywhere, and are used and recommended by the foremost authorities as well as an overwhelming majority of dancers throughout the world.
