TWO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN MEXICAN SITUATION

GENERAL CARRANZA ASKS RECOGNITION

SUBMITS BRIEF TO STATE DEPARTMENT VIRTUALLY ASKING FOR CONFERENCE.

CHANGE IN HIS ATTITUDE

Believed Villa Will be Quick to Seize the Opportunity and Situation is More Hopeful.

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 7.—Two new developments of first importance today brought the Mexican situation into a position regarded by American officials as more encouraging than for many months. General Carranza, in a brief filed in his behalf with Secretary Lansing, practically asked recognition, receded from his refusal to join his adversaries in a peace conference and virtually proposed such a meeting. General Villa was at once notified by the Washington agents and an early response is expected.

BRITISH PRIZE CREW ARE HELD AS PRISONERS

After Ship Captured by British It is Taken by Germans and Landed at German Port

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 7.—The story of how a British prize crew of an officer and four men was taken into a German port by one petty officer on the American bark Pass of Baltimore, was told today in a cable report to the state department from Ambassador Gerard at Berlin. Meager details have been told previous in news dispatches.

JURY FINDS MRS. LATHAM GUILTY MURDER CHARGE

Woman Who Killed John Stewart at Snyder Given Five Years in the State Penitentiary.

By Associated Press. Anson, Tex., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Minnie Latham, alleged slayer of John Stewart, today was convicted after a jury had been out since Friday afternoon. She was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Mrs. Latham shot Stewart at Snyder and claimed self-defense.

BREWERY WAGON DRIVERS ARRESTED IN KANSAS

Kansas Supreme Court Holds That the Delivery of Liquor Illegally is Penal Offense.

By Associated Press. Topeka, Kan., Aug. 7.—A driver of a brewery wagon and officials of breweries and wholesale liquor houses may be arrested in Kansas for making illegal deliveries of liquor in the state, was the ruling of the Kansas supreme court today holding that the delivery of liquor to joints and bootleggers was "aiding and abetting" a nuisance. Those found guilty, the opinion added, could be sent to jail for repeated offenses to the penitentiary.

ITALIANS TAKE HEIGHT DOMINATING GORIZIA

Capture Position After Desperate Battle and Fall of Gorizia Believed Imminent

By Associated Press. Paris, Aug. 7.—After a desperate battle, the Italians have stormed and captured the summit of Monte San Micheto which dominates Gorizia, according to a Facti Patrian Journal dispatch from Turin. The fall of Gorizia, 22 miles northwest of Trieste on the Isonzo is now believed imminent, the dispatch says.

HOUSTON COTTON MAN IS THREATENED

A SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

Threat Also Made to Blow up Vessels About to Sail for France With Horses.

NO LEADER IS DOMINANT

Man For Provisional President Must Be One of Original Revolutionists

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 7.—On behalf of Gen. Carranza a brief on the Mexican situation was filed today with Secretary Lansing practically asking for political recognition. There was also issued officially a statement of the positions of the United States as it will be placed before the Central and South American conferees on Mexico. This position was given as follows: That neither Carranza nor any other military faction in Mexico is in control of the country, nor is considered as triumphant in the republic; that the real purpose of the revolution was accomplished a year ago, when Huerta was overthrown and that the strife which has continued since has been entered into the problem now, because it is considered that the overthrow of Huerta disposed of that element; that the greater portion of Mexico is not at peace, as Gen. Carranza claims, because fighting continues in many sections from Tehuantepec to the Rio Grande, and from Vera Cruz to Mazatlan.

BEER CENSOR SENDS BACK THIRTY BARRELS BEER

Three Cases Beer and Gallon Whiskey Enough For One Man in a Month He Says

By Associated Press. Mason City, Iowa, Aug. 7.—R. D. Mason, the "beer censor" appointed by the city council today, reported that on his first day of work he had sent back to breweries thirty barrels of beer out of sixty received in Mason City. "One barrel or three cases of beer and one gallon of whiskey is as much as one man should have in a month without a physician's prescription," said Mason.

VILLA OFFICERS TO MEET TODAY IN JUAREZ

By Associated Press. El Paso, Texas, August 7.—George C. Crothers, special agent on the staff of the state department, stated today that pending the arrival of General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, on Monday, to confer with General Villa at Juarez, all action of the northern chief against foreign merchants and mining corporations, would be deferred.

I THINK YOU WILL LIKE MY MEAT SERVICE

Now please note that I don't claim it to be absolutely perfect. We do make mistakes—a few of them—but they are always corrected as soon as we find them.

But I think you will like my service because I'll guarantee you FRESH, tender meats, always, and I'll get it to you just when you want it.

Then if there is any little special ways of cutting or handling your meats that you are particular about, I'll learn those and give you the individual service you like. Try me.

CADILLAC ANNOUNCES ITS NEW EIGHT-CYLINDER CAR

No Radical Changes in Essentials, Following Marked Success of First Year's Production of 13,000—Body Hood and Radiator Are Altered in Design—Reasons for New Price Given

Following a year of marked success with the Type 51, its first eight cylinder car, the Cadillac Motor Car Company announces the second of the eight cylinder series, to be known as Type 52, without radical change in mechanical design or construction.

Consequently, the second Cadillac Eight is, in all practical intents, a continuation of the first; and the Cadillac Company has again achieved the unusual in the motor car industry. Almost invariably, the automobile manufacturer discovers during the first year of production with a type of car new to him, that there is room for many improvements in the second year's production. The opposite is true of the Cadillac and its eight cylinder car. The company began the manufacture, a year ago, of a type of car entirely new to the American industry. There were no precedents to serve as guide posts; no previous experiences to which to refer. The company was pioneering in a virgin field.

It has frequently been said that it is doubtful if any other concern in the industry could have scored such a marked success on a new car which introduced such a radical departure from prevailing practice. The eight cylinder car met with instant and continued success. When the manufacturing year closed a few weeks ago, 13,000 of the new type had been put into use. No shortcoming had been developed throughout the year. No reason for marked change in mechanical construction was made manifest by continuous everyday use of the car. It was all that had been expected of it, and more.

Changes that have been made, affect principally the accessibility of the engine, and the appearance of the car. The engine remains, of course, the same eight-cylinder V-type, that the Cadillac made familiar last year. The electric motor-generator, ignition apparatus and carburetor are so mounted with relation to the cylinder blocks as to afford easy accessibility to the valves by removal only of the plates which enclose them.

The body is a new design, with high side lines, a new coil, new hood and a higher radiator with rounded corners, all of which alterations add to the distinction of the car's appearance. The mountings of the Cadillac coat of arms, in a new enamel design, on the front of the radiator, is a distinguishing mark on the car.

Splashers are fitted to the front of the radiator and along the inside of the front end of the frame.

New design head and side lamps are used, with a tonneau lamp on the right side, in the back of the front seat, to illuminate the step when the tonneau door is opened. An inspection lamp and a Waltham clock are added to the equipment.

Inside the body the driver finds the clutch and brake pedals set two inches farther forward, with the dash set forward a corresponding distance, and the signal horn button in the center of the steering wheel. The auxiliary seats in the tonneau have been improved in design.

The power tire pump is now attached to the transmission case. The ratio of the second speed gear in the transmission is reduced somewhat.

The new Cadillac is the fruit of experience, acquired in the building of 13,000 V-type Eights, and of their service in the hands of 13,000 users, says the Cadillac company in its statement regarding the new car.

"We believe that in this new car the V-type engine is developed to a point of excellence when even the most conscientious effort to equal, cannot reach in many a day.

"A year ago the Cadillac company was blazing new paths of progress. It pioneered new principles and new processes, pushing them to a point of certainty before its first V-type engine was marketed.

"Nothing can take the place of that hard and painstaking period of invention, selection, rejection, adjustment and adaptation.

"The Cadillac Eight furnishes the one certain source of V-type information based on extended experience.

"And the second Cadillac Eight, with that experience to build upon, naturally and logically marks an advance over the initial achievement.

"We believe that the new Eight-Cylinder Cadillac embodies the most practical combination of all 'round efficiency. No really desirable qualities are sacrificed in order that some less essential—which provide a more spectacular 'talking point'—may be exploited.

"We believe that it possesses a maximum of the worth-while characteristics which the most exacting motorist wants in his car—power, speed, smoothness, flexibility, ease of operation, dependability and endurance.

Concerning the increase in price of $105 on the open body styles, in the face of the general tendency toward lower prices on the part of most makers, General Manager W. C. Leland said:

"We simply could not continue to produce a car of Cadillac type and quality at the old price without doing so at a loss; and I don't think anyone expects us to do that.

"The general tendency of other makers toward reductions does not particularly interest us.

"We shall continue to use the best materials we can obtain, which are best adapted for their respective uses. Taken as a whole, these do not cost any less than they have been costing. On the contrary, we are paying more for certain materials now than in the past.

"Everybody in the manufacturing business knows that skilled mechanics cannot be had for less money today than a year ago. In fact, conditions are rather the reverse. And the best skilled workmen are the kind we use.

"The price of our Eight was set too low in the beginning. As it was necessary to announce the price at the time the car was announced, and as they had been no manufacturing experience with a car of this type, the cost of production could only be estimated.

"In view of certain conditions which arose after the car and the price had been announced, it proved that the estimate was too low.

"We might have lessened the cost to the detriment of the car, and the purchaser, or we might have increased the price. We did neither. And 13,000 Cadillac buyers have been the gainers.

"But, of course, we could not continue on that basis.

"In the face of the fact that hundreds of thousands of automobile owners today are seeing their cars depreciated in value from $100 to $1,000 or more—because their makers have felt obliged to reduce prices on new cars—the owner of an Eight-cylinder Cadillac on the other hand, sees his car actually enhanced in value.

"Even at the advanced price, there will be a smaller percentage of profit than a person pays on his everyday purchases. And the only reason that even a greater advance may not be necessary is that the car has gained such a strong hold on the public that, from all indications, the volume of business will be larger than ever before."

BREAD AND BUTTER

By HOPE AINSLEE.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mary Jane Martin received the sum of $5 each week for her work in the circulation department of a magazine office. Mary Jane's work was the addressing of envelopes and other simple, unskilled clerical tasks.

She lived at home with her mother and three smaller children on a tiny farm on the outskirts of the city. She brought her lunch with her and as she sat alone during the noon hour eating her homemade meal she was always trying to conceive of a plan by which she could add to her week's earnings.

One rainy day she offered to share her lunch with one of the girls who had a cold and did not want to go out of doors.

"Oh, Mary Jane Martin, who makes that bread?" the girl asked when she had tasted one of the bread and butter sandwiches.

"Sometimes my mother makes it; sometimes I do," replied Mary Jane, modestly. She had never known any other bread herself.

"Why couldn't you bring me a lunch every day, with this heavenly bread and butter, and I'll give you my fifteen cents instead of to the restaurant cashier?" asked the girl. "I never tasted anything so good."

Mary Jane began to think. "Why not?" she asked. "Perhaps I could, and it would help to pay my car fare, wouldn't it?"

Thereafter Mary Jane brought (two lunches, and it was not many weeks until she was bringing a large wicker suitcase full of lunch boxes from her home every day. One by one the girls had been given tastes of the homemade food, and one by one they had joined Mary Jane's lunch club.

The $1.50 each day that she collected from the girls made enough profit to pay her car fare, and Mary Jane was happy.

"Mary Jane, couldn't you bring one extra box for me every day?" asked a little girl who had been a member of the lunch club for a couple of weeks. "I want it for my brother, who works on the next street. I've told him of mine, and once in a while I've carried home a little. He's crazy about that homemade bread, and says he'll call for it every day if you'll make one for him."

"Of course," Mary Jane replied. "I'd love to."

John Henderson called at the office where his sister and Mary Jane worked every day at five minutes past twelve. And every day when he took the box from his sister he tried to get a glimpse of Mary Jane. He had met her on the first day. His sister told him the girl had been thrust herself into his presence as had so many of the girls whom his sister knew.

One day he asked his sister for Mary Jane. "Why—she's always here, of course, John. Shall I call her?" John nodded. "I like that girl, but she's shy. I won't bite her. Tell her that for me, Cora," he said, as he left.

"All right. I'll see that she gives you your box tomorrow. So long. You should worry, John," his sister laughed as he pushed the elevator button.

Mary Jane, at the earnest insistence of Cora Henderson, handed John his lunch on the following day.

"What's the reason you can't come out with me and have an ice cream soda?" he asked.

"Oh—there isn't time after you eat your lunch," Mary Jane protested. "Plenty of time. I can't talk to you with all of those girls rubbering and kidding us," he said.

"Wouldn't it be better if you and Cora would come out to our house on Saturday afternoon and meet mother?"

John made a move as if to faint. "Oh, say, that would be the best, but it wasn't up to me to suggest that, was it?"

"Maybe not," Mary Jane admitted.

The following Saturday John and Cora Henderson took the trip to the Martin farm and spent such an afternoon and evening as they had seldom spent before in all their tenement-housed existence.

Cora, having no mother of her own, fell in love with Mary Jane's mother and immediately made herself at home with the children and the work. She helped to churn, she helped to set the sponge that night for the Sunday morning rolls, she enjoyed every minute of the visit.

And John could see nothing but Mary Jane. He had learned to believe that she was the only girl for him, and was looking forward to the time when he could support her and ask her to marry him.

"Are you sure it wasn't my bread and butter that you loved first?" asked Mary Jane when he told her of his hopes some weeks later.

"It may have been, but the bread and butter ain't one-two-three now with you, Mary Jane," he said, earnestly.

Fleddish Delight.

Blagg—"From what you've told me of your mother-in-law I should think you hear enough from her in person, without having cared to induce her to talk into your phonograph." Moggs—"Oh, you can't imagine the pleasure it gives me to start the machine going and then shut it off right in the middle of a sentence!"

FISHING SMACK BECALMED FOR MORE THAN 30 DAYS.

By Associated Press. Galveston, Tex., Aug. 7.—It was a lucky thing for the crew of the fishing smack, Jansetta of Pensacola, that when they were becalmed their path lay in the path of the Greek steamship, Pelinchos. When Captain Dracoulis sighted their distress signal on May 5, 265 miles south of Pensacola the members of the crew had been without food for three days and were gnawing at their leather shoes to sustain life. It was reported on their arrival today. They had been becalmed for 30 days, the members of the crew said. Provisions for the crew for 30 days were taken from the store room of the Greek ship and transferred to the schooner.

PRESIDENT CREATES BIG LAKE RESERVE

By Associated Press. Washington, Aug. 7.—President Wilson has signed an executive order creating the Big Lake reserve in northeastern Arkansas, for the protection of wildwater fowl. The new reserve about five miles long and varying from 100 yards to a mile and a quarter in width forms probably the most important bird reservation in the country. Big Lake is famous for its vast number of waterfowl and plumed birds.

Houston, ex. Aug. 7.—A cablegram from Vera Cruz to the Carranza/consul at Galveston states constitutionalist leaders say they have implicit faith in President Wilson's public statement that Mexico had the inherent right to settle her trouble, a statement made when Villa was in the ascendancy, they do not understand the president's present attitude, now that Carranza is on the eve of victory. They believe the president will take no action unfavorable to their cause. The cablegram quotes Dr. Henry Allen Cupper as saying he has information that a practical solution of difficulties is at hand.

CLAIMS WAS FAR FROM SCENE DAY OF ROBBERY

By Associated Press. Chandler, Oklahoma, August 7.—Charles Johnson will probably take the stand Monday morning and testify that he was not within 100 miles of Stroud, Oklahoma, during the morning of March 23, when the Henry Starr band of robbers raided the two banks. Johnson is being tried in the district court here on a charge of having been a member of the band of robbers. When court adjourned Saturday night, Henry Wells, a defense witness had just testified that during the morning of March 23 he was in the vicinity of Bartlesville and that he saw Johnson there. Wells was arrested immediately before he went on the stand. Wells' arrest was upon an order from the sheriff of Kay county who said that a warrant was being issued for Wells as an alleged participant in the robbery. Wells was formerly arrested on the same charge and was released when no one succeeded in identifying him as being among the robbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, living ten miles south of Bartlesville swore Saturday that on the day of the Stroud robbery, Johnson on a horse rode behind the man they journeyed through Bartlesville. Bartlesville is more than 100 miles from Stroud. Frank Simmons testified that he and Johnson were on the Johnson farm on the day of the Stroud robbery and he and Johnson signed a contract at the time. Simmons produced the contract in court, and another witness took the stand and identified a signature on the contract as "witness to the instru-

COTTON PRICES WITHIN NARROW RANGE SATURDAY

By Associated Press. New Orleans, Aug. 7.—The price of cotton moved within a narrow range today. Bullish influences were at work but the market was held down by realizing of profits on the long side. The net change for the session was a gain of two to four points. In early trading prices rose four to five points in sympathy with the higher Liverpool market and on buying based on the dry weather. For a while the market held steady but offerings from the long side increased and under the pressure the leasing months went two to three points under yesterday's close.

The only real objection The Times has to urge against the paving of 7th and Scott is that it has utterly and completely destroyed our mud-hole, which at times grew to be a good sized lake. Now we shall have to be content, as there will be nothing left to kick about.

"Something in Wichita Falls Worse Than the Saloon" will be the subject upon which Dr. Andrews, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, will preach at the Airside at 8:15 this evening. If you don't already know what it is, go and find out. And even if you already know, it won't hurt to be told about it.

Perhaps General Villa did not know it at the time, but when he is reported to have said: "Let the United States government go to hell," he did not think it would be considered as a general invitation for this government to go to Mexico and the chances are the invitation will be accepted.

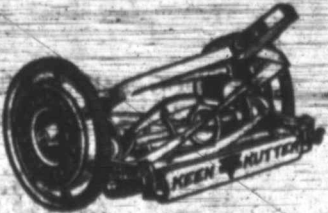

Arrangements have been made to pave Seventh street as far west as Travis avenue. The city government, it is understood is willing to go as far south on Scott and Lamar avenues as Sixteenth or Seventeenth street, provided those owning property on those two streets will sign up for their part of the paving, and if the Scott and Lamar avenue property owners are awake to their own interests they will get busy at once and not allow this opportunity to pass.

The cost of war for one year in Europe is estimated at $35,480,000,000. The common people, who were not consulted about whether there should be a war or not, will have by far the greater portion of that debt to pay. All of which convinces this newspaper that if it were left to the people as to whether a war should be declared or not, the chances are that there would be no more wars, or if there are to be wars, make it so that those who bring them on shall be the first to expose themselves to the bullets of the enemy on the fighting line.

Three bales of 1914 cotton sold here yesterday at 3 3/4 cents per pound. This naturally caused The Times to inquire if there was a great deal of the 1914 cotton crop in the hands of the farmers of Wichita and adjoining counties and one cotton farmer who produced one hundred and one bales on his farm last year told us that he sold late in the spring of this year fifty-one bales at 3 1/2 cents to 3 3/4 cents per pound, and still had fifty bales housed and protected from the weather on his farm. There are many other cotton farmers who have left over from last year from one to a dozen bales of cotton. They are all amply able to hold it until such time as they feel the market will justify them in selling.

According to W. P. G. Harding, conditions are much better for the handling of the 1915 cotton crop than was the case last year, and doubtless this will be good news to cotton producers throughout the entire South, who were made to sell their money crop for less than cost of production.

Many contend that it was because of the attitude manifested by Great Britain toward American shipping that caused the Southern cotton producers to suffer so greatly, financially, last year, and in this contention it would seem they do not differ from the view the American government has taken of it in its notes of protest to the British government. Yet Mr. Harding, a southern man himself, and who is at the head of the directorate of the regional banking system inaugurated by the present administration, and which has proven such a great success, advises the cotton producers to do nothing that will tend to embarrass President Wilson in his dealings with the foreign governments at war with each other.

If the reports from naval circles are to be credited the United States government, has or is about to contract for ten submarines of the type constructed by Simon Lake of Bridgeport, Conn. It is claimed that the U-S, constructed by Mr. Lake, is able to steam a radius of 5,500 miles, or will make a round trip across the ocean without refueling. Eight of these boats, it is said have already been constructed, and with ten more to be added, it ought to add very materially to our navy. The big battleships will soon be a thing of the past, and all nations seem to think alike on that matter. At the present time the great battleships of the various powers at war are doing little more than keeping themselves bottled up and hid from the little submarines. They are afraid to come out in the open sea and make a fight on the enemy for fear of attacks from the undersea boats, and well they may. The submarine has come to stay.

Some mothers and fathers sing, "Oh, where is my boy tonight?" without chancing to think that more than half the boys in the world are not in the old rubbers on the place does not find storage. Usually at home he was accustomed to a three legged table barbed against the wall, a cracked water pitcher, the oldest bed clothes and a patched rug or matting. And on top of this all the old things that nobody could find space for were stored in the boy's room. If the boy is of any account of course he has gone away from home.—Hamilton Record.

A strong plea, that, for parents to treat their boys in the right way. As a rule, parents do not give that attention to the rearing and training of their boys as they do their girls. As a rule, any old thing about the house is good enough for a boy and nothing is hardly good enough for the girl.

Yesterday's papers carried dispatches from Austin to the effect that a physician exclusively for the Confederate Woman's Home and a stenographer exclusively for the board of pardon advisers, had been named for the first time. Possibly this accounts in part for the increased tax rate. Certainly the tendency toward the multiplication of offices and commissions figures in the increase in our taxes.—Waco Morning News.

The more offices that are created the greater the tax rate will be. Just for this week three officials drawing salaries and a liberal expense account from the State, have visited Wichita Falls. The woods are full of 'em. And if you ask one of them what his duties are they are so many and so numerous you can't remember them. But they have just got to keep moving and make a pretense at doing something in order to draw their salaries. At the rate the State tax rate is growing now it will be no surprise if it is not double the amount in five years more.

The anti majority at Wichita Falls is no doubt the result of the efforts of such men as Kemp and Kell and the large business concerns of that city. They felt like it would damage business matters in that place just at this time. It is said that the anti vote was very largely swelled by late additions from the other side. Neither committee figured that there would be more than a hundred difference. It is a safe guess to say that county will remain wet until Texas is voted dry.—Halt County Herald.

You guessed right that time. The leading pros in this city (those who not only lead the fight, but who did their full part toward paying the campaign expenses) realized fully that they were up against when the election was ordered. Most of them knew from the start that it was a losing fight for the pros, but the outside precincts could not see it that way. They insisted this was the proper time to call the election and they had their way. The result speaks for itself.

Wichita Falls is now the best town of its size in the State, commercially speaking. Another railroad that will give us closer connection with Oklahoma City, Kansas City and St. Louis cannot hardly be overestimated. The Times is informed that a proposition is soon to be put up to the citizens of Wichita Falls that, if accepted, will secure this much needed railroad—a railroad that Wichita Falls has always needed, and a railroad that Wichita Falls must have if she expects to be a city of 25,000 or 30,000 class within the next five years. It's going to require a good sized bonus, something like $100,000 and right of way to the Clay county line, so The Times is informed, about one-third of which has already been guaranteed. The question is: Do we want the road bad enough to pay the bonus?

Many Lives Lost And Big Property Damage When Erie, Pennsylvania Is Inundated By Cloudburst

More than a score of persons are dead, and there has been a property loss of millions in the worst flood in the history of Erie, Pa. The storm broke about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 6 o'clock there was a cloudburst. An hour afterward dams to the south gave way, and the water tore down Mill creek, a stream on the eastern side of the city. The downpour came as a climax to three days of steady rain. Mill creek, which divides the city, already flooded over its banks, became a raging torrent when the clouds opened up and swept through the city with irresistible force. Police and firemen in rowboats rescued many persons who lived along the banks of the creek, as their homes were swept from their foundations by the swirling waters. Many persons are missing, and it is believed that fully twenty-five have been drowned. Among the victims are John J. McMahon, chief of the fire department, and Assistant Fire Chief Michael Durner, who met death while trying to rescue a family from the second story of their home.

The Wall Street Journal says there will be no cotton panic this year. If the farmers will sit tight and not rock the boat there will be none. Most of the southern farmers have raised their living at home this year and the cotton crop of the south comes nearer being a surplus crop than it has ever been before. Be careful in marketing the staple, and don't forget to figure on cutting down the acreage at least 10 per cent more next year and to keep on raising the living at home. You had just as well have the cotton buyers coming to you and paying you your price as coming to town and waiting for them to get ready to make a bid. You can get a fair and reasonable profit from raising cotton.—The Sherman Democrat.

Three Years More Of War Declares William E. Corey

William E. Corey, ex-president of the United States Steel corporation, who got back from France on the French liner Espagne, in from Bordeaux, believes that the war will last three to four more years. "The allies are going to fight to a finish," said Mr. Corey. "They are now preparing for a war of at least three years further duration. This is a war of chemistry and mechanics. The allies will make every effort to keep the friendship of America, and if the war continues as long as I expect it to the allied countries will have to float war loans in America. As for the United States, the only way of keeping ourselves out of trouble is to maintain an army and navy the equal of any in Europe. It would take us two years to get in shape to fight a European power on even terms."

seems to fill the bill. He weighs, when in condition 150 pounds. He is six feet one inch and a half in height, and is as agile as a catamount. He runs one hundred yards in 19 1/2 seconds, is sure-footed like a llama, and he knows the game. He played with Marshall Training School several years before coming to the University, and 1915 will be his fourth season on the varsity team. He keeps his head as well as his feet; he has personality, confidence and generalship. His dazzling forward passes were perhaps the most spectacular feature of the 1914 team's playing. They are unburied, sure, and carry like a healthy kick had furnished the steam. Athletic Director Belmont does not hesitate to class Littlefield among the five best all-round college athletes he has ever known. He has coached him for two years in basketball, and he has had occasion to observe his work on the track team as well. He has made the track, basketball and football teams for three consecutive years. He equaled the world's record for high hurdles last spring—Waxhachie, making it in 15 1/2 seconds, which record, however, has since been lowered. He has been selected on all-southern and all-southwestern teams for the last several years. He has a case full of cups and trophies won in college athletic contests.

Indeed, many wise football men think that Littlefield at quarter is the man to build a team around, and not a few predict that if this is done, the end of the 1915 season will see him lauded as the Dorais of the South.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET CLOSES AT AN ADVANCE

By Associated Press. New York, Aug. 7.—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by a report of continued dry weather and high temperature in Texas with the close firm at a net advance of seven to nine points. Relatively firm cables and the failure of the weather map to show any rain of consequence in the Southwest seemed to be largely responsible for the opening advance of six to ten points and buying was also encouraged by bullish crop reports from North Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

VARSITY QUARTERBACK ALLERDICE'S PROBLEM

Plenty of Material For All Other Positions—Littlefield Dependence For Quarterback

Special to The Times. University Station, Aug. 7.—Rather embarrassing is the richness of material available for many of the positions on the University of Texas football team, but when coach Allerdice assembles his squad on September 13th the woods will not be full of first class quarterback material. There is Ray Williams, stocky, strong, a hard worker, and with quarterback experience, and with quarter back experience, but whether he can do as well at quarter on the football team as he did on first base on the Varsity nine last season, time and many trials alone will prove. Trubie, in all likelihood, will be a candidate, and many consider him well in the running. And there are rumors of a dark horse candidate for the position who is going to surprise the natives; but since no one, even the wisest, will name him, speculation is largely futile.

Should all signs fail, however, there is one dependable person who will star at quarter as he has started at everything else he has tackled in the way of collegiate athletics, and that person is Clyde Littlefield. He would be sorely missed at half, but if the worst came to the worst, other half back material can be supplied. At quarter at this distance, Littlefield

WAS SOLDIER IN ARMY OF REPUBLIC OF TEXAS

Man Now Living With Son at Quanah Once Offered League of Land By Houston

From Quanah Tribune-Chief.

The T. C. man last week had an interesting talk with John Hickman Dolman, an old mathematician, who was born in Ohio in 1821, and had become a soldier in the army of the Republic of Texas in 1842.

This makes him ninety-four years old, far more than the allotted span of life of the average man, but Mr. Dolman, notwithstanding his great age is still hale and hearty, and expects to round out the century mark.

Mr. Dolman's parents were Germans, who settled in Ohio when it was still a backwoods country. Though used to frontier life, young Dolman told Governor Sam Houston when the latter offered him a league of land, that he did not want it. In fact, at that time it was such perilous living in Texas that he would not have accepted the whole state if it had been offered to him.

The old gentleman still regrets his refusal, and likes to dwell upon it how easily he might have secured a whole county, if his foresight had been what it should have been.

When handed a copy of the Tribune-Chief, Mr. Dolman read the small print without eye glasses. He evidently has recovered his second

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' COURT MEETS MONDAY

Will Consider Paving Streets About Court House on Lamar and Seventh Street Sides.

The county commissioners will meet tomorrow and will probably be in session several days. On Wednesday or Thursday the election returns of the prohibition contest will be canvassed, the court being required by law to wait seven days after the election. The commissioners will also consider the question of paving in front of the court house on both 7th and Lamar streets. The expense to the county is estimated at about $1,400. While the court is here, a joint session on hospital matters will probably be held with the city council, to award the contract for the new buildings at "the county farm," which will be a part of the hospital.

sight, as he had to use spectacles until six years ago.

In his younger days he had been a civil engineer and surveyor, and is still extremely fond of figures. With the exception of his hearing, which is a little difficult, he is remarkably well preserved, and can discuss intelligently many things that happened in his long and checkered past.

His son is sixty-seven years old, and proprietor of the Frisco hotel, recently moved to the Northside, and the old father is making his home there.

BUICK

But Valve-In Head Is Not All

Pioneer Builders of Valve-in Head Motor Cars

Buick — and Valve-in-Head are inseparably associated in the mind of the motoring public.

For Buick has made Valve-in-Head and Valve-in-Head has made Buick.

But don't think that Valve-in-Head is all of Buick.

Its a sign—a symbol—of Buick construction throughout. The world is ready to step into line behind the Valve-in-Head banner. Valve-in-Head ascendancy is conceded. But to truly understand the Buick you must realize that Buick frame—axles—bearings—transmission—march shoulder to shoulder with the motor.

The vast reservoir of energy in the Valve-in-head engine is matched by the unconquerable strength and resisting powers of the Buick as a whole.

The motor car industry is today tardily accepting and adopting the Valve-in-Head motor.

The most conservative of the car makers can not fail to be impressed with its success as demonstrated by the Buick.

But in this 1916 season, when Buick Sixes are forcing

BUICK

more than ever general recognition and praise of this principle of motor construction—remember, Valve-in-Head is not all.

It took something more than the motor to pile up the hundreds of Buick records of 75,000, 100,000 and 125,000 miles.

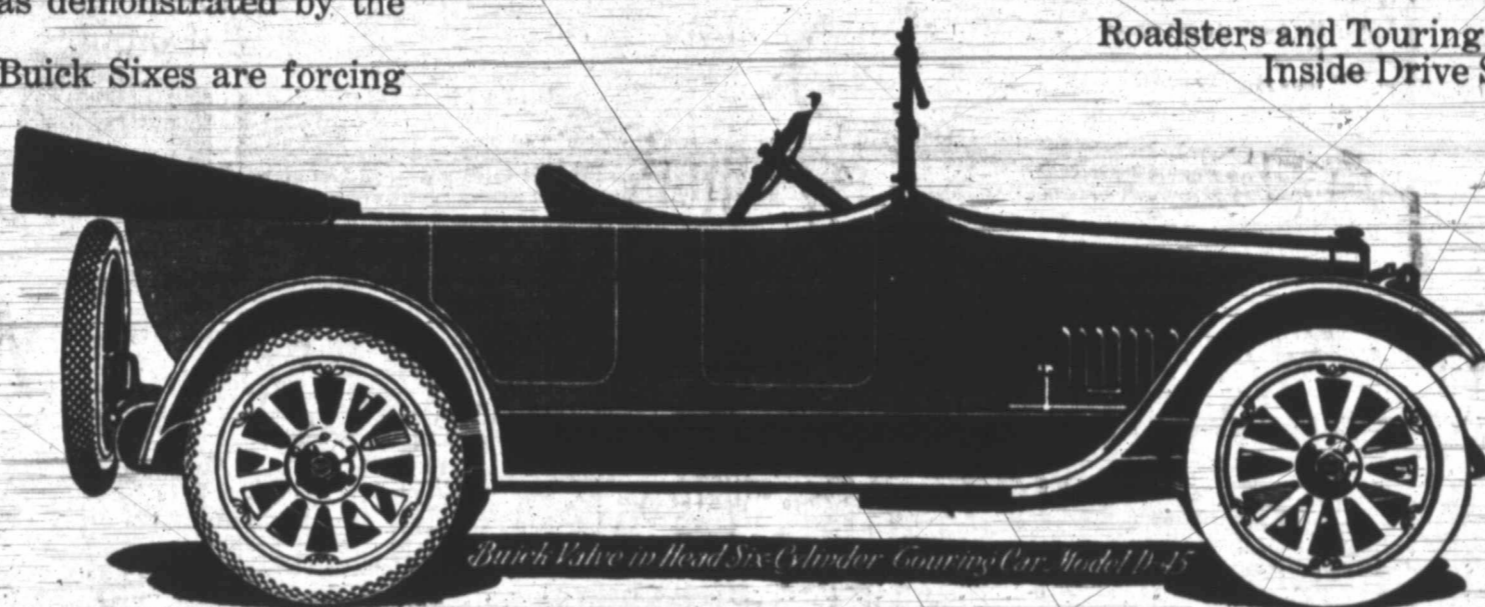

Despite our lower price we guarantee 1916 Buicks to contain more drop forgings, better upholstery, better paint and finish, greater quality throughout than any previous models. Buick cars are furnished complete to the smallest detail. So, if you desire not only Valve-in-Head motor but quality in every part of your car—the life—the go—the pluck and the gameness that have always been characteristic of Buick, there is now, as there always will be, just one way to secure it—

"KITCHENARIES" NOW AT THE FRONT

NEW ARMY JOINS "TOMMEE AT KEENS" AND TERETORRE. ALS" IN TRENCHES.

NEW ARMY WELL TRAINED

Men With Great Incomes and University Graduates "Pal-Up" With the Man Without Shilling.

British Headquarters, France, Aug. 7.—The "Keechenaries" as the French peasants call the new army have joined "Tommee Atkeens," the regular and the "Teretoreals," at the front. Tommee begins to feel like the oldest inhabitant. By the way he does not like to be called "Tommy" though the world persists in a word which is as objectionable to him as "Jacky" is to the American blue jacket.

The British regular did all the fighting for the first six months of the war. He had his joke at the expense of the Territorials, who are about the same as the American National Guard, when they arrive. The Territorials thought that they were made soldiers when the war broke out, but they were drilled for months at home before they were sent to France where they were drilled some more and set to digging reserve trenches behind the line. In the spring they had their turn, and the Canadians, too.

"Don't be downhearted! There are still some Boches left!" the Territorials join the regulars in saying to the New Army. Beside the New Army the Territorials feel like G. A. R. men.

"It's too kind of you! We knew that you could have killed them all off, if you had wanted to," the Kitchenaries reply.

"Don't charge too fast! Wait for us to catch up," call the regulars. "We'll wait on the Rhine," answer the New Army.

New Army Well Named. Well named is the New Army. It has brought a new element into life at the front. They bear the stamp of long route marches over the English roads and of the merciless formal training of the drill ground.

On seeing three or four hundred soldiers bathing in a canal their broad chests and the fine play of their muscles told that they were of the first hundred thousand which answered the call to arms last August.

If the average old-timer of the trenches had to run five miles against the average New Army man he would be blown half way and the New Army man would trot past the goal in an easy manner. Sitting in a dugout under shell fire is not exercise. When men come out of the trenches, they want to sleep and eat. The tendency is to grow fat.

Veterans are fit, hardened and trench-hardened but not muscle-hardened. That is the reason why the officers encourage cricket and football and other sports. It saves the men from drudgery of compulsory exercises to keep them in condition.

The other night when one heard some soldiers billeted in a barn singing one was certain without asking that they were New Army men. The British regular rarely sings in camp or on the march. Neither elated or depressed he plugs along doing his day's work. As the New Army flows in he will be outnumbered but unchanged.

Those New Army men are singing "God Save the King" before they lay down in the straw for the night in the land of France which was all so new and strange to them and so commonplace to the veterans. Their fresh young voices were pleasant to the ear.

Everyone hopes they will keep on singing. A mere layman did not know but that they might bring their bands. At intervals one asks himself what is missing in this British Army, any way? Then he answers, music, of course.

Bands Left at Home. If a band were to start playing in the trenches there would be a sharp ballist through the drum and a high explosion in the mouth of the horn in short order. Bands may have no place at the front but that does not rule out the Scotch bagpipe. When you hear "The Campbells Are Coming" at the head of a company marching back from the trenches—well, for want of other music, the bagpipe becomes sweet to other than Scotch ears. No modernization of war will separate a Scotch regiment from its pipes.

"The bands were left at home to aid recruiting," say the New Army men.

"We did not know but your officers might bring along their swords," remarked the old timers.

There the veterans were having a doze at expense of the young junior officers many of whom were at school when the war began. If there is any ornament which is obsolete at the front it is the sword.

The sword is the officer's symbol of authority; the sign that he is on duty. In place of it the officer at the front wears his sword belt. Only one fresh dog at expense of the young junior officers many of whom were at school when the war began. If there is any ornament which is obsolete at the front it is the sword.

However, if all wore their caps with bands and visors and no tops it would soon seem commonplace.

The young officer of the New Army who a year ago had no idea of exercising an officer also has the empty frog and carries a walking stick. His sword along with countless other swords has been checked outside the cloak-room of war along with his umbrella which no one thinks of carrying at the front. You can not tell him from the other officers except by his saguerness and his battalion insignia.

"I had studied trenches and dug practice trenches and witnessed the trench demonstrations," said one of them, "but when I came to go into a trench for instruction under fire I found that it was not like what I had imagined. I wonder why nobody has yet been able to describe a trench so you can really see it. Even the photographs deceive you. They are always taken of some show trench."

All Classes in New Army.

For ten months the New Army had waited for its mecca. Its soldiers have read all about the effects of modern shell fire. They know what they are in for. Learners they came among experts, expecting to ragged a great deal as novices by the old hands, and except for the veteran regulars' little jokes at their expense they have found everybody very kind.

"We need you—and there can't be too many of you," say the old timers. "It's you who must finish the job which we have begun."

There are men in this New Army who have incomes of ten thousand a year digging trenches beside a man who has not a shilling when he enlisted; university graduates taking their baptism of shell fire as privates who "put up" with men who can hardly read and write.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Wichita Falls Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Wichita Falls citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Wichita Falls citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

H. L. Snydam, 504 Lee St., Wichita Falls, says: "I have had spells with my back and kidneys, when I couldn't do anything. The constant, dull ache across my kidneys kept me in misery. My kidneys didn't act as they should and the kidney secretions contained sediment. I used different medicines, but none gave me the results that Doan's Kidney Pills did. My back soon felt easier and my kidneys again acted properly."

BURKBURNETT MELONS ARE NOW ON THE MARKET

Acres Smaller Than Last Year But the Yield is Reported Good and Quality Excellent.

Burkburnett watermelons are making their appearance on the local market, although shipments have not yet begun on any large scale. The melons offered are large and of the same luscious variety that is grown at Burkburnett. The acreage is said to be somewhat smaller than last year, but the yield will be large. Within the past few years Burkburnett has come to the front as one of the principal melon shipping points in North Texas, dozens of cars being handled out of that station during the season.

Home grown melons from other parts of Wichita county have already been offered for sale here.

Yacht-Line Hudson The Surprise Car

If you haven't yet seen this 1916 HUDSON, there's a surprise in store for you.

Until you see it, you can't imagine the beauty of this Yacht-Line body.

Pictures or words can't tell you what Lustrous Finish is.

There is more room, more luxury.

There are disappearing extra seats.

There's enameled leather upholstery.

Yet the new price is $1350 for all that is possible in a quality Six.

This new-type HUDSON, not two years old, has created a vast reputation. It has quadrupled the Hudson output. It has driven many an old type out of the market, and has gained the first place among class cars.

But this new model brought the climax. Since June 15, when this car appeared, HUDSON sales have broken every fine-car record. In the Opening Week a month's output was sold.

If you take any interest in motor car advancement, come and see this premier example.

AT THE THEATERS

FEATURE PROGRAM AT MAJESTIC FIRST HALF OF WEEK

For picture fans the Majestic program for the first three days of this week will be of paramount interest. Monday Charlie Chaplin will be shown in his latest two part Essanay production, "The Woman," a screen from the beginning to end. It is said to be even better than "Work," which showed in this city a few weeks ago.

Tuesday, Fox Feature Day, the film-lead version of the world famous drama "St. Elmo" will be shown. Thousands and thousands have been thrilled by "St. Elmo" since the book was first written. It was an instantaneous success on the speaking stage and still forms the favorite of stock repertoire and this new film will mean a prolonging of its popularity.

Wednesday—the first of "The Diamond from the Sky" will be shown. Lottie Pickford, will be starred in this production. The story of the writing of "The Diamond from the Sky," is of much interest, it being the winner in the $10,000 scenario contest conducted by the Chicago Tribune in connection with the American Film Company. The winning scenario was written by Roy L. McCardell and now the company offers another $10,000 for an idea for a sequel to the series. This contest is open to every man, woman and child viewing the picture. There are doubtless a number of people in Wichita Falls interested in scenario writing and to them this offers a splendid opportunity. The last grand prize offered by the Tribune $10,000 for the concluding chapter of the "Million Dollar Mystery" was won by a St. Louis stenographer for a manuscript of 100 words in length. This contest should stimulate interest in the series and the picture itself is said to be among the most interesting ever filmed, being novel in plot and rich in setting and action.

MARY PICKFORD AT THE EMPRESS THEATER MONDAY.

Mary Pickford is the Monday offering at the Empress Theater. Concerning this picture nothing better can be said than the following criticism from the Motion Picture World:

Carefully weighing my words and trying to use them with a conscience I find that any term other than perfection will be inadequate in appraising the merits and the artistic value of this feature. It simply disarms criticism. It is a thing to be enjoyed to the utmost. It captivates and fascinates and before we know it we are beguiled into happiness. The charm of the cricket has made its appeal to the poets from the days of Anacreon, but there was never a sweeter cricket than Fanchon and let me hasten to add there never was a Fanchon like Mary Pickford. Yes, I know that the greatest of the French and the English and the American stars have attempted and have successfully rendered Fanchon, but I stick to my belief that none ever surpassed and few approached the work of Mary Pickford. Of course the part suited her uncommonly well; the chords of roguishness, of tenderness, of awakening love are familiar to her, but her art in this feature, it seems to me, is more dainty and delicate than ever, she is merged into her part as if her soul had been poured into the mould, the characterization is charmingly complete in every detail and the performance as a whole leaves a host of pleasant sensations and memories.

Next to the incomparable performance of Miss Pickford and to the capable and well selected cast, the atmosphere and the direction of the play call for unqualified commendation. The original foundation of the film-play was the sweet tale of George Sand. This prolific writer with her keen sense for the value of color and atmosphere inspired the adapter with enough. The interior of old Fadel's home and the exterior as well may have served as illustrations of my meaning. There is an even excellence throughout that makes detailed appreciation difficult.

The direction and the upbuilding of each scene shows skill of a most uncommon order. I would be willing to take out every title. There are not many titles but the picture runs so naturally, the development of what plot there is comes with the convincing simplicity of a fairy-tale. An art which can produce such films is "fated never to die." We must remember that color and voice played an integral part of the drama as we saw it years ago and here the director had neither color nor voice to depend on in aid of which he has given us a visualization of which the conventional stage is quite incapable. He must have resolved the story into its simplest elements as he found it in the original form rather than in the drama. Clean, simple, beautiful, endowed with infinite charm this feature deserves to rank at the very top. There is an incidental lesson, too, for the ambitious producer. This story was open to all on even terms. It only required proper handling. There is much more in George Sand's abundant materials and in literature generally. No other keys than a little knowledge and a little power of selection are needed to unlock this treasure house at any time and at any door.

The Monday picture program at the Lamar Airdome has much to offer, being composed of a L-Ko comedy, "A Disgranted Beauty" and a two part Bison drama, "The Test of a Man."

Railroading always has had its dangers and its romance. There is something about the handling of great engines which appeals to everyone. It is the ambition of almost every boy at one time or another to be a railroad engineer. In his dreams he sees himself guiding a monster engine along twin bands of steel, while with the other hand he blows long blasts from the great whistle—blasts which seem momentarily over the countryside and awaken memories of past journeys and the wanderlust in other dissatisfied souls.

To everyone, with the possible exception of traveling salesmen and one night troupers, the railroad is associated with the important things in one's life. A death calls one home, the city sends forth its appeal and the country boy leaves his native village, the wedding journey, the summer-vacation—all are associated with travel and the railroad.

"The Test of a Man" is a railroad story of the most exciting character. It deals with the giant-iron monsters which roar across the countryside with the light from their blazing fires flaring forth from open furnace doors into the blackness of the night; it deals with powder-trains and the dangerous risks of handling great stores of dynamite and high explosives; it tells how villainous ne'er-do-wells attempt to place a car of dynamite on the tracks just before a passenger special comes screaming along at sixty miles an hour; it pictures the explosion of the car of dynamite and of the quick, courageous work of a young railroad contractor who jumps aboard a freight engine and prevents the speeding special from ripping through the car of dynamite; it tells an appealing love story which is bound to interest every man, woman and child.

CAR RAILS OVERTURNS

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT

Removal of Load From One Side of Car Causes It To Tumble Over on Workmen

By Associated Press. Dallas, Texas, Aug. 7.—When a car of steel rails overturned at the Union terminal works this afternoon, one Mexican was killed and another Mexican and three negroes were seriously injured. The men were working on top of the pile of rails, and when the weight was taken on one side of the car by unloading rails the other side tipped over, and tons of steel slid down with the workmen catching them beneath the rails.

Kalem Feature Showing At The Gem Monday

WILMUTH MERKYL in "WIFE FOR WIFE"

Ask Wilmoth Merkel as to his definition of the word "hero" and the chances are that his answer will be, "A man who follows a motion picture actor's calling."

Now, Mr. Merkel should know. He is the star who deserted the legitimate stage to appear in the leading role of Kalem's three-act Broadway favorite production of "Wife for Wife." This play, written by John A. Stevens, was for many years one of the most popular of the dramas dealing with the south of antebellum days.

Theater goers who saw this fine old play will remember the stirring duel and the fearful revenge which George, the unloving slave, plans to wreak upon his master's head. Now, as enacted upon the stage neither of these incidents were fraught with any particular

But there is a world of difference between the legitimate stage and the silent drama. Pieces of business may safely be faked upon the former, whereas absolute realism is the keynote of the latter. For instance, the duel fought between Walton and his false friend Singleton was robbed of all danger through the use of buttoned foils. In the Broadway Favorites production, however, the combatants fought close to the camera, and small swords minus the safety device were used.

And because a make believe duel would merely bring laughter from the critical photo play patrons Mr. Merkel and his opponent crossed swords as though each thirsted for the other's life. Only the fact that both were really skillful fencers saved them from injury. At that the Kalem player facing the star experienced an uncomfortably narrow escape when Mr. Merkel's sword darted under his arm, while the latter had his shirt torn in half a dozen places by the sword in his opponent's hand.

Again, in the climax of the story George endeavored to have his master die as the result of a snake bite. Mr. Merkel, his hands bound behind his back, watched this player advance toward him with what he vows was the largest and ugliest snake in the state of Florida. A moment's carelessness in handling the reptile caused the rattler to plunge its head forward. Mr. Merkel instinctively threw himself to one side at the same instant. It was well that he did, because the snake buried its fangs in that part of the cushion against which the player's head had been resting. In view of his experiences in "Wife for Wife" it would seem that Mr. Merkel's views are justified.

Another Famous Players—Mary Pickford Triumph!

Mary Pickford, the unrivalled favorite of the screen, has added another notable characterization to her long list of triumphant successes, in her portrayal, "Fanchon the Cricket."

We would suggest that you read the trade papers' glowing tributes to Miss Pickford's art in this charming subject:

W. Stephen Bush in "The Moving Picture World" enthusiastically declares:

"Carefully weighing my words I find that any term other than perfection will be inadequate in appraising the merits and artistic value of this feature. It captivates and fascinates. Clean, simple, beautiful, endowed with infinite charm, this feature deserves to rank at the very top."

Horace A. Fuld in "The Dramatic Mirror" affirms:

"Mary Pickford has proved without dispute that there is but one Mary Pickford. The picture is a series of Mary Pickford moods, all quite enchanting, none long enough to become monotonous. Just the play which gives her a chance to do what is best suited to her."

Peter Milne, in the "Motion Picture News," agrees as follows:

"With every appearance of Mary Pickford in a Famous Players release, nothing less than a small sensation is created. 'Fanchon the Cricket' is no exception to this prevailing order. To predict success for the picture much resembles the well-known process of painting the lily, for failure and a Pickford-Famous Players release have never met."

Miss Agnes Smith, in "The Morning Telegraph," makes the opinion unanimous:

"The role of 'Fanchon' affords Mary Pickford infinite opportunities to display the charm and originality that have made her so famous. 'Fanchon the Cricket' will be an event in the moving picture world. The settings are uniformly beautiful. Each scene is a delight, and the picture, on the whole, has such spontaneity, humor and originality that it goes without saying 'Fanchon the Cricket' will achieve great popularity."

Mary Pickford as "Fanchon" portrays with amazing power of conception all the dramatic depths and the varying lights and shades of this famous character. There is a naturalness about her impersonation, a sparkling, quaint originality that will make this role as popular as her memorable characterization of "Tess of the Storm Country."

LOTTIE PICKFORD, little Mary's sister, while she has never attained the heights to entirely entitle her to be called a star, does some very good work in this production, the first time that the two sisters have appeared together, which makes the production the more interesting.

Do not let the picture that was shown at the local airdome a few nights ago (by the same name) confuse you, there is no similarity except in the name.

TUESDAY—Charlie Chaplin in "Film Johnnie" one of the first of his Keystone comedies that put him on the road to fame, perfectly clean and exceedingly fine.

SARAH GARNER WELL KNOWN NEGRO CHARACTER DEAD

Sarah Garner, one of the best known negro characters in this section, died Friday afternoon from a sudden attack of paralysis of the heart. She was about 60 years old and had lived here for a number of years, always bearing an excellent reputation.

It was under Sarah's chaperonage that most of the dances which were the chief social diversion of local negroes were held. Good order was the unvarying rule at these functions and woe to the dandy who failed to conduct himself properly. In a small room in Sarah's home, with two fidlers in one corner and the floor cleared for raction, the beauty and chivalry of the negro quarter of the city went to gather at stated intervals, and to dance with an abandon and gaiety reminiscent of plantation days. These dances were not infrequently witnessed by white folks and were memorable occasions to northerners and others unused to negro ways.

Sarah's influence among those of her race was for the best, sometimes by moral suasion and example, but more often through her standing with the officers. Fortunate was the negro who, under arrest, could get Sarah to say a word in his behalf, and unlucky was he at whom she pointed an accusing finger. She was a great help to the officers, especially on such occasions as a free for all fight when it is usually hard to find the real culprits. She had all the respect for white people that was characteristic of war time negroes and white visitors at her dances were extended every courtesy.

Just two months ago, Joe Wise, another well known negro, succumbed also to paralysis of the heart, and with him and Sarah both gone, the troubles of the officers in maintaining order in the negro quarter of the city are vastly increased, as Joe had no sympathy with the rougher element of his race and was always willing to aid the officers in bringing them to lime.

Sarah will be buried this afternoon. WICHITANS BUY BIG STORE AT WELLINGTON

R. A. Williams and A. E. Brady have sold to T. A. Hunter of Wichita Falls an interest in the business of the Famous Mercantile Co. Mr. Brady is expected to be located here after September 1st. He is fully conversant with the dry goods business and for the past eleven years has been in the employ as traveling salesman of one of the largest wholesale stores in St. Louis, and his acquaintance and connection in this work will be of incalculable worth to him in his new position.

We also learn that Mrs. Hunter has been the buyer for one of the largest concerns in Wichita Falls, a store carrying $100,000 stock. This addition with the already splendid personnel of the company will indeed make a strong combination.

V. E. Brady, a brother of A. E. arrived last week and will be in the employ of the new company. Young Mr. Brady has been engaged in the mercantile business for several years and for the past three years has been in the State of Washington.

We welcome these new people to our city and trust that they will enjoy as well as add to some of the prosperity of the country in a business way.—Wellington Leader.

Mrs. Hunter was formerly Miss Dena Currie, well and favorably known here being connected at various times with several of the largest stores of the city. Mr. Hunter has made Wichita Falls his headquarters while representing a big mercantile company in the Southwestern territory.

D. 1915, being the first Tuesday of said month, between the hours of ten o'clock, a. m., and four o'clock p. m., on said day at the court house door of said County, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction for cash, all the right, title and interest of the said Valley Oil Company in and to said property.

Dated at Wichita Falls, Texas, this 7th day of August, A. D. 1915. G. W. HAWKINS, Sheriff Wichita County, Tex. By L. N. JERNIGAN, Deputy. 74-80-8c.

MACHADO PRESIDENT

REPUBLIC OF PORTUGAL Portuguese Congress Elects Man Long Regarded as Logical Choice of Republican Party

By Associated Press. Lisbon, Aug. 7.—The London Morning Post declares the attitude of Sweden toward Russia and the latter's allies for sometime past has revealed elements of a disquieting character. The newspaper says: "Emboldened by recent German successes, the latent hostility of Sweden, which has never forgiven the loss of Finland has become strongly developed. Considerable preparations for warlike contingencies have been made in north Sweden and the Swedish army is fully mobilized." If Sweden persists in her unfriendly attitude toward Russia she may rapidly drift into a war which would inevitably be a great obstacle to her future progress.

COMPILING CATALOGUE FOR BIG POULTRY SHOW

Prize List For North Texas Poultry Association's Exhibition Dec. 15 to 18 Being Made Up

At a meeting of the North Texas Poultry Association Saturday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms plans for the issuance of the annual catalogue of prizes for the association's second annual exhibition here were discussed. The issuance of the catalogue within the next thirty days or as soon as possible was authorized. The exhibition will be held Dec.

15-18th and it is hoped to make it the biggest exhibition of the kind ever held in this section of the State. Rev. T. E. Cannedy, director of the exhibition, is now getting up the prize list and has already received tenders of prizes both in cash and in merchandise for the exhibition.

Although only short time was given last spring and the season was far advanced several hundred birds were exhibited at the first exhibition of the association and it was pronounced a success. With nearly a whole year to get ready and advertise and with nearly every body enthusiastic about the enterprise and a more reasonable date for the exhibition it is believed this year's show will be a much greater success. Rev. Cannedy is now making a canvass for donations for the prize list and is meeting with encouragement.

J. WILKIE TALBERT WINS TRIP TO EXPOSITION

Deputy Organizer Here for Praetorian Is Second Among Praetorian Field Workers.

J. Wilkie Talbert, deputy organizer here for the Praetorians, has been notified by the supreme officers of that fraternity that he is the winner of a trip to the San Francisco exposition in a membership contest.

Under the leadership of Mr. Talbert the local council of the Praetorians has been increased to 225 members and of the field workers of that organization for the district comprising Oklahoma and Texas Mr. Talbert has the second best record.

The local council is in a flourishing condition and supreme officers have written flattering letters concerning it.

Mr. Talbert will leave about August 12th on his trip to the exposition. All his expenses of the trip will be paid by the supreme council.

GREAT CELEBRATION IN MUNICH OVER VICTORY

100,000 Bavarians Join in Celebration of Successes of German Arms in Poland

Munich, Germany, Aug. 7.—More than 100,000 persons representing all classes assembled at evening today on the historic Koenigsplatz of Munich to celebrate the German victory at Warsaw and Ivangorod. This gathering is being talked of tonight as the greatest in the history of the city. The manifestations of patriotism were remarkable in themselves but they were overshadowed by the evidence of a deep religious feeling.

During the celebration aeroplanes circled over the crowd. Every inch of the great square was filled, people stood with bared heads and before giving expression to the national pride of the success of the German arms in Poland a fervent prayer went up to God. The remarkable celebration began with the ringing of all the church bells in Munich. At half past seven to the accompaniment of a military band the crowd began to sing the Te Deum. During the swelling volume of song four aeroplanes circled above the square, now rising now sinking to within a hundred feet of the heads of the people, the whirl of their motors mingling with the sound of the singing. Detachments of police and firemen had been ordered to the square to preserve order but their services were not needed. These men joined in the singing of the second anthem, "Now Thank We All Our God."

NO CONCESSIONS FROM GREECE TO BULGARIA

Greece Unwilling to Pay Price Demanded by Bulgaria for Latter's Entrance into War

London, Aug. 7.—"Greece will not cede one inch of territory to Bulgaria." This was the substance of a reply by Premier Gounaris to a delegation of Macedonian deputies who asked for a statement about the purpose of the Greek government, according to a dispatch from Athens. In the allies' negotiations with Bulgaria in an effort to induce Bulgaria to fight on the allies' side Bulgaria has demanded insistently that she be ceded that part of Macedonia awarded to Serbia at the close of the Balkan wars. She also has sought to obtain at least part of the Macedonian territory which came under the Greek flag in the same way.

CITIZENS OF WARSAW WELCOMED THE GERMANS

Correspondents With German Army Tell of Occupation of Polish Capital

Berlin, Aug. 7.—The German troops were welcomed to undamaged Warsaw as liberators according to the report forwarded by Kurt Aram, a special correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger. Telegraphing under date of August 5, Aram places emphasis on the statement that the city was not evacuated without a conflict, the forts were protected by barbed wire, trenches, pitfalls and mines against infantry attacks. The city is not mentioned as having been damaged.

The Warsaw correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt confirms the report that the German troops met with a joyous reception. The correspondent at Ivangorod of the Lokal Anzeiger points out the occupation of that fortress in itself is less important than the fact it makes possible an important increase in concentration pressure on the Russian troops in South Poland. The offensive of the armies of Arch Duke Joseph Ferdinand and Field Marshall Von Mackensen continue northward and the effect on the yet unchanged east Galician front is likely soon to make itself felt.

THREAT AGAINST COTTON BROKER OVER TELEPHONE

Home of Houston Broker Threatened Also Ships Ready to Sell With Horses For Allies

Houston, Texas, Aug. 7.—Because of threats to destroy his home with dynamite, William Weatherford, treasurer of a local firm of cotton exporters, today moved his family from his residence to a hotel. The threat was received over the telephone and also threatened a ship which is supposed to sail today with a load of horses for the allied armies. Mr. Weatherford did not say whether the ship would sail. A close guard was placed over his home.

AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE SINKS AN ITALIAN SUB

Paris, Aug. 7.—The Italian submarine, Neride, is reported to have been sunk in an encounter with an Austrian submarine off the island of Telogosa in the Adriatic Sea, according to a special dispatch from Rome.

TEXARKANA MAN SUICIDES IN ENDING LIFE

By Associated Press

Texarkana, Texas, Aug. 7.—John Tuves, aged 64, killed himself in an unusual manner here today. Early this morning he tried to hang himself from the limb of a chinaberry tree in the downtown section; the limb broke, but the rope in the jerk tightened the noose about his neck so as to choke him. He then leaped against a fence and strangled to death. He suffered from mental trouble due to ill health.
