ALEXANDER'S PITCHING WINS BRILLIANT GAME

Phillies Master Twirler Yields Hits But In Pinches Proves Invincible—21,000 Saw Game

Special to the Times: Philadelphia, October 8.—Victory, by a score of 3 to 1, rested upon the banners of the National League champions this afternoon, the Philadelphia team defeating Boston in a brilliant, breathless game. The Phillies took the lead in the fourth, saw the Red Sox forge even in the seventh, then, with two bases on balls and two singles, they annexed the two scores that cinched the contest. The game was a freaky one in several ways. The Bostonians hit safely in every inning except the last, and their total of hits is three more than that of Philadelphia. But although Grover Cleveland Alexander was not sparing with his hits, it was in the pinches that he showed his superiority. Shore for Boston pitched splendidly, but his one bad inning, the eighth, proved his undoing. None of the hits were for extra bases, and errors, of which only two were made, did not figure in the scoring.

21,000 SAW GAME. A total of 21,000 fans saw the game which was played on a field soft with an slight drizzle. The ground had been carefully treated, however, and were not as slow as might have been expected. For the game the sky was clear and the air damp. Neither side scored in the first three innings, but in the fourth, Paskert opened for Philadelphia with a brisk single. Cravath sacrificed him to second and he took third on Luderus' infield out. Then a single by Whitted brought him home. Boston made a great bid for a score in the seventh when Barry led off with a single and was sacrificed to second, but Alexander struck out the next two batters. The tying score was made in the eighth. With Scott out, Tris Speaker drew an easy base on balls. He went to second on Hoblitzelle's infield grounder, and then Lewis slapped one of Alexander's fast ones through the infield and the Texan romped home.

The Winning Score. Before the Boston contingent had time to cease rejoicing over their improved chances, the home team had gotten busy. Alexander went out, but Stock walked. Bancroft lifted a short Texas Leaguer over second base and Barry fielded it in brilliant style, but not in time to catch either of the runners. Paskert was next up and whether purposely or not, received a base on balls, so that the bases were full when Cravath, Philadelphia's mightiest slugger, came to the plate. Those who expected a "clean up" were disappointed but the heavy hitter sent Barry crashing into deep short field after a grounder that gave Stock time to score. Cravath was thrown out at first. With Bancroft on third, Luderus singled, bringing in another score. An effort to steal second ended the inning. The number of hits obtained off Alexander was a surprise and the dopsters are not certain as to how to analyze it, but the big fellow's work in the pinches showed his effectiveness. There are some who say that he did not extend himself because of expectations of appearing again in Monday's game and there are a few who even predict that Moran will send him to the box tomorrow. But the great name of Philadelphia fans are content with the end attained and are not worrying about the means which gained it. Klem was announced to umpire behind the plate, O'Loughlin to the bases, Evans to left field and Rigler to right field. Before the game started, Manger Moran of Philadelphia was presented with a loving cup by the fans, and a bunch of moving picture operators were chased off the field.

left New York yesterday morning at eleven o'clock. Usually it carries large numbers of passengers and important mail and express. The amount of the booty obtained by the robbers is unknown. Possibilities number more than 100 men were in pursuit of the robbers before daybreak. By Associated Press. Clarksville, Va., Oct. 8.—Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials here quickly took up the hunt when they were informed of the train robbery at Central Station. The county officials were informed that the robbers secured about 100 registered packages and 50 packages of unsigned banknotes being sent from Washington to banks in the middle west. BULGARIA'S REPLY GARBLED IN TRANSMISSION. Petrograd, Oct. 8.—(via London)—Bulgaria's reply to the Russian ultimatum was transmitted in the Bulgarian language and was so badly garbled in transmission that the foreign office has not been able accurately to reconstruct the text. The message is described as "bold to the verge of insolence." In substance Bulgaria denies German officers are in the staff of the Bulgarian armies but says that if they are present Bulgaria reserves the right to invite whom she pleases.

London, October 8.—Berlin announces that the movement of the Teutonic forces across the Danube-Save and Drina are proceeding favorably. Mention of the capture of three cannons in the vicinity of Ram about 40 miles east of Belgrade on the Danube seems to indicate this is a point along which one edge of the wedge into Serbian territory may be thrown.

BULGARIA HAS ANNOUNCED DECISION FOR TEUTONS

By Associated Press.

Berlin, October 8.—The Frankfurter Zeitung asserts that the Bulgarian government has issued a manifesto to the nation, announcing its decision to enter the war on the side of the Central Powers. The manifesto as quoted by the Overseas News Agency states that Bulgaria would commit suicide if she did not align herself with Germany and her allies. The manifesto as given by a news agency follows: "The Central Powers have promised us parts of Serbia creating an Austro-Bulgarian border line which is absolutely necessary for Bulgaria's independence of the Serbians. We do not believe in the promises of the Quadruple Entente. Italy, one of the allies, treacherously broke her treaty of thirty-three years."

ALLIED TROOPS RUSHING TO AID OF THE SERBIANS. It is reported from Italian sources that as a precaution the Serbian government is transferring all records and archives from Nish to Izbik in southern Central Serbia about fifty miles from the Greek frontier. The official German communication now carries the sub-caption "Balkan Theater of war," indicating that these operations are to be chronicled daily. Estimates of the strength of the Austro-German forces along the Serbian frontier range from 500,000 to 600,000 men. There may have been withdrawals by the Austrians and Germans from some parts of the eastern front, but the renewed efforts of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to capture Divinsk does not indicate any weakening of the troops under his command.

CARRANZA'S RECOGNITION NOW SEEMS ASSURED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—Indications today on the eve of the conference of the Pan-American diplomats are that the Carranza delegates from Mexico will receive recognition from the United States. The only thing that can stand in the way of recognition is it is believed will be some development to complicate the situation. Recognition, if accorded, could be based on a statement to the United States government from Carranza authorities showing his military supremacy in Mexico and promises of protection to foreigners and their property and assurance of amnesty to political prisoners and religious freedom to all. These statements and assurances are believed to have virtually convinced administration officials that Carranza had met both the "material and moral capacity" required for the creation of a stable government.

COLORADO GOVERNOR REFUSES TO INTERFERE. MOST NEARLY MEETS REQUIREMENTS OF U. S. If He is Willing to Give Necessary Assurances Recognition is Practically Certain. By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—The more than one thousand persons made defendants in cases growing out of the recent coal strike in Colorado must go to trial. Hopes that Governor Carlson would order a sweeping dismissal of the pending cases flickered out at midnight last night when the chief executive refused to interfere in the prosecution. This decision came a few hours after the announcement of the action of the supreme court ordering the release on bail of $35,000 of John R. Lawson, labor leader convicted several months ago of first degree murder in connection with strike disorders.

Cottolene is pure and wholesome

The shortening you use in cooking and baking should have all the excellence of the food that is prepared with it.

Cottolene itself is a pure, wholesome food, consisting of ultra-refined cottonseed oil—as fine as the choicest salad oil—and beef stearine from selected leaf beef suet.

Cottolene

is not "just as good" as other cooking and frying fats—it is better than any other—more nutritious, more wholesome, more digestible—better in every way.

Cottolene does not absorb tastes or odors. Heat it slowly and use it over and over for all kinds of frying.

Always use a third less of Cottolene than of any other shortening. Cottolene goes farthest and gives the most gratifying results.

Pails of various sizes. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply.

CHILD ATE CASTOR BEANS MADE SERIOUSLY ILL.

Iowa Park Herald.
Cecil, the young son of D. O. Smith and wife, ate some castor beans that had been given him by a school boy. The boy who gave Cecil the beans was thinking they were candy, and for a time was very ill, however we are glad to note that he is improving nicely at this writing. Castor beans are very poisonous and it was fortunate that the child did not eat more of them. This should be a warning to the smaller school children. The boy who gave Cecil the beans was fortunate in not being a victim of them himself.

The body of W. H. Parker, who died Wednesday in a local sanitarium, was shipped last night to Nottulng, Ala., where relatives reside. The deceased was about thirty years of age and had no relatives here. He had been working in the oil fields here for some time.

Within one week the price of cotton has advanced about $7 per bale. Is it too much to expect that 15-cent cotton will be a realization before Christmas? The crop is the shortest since 1909, and the demand is greater than ever before. In this particular section of country, compared with the 1914 crop, less than one-half will be produced, but if marketed gradually the chances are that what has been produced will sell for more money than was received for the 1915 crop.

The people of the state of New Jersey will vote on October 15th to determine whether the ballot shall be extended to women. That is the home state of President Wilson, and he has announced he is going home to cast his ballot in favor of woman's suffrage. That does not mean, however, that the President favors making woman's suffrage a national issue. He thinks it is a matter that the people of each state should settle for themselves, and a movement to make woman's suffrage an issue in the next presidential campaign will be opposed by him. It also is more than likely the President will take the same position on the matter of prohibition. He is both a local opponent and statewide prohibitionist, and votes that way when elections are held on that matter in his state, taking the strong position that it is not a national matter, but one the different states should settle for themselves.

The grand jury of Culberson county has returned bills of indictment against the sheriff and eleven of his posse for the killing of Orzoco and three of his companions in the High Lonesome mountains on the morning of August 30th. They are to be given a trial next week, and doubtless the jury will not only acquit each and every one of them, but commend their action. Just why indictments should have been returned against the sheriff and his posse for doing their plain duty is not made clear, unless it is for the purpose of making it so that it will not be necessary for the federal authorities to investigate the matter. A record of the proceedings of the trial is to be forwarded to the State department at Washington.

Little or no cotton is being exported to Europe, so our cotton buyers tell us, and even at that the price continues to go up. That being true, then the natural conclusion to be arrived at is: the cotton producers of the South, having been placed in a position where they can hold their cotton and market it gradually by the federal government making it possible for them to borrow money at 5 per cent interest, are taking advantage of this offer by placing their cotton in warehouses and borrowing money on it in sufficient amount to settle off their local debts. By this method of marketing it is not likely they will sell their cotton until there is a demand for it at a price that will leave them a neat profit. Had the cotton producers been forced to borrow money on their cotton this year and pay interest at 10 per cent and more, the chances are cotton would now be selling at less than 8 cents per pound.

THE ESSENCE OF BRYAN'S PEACE TALK AT DALLAS ON OCTOBER 2ND.

If men kill each other on the battle field on the Sabbath day, I can dare to speak of peace on God's holy day.

Our international law seems to have been written for nations at war rather than for nations at peace.

It would be bad enough to go to war with a nation that hated us, but God forbid that we shall ever compel a nation to go to war with us which does not want war with us.

There must be some human cause for this war, for surely no one who loves God could blame him for it.

The cause is to be found in a false philosophy—the theory that might makes right.

The nation that takes what it has the power to take and holds what it has the strength to hold has no system of logic with which to answer the nation that proceeds on the theory that dynamite makes right.

The nations that go on the theory that might makes right are soon in neck and neck race for the bottomless pit.

If we take the position that might makes right, we must repudiate every commandment for the safeguarding of human life and individual rights.

We have a propaganda studiously urging that the way to prevent war is to prepare for war. I have occasionally heard that doctrine preached by people who expected to profit by it.

The preparedness they ask us to make would not only prevent war but would provoke it.

If you are going to be frightened into preparedness, the man who can give you the biggest scare is entitled to your support.

Just think what our position would be to day if we had a jingo in the White House looking for trouble.

We are fortunate in having in the White House Woodrow Wilson, who is looking for a peaceful solution of every problem.

If the warring nations had spent half as much cultivating friendship as they spent cultivating hate, there never would have been any war.

There isn't a nation in the world that is preparing to fight us.

Our preparedness has already been increasing relatively as they have been destroying each other and every day will lessen their ability to scare anybody.

The world is not looking for a despot to fix the terms upon which nations may live.

If there is any question upon which the people should have the right of referendum vote, it is the question of peace and war, and those who vote for war should enlist first, and I would have the first battle line made up of jingo editors, so that they may have the honor of dying for their country before anybody else gets shot.

A thousand years from now the name of Woodrow Wilson and my name will be linked together in every capital in the world and the treaties we have made will form the basis of machinery with which peace will be given to all the world.

The Record would like to see inaugurated a movement for the building of permanent roads in Wilbarger county. Nothing adds to the wealth of the community like good roads; they are the cheapest means of enhancing property values.

There have occurred so many things during the war to irritate neutral nations, we feel sure that all fair minded Americans will experience only the highest admiration for and appreciation of the fine spirit of the letter of Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, to Secretary Lansing with respect to the sinking of the Arabic. At one time it seemed as if this case was certain to breach the friendly relations between the United States and Germany, but like other crises in the past, produced an ugly impression in this country.

VON BERNSTORFF'S LETTER TO LANSING.

(Houston Post.)

There have occurred so many things during the war to irritate neutral nations, we feel sure that all fair minded Americans will experience only the highest admiration for and appreciation of the fine spirit of the letter of Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, to Secretary Lansing with respect to the sinking of the Arabic.

At one time it seemed as if this case was certain to breach the friendly relations between the United States and Germany, but like other crises in the past, produced an ugly impression in this country.

In due time, however, Germany informed us that the submarine commander reported he had fired the fatal torpedo only after the Arabic had attempted to ram him. This, of course, put quite another complexion upon the matter.

The British officer, in reply declared that no attempt was made to ram the submarine and there the controversy rested until Germany, considering all the facts, accepted in good faith the testimony of the British officer, disavowed the act of the submarine commander, expressed his regrets and authorized the German ambassador to negotiate the indemnity for the American lives lost.

When we consider how strong the passions of men and nations run in time of war, the example of Germany in this instance, as revealed by Count Von Bernstorff's expression, is worthy of praise in its spirit of humanity, justice, friendship and highmindedness. It vouchsafes in the strongest possible way the traditional friendship between the two countries and it places German good faith beyond challenge.

We are free with Count Von Bernstorff that credit must be given Germany for nobly accepting the word of the British officers, and we think that credit too, must be given Count Von Bernstorff, whose earnest endeavors to avert an estrangement between the United States and Germany have been genuine, unremitting, skillful and successful. We think when the final history of our diplomatic controversies with Germany during the war period shall have been written, it will be shown that Count Von Bernstorff will share generously with President Wilson and Mr. Lansing the honor and credit for averting a breach.

It is all the more a pleasure to say this because on many occasions Count Von Bernstorff has been under the fire of criticism both in this country and Germany. At times, he was compelled to remain silent when silence seemed to indicate that he had violated our hospitality and the diplomatic proprieties, but events have in all instances, finally revealed him as a friend of peace, and we cannot doubt that the happy adjustment of all our controversies with Germany came about because he was able in calmer atmosphere of the United States to influence the statement of his country at a time when their comments were not calculated to induce them to give full consideration to our representations.

JAPANESE MISSIONARIES ARE ACTIVE IN CHINA

Tokio.—There is increasing evidence that Japanese Buddhists are to undertake propagation of the faith in China with greatly renewed zeal. The movement is one of several demonstrations with which the Japanese people are trying to emphasize their national spirit, in connection with the forthcoming ceremonies of accession of the Emperor Yoshihito, and the movement is singularly noteworthy because it was through China and Korea that Buddhism came to Japan.

The force of Japanese missionaries in China has already been increased, and the campaign for further missionary work is in full swing. The movement is frankly explained as both religious and political.

The Buddhist leaders, especially the progress, contend that the propagation of religion in China has been monopolized too much by Christianity and denied too much to Japanese.

The object of Buddhist propagation in China should be attained they declare, on the principle of humanity and charity.

WEST INDIAN STORM HAS BEEN CLOUDED DOWN

Washington, Oct. 8.—The West Indian storm reported over the Gulf of Mexico had been "clouded down" Thursday night by a strong high pressure prevailing in the interior of the United States and its force was reduced to almost negligible proportions.

Reports to the weather bureau said the disturbance was decreasing in velocity and probably would disappear by Friday. Gulf coast storm warnings raised today were ordered lowered.

COTTON IRREGULAR, CLOSES SEVERAL POINTS DOWN

After Opening Higher Market Declines And Closes Steady At Small Decline.

New York Oct. 8.—The cotton market was very irregular today, opening eight or ten points above last night's close and quickly falling. Trading was less active during the early afternoon, and after having shown steady losses of about 12 to 15 points the market ruled steady with January working up from 12.67 to 12.30 on a point of last night's closing figures.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Wheat suffered a material setback in values today owing to the huge crop estimates contained in the government report. Lower quotations at Liverpool exerted a distinct influence against the bulls. On the break, however, commission houses with resting orders turned largely to the buying side. Opening prices which ranged from 5-8 up to 1 and 5-8 down with December at 1.04 and 1.04 1/2 and May at 1.04 3/4 to 1.05 1/2 were followed by additional losses before the decline was checked. Corn was affected by the heaviness of the crop report. The market after opening 3-8 lower to 1-8 up underwent a general slack. Seaboard buying steadied oats.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY BEING OBSERVED HERE

School Children Hear Talks By Principals and Hold Fire Drills in Observance of Day

With statistics showing that a very large majority of fires in Texas are preventable, with the exercise of proper care, the governor has set aside today as "Fire Prevention Day" in this State. Its observance is supposed to be marked by the removing of conditions that lead to fires such as accumulation of trash and inflammable material in dangerous places and by paying closer attention to fire risk conditions. The day is being observed in Wichita Falls by the school children, who have been given lectures on the subject of fire prevention and what to do and what not to do to prevent fires. Fire drills also are being held. The day was thus observed in all the local schools.

RUMORS OF OIL STRIKE ARE DISCOUNTED HERE

Pending Further Developments Producers Co. Report Only Light Showing in Wilbarger

The Producers Oil Company's well in Wilbarger county was the subject of further rumors today, but company officials stated that there was nothing that could be called an oil well. Recently the company shot one of the shallower showings which was the basis of a former rumor, and while the result is not yet known, there is said to be nothing more than a light showing.

The Producers Company now has 22 locations in the Electra district, and has contributed largely to the increased activity in that section. There are 27 rigs going up at Electra and a total of over 40 are now running at Electra, Burk Burnett and Petrolia.

MARTIN'S SELZ ROYAL BLUE SHOE STORE

All leathers $1.75 to $2.50 for Children $3.00 for Young Women

MOTHERS

You will be glad to know you can now buy a perfect shoe for your child

Professor Thomas D. Wood of Columbia University says:

"One million school children in the United States have spinal curvature, flat foot or some moderate deformity serious enough to interfere to some degree with health."

Dr. Evans in the Chicago Tribune says:

"One million school children are doomed to go through life more or less incapacitated, limited in their earning capacity and uncomfortable for the remainder of their lives."

THIS is a matter worthy of your most serious consideration. You must take the responsibility for the health and comfort of your child. In offering the New "Selz Waukenphast Jr.," you are urged to accept these shoes with fullest confidence. They are the result of years of experiment on the part of the best designing talent available in the great Selz factories, those possessing scientific knowledge of the human foot. The feet retain perfect repose in these shoes, and have plenty of toe room.

These scientifically constructed shoes are now displayed in our windows and ready for your closer inspection in our store

WEATHER CONDITIONS UNFAVORABLE TO ALLIES

General Winter Will Soon Come to Aid of Turks in Defense of the Dardanelles

London.—The hope that the forcing of the Dardanelles might be accomplished by the middle of October when the weather and the seas are likely to become more favorable has been often discussed by British officers here. Not that there will be any diminution of effort at that time, but there is a full realization that conditions will then be more favorable.

An observer who has been in the Marmora vicinity for 30 years, making close meteorological records, while admitting that the winter is not so agreeable for military achievements, describes what sort of weather may be expected and gives these general observations in the Westminster Gazette.

To those who have relatives or friends at the Dardanelles, let them send good strong warm stockings for the men besides the usual waist-coats and mufflers; and as for creature comforts, sweets, chocolate and tobacco, especially cigarettes. It is the Turks who will suffer from the cold; they cannot stand it long and being fed generally mainly on bread, they have no stamina to meet cold weather. Most of their troops came from warm climes.

November, according to this scientist, has a cold snap or two early in the last week but many people call it the most glorious month of the year. The battle of Lule Burgas was fought three years ago on the fifth, sixth and seventh of that month, in a storm of raging rain and sleet, succeeded by several nights of hard frost, which caused the death of many a wounded and neglected soldier. Another year there was a heavy snowstorm on November 16-17, yet after such setbacks the weather usually recovers and grows warmer.

No real winter need be looked for he says, till the middle of January when there are heavy snows which have been known to lie six weeks, and with them come the sales which make the sailors from the sea a different task. He points out that of late years no great cold has visited the Marmora though in 1893 the Golden Horn from the inner bridge of Constantinople was frozen so people walked about on the ice and floes were about for several weeks, this being an exceptional season. Winter is said to have finished its ways by the middle of April.

That this naturalist has confined his observations to land and not to sea conditions may make him more optimistic about the climate which the British seem to regard as likely to increase their difficulties. One writer with the expedition has commented on the general expectation that there will be very serious work for the destroyers, trawlers, and picket boats, as well as for the larger ships when the ice begins to come up out of the south-west, and that undoubtedly is perfectly indicated by all in charge of the operations.

On the other hand, the defender of the Straits are making the most of the weather probabilities to encourage their supporters. For example, the Berlin Lokalanzeiger reports that the Turks are expecting another furious attack before the equinoctial storms arrive to prevent absolutely the continuance of the campaign till spring. The same paper says the equinoctial storms in this region, particularly in the Saros Bay are very severe, adding "the allies appreciate that even one such storm which is inevitable, will be sufficient to prevent the landing of supplies and ammunition, the transfer of wounded to the ships and the carrying of water to the troops, for only the most powerful ships by the use of their power can withstand such a storm as every winter brings in Saros bay, while the use of lighters and small boats is out of the question for days or weeks at a time."

SENIOR BOYS APPEAR IN UNUSUAL MAKEUP

Attend Classes in Blue Shirts and Overalls—Pictures Taken for the Coyote

The first ripple of excitement by the hitherto calm sea of high school life was occasioned this morning when the boys of the senior class appeared at the opening classes at the blue shirts, overalls or khaki. White vests, cloth top shoes, bow ties and other incongruities were in evidence in the get up of some of the members. Their appearance caused many a smile on the campus and in the study hall and recitation rooms but there was no disorder. Pictures were made of the bunch this afternoon to go in the Coyote.

RECEIVER APPOINTED IN PENDING DIVORCE HEARING

In the 78th district court today, the case of Mrs. Idou vs. W. M. Idou was heard by Judge Nicholson. This suit was for injunction, receiver and alimony. A suit for divorce has also been filed, but service has not been completed and Mrs. Idou asked that her husband be restrained from interfering in the management of the store, which is their joint property, that a receiver be named for the store, and that she be allowed alimony. Judge Nicholson ordered the store placed in the hands of a receiver, who is to pay Mrs. Idou $20 weekly for her support.

MUCH COMPLAINT OF THEFT OF FLOWERS HERE LATELY

Hereafter when dear teacher gets a handsome bunch of roses or other flowers from one of her pupils, an inquiry into the source of the flowers may rob them of some of their fragrance. Complaint has been made to the police department that the flowers in the city parks are being ruthlessly taken by children and steps are being taken to stop the practice. One little boy who was seen making away with a fine bunch of the city's roses recently was asked what he intended to do with them.

"They're for my teacher," he said.

Flowers have not only been picked, but in some cases the plants have been pulled up by the roots, and if the police department keeps its promise flowers will appear less often on some teachers' desks.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN REDEEMS FAMOUS CHAMPIONSHIP BELT.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The famous championship belt presented to John L. Sullivan by admiring friends in 1887 and later left him in Chicago as security for a $4,000 loan, today was again in the possession of the veteran heavy-weight pugilist. Sullivan redeemed it from a jewelry firm yesterday, paying $5,300. The celebrated trophy is made up of 350 diamonds and four pounds of gold. The former champion regarded the belt as his most cherished possession until shortly after he was defeated in 1892 by Corbett in New Orleans.

RUSSIAN DEMANDS REJECTED BY BULGARIA, WHICH SENDS AN ULTIMATUM TO SERBIA

By Associated Press. Petrograd, Oct. 6.—Bulgaria has rejected the Russian demands and has sent an ultimatum to Serbia concerning Macedonia. According to information which has reached the Serbian border, Bulgaria demands that Serbia reply to the ultimatum within twenty-four hours.

PREMIER BREAKS WITH KING ON SUBJECT OF TREATY WITH SERBIA

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 6.—A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Athens says that Premier Venizelos in an interview declared the resignation of the cabinet was made inevitable because of impossibility of reconciling the premiers' interpretation of Greece treaty obligations toward Serbia with the opinion of King Constantine on the subject.

GREEK PREMIER'S RESIGNATION ADDS TO COMPLICATIONS

BREAK WITH KING CONSTANTINE OVER WAR POLICY IS CAUSE, BUT ALLIES CONTINUE TO LAND LARGE FORCES AT SALONIKI.

FRENCH RESUMING OFFENSIVE

Berlin Reports Champagne Attack is Checked by Heavy Bombardment Reported in Progress all Along the Western Battle Line.

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 6.—The resignation of Premier Venizelos and his cabinet has been accepted by King Constantine of Greece. Official advices to this effect were received in London today.

The Greek premier's resignation, which has further complicated the already decidedly uncertain Balkan situation, was because the king informed Venizelos that he could not pursue the cabinet policy to the end, according to Athens advices. The premier had indicated that he favored strong support of Serbia in compliance with Greece's treaty obligations.

With definite developments of the course to be pursued by Bulgaria, Greece and Rumania still lacking, the landing of allied troops at Saloniki continues. Additional French forces disembarked there today, supplementing the force of 70,000 already landed, it is reported from Athens.

Official telegrams from Athens to the Greek legation today said Premier Venizelos relinquished his office at 9:30 last night. No reasons were given, though the former clash of opinion between the king and premier, resulting in the latter's temporary retirement from office, left little doubt that the present instance involves the now familiar issue raised by Venizelos' insistence that Greece quickly strike in behalf of Serbia and the entente powers.

If Bulgaria joins the Teutonic allies she will enter the war under conditions less favorable than a few weeks ago. The Russians, with reinforcements and a slowly increasing amount of artillery, seem to be striking harder blows daily and the official German communications no longer register measurable advances.

The situation in the west has reached a stage of renewal of preparation, following the recent allied offensive, and the Germans are still struggling to regain the lost ground. Intensive artillery action is again predominant on the French front indicating that the positions won have been consolidated and that preparations for another attack are under way.

An attempt by the French to resume the offensive on the Champagne front, by heavy artillery fire against the German position was frustrated today with heavy losses by the German artillery. It was announced by the German war office today.

Roumania is showing signs of activity, hurriedly sending troops to the Bulgarian frontier and taking other military measures of an extraordinary nature, it is said in news agency dispatches from Greek sources.

It is claimed in an Athens dispatch that a scene of wild disorder in the Greek chamber followed the announcement of the cabinet's resignation.

Only artillery fighting with some hand grenade operations are reported from the front in France. The French claim to have made some progress in connecting trenches in the Artois region.

PORTER CHARLTON TRIAL IN ITALY

AMERICAN CHARGED WITH KILLING HIS WIFE OVER FIVE YEARS AGO.

INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE PLEA

Case Has Attracted Attention by Reason of International Questions Involved in It.

Como, Italy, Oct. 6.—Porter Charlton went on trial here Tuesday. From the first case in which the prisoner in Italy is always confined in the court room, the young American, not yet 25, listened to the opening of the case. From the start it was clear that the defense would attempt to prove that he was insane when he killed with a mallet his wife of less than a month on the night of June 7, 1910, stuffed her body in a trunk and threw it into the depths of Lake Como.

The strangeness of the crime was not lessened by the medieval cage, and the two fantastically costumed "chibbers" who guarded him, with their Napoleonic hats, gaiters, and their decorated uniforms, appearing in spite of the sinister setting like opera bouffon choruses.

Charlton is an American with Italian lawyers, in an Italian court being tried by Italian methods. However, in the two years since he was taken back to Italy, he was learned the Italian language sufficiently well to be able to follow the progress of his trial.

The jury which will hear the pleas is an unusual one for Italy. It is made up almost entirely of professional men, and the reports of the alienists who have been watching the prisoner will not fall upon ignorant ears. There have been three reports by alienists—all of a type familiar in America, which will be introduced at the trial. The first, for the defense, declared him insane at the time the crime was committed. The second for the crown, declared him sane and the third, provided by the government left aloopholes both ways.

Story of the Crime. Charlton, a clerk in a New York banking house, married Mary Scott Castle, May 12, 1910. She was twice his age, had been well known in San Francisco and New York, and had short experience on the stage. She was of intensely passionate and jealous nature, and when Charlton met her she was in the hands of a man who was shooting at William Gray, a broker in the elevator of the Waldorf-Astoria. She fascinated Charlton, and the attention of the young man pleased her.

They sailed for Genoa four days after their marriage and immediately they began a series of violent quarrels. They went through Italy and to the shores of Como, where their quarrels were so strenuous that they were asked to leave the hotel. Then they rented the Villa Legnazzi at Moltrasio, where the crime was committed.

It is said that the experience drove Charlton into periods of insanity during one of which he killed her. The details may cause part of the trials to be conducted behind locked doors. The final quarrel came late at night June 7 and at its height Charlton, blind with rage, picked up a mallet and beat her to death. He put the body in a trunk and sank it in the lake. Then he fled. The trunk was found two days later and search was made for Charlton's body for it was believed that he, too, was the victim of a murder. He was arrested as he walked down the gang plank of the Princess Irene in New York harbor. He had sailed from Genoa. He confessed the crime, but he and his father, Judge Charlton, fought extradition, and it was not until August, 1913, that the United States supreme court decided that he must return to Italy to stand trial. There he was lodged in an asylum for observation. Italian legal processes are slow, but the trial was finally set for August, 1914.

SECOND FRY CASE TESTIMONY BEGINS

IOWA PARK RESIDENTS PREDOMINATE ON JURY WHICH WAS CHOSEN.

MORE MURDER TRIAL ECHOES

Defense Takes Exception to State's Opening Statement—First Witnesses Testify This Afternoon.

The jury for the trial of E. W. Fry on a second indictment charging forgery was completed this morning and the taking of testimony was started this afternoon. The jury which is made up largely of farmers living near Iowa Park, was completed at about eleven o'clock this morning after both the defense and the state had exhausted the ten challenges allowed each in all about seven-fifty five taismen were examined, more than half the number being disqualified from knowledge of the case or some other valid reason.

The jury as finally sworn in comprised the following: J. B. Whitman, grocer, Wichita Falls; L. P. Webb, collector, Wichita Falls; P. A. Anderson, contractor, Wichita Falls.

W. P. Cherry, farmer, Iowa Park; J. C. Hill, farmer, Iowa Park; W. H. Alberding, farmer, Iowa Park; W. H. Johnson, farmer, Iowa Park; Walter Willard, farmer, Burk Burnett; M. H. Young, farmer, Iowa Park; C. A. Peterson, farmer, Iowa Park; G. B. Taylor, carpenter, Iowa Park; W. M. Winchell, farmer, Iowa Park.

The indictment in case now being tried charges the forgery of the signature of "T. E. Jones." Judge P. A. Martin made the opening statement for the state. He read the indictment and reviewed the events leading up to the trial. He indicated that the state's case would be much the same as the one on which Judge Fry was found guilty. In reviewing the events, connected with the case he had reached the point in his narrative where he said the state expected to place J. B. Litschke on the stand to testify at being at Judge Fry's house on the night of the shooting at the court house and of seeing Judge Fry and others in disguise. At this point Judge Taylor of the defense entered an objection declaring that if Judge Martin was going to tell about this he ought to tell about Ed Johnson being there, and that Judge Fry had been tried and acquitted on a charge of murder. Judge Fitzgerald overruled the objection. Judge Martin proceeded to tell the jury that Judge Fry had been acquitted and that it was not the intention of the state to renew the murder trial. It was time for the noon adjournment when Judge Martin finished his statement. He went into detail concerning the manner of conducting the business affairs of Young county—especially referring to the manner of checking accounts and the issuance of warrants and vouchers.

I. B. Padgett, former county treasurer of Young county, was the first on the stand. His testimony was for the most part that to do with the manner of issuing warrants and vouchers and of checking accounts. He was still on the stand at three o'clock.

SANTA FE HAS ASSUMED EXPLOSION RESPONSIBILITY

Armore, Okla., Oct. 5.—T. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe Railway Company, states that the Santa Fe Railway Company is not inclined to wait for the judgment of the courts upon liability of the company growing out of last Monday's explosion, and proposes that a careful investigation of the claims for death, personal injury and property loss be taken up by a committee of six persons who have been named by the mayor and board of commissioners, as a compromise committee. Mr. Ripley asks that a statement of the individual losses be sent to the company with a view to making an immediate cash settlement upon a reasonable basis. This telegram was a great relief to the people as a whole and upon the assurance that all damages will be paid in cash at an early date, business will become normal much earlier.

WILSON'S VIEWS ON NATIONAL DEFENSE OUTLINED TODAY

"NATION CONVINCED WE OUGHT TO BE ADEQUATELY PREPARED, NOT FOR WAR, BUT FOR DEFENSE," HE TELLS EXPERTS.

"SPIRIT OF TRUE DEMOCRACY"

New Advisory Board of Navy, Headed by Thomas A. Edison, Holds Its First Session—Secretary Daniels Addresses Members.

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Wilson outlined his attitude toward the national defense question today to the new advisory board of the navy. He believed he said, the whole nation was "convinced that we ought to be prepared not for war but for defense, and very adequately prepared."

The board met in the office of Secretary Daniels who delivered a brief address calling attention to the development of ordnance and instruments of destruction during the present war in Europe.

"We may not," the secretary said, "expect to build the biggest navy in the world but with the help of this board we must have a navy every unit of which must be as nearly perfect as American ingenuity makes it possible."

The president received the members of the board headed by Thomas A. Edison after their preliminary conference with Secretary Daniels and navy officials.

"There is very little that I can say to you," President Wilson said, "except to give you a very cordial welcome and to express my very great pleasure in this association of laymen with the government. But I do want to say this—I think the whole nation is convinced that we ought to be prepared not for war but for defense and very adequately prepared and that the preparation for defense is not merely a technical matter. It is not a matter that the army and navy alone can take care of but a matter in which we must have the cooperation of the best brains and knowledge of the country outside the official service of the government as well as inside."

"For my part I feel that it is only in the spirit of a true democracy that we get together to lend such voluntary aid—the sort of aid that comes from interest and a knowledge of the varied circumstances that are involved in handling a nation."

COMPLETE QUIET IS REPORTED ON BORDER

CONDITIONS INDICATE OFFICIAL BELIEF THAT MORE SECURITY PREVAILS.

RANGER COMPANY WITHDRAWN

Mexicans Continue to Emigrate from Texas at the Rate of More Than Fifty Per Day.

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 6.—Complete quiet was reported today from all army patrols which have been watching for Mexican bandits to cross the Rio Grande on raids near here. The ranger company of Captain J. J. Sanders which has been stationed at the Norlas ranch since the battle fought there early in August, left today, going to Alice, Jim Wells county, a town about 150 miles from the Mexican border. The moving of this company of rangers was an indication of a degree of security which state officials believe has been established in the Brownsville valley.

During the early days of outbreaks all trouble was confined to the section which Captain Sanders' rangers evacuated today. Another indication of improved condition was the fact that the killing of Mexicans suspected to be either bandits or to have shelter bandits has practically stopped. The total number of such killings by vigilantes and peace officers was more than 100.

An average of 50 Mexicans per day have been emigrating from the United States at Hidalgo about 150 miles up the river from here. Many of these emigrants were Mexicans who fled into the United States last spring when Maximilian was in danger of attack from Villa forces. Their return to Mexico now was thought to indicate that most of them believe Carranza authorities are reestablishing safe living conditions on the Mexican side. A few of these emigrants were leaving Texas, they said, because of bandit trouble.

FORMIDABLE PROGRAM FOR NAVY IS NOW BEING URGED

Would Establish Basis of at Least 48 Ships of Line, According to Secretary Daniels.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—Congress probably will be asked to approve in December a continuing building policy for the navy having for its object the maintenance of the navy on the basis of at least forty-eight first class battleships. The proportion of super-battle cruisers, scouts, destroyers, submarines and auxiliaries would be worked out from this figure.

Secretary Daniels said the proposal to recommend to congress the establishment of this policy had been discussed by him both with President Wilson and with Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee. The secretary indicated that he was inclined to favor such a plan. "The navy general board for many years has computed its construction estimates on a basis similar to that suggested but the proposal to write 'he plan into an appropriation bill as a definite and continuing building policy never has received the approval of any secretary of the navy."

Secretary Daniels declared that if the policy received the approval of the people he had little doubt that congress would follow it in principle so that the yearly expenditure on the navy could be computed in advance with a considerable degree of accuracy. Congress will be asked also to make more liberal provisions in reserves of ammunition than ever before has been thought necessary. Secretary Daniels said the necessity of huge reserves of ammunitions had been the most striking lesson drawn from the European war. The amount to be sought for this purpose was not disclosed.

PRESIDENT IS FOR WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE IN STATE ELECTION

WILL JOIN VOTES FOR WOMEN SUFFRAGE WHEN NEW JERSEY VOTES ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ON OCTOBER 19.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE TODAY

Says Will Vote on Convictions as a Private Citizen and Not as Leader of His Party—Thinks Time Has Come To Extend Ballot.

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Wilson will vote for the woman's suffrage constitutional amendment in New Jersey, his home State, at the special election October 19. The following statement was given out today at the White House: "I intend to vote for women's suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State. But I shall vote, not as the leader of my party in the nation but only upon my private conviction as a citizen of New Jersey, called upon by the legislature of the State to express his conviction at the polls. I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefited by the change."

PROGRESSIVES WILL NAME STATE TICKET IN LOUISIANA

Prohibition and Suffrage Are Expected to Play Important Parts in Campaign.

New Orleans, Oct. 6.—The Democratic state central committee of Louisiana at a meeting here designated January 25th next as the date for holding the Democratic primary. An entire state ticket will be nominated to be voted for at the general election, April 18, 1916. The campaign already has developed unusual interest. The Progressives claim they will offer the Democrats formidable opposition for the governorship. John M. Parker, Progressive leader in the state and a close friend of Colonel Roosevelt, has announced himself as a candidate. The Democratic aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination are R. G. Pleasant, attorney general; T. C. Barrett, lieutenant governor and Dr. Clarence Pearson, superintendent of one of the state hospitals.

Prohibition and woman suffrage are expected to play an important part both in the primary and general election. Pleasant has stated publicly that he is for the present system of the parish as the local option unit on the liquor question but that he "always has voted against liquor when the question has arisen in his home community."

Dr. Pearson has declared he favors the present local option law but if the legislature should enlarge the unit to the congressional district he would approve the bill. Barrett has come out for the congressional district as the unit and has advocated abolition of statewide prohibition to the people.

In his platform, Parker declared against prohibition and for the present local option law.

AMERICAN CONSUL GENERAL IN LONDON TO RETURN HOME

Leave of Absence May Have Some Bearing Upon American Protest to London.

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 6.—Robert P. Skinner, American consul general, will sail for the United States within three weeks, on a short leave. Mr. Skinner would not discuss today the report from Washington that the American note to Great Britain relative to the detention of American goods, would be held up until his return to Washington.

Representatives of American shipping interests hope Mr. Skinner's visit to the United States may lessen their difficulties. The main trouble has been the method adopted by the British authorities in releasing cargoes bound for Holland and Scandinavia. More reliance is placed on the personal reputation of exporters and importers and the belief of British officials in the good faith of the consignors and consignees than in formal declarations.

WORLD'S MERCHANT TONNAGE

TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA

"The trade of the United States with South America is showing a marked improvement, particularly in exports to the United States. It is a peculiar fact that during the first half year of the war period, exports from this country to the South American continent showed a marked decline, but in the more recent months a wonderful improvement has taken place."

NEW EPISCOPAL CHURCH BUILDING DEDICATED

FIRST SERVICES IN HANDSOME EDIFICE

LARGE CROWD IS PRESENT AT CEREMONIES OF MORNING AND EVENING.

ADDRESS BY BISHOP GARRETT

Visiting Divines Take Part in Ceremony—Music is Notable Feature of the Exercises.

From Monday's Daily. Sunday marked an important epoch in the history of the Episcopalian congregation of Wichita Falls, that of the dedication of their second church edifice, almost exactly 30 years after the first church was founded here.

Following the lines laid down for church construction by the Church of England the edifice is a handsome brown structure and in both exterior and interior is an architectural triumph.

For the dedication services Bishop Garrett of Dallas was present, having assisted at a similar service for the congregation thirty years ago in the old edifice which was dedicated yesterday.

The church was the subject of the morning's sermon by Rev. Datson and the peculiar significance of the church and its sacred service and special music as a feature of the worship, both morning and evening.

Both services were largely attended, the dedicatory services bringing out a large number of other congregations who were interested in this important event in the religious circles of Wichita Falls.

The Episcopalian will enter into worship in their new church building with Rev. Datson commencing the second six months of the second year of his incumbency, each month of which has marked unusual progress in the church life.

CRITICAL PERIODS IN MAN'S EXPERIENCE

PASTOR TELLS OF NEED OF FAITH WHEN MOMENTS OF DECISION ARRIVE

FAILURE OF ISRAEL IS CITED

Is Compared to Crisis That Are Encountered in Individual Lives. Sunday Evening Sermon

The importance of faith in the Almighty in the crisis of life was shown by Rev. C. C. Smith in his sermon Sunday evening at the First M. E. Church. The pastor compared man's experiences in the decided moments of life to those of the children of Israel at Kadesh-barnea.

It is very common to take the history of Israel and their varied experiences as a type of man's individual life. There can be no doubt but what studied in this way this interesting bit of history furnishes many splendid lessons.

Israel so often succeeded in the preliminaries and then failed in the final. They approached victory and lost at the critical moment. In this they very fittingly represent humanity.

Israel's Crisis. Israel came to a crisis at Kadesh-barnea. The very name has come to stand for a crisis in literature.

Every emergency. But when they came near to the final test of entering the promised land their faith failed. Instead of trusting God as they had done before they must now send spies ahead to search out and catalog all the difficulties in the way.

us, for His own benefit and we get into rebellion against Him. We do not see that He is doing anything for our welfare. We want our wills to rule. We are not willing to be subject into Him.

When Men Must Decide. Men reach crises in their moral lives. Some decisions are more far-reaching than others because they determine so conclusively whether we will go forward as God calls us or backward as we are inclined to do.

Wherein Israel Failed. There were evidenced several dispositions in this case with Israel, all of which helped to bring on this crisis into which they plunged.

Body of Slain Negress Shipped to Home at Linnis

No Complaint Yet Filed Against Negro Man Who Was Arrested Last Saturday Night.

From Monday's Daily. The body of Pearl Brantford, the negress who was killed Saturday night by blows on the head from a hammer, was shipped to Linnis today.

Justice of the Peace Howard had declined to make a sworn statement. Thompson was employed as a cook at the Union Station cafe.

An overcoat belonging to a negro porter on the Katy was found on the floor of the room covered with blood.

The porter was the one who reported finding the woman wounded. However, he has been able to show a conclusive alibi and is not suspected in connection with the attack.

With the assent of the court and the attorneys for the state, Sheriff Hawkins into whose custody Judge Fry was placed by the verdict allowed him to confer with his attorneys today without surveillance until after the motion for a new trial is heard.

There were only a few persons in the court room when the verdict was returned. Some had expected an acquittal when it was announced that the jury was ready to report.

Up until the final ballot this morning the jury is reported to have stood seven to five for conviction. Seven of the jurors, it is said, wanted to convict Fry under the first charge of the indictment alleging the forging and passing of forged instruments.

All of the jurors were ready to sign a verdict of guilty, it is said, on the charge alleging the passing of a forged instrument, knowing it to be such.

The five jurors who had held out this morning after a conference among themselves, wanted to impose in case of a verdict of guilty, although some had suggested a longer term, a penalty of two years was agreed upon, and adopted on the first ballot after a verdict of guilty had been reached.

The verdict read: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and assess his punishment at two years in prison."

Change of Venue Sought. The defense announced at 1:30 this afternoon that it would ask for a change of venue from Wichita county in the second case. As it would take several hours to bring witnesses into court on this motion the motion for a new trial was taken up.

The defense in its motion for a new trial alleged misconduct by the jury in discussing the case and also attacked the form of the verdict. It was expected that most of the afternoon would be taken up in arguing this motion. If this motion is disposed of before time for adjournment the examination of witnesses in the defense motion for a change of venue will be taken up. It is unlikely that any decision will be reached in the charge of venue motion before tomorrow.

T. S. Sparks was on trial before a jury in the county court today on a charge of swindling. The charge results from a check transaction.

FREE YET CAPTIVE

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

It had been a miserable dinner—the fireless had been overpeppered, the sweet potatoes had been burned in the baking and the dessert had been a grotesque assemblage of half-stewed fruits.

Mr. Amory pushed aside his plate in disgust and touched his lips to the coffee.

"Mud!" he muttered, tragically. "I am afraid that Marta is obsessed by the general uneasiness," flattered his gentle little wife.

"As we all are," frankly admitted their niece, Barbara Dare. "Haven't we been sleeping with one eye open—at least I have—and when I heard that Villa's army was on the way to San Vados my heart actually turned completely over!"

"Mr. Amory laughed. "The Bobs! And I've been counting on you as my right-hand man if they attack the mine."

Barbara colored beautifully and her eyes flashed. "Oh, Uncle Dan, of course if it came down to actual defense of our lives, every bit of fear would leave me at once."

"Well, for my part, I'd rather take good advice and leave San Vados while there is time to do it gracefully," Mrs. Amory says when the critical moment comes—we must drop everything and fly in the motor that he will send from town. How I hate this Mexico!"

Mrs. Amory arose and clumsy-footed Marta came in to remove the cloth.

In the veranda of the adobe house the three sat and watched the stars pricking out in the deep blue sky. They were very silent; perhaps each one was weighing the gravity of the situation that confronted them after many months of false alarms.

Suddenly out of the silence there came the distant purr of a motor coming over the Ledro bridge.

Amory tossed his cigar over the railing and rose to his tall height. "I rather think that's Ritch's automobile," he said.

"You won't go, Uncle Dan?" asked Barbara eagerly.

"Of course, we will go, Bobs," interrupted her aunt's voice sharply. "You should be thankful that Mr. Ritch has provided a means for us to reach the coast and take a ship to San Diego. I'm going to get my things—I've had them packed for three weeks—and you had better get together anything you especially treasure. We shall never see Mexico again, if I have my way!"

"Are you really going, Uncle Dan?" urged Barbara. "Of course, I know that you've had everything closed up at the mines and—oh, here he comes!" she sighed impatiently. "His lights are out, too."

Something black loomed out of the darkness of the drive and a large motor car halted at the steps. A man alighted and came onto the veranda.

"Mr. Amory" he asked in a crisp, authoritative tone.

"Yes."

"Mr. Ritch asked me to take your people to the coast. The Ritch's have barely escaped with their lives and Mr. Ritch is slightly wounded. They're half-way to the coast now. I think we can overtake them if we hurry."

"We had about decided to stay and fight it out," hesitated Mr. Amory. "Fight it out with what?" demanded the other. "How many men can you depend on? Ritch thought he could depend on 200 and every blamed greaser joined the rebel forces and chased him off his own plantation. I believe in going while the going's good!"

safety just because you don't like me?" "It seems to be a unanimous decision," retorted Amory grimly. "Are you aware that a band of 75 Mexicans is encamped five miles below here and that it is their boast that the Amory house will be a ruin by morning and the Amorys—" he paused uncertainly.

"The Amorys will fight their own battles!" finished Amory obstinately. "If Ritch had sent his own car—had come himself—would you have gone with him?" demanded Campbell in an ugly tone.

"Very likely the fight would have proved more attractive to us," sneered Mr. Amory.

Silence followed. Then came a clatter of shoes on the stones. "Who is that?" asked Amory sharply while the women held breath.

"Adios, señor!" shrilled Marta's voice, and they knew that she was fleeing with the faithful Pedro.

Barbara had joined her uncle and aunt and the three stood in a little group at the edge of the veranda. A dim light from the hall showed them standing in still opposition to the burly young mine owner who had been their enemy.

Suddenly something flashed in the lamplight and the Amorys winced to find themselves staring into a pair of long, blue-nosed guns held in the muscular hands of Mr. Gordon Campbell.

"Hands up," he ordered sharply, "and, believe me, I mean every word of it!" He snapped. When they had obeyed dazedly, Amory muttering threats of vengeance, Campbell continued: "Mrs. Amory and Miss Dare, you will please walk down and get into the car. You, Mr. Amory, will hand over any guns you may have—thanks. Now, Amory, just—hurry!"

Those bundles into the tonneau and take your seat beside me. Got any cats and dogs you want along—no? Well, here's hoping you come back again some day." The machine trembled and then shot forward into the night, Daniel Amory grumbling at the bonds Campbell had knotted about his wrists.

As they swept into the highway there came a rush of hoofs from the east and the moonshine glittered on the meager accoutrements of the attacking cavalry. There was a roar of anger from the Mexicans as the machine and its occupants disappeared around a bend in the road, and there followed a clatter of hoofs and rattling volleys of musketry.

"Just in time," admitted Daniel Amory sheepishly.

Campbell said nothing. Barbara, holding her frightened aunt in her strong, young arms, felt that she hated Gordon Campbell for the high-handed manner in which he had saved their lives.

Campbell stopped the car and got out and lighted the big searchlight at the front. Then in a broad, triangular path of white light they went down the hill.

There they could see the bridge still stretching its wooden spans across the black gorge.

"Thank God!" Campbell muttered, and his three captives, knowing that a grave danger had been averted, felt a sudden revulsion of feeling toward Gordon Campbell. As they rounded the shoulder of a hill a glare of light from above showed them that their home was in flames and their departure had been none too soon.

Across the bridge that swayed under the weight of the heavy car and then on to solid ground again, they turned, west and mile after mile carried from under the tires until at last they could smell the salt savor of the Pacific.

Just as dawn was breaking behind them Campbell turned in his seat and with a flash of his peankee severed Amory's bonds.

"I'm sorry that it was necessary, Amory," he said brusquely. "Now, perhaps the ladies would like refreshments; you will find food in the lunch hamper on the left side—and hot and cold drinks in the thermos bottles."

Amory opened the lunch hamper and supplied the wants of his wife and niece. He passed several sandwiches and a cup of coffee to his captor, but took nothing himself. He was feeling mightily ashamed of himself and the part he had played.

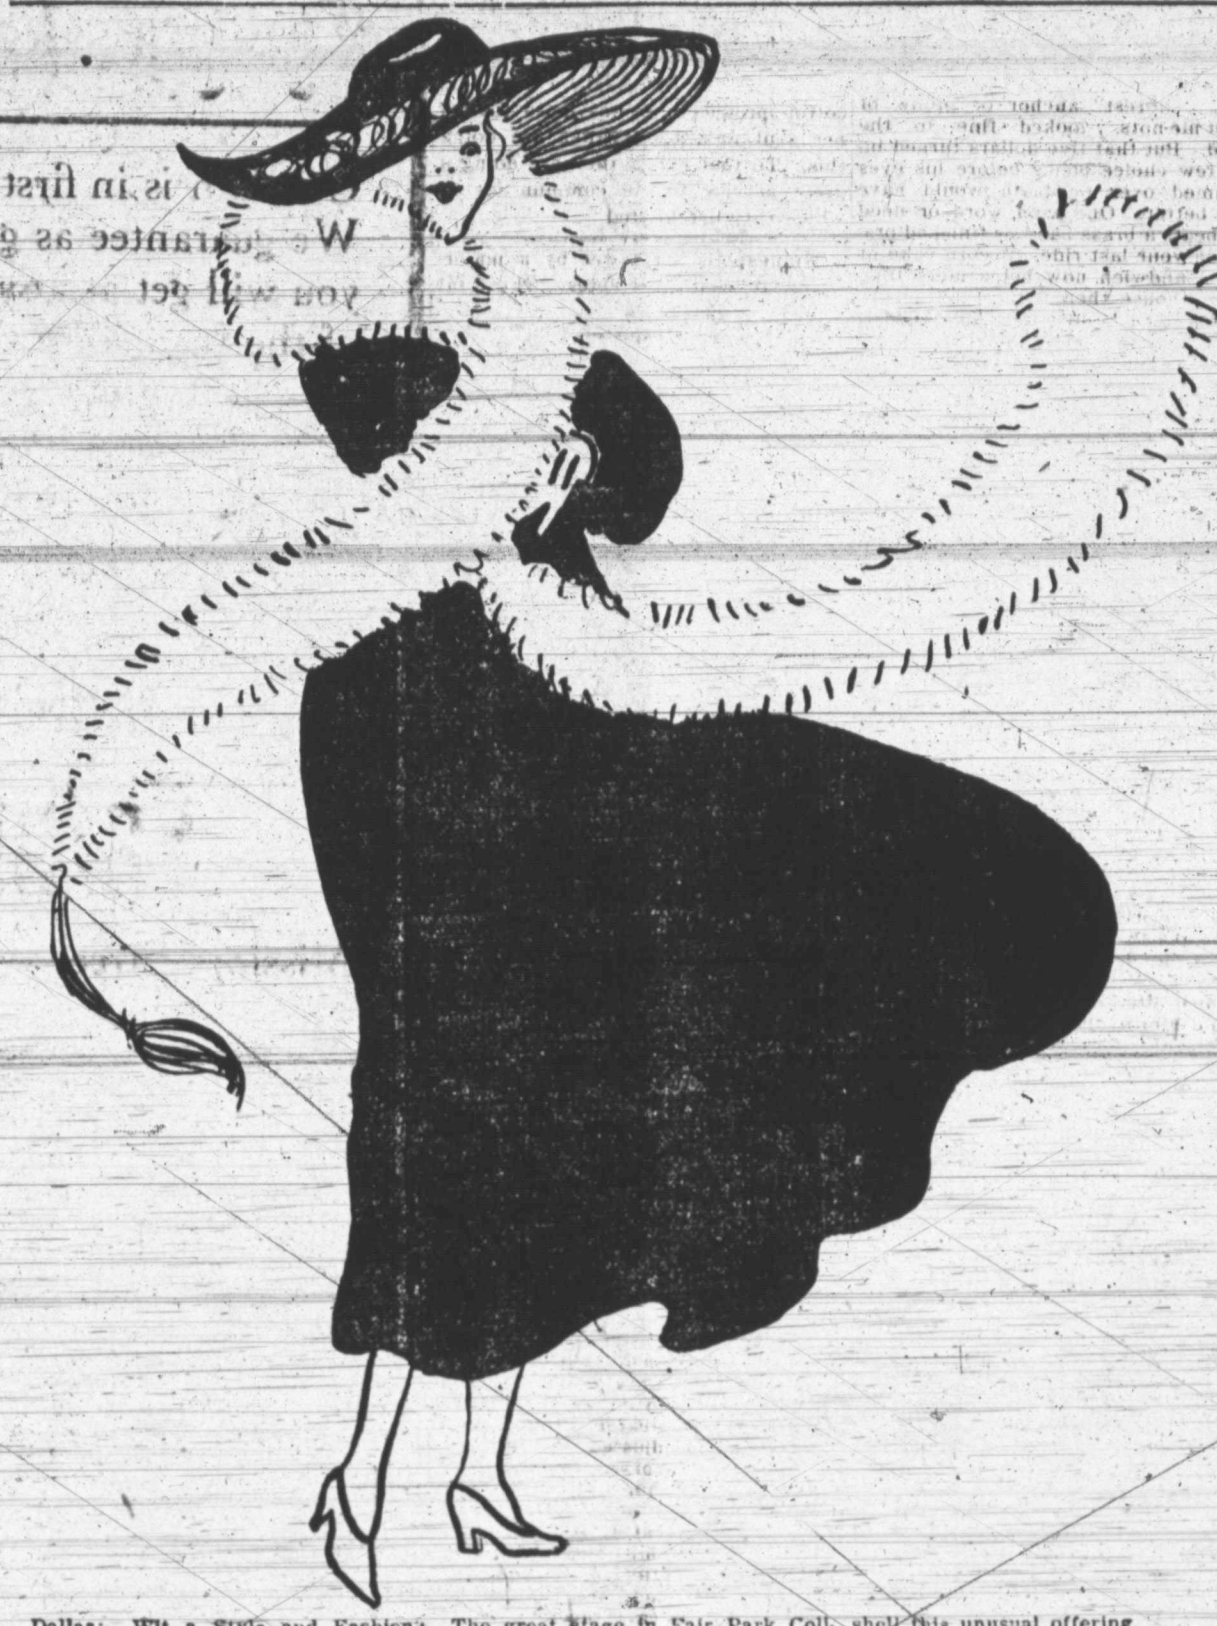

When they reached a rise of ground that showed the blue ocean sparkling in the sunshine, while the white walls of a peaceful town slumbered at its edge, Gordon turned his gray eyes on Daniel Amory.

"Below us is a little town of Santa Ana. You will see three ships in the harbor flying the Star and Stripes. We will be safe aboard in half an hour."

"You are going, too?" Campbell shook his head. "I'm going back for a few days to finish up my affairs." He threw in the clutch and the car started on its final lap of the journey.

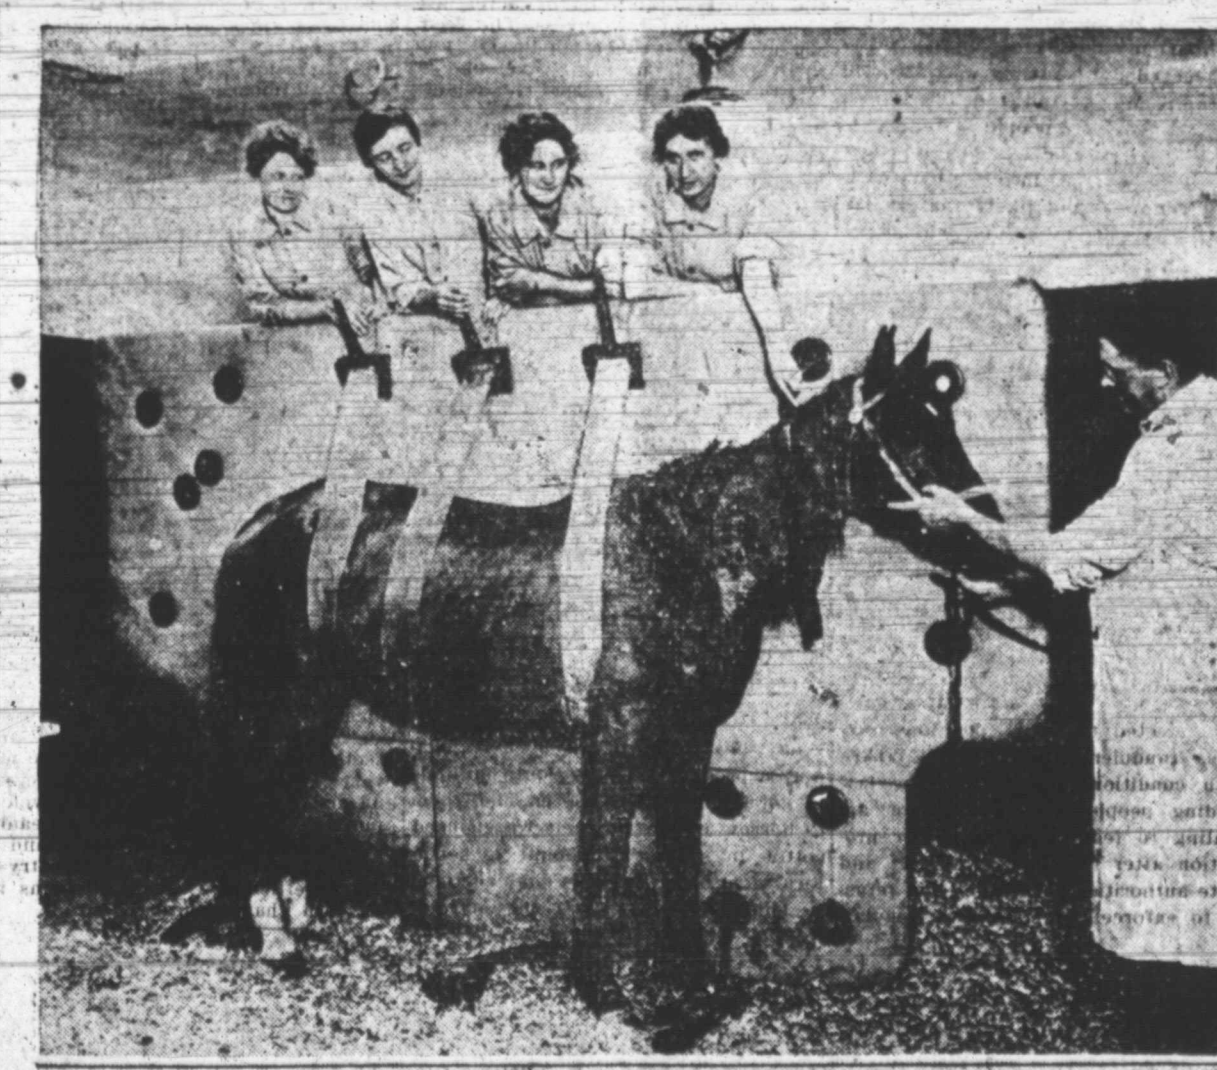

At last came the moment to say farewell to Campbell. The two Amorys were loud in their gratitude. "I am ashamed," murmured Barbara Dare, looking adorable in her humility. "If you can ever forgive our stupidity, I hope you will come and see us and let us thank you again."

FASHION SHOW AT THE FAIR

Dallas: With a Style and Fashion Show in the Coliseum the nights of Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the first week, with fifteen beautiful girls modeling the very latest creations in women's wear of both foreign and domestic artists, the 1915 State Fair of Texas, which opens Saturday, October 16, and closes Sunday, October 31, promises to be of exceptional interest to those of the fair sex, who are consistent State Fair patrons and who appreciate attractions of real worth and of a notable character.

Women Learn To Doctor Beasts As Foot And Mouth Evil Threatens

WOMEN LEARNING TO FIGHT FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE A new profession has been opened to women of this country, that of veterinary surgeon. A Chicago veterinary college has inaugurated a women's class, where the fair sex is taught the art of administering to the ill of horses, dogs and other domestic live stock. Photo shows lecture class, with the subject on the operating table. Additional interest is given to this development of women's sphere by the announcement that officials of the department of commerce are aroused over the spread of the dread foot and mouth disease among the cattle of Illinois, and vigorous efforts are being made to stamp it out. The chief cause for apprehension is the proximity of the infected herds to the great Chicago stockyards, which supplies the nation with much of its meat and exports great quantities abroad.

FOUR YEARS TO SERVE

By JOHN P. ROE.

No. 774 had caught meaning glances from the convicts as they filed into the foundry. He knew their meaning; for weeks a revolt had been brewing, and, strangely enough, this time the guards had no inkling of it. The secret had been well kept.

No. 774 was in for 20 years, and he had served 16. At any time now he might be paroled by the pardons board. But the spirit for freedom was strong in him. He had long since ceased to reason, to be much more than a dumb brute. He knew the odds were fearfully against him. But—outside the sun was shining, and the birds were building. A mad hunger for freedom assailed him.

Only one man in the foundry was ignorant of what was transpiring. That was little 1237, a boy of twenty, serving a life sentence for the murder of the man who had lusted his sweetheart. He had been there only six months. No. 774 could read him like a book. He knew the sudden outbreaks of frenzy, the hopelessness, the longing to see the girl, the certainty that she would forget him as life increased and memories grew fainter. Poor little 1237!

The signal was to be the opening of the outer gates to admit the passage of the trustees, with their carts of slag. No. 774 listened intently.

Creak! Creak! Creak! A simultaneous yell. The men ran toward the doors, brandishing their red-hot bars of steel. The warders shrank away in terror. They were hopelessly overpowered. No. 774 was being carried along in the press. At his side, caught also in the crowd of men, he saw the boy.

He moved like a man in a dream. He heard whistles blowing, he heard a revolver spit spitefully and saw a man near him pitch up his arms and tumble forward.

They were in the outer court. The gatekeeper, an old man with a white pointed beard, was trying to close the gates. No. 774 saw a crowbar descend crashing upon his skull. The gatekeeper fell forward. The men were in the open and racing down the road.

No. 774 came to a realization of what had happened, because, as the crowd separated, he was no longer thrust forward among them. He stopped, gasping. At his side was the boy. His long paralyzed brain began to work.

"Down here!" he gasped, indicating a dry ditch beside the road. He looked back quickly. They were in a little depression which hid them from the prison, or anyone on guard there. There was nobody in sight. No. 774 dropped flat among the tangle of briars, dragging the boy with him.

"We're hidden here," he said. "They'll never look for us so near and they'll get those other fellows as sure as a gun."

Slowly out of the distance came a freight train. It rolled at a slow pace along the meadow banks. It would cross the road that forked with that leading to the prison, and that was only a couple of hundred paces away. They could make it unobserved by running along the gully. And there was ample time.

No. 774 looked at the boy. He looked like a striped caterpillar in his hideous convict garb. He himself, as a first-class prisoner, wore the working garb of any laborer.

"Strip, kid!" he said. "The boy began suddenly to tear off the stripes. In a few minutes the transfer had been effected.

"You'll make the town by night-fall," said 774. "They won't catch you if you jump off before you reach the yards."

"But you?" stammered the boy. "Four years more," answered 774 easily. "I could do that bit on my head. Hurry, kid!"

No. 774 watched him as he ran. He saw the train approach, blowing as it went up the incline, saw the boy scramble under a car. He held his breath involuntarily. But nobody had witnessed that sudden flash out of the gully into the daylight. The train went on.

No. 774 sat still in the gully. He watched the mounted men ride back, shepherding their captives. As they came toward him 774 stepped into the road. A mounted man dashed at him.

"Ah, put up your whip," said 774. "I ran because I was scared. I've been waiting for you."

He took his place in the dejected crowd. A few minutes later they passed through the outer gates, where an old man with his head in a bandage cursed them volubly.

No. 774 felt his heart leap in his breast. It was not murder, then! And his only offense was against the prison rules. They could take away his four years of "copper," but they could give him no more. You cannot improve a man for breaking the prison rules by changing clothes, unless you can prove—but what could he prove?

"The boy knocked me down and took em off me," muttered No. 774. He was back in his cell. Outside the birds were pouring out their evening song. He listened and looked at the calendar upon the wall. "Four years!" he muttered, and then he thought of the boy. "I'll do it on my head," he said, and winked, because his eyes were full of tears. (Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

BATTLE CRUISERS WILL COST GOVERNMENT $18,000,000 EACH

Washington, Oct. 5.—Superbattleships, bigger, faster and more heavily armed than any war craft now afloat or building—and which will cost $18,000,000 each to construct and equip, will be recommended to Congress as a part of the navy building program for next year. Decision on this step was reached at a conference between President Wilson, Secretary Daniels and Representative Padgett, chairman of the House naval affairs committee.

Plans for such a type of vessel as is contemplated already have been prepared under the direction of Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, chief constructor of the navy, and are now being considered by the secretary and members of the general board.

Just how many of the new type ships will be asked for this winter has not been determined. Secretary Daniels said after the conference.

Cost of construction of navy craft has risen since the outbreak of the European war, with the consequent enormous demand upon American resources, some recent steel contracts for the navy showing an increase of 30 per cent over previous prices. Dreadnaughts, which also will be recommended for construction this winter, will cost $18,000,000 each, it is estimated, as against $15,000,000 for those now building. Part of this increase, however, is due to new hull construction to provide greater protection against torpedo attack.

BOLL WEEVIL SPREADS OVER NEW TERRITORY

In Texas, Georgia and Alabama the Weevil Appears in New Districts This Year.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Under normal conditions the boll weevil advances into new territory at the rate of about 50 miles each year, but during a period of only two weeks during the present season there was an advance of about 100 miles.

There were several conditions according to the entomologists of the United States department of agriculture which contributed to this unusual dispersion. One of them was the drought in Alabama and Mississippi, which caused the plants to cease fruiting and deprived the weevils of the squares upon which they prefer to feed.

The department has placed all available forces at work to assist the farmers in the territory that has just become infested. Most of the cotton is now open and this will allow an unusually early picking season.

Another feature of the boll weevil problem which is attracting considerable attention is the damage that is being done in Texas this season. There is a more or less general impression in the eastern part of the cotton belt that the boll weevil has died out in the State of Texas, but the investigations of the department show that the abundance of the insect in that region depends on climatic conditions.

ford, Rev. E. R. Allman of Terrell and other members of the Episcopal clergy are here to take part in the dedicatory ceremonies.

PANAMA CANAL TO REMAIN CLOSED UNTIL NOVEMBER 1

More Earth Slides Block Channel Great Deal of Traffic Will Be Tied Up Panama, Oct. 5.—Lieutenant Colonel Chester Harding, the engineer in charge of the Panama Canal, has sent a message to the secretary of war at Washington recommending that President Wilson issue an executive order officially closing the canal until November 1. Colonel Harding explains that it will be impossible to clear the channel before that date and perhaps not then. He favors refunding the tolls to those ships which have paid them and are now awaiting passage, and also that arrangements be made to transship the cargoes of the vessels and forward them to their destinations. It is estimated, however, that it would require at least a month for the Panama railroad to complete the transshipment of the cargoes of the ninety vessels now in canal waters. The conditions caused by the new slide are the worst in the history of the canal, according to Colonel Harding. More than 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth must be removed before the channel is again deep enough to permit the passage of ships. The dredges are maintaining a high point of efficiency and during the month of September removed more than 1,000,000 yards. The work is being pushed energetically and canal officials are optimistic that eventually the danger of slides will be overcome. The agents of the steamer Finland, which arrived at Colon October 3 from New York, have received orders to send the ship to New Orleans from which port the 300 passengers will be forwarded to San Francisco by rail. The business of the Auto Supply Co., at 712 Indiana has been taken over by the Western Auto Supply company which will occupy the Indiana avenue building in addition to its stand on Seventh street. The Western company is the oldest concern of the kind in the city, being the first here to put in a line of exclusive auto supplies. The supply station will handle the new Petrolia gasoline.

COTTON ADVANCES WHEAT MAKES GAIN

SOME REACTION IN COTTON NOTED, BUT CLOSE IS AT A HIGHER FIGURE. GRAIN SITUATION IS BULLISH

Light Receipts and Unfavorable Weather Cause Slight Provisions Also Higher Today. By Associated Press. New York, Oct. 6.—There was a good deal of reaction sentiment around the ring at the opening of the cotton market today and first prices were barely steady at a decline of ten to thirteen points under rather heavy offerings which appeared to have been inspired by the relatively early called with January or about thirty-five points under yesterday's high record, there was a big commission house demand however and prices later rallied with January selling back to thirteen on covering by some of yesterday's sellers and fresh buyers on expectations of a bullish weekly weather report at midday.

PANAMA CANAL TO REMAIN CLOSED UNTIL NOVEMBER 1

Chicago Grain. Chicago, Oct. 6.—Wheat values bulged today, influenced by a continued falling off in receipts north-west and by the meagerness of arrivals here. Dispatches telling of unsettled weather in the Dakotas and Minnesota added to the prevailing bullish sentiment as also did assertions that fall seeding in Kansas would be reduced as much as a million acres compared with last season's total. Opening prices which ranged from 1-8 to 1/2 higher with December at 99 7-8 to 100 1/4 and May at 100 1/4 to 100 3-4 were followed by decided further upturns. Wide spread frost gave strength to the corn market. Rural buying was especially free. After opening 1-8 to 1/2 higher, prices scored a material further advance. Oats rose with other grains. The bulls were led by representatives of one of the principal elevator companies. Fresh advances in provisions resulted from the excellence of cash demands, besides hog receipts throughout. The west were decidedly less plentiful than last week or a year ago.

MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS BY TURKS IS DESCRIBED

Arrival of Russians at Van Puts End to Slaughter—Men Killed and Women Abducted

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 6.—Details of the story of Van and the massacre of Armenians by the Turks are given in the current issue of the Near East, which fixes the responsibility for the crime on the Turkish government. The massacre was carried out by the Armenian revolutionaries, the Bulgarians against the Turks in the first Balkan war. But long before Van fell to the Russians, Jevdet Pasha started the work of massacring the Armenia population. The massacre began at Shadokh, a large and isolated village, where not a man was spared except those over sixty years of age. Of the women, the more comely were carried away by Jevdet's soldiers and Kurd tribesmen. The massacre was carried out systematically in the entire province of Van beginning with the outlying villages. Great care was taken to prevent rumors of this from reaching the capital. There was living in Van city at that time Prince Aramian, an Armenian who had formerly been useful to the government in settling troubles between the Turks and the Armenians. He was asked by Jevdet to go to the villages and try to reconcile the contending parties. Jevdet addressed the Prince in a letter as his "dear friend." The Prince, unaware of the plot, started out with a number of advisers. The entire party was slaughtered by a party of Jevdet's horsemen while taking lunch at a coffee house. At this time also there was in Van an Armenian member of the Turkish parliament by the name of Vramian, who was invited by Jevdet to call on him at headquarters. On arrival at headquarters Vramian was arrested, a large stone was tied to his feet and he was thrown into a lake and drowned. The Russians were now reported on the advance. Talat Bey published a warning against the Armenians participating on a penalty of dire punishment. But the story of the massacre in the isolated parts was carried by survivors and the Armenians prepared to sell themselves as dearly as possible, the peaceful element as well as the revolutionaries. Jevdet then called on the Armenian Bishop to visit him. The Bishop refused. Thereupon Jevdet descended upon the "rebellious" city of Van with an army of 8,000 Turks and Kurds and called on the people to lay down their arms, surrender without conditions and trust to the clemency of the sultan. This offer was made through the Italian consul.

Built on the Rock Eternal

By Warner Littlejohn

"You are very unfair!" "Why not put it clever? In this world the man who looks out sharply for his own interests wins. That's what I have done." "At a cost to the business here and a personal loss on my part, Hackett, you are not an honest man." John Hackett flushed up. His head face became resentful, then vicious. "I'll prosecute you if you say that outside!" he blustered. "I have no intention of doing so," replied William Barry, in his usual quiet, but menacing way. "I drop all the mean details of your shrewd manipulation of affairs here, shall withdraw my capital and say good-bye." "See here, Barry!" cried Hackett against, "you can't mean that!" "I do—unqualifiedly. There is one hundred and fifty thousand, my invested capital, coming to me. There should be over double that, for all the years you have been using the money of the firm in outside deals in which I rightfully should have a share. My lawyer will call to make the settlement. Good-day." It was a serious break in both business and family relations, but William Barry went on the peaceful tenor of his way and refused to discuss it. "I have simply retired," he told his intimate friends. "I have always worked to an end, and am now rich enough to provide for its fulfillment." "I've got half a million!" Hackett chuckled to himself, "and no discussion about it. Three to one against Barry—now I can reach my ambition." After that William Barry merely bowed politely to his former partner when he passed him on the street. This settled Hackett. In his soul he recognized the lofty superiority of an honest man. Then, too, he secretly winced as he realized that in fact and truth he had swindled Barry. For two years his only child, motherless Felice, and Arnold Barry had been friends, chums, almost lovers. The first thing Hackett did was to send his daughter away to boarding school. He was shivering like a leaf as he reached home. There the sad, resigned face of his lonely daughter chided him anew. He was overcome with remorse, all grew dark. It was a month later when, looking older by twenty years, he tottered about the garden, leaning on Felice's arm for support. She was the kind, thoughtful daughter in every way, but her wearied eyes told of hopelessness of her life. Someone passed by. "Who was that?" inquired her father. "Arnold Barry, father," replied Felice, meekly. "Call him in, Felice, I—I have changed my mind. If you are mourning over my past unreasonable sternness, forget, forgive." "Oh! father—" "And tell him—tell him I will be glad to give half my fortune to enlarge the children's home." The sun burst forth brilliantly from behind a passing cloud and he spoke—the harbinger of courage and hope for an erring soul that saw the true light at last.

SEASON'S FIRST DUCKS HERE: START SHOOTING OCT. 15

Recent Cool Weather Has Already Brought Few Birds Here. Hunters Get Ready. The cool weather of the past few days has brought ducks to the lake in large numbers. Cloudy weather and a north wind will bring swarms of these fowl to the lake. The open season for ducks and geese opens October 15. F. P. St. Clair is getting the boats at the lake in good repair for the use of duck hunters. Heck Baxy, colored, one of the oldest and best known stockmen in this section of the country, was at the court house today having been summoned as a witness in a damage suit in the county court. Heck was one of the pioneer cowmen of Young county and met a number of old friends from Young county who had come up to the Fry trial. He entertained a large crowd of Young county people on the shady side of the court house this afternoon with reminiscences of the old days when Fort Belknap was a frontier post.

Men and Women Comrades

It is not the factory system and the small family, improving public health and postponed marriage, that work for the success of feminism, but that much despised thing—a spiritual force. That force is simply the spreading recognition of the comradeship of men and women which is the result of our expanding knowledge and our expanding sympathies, and which operates independently of factory systems and birthrates. We may call it, if we will, one phase of democracy. Wherever the nations are engaged in a struggle for liberty, men now freely accept women as their partners in the struggle and in the fruits of victory. This is the explanation of Finland and of Russia: in the unequal contest against despotism the man turns to his immemorial helpmeet—a hateful word now robbed of its degraded connotation. The spirit of comradeship between the sexes flourishes most strongly where the immediate need for it operates most strongly.—New York Evening Post. First Farm Paper in 1681. So far as we can learn, the first attempt at publishing an agricultural or farm paper was made in England in 1681. John Houghton started the collection of letters for the improvement of husbandry and trade. As the name implies, Houghton had the right idea of a farm paper. He filled it with the practical experience of his readers. In that age, 300 years ago, America was supposed to be a wilderness, yet it is probable that Boston and New York knew more of each other than one rural county of England knew of the next one. Those were the days when, in order to stimulate the clothing trade, the English parliament passed laws ordering the burial of the dead in woollen cloth. There is no record as to how Houghton obtained his subscribers.—Rural New Yorker.
