Berlin, Oct. 19.—German farmers will continue to feed the country without the aid of overseas imports, in the opinion of Prof. Gerlach, an authority in agricultural chemistry. Speaking before the German agricultural society at its yearly meeting at Berlin he gave details showing to what extent in 1914 and 1915 the yield of crops was increased by using sulphate of ammonia and cyanamide, a combination of atmospheric nitrogen with calcium as fertilizers. In these fertilizers, he says, German farmers have a fully satisfactory substitute for the sulfate of soda which they have been importing to the amount of about $90,000 tons a year.

Wichita Falls, Texas, Oct. 19, 1915.

And we also notice that some people who are the strongest advocates of States Rights rarely ever live in the State they claim as their home.

Newspapers have to be careful. One has a libel suit on its hand now just for saying in a death notice that the departed had left for a happier home. The bereaved widow is the plaintiff.

Something like fifteen million dollars is due the State on back taxes, and each and every county has its full share of tax dodgers. If these back taxes could be collected there would be no necessity for such a high State tax rate.

Cotton seed sold at $7 per ton at person the other day. At that price the seed not only pays for the picking, ginning and hauling to market, but leaves the cotton farmer a snug sum besides.

In our estimation the greatest inventor of the age is that down-easterner fellow who has invented a lawn mower that furnishes its own propelling power when the lawn is being mowed. All you have to do is walk behind and guide the machine.

The State treasury is now empty of general revenue, and State credit is at a low ebb. It is not the first time the State treasury has been in that sort of condition, and will not be the last. But it does seem that such conditions could be avoided.

It now appears, according to the findings of the Oklahoma corporation commission which investigated the explosion of a tank of gasoline at Ardmore on September 27th, killing forty-three persons and injuring 150 others besides wrecking buildings for two or three blocks in the neighborhood, that the tank containing the gasoline never exploded. It had to be exploded.

people could lay their hands on, but how much they saved that brought wealth.

This world lesson is just as important for each one of us today as it ever was, and perhaps in some ways even more so, because with our advanced and improved methods of conducting business and handling the natural resources of this immensely favored country new wealth is created so rapidly that there is a disposition existing among many people to act as if such a thing as saving was old-fashioned, unnecessary and of no account. Many people seem to have the feeling that if they throw away a dollar today it does not matter, because two or three dollars will come tomorrow to take its place. This may appear true for a short time, but the day of reckoning comes just as surely for individuals as it does for nations and the person who carelessly squanders his earnings will most certainly live to regret bitterly his want of foresight.

As in the history of the English, systematic saving among individuals was started when the nation was very young, so with people in modern times the habit of saving should be started just as early as possible. No child is too young to have a savings account and just as soon as it is able to appreciate the meaning of money it should be taught that out of every dollar it receives some definite part must be set aside for future use.

Saving is the source of all independent wealth and has done more to build up fortunes than all the luck and genius of the world combined. The one thing about saving that makes it so reliable is the absolute certainty of its results. Genius is just as likely as stupidity to back itself out, and it is like a leaf blown before the wind, but steady saving never fails and never steps aside from the straight path that leads to financial independence and success.

And it must be borne very clearly in mind, above everything else, that it is not the amount set aside that counts so much as the absolute unflinching regularity with which it is saved. A few pennies, nickels or dimes set aside faithfully day-in and day-out will, in the course of time, produce results that could never be accomplished by a vit-and-miss policy of depositing a few dollars in the savings account "every once in a while."

It is not for nothing that the world's successful men regardless of nationality or occupation constantly, in all ages, preach the doctrine of systematic saving. It is from the depths of their knowledge and experience that they speak and because they know what it was that laid the foundation upon which they were able to erect their own success.

CREW MEMBERS MEET DEATH

Failure of Freight to Take Siding Causes Crash—Two of Injured Cannot Live.

By Associated Press. Oklahoma City, Oct. 19.—Six persons were killed, two probably fatally injured and eight others more or less seriously injured as the result of a head-on collision between Rock Island southbound train No. 11 and a freight train at 2 o'clock this morning at Agawam, twelve miles south of Chickasha. The dead: JAMES COBB, train fireman, Chickasha; VIRGIL SOUTHWARD, brakeman, El Reno; ABE JONES, Kansas City; Three unidentified men stealing a ride on passenger train.

Fatally injured—William Powell of Chickasha, engineer, skull fractured; Tom Carroll of El Reno, fireman, skull fractured.

The trains collided head-on while travelling 30 miles an hour as the result of failure of the freight to take a siding at Agawam. The passenger engine climbed on top of the freight engine and four cars of cattle were piled around them. The steel mill car jumped on top, then rolled off to one side. Three live cattle were found standing in the wreckage above the engine after the accident.

The locomotives were two of the largest on the Rock Island system.

Sherman law was intended to punish. All these offenses, the attorney outlined in a general way and then, using a map showing the ten principal New England railroads that operated independently in 1890, traced one by one the history of their acquisition.

William Rockefeller he accused of having, with other directors now dead, secretly instituted a suit which forced one of these roads, the New York & New England into a false clause. J. P. Morgan & Co., he said, was used as a means of concealing the ownership of stock of the Old Colony Steamboat Company at a time when the New Haven attempt to acquire it was being inquired into by the Massachusetts authorities.

The Morgan firm gave a note for the stock that bore no interest, he said, and kept it in their possession long enough for the president of the Old Colony railroad, then a subsidiary of the New Haven, to say that the railroad did not own it.

At the door of Edward D. Robbins, the former general counsel for the New Haven, the federal attorney laid the alleged unlawful devising of schemes whereby the control of steamship companies could be secretly acquired. Robbins, he said, made use in a single day of three banks

Market Opens at Decline and Sage Still Lower After One Brief Rally

By Associated Press. New York, Oct. 19.—The cotton market was more or less uneasy today. The opening was five points higher on October but generally one to five points lower under scattering commission house liquidation and the active months sold two to six points under last night's closing during early selling. December was off to 12.57, January to 12.72 and March to 12.94. Forecasts of showers in the eastern belt owing to approach of the Gulf storm tended to check the offerings and later fluctuations were irregular. Private cables from Bombay say that India crop conditions have improved from rains. Part of the early selling may have been by insurance companies as refusing risks on cotton shipments to Scandinavian countries.

Chicago Grain.
Chicago, Oct. 19.—Immense receipts at the chief spring crop terminals had a depressing effect today on the wheat market. The opening 3-5 and 1/2 to one and 1-1/8 lower. December sold at 1.05 1/2 to 1.06 and May at 1.06 1/2 to 1.07. The market rallied a little and then again sagged. Fine weather eased the corn market. The opening which was from 1-4 to 1/2 lower was followed by a substantial further setback. Oats reflected the bearish course of other grains.

O the sun has kissed the apples,
Kissed the apples,
Amid the apples, hanging mellow,
Red and yellow,
All down the orchard seen

The sun has kissed the apples
Kissed the apples,
O'er the marsh the cattle spread,
White and red,
The sky is all as blue
As a gentian in the dew.

The sun has kissed the apples

And the apples are ablaze

NEW LIGHT ON NAPOLEON'S DEATH FOUND IN DOCUMENT

General's Heart and Stomach Removed From Body and Preserved Separately

By Associated Press
London, Oct. 18.—A Napoleonic document in the form of a diary kept on St. Helena by one Andrew Darling, a carpenter, has just been brought to light here, which gives new information on doubtful points regarding Napoleon's death. The diary was kept during May, 1821. A description of the dead emperor's body, under the date of May 5, is of especial interest, as Darling acted as undertaker, built the coffin and ground up some plaster of paris statuettes to make the plaster for the death mask. He wrote:

"About eight I went with General Montholon to the room where he was and saw him and was much astonished to see him so much wasted in the body, but at the same time look so well, so young and with such a pleasing countenance. The size of the coffin I made was as follows: Length 5 feet 11 inches, depth 12 inches, width at the head 10 inches, shoulders 21 inches, foot 8 inches. At that time I understood that he was to be in state and to be opened about 2 o'clock, but was not aware that he was to be put into the tomb with his hat on.

On the 7th there is this entry: "I believe they wished his heart to be taken home with them, but did not get permission; therefore they wished to preserve it, which was accordingly done in the following manner:

"His heart and stomach, as I have already mentioned, was in a silver vase of tureen, having been part of his plate with a cover to it, on which was his coat of arms with an eagle on the top, which unscrewed with a nut; this having been soldered on fast, and then the heart having been put into the tureen by Dr. Rutledge in presence of Count Montholon, etc., the top having been soldered on and a hole having been made in the bottom of the vessel, the liquid was then poured into the tin. Rutledge and an old shilling soldier on the side; a considerable delay having taken place owing to the construction of the vessel, it was past 8 o'clock before the two men finished."

One hundred and thirty tons of elephants will arrive in Wichita Falls next Wednesday morning. The car is to be paraded through the principal streets of the city and then housed under canvas.

A whole train load of the ponderous fellows makes up the heavy squad of the Ringling Brothers' circus, now headed in this direction. It is claimed that no such herd of the "biggest giants has ever before been gathered together by one management. Marching tall and trunk the aquadron extends over a block in length. Were it possible to stand them on each other's heads the elephant column would reach above a twenty-story building. They occupy eleven of the 89 cars required to transport the Ringling show. Computing elephant energy into horse power, the herd could, if placed in harness, pull as much as three ordinary locomotives. Collectively, these elephants drink over 2000 gallons of water every 24 hours and not one of them would think of entering upon the day's work without his regular morning cereal—a bale of hay. For desert the battalion consumes two wagon loads of carrots. In addition to these regular rations it is estimated that the herd will, at the rate they have been petted and made over by the youngsters thus far, have eaten approximately 1,786,253 peanuts before the end of the present Ringling season. Times and wistful looking as the elephants appear to be, they have many attentions accorded them in addition to those ministering to their inner wants. Whenever the circus spreads its tents near a stream they are taken into the water. Squatting in the depths of a friendly brook they look like a cubist conception of September Morn. But no matter how frequent the natural pools may be there is one elephant

RAILROADS HINDERED BY FLOOD DAMAGE IN OKLAHOMA. Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 19.—Traffic which has been interrupted over the Katy and Frisco lines by Sunday's storm in southern and southwest Oklahoma causing the Red river to overflow its banks and washing away two bends of the Katy bridge will be restored and trains running on schedule about Wednesday night. They arrived here about 10 o'clock Monday, both trains being immediately made up in two sections, one of which went over the Texas & Pacific to Dallas, and the other to San Antonio over the Katy Monday afternoon the routing of the Katy was changed to come over the tracks of the Santa Fe from Oklahoma City. Owing to the detour, Katy trains will be several hours late for the next day or two or until such time as the bridge is open. James V. Townsend of Vernon, secretary to Congressman John H.
