Two Members of Corps Arrive in Automobile at Noon to Complete Preliminary Arrangements for Stay of Aviators Here.

By Associated Press. Fort Sill, Okla., Nov. 17.—Fort Sill was bustling with activity today in preparation for the departure of the first Aero squadron of the United States Army which tomorrow will fly from its temporary location here to its new location at Fort Sam Houston at San Antonio.

On the first cross country flight ever undertaken by army aviator, the First Aero Squadron of the United States Signal Corps will reach Wichita Falls about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from Fort Sill, Okla.

The aerial journey will be made under conditions as nearly like those encountered in actual war time as possible. The start is expected to be made on November 18.

S. J. Isorek, master signal electrician, accompanied by Sergeant Westerman drove through from Lawton this morning in a big Cadillac army automobile arriving at noon.

The flight is intended to give a line on just how army aviators may be expected to work during a war. It is desired to test to the utmost the ability of the fliers to follow a previously designated route over an unknown country.

Mr. Isorek and Sergeant Westerman made the trip here from Lawton in about three hours.

Trucks Carry Repair Kit. To each aeroplane will be assigned one truck as tender, carrying the crew, tools, spare parts and other supplies.

The grounds where the machines will land may be reached by the Southland car line. For automobiles the best route is probably by way of Brook avenue.

The First Aero Squadron, signal corps, U. S. A., is the official designation of the flying unit. The squadron is divided into six flying sections, a transport section, a supply section, an engineer section charged with motor repairs, and a headquarters section.

There will be only one man to each machine. The squadron will be headed by Captain Benjamin D. Eulois, commanding the squadron.

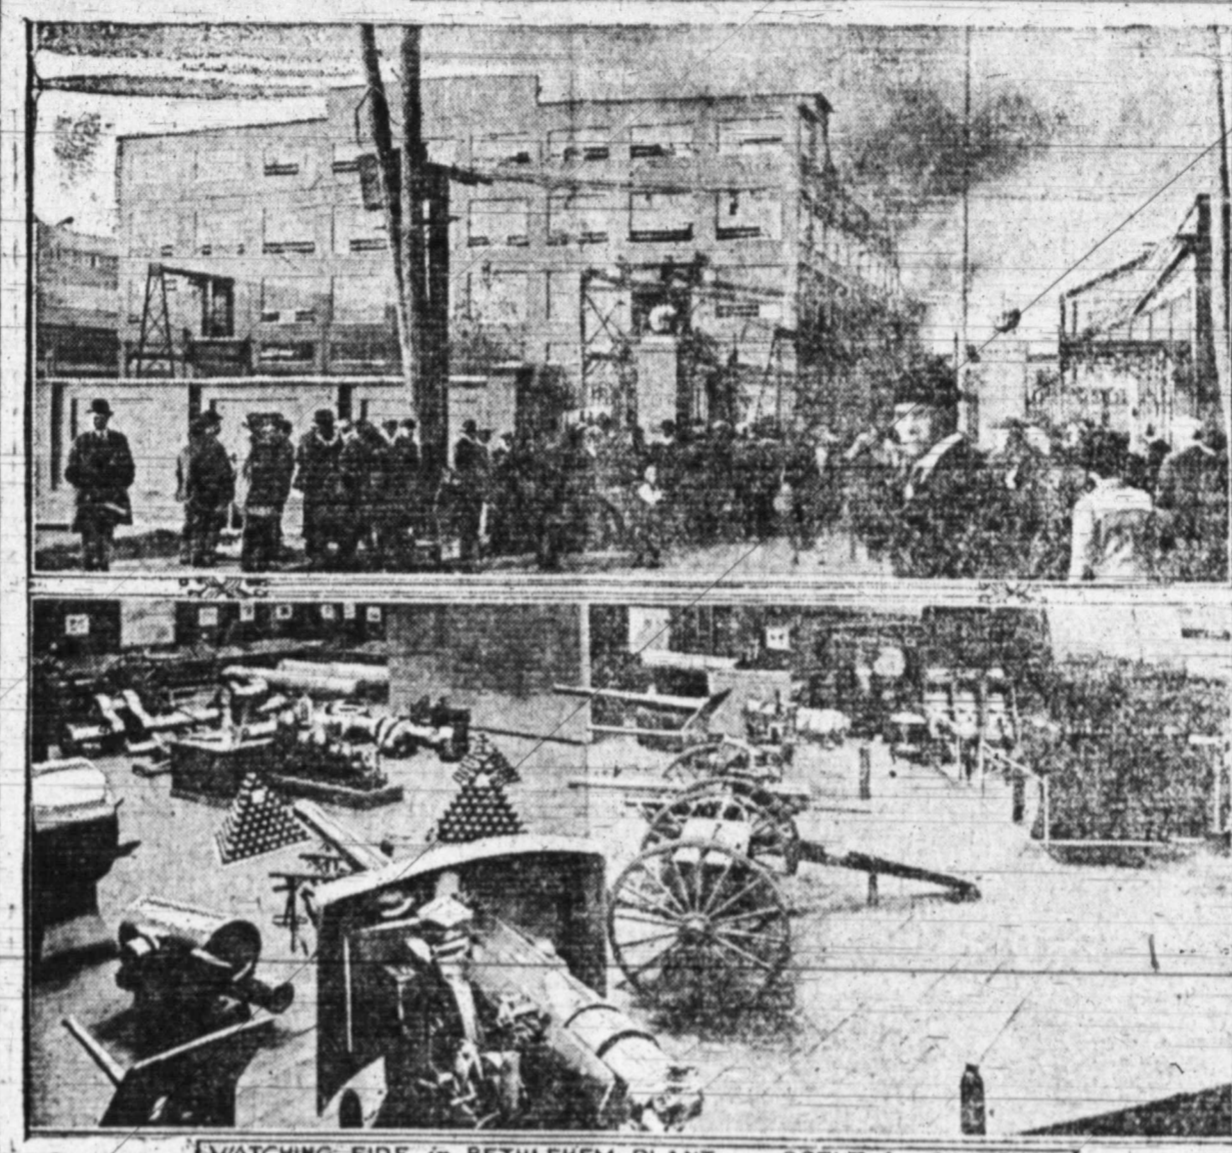

Fort Sill Temporary Site. Fort Sill was chosen as a temporary station for the squadron because of the opportunity for work in co-operation with the artillery arm.

Along with particulars concerning the landing site Mr. Isorek telegraphed to Captain Foulis the weather forecast here for tomorrow which is for unsettled and colder weather and probably showers.

PERMITS IT TO DIE RATHER THAN LIVE TO BE USELESS AND HELPLESS.

"LET NATURE CORRECT ERROR"

Mother Declines to Permit Operation That Would Save Life of Deformed Baby.

By Chicago, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Anna Hollinger told today the story of her consent to let her six-day-old son, deformed in body and mind, die rather than live a life of barren and useless.

The infant, if it lives, would, in the opinion of Dr. Haiselden, be a mental a peep, a moral defective. He therefore, with the consent of the child's parents, declined to perform the operation.

By Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 17.—"Our expedition in the Balkans is reaching a critical stage," telegraphs the correspondent at Salonika of the Journal under date of last Sunday.

The fate of the Serbians holding Bobuna Pass is more obscure. One report states that the pass had been forced. It seems certain that the defenders are at least threatened so seriously that their position soon may be untenable.

"Do not expect to find a second Belgium. Greece will not hesitate to permit passage by the enemy through her territories, as she now permits us. We must defend ourselves alone and unaided against the triple attacks of the Germans, Bulgarians and Turks.

While the military situation becomes darker from the standpoint of the entente allies, the diplomatic phase of their near eastern venture is somewhat more favorable.

"We must be prepared for any news, even the most unexpected and that which seems the cruelest. We must have reinforcements in large numbers at once or reembarck while there is yet time."

Along the eastern front, interest centers on the attempted recrossing of the Stry river, where the Austrians and Germans claim an important success.

For Thursday night the Wichita Theatre will offer Richard Bennett's co-workers in Eugene Brieux's eugenic masterpiece, "Damaged Goods."

The Gem. "Neath Calvary's Shadow" is the title of a three-part Selig drama which is the feature picture on today's program.

The Empress. Though it is only necessary to state that Marguerite Clark, whose list of amazing screen triumphs continues to grow, is to appear in a new production of the Famous Players Film Company at the Empress today to crowd that photoplay theatre to capacity, it will undoubtedly be of added interest to explain that this magnetic star's latest appearance on the screen is further distinguished by the fact that the subject selected for her current engagement is one of the most novel and unusual romances ever presented to the motion picture public.

The Majestic. A Selig one-reel drama "Into The Dark," a George Ade comedy, "The Tale of the Through Train" and a two-part Kalein, "The Wolf's Prey" make up today's program.

Sorghum and Millet Prove Profitable Crops (Olney Enterprises) Wash Herring, two miles west of town, has found at least two good money crops that beat cotton awfully bad, and the lovely part of it is that they are sure crops here every year: Sorghum and millet. In conversation with the Enterprise editor yesterday morning he gave us the following figures: On two and three fourths acres of sorghum cane, from the first crop, he threshed 114 bushels of seed which are easily worth $1 per bushel and besides this he has a lot of mighty fine feed, and has also raised a second crop which, if threshed, would have yielded fifteen or twenty bushels per acre. The second crop more than pays for his work and a reasonable rent on the land and he has something near $45 per acre clear profit. Of seven acres planted to millet Mr. Herring threshed 130 bushels, another good paying crop.

room. Falling, Langdon displays the letter. He threatens to show it to her husband and thus induce the latter to believe the woman guilty of a clandestine love affair. Terror-stricken, Mrs. Duncan allows the cur to depart with her jewels. Instead of leaving the hotel, Langdon remains. It is his intention to further victimize Mrs. Duncan. Realizing this, the woman sensibly decides to place the matter before the hotel management. As the result, Francis Ballou takes charge of the case. She confronts Langdon, but the latter defies her to find the gems or the letter. A clever ruse enables Francis to locate the hiding place of the jewels and the document. She restores them to Mrs. Duncan. Because of the latter's desire to avoid publicity, the human wolf is allowed to leave the hotel. Her lesson learned, Mrs. Duncan promises to abstain from flirtations in the future.

The Lydia Margaret. Agnes Vernon is now playing at the head of her own company and today will be shown at the Lydia Margaret the first of her pictures produced as leading woman. This play is in three parts and is called "The Girl of the Dance Hall." The story is laid in a western mining camp in the days of easy money and the dance hall is the only amusement of the miners. Miss Vernon plays the part of Dorothea Matthews, the daughter of a forty-year-old man, very much in love with her. The gambler comes again into her life, complications arise and her husband is almost turned against his best friend who has helped his wife in former days. In the end all turns out right, husband and wife being completely reconciled. Ray Hanford plays the part of the girl's husband, E. P. Evers, their mutual friend and Malcolm Blevins portrays the thickest part of the gambler.

NEGRO IS MISSING AFTER FATALLY WOUNDING WIFE (Frederick Leader) Infuriated because she had left him John Wesley, a negro shot a woman known as Martha Wesley five times on the Porter Wilson farm, ten miles northeast of Frederick on Deep Red Tuesday night. Wesley fired with a revolver at close range. His bullets did terrible execution, making 12 wounds in the woman's body. After the shooting, Wesley fled. Wesley and the woman had been living together and picking cotton in the east part of the county. Several days ago the woman left Wesley and went to the Wilson farm to work. Wesley followed her there, evidently with murderous intent. A short time before the shooting occurred, he handed another negro a note to send to his mother in Waco, Texas, telling her that he was in trouble. One shot from the enraged negro's bullet went through both the woman's arms.

Nightfall.
 Nightfall and home and you!
 Across the west the heavy shadows lie,
 Shutting from out my heart the long day—
 The empty day that held no speech with you
 Who once did walk with me beside the way.

Nightfall and home, and you!
 O, blessed dusk that holds, a little while,
 Forgetfulness of all the world outside!
 What care we for its little hurt and jar?
 A vine wreathed door we know stands opened wide.

Nightfall and home, and you!
 One red star hangs above the wooded hill,
 Guiding my eager feet along the way
 To home and love and you. Dear heart,
 Dear heart,

Both Simplicity And Novelty Possible For Gowns For Afternoon

New York, Nov. 17.—Many and varied are the topics of conversation at late afternoon gatherings—clothes, of course, come in for a large share of attention and often a girl with a small clothes allowance is given a hint or two which helps her to improve her appearance with little added cost.

The Girl With Deft Fingers.
 College and boarding school girls often enjoy an hour or two of sewing now and then; it varies the monotony of study and enables them to add effective little touches of their own to frock and blouse, rendering them somewhat different, and more suited to their own personality. At tea the other afternoon, one girl wore a simple serge jumper frock made with short full skirt and sleeveless overblouse and an underwaist of dark blue crepe Georgette veiling emerald green crepe Georgette. The jumps was made with a high collar finished at the top with a tiny frill of white; and closed straight down the front with small dull gold buttons. Narrow black moire ribbon formed the girdle, closing on the left side in a small flat bow with long streaming ends. Six bands of the moire ribbon had been set on to the skirt at graduated intervals, giving the effect of flounces, and adding wonderfully to the appearance of the simple frock. The ribbon, which the wearer had herself applied, made the commonplace dress most attractive and unusual.

Variety in Collars and Cuffs.
 The simplest frocks or blouses may be made attractive and becoming by adding contrasting cuffs, or an unusual collar. These may be made removable and others substituted at will, thus achieving a pleasing change when the dress is becoming somewhat worn. It is an easy matter to fashion any number of these contrasting sets from bits of velvet, or ribbon (which is at the height of popularity for trimmings of all sorts just now), crepe Georgette or chiffon. Nothing is softer or more becoming than a hemstitched collar of crepe or chiffon; it will add a dressy look to the plainest of costumes. There is great choice in girdles, too this winter. One of the popular notions is the narrow band of velvet, felt or plaid, or moire ribbon, drawn around the waist and tied in long ended flat bows.

Possibilities of Gumpes.
 Perhaps the greatest number of possibilities for varying the simple dress, when one has a limited supply of clothes, lie in the gumpes. These as a rule are charmingly simple, depending for effect upon the color contrast, the soft sheerness of the material, and perhaps a button or two or jeweled buckle by way of trimming. The everyday dress of serge, tafteta, or broadcloth may have a variety of these gumpes for all hours of the day—for morning wear there will be one of plain black satin or tafteta; for afternoon and informal evening affairs, club lunches and teas a gumpes of crepe Georgette; chiffon cloth, or net, in a harmoniously contrasting shade will render the costume dressy enough and most becoming.

Three Piece Suits.
 Another convenience in the three piece, semi-tailored suit, consisting of coat and skirt, combined with blouse of satin, chiffon cloth, crepe de Chine or other contrasting material, in the same color or a shade that combines well with the color of the suit. A suit like this is easily fashioned at home, as there is absolutely no sign of the old time tailored stiffness; padding, and various other things which a few seasons ago made the idea of fashioning a coat at home so alarming. The touch of fur which is so much a part of these suits just now, renders them smart and becoming, as well as warm. Among the novelties noticed on many of these fur-trimmed suits is the muff cuff. These are wide and flaring, made of fur or a fur fabric, and arranged so that the hands may be slipped into them quite as one would use a muff. This idea is especially practical for the suit for shopping or general wear, also for the heavy coat, as there is no danger of losing a valuable muff.

UNWELCOME VISITORS RAISE SAND AT BURKBURNETT

(Burkburnett Star)
 Last Tuesday was a busy day with our city authorities, in the matter of assessing fines for drunkenness and other offenses. City Marshal Griffin made eight arrests of which six plead guilty to different offenses. During Monday night a party composed of six men who were traveling in an automobile, arrived in town from Wichita Falls headed toward Oklahoma. They gave Anadarko as their home, and in this article they shall be nameless here, forwvmore as our friend Edgar Allan Poe would remark. They stopped at the local garage and soon engaged in a free for all fight and in other past times not at all calculated to promote sleep on the part of the citizens of town. City Marshal Griffin was soon on the scene and proceeded to entertain the visitors until next morning. Dr. Adams was also called upon to make some stitches and apply some bandages and healing lotions. When brought into the city court Tuesday morning they bore every appearance of those who were experiencing the results of the "morning after." After being questioned by Mayor Ben Schwesler and Attorney Allday they decided to plead guilty to different statutory offenses and each contributed $10.00 to support of our city government and the officers of the same. When they were told the amount of the fines and costs one of the prisoners proceeded to remove his shoes and from the toe of same he brought forth enough greenbacks to pay his fine and then some. The others wired for money to pay their fines. Tuesday afternoon a negro woman was put off the train in a state of beastly intoxication. She had a ticket to Wellington but her conditions made her rather objectionable as a passenger. The most fine was assessed but she did not have the money to pay it, whereupon she was held until the money could be obtained.

SAVES DAUGHTER

Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.

Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Nov. 17, 1915.

It now begins to look as if the United State has found a way to dispose of Huerta, and that way is to turn him over to Carranza to be tried for the murder of Madero. If that is done his life is likely to come to a speedy end.

Don't forget the election to vote county bonds for a new court house to be held on next Saturday, Nov. 20th, and it is also well to bear in mind that it is a question which is of sufficient importance to cause every tax-paying citizen to cast a ballot.

This is the time of year to plant trees. The horticulturalist for the extension department of Texas A. & M. College is authority for the statement that trees planted in the fall always bring better results, in some cases getting fully twice the growth of spring planted trees.

Since the Myers incident at Fort Worth on last Wednesday, a movement has been started in Texas to abolish capital punishment altogether, and this movement is gaining strength rapidly.

Perhaps if the people of the United States could have some assurance of getting value received for their money there would be little opposition to increasing the navy to the proportions recommended by President Wilson. The trouble heretofore has been that Uncle Sam has received but very little for his money along that line, and those who claim to know assert this country, during the past twenty years has spent as much money on its navy as has Germany, and yet Germany has a much better navy. The suspicion is growing that a bunch of grafters have managed in some way or other to get into their own hands the greater portion of the money appropriated for the purpose of improving the navy. This grafting, however, if it be true that there was any grafting, was not done under a Democratic administration. The Republicans were in charge while that was going on, and if it be a fact, as charged by some prominent Republican statesmen that our navy is now a little better than a scrap heap the responsibility for that condition of affairs should rest almost solely with the political party that was in power while the alleged grafting was going on.

In ordering the reinstatement of the Winneska Hills, assistant postmaster, the President has done just what he should have done and just what we expected he would do. From the circumstances surrounding the case, it is more than probable that the postmaster wanted for other reasons to get rid of his assistant, who is under civil service regulations and protected thereby from peremptory discharge, and used the alleged utterance of the assistant as a pretext to get around the service rules. There is, let us be thankful, no crime of lese-majeste in this country, and while we may deplore the taste of a government employe who wantonly criticizes the occupant of the White House, the fact remains that the President is only human like the others of us and that being President does not set a man upon a pedestal where he shall be immune to criticism for public or private acts. The seeming over-zealousness of the Winneska postmaster will doubtless be rebuked by President Wilson even more directly than the reinstatement of Burkitt gives, and the President's prompt action puts the incident where it belongs—the "temp-in-a-cup" class. Denton Record and Chronicle.

FERGUSON'S BLUNDER. The Wichita Times takes this view of what happened in Bell:

It was our honest, candid opinion that Governor Ferguson should have kept out of that Bell county local option election, but he butted in and made himself an issue, and the result indicates that the question of local option and state-wide prohibition will be an issue in the next gubernatorial campaign. The people of Texas, regardless of whether their governor votes the wet or the dry ticket, tempt to sway them to his way of thinking on that proposition. At least that appears to be the way the people of Bell, which is the Governor's home county, seem to view such matters.

It would have been all right for Mr. Ferguson to have gone into his home county to either resist or assist the coming of prohibition. His citizenship is there and he does not forfeit it by becoming the Governor of Texas, just as Woodrow Wilson does not forfeit his New Jersey citizenship by becoming the President of the United States. But Governor Ferguson blundered when he went into Bell county and made himself and his administration the issue. That took the question out of its normal place and pitched it out of balance. The probabilities are that the prohibitionists have Governor Ferguson to thank for their splendid victory, for there was deep resentment at his attempt to control the people's decision. And if the fight goes on into next year's campaign, as it probably will, the Governor will have no one to blame but himself.

The result shows that the opportunity of a lifetime came to Cullen Thomas and he deliberately threw it away. Had he accepted Ferguson's challenge and gone into Bell county in defense of his home, he would now easily be in his way to the office of chief executive of Texas.—Waco Times-Herald.

NEW GAS LINE TO DALLAS HAS BEEN COMPLETED.

The danger of the natural gas service in Dallas being cut off this winter by breaks in the line from the Petrolia field has been reduced by the completion of a new main which covers part of the distance. The Dallas Times-Herald says: Just after noon Tuesday Mayor Henry L. Lindsay was notified that the Lone Star Gas Company had completed its new gas main from Gainesville to Oak Lawn, Dallas, and that the Dallas Gas Company would connect with it Wednesday morning.

This gas main, which is almost a certain protection from any fuel famine in Dallas, which have often come from a break in the pipe lines from the Henrietta fields, was the suggestion of Mayor Lindsay, acceded to by the gas company as an imperative measure. Its cost was $500,000, and it comes to Dallas by way of Irving.

MR. HUFF FAVORS THE WICHITA FALLS ELECTRIC COMPANY BUYING PLANT OF THE NEW COMPANY.

Editors Times:—As the city authorities have put up to the citizens of Wichita Falls the question of approving or vetoing the sale of the property of the Citizens Light & Power Company to the Wichita Falls Electric Company, I have looked into the question with a view of seeing whether there is anything in the proposed sale that would be detrimental to the public or that would render it desirable that the city should purchase the property of the Citizens Light & Power Company. There is no reason why the people should veto the contract made by these companies unless it would be detrimental to public interests.

One of the things that we should look into is, will the Citizens Light & Power Company be likely to continue in business and afford facilities if the sale is not approved. The sworn report of the Citizens Light & Power Company, on page one of the Minute Book where such reports are entered for the year 1912 shows that the earnings of the company as $18,36, while the cost of operation is set down as $15,017.00. However, $10,000 paid out for extensions is charged up for operating expenses which really was an incorrect charge and there might have been possibly an earning capacity for that year of $701.36.

For the year 1913 the report as recorded on page 5, shows gross earnings of $7,956.60, and cost of operation was $7,995.60, showing no net income; but $800 was also charged off that year for extensions, which possibly might be considered a profit.

For the year 1914 the gross earnings were $8,013.20 and cost of operation was $7,826.75 and net earnings of approximately 186.55, as shown by report recorded on page 12.

For the three years, although an increase of $21.00 was made there has been no dividend paid to the stockholders.

No fixed charges are reported paid except $640 the first year and $480 the third year, or $1,080. Now, at its most favorable view in three years of operation the earnings above cost of operation has only been $1,687.91, no part of which has reached the stockholders and all of which, except the 186.55 has been placed back in the property. For three years the stockholders have received no income from the investment and it is very evident why they would like to sell. It is not clear to everyone that a company that is barely making expenses and is setting aside nothing for depreciation of the plant and paying no dividends cannot run? Much less can it take care of the wants of a growing city like Wichita Falls. It has been suggested that the proposition should be voted down with a view of the city itself purchasing the property; but what citizen would want the city to buy a plant that is a losing proposition? The city itself should desire to go into the light business it would need a larger plant and one that could take care of the wants of all the people.

Now, in view of the fact that the owners of the Citizens Light & Power Company have realized nothing on their investment and are in no condition to make extensions to other parts of the city, no public good would be subserved by vetoing the sale with a view of the city buying it, for no Board of Councilmen would have the nerve to put up to the people the proposition of the city taking over a plant that was continually losing money. It seems to me that as the owners of the two light plants have come to an understanding satisfactory to themselves that there is no reason why the citizens should forbid the sale. The wants of the public could be much better subserved by one strong company able to make extensions and to give the service needed than both of them in the shape of affairs are at present. It may be asked: Why does the Wichita Falls Electric Company desire to purchase this property if it is not going to increase its rates? The explanation is easy. The law requires them to furnish service to the patrons of the Citizens Light and Power Company who demand it and will pay the minimum fixed charges for the month although they do not buy light from it. A burden is thus imposed upon it to be ready to furnish light all the time although they derive but a small revenue from it and they can take care of the present patrons of the Citizens Light & Power Company with practically no increase of expense over those they now have, so that the greater part of the revenue derived from furnishing Citizens patrons would be net. Of course, it would not all be net as the greater the load the greater amount they have to pay out for fuel and like expenses, but there would be no increase of overhead expense and probably none in their force. Believing that it would be for the shots fired by the batteries, and picking up the batteries on the maps and spotting up the batteries themselves on the march and in position. The invention of an automatic survey camera has occupied much of the time of the aviators. This apparatus, when set in operation by the pilot of the aeroplane in which it is installed, takes a continuous series of photographs of the ground underneath the line of flight. The photograph can be made ready instantly on landing and gives a connected group of overlapping pictures to which a scale can be applied and from which the range to any point shown on them can be at once obtained. In addition to this survey camera a telephoto lens can be put in operation which will search out with precision impossible to the fast traveling aviator, the ground below for evidences of concealed troops, batteries and convoys. Similar experiments will be continued at San Antonio.

"Dutch" Home After Exciting Journey to Points in Oklahoma

"Dutch" Lennox, whose right arm was paralyzed and who lost his speech as the result of an accident on a pipe line several years ago, has returned from a trip to Oklahoma points in the oil district. "Dutch" came in on a freight train this morning and I am spending his time telling his experiences in Oklahoma which he does by gestures and pointing to the map.

One of his experiences was being arrested at Oklahoma City where he was taken before the city judge who dismissed the charge against him and ordered him to leave the city. "Dutch" graphically and realistically describes his arrest by a policeman, his appearance before the judge, a physical examination made to determine whether he was faking or not and finally his discharge and order to leave the city. "Dutch" came in to secure some funds from his guardian, W. F. Weeks.

MORE ROOM IS ALREADY NEEDED AT NEW HOSPITAL

With practically every room set aside for pay patients, occupied and with a number of other pay patients ready to enter the hospital, it is apparent that the Wichita General Hospital will be too small to meet the demands of the county. Several rooms were not furnished when the hospital was completed as it was not believed they would be needed at the start. These will be equipped as soon as possible. Only one charity patient has been received at the hospital thus far.

SESSION OF PARK BOARD IS HELD WEDNESDAY MORNING

"Lamar" is Selected as Name for City's Newest Park on Thirteenth Street

The city park at the corner of Lamar and Thirteenth streets will be named the Lamar Park. The selection of this name was made by the park board at a meeting held this morning. The city council had previously indicated that it would formally adopt the name recommended by the park board.
At this morning's meeting a committee was named to draft by-laws, rules and regulations governing Riverside cemetery which is under the jurisdiction of the park board. Mrs. J. A. Kemp was appointed chairman of that committee. The other members are Mrs. J. A. Richolt and C. W. Bean. Most of the funds for park purposes other than those used for the purchase of the park sites this year have been used for the purchase of trees, shrubbery and in getting them started to growing. But very few plants have died and most of them are growing vigorously. Next year more money will be available for the keeping of the parks.
Dr. J. F. Reed is chairman of the park board. The other members are E. G. Hill, Mrs. J. A. Kemp, C. W. Bean and Mrs. J. A. Richolt.

FLUCTUATIONS IN COTTON AND WHEAT

WEATHER CAUSES RALLY IN COTTON BUT SAG IS LATER RECORDED

GENERAL SAG IN GRAIN TODAY

Discouraging Outlook in Export Business is Cause—Much Liquidation in Evidence

By Associated Press. New York, Nov. 17.—The cotton market was fairly active early today but settlement seemed to be pretty well divided and fluctuations were comparatively narrow and irregular. After opening fairly steady at a decline of five to eight points January rallied from 11.53 to 11.69 while March sold up from 11.88 to 11.94 on reports that freezing temperatures would prevent the opening of anything but matured bolls in some sections of the southwest on covering and local buying. There was continued Wall street liquidation of both bear and late months, however, and the rallies were barely maintained during the early trading. Liverpool was rather lower than due and the feeling around the local ring seemed to be somewhat unsettled by the situation in the near east or talk of less favorable international politics.

Chicago Grain, Chicago, Nov. 17.—Discouraging prospects in regard to export business led to fresh weakness today in the wheat market here. The opening which ranged from yesterday's close to 1-8 to 1-4 lower was followed by a moderate rally but then by a decided general sag. Corn swayed with wheat. Liquidating sales were numerous. After opening unchanged to 1-8 lower the market turned upward little and subsequently went sharply down. Oats had no independent action, changes, however, were narrower than was the case in other grains. Unexpectedly large receipts hogs made provisions average lower; what buying there was came chiefly from shorts.

Piano "Special Sales"

Every month of the year at some point in Texas (and other parts of the country) the "biggest," "grandest," "most startling," "sensational" and "thrilling" sale of pianos "of the century" is being pulled off, each of the several merchants claiming that their sale presents "the only opportunity of a lifetime," etc.

We have been in business half a century and have never held a "special sale." Yet—

We have sold more pianos and player-pianos than any concern doing business in the state.

Because we have shown the wise buyers that our prices on new and used pianos and players are lowest all the time.

We can show you.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WILL PLAY AT STAMFORD SATURDAY

Only two games remain on the football schedule of the high school football team, both being with the Stamford high school team. The first game will be played at Stamford next Saturday and the team will leave here Friday afternoon. The return game will be played here Thanksgiving day.
The season has not been as successful as some former ones, for the high school team, this being due chiefly to the fact that the players were mostly inexperienced. Many of them will be in school again next year, when it is hoped to have a squad that will be able to bid for championship honors.

How Paris Art Treasures Were Removed When Invaders Threatened

By Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 15.—Many conflicting reports have been published of the circumstances under which the art treasures of Paris were placed in safety while the Germans were approaching the capital.

"As early as August," Mr. Dalmier says, "I had considered with my colleagues the measures to be taken to save our art treasures from the possibility of the German invasion. We did not want to alarm the public by taking such steps before they became absolutely imperative. It was only when von Kluck approached Paris with remarkable rapidity, that we decided to act, and we were obliged to act quickly. They gave me forty-eight hours to pack up the rarest objects of our collection and send them out of Paris by railroad, to be sheltered in an important city of the south of France. The task was arduous and delicate. The most insignificant incident might compromise the operation, hopelessly and the rapidity with which we necessarily acted inevitably developed some nervousness. In a very short time we established a list of 710 canvases that we considered it necessary to put into a place of safety. Only 250 pictures were removed from the Museum in 1870 during the siege of Paris; comparatively our task was far greater. Some experts declared that it was impossible in view of the mobilization of the greater part of the personnel of the museums, but we were determined to make the maximum effort. All the furniture-moving houses in Paris were called upon by telephone to send every available moving van immediately and the removal of the pictures and statuary began at once. The Venus de Milo which weighs three tons, gave us the greatest trouble, after which the most delicate operations were the packing and removal of the precious objects and furniture of the Gallery of Apollo at the Louvre.

"As for the Crown diamonds, their removal was a delicate task that fell to Marcel Trepoire, the director of the Museum, and myself. We decided that we could not delegate to anyone. Procuring an ordinary leather satchel, we placed the diamonds in it and left for the railroad station at night-fall. The situation was disquieting for a number of reasons. The station was crowded, the streets full of people hurrying out of Paris before the approaching army. "We dined at the buffet of the railroad station—very poorly, because the responsibility of the safety of those jewels spoiled our appetites. It seemed to both of us that the eyes of every person in the restaurant were fixed upon that leather bag, and it occurred to us what a simple matter it would be for an ill-designing audacious person to make a considerable haul that evening in the confusion of the exit. We succeeded in getting places in the train, crowded to overflowing with panicky passengers. When we arrived at our journey's end we were not at the end of our troubles, with that famous jewel. It was almost impossible to find a safe in which to put them. We had been preceded, it seemed, by every owner of a pearl necklace in Paris, and all the boxes of the only safe deposit places in the city were already filled. We finally found an empty drawer in the safe of a branch of a Parisian bank and it is here the jewels of the Crown have been in safe keeping ever since, always under the watchful eye of men from the Fine Arts, men detailed by the bank, and all of them supervised by private detectives.

"The watch over the paintings and objects of art is an even more important affair. They filled scores of moving vans assembled in a large courtyard where there were formerly shoe shops, locksmiths and small tradespeople of all sorts, who gave up their establishments in order to contribute to the safety of the National Art Treasures. All the doors leading to the courtyard were sealed up, bars placed on all windows, fire fighting apparatus installed and constantly day and night the entire block around this courtyard was patrolled by territorialists with fixed bayonets.

"In addition to the Art Treasures of the Louvre and other Paris Museums, such as the Luxembourg and Cluny, Marcel Trepoire, director of the National Museum, and myself decided that we could not delegate to anyone. Procuring an ordinary leather satchel, we placed the diamonds in it and left for

26 Trainloads of Wounded Soldiers Daily Hauled Back From Trenches And Distributed to Various Hospitals

Paris, Nov. 15.—Long trains of wounded kept rolling into the La Chapelle station of the Gare du Nord, train after train, even after the fiercest fighting. Casualties have occurred, for the ebb and flow of the struggle keeps going on with its steady yield of maimed and stricken soldiers. The government gave the correspondent facilities the other day to see this procession of incoming trains, and the methods employed for promptly handling this enormous daily influx of human freight requiring the most immediate and delicate attention.

La Chapelle is the station in the most northeastern section of Paris, nearest the fighting line, 65 miles away, and is the natural point for these trains from the front to empty into Paris. Here the trains of the wounded averaged 35 a day, with 200 to 300 wounded on each train, even after the lull in the fighting, or from 5,200 to 7,800 wounded to be cared for daily. When the fighting was fiercest these figures were far exceeded, and one of the officers stated 41,000 wounded had been received in four days, and added the remarkable fact that only two out of the 41,000 had died in transit. The platforms to which these trains of wounded roll up, are all thoroughly organized for fast and systematic work. Near at hand is a huge kitchen which can furnish 4,000 meals on short notice, so that the wounded may immediately receive hot tea and sustenance. There are many cooks, and scores of nurses ready to carry dozens of meals packed in wicker baskets. Twelve surgeons are on duty to give first aid in a pressing case, though this attention is not for treatment of wounds; it is merely to receive and distribute them to the hospitals in Paris or in central or southern France. A train of wounded from the front had just come in as the inspecting party arrived under government escort. Some fifty ambulances were drawn up on the platform ready to receive the wounded men, and already the ambulances were well filled and moving off to the various hospitals. Each ambulance received six, two tiers of three, the litters sliding on grooves into their places in the ambulances. Only a roll of yellow blanket appeared on the stretchers, with here and there a face, but usually the heads were covered, seeking complete quiet. There was no complaint; no groans. Everything moved along swiftly and with absolute precision, and not long after the men came from the trains they were on their way to the hospitals. Occasionally some case needed special attention. One red-bearded peasant soldier, well along in years, was ashen pale as he was rolled in an invalid chair to receive the care of surgeons. Another young soldier was laughing as his chair rolled by, to assure the visitors that his wound was slight. Most of the Amsterdam, Nov. 16.—The Dutch newspapers have recently been turned a searchlight on the frontier traffic which is alleged to be furnishing Germany with many commodities which she needs. According to the Telegram there is little actual violation of the letter of the Dutch regulations regarding contraband, but there is a great deal of skillful evasion which is proving very profitable to the Dutch trader. Fats and oils are contraband, and therefore offer difficulties to the smuggler, but "margarine" and "soap" are in the list of allowed exports. A carload in the Telegram shows and ends less train of wagons winding along a country road towards the frontier, each wagon loaded with cases labeled "Margarine" and "Soap," and a note underneath the picture reads "Fats and oils are contraband, but margarine and soap are all right, so there we go."

A correspondent writing from Bergen-op-Zoom, which is one of the most convenient points for export to Germany says: "Each freight train which comes in seems to contain a greater or smaller number of cases of so-called margarine. The contraband is covered with them, the storeroom is piled all the way to the ceiling. Outside, the station yard is thronged with vehicles. I counted 31 carts, five handcarts, several dogcarts, and 90 men with bicycles. The entire group is commonly referred to by residents of Bergen as 'the smugglers.'"

"As rapidly as possible the cases are hustled out from the station and immediately the procession starts for the frontier. There are three roads from Bergen across the frontier, but the tendency of the customs officials seems to vary considerably at the three points, and one road is followed by the majority of the margarine laden wagons.

"I am told that an average of about 20,000 pounds of margarine and 2,000 pounds of soap go over the frontier from Bergen daily. It is commonly believed that the so-called margarine is unmarketable, and that the 'soap' is useless for washing. This soap, it is said, is a composition of linseed oil, for which there is a great demand in Germany, while the 'margarine' is said to be composed of certain elements useful for lubrication."

It was at Bergen just a year ago that the heaviest influx of Belgian refugees reached Holland. The town today is reaping the reward for the warm-hearted welcome which it received and fed the refugees for the year today, out of the heavy profits of its trade with Germany. It is experiencing an unprecedented prosperity. Another principal center of trade with Germany, according to the Dutch newspapers, is the point where the Rhine passes from Germany into Holland, where, for some distance the frontier runs down the middle of the stream.

Lady Paget Is Captured By Bulgarians—Husband's Heroic Effort to Rescue

Monastir, Nov. 16.—Lady Ralph Paget, who was captured by the Bulgarians at Uskup, made one of the supreme sacrifices of the world war. Rather than desert the wounded Serbians entrusted to her care, she spurned an opportunity to escape and, with practically her entire hospital staff voluntarily fell into the hands of her country's enemies.

The story became known here with the arrival of Nish of Edward Stuart, head of the American Sanitary Commission, who left the Serbian capital two days before its fall. Stuart told a dramatic story of Sir Ralph Paget's attempt to save his wife from the Bulgarians, while the Bulgarian advance guard was within a few miles of the town. "Sir Ralph was at Nish when he learned that Uskup was about to fall," said Stuart. "He obtained a big automobile, stocked it with some provisions and made a wild dash over the rough roads to Uskup to save Lady Paget, who was in charge of a large hospital there. "His car sped up to the hospital just three hours before the Bulgarians actually entered the town. The Serbians and the hospital staff were leaving and the Bulgarians were fleeing. "He found Lady Paget in one of the wards personally directing the work of the wounded and urged her to go with him without a moment's delay. She refused. Sir Ralph, almost in tears, begged her to leave at once, but she gathered her staff together in the hospital office and told her husband: "We owe too much to these men here under our care to leave them now when they need me so."

Sir Ralph kissed her good-bye and sped on back to Nish. Two hundred Austrian prisoners who were abandoned by the Serbs when they retreated from Uskup are doing service as attendants and nurses at the Uskup hospital under Lady Paget's direction, Stuart said.

CONVICT MADE SHOES PURCHASED BY STATE. Austin, Tex., Nov. 17.—Carrying out the plans and policies of Governor Ferguson for the state penal system, Geo. Leaver, state purchasing agent, has just purchased 5,000 pairs of shoes from the shoe factory operated by the penitentiary commission at Huntsville for use in the various state eleemosynary institutions. Another order soon will be placed, as the shoes are bought cheaper, and by the state buying the product, such purchases do not come in competition with free labor. It is also proposed to purchase furniture from the factory now in operation in the Huntsville institution.
