TROOPS ARE BEING SENT TO IRELAND

DUBLIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW AND REST OF COUNTRY IS DECLARED TO BE TRANQUIL. REBEL HEADQUARTERS SEIZED.

Premier Asquith Intimates He Considers Them Responsible—Beholding May Be Fate of Sir Roger Casement, Now Prisoner.

By Associated Press. London, April 26.—Liberty Hall, headquarters of the Dublin rebels and Stephen's Green, which was captured by them, have been occupied by the military. Premier Asquith announced today in the House of Commons.

Martial law has been proclaimed in the city and county of Dublin, it was announced. Troops have arrived at Dublin from Belfast and England.

At the opening of the House of Commons today Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, said it was difficult to say whether any routes to Ireland were open or closed. He added that he was going there if he could make arrangements.

Premier Asquith read a telegram stating that the situation at Dublin was satisfactory. It was not the case, the message stated, that the rebels had machine guns.

Outside of Dublin, the premier said, the country was tranquil. He asserted steps were being taken to acquaint neutral countries of the real significance of "this the most recent German campaign."

The fact that Sir Roger Casement has been brought to England to stand trial and is detained in military custody leads to the assumption that he will be tried for high treason. This charge has been preferred less than a half dozen times in England in the last 100 years.

The Express suggests the possibility that Sir Roger, if convicted of high treason, may be beheaded as under the existing law a person found guilty of this offense, may, by crown warrant, be given the penalty of beheading instead of hanging.

SOELLNER QUARTET TONIGHT AT WICHITA THEATRE

Concerning the quality of the music of the Zoellner Quartet appearing tonight at the Wichita Theatre under the auspices of the Musicians' Association, a press notice says:

The unceasing search for new musical material that the Zoellner String Quartet has pursued for numerous years has brought them the substantial regard of knowing that each season they have presented to American audiences works of vast importance that had not hitherto been heard on this side of the Atlantic.

While the Zoellners are strong exponents of the modern school it is interesting to know how they reverence Beethoven's works. In a recent interview Mr. Jos Zoellner Sr., the founder of the quartet, and viola player of the organization, had the following to say about Beethoven and his string quartets.

THE TEST

NEARLY THREE HUNDRED PHONOGRAPH EXPERTS WERE HELD SPELL-BOUND BY UNPRECEDENT RE-CREATION OF MUSIC AT A RECENT TEST OF THE NEW EDISON DIAMOND DISC PHONOGRAPH

Musical history was made a few days ago at Orange, N. J., at the laboratories of the New Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph, when a test was made by Alice Verlet, the famous Belgian prima donna, whom European musical critics have hailed as the new "Queen of Song" stood beside the New Edison and sang in company with it the beautiful song, "Caro Nome." Which was singing, phonograph or lady, the ear could not distinguish. Only the eye could discern that Miss Verlet's lips were not moving. Then—a greater volume—but only a greater volume—Miss Verlet joined her voice with the singing of the Edison Diamond Disc. Two voices—exactly the same two—were singing together. No one among the entire audience could tell which was the more clear or distinct, or more full of feeling.

There are no needles to change. Let us play for you the Edison Diamond Disc Record that Mlle Verlet used in making this test, and show you the $250 Diamond Disc Phonograph, which is the official laboratory model.

The Two Prayers.

A youth stood with uplifted arms and faced the rising sun. "O God," he prayed, with earnest eyes, "ere my short day be done, O God of power, grant me power! O God of strength, grant me strength! To force my way to fame, to claim a conqueror's crown at length." Till when death's shadow creeps a-near, my name may show on high Peerless amid earth's mightiest—then would I gaily die!

A man, still strong, but tanned by care, by tempering sorrow tried, Kneelt ere he slept, in humbleness, a spirit purified.

"Grant, God of Love," he murmured low, "grant me the power to love, The power to lighten tired hearts, the power cold hearts to move, The sense compassionate and ere my working soul takes flight, Let me forget myself, to wake and startled by thy light."

MRS. EUGENE SHERRID IS LUNCHEON BRIDGE HOSTESS

A rose luncheon was the pretty hospitality extended the Tuesday Luncheon Bridge Club by Mrs. Eugene Sherrid, this week's meeting being the first since the opening of Lent. Roses made the rooms in which the three tables were arranged for the luncheon and the game both fragrant and colorful and covers were marked by artistic cards in rose design. A reminder of the Easter season so recently observed was found in a cluster of stately Easter lilies used as the central motif. The menu was in three courses, consisting of chicken croquette, asparagus tips, tomato, peas and mushrooms in pate, beaten biscuits and ice tea, grapefruit salad with mints and salted nuts and a strawberry ice with cake. The hostess was assisted in her entertainment by her niece, Miss Dorothy Thorpe. These presents were Mesdames M. M. Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Bratcher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles.

Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give it up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me.

At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing.

I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health."

AT THE THEATRES

The Lydia Margaret.

Richard Travers is the bright particular star of "Captain Links of the Horse Marines," Clyde Fitch's satire on society of the early '70's, a picture of which is showing at the Lydia Margaret today only. Starring with him is Ann Murdock.

Ann Murdock, young dramatic star who appears in the leading feminine role of "Captain Links of the Horse Marines," Essanay's five act comedy, taken from Clyde Fitch's fanatical comedy, is the youngest star ever picked by Charles Frohman to lead his companies in any big play. Miss Murdock is known as the baby star because of her extreme youth. The choosing of her by the dramatic impresario was the result of a year's tutelage watching of her work. She was under the Harris banner when Frohman saw her first. He watched her for signs of genius and eventually he found it. Two years ago she was offered a contract and signed immediately. She brings to the Clyde Fitch satire, all the whimsical talent that has made her famous and successful on the stage.

The Empress.

"The Spider," a Paramount production is the feature today at the Empress.

"The Spider" gives Pauline Frederick an unusual opportunity for displaying her amazing talents. The subject presents her in two diametrically opposite roles. Valerie St. Cyr, a notorious Persian beauty, and her deserted daughter, Joan. In the impersonation of these dual but distinct characters, the superb emotional artist performs miracles of character interpretation and of dramatic portrayal. The tremendous power of Miss Frederick's art and the wide range of her screen capabilities were never so forcefully illustrated as in her compelling delineation of this unique emotional drama.

The Gem.

King Baggot and Edna Hunter are starred in a Universal feature, "Paterson of the News," a stirring drama of newspaper life on the screen at the Gem today.

In a slumming party going the Tenderloin are Bertie Ralston and his fiancée, Phyllis Brennan. Their car stops at Stanfield's gambling house and the party enter the place. At the Tenderloin station a platoon of police is told off and they pile in on the Jack wagon. Jack Patterson, a reporter accompanies them. The wagon stops in front of Stanfield's. The slumming party is panic-stricken.

"Jack leads a squad of men into the luxuriously furnished rooms. As the policemen rush by him with drawn nightsticks he encounters Phyllis. His knowledge of the world tells him that she is no ordinary habitue of the Tenderloin. She thinks he is a detective. He shows her his badge and assists her to escape. Phyllis thanks him and he hands her his card. She tells him that she must be nameless for the sake of her family and they make an appointment to meet later.

Phyllis keeps this appointment and others. Jack asks for her hand in marriage. The proposal of marriage upsets her. She is the daughter of a wealthy family and to please her father, she has allowed him to pledge her to another. She tells Jack that they cannot meet again. That night in the editorial room the editor and reporters are stirred by the news that Daniel Brennan, the head of the Union National Bank, has lost a million in the wheat pit. The scene shifts to the office of Brennan at the bank. Brennan goes to the vaults, removes precious securities placed there in a valise and makes ready to go.

Jack starts to go home from the editorial room. He passes the Union National Bank building, sees a light burning in the offices and his suspicions are aroused when he sees President Brennan come out with a valise and walk away. Jack tells the city editor of his discovery and the latter authorizes him to go ahead.

"If Brennan is really crooked it will be the biggest story of the year," he says. That night Jack is admitted to Brennan's mansion. Brennan is apparently ready for a journey. There are valises in the hallway. "I am a federal bank examiner," Jack says. "I have not yet made my report. Perhaps you can make some explanation before I do."

The result of this encounter is startling and the finish dramatic and at the same time pleasing.

The Majestic.

Today and tomorrow will be shown a Lubin special, "The Fires of St. John," the son of his brother George, and Heiman Suderbaum's drama "Johnniefeuer," which Nance O'Neil produced on the spoken stage in this country under the title of "The Fires of St. John" has been adapted to the screen by Alfred Hickman.

Like most of Suderbaum's dramas "Johnniefeuer" is a work with a serious purpose. The life of the gypsy wail, although marked with self denial and every other commendable effort on her part, ends in a tragedy. She is separated from the man she loves by her mother, a thief, drink, sudden old wretch, who dies within the walls of a prison, begonia with her last breath for a drop of the fluid that has been her curse. As adapted for the screen, the drama commences when a wealthy Pennsylvania farmer, named Vogel, adopts the son of his brother George, and on the same day, buys the infant child of a gypsy woman that he rescues from death when he finds her helpless from the cold on the public highway. The child grows up to womanhood loving her foster brother who loves her in return. The Vogel's however, are anxious to have George marry their daughter Gertrude. Out of gratitude to her foster parents, Merika attempts to keep George at a distance. He is piqued and proposes to Gertrude. As the marriage approaches, Merika realizes she has broken her own heart. George also finds that he loves Merika more than Gertrude. On St. John's eve, according to an old Pagan custom, Merika permits George to embrace her, but the thought of her mother and her degradation steals her heart against the pleadings of her foster brother. The marriage between George and his cousin takes place, and Merika leaves the farm and devotes herself to her mother's death.

In spite of the scenes being laid in this country, the play is essentially German in spirit and in its present form, makes its greatest claim to popular favor by the opportunity for powerful acting afforded Nance O'Neil in the dual role of mother and daughter. Miss O'Neil played the degraded old gypsy with startling realism and tragic power. She was equally successful in denoting the first womanliness of the daughter. The rest of the cast was uniformly excellent and included George Clarke, Eleanor Barry, Ethel Tully, Victor Sutherland, Irving Dillon, Mrs. Carr, James Casady, Violet Exzell and Rosemary Carr. The production, directed by Edna Lewis has been given every benefit of artistic supervision in the acting and the settings for the scenes.

A Welcome Pay Envelope

HONEST, old man, I don't know what we would have done without that AETNA ACCUMULATIVE ACCIDENT POLICY.

When a fellow lives on the "no-work-no-pay" basis and has nothing to fall back on, a cracked head and a broken arm don't get him anything. All he can do is sit around and wonder how the wife can scrape together enough to keep the family going. He just naturally worries himself twice as much.

But this Aetna Accident Policy takes the place of the pay envelope. Gives you $50 a week as long as you're totally disabled by your injuries and $25 a week even though you are only partially disabled by them. Pays the bill for a surgical operation, too.

All you do is sit back and tell your broken head and arm: "All right, boys, take your time about healing. I'm provided for until you're fit again."

Governor Ferguson told the delegates to the State Federation of Labor this week that he endorsed the fifty-four hour law for female employees but that he would not consider the law complete until maximum hours of labor had been reduced to 48 hours.

In the recently published correspondence of Former Governor O. B. Colquitt with the president of a German-American alliance in New York the former governor appears to have the impression that the German-American vote can be delivered to whom ever the leaders dictate. A great many so-called leaders owe their position to the fallacious belief that they are able to control the votes of those of Teutonic descent. Voters of German origin will very probably resent the imputation contained in Mr. Colquitt's letter.

Republicans who wait to be "requeled" will have to wait until after their national convention in Chicago before they express themselves on the issue of the hour. It now appears that none of the candidates who have been mentioned will go to the convention with anything like a preponderance of the votes of the delegates. Roosevelt is for a big army, a big navy and a big stick policy generally. He would have been in war against Germany months ago and he would have had the United States occupy Mexico. Henry Ford who seems to be gathering in more delegates than anybody is for peace at any price and would reduce the navy to a multitude of Ford like submarines. Hughes seems to be very much favored because nobody knows just where he stands. Root is for the assertion of American rights. Others are for the surrender of American rights. Republican leaders in the house and Senate without any policies of their own are trying to obstruct the administration policies. Altogether the situation for the Republicans is badly muddled and they don't appear to know where they are at. They are agreed in one purpose, however, and that is "Anything to beat Wilson" but that is about as far as they appear to have gotten.

Friends of the State University throughout Texas breathed a long sigh of relief when it became known that Dr. R. E. Vinson had been elected president of that institution and that he had accepted. Since the resignation of President Mezes, there have been numerous rumors of a disquieting nature, some of them indicating that the presidency was to become a political plum. One report, which seemed so ridiculous that it received little credit, was that O. B. Colquitt was to be named, and it is known now that such a thing really did come very close to happening. But by electing Dr. Vinson the regrets have redeemed themselves; it is doubtful if a more suitable man could have been found in Texas. He has been at the head of an institution that has become prosperous and powerful through his efforts in its behalf, and he has been in close touch with the University and an intimate friend to many of its students, for many years. He has a hard job ahead of him but the fact that the presidency came to him upon his merits and not as the result of a political raffle, will make it much easier than it would otherwise have been. The presidency of the State University requires a man of scholarly attainments, of marked executive and business ability and of strong personality, and the new incumbent is possessed of all these attributes. It requires also a man whose love for his state and whose desire to serve it, are great enough for him to pay less attention to material considerations, and here also, Dr. Vinson meets the requirements. Some day perhaps, it will not be necessary for the president of the State University to make financial sacrifices such as have been called for in the past; but until that day comes it is at least comforting to realize that there are Texans loyal enough to take the place. Dr. Houston, now secretary of agriculture, stayed with the University until another institution offered him three times the salary he was getting at Austin; the experience of Dr. Mezes, who succeeded him, was largely similar. No one blames them and no one will blame Dr. Vinson for his course when larger recognition comes to him. And in the meantime all friends of the University will rejoice that it has avoided the troubles which so recently loomed large before it.

THE WHITE LIGHT OF PUBLICITY.

The expose of the subtle attempt of Oscar B. Colquitt to organize, through sinister influences in New York, an important, respectable and considerable element of the voting population of Texas into a faction that would be compelled to solidly support his present political aspirations has created a profound sensation. Austin American on Sunday morning published, in full, the details of the scheme over Colquitt's own signature. Yesterday morning the Dallas News gave prominence to the same letter.

For some time hints of such a conspiracy have been afloat, but its existence could hardly be credited. The revelation came to most of us as a shocking surprise.

It is not enough to point out that the leaders of the infamous plot to control the government of the United States through the senate have no standing and have frequently been discredited by those they impudently pretend to "control." The insult offered all Americans of German blood and German sympathies should—and undoubtedly will—be effectively resented.

It has been Austin American's observation that, to as great an extent as do the people of any other race, our German-blooded citizens read and think and act for themselves. The assumption that they are to be led like so many sheep by any man or set of men, that they can be influenced by the vain and rapid insinuations of ordinary politicians and polluted propagandists, is a slur as monstrous and abominable as it is unwarranted and unwarranted.

Ex-Governor Colquitt owes his public career largely to the partiality of the German citizens of Texas. He has always received distinguished consideration at their hands. He undoubtedly did not intend that it should become known that he had bargained with New York "agents" for their continued support. That is why he took the precaution to add to his proposition: "I think it would be well for such letters as you may write to be confidential, for reasons which you can readily understand."

It would have been better for his political prospects had he also added: "Please burn this letter." — Austin American.

TWO FAMILIES OF CAMPERS STAGE FIRST-CLASS FIGHT

A near-feud between two families camping near the Denver lake south-east of the city last night, was waged with great earnestness and persistence, but without casualties or bloodshed. This morning the heads of the two families were brought to town, but were released by the officers. They had $1.75 between them and to have suit them on the county road would have entailed a great hardship upon their large families.

A knife, an axe and a piece of harness were among the weapons used in the fracas. Just to what extent the knife and axe were employed was not ascertained, but one of the women said this morning that a male member of the opposing clan had used the piece of harness upon her, administering what appears to have been a regular old-fashioned spanking. After the officers had appeared on the scene, peace was patched up between the families, and everything seemed quiet enough this morning, particularly in comparison with the strife that had raged the night before.

FEATURING

Ann Murdock and Richard C. Travers

A Real Picture by a REAL Author—CLYE FITCH. ANN MURDOCK, the "Baby Star" of the Frohman Company will make thousands of friends during the short stay of "Captain Jinks." "CAPTAIN JINKS OF THE HORSE MARINES" is a brilliant satire of the politics and frivolities of the early '70s. IT IS FILLED WITH MIRTH-PROVOKING SITUATIONS, BUBBLING AND SPARKLING WITH GENUINE HUMOR. Its fantasies, its whimsical periods, its airy lightness, its heart free gaiety, its spontaneous joy opens the springs of contagious laughter. Its lilting swing sets the heart to singing and the feet to dancing. Captain Jinks, the leader of a political marching club, is a dashing young blade, rich, reckless, irresponsible and altogether lovable. He falls in love with Miss Trenton, the most beautiful and talented prima donna the day. His path to love is beset with obstacles, but he wins at last. A PICTURE UNLIKE ANY YOU HAVE EVER SEEN.

ZACHARY IS FOUND NOT GUILTY TODAY

Jury Returns Verdict This Afternoon—Defendant Charged With Practicing Without License

A verdict of not guilty was returned at 4:15 this afternoon by the jury in the case of Dr. M. J. Zachary, chiropractor, charged with practicing medicine without a license. The jury was out about half an hour. The case of M. J. Zachary, chiropractor, charged with practicing medicine without a license, was called in county court this morning and went to the jury at 3:30 this afternoon. Nine of the ten complaints against Zachary were dismissed by the state, the trial being upon the remaining complaint alleging general practice without a license.

Other articles in the "Herald" were patterned after those published in certain well known anti-Catholic papers, particular reference being given to local conditions. A large number of copies of the "Herald" apparently were distributed here. Practically every local organization that has recognized a Catholic in any way came in for a share of criticism. There was nothing to indicate the authorship or source of the articles.

Assistance Prosecuting Attorney Davenport opposes the prosecution. He was followed by Attorney Weeks for the defense. Attorney Boone closed for the state and the jury retired.

Eight witnesses were summoned by the state. The defense based its argument chiefly on the testimony of Mrs. G. T. Albright, who testified that her two year old son could neither walk nor talk and that he was cured by thirty adjustments administered by Zachary.

The jury was completed at 10:30. It consists of A. J. Andrew, J. A. Albritton, William Huff, Arthur Huff, E. R. Greenwood and Claude Woods. In examining the panel, attorneys for the defense inquired as to any prejudice the prospective jurors had against any of the various forms of medical treatment. They were also asked if the fact that private prosecution had been employed in the case would influence their verdict.

RAISING FUNDS HERE FOR ABILENE NEGRO ORPHANAGE
Thursday night Rev. L. S. Arthur, formerly pastor of the St. John's Baptist Church of this city but now president of the negro orphan and rescue home at Abilene is here to open a fifteen days' campaign for funds for the home. The following has been furnished The Times concerning the meeting Thursday night: A meeting to open a 15 days fund campaign will be held Thursday night. We are expecting everybody to be present. Dr. Andrews of the Methodist Church, South, will preach at 7:15 p.m. Everybody is cordially invited. Social arrangements to be made to accommodate our white friends.

COURT HOUSE BOND MONEY IS RECEIVED

Has Been Deposited in Chicago Bank—Soon to Start on Temporary Building.

The wherewithal to build Wichita county's new court house has been received from the company which bought the bonds, and has been deposited to the credit of the county in a Chicago bank. It will be placed in the City National Bank within a short time.

The amount is about $236,000, which includes the premium and the accrued interest. This amount will draw interest as part of the county's deposit. Work is expected to start next week upon the temporary court house building on the north side of the court house lot. It will be several weeks before this building is ready for occupancy.

The county commissioners have asked contractors to be as careful as possible in their work in order to save as many of the trees on the square as possible. It is believed that comparatively few of the trees, which had added so much to the attractiveness of the court house square, will have to

MACK TAYLOR'S 10 CENT TOOTH BRUSH SALE

If the world knew that a good, reliable, lasting tooth brush could be bought for 10 cents, probably there would not be so much tooth trouble, so many people with decayed teeth, foul breath and sour stomach. Diseases that are directly traceable to the lack of attention to the teeth. Disease germs of all kinds breed in the mouth over night which might be easily eliminated if people would cultivate in their children a better care of the teeth.
