Court: Remainder of issue needed

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Only slight cuts were made in the original proposal for a new Howard County Detention Center as Howard County Commissioners attempted to keep the upcoming bond election below $5 million.

But what remains and what will be presented to voters on the April 8 ballot is necessary according to commissioners.

Those cuts included surveys and soil testing (something that has already been done), recreation equipment, some educational equipment, additional furniture, and an additional expense for accessories and miscellaneous items.

The building construction costs for the 96-bed jail is estimated to be $2.7 million; services, including architectural and engineering fees, $220,000; printing, $15,000; and bond issue costs, $30,000.

Food service and laundry equipment is estimated to be $75,000, bringing the total estimate for the jail to $3,065,000.

Adding a 5 percent contingency cost for overruns ($153,250) the total projected budget for the jail is $3,218,250, but that figure is rounded to the nearest five thousand because bonds are issued in increments of $5,000.

Reaction to Tuesday's public hearing on the jail/courthouse propositions are still surfacing as residents continue to seek answers to their questions.

Big Spring resident and retired Air Force Lt. Col. Bowden Hampton attended Tuesday's meeting and came away thinking something has to be done now at a cheaper cost (despite higher taxes) or at a much higher cost later.

He said, "The taxpayers have to know that the bond election is the cheapest way to go and that the work will be done whether the issue passes or not."

Bowden was referring to the statement made by Commissioner Sonny Choate who said, "If the courthouse proposition fails, we will raise taxes to renovate it because it is county property."

During earlier meetings concerning both propositions, the courthouse plans saw the severest cuts because commissioners had to decide what in the courthouse proposal had to be implemented and what in the proposal could be done without at the present time.

Once commissioners decided what had to stay in the proposal, more than $783,000 in cosmetic work, architectural and engineering fees, furniture, and accessories was cut from the proposal.

Building construction costs for the project are estimated to be $1,439,500, which includes code compliance and ADA compliance, building maintenance, and mechanical, plumbing, and electrical construction; services, including architect and engineering fees, $110,000; printing, $10,000; and bond issue costs, $20,000.

The total estimate for the courthouse project is $1,579,500. Adding a 5 percent contingency fee for cost overruns ($78,975) the total projected budget for the courthouse project is $1,658,475 and rounding to the nearest five thousand, the final figure is $1,660,000.

Hampton added he is concerned about higher taxes, but the situation being faced by Howard County residents have to be addressed now rather than later.

Despite having two propositions on the April 8 ballot, the jail issue seem to raise the most questions among residents.

One of those question is just

Veterans not aware of benefits available

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Billions of dollars went unclaimed the last few years in veterans' benefits. Each year, the eligibility and types of benefits change and few veterans or their survivors know the latest rules.

A study group of the Consumer Education Research Center found more than one-fourth of the money paid in veterans' benefits goes to people who never served in the armed forces of the United States.

Most of these were related by blood or marriage to vets while others were members of the armed forces of countries who fought with the U.S.

"Many survivors of veterans are not aware they might be eligible to receive money, medical care, educational assistance, help in buying a home or other benefits.

"In fact, eligibility and benefits change constantly and some people ineligible in previous years are now able to start receiving money," said Robert L. Berko, executive director of the consumer group.

The survey also discovered many are not aware they are considered dependents or survivors of veterans. These include those involved in illegal marriages, those who remarried after the death or disability of a veteran, children born out of wedlock to a veteran, parents of a veteran and even dependent grandchildren.

Disabled veterans can receive apparel allowances if they use wheelchairs, artificial limbs or any prosthetic device that can wear or damage clothing and if they have a spouse in need of care, they can receive an allowance to pay someone to provide that care.

Judge dismisses case lodged against justice of the peace

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

A $500,000 lawsuit filed against Justice of the Peace Jack Buchanan has been dismissed in district court.

Gary M. Prater filed the suit in the 118th District Court last year claiming Buchanan has failed to execute a lawful order.

According to the lawsuit, Buchanan ordered Cliff Clinton to deliver a Volkswagen car to Prater in July 1994 and to pay half the court costs. "By Aug. 15, 1994, the $25 was paid but the car has not been returned. Buchanan has several times been confronted with the fact the car has still not been returned," stated the lawsuit.

Prater had requested Buchanan be ordered to return the car and was seeking damages claiming the judge violated his civil rights.

According to County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson, the lawsuit was dismissed because Prater failed to state a cause of action in his lawsuit. He had been given 30 days to reform his case but it still did not meet the requirements.

Judge Robert Moore dismissed the case Monday afternoon.

Wise, Mouton seeking seats on BSISD school board

Wise wants to see programs through

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

Adequately funding public education and providing adequate buildings for students are top priorities for Big Spring Independent School District board member Dan Wise. He has been a trustee for 12 years and is running for re-election May 6 for an at-large position.

"I have one child still in school but even if I didn't, I would still have an interest in the school district. I am running again because I want to see the programs we started through their completion. I am also willing to serve the community," Wise said.

"The financial problems schools face is a key issue facing board members. It's hard to know where the money is coming from on a federal and state level and what the local tax base is year to year.

"A more immediate issue, of course, is will we have to do major renovations or constructing new buildings. We have to do something to have adequate classrooms and buildings for our children," he added.

In the 12 years Wise has been on the board, he says he has only missed five meetings. He adds it is real important for

Mouton believes in value of education

By KELLIE JONES

Glynda Mouton, who has served as both secretary and vice president of the Big Spring Independent School District's Board of Trustees, is up for re-election in May.

She was appointed to the board in June 1991 to replace Bobby Baker and ran for the position three years ago. Her reason for running again is threefold.

"First, it takes a while for you to hit your stride as a board member. I view this as a public service and as an elected official, I have a duty to commu-cate with the public and to receive information from them. I see this as the highest form of public service.

"Second, I am a big believer in the value of an education. Students are involved in extracurricular activities in school but few are able to make a living doing these things after graduation. However, what you learn in high school or in your later years of education will help you in your career.

"Also, Drew and I have always thrown ourselves into our kids. We are big supporters of them and want to be an influence in whatever they choose to do. All three of our children are in high

Howard County is currently under contract with Limestone County to the tune of about $600 a day (about $4,000 a week) and more than $200,000 a year to house prisoners.

To give residents a picture of how serious the jail space problem is commissioners said, if something is not done about the jail problem, in 10 years Howard County will be more than $2 million to another county simply because it didn't have room to house its own prisoners.

Hampton said, "I'm sick and tired of how our crime problems are handled, from Washington, D.C. on down. Our commissioners still have the option of issuing certificates of obligation to pay for the proposals and the citizens of this county need to know that."

He added, "I would encourage people to take the cheaper route and vote for the jail. This is something that has to be done because we're talking about a jail in a 40 year old building."

When the Texas Commission on Jail Standards came in during the early 1980's, the present county jail received some variances - things that remained in place because they couldn't be changed.

Commissioner Bill Crooker said, "That's fine, but what TCJS won't allow us to do is to continue to overcrowd our jail."

He pointed to the situation in Brewster County, which had its jail shut down for four months by TCJS because of overcrowding and had to ship prisoners to nearby Presidio County.

Crooker said, "My feeling is that we need to take care of the people who have broken the law and they need to pay their penalties for their crimes."

He added, "With crime getting worse and worse, it puts more pressure on us when we don't have the available space."

Juvenile crime reform given final approval

AUSTIN (AP) — The House has given final approval to an overhaul of the state's juvenile justice system, but black and Hispanic lawmakers say the legislation will hurt teens, particularly minorities.

The bill, which now heads to the Senate for consideration, was approved 118-24 Thursday. Minority lawmakers cast all but three of the dissenting votes.

At a news conference after the vote, minority lawmakers said the bill would adversely affect youths because it focuses on incarceration rather than prevention.

They said black and Hispanic teen-agers would be most affected because they comprise the majority of youths entering the juvenile justice system.

"We're not dealing with the crux of the problem, and that is the necessity for intervention programs rather than just a straight lockup," said Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, head of the House Mexican-American Legislative Caucus.

"We cannot build our way out of the problem," Berlanga said. Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, who heads a coalition of black House members, charged that lawmakers have ignored prevention programs because "they'd rather see little black and brown boys and girls end up in the penal system."

Rep. Toby Goodman, author of the juvenile justice bill, responded, "Al Edwards is wrong, he's just wrong."

Goodman, R-Arlington, said expansion of Texas Youth Commission facilities would allow juveniles to be held longer and receive rehabilitation.

"As long as that violent juvenile offender is held in a facility, that's going to provide him with food, clothing, housing, education, rehabilitation, training," he said. "The longer you hold that child, the better chance you've got of success."

Gov. George W. Bush, who has made juvenile crime reform a top priority this legislative session, said he does not believe the bill would hurt minorities.

Please see HOUSE, page 4A

BILL'S HIGHLIGHTS

AUSTIN (AP) — Highlights of Rep. Toby Goodman's bill to reform the juvenile justice system:

— Lowers from 15 to 14 the age at which a juvenile may be tried as an adult.

— Lowers from 18 to 16 the age at which a juvenile is eligible for transfer to the adult prison system.

— Adds a number of offenses for which youths would face determinate, or fixed-term sentences, including: aggravated robbery, manslaughter, certain drug offenses, indecency with a child and criminal sollicitation of a minor.

— Retains the maximum determinate sentence term of 40 years for capital murder, first-degree felonies and aggravated control substance felonies and creates a 20-year maximum for second-degree felonies and a 10-year maximum for third-degree felonies.

— Sets minimum terms a juvenile must serve before becoming eligible for parole: 10 years for capital murder, three years for first-degree felonies, two years for second-degree

NEWS IN BRIEF

Officers threatened by animal lovers

GALVESTON (AP) — A Galveston County police officer accused of using a stray dog for target practice says he has been deluged with death threats.

"We have received ... well over 100 death threats, each one of us," Greg Trantham, one of two Bayou Vista officers being tried on animal cruelty charges, said Thursday outside the courtroom.

"I have been told my mother would be raped and killed, my fiancée, my sister ...," Trantham said.

One of the alleged threats against the officers surfaced just down the hall from the courtroom earlier in the week.

On Wednesday, it was discovered that someone had scrawled, "Dog killers must die" on the wall of a men's room. It was signed, "The jury."

Officials promise to deport more aliens

WASHINGTON (AP) — New technology for detecting illegal immigrants was displayed in the Capitol, and government officials promised during a House hearing to deport more aliens who are here illegally or commit serious crimes.

The Clinton administration is striving to seize the politically potent immigration issue, which is likely to be a key theme in next year's presidential campaign. President Clinton recently proposed legislation for an additional $1 billion for beefed-up border control and help for states with large illegal alien populations.

An estimated 56,000 legally deportable aliens are in state prisons and 21,000 are in federal facilities, according to the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Last month, as part of an anti-crime package, the Republican-controlled House passed legislation to boot criminal aliens out of the country more quickly once they get out of prison. The measure, now in the Senate, also would expand the scope of crimes for which aliens can be deported.

The House lawmakers also agreed, as part of a prison construction bill, to give states $650 million a year for incarcerating criminal aliens.

Senate approves hate crime legislation

AUSTIN (AP) — After listening to testimony by parents of slain homosexuals and a man who watched his gay brother gunned down by "queer-hunting" teens, a Senate committee has approved legislation cracking down on hate crimes.

DALLAS (AP) — The convicted mastermind of the biggest savings and loan fraud in Texas history has collected almost $400,000 in rent the past four years for a former ice warehouse that houses up to 500 homeless people nightly.

Danny L. Faulkner and his investment company have been landlords to Dallas' biggest homeless shelter since 1990.

The Dallas Life Foundation is operated by the First Baptist Church of Dallas, which was paying Faulkner's company $100,000 in rent a year until negotiating it down to $57,000 in late 1993.

Faulkner is now in prison in Fort Worth. Forty percent of the rent goes in his account, and the other 60 percent goes to his children, according to court records and Dallas Life financial reports.

The Internal Revenue Service, the Department of Justice and the Federal Deposit Insurance Co. are negotiating to strip Faulkner of all his assets, including the 130,000-square-foot building. Whichever agency acquired title to the facility probably would then try to sell it.

Terry Hart, the former U.S. attorney who led the criminal case against Faulkner, told The Dallas Morning News that the condominium developer almost certainly bought the building with illegally earned funds.

"It's ironic that he still obtains the benefits from renting those facilities while he's serving time in prison for bank fraud," said Hart, now in private practice.

Dallas Life Foundation became a homeless shelter in 1985 when Faulkner paid $1.5 million for an the 130,000-square-foot building and lent it to his church free of charge.

In 1988, when the First Baptist Church wanted to open a downtown homeless shelter, it began negotiating to buy the foundation from Faulkner's church, Jupiter Road Baptist.

FOGGY PILEUP

A Texas Department of Public Safety officer directs traffic on State Highway 80 about 20 miles east of Dallas after the highways was reopened after dense morning fog caused a traffic pile-up Thursday. Authorities estimated between 15 to 30 vehicles were involved in the incident with no immediate report of injuries.

Medicaid reform package passes Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Senate has passed Medicaid reform legislation designed to save taxpayer money and provide better services to more people in the safety-net health care system for the poor.

"We believe by passing this legislation ... that we will increase access to health care for Medicaid clients and that we will cut costs in doing so," said Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, lead sponsor of the legislation.

The 13-measure package, which now goes to the House for consideration, would require a federal waiver of some current regulations, said Mrs. Zaffirini, who heads the Senate Health and Human Services Committee.

Senators voted 30-0 Thursday for the main reform bill and also unanimously approved other measures in the package on which record votes were taken.

They split on amendments to a bill concerning how health care providers who currently serve Medicaid patients would be treated.

It is estimated that the proposed restructuring of the program would save the state $6.7 billion over the next five years and expand Medicaid services to 500,000 more Texans, Mrs. Zaffirini said. That's on top of the approximately 2.3 million who are currently eligible.

The additional Texans now may be served by local indigent health care programs. Joining the local program money and the Texans they serve with the statewide system is meant to pull down more federal matching dollars.

Those additional federal dollars are included in the estimated savings to the state, along with expected cost savings by putting more of a focus on prevention.

Texas' present two-year Medicaid budget is $18.7 billion, including $6.8 billion in state money and $11.9 billion in federal matching funds.

It is estimated that about $1.2

billion is needed in new state money to cover the Medicaid caseload in the upcoming two-year budget period, according to Therese Ruffing of the state Medicaid office.

A major provision of the proposed package is a phased-in managed care system, Mrs. Zaffirini said. In such a system, patients go to a primary care doctor who oversees their health needs and decides whether they require a specialist.

The change is meant to cut down on expensive emergency room visits by Medicaid patients who now either have nowhere else to go for routine medical care or wait until a medical problem is severe to seek help. It also would restrict Medicaid patients' choice of physicians to those who agree to managed care standards and fees.

Under the package, local groups could be formed to over-

Check out Ag Expo '95

Farming and ranching play a big part in the life of Howard County as one of the top industries. Ag Expo '95 takes a look at that industry with demonstrations, displays and other activities. The expo continues today until 5:30 p.m. at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and is free to the public.

Thursday night, Knott resident Bernice Gibbs was named the 1994 Producer of the Year for her work in agriculture.

Agriculture is an important part of our future and this county's future. And, its future is difficult considering market prices, regulations both state and federal that make production much more costly for the farmer.

Opinions expressed on this page are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated.

But, let's look at what can happen with one bale of cotton: It can be turned into 1,217 t-shirts with a value of $4,868; 3,930 socks, valued at $5,895; 782 towels, valued at $3,130; 8,700 bandanas, valued at $8,700; 540 blouses, value of $5,400; or 338 pairs of jeans, valued at $5,070.

That does have a huge impact on Howard County. Farming and ranching is a valuable industry to this county. Stop in and check out the expo. See what farming is really all about.

A shocker in the mailbox

A warning to America's youngsters: If you persist in subscribing to car magazines and outdoors magazines, only you are responsible for what else may start appearing in your mailbox.

As ridiculous as that sounds, it appears to be true. You may recall the story here about the 14-year-old boy -- whose family abhors the idea of guns -- who received in the mail a certificate proclaiming him a member of the National Rifle Association. His parents were furious that the NRA signed their child up without being asked; the NRA said that it often buys mailing lists from publishers of magazines and catalogs, and that apparently, because this boy subscribed to a magazine about cars, his name went straight onto the NRA's list.

really scary." There are five children in the family -- ages 18, 16, 14, 12 and 7. The parents like to involve them in outdoor activities -- the boys are active in the Boy Scouts, and the family often goes on camping trips. Some of the boys subscribe to magazines about outdoor life, and are on the mailing lists of catalogs that offer camping gear.

Apparently, in the world of direct-mail merchandising, the assumption is that if you like the outdoors, then you must like to kill. Because one of the boys in the Long Grove family received a catalog called Urban Combat. It literally sickened the family.

The cover showed a person aiming a rifle with a scope out the window of a city building. Sales pitch: "Jungles of glass and steel, cities are the most dangerous of all terrains to fight a war -- and the most likely. Here is the info that prepares police, military units and civilians to meet -- and beat -- the threat of urban combat. This book is loaded with illustrations showing the best tactical moves, accompanied by clear, concise directions. Topics include offensive operations, combat support, how to attack and clear buildings, demolitions, urban combat skills and much more."

Inside the 80-page catalog was a virtual arsenal of books and tapes telling readers how to hurt and even kill other people. Offered for sale was "The Anarchist Cookbook" ("...chapters on home preparation of weapons, electronics, drugs and explosives"), "Science of Revolutionary Warfare" ("Everything from how to make dynamite, how to use fulminate mercury. ... Also covers the manufacture of nitroglycerine, gun cotton and nitrogelatine"),

"Home-Built Claymore Mines" ("Once inaccessible to the general population, the technology for home-manufacturing claymore-type directional mines is presented here in simple terms the layman can understand").

The parents in Long Grove were aghast as they looked through the catalog -- page after page of information for sale telling how to manufacture weapons and explosives, videos with such titles as "The Ultimate Sniper," manuals under the heading "How to Kill," Nazi posters from World War II. This had been sent to their child -- and when they looked at the label they understood what had happened.

"It was exactly the same as the label on a camping-equipment catalog he subscribes to," the boy's mother said. "Apparently the camping-equipment company sold our son's name to the Urban Combat people."

The thought of this sort of thing being delivered by government employees -- mail carriers -- to young people who haven't asked for it troubled her deeply, as did the idea of such material being readily available to mentally unbalanced or emotionally unstable adults.

"One of the greatest things about our country is freedom of speech," she said. "But sometimes you think about how we have no boundaries at all anymore. Everyone is afraid to infringe on everyone else's rights -- so anything goes, in the name of freedom and individual expression. And the end result is something like this. Our country has lately chosen to have no boundaries, and because of that we are going out of control."

Police re-examining drowning death of wife of man charged with murder

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities are re-examining the 1986 drowning of the wife of a man charged with killing another former wife as police documents indicate three of the man's spouses either died or disappeared soon after they threatened to leave him.

Meanwhile, the attorney for Jack Reeves of Arlington, who has been charged with the 1978 shooting death of his second wife, Sharon Reeves, confirmed Thursday that his client was accused in a fatal shooting in Italy during the 1960s.

Hill County authorities said the case of the drowning of Myong Reeves was reopened after they learned of Reeves' arrest in Sharon Reeves' death. Authorities originally ruled Sharon Reeves' death a suicide. Reeves' present wife, Emilitta Reeves, hasn't been seen since Oct. 12.

"The combined deaths of Sharon Reeves, Myong Reeves and the suspected death of Emilitta Reeves supports a consistent pattern of suspicious circumstances in each incident," search warrant affidavits released Thursday state. "In particular, each victim died at the time they were planning to divorce Jack Reeves."

Reeves' attorney, Wes Ball, said, however, that Sharon Reeves may have begun proceedings to stop the divorce from Reeves, who retired from the Army in 1985 and has since been working as a self-employed maintenance and repair man.

Reeves, 54, was being held Thursday in Coryell County Jail on $500,000 bond on a charge of murder following his arrest earlier in the week.

Sharon Reeves, 34, was thought to have shot herself in the chest while at home in Copperas Cove, about 60 miles north of Austin.

Hill County Sheriff Brent Button said his office now is reviewing reports made after the 1986 drowning of Myong Reeves, 29.

"But it's going to be very difficult developing anything," Button said. "There was no autopsy done at the time and the body was cremated."

Myong Reeves drowned in 3 feet of water in Lake Whitney while fishing with Reeves. He told police she fell into the water after he left to get some bait.

"From the report we had at the time, there were no marks on the body or anything to indicate foul play," Button said.

When Myong Reeves' sister noticed bruises on the body's

Friends don't understand why the investigation has taken so long

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — A gravestone in Burkburnett Cemetery bears the name of Sharon Reeves and that of her former husband, who now stands accused of killing her in 1978.

Originally Mrs. Reeves' death was considered a suicide -- now officials believe otherwise.

Jack Reeves, 54, was being held Thursday in the Coryell County Jail on $500,000 bond on a charge of murder following his arrest in Sharon Reeves' shooting death.

The 34-year-old former Wichita Falls resident was originally thought to have shot herself in the chest while at home in Copperas Cove, about 60 miles north of Austin.

Coryell County District Attorney Sandy Gately would not say how police made the link between Reeves and the 1978 death. But Sharon Reeves' body was exhumed and an autopsy performed in December. Arlington police said the medical examiner who performed the autopsy said the wound "was suggestive of a homicide."

The week's developments have stirred up old memories, and some say the idea that Sharon Reeves would commit suicide has always been hard to believe.

"My husband and I both said, 'No, that's not Sharon,'" said Marilyn Dobbs, remembering when she heard the news in 1978. "I don't understand why the investigation's taken so long."

Mrs. Dobbs attended school and church with Sharon Reeves.

James Ladyman, whose children were Sharon's age and said the woman was like one of his own kids, also expressed doubts about her taking her own life.

"She wouldn't have done anything like what her husband said she'd done," Ladyman is quoted as saying in Friday's editions of the Wichita Falls Times Record News.

Jack Reeves' mother, Bennie Curran, of Wichita Falls said she doesn't believe her son has been charged with murder.

"Jack's too good a guy," she said. "I won't believe it unless they prove it, and then I still may not believe it."

Reeves' attorney, Wes Ball, said his client denies any wrongdoing.

face at the funeral home and began questioning the death, Reeves ordered her body cremated, according to the affidavits.

Ball said his client denies any wrongdoing.

"He's both frightened and angered," Ball said. "It's consistent with being accused of something of this magnitude that you didn't do."

Ball confirmed that Reeves was accused in the shooting death of a man while he was stationed in Italy in 1967. The charges were later dropped.

"He was involved in a situation that was an act of self-defense," Ball said. "That was the conclusion of whatever judicial system that heard that matter. The man apparently was breaking into his residence."

The Wichita Falls Times Record News reported today that Reeves was convicted of manslaughter for the fatal shooting of an Italian man who was allegedly peeping in on the Reeveses while they were in bed.

Reeves spent four months in prison before being cleared of all charges, following a petition signed by 700 Wichita Falls residents on his behalf. The petition caught the attention of then-President Lyndon Johnson, who asked Italian officials to reexamine the case, the newspaper said.

On Wednesday, police seized more than 40 weapons from Reeves' home. Arlington police spokesman Dee Anderson. He declined to say if they found the shotgun used in Sharon Reeves' fatal shooting.

But he did say police found evidence for their other investigations. He would not elaborate, other than to say there were signs that Emilitta Reeves did not disappear on her own.

Friends reported her disappearance after they found her car abandoned in an Arlington grocery store parking lot.

Arlington police became suspicious of Reeves when he never reported that Emilitta was missing, and an investigation uncovered the deaths of two of his previous wives. Officials said his first marriage was annulled.

"I am not going to subscribe to viewing this bill as a racial bill," Bush said Thursday. "This is a bill that would be spread universally across the population of Texas, aimed at saying to our children, 'We love you but we're going to hold you accountable for bad behavior.'"

"I think this is an excellent bill. I strongly support it, and I think Texans will overwhelmingly support it when they find out what's in it," he said.

The bill would lower the age at which a juvenile can be tried as an adult from 15 to 14, toughen sentences and expand the list of offenses for which youths can be locked up for long terms.

It also would lower the age at which juveniles are eligible for transfer to the adult prison system from 18 to 16.

Implementing the legislation would cost an estimated $60 million over the next two-year budget period and require $15 million more to fund the construction of 1,700 new beds for juvenile offenders.

Over the next four years, the number of beds would be increased from 2,500 to 6,220.

Minority lawmakers focused much of their criticism on a provision establishing a "progressive sanctions" program that would allow local juvenile boards to increase punishments for repeat offenders.

The program was required under the original bill but is voluntary under the bill that passed the House. Goodman said the state does not have enough money to fully implement the program, which budget writers have said would cost $92 million annually.

"What makes the bill supposedly effective is not being funded," said Rep. Sylvester Turner, D-Houston. "The only thing we did essentially was put forth a political statement that sounds good outside of these walls."

Rep. Diana Davila, D-Houston, added, "We need to commit ourselves not only in words, but in funding."

Goodman acknowledged that the state will not be able to fully address the juvenile crime problem without putting more money into the system.

"We're constrained at this point because we only have this much money," Goodman said. The bill is "not a solution, but it helps kids," he said.

Public or private entities could apply to provide managed care services for a particular price to all or a portion of the Medicaid recipients in the area. Backers said local areas could design service delivery programs to fit their needs.

Medicaid recipients also could be required to pay some amount -- perhaps $1 to $2 per office visit -- under the proposed package.

"We believe that that is a motivating tool, that that helps individuals learn responsibility," Mrs. Zaffirini said.

Sen. Frank Madla, D-San Antonio, sponsored a bill in the package to protect primary care physicians and hospitals who currently serve Medicaid and charity care patients at a particular level. Such providers would be guaranteed to be part of any new managed care system for three years, as long as they agreed to the standard rates and terms.

Senators approved Madla's measure with a 30-0 vote after turning down, 19-11, a proposed amendment that would also apply the protection to other health care providers, such as specialists.

Line item veto
bill approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — By approving a line-item veto bill, the Senate joins the House in agreeing to a historic ceding of constitutional power from the legislative to the executive branch of government.

Congress for the first time is allowing a president to selectively eliminate programs in massive spending bills sent to him for his signature from Capitol Hill.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference to iron out differences. President Clinton, like many past presidents, is an enthusiastic supporter of the line-item veto and is expected to sign whatever bill emerges.

GOP pushes aside
welfare reform challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans pushed aside a Democratic challenge to their sweeping reform of the nation's welfare system, clearing the way for approval of a plan that would end decades of federal programs and put the states in charge of the poor.

"For 30 years, the Democrats built this failed system based on a faulty foundation. Now that true reform is at hand they just can't bear to see their failed creation come to an end," Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, said just before the Democrats' substitute bill went down, 228-205, Thursday night.

A final vote on the measure was scheduled for today on the Republican bill, which would dismantle 45 social programs built over 60 years and end the New Deal guarantee of support for women and children. States would receive lump-sum payments to provide care, with great flexibility to design their own programs.

Democrats, who have said the GOP bill brutally batters the poor, had hoped to win over some Republican support for their version, sponsored by Rep. Nathan Deal of Georgia. But only one GOP member, Rep. Connie Morella of Maryland, crossed party lines.

New Yorkers demonstrate against education cuts

NEW YORK (AP) — When students and police clashed in a protest over funding cuts to public schools Thursday, 60 people were arrested and about 20 people were injured, including 14 officers.

Up to 10,000 people gathered in a park across from City Hall to persuade Gov. George Pataki and Mayor Rudolph Giuliani to shun budget cuts that demonstrators said would hobble education.

But scuffles broke out when the group, which did not have a permit to march, tried to move beyond the barricades.

Hundreds of police in riot gear stood shoulder to shoulder behind wooden and steel barricades, attempting to keep the protesters from blocking traffic. Scores more maneuvered on horses and motorcycles, forming a barrier between the students and the street.

The arrests were primarily for disorderly conduct, and the injuries were minor.

Jury hangs again in tourist slaying trial

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — For the second time and for the same reason, a jury has deadlocked in the case of a teen-ager accused of killing a British tourist at a highway rest stop.

The jury deliberated seven hours Thursday before telling the judge it was deadlocked on charges of first-degree murder, attempted murder and attempted armed robbery against John "Billy Joe" Crumitie.

The judge, who also had presided over the first trial, declared another mistrial.

Jurors said the panel was split 9-3 in favor of conviction. Gloria Rozier said the determining factor was that prosecutors failed to place Crumitie at the scene.

"I needed more physical evidence — a hair, a fiber, something," she said. "Nobody put him there for me."

Health columnist dies of overdose at top hospital

BOSTON (AP) — When an award-winning health columnist for one of the biggest newspapers in the country got breast cancer, she went to one of the best hospitals in the world.

The Boston Globe's Betsy Lehman, of all people, wound up dead because of a huge mistake at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, of all places.

"If this can happen at a place like Dana-Farber ... what is happening in other places?" asked Dr. O. Michael Colvin, incoming director of the Duke University Comprehensive Cancer Center.

The fatal mistake, disclosed Thursday by the Globe, was the latest in a series of blatant medical errors that have hurt the reputation of some of America's best hospitals and alarmed patients.

Lehman's heart failed after she was given four times the maximum safe dosage of a highly toxic drug during chemotherapy. She was nearing the end of three months of treatment.

At least a dozen doctors, nurses and pharmacists overlooked the error for four days while Lehman continued to receive an overdose of cyclophosphamide, and a four-fold overdose of another drug meant to shield her from side effects.

"She was dealing with horrendous symptoms," Lehman's husband, Robert Distel, a scientist at Dana-Farber, told the Globe. "I guess it was called mucositis. The whole lining of her gut from one end to the other was shedding. She was vomiting sheets of tissue. They said this was the worst they'd ever seen. But the doctors said this was all normal."

Lehman, a 39-year-old mother of two, died Dec. 3. An autopsy found no visible signs of cancer in her body, indicating that the treatment had worked, the Globe reported.

The mistake wasn't discovered until Feb. 13, after clerks went through records.

Just two days before Lehman's death, a 52-year-old woman was a victim of the same mistake. She was rushed into intensive care with serious heart damage and remains hospitalized.

The cancer research and treatment center said human error was the only explanation.

"We accept absolutely full responsibility for these tragedies," Dana-Farber physician-in-chief Dr. David M. Livingston said Thursday. "Every doctor here is humbled by this. Every doctor feels the sense and the gravity of these tragedies."

The 48-year-old hospital, which treats 9,000 people a year, is negotiating a settlement with Lehman's family.

Lehman joined the Globe in 1982 and began her "Health Sense" column in 1986. She wrote about new treatments and other scientific developments, doctors' attitudes toward patients and patients' fears of hospitals.

She wrote about breast cancer but not her own illness.

Clark attacks Kaelin's credibility on the stand

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After three days of testimony from Brian "Kato" Kaelin, the O.J. Simpson prosecutor had heard enough.

An angry and frustrated Marcia Clark implied Thursday that Kaelin wasn't just a guy whose thoughts were as disheveled as his blond hair. Instead, she suggested the quirky house guest was helping to cover up for a murderer by hiding details of angry battles between Simpson and his ex-wife.

In an unusual attack on her own witness's credibility, Clark treated Kaelin like a man with something to hide. She grilled him at every opportunity about Simpson's demeanor and physical appearance before and after the killings of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

Discrediting Kaelin is risky for the prosecution, because his testimony about a burger run to McDonald's and subsequent bumps in the night created what prosecutors call the "window of opportunity" for Simpson to commit murder.

The defense, which treated Kaelin gently on cross-examination, seemed to welcome Clark's high-wire act.

Riot police put on gas masks swiftly upon a report that a chemical smoke billowed from an Aum Shinri Kyo's warehouse during the third day of police raids on the religious sect's facilities in Kamikuishiki, west of Tokyo today. The smoke was later determined to be non-harmful.

Raids continue on secret sect

■ Leader denies sect involved in subway attack

TOKYO (AP) — As police seized more chemicals from a secretive religious sect today, the group's leader denied making the nerve gas that was used in this week's fatal attack on the Tokyo subway.

Police in full-body chemical-protection gear raided compounds belonging to the apocalyptic Aum Shinri Kyo cult in the western city of Osaka today — the third straight day of nationwide raids that have turned up cash, gold and chemicals linked to production of the nerve gas sarin.

Sarin that spread through the subway during Monday's morning rush hour killed 10 people and sickened nearly 5,000. Aum Shinri Kyo, whose name means Sublime Truth, has denied any involvement.

Reports said today's raids netted more chemicals, including an agent used to neutralize nerve gas. The cult's missing leader, Shoko Asahara, said in a videotape sent to Japanese television that the chemicals were used for manufacturing plastic, ceramics and pesticides.

"I don't understand how sarin could be produced by using these materials," said the bearded, long-haired Asahara, clad in a purple robe and speaking with his eyes squinted nearly shut. He accused authorities of "bashing" the sect.

NHK said it obtained the videotape from the group after submitting written questions. It did not say when or where the video was made.

The sect, which is known for hitting back at critics with lawsuits, took the offensive again, saying today it would sue police in connection with raids.

Group spokesman Yuzo Koyama said the lawsuit would accuse police of actions ranging from damaging doors to not allowing sect officials to be present at raids.

Meanwhile, police said they were considering criminal charges against four sect members arrested earlier this week. Authorities said they were suspected of drugging cult followers.

In Wednesday's raid on a rural compound, police carried out 50 people who appeared weak and ill. Six were hospitalized, and doctors said they suffered from dehydration and malnutrition.

In today's raids in Osaka, police found about 50 group members in one building and 75 more in a prefabricated building at a construction company related to the group, the NTV network reported. There was no immediate word on their condition.

Kyodo News Service said the Osaka searches found a material used as a counteragent to sarin. Police would not comment.

At the group's compound near Mt. Fuji, military experts were removing tons of chemicals, including fluorine and phosphorus.

Diplomats allowed to see Americans

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — For the first time, Iraq allowed Western diplomats on Thursday to visit two Americans held in custody since they strayed across the border 10 days ago.

The Americans were arrested only yards from the Iraq-Kuwait border. They have been identified as David Daliberti, 41, and Bill Barloon, 39, both employees of American military contractors in Kuwait.

One source who insisted on anonymity confirmed the men are being held in Baghdad and are in good condition, but refused to give further details. Another source said they were visited by Western diplomats.

The fact that Iraq has begun to allow them visitors suggests Saddam Hussein's government may be leaning toward charging them with illegal entry, a crime punishable by up to 20 years in prison, rather than releasing them.

At a news conference, Trade Minister Mohammed Mehdi Saleh hinted the men would be put on trial. Saleh said the government hasn't decided whether to do that, but noted: "We have laws in Iraq, as there are laws in the United States."

Iraqi officials have linked the fate of the men to the U.N. sanctions, imposed after Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait.

The sanctions, which bar Iraq from selling oil, have shattered the nation's economy, which before the 1991 Gulf War earned $13 billion a year from oil exports.

Iraq insists that is has complied with U.N. cease-fire resolutions calling for the destruction of its poison gas facilities and other non-conventional weapons.

But the United States, which has led the campaign to keep the sanctions in place, says Iraq has not fully disclosed all of the details about its weapons and may be rebuilding some of its weapons facilities.

Airlift to Sarajevo resumes after being suspended

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The humanitarian airlift to Sarajevo resumed today, almost two weeks after it was suspended when its planes were fired upon.

By mid-morning, four planes had landed without incident, said Alemka Lisinski of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees in Zagreb, Croatia. Fourteen flights were scheduled, she said, including a medical evacuation of three seriously ill children who are to be treated in Germany.

Lisinski also reported that Croatian Serbs had given permission for a humanitarian convoy to go to the northwestern Bosnian enclave of Bihać.

The UNHCR suspended aid to Serb-held areas of Croatia 10 days ago to protest the blockade of convoys to the adjacent Bihać enclave, where some 180,000 people depend solely on aid.

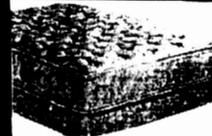

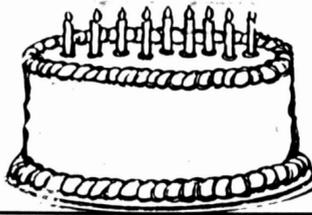

Lisinski said aid deliveries would resume to Serb-held Croatia only once regular access to Bihać is assured.

Bosnian government troops continued to press an offensive against rebel Serbs on strategic heights outside the government stronghold of Tuzla in northeastern Bosnia as diplomatic efforts to resolve the conflict appeared to gain some new momentum.

Jordan returns to Chicago tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — Michael Jordan's legend helped build the United Center. His No. 23 is retired in the rafters there. And a bronze statue of Jordan — soaring over a pitiful, faceless opponent — stands outside.

Finally, after repeatedly saying he'd never play in any Chicago arena except the old Stadium, Jordan will make his United Center debut.

Never comes Friday night, when the Bulls meet the Orlando Magic.

"He made the statement that he didn't want to play here," teammate Will Perdue said after Thursday's practice.

"But he was here practicing today and I think he's looking forward to it just as much as we are."

After working out at the United Center for the first time, Jordan only briefly discussed his debut in the $175 million facility, which sits across the street from the old warehouse of an arena that housed so many of his magic moments.

"I'm not comfortable," he said. "It's still new to me."

Earlier in the week, he said: "It's good to be back home. It's like a kid going away from his family for a while; when he comes back home, they're happy to see him."

Jordan wears No. 45 now and said he will resist gazing up at his old number.

"I'm going to look at the court," he said. "That's all I need to know."

Still, he probably will sneak some peaks into the crowd as he soaks up the adulation of what's expected to be the biggest turnout in Bulls history.

"I've been to hockey games here and it's gotten loud," Perdue said. "Our crowds haven't been as consistently loud, but this should be a pretty good gauge for us."

A team spokesman said all standing-room tickets have been sold, meaning that some 23,000 fans will cram into the United Center. The Bulls also expect about 350 members of the media — five times the normal showing for even a high-profile opponent like Orlando.

"I think it'll be very similar to the Indiana game, with all the media and anticipation of Michael coming back," Perdue said. "Once that Indiana game was over, it was a big relief. Now the pressure is back a little bit because of Michael's first game here."

Jordan, who retired in October 1993 after leading the Bulls to three consecutive NBA titles, began his comeback in Sunday's nationally televised game at Indiana; it turned out to be the most-watched regular-season game in league history. Jordan, obviously rusty, missed 21 of his 28 shots and the Bulls lost in overtime.

Jordan looked superb in Wednesday's win at Boston, going 9 of 17 from the floor and scoring 27 points.

Final Four just one win away

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tabitha Truesdale scored 18 points as Texas Tech dominated Washington on both ends of the court for a 67-52 victory Thursday in the Midwest Regional semifinals. The second-seeded Lady Raiders (33-3) will play No. 1 seed Tennessee Saturday night, the first meeting between the schools.

Rhonda Smith, who averaged 18 points for Washington (28-6) coming into the game, didn't hit her first shot until midway through the second half. She fouled out at the 5:55 mark with six points.

Texas Tech led 31-22 at intermission and quickly jumped out to a double-digit lead on a 3-pointer by Noel Johnson 15 seconds into the second half. The Huskies pulled within 42-31 on Cynthia Lewis' layup under the basket at the 13:18 mark.

But Alicia Thompson's two free throws put Texas Tech up 59-39 when Smith fouled out, and the Lady Raiders stretched it out from there.

Jennifer Cockerell, right, and Michi Atkins, left, of the Texas Tech Lady Raiders celebrate in the final minutes of their 67-52 win over Washington Thursday. Tech (33-3) will face Tennessee Saturday in the NCAA Midwest Regional final.

Hawks need an about-face against Frank Phillips College

By DAVE HARGRAVE
Sports Editor

The Howard College baseball team will try to get well this weekend.

Howard (12-10, 5-7 in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference) travels to Borger tomorrow for the start of a four-game series at Frank Phillips College. The series marks the end of the first half of conference play.

"We've got to be more mentally tough," said Howard coach Brian Roper. "We have to start getting after it, and we have to quit beating ourselves."

Howard started the season strongly, but the past two weekends have been nightmares. Howard was tied for first in the WJAC until losing four in a row at New Mexico Junior College, then three out of four last weekend at home against Odessa College.

Part of Howard's problems is still the shoulder injury of Eric Garcia.

"His arm is still bothering him," Roper said. "He tried to play short against Odessa, but he just is not able to get the ball across the infield. We've played him some at second."

Without Garcia's superb defense at short, Howard has struggled. After a quick start, the pitching has slumped just a bit — in fact, Roper will make a change in his rotation this weekend.

Scott Mackenzie (1-2, 1.38 ERA) will replace left-hander

Mark Uberecken (1-3, 8.87) in the rotation and likely start one of Sunday's games. The other three starters stay the same — Brian Thompson (3-3, 3.90), Caleb Brown (4-0, 4.30) and Ben Phillips (2-1, 3.71).

"Mark Uberecken always seems to give us a few strong innings, but he's not able to avoid the big inning," Roper said. "Scott has been throwing the ball well out of the bullpen."

Howard returns home April 1 for a four-game series against New Mexico Military.

Favorites win big in NCAA regionals

Connecticut showed Joe Smith the kind of attention he can expect to see in the NBA, whenever that day comes.

The Huskies bumped and banged the All-American center all game and bounced Maryland from the West Regional 99-89 Thursday night.

Connecticut moved on to a sweet meeting with No. 1 UCLA on Saturday for a trip to the Final Four. The Bruins routed Mississippi State 86-67 in the other semifinal in Oakland, Calif.

Whether Smith, who managed 22 points, will move up to the NBA next season is uncertain. The sophomore star long ago promised his mother that he'd finish college, but recently has hinted he could complete his degree as a pro.

The results in the Southeast bracket at Birmingham, Ala., also produced a neat game. Kentucky beat Arizona State 97-73 and North Carolina defeated Georgetown 74-64. On Saturday, Kentucky will try to end a five-game losing streak to the Tar Heels that dates back to 1975.

UCLA, Connecticut and North Carolina all were ranked No. 1 at some point this year. Kentucky finished the regular season at No. 2.

Tonight, the semifinals start in the East and Midwest regionals.

Donny Marshall, another future pro, scored 27 points for Connecticut (28-4). Smith was held to six points in the first half, sitting out the last five minutes after picking up his third foul.

The Huskies never trailed and led comfortably for most of the game. Maryland (26-8) moved within nine points with 3:10 left, but got no closer.

Atlantic Coast Conference teams had been 9-0 in the tournament until Maryland lost.

UCLA 86 Mississippi State 67

Ed O'Bannon scored 21 points and UCLA (28-2) won its 16th straight game. UCLA used its man-to-man defense to overwhelm Mississippi State and take a 40-19 lead at halftime. A three-point play by Charles O'Bannon, Ed's brother, made it 65-29 with 10:19 left.

Toby Bailey scored 12 points, George Zidek had 11 and Tyus Edney 10 for UCLA. Darryl Wilson scored 22 and Erick Dampier had 21 for the Bulldogs (22-8).

North Carolina 74 Georgetown 64

Rasheed Wallace, limited to 46 minutes in the first games of the tournament because of a sprained left ankle, had 22 points, 12 rebounds and six blocked shots for North Carolina.

The Tar Heels (27-5) are one victory away from the 10th trip to the Final Four under coach Dean Smith. Wallace scored 20 points in the second half.

Donald Williams finished with 20 for the Tar Heels. Allen Iverson scored 24 points for Georgetown (21-10).

Kentucky 97 Arizona State 73

Tony Delk scored 26 points for Kentucky, which has won its three tournament games by an average of 31 points.

The Wildcats (28-4) were strong inside and out, hitting 3-pointers and throwing down dunks. A 12-0 run at the start of the second half made it 54-36.

All three starters on the Kentucky front line scored in double figures — Rodrick Rhodes with 16, Andre Riddick 15 and Walter McCarty 10.

Arizona State (24-9) lost in its first visit to the round of 16 since 1975. Ron Riley scored 20 points for the Sun Devils and 6-foot-9 center Mario Bennett, often double-teamed, had 16.

By the Associated Press

Kentucky forward Rodrick Rhodes (12) reacts to his first-half slam dunk against Arizona State Thursday. Kentucky beat Arizona State 97-73 and will face North Carolina Saturday.

Sports talk radio, in the paper? Ask the Genius

OK, folks, it's nearly midnight, and the Sports Genius has time for only a few more calls before calling it a night here on K-HUH Sports Jabber Radio. Line One is Lisa from San Francisco. What's up, Lisa?

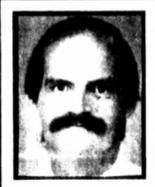

Yeah, Mr. Genius, I'm curious: Which NCAA team did you have in your pool?

A team? In my pool? Are you kidding Lisa? There's very few people I'd let in my pool, and I certainly wouldn't let an entire team swim in it.

Who ever heard of such nonsense! Letting a team in my pool...

Line Two is Bob from Dallas. Hey, you're not Sherry? Uh, Bob...

Who the heck are you, and where is Sherry?

Steve Reagan
Sports Writer

Sherry? You heard me, mister. You better not be making time with my gal, or you and me are going to Fist City, you hear me, maggot-face?!!

Geez, we need to screen our calls better.

I said: Where is ... Line Three is Ralph from St. Louis. You're on the air, Ralph. Thanks, Mr. Genius. Isn't it great that Michael Jordan's back playing basketball?

Yeah, sure is. Do you know his phone number?

Excuse me?

I mean, I just want to call him and tell him what an inspiration he is to millions of people around the world.

That's nice, but ... And if he has a few bucks he could loan me, that's be cool, too.

Lord, get me out of late-night radio ...

And maybe he can tell me how to meet women ...

Hey, Ralph, take a cold shower and call me later when the drugs wear off.

Line four is Sally from Topeka. Go ahead, Sal. Yeah, Sports Genius, my husband and I can't agree who we like in the NCAA basketball tournament ...

Sally, is this a sports question?

Why, yes ...

God love you, girl, go on. Anyway, Herb - that's my husband - says Kentucky is a sure bet to win, but I think North Carolina is the best team.

And why's that, Sal?

Well, it's those powder-blue uniforms they wear. They're just so cute! And Dean Smith looks so distinguished on the sidelines. He looks just like my father, if I could ever convince the old codger to wear a suit. Do you know he hasn't worn a tie since ...

Does anybody have an aspirin? A job opening? Anything! Oh, well, it's one minute 'till midnight, and I have time for only one more call. Thank you, Jesus! Line Five is ...

I'm not wearing any underwear!!!!

Coahoma blanks Colorado City; McGuire tallies 16 strikeouts

The Coahoma High School baseball team shut out Colorado City 4-0 Thursday in the C-City Tournament, and once again Brandon McGuire dominated.

McGuire (5-0), an all-state pitcher last season, struck out 16 batters in a complete game two-hitter for Coahoma (8-3).

C-City's Daniel Silva, who took the loss despite striking out eight, held Coahoma to six hits, but the Bulldogs found other ways to score.

"We didn't hit the ball really well - we had to manufacture our runs, and I was pleased we did that," said Coahoma coach Mike Baxter. "We found out that we could runs in other ways - we stole six bases and squeezed two runs home. I was pleased with our defense, too.

We played probably our best defensive game of the year."

Marshall Wright went 2 for 4 for Coahoma with a double and an RBI. Brandon Shifflett was 1 for 3 and squeezed home a run. Brian Ruiz was 2 for 4, and Mike McMillan went 1 for 3 with a double.

McGuire and Sergio Ovalle each stole two bases. Wright and Rocky King each stole a base.

Coahoma plays Crane today at 5:30 p.m.

FISHING

Warmer weather brought signs of livening fishing at Lake O.H. Ivie the past week. Bass and crappie began moving toward shallower areas in anticipation of the spawn season.

A few keepers were reported among black bass with spinners and plastic worms working best in the shallower 8-10 ft. areas. Jigs and slabs worked best in 20-30 ft. off points and coves and in the main body of the lake. Most consistent results, however, came up the creeks. Small-mouth bass generally were poor with the better places being off points and rocky areas, also in the main body.

Crappie fishing was good, with best results reported up creeks at night. Minnows and jigs were best bait, favorite depths from 10 to 30 ft. along creeks and brushy areas, but particularly up both the Colorado and Concho River arms.

Channel and blue catfish were picking up the tempo and seemed to prefer shad and minnows in shallows to 10 ft. Trotlines were effective midway and in the upper end, but best of all in the up-river arms, especially the Concho. Yellow catfish were more active.

White bass continued to be fair to good. Fishermen were advised to watch for feeding gulls while trolling up river arms. No walleye catches were reported.

Young missionary will bring Gospel to Ukraine

By JANET AUSBURY
Features Editor

Many people might not consider a year in Ukraine to be a dream trip. However, former Big Spring resident Stella Vidlak can't wait to get there.

Vidlak, 24-year-old daughter of Ann and Paul Townsend and the late John Vidlak, must raise $23,630 to be able to go to Ukraine in July for a year as part of CoMission, a worldwide, multid denominational group that sends full-time missionaries to the former Soviet Union.

The Texas Tech student hopes to start her mission work as soon as she graduates in mid-summer with her bachelor's degree in family studies. "I would like to stay in missions. My degree will be very helpful," she said.

She will speak at a fundraising luncheon at her home church, First United Methodist Church, on Sunday to explain the purpose of the mission and answer questions.

VIDLAK

Although the idea of going to a former Soviet country might prove daunting to some, Vidlak isn't worried about what her life there will be like.

She will be in a team of 10 people, many of whom she has already met during the interview process to be selected for the team.

"It's fun to meet people," she said. "Because of being involved in missions, I've met people from the United States, Mexico and all over." She is active in Texas Tech's Campus Crusade for Christ.

Vidlak is already studying Russian and will study more once she arrives in Ukraine. The mission will have full-time interpreters to assist the young missionaries.

If she doesn't raise the necessary funds by July, she will have to wait another six months to reach her destination. "We ask support from individual people, churches, those who want to be part of missions but who haven't been called to the field," she explained.

The people and organizations who support her won't be kept in suspense about her activities - she will send prayer letters home every month to keep in touch.

"It's going to be so exciting," Vidlak said of her upcoming trip. "Everything's changing; people are so open to the Gospel now. To be a part of this is so awesome."

EWES LOOK MARVELOUS

This ewe and two lambs take a break from the heat in the shade of one of the sheep barns at Michigan State University in East Lansing, Mich. The lambing season is in full swing and the warm temperatures make caring for the new arrivals easier for workers.

Mother's meddling may ruin marriage

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know a mother-in-law can be a problem in a marriage, but my problem is my own mother. She is constantly meddling in our affairs, and it really upsets my wife and me. We have only been married two years and are very happy otherwise, but sometimes I wonder if my mother (who is a widow and lonely) hopes the marriage won't last. Any suggestions? -- J.H.

DEAR J.H.: Although it is hard to know what is going on in your mother's mind, she may somehow resent the fact that you are married and may be very fearful of being abandoned. Whatever her reasons, you need to face this problem and not let it continue.

Pray, therefore, that God will give you wisdom, and that He will open up an opportunity to talk lovingly but clearly with your mother. You need to communicate at least two things to her. First, you need to assure her that you love her very much and are grateful for her, and you value her and will not abandon her in the future. This, after all, may well be her real fear, and she is reacting in the only way she knows how to try to maintain a relationship with you.

Second, you need to share your concern with her -- not in an angry or harsh way, but in a way that makes her feel like you are asking for her help in solving a problem. Yes, if that does not work you may need to be firmer -- but you may be surprised how an extra measure of love will overcome her feelings.

The Bible says that God gave marriage to us, and "For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will become one flesh" (Matthew 19:5). Make Christ the foundation of your marriage, for He will give you the wisdom you both need to deal with the problems you will face -- including this one.

C.S. Lewis: Yesterday, today and tomorrow

By TERRY MATTINGLY
Scripps Howard News Service

For nearly two decades, Tom Key has been slipping into the skin of one of Christendom's most celebrated writers while performing his one-man show "C.S. Lewis On Stage."

At first it took the actor three hours to add the 25 years and 50 pounds he needed to play the beefy, yet bookish Oxford don. These days, Key notes with a wry smile, it takes a mere 20 minutes to put on his makeup.

Today Key still sees mystery in Lewis' life and work, but he believes he knows why millions of readers are hooked by "Mere Christianity," "Miracles," "The Chronicles of Narnia" and other classics.

"This may sound simple -- and, believe me, C.S. Lewis was anything but a simple man -- but Lewis never betrayed his readers and, because of that, they have never betrayed him," says Key, before a performance at a C.S. Lewis festival in the Tennessee mountains. "After all these years, what amazes me is both his faithfulness and his intellectual honesty. It's rare to see those qualities in the same writer."

Key is best known as the creator -- with the late songwriter Harry Chapin -- of the off-Broadway musical "Cotton Patch Gospel." He has performed in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., toured around the world and begun working in film and television. Key is most active with Atlanta's Alliance Theatre and his own Will Heart Theatre Company.

Key began work on "C.S. Lewis On Stage" in 1977, starting with the writer's autobiography, "Surprised By Joy," and passages from many other books and letters. Using tapes of Lewis' voice, Key created a phonetic alphabet that captured his unique accent, which blended elements of Irish, Welsh and English speech.

In the years since then, the actor's approach to Lewis has been shaped by his own marriage, his experiences as a parent and the sudden deaths of five close friends.

Drama playing new role in today's churches

By JUDY TARJANY
The Toledo Blade

All the sanctuary's a stage these days at a growing number of churches where actors are playing supporting roles in the Sunday sermon.

At Crossroads Community Church in Temperance, Mich., a troupe of actors appears in the first half-hour of the Sunday service to get people thinking about the morning message even before the pastor starts to preach it.

The Revelation Players do much the same at Zoar Lutheran Church in Perrysburg, Ohio, performing three-to-four-minute vignettes as an adjunct to the sermon.

And at Fairgreen Presbyterian Church in Toledo, Ohio, sermon-starter skits or clown acts are a regular part of a Sunday night alternative worship service designed for the "unchurched."

Although churches have a long tradition of doing seasonal dramas like Christmas pageants, the addition of sketches that key into sermons as a regular part of worship is a fairly new phenomenon, says

Dale Savidge, theater professor at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and executive director of Christians in Theater Arts.

Pioneered in large part by the wildly successful Willow Creek Community Church in South Barrington, Ill., church drama based on themes taken from contemporary life and coordinated with the pastor's message is gaining an audience, particularly with churches wanting to attract new members.

Zondervan, which publishes scripts written by Willow Creek's drama team, is selling 1,500 scripts a month, and other publishers are starting to offer similar materials.

Enthusiasts say the reason for church drama's popularity is that, when done well, it reaches people in a way the traditional talking-head sermon format does not.

"It disarms people," says Steve Pederson, drama director at Willow Creek. "A lot of people come here a little skeptical. They're checking us out. They're not believers. They have their arms out in front of them, or crossed over their chests.

"When drama connects with them as an accurate reflection of the reality they know and live, if they laugh at it, or are moved deeply by it ... the arms sort of come down to the side and they get pulled into it."

By the time the message is preached, they are ready to hear what's being said.

"That's the power of drama," Pederson says.

Allan Grubb, who recently directed a production of "Heaven's Gates, Hell's Flames" at Toledo's Calvary Assembly of God, says drama also works because of its dual visual-aural impact.

"You have two inroads at that point into a person's heart. They're seeing it and hearing it and an atmosphere is created."

Glenn Rupert, worship pastor and program director at Crossroads Community Church, says his church started using drama about four years ago when it targeted Baby Boomers as potential members and decided to try being "visitor-friendly" to people looking for answers.

Using Willow Creek as a model, Crossroads redesigned its Sunday service to appeal to people who are not Christian believers.

The use of drama, Rupert says, helps them relate to the message. "People can say, 'I've been there. That's me up there.' We do it to break down walls and barriers so people are receptive to the teaching that's following."

Rather than provide answers, the sketches are more likely to raise questions, or at least leave the main point to the sermon, which lasts about 35 minutes.

Churches that are interested in adding drama to their services typically err by jumping on the bandwagon before they have someone qualified to lead the ministry, Willow Creek's Pederson says.

"You do need people who are trained. There are a lot of well-intentioned people with great hearts, but they don't know anything about drama."

Pederson, a former college theater professor, provides training for Willow Creek's volunteer troupe, which meets weekly.

BIG SP

Treat

HOROSCOPE

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1995

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The unexpected occurs quickly, and you might need to rethink a situation. Stay on top of a problem. Be aware of what you seek and need to do. Communications are important. Share your vulnerability. Tonight: Have an important discussion with a friend.****

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Evaluate changes. Taking responsibility will help you and make you feel much better as a result. Stay attuned to your intuition. Bring friends and family together for a fun get-together. Show others how much you appreciate them. Tonight: Out and about.****

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your energy soars. You are more on top of life than you have been in a long time. Deal with a situation in a more appropriate, positive manner. A partner wants you to change your approach. Be open to a special invitation. Tonight: Consider an unusual offer.****

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be more forthright when handling a situation. One-to-one relating is highlighted. You gain a new perspective because of information a partner gives you. Communications are important. Detach. Deal with a matter differently. Seek out an expert. Tonight: Get in close.****

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Say yes to an offer. The unexpected occurs because of your openness. A loved is serious about a money matter that could affect an emotional bond. Do a better job of listening. Relating well brings you to a happy middle ground. Tonight: Say yes to an offer.****

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Others are demanding but very centered. Understand your choices. Be nurturing and loving with another. Creativity surges. A partner is serious. You need to listen. Tonight: A long, one-to-one talk is necessary.****

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You are especially creative and welcome many fast changes. Understanding provokes a new response. Be aware of what you are asking from another. It's been a long time since you have felt this secure. Follow your instincts. Tonight: Be more flirtatious.****

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Responsibilities call. You are aware of what you want. A family member needs to discuss an important decision. Avoid being critical. Be sensitive to this person. A child needs an additional attention and lets you know. Tonight: Entertain at home.****

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You might find yourself involved in a sensitive discussion. Offer to be more involved with a problem. Communications are excellent, and you feel better. Be open to change, and maintain a sense of humor. Follow through on creative interests. Tonight: Accept an irresistible offer.****

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Expenditures are a major issue. You might decide to buy things to avoid an emotional problem. Stay with your feelings and work through them. Spending money may feel good now but will not help the situation in the long run. Tonight: Go with the unexpected.***

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are playful. Approach life differently. The unexpected runs riot. Instincts are keen. Be with people you love and enjoy. Your magnetism draws others. Be more willing to ask for your desires and to receive them. De-emphasize money. Tonight: Be happy.****

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Take a break from responsibility. Relax. You might be too serious and hard on yourself right now. There is no reason to be this demanding. Make a must appearance. It's OK to seek more of what you want. Lighten up. Tonight: Vanish with a favorite person.***

IF MARCH 25 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You can be very lucky this year if you focus on goals and desires. Your circle of friends enlarges. Be sensitive to different lifestyles. Opportunities to grow and understand others earmark this year. A foreigner could play a significant role, as could a trip to a foreign land. If you are single, your life could change significantly. If attached: You and a loved need to open up more to each other, discussing problems; you might consider stress-reduction techniques. AQUARIUS is your pal.

Divorcing mom needs help getting on with life

DEAR ABBY: I am in so much pain I don't know where to turn or what to do. Please help me.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

I am 46 years old. I've been married 23 years, have two teen-agers, and my husband wants a divorce. I just found out he has somebody else. Our divorce will be final in a month. Abby, I am devastated. I've tried counseling sessions and am going to a divorce recovery group, but at times the grief is overwhelming. I know I need to take care of myself or I won't be a good parent - raising teen-agers is a struggle in itself.

Abby, I am emotionally drained. My future looks so empty and lonely. Even my faith in God isn't enough to sustain me. What can I do?

It's easy for people to say, "Get on with your life." I want to, but it's easier said than done.

Can you help me? Maybe there are others who have gone through this and can tell me how they did it. -- DYING INSIDE IN MISSOURI

DEAR DYING: I urge you to stick with counseling for a few more months. Talk to your counselor about medication to help ease your pain, and continue to attend your divorce recovery meetings. If you still feel emotionally drained after six months, ask your counselor to refer you to a psychiatrist for more intensive therapy. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Here's one for your column under "Your Chuckle for Today." I read it in the Los Angeles Times.

"Arriving late for the movies with his 5-year-old daughter, Steve Mitchell of Costa Mesa grabbed some refreshments and headed for the theater. Pushing through the curtain, they joined the other latecomers waiting in the darkness for enough light to find seats.

"Hearing a whimper from his daughter," Mitchell said, "Honey, grab onto my leg and hold on."

"After a moment's silence, a nearby voice said, 'That's not your father's leg.'" -- RONALD IN RIVERSIDE
